CHEAPER, QUICKER AND BETTER

Welshmen want to attract special attention to their nationality, during one week of the World's Fair, by means of national games, music by Welsh bands, and competitions for $30,000 in prizes which they promise. A delegation of influential Welshmen has asked Director General Davis to designate a week for

The Atlanta Constitution observes: In 1866 we had $52 per capita in circulation, and the failures of that year were only 632, with $47,333,000 liabilitities. In 1889 we had less than $7 per capita in circulation, and there were 13,277 failures that year, amounting to $312,-496.748. So when we have plenty of money in circulation the country is prosperous, but when the circulation is contracted our business interests go to

It is generally believed, remarks Frank Leslie's, that suicide annuls an insurance policy. An exception to thi rute must be noted. In the United States Circuit Court at Kansas City, Mo., Judge Caldwell has decided a case in which suicides does not annul. Under the laws of Missouri suicide does not annul unless it can be shown that at the time of taking out of the policy the assured contemplated suicide. John B. Berry took out a policy in the Knights Templar and Masons' Life Indemnity Company doing business in that State. The policy provided, as all policies do, that self-destruction would annul it. Judge Caldwell held that this provision of the policy was rendered null by the laws of Missouri; and, though John B. Berry committed suicide, his heirs must recover under the policy.

A. E. Gammage is suing a physician of Grand Rapids, Mich., for $50,000 for having performed an operation upon him against his will. Gammage was to undergo an operation for gravel. He was placed on the operating table and everything was ready, when his nerve failed him and he declared the operation off. Dr. Peterson insisted upon going ahead with it, and endeavored, with the assistance of attendants, to administer chloroform. Gammage resisted. Two policethe representation being made that the patient was insane, assisted the doctors and attendants in putting him to sleep. The operation was then successfully performed. When the patient revived it was found that his left arm was broken in two places, the injuries having been sustained in his struggles against the anesthetic. It is for these injuries and his lacerated feelings that he brings

The largest fee ever received forgoro essional services in the United States was paid when a check was made out for $260,000 to William Nelson Cromwell, of this city, says the New York World. He had acted as assignee of Decker, flowell & Co., the bankers and brokers who suspended payment during the panic n Wall street last November, and, as said, Judge Lawrence in the Supreme Court has confirmed the report of the referee who passed upon the accounts; and stated that Mr. Cromwell was entitled to that sum. Mr. Cromwell carned this $260,000 in six weeks. That was at the rate of $43,333.331 a week, or $7222.16 a day for six working days to the week, and the remarkable part of the paid him the money think that he underestimated the value of his services and go out of their way to buy him a value able silver service worth a small fortupe

"A bright old lady of New York, has uggested," chronicles the Philadelphia Record, "that the managers of the pride as well as for the astonishment of foreign visitors, should make a collection of Americans over one hundred years old. A longevity exhibition such as that proposed would, in truth, be very much of a novelty. It might readily be made something more than a passing show to tickle idle curiosity. It should be made the nucleus of a special census of the centenarians, not only as to their ages, but as to their habits of 301 life, regular diet, etc., as well as of the ages of their progenitors. Whether the old folks would care to be classed among the exhibits of the Fair, or whether their nerves could endure the hurly-burly and the-fagging excitement inseparable from such tumultuous scenes, sum total of their experiences of this life might be of much services in manuways o their juniors."

A Carlons Kitten.

Nat Hays, who is now living at Bright Cullman County, Ala., tells of a monstrosity born at his house not long ago in the shape of a kitten. It had two bodies from the shoulder back, and had seven formed hindlegs with feet, and two forelegs in the proper place, and one foreleg on his shoulder or back. It had two tails and two mouths—one of the mouths in the proper place, and the other cut up and down across its chin. Dr. Gefger has preserved it in alcohol.—Atlanta

APPLE BLOSSOMS

We stood within the orchard's gloom, In youth and courage high, The apple boughs in clustered bloom Were just a nearer sky! And one, a maiden in her pride, A quaint old ditty sang,

With glance, half shy, at him beside; And thus the burden rang: O true heart, 'tis long to part! Apple boughs are gay, Sweet buds grow, blossoms blow; Thou art still away.

Thy voice: O Love, art thou a dream

ALMOST A CRIME

It seemed as if Providence had deserted Randolph Perry in his old age and utterly cast him off. For his was, indeed, hard lot. We do not often find a case of such great hardship in human affairs; for, although he had begun life with the brightest prospects, with abundant wealth, a pleasant home, a loving wife and children, his seventieth summer found him stripped of all save the roof above his head, and seriously threatened

Twenty long, weary years back his retressing death of his dear wife; and this irreparable blow was soon after followed by the elopement of his daughter Annie. the pet and darling of his heart, with an artful scoundrel with a sham title, who had probably left as native land across the sea upon compulsion. The poor and that was when the news of her suicide in Manchester reached him. This visitation humbled him almost to the dust, and brought with it a sickness that laid him prostrate for a twelvemonth.

He rose from his sick bed and ap peared to the little world of his acquaint. ince only the wreck of his former manhood. His first inquiries were for Simcon, his boy. No one would answer him at first; they looked pitifully at him and kept silent; but when he angrily denanded to know the truth, they were compelled to tell him that Simeon, his only remaining hope, had heartlessly deserted hun during his sickness, and, as was supposed, had gone off to sea. Randolph Perry did not die with this accumulation of griefs; he lived on in a hopeless, morbid kind of way; but no one had seen him smile since he was told of Simeon's desertion. That was nearly twenty years back. He had dwelt in the house where he had been bereaved ever since, with no society save that of the woman who attended to his small domestic affairs.

This beautiful mansion, standing high up on a knoll that overlooked the sea. surrounded with spacious and cultivated grounds, had been purchased by Perry of its previous owner, who was hi friend, and upon whose assurance that the place was unencumbered and free from all legal claim he implicitly relied. That friend had died penniless two years after; and now, as if to remove from his dreary existence the last ray o sunshine, he found himself threatened with total deprivation of his estate. As unexpectedly as though the heavens had dropped upon his bewildered head, he was notified by a lawyer in London that he held for one of his clients a mortgage upon the place, executed by the vender few months before the sale, upon which the principal and interest. amounted to quite the value of the place, and that immediate satisfactions

Finding the old man but little inclined to talk, the stranger bade his host good night and went to the room assigned to storm was at its height; and it continued for an hour longer, when it abruptly aroused the occupant of the room, and wearied with his stress of emotion, he took his candle and ascended the stairs. He had no heart for anything but his own dreadful miseryt and he would probably have forgotten the presence of a stranger in his house but for a ray of light issuing from the keyhole of the chamber which he had bade him take,

Randolph Perry paused, and merely obeying a sudden impulse, stopped and placed his eye at the hole. He had not the least curiosity about this man, and his act was certainly without motive. But his eye had but singled out his guest from the other objects in the room when he concentrated his attention upon him with the greatest eagerness. He saw him sitting by the table, his back to the door, and the candle before him. Four or five piles of bank notes, new and crackling, were before him; and he counted then over rapidly, replacing them all in an oiled-skin wallet beneath his pillow. In few moments more the light was extinguished and the heavy breathing of the sleeper was heard.

Silently did the listener gain his own room; and as he stood there he was man transformed! Could he have seen his own face at that moment he must have been terrified at the fiendish passions that peered out from it. straightened up his bowed shoulders; his eyes lost their listless, hopeless expressian and burned with a baleful light; and even his shrivelled, wrinkled cheeks flushed with the shame of the dreadful sin with which he was struggling.

For Randolph Perry meditated murder

With this horrible resolution formed, the old man rapidly proceeded to its accomplishment. In his bureau drawer lay a sheath-knife eight inches in the blade, which he had never carried since boyhood, and opening the drawer he took it from it sheath, and holding it up to the light saw that it was sharp. lemon must have had full possession of observed the glitter of the bright blade. Placing it in the breast of his waistcoat, he softly left his room and traversed the passage. Listening at the door of his rictim, he heard his steady, regular breathing, and noiselessly unclosing it he entered and advanced to the bedside. But his eyes lingered upon the talle; he could not withdraw them. They that has visited the State in years. It rested on a large family Bible, the gift of his wife in happier days, and it now ay open, as the hand of the stranger must have opened it, to the sixth chapter of Matthew. At the top of the page he saw drawn with a pencil in bold let ters, but with irregular and wavering lines, as if by the hand of a child, the beginning of the thirteenth verse: "And lead us not into temptation." A change upon the instant came over Randolph Perry. His face turned deadly pale, his limbs shook so violently that the light in his hand was extinguished; and, with all purpose of crime banished from his heart, he feebly tottered from the chamber that had witnessed this strange scene back to his own room where he sank on his knees by the bedside and penitently poured fourth his soul in secret thanksgiving to heaven for his deliverance.

As Randolph sat at breakfast with his guest, a chase drove up to the door, and litigation, which resulted in establish from it alighted Mr. Murch, the hateful ing the mortgage and declaring the pelagent. The man was a stranger to collar with a grip of iron, the strong man spun him about like a top-slamming him with no gentle force against the wall till the breath was knocked out of his body; and then opening the door, he cast him out into the wet grass. A minute later the crestfallen agent rose and limped out to his chaise sore and bruised and humbled in feelings. It was his first and last visit to Woodhampton.

The stranger reclosed the door and knelt beside the astonished old man and took his hands. "Don't you know me, father?" he

SCIENTIFIC AND INDUSTRIAL.

Electrical tanning is satisfactory. An Italian has invented a new fuel prepared from lignite. It has been satisfactorily used for running locomotives. The largest telescopic lens ever ground in this country is now in course of polishing at Greenville, Penn. It measures thirty and one half inches in diameter, five and one-eighth inches in thickness. The application of the microscope to machine shop practice, for the purpose of proving whether surfaces are true, is pronounced by experts as being the best method of obtaining accuracy thus far suggested. An apparatus for testing the smelling capacities of individuals was recently exhibited in Paris: It is said to determine the weight of odorous vapor existing in a given quantity of air. The invention

A man named Jones, of Cardiff, Wales, is said to have patented a sewing machine without shuttle or bobbin. The thread is supplied directly from two ordinary spools and sews through the assistance of a rotary looper: Moulds for easting iron can only be made in sand. Iron and other metallic moulds chill the ircn, and it does not fill well. The great heat at which iron melts will burn any other material, or will stick so as to break the mould. One of the novelties at the St. Pancras Exhibition, in London, lately, was a sausage machine, driven by electric motor. In conjunction with this machine it has been proposed to employ an electric heating attachment, whereby the savory dish can be delivered cooked. A successful exhibition was given in Philadelphia recently, of the system of storage batteries for propelling passenger railway cars, as introduced by Messrs.

Wright & Starr. A special feature of the new system is the recharging of the batteries by a retrograde movement of The run from Baltimore to Philadelphia of the Royal Blue Line Express is made behind what is said to be the largest engine in this country. It weighs 187,000 pounds, and runs on four driving wheels six feet six inches in diameter. It is black, without a particle of bright color about it. A new method of ventilating railway carriages and preventing dust from entering with the air has appeared in France. The more quickly the train moves the more rapidly the apparatus works. The air is made to traverse a receptacle containing water, which cools him in that hour, for he smiled as he it and relieves it of dust, after which it goes through another filtering before entering the carriage. State Entomologist Lintner, who was summoned to Catskill recently, to examine a new pest which was ruining the poar crop of that place, finds that an area three miles in diameter has been occupied by the most dangerous fruit pest is the Diplosis Pyrivora, or pear midge, which is common in Europe, but first made its appearance in this country ten years ago at Meriden, Conn.

The great electric searchlights of the modern man-of-war may have an offeasive as well as defensive value. There was a sham attack upon Cherbourg the other day, by a squadron of the French navy, and during the manœuvres the torpedo boat Edmond Fontaine was run into by a cruiser and sent to the bottom. Her officers report that they were so dazzled by the searchlight of one cruiser that they were utterly unable to see the ship that struck them, and so could make no effort to get out of her way.

The Longest Electric Railroad. North Carolina is to have a forty-onemile electric railway, running from Asheville to Rutherfordton, for which the power operating the electric works is to be furnished by water. The road, when completed, will be the longest electric railroad line in the world, and the only one built to opertate both freight and passenger cars. Though Rutherfordton is 112 years old, it never had a railroad of any kind until within the last two years .- Savannah News.

Yellowstone Park Scenery. The merits of the scenery of Yellow stone Park appear to Professor G. F. Wright to have been considerably exaggerated. The figures representing the neight of the mountains around it above the sea are deceptive. A mountain 10,000 or 11,000 feet high does not look extraordinarily large and massive when it does not rise more than 2000 or 3000 fest above the elevated plateau on which it stands as a base; but those 2000 or 3000 feet are all that is shown of the mountain-rim of the park, while the glimpses to the outside mountains are few and far between The grandest views are those on entering the park as one looks outward to the encircling rim. The geysers, Professor Wright says, are decidedly vulgar, and one can afford to die without seeing them. Boiling paint pots, with only one dull color in them, are not inspiring. Acres of land, laid waste by sulphurous waters and gases, such as greet one on every hand in these geyser basins, can be seen at any time in Pennsylvania where the water is pumped from the coal mines to spread its deso-

The energy of modern artillery is some thing appalling, and threatens to destroy friend and foe together. A sixty-seven ton gun on the British battle-ship Trafalgar was pointed directly ahead and fired with 630 pounds of slow-burning powder and a 1250-pound projectile. The blast produced by the rush of powder-gas and the shot was so tremendous that the plates of the forecastle were forced in and the deck-beams bent out of shape. A hint of what the effect might be on the enemy will be given at the Naval Exhibition, where will be shown a projectile that has been fired from a 110-ton gun. This remarkable shot is said to have been driven in succession through a twenty-inch steel plate, eight-inches of iron, twenty feet of oak balks, five feet of granite, and eleven feet of concrete, finally lodging at a depth of three feet in a mass of brick TY. A DAY IN SONGLAND. Wandering through the land of Spring. Have you heard its voices sing? Throb of earth, swift whir of wing, Skimming, scudding clouds which fling Harmony

From the glad green of the hills, And broad blue the sky which fills: In awakened, gushing rills, Nature's hidden music trill: Melody.

Where the purple lilacs sway, Blossoms bloom, then float away! Listen to the song of May, Hint and hush and whisper say, "Heart, but see Summer land of flowers not far.

Where gold gates of song ajar Swing back noisolessly afar; Bud and bloom and music are . All for thee." But from distance faintly swell Tink and tone of evening bell!

Day is dying, shadows tell Of a lingering farewell To the light! Bathed in showers of ruddy gold, Sunset's radiant realms unfold; Now from twilight hands is rolled Eventide, by stars foretold; Then-the night.

In November, 1889, Thomas F. Daris, a brakeman of the Georgia Pacific Railroad, was struck by a projecting rock in Tates Cut, Ala., while climbing up the side of the caboose, and was seriously injured. The rock which projected struck him on the side and hip. His injuries beside bruises were of an internal nature. He suffered a great deal. Attending physicians soon discovered that Davis's heart was moved from the left to the right side. His entire insides were disarranged and began moving from one side to the other. In the course of time his heart moved eight inches from its normal position and was on the right side. Davis dwindled from a hearty, robust man to an invalid. The other night he died. of my brood mares, and is the greatest long-distance roadster in the great horse state of Kentucky.

Kentucky Almont is a horse of magnificent proportions, standing fully 16 hands high, weighs 1100 pounds; is a rich golden bay, with black points, nice mane and tail, spleadid head and neck, deep oblique shoulders, short, powerful back, round barrel, long smoothly turned hips, clean hocks, and the very best of foet and legs. His disposition is perfection; his gait is long, level and far-reaching, with that quick, catty motion and splendid stiff-action so notable in the Almont family, that will some day carry him a mile in 2:20 or better. He was started up a few times the past winter, and could, in the estimate of good judges, show a 30 gait to sleigh. He is one of the finest and gamest roadsters a man ever rode 'behind. Breeders are now looking for size, style, solid colors, speed and road qualities combined, all of which Kentucky Almont possesses. Presentation of diplomas by Dr. M. H. Felt, chairman of the Board. SEABRIGHT'S BIG FIRE. Over $19,000 Raised for the Homeless

SEABRIGHT, N. J., June 18 .- No lives were lost in the big fire. Every business house in the place was destroyed, not destitute by the fire. It will require from $15,000 to $20,000 to afford them temporary relief. In answer to a general appeal for funds, issued to the residents of the surrounding places, $12,000 have been subscribed.

Two hundred families have been left

As yet no attempt has been made to clean away the debris. The town is one mass of ruins. Telegraph, telephone and electric wires are all over the streets and progress through them is almost impos

The committee have not decided what steps they will take toward relieving the poor. A dispatch was sent to Governor Abbett asking for the loan of 100 National Guard tents, and the Governor immediately responded, saying that they would be shipped in the afternoon. The Rev. E. H. Stokes, president of the Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Associa-tion, sent 50 tents, and the Seabright cottagers 100 cots. The tents will be spread on the big lawn of the Roman Catholic Church.

The details of the calamity are coming to light every hour. One woman, Laura Curtis, whose home was near the sea shore was compelled to embark in a boat with her baby in her arms. She was so frightened that she failed to provide herself with oars. She pushed the boat out from the shore and drifted out to sea, but was discovered in time and was brought back in safety.

Kelly, the man who started the fire was arrested by order of Mayor Blair. He made a statement to the village authorities, saying that he had come to the village with horses belonging to one of the cottagers, and that, feeling tired, he ell asleep in the stable. He further said that he knew nothing of the fire until one of the stable men aroused him and warned him of his danger.

DISCUSSING THE SCALE.

The Amalgamated Convention Forward ing Its Work Very Rapidly.

PITTSBURG, June 17.-The Amalga mated convention will soon be through with the wage scale discussion, and by the end of the week will probably be going over the reports of the officers. These are also very important in the convention, and this year will show that the organization is splendidly equipped in their knowledge of all the details of their branch of the industry. The reports will also show that the association well supplied with the sinews of war, better, perhaps, than any single labor or ganization in the world. It is expected that the discussion on the iron scale will close to-day, 'and the work of the scale committee approved by the adoption of the schedule. Then either the officers' reports or the steel scale will come up. From this point on, however, the work of the convention will go forward very rapidly. There will be ittle time spent on the other officers' reports, and, as the iron scale is the foundaion of all their work, the rest will be finished in a hurry.

The election of officers will also be put hrough without much loss of time. The incumbents are recognized as being fully able to fill the bill, and will be given an undivided vote as an expression of satis faction and confidence.

CAUGHT AT LAST.

n Anonymous Letter Writer Who Caused Trouble in Many Families. SING SING, N. Y., June 18 .- Robert Robinson, aged 45, is under arrest here charged with sending obscene literature through the mails. It is alleged that for over five years binson has been writing letters to a gentleman of this village charging his wife with infidelity and then wrote to the wife charging the husband with a crime of a similar nature. Robinson admits writing one of a large batch of letters which are all in the same hand writing. Many homes were broken up as a consequence of Robinson's work. Robinson never went on the street in the day time to mail the letters, but always went around late at night and opped them in different boxes, thus eluding the vigilance of carriers who had been on the lookout for him. It is said that Robinson has had a mania for writing anonymous letters for the past 25 years. An examination will be made as to his sanity.

Uncle Sam is Able to Pay All His Obligations on Demand-A Surplus of $7,-000,000 Expected by the End of the Month - What a Leading New York Banker Suys.

New York, June 20.-Financial circles re agitated over the announcement from Washington that the last Treasury statement shows a deficiency of $787,108. This is the first time in many years that the Treasury has had a deficit. The Treasury officials are not disturbed by the situation and say that Uncle Sam is amply able to pay all his obligations on demand.

It is pointed out that this does not include $23,627,412 of government funds on deposit with national banks and $20,-220,000 of fractional silver. It is estimated that the receipts of the Treasury for the balance of the month will largely exceed the expenditures, and there will probably be a surplus of $7,000,000 by

A leading banker in discussing the financial outlook said: "In case an unusual drain has to be made on the Treasury in order to move the crops, the Secretary, if the 4 1-2 bonds are extended, can purchase considerable 4 per cent, bonds. The outlook is therefore rather more favorable than it first appears."

ANGRY AT ENGLAND.

British Columbians Inconsed Over the Scal Agreement. Washington, June 20.-An Ottawa special says that the agreement arrived at between the British Government and the authorities at Washington, regarding the killing of seals in Behring Sea, has raised a storm of indignation in British Columbia. Premier Robinson will petition the Governor-General to protest on behalf of the Pacific Province to the imperial authorities against the agreement. Over twenty Canadian scalors have been fitted up at a cost of over half a million dollars, and have sailed north from Victoria to engage in fishing for seals during the coming season.

The British Columbians are greatly incensed at the unexpected manner in which the British Government has acted in the matter without considering Canadian interests. The Government at Ottawa is also coming in for a share of abuse from them. They claim that the Minister of Marino deceived them by stating in Parliament that the Imperial Government had been notified of the Canadian Interests involved and that no agree ment would be sanctioned that was prejudicial to Canadian interests.

MR. AND MRS. BOWSER

BOWSER'S CHARITABLE NA-TURE IS AROUSED.

He Generously Gives a Dollar to a Tramp Effected with a Peculiar Kind of Heart Disease, While Mrs. B. Is Soundly Lectured for Befriending a Poor Woman.

OOK here, said Mr. Bowser, as he came home the other evening, man going out of the basement with a basket on her arm as I came up?" "You probably did," replied Mrs. owser. "She was a poor woman who had burned her hand and couldn't work with it, and I felt sorry for her." "That's you-you to a dot! Never even saw her hand to know that her story was true!" "But I did. It was a bad burn."

"And she gave you her street and number?" "Yes. "And you went there to see if it was all right?" "No; I took her word for it." "Took her word! Well, you are a soft mash! I'll bet $100 to a cent that she was the biggest kind of a fraud! She's probably grinning now as she thinks how nicely she soft-scaped you!" "I think she was deserving of what I did for her," quietly replied Mrs.

"Oh, yes-of course! Mrs. Bowser, let me give you a little advice. You were born in the country and"--"Weren't you?"

"No, ma'am!" "Weren't you born exactly one mile east of Pedunk?" "No! That is to say, I was born there, but I was reared" "In Podunk itself-a hamlet of thir

The face is the index of the average mind, but you haven't learned to read facial expression." "Have you?" she asked, as he halted

"Indeed! What you can or cannot believe is of very little importance to a nation of 60,000,000 people, Mrs. Bowser. I say she is unworthy, and that settles it. However, I do not blame you so very much, as she probably told a very plausible story, but let this Staffordshire and South Wales coa be the last time. When I am away give all such people the cold shoulder; when I am home refer them to me. In that way no mistakes can possibly arise." About 8 o'clock that evening the gate-bell rang, and pretty soon the cook came in and reported that there was a man outside who wanted money to pay for a night's lodging. Ah! Got the house down fine, haven't they?" sarcestically exclaimed Mr. Bowser, who was reading his news

A moment later the man was shown in. He was a tough looking specimen of manhood, and looked as if he had tramped twice around the globe. There was rum in his breath and shavings in his hair, and had he even appeared by daylight Mrs. Bowser would have shu the door on his toes.

"Well, sir?" sharply queried Mr. Bowser. "It's a case of heart disease, sir, and can't work," whined the man. "Run out your tongue."

It appeared and vanished. "Let me feel vour pulse!" He extended his hand. "My man," said Mr. Bowser, "you have told me the truth. Your heart is very much affected. I also see by your face that you are an honest, truthful man. Here's a dollar for you. Goodnight." "And you call him deserving?" gasped Mrs. Bowser, after the tramp had slid out with an expression of the greatest amazement on his face. "Certainly I do. Saw it the instant he entered the room. It's just as he says about his heart, and I ought to have given him twice what I did." "If he isn't a tramp and a fraud then I don't know one," firmly replied Mrs. Bowser. "Of course you don't, that's what I've

A proposal is now under considera-

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional actual treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient etrength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENERY & Co., Toledo, O. tion for the prevention of the smoke and fog plague by which London is from time to time afflicted. The waste involved in this misplacement of useful matter is something grodigious, and it somewhat surprising that until now to feasible attempt has been made to remedy it. A weak idea of what a London fog is may be gathered from the following description by a famous London correspondent: "Everybody is railing at or sighing over the flendish fog that has kept London in its grip during the last fortnight; the thick darkness has reached a climax; the trains as they pass across the bridges are exact representations of Mirzah's vision on the hills above Bagdad, as they emerge from a mysterious, misty region. The palatial halls of the West End are utterly deserted. In one of the largest and best known draper's shops in the West End the attendants complain that business is at a stand-still, and the season's trade is practically lost. The flower confectionery and jewelry trades are also great sufferers by the fogs. It drives the tradespeople to despair, and everywhere only one refrain is repeat-'The fog is disastrous, ruinous. The three weeks' fog has done more harm to the tradesmen than a season of industrial depression.' While the feg lasted many millions of people had from morning until night to breathe as best they could an atmosphere that seemed to be composed of frozen particles of soot and suiphur. Only those who passed the long hours of the dark day in the midst of the terrible fog can realize the suffering which it brought with it. In the streets, in the omnibusses, in the railway carriages, the people would wager my shoes against a tooth-pick that she is a chronic beggar and a the dreadful visitation. They cowered together in speechless misery. Existence itself was painful. No wrappings could keep out the fog, and many hun dreds of people were poisoned by it as certainly as though they had drunk prussic acid or a solution of arsenic." The proposed remedy for this frightful state of things is to turn a large portion of the coal supply of the Yorkshire, fields into gas and convey it by pipes into London, where its use will be regu-lated somewhat after the same manner

Life is an interrogation "What is it for?" we conpoint. inually cry from the cradle to the grave. So with this little introducory sermon we turn and ask: "What is August Flower for ?'' As easily answered as asked: It is for Dyspepsia. It is a special remedy for the Stomach and Liver. Nothing more than this; but this brimful. We believe August Flower cures Dyspepsia. We know it will. We have reasons for knowing it. Twenty years ago it started in a small country town. To-day it has an honored place in every city and country store, possesses one of the largest manufacturing plants in the country and sells everywhere. Why is this? The reason is as simple as a child's thought. It is honest, does one thing, and does it right along—it cures Dyspepsia. G. G. GREEN, Sole Man'fr, Woodbury, N.J.
