The origin of the word "baccarat" is WATCHING FOR THE MORNING. greatly troubling the etymologists. They cannot discover its root or its stems, and in the most lately published English dictionary it is frankly put down as of unknown derivation.

North Carolina is to have the honor of having the longest electric railway is the world, announces the Cincinnati Enquirer, a line from Asheville to Rutherforton, a distance of forty-one miles, being about to be constructed. The power is furnished by water. The road will be built to operate both freight and passenger cars.

As stated in a report of the British Board of Trade, the United States sent to British ports in 1890 504,391 cattle and 384,646 sheep, while Canada sent 83.588 cattle and 121,309 sheep. This is an enormous increase in trade since 1877, in which year the United State exported to British ports 11,523 cattle and 13,120 sheep, and Canada 7630 cattle and 10,275 sheep.

Women doctors are becoming so aumerous in England that there is competition for the appointments in hospitals. When the Government decided to supply women doctors in the hospitals for Mohammedan women, there was a call for a limited number of women physicians. So many applied for the position, declares the New York Advertiser, that it will be a serious task to select from the number.

The Leprosy Commission in India is making some interesting discoveries as to the origin of the disease and meth ods of suppressing it. In one instance it found a family that had been leprous for five generations. The females of the family remain apparently free from the taint until about fifteen years of age, and are usually very attractive. As they get married about twelve the taint is spread to other families, and the plague N. H. has thus been carried through an extensive district.

> Archibald Forbes, the famous war prove better all-round soldiers than the big fellows. "But," he asserts, "vour narrow-chested, herring-bodied, undersized gutter weed is pure trash on a campaign; you cannot make decent 'cannon fodder' of a creature of this that our ranks to-day are full."

"Ministers have their trials," observes the Chicago Herald, "but they know how to bear them without wearing out prematurely. The necrology of Andover Theological Seminary for 1890 showed that of the forty-six graduates who had died two were over ninety years of age, one of them ninety-seven, nineteen were between eighty and ninety, fourteen were between seventy and eighty, and only one was under fifty. The average age was seventy-six years and eight months. No wonder that life insurance agents are triendly to clergymen."

Athanasius, the brigand who captured a train in Turkey the other day, seems to be a picturesque and gentle ruffian of the operatic sort. He is described as very handsome, about thirtyfive years old, dressed with scrupulous little after 4 o'clock." care, and wearing a white Oriental cloak. To the women on the train he behaved with grace and gallantry, assuring them that he warred not with the fair sex. He treated his captives with much consideration, and when a kid was stolen gave them the meaty bits and was content to pick the bones himself. In a letter which he wrote to a Greek newspaper in Constantinople he said he meant to keep $10,000 of the ransom for himself, diride $14,000 among his six associates. and give $12,000 to the poor. He further requested that the messenger conveying the money should be authorized to spend part of it in buying seven woolen shirts, tobacco, cigarette-papers, six revolvers, six amber cigarette holders and six pocket-knives for the use of his band. When his captives were released he kissed them and gave each of he not know that to-morrow was publithem $25 for pocket-money. It would be almost painful to hear that this romantic robber qualified himself for a brigand Ly serving as a waiter in a restaurant, if it were not for the general air of burlesque about the whole affair. It appears now that there were only seven pandits in all, and there is something more than a suspicion that the ex-waiter and his "pals" were simply the agents of some rascally Turkish officials.

Facts About the Moose. In the Zoologist Mr. Lockhart, an exerienced hunter, gives some interesting facts about the moose. The senses of hearing and smelling in the moose are remarkably acute, and the animal in couching lies with its tail to windward and eyes to leeward, so that it can scent see him from the other. When sleeping or ruminating, the ears of the moose are perpetually moving, one forward, the other backward, alternately, like those of a horse. Before going to rest the moose turns on its course and lies down near its trail, so as to be able to hear or smell its pursuer before he comes up with

It was seldom that he was in the lower office alone, and he amused himself by climbing up on a high stool, and taking a pen and ink and scribbling on some of the

"Nothing," she replied, and sat down in a chair near the window. "Will you please tell him a lady is waiting to see him when he is at liberty?"

Now the office-boy scarcely knew what to do. He did not exactly care to go up-stairs on an errand like that; it would ruin his dignity, after the remarks he had already made. Harvesting Frogs.

Brooklyn Life.

Frog hunting in the swamp districts of Southern Missouri is getting to be a lucrative and important industry. The frogs come mostly from New Madrid County, where the crop is now being harvested. At the French Market in St. Louis last Saturday we saw a pile of frogs that would have filled two barrels. A half-dozen men with pinchers were pulling the breeches off the green, old, original greenbacks. They are esteemed a great delicacy .- Bonne Terre (Mo.)

The seminary where Mrs. Langham's daughter was a pupil one night gave a reception, at which that lady was unable to be present. Her husband, however, was there, and solemnly promised before he left home to bring back information regarding the prettiest dresses worn by the girls. "Now," said Mrs. Langham when he returned, having left the daughter to spend the night with a schoolmate, "what was the handsomest dress there? Did Edith look as well as any of the "Oh, yes, yes; better than most,

A the Federal government.—Cincinnati woman on the sidewalk had her arms Times-Star. filled with a baby, a couple of bundles and a parasol, when the baby's hat blew off. The woman was about to step out into the street to follow the hat, when a conductor of one of the cars cried out to her, "Wait a moment, ma'm, and I'll get it for you." Then he jumped from the car, and, running after the hat, caught it and restored it to its owner. This seems hard to believe of the much abused street car conductor, but it may be the exception | teered to assist him. that proves the rule.-New York Trib-

Bables That Are Safe.

The Flathead mother makes her pa poose into a round bundle, with folds of bark and thongs of deerskin, and carries it in a wooden receptacle something like a canoe, slung on her back, with a little penthouse or shade projecting over the baby's face.

It is worth noting that this complete swaddling of infants is almost universal among barbarous and civilized peoples who dwell in subtropical or temperate olimates. It is done not so much (or ax'd for Ode Blackbird!" not only) to keep the child warm, but to prevent it from scratching itself. from moving about and hurting itself and from bruising itself or breaking its tender bones if it should chance to fall. A baby, however, that is done up tight and flat as a redskin baby is, must be almost as safe on a top shelf as on the ground.—Strand Magazine.

There is a trick practiced by one of the west end tow horses on the Cambridge street hill which the Listener has no doubt has been noticed by a great many people, and which is well worth being put on record. The horses stand in line at the foot of the hill each. when he returns from a tow, taking a position at the rear. In this way each horse gets his turn at towing.

Among the towhorses at this hill is a big necked gray, a stout and wise old fellow. He has been seen, when the towboys are temporarily around the corner, as they sometimes are, to sneak dodges his turn at pulling the car up the hill.—Boston Transcript. BIG RUNS OF POPULAR SONGS. Author and Publisher Tells How

Some Catchy Melodies Have Sold. In the year 1868 I was yachting in Long Island sound with a young friend of mine named Smith. We were lying off New Haven becaimed, and although I did not know it then. I have since realized that this period was a turning point in my career. The doctors had At a meeting of the executive board told me that if I did not stop dancing I would become a cripple. I was something at a loss what to turn my attention to, as at that time I knew of nothing except dancing. Smith at that in the state to elect a sister to the time was a clerk in the music publishing house of Oliver Ditson & Co., in

I said to Smith: "I believe I car write the songs to make a concern rich. Let us form a company and start ing in the arrangement of the same publishing music." We managed to scrape together a small sum of money elected at the next meeting of your the first two years we were nearly bankand started in business. At the end of grange and report the name on the rupt. The cause of this failure I found enclosed postal. A badge will be to be that we had been selling other sent to the one elected, which will publications and not our own. All the money I could raise was realized out of give her free admission to the fair at the remainder of my capital, which consisted of an old schooner, which I sold realizing $900.

The first hit we made was with the old and well known melody, "Shoo Fly." I did not write this, but it was an original composition, and we sold song writer was made with "Put Me in

This was suggested to me by seeing a picture of the prophet Samuel in the window of a Boston shop as I was going home one evening. Samuel was kneeling by a bedside with his hands clasped in prayer. I turned to my son verse in fifteen minutes. The popularity of this song was immense. The second of my successes was "Come, Birdie." The idea of this song came to me while I was lying in a hammock under a tree. A beautiful woodpecker was tapping at the bark of the tree. and lifting my hand playfully toward the bird I said: "Come, Birdie, Come." This was a success from the start, its sales outnumbering that of "Put Me in My Little Bed" by many thousands.

The next of my successes was entitled "Moonlight on the Lake." This was a quartet. Over 500,000 copies of it were sold. You probably know that as soon as a song becomes popular musical pirates begin to write some thing similar to mislead the public. In order to counteract this I wrote two more songs, "When 'Tis Moonlight" and "When "Tis Starlight." These were all waltz songs, and although the two latter songs did not sell as well as the other, still they helped to defeat the ends of those who wished to profit from the results of my humble efforts.

It would be impossible for me to numerate all the songs I have written. They run up in the thousands. I have written over 100 quartets. In fact, I think I can, without egotism, say that I have been the only writer of popular music in this country or any other during the fifteen years. The success of "Marguerite" is well known, over printed.—C. A. White in Music Trades.

A Confederate Yet on Parole Captain J. B. Williams, of Alabama, served during the civil war in the Tenth Tennessee cavalry in the Confederate army. He was captured, but released on parole in May, 1865. "Now, I have never been released from that parole," he said, as he stood in the Burnet lobby "and as long as I obey the laws and do not take up arms against the United States government it is in force. carry it with me all the time, but until I am discharged I am simply a United States prisoner on parole. I have never taken the oath of allegiance on that account. "But there need be no fear of my taking up arms against the government. The politicians may go ahead and do or say what they please. I'll do no fighting against this country's government. But if any one of those foreign people get into a fight with us then's when I'll come out, get my discharge and go into the service." The parole is yellow with age and almost worn out at the folds. It is dated at Meridian, and is signed

Better Known by His Nickname. In Mr. Lower's treatise on "English Surnames" a story is told of an attor ney's clerk who was employed to serve a process on one of the oddly named persons, whose real name was entered in the instrument with legal accuracy. The bull head was shaken in token of ignorance. Layabed, Stumpy, Cowskin, Spindleshanks, Cockeye and Pigtail were severally invoked, but without success, and the querist fell into a brown study. Suddenly her eyes brightened, and slapping one of her companions on the shoulder she exclaimed triumphantly:

"Dash my wig! whoy, he means moy feyther!" and then turning to the law yer's clerk she added, "You should'n

The superintendent of a Pittsburg Sunday school was told by the librarian a few Sabbaths ago that two or three playing cards had been found in one of the books returned.

Taking the painted pasteboards in his hand the good man delivered to the school a lecture bearing on the subject, and closed by holding up the cards and remarking: "The scholar who left these in his book may step forward and get them." Singular as it may seem, no one was anxious to claim the property, and the stiperintendent placed the pasteboards in the breast pocket of his Prince Alpert coat.

Later in the day he was walking along the street with the pastor of the church. His brow becoming heated he drew forth his handkerchief from the inside pocket of his Prince Albert and the cards fluttered to the pavement. As the pastor had not been at Sunday school and knew nothing of the previous occurrence it was necessary for the superintendent to enter into an exhaustive explanation.—Pittsburg in Langury's, Switches, etc., which Chronicle Telegraph, Withers, at Fairlawn Stock Farm, Lexington, Ky. Sired by old Almont, the great sire of trotters.

Kentucky Almont's first dam, Lady Richelieu, is chestnut mare, 15% hands high. The following is what her owner says of her: She is by far the handsomest and most blood-like of my brood mares, and is the greatest long-distance roadster in the great horse state of Kentucky.

Kentucky Almont is a horse of magnificent proportions, standing fully 16 hands high, weighs 1100 pounds; is a rich golden bay, with black points, nice mane and tail, splendid head and neck, deep oblique shoulders, short, powerful back, round barrel, long smoothly turned hips, clean hocks, and the very best of test and legs. His disposition is perfection; his gait is long, level and far-reaching, with that quick, catty motion and splendid stiffe action so notable in the Almont family, that will some day carry him a mile in 2.20 or better. He was started up a few times the past winter, and could, in the estimate of good judges, show a 30 gait to sleigh. He is one of the finest and games's roadsters a man ever rode behind. Breeders are now looking for size, style, solid colors, speed and road qualities combined, all of which Kentucky Almont possesses. 1837. 1891. VISIT

SHOT BY AN INDIAN.

Young Lady in Lynn, Mass., Wounded While Walking the Street. FALL RIVER, Mass., July 22 .- Miss Mary Powers, of Lowell, Mass., was shot and seriously wounded last night by Dr. H. Hawkins, an Indian physician, who re cently came here from the West. Hawkins, who is a tall, powerfully built man, has been drinking very hard of late, and has become a terror to the people in the vicinity of Rodman street,

He was in the habit of strapping belt around his waist in which were thrust a couple of huge horse pistols which he would draw and brandish is the air, occasionally firing a shot or so. About 9'clock last night he ran into the road and fired two shots. Miss Powers, who is visiting here, was passing along the street and one of the bullets struck and entered her right foot. The doctors say the wound is secious, as there are chances of lock jaw setting in

The news of the shooting spread and nearly 2,000 people gathered in the neighborhood of the house. A squad of policemen soon arrived and surrounded time, as Hawkins threatented t the first intruder. He is known to be a dead shot and the police hesitated for long time before they summoned up ourage enough to enter the place. Finally eight of them rushed into the place and succeded in disarming Hawkins, who was then taken to the station in irons.

THE FIGHT OFF.

Fitzsimmons and Hall May Go to Net

Sr. Paul, Minn., July 23.-For the present the Fitzsimmons-Hall prize fight is off. So much pressure was brought against it that the authorities finally agreed to stop it. It may take place to-morrow beyond the city limits, but in all probability the 'mill" will come off in New Orleans. It is said that arrangements have been made by which they will fight at Hud son just over the line in Wisconsin. Hall and his friends are now at the Metropolitan Hotel here and Fitzsimons and Carroll are at the Ryan. Visiting sportsmen are moving about waiting for the tip, but no authoritative statement regarding the battle ground has yet been made.

THE EASTPORT SEIZURE.

A Careful Investigation Is Being Made by the State Department. WASHINGTON, July 23 .- The State Dapartment is quite busy learning the details of the seizure of the Eastport fishermen, so as to be able to act intelligently when the time for action arrives. The United States consul at the Canadian town next to Eastport is investigating things, and when he makes his report it will be quite competent for the department to take some very interest ing steps towards obtaining an explanation of the case from Great Britain. There is no danger of a repetition of the "outrage," as it is being called in lieu of a more definite term, and the department feels that hasto in such an event would be unwise.

RIOT IN THE COAL REGION. Strikers Make an Attack on Hungarian

PLYMOUTH, Pa., July 23 .-- A strike and a serious riot occurred last evening at Nottingham colliery, Lohigh and Wilkes barre Coal Company. On Monday last the coal company brought here a carload of foreign laborand yesterday two more carloads came in. The new men were all recently imported Hungarians. As fifty men, who enter the mine every light to clear the gangways and breasts of rock, were about to descend the shaft they were informed that the rate of wages would henceforth be reduced from $1.68 to $1.25 per day. The men held a consultation and refused to accept the eduction. A large crowd of men and boys who were just leaving the breaker and mines, congregated around the gang and indorsed their decision. As soon as it was definitely known that the rock men would not go into the mine Foreman Connor dispatched a messenger to the barracks, where the company had installed their recent importations, and in a few minutes a body of the Huns were entering the colliery yard, every man in new working outfit, which had been prorided by the company. Their appearance was the signal for an outburst of hooting and groans from the men who were waiting to see the outcome of the affair. As the new men under the eadership of Superintendent Leckie and of the shaft a volley of stones and pieces of coal fell upon them. The throwing of missiles continued until several of the The Huns, who were entirely unacquainted with the cause for this display of hostility, cowered and shivered with fear, and despite urging from Connor. seemed unable to take part in their ow defense. At this time a leader among the sympathizers suggested that the men be driven to their barracks, and a rush was made and the Huns were routed. The Huns have barred themselves in their barracks and, as they are entirely friendless, it is probable that the com-pany will take them in the mines under strong guards.

Tennessee's Miners Will Trust Gov. Buchanan.

THE CONVICTS GO BACK TO WORK General Rejoicing in Knoxville Over the

Peaceful Settlement. The Troops Leave for Home To-day... They Celebrated the Return of Peace-The Terms of Settlement Signed by the Miners' Committee-They Expect Relief When the Legislature Moets. KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 25.-The war is over and the miners have unconditionally surrendered. Governor Buchanan has won a great victory, and without bloodshed. This satisfactory result was reached last night. Up to a few minutes before the settlement citizens believed the troops would go to Coal Creek. It soon became known, however, that the troops would not be ordered to move, though they were ready to go at a moment's notice. When they did not go the citizens be came nervous and matters seemed to be in a very bad condition, and there were rumors upon rumors that the Governor would surrender to a mob of lawless men. It was learned that the sheriff of Anderson county would not act and ask for a posse. It was said the Governor was powerless, but the result has shown that Governor Buchanan know what he was

It was true that when the committee of miners left him the previous night the men were angry. Several of the com-mittee said that they would not have anything more to do with the Governor, but they were hot-headed men, for dur ing the day the committee came to see the position of the Governor like loyal citizens and knew he could not, as the Governor of a great State, and sworn to do his duty, compromise the law. So they agreed among themselves that the Governor was right in not accoding to a violation of the law.

They got together about 4 o'clock and were in session some time. When they broke up they went to Gov. Buchanan with the proposition to abide by the law. The Miners' Agreement.

The following is a copy of the agreement which the miners have agreed to, and which is considered a settlement of the mining trouble: "First-Status quo to be restored and the guards and convicts not to be molested on their return to the mines, and we will use all ordinary caution and honorable means to prevent any interference with

"Second-Reposing confidence in our (lovernor, and believing the General As sembly, when it meets in extra session, will give us the necessary relief from the oppression that now hangs over us, we will endeavor to conduct ourselves as law-abiding people, so as to maintain the confidence and sympathy of the pub lic in the future, as well as in the past.
"Third—And we do hereby express ou consideration in holding the militia in this city and thereby preventing a con flict that might have resulted in blood-"Fourth-And to the committee of citi zens we also express our thanks for the interest they have shown by their counsel thanks to Gov. Buchanan for the kind and advice in their efforts to adjust the existing difficulties." Wien it was known in the city that the trouble had been settled there was great rejoicing. Everybody was happy and the streets were filled with smiling faces. Soon after dark the soldiers were released from their camp, and last night they celebrated the return of peace.

ALMY PROBABLY DEAD.

A Theory that the Hanover Assassin Committed Suicide. HANQVER, N. H., July 23.-Though the feeling against the murderer of Christie Warden is as deep to-day as it was yesterday the pursuit is being gradually relaxed in so far as it has been kept by volunteers. Clue after clue has been run down, only to find that there was no basis for the supposition that the murderer had been seen as reported. So, as nothing promised to come of their efforts, men engaged in the search have begun to return to their own business affairs. As disappointment after disappointment has come to the searchers, a theory at first thrown aside has been taken up again and grows in strength.

This theory is that Almy has committed suicide. In support of this is quoted Almy's ex-

QUIET AT COAL CREEK. There Will be No Trouble if the Convicts

Are Kept Away. COAL CREEK, Tonn.. July 23 .- The miners are much elated at their success so far without resistance, and say that no troops can be found who will the building from its foundation. One come here and protect convicts. The of the cars went into the canal. leaders of the miners say the attack would not have been made but for the fact that many of the militia had told them they would not fight for convicts. Conservative leaders here are decidedly against disturbing property, but there are many who strongly favor burning the stockade. It is not likely that any mine machinery will be destroyed, as the men are convinced that they will eventually triumph and take charge of all the mines. Once let them think they cannot keep the convicts out, and they will tear down the machinery and set fire to every mine. No one here has as yet any idea of what the State troops will do, or whether they will be ordered to come on from Knoxville or not. The delay has increased the hilarity of the men here at what they term the perishable goods boxed and shipped away. It increases, too, the hope that they have that the convicts will not be sent back.

HE BOASTFULLY DEFIES ARREST Protected by His Countrymen in a Camp

in the Woods. The Leader of the Band Served With s Notice to Surrender the Assassin Within Five Days-A Conflict Between the Foreigners and Lumbermen Inevitable. The Italian Consul Interested. PITTSBURG, July 25.—Glen Hazel, a lumbering hamlet, 14 miles from Ridgway, Eik County, may soon be the scene of a race war that will create as great a furor in diplomatic circles as the famous Italian episode at New Orleans.

During a drunken row between lumbermen and Italians employed in grading an extension of the New York, Lake Erie & Western Railroad, Horace Fisher. a jobber, was fatally stabbed in the abdomen by Paolo Passuzzi. The latter then made his escape to the Italian camp, and has not yet been captured, although the County Commissioners have offered a reward of $500 for the apprehension of the murderer.

The Murderer's Friends Defiant. Soon after the murder the Italians at Glen Hazel flung the national flag of Italy to the breeze and boastfully defied arrest. The woodsmen then began to talk of shooting every Italian in the town. Their blood is at fever heat, and they are determined that the brutal murder of their companion shall be avenged. They have consulted among themselves what they will do in retaliation, and the result of their councils has been conveyed to the leader of the Italian band.

Must Surrender the Murderer. They have served a notice on him giving him five days to deliver the body of Passuzzi, the murderer of Fisher. If he shall not be placed behind the bars of the County Jail at Ridgeway at the expiration of that time every Italian is to be driven out of the county at the point of Winchester rifles. The Italians are terribly frightened at the way things are looking, and have notified the Italian Consul at Philadelphia of their danger. iust now. PHILADELPHIA, July 25.—Testimony of very startling nature was given during he inquiry into the affairs of ex-Treasurer Bardsley. Editors testified that they had to pay a commission of 40 per cent. to get advertisements.

Mr. A—, a colored man who died last winter in a Northern city, was accounted one of its most respected citizens. He had accumulated a fortune. had helped to found one or two charitable institutions which greatly benefited the community, and had devoted much of his strength and energies to the education and elevation of his race. As his funeral passed through the street, an old citizen said to his companion, "Did you ever hear how Awas started on the road to success?"

womanhood, every young girl needs the wisest care. Troubles beginning then may make her whole life miserable. But the troubles that are to be feared have a positive remedy. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription builds up and strengthens the system, and regulates and promotes every proper function. It's a generous, supporting tonic, and a quieting, soothing nervine - a legitimate medicine, not a beverage, free from alcohol and injurious drugs. It corrects and cures, safely and surely, all those delicate derangements, weaknesses, and diseases peculiar to the sex. A remedy that does cure is one that can be quaranteed. That's what the proprietors of "Favorito Prescription" think. If it doesn't give satisfaction, in every case for which it's recommended, they'll refund the money. No other medicine for women is sold on such terms. Decide for yourself whether something else sold by the dealer, is likely to be "just as good" for you to buy.
