SPECIAL NOTICES.

Hood's Pills are hand made, and perfect in proportion and appearance. 25c. per box.

No small objection which young folks had to the old-time spring-medicines was their nauseousness. In one day, this objection is removed and Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the most powerful and popular of blood-purifiers, is as pleasant to the palate as a cordial.

Park's Wyandott, elegant, inexpensive and reliable. Try it for headache.

Do Not put off taking a spring medicine but take Hood's Sarsaparilla now. It will purify your blood, strengthen your nerves and give you a good appetite.

Don't buy but one bar of Dobbins' Perfect Soap at first. It is only 5 cents; you can decide just as well on one bar whether it is worth double the Soap you have been using. If it isn't don't buy any more.

Henry Ward Beecher once informed a man who came to him complaining of gloomy and despondent feelings, that what he most needed was a good cathartic, meaning of course, such a medicine as Ayer's Cathartic Pills, every dose being effective.

If you desire a luxurious growth of healthy hair of a natural color, nature's crowning ornament of both sexes, use only Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer.

35 Complete Novels and a Years Subscription to a large 16-page illustrated monthly magazine for ONLY 30 CENTS.

This is the most liberal offer as Houghton's "The Sign of the Cross" is a high-class paper, replete with stories of love, adventure, travel, and short interesting and instructive sketches of facts and fiction. The list of 35 novels are such treasures as "A Brave Soldier," by Robert Louis Stevenson; "A Blacksmith's Daughter," by R. W. P. Pierce; "Spartan," a most interesting story by M. T. Smith; "A Girl's Story," and "Between Two Kings," by the author of "Dora Thorne"; "The Truth of It," by the popular writer, Hugh Conway; and the "Moorhouse Tragedy," rather sensational, by Mrs. Jane C. Austin; "A Heroine," a delightful story by Mrs. L. M. B. Davis; "Wait Flowers," by the popular Marion Harland; and the great story "Only a Girl," by Annina M. Douglas. Space forbids mentioning the other novels, but they are all the same high class, popular, bright, romantic, spicy, interesting stories.

The 35 novels and the current issue of Houghton's "The Sign of the Cross" will be sent to you for only 30 cents. This will supply you with a season's reading for a mere song, and you will be amply repaid by the enjoyment of the novels and the current issue of the magazine. Send at once 30 cents to Houghton's "The Sign of the Cross," P. O. Box 118, New York City, N. Y.

BENNINGTON.

After a long and painful sickness, Geo. Griswold passed away, Wednesday morning, April 11, aged 53 years, 5 months, and 20 days. Funeral services were from his late home Thursday at 2 p. m., Revs. Geo. Anderson and W. R. Cochran, D. D., officiating. Mr. Griswold was a man of moral character, a tender and obliging spirit, a devoted husband, and loving father respected by all who knew him. The bearers were J. C. Dodge, Geo. Herrick, James Ross, Fred Kimball, L. G. Hildreth, Morris Cheney. The interment was in Evergreen cemetery. The funeral services were very pretty. The deceased leaves a wife, one son and a daughter, an aged mother, two sisters and two brothers, to mourn their loss. The bereaved family have the heartfelt sympathy of their many friends.

Frank Barrett has moved into the Proctor house.

Several couples attended the annual ball at Forrest House last Thursday evening.

Mrs. Nathan Whitney is in New York.

Mrs. Addie Carter is at home, caring for her mother, Mrs. William Taylor, who we are pleased to learn, is improving, after many weeks of suffering.

The cutlery shop shut down last Wednesday for the week.

Schools.—The Grammar school began Monday morning, 9th inst. Miss Russell of Shelburne Falls has charge of this department. Music is to be among the best studies taught in this department.

The Primary began Tuesday under the instruction of its former teacher, Miss Ricker, who has had charge of this department for three years. Her quiet, gentle manner in the school room wins the love of parents as well as her scholars.

Miss Charlotte Balch has charge of the school at North Bennington.

VILLAGE IMPROVEMENT SOCIETY.—At the annual meeting of the Village Improvement Society the following officers were chosen:

President—C. J. Kimball.

Vice Presidents—F. B. Gould, L. G. Hildreth.

Secretary—H. J. Bart.

Treasurer—C. A. Whittemore.

Some much needed improvements have been made during the past year. It is to be hoped that this society will prosper and continue improving the appearance of our village.

ORANGE PARTY.—The Orange party recently given under the direction of the Improvement Society, was a success. The number of guests was about 848. A grand number attended in orange colored costumes, some of them being of a comic make-up, while others were dressed with ribbons and flowers, the baskets were trimmed in a tasty manner and sold well. The courage of the young men was good, even if they did not get their best girl and her basket. Miss Annie Wood won by vote the orange spoon and knife as being the most popular lady present.—Dr. Hildreth won by vote the orange spoon and knife for being the homeliest man present.

The ball given by the Base Ball nine was well patronized, 45 couples tipped the light fantastic toe until the mid-night hour.

The Gorton show company did not meet with the best of success. It is a general belief that money can be put to some better use these dull times.

Jefferson Shea has vacated the Strickland tenement, and moved into the house lately occupied by Alex Caldwell.

Mrs. Henry Bart spent the Sabbath with her sister, Mrs. G. A. Whittemore.

Sugar party in the near future.

Miss Lou Mahall of Hancock, has so far recovered as to be able to ride to Bennington.

THE CAT CAME IN.

In the Renovation of the Old Museum Who Didn't Come Back?

"Hunt? Why of course I believe in them," said a New Haven man to a group of Bostonians crowded around the lunch counter about midnight. "There's a hunt now," he pointed to a big black cat which stealthily made its way into the room and under the shadow of which his eyes glowed red and green. "That cat's a hunt and a hunt of all in one."

"One stormy night about four years ago I came in here, and he's been here since. There used to be an old man who visited us every night to show eyes and haggard. He never said a word, but laid down his money, got his beer—Old Tom gin—always the same, and went on his way. The time the cat came in the night man noticed that the old man hadn't appeared. It was a rainy night, too, just about this time. The wind howled and moaned, and the lightning flashed in red ribbons, while the thunder cracked like the guns of battle and reverberated in a boom that made all the dishes in the house jump. Just as the clock was striking 12, the old man, meaning the musician, hadn't come. At that moment the big black cat came in and took his place by the stove and never uttered a mew, and he's never been away since, and more than that, he never sleeps. If that cat should go to sleep, I believe he would fall down. One while he gets a little bit sick, and then everything goes wrong."

"But the strange part of the story is that the old musician never came back. Two days later he was pulled out of the river dead. He had jumped in the river. What makes me believe so is that as soon as a hand passes that door playing that cat makes for the river as fast as he can. He goes away the moment any music is heard. What he doesn't tarry for I don't know. Perhaps it was music that drove the old man crazy. I've heard some music that would drive anybody so."—Florida Times-Union.

Don't Judge by Appearances.

A one-legged street beggar, with rain or shine, sits every day with outstretched hand on the steps of a warehouse in a down town cross street quite a philosopher in his way. He says that, so far as his experience goes, little can be judged of regarding the benevolence of men or women by their appearance. Some preaching who seems to be the personification of charity allied with opulence. The beggar stretches forth his hand with confidence, but withdraws it with disappointment. Then there comes a hurrying by a philanthropist, looking creature, scoldy perhaps, with a cynical smile on his face, who drops a quarter into the beseeching palm. Among women, the legless asserts, the best dressed are seldom the most charitable. There are exceptions to the rule, of course, but the prevalent theory that a street beggar can "size up" a pedestrian by his appearance is erroneous.—New York World.

Falling Eyes.

"I think the eyes are the power of the present generation of civilized men must have deteriorated a good deal," said an oculist to me the other day. "I am called upon to examine so many young persons nowadays whose eyes show no symptoms of disease or strabismus, but are simply unable to do the ordinary amount of work required of schoolboys, schoolgirls, college students or moderate readers without showing symptoms of overwork."

"This weakness seems to be constitutional, and glasses are required which lessen the muscular strain on the eyes only. In spite of the invention of the typewriter, which has relieved the eye of so much work, the state of things is almost equally as prevalent in business circles as among students."—New York Herald.

A Juvenile Reporter.

"Now, tell me," said the aunt to little Annie, who had been taken to the concert for the first time in her life, "what did they do?"

"Oh, there was a lady screaming because she had forgotten to put on her gloves, and a waiter played on the piano all the time!" was the child's reply.—Corriere della Sera.

In testing the lifting power of growing plants and vegetables—an experiment made under the auspices of the United States department of agriculture—it was found that common pumpkins could lift a weight of 2½ tons.

Philadelphia has some long streets—Second street, 15 miles; Germantown and Ridge avenue, 10 miles; Broad street, 9½ miles; Frankford avenue, 8 miles; Fifth street, 6½ miles; Market street, 5½ miles.

A man's time, when well husbanded, is like a cultivated field of what is useful to the most extensive provinces, even of the richest soil, when overrun with weeds.

An Ounce of Prevention Better Than a Pound of Cure.

How often do people hear this proverb, and how little do they heed it! Everybody knows that wet feet are the cause of most sickness and suffering, but how few men and women have foresight enough to visualize their shoes and thereby make them water-proof. It seems strange that people will risk their health and lives and pay immense sums for doctors' and druggists' bills, when they could avoid this danger by applying a few cents' worth of viscol to their shoes and boots and thereby keep their feet dry in all kinds of weather.
