ANTRIM, N. H., WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 18, 1901

SINGLE COPIES, 3 CENTS

WOOD'S PILLS
Cure the liver, and cure biliousness, sick headache, jaundice, nausea, indigestion, etc. They are invaluable to prevent a cold or break up a fever. Mild, gentle, certain, they are your confidence. Purely vegetable, they can be taken by children or delicate women. Price, 25c. at all medicine dealers or by mail of C. I. Wood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

BY THE STREAM.
The sunlight steals between the leaves
And flickers on the stream;
The little minnows dart about
Like shadows in a dream.
Beyond the shade the clover field
Yours a little lower on the bank
But here the water ripples cool
About the children's feet.
The leaves stir softly overhead,
The shadows verge toward noon,
And they will have to leave their play
And go to dinner soon.
—Katherine Fyle in Harper's Bazar.

The Battle of Pere-la-Chaise

A STORY OF THE PARIS COMMUNE.

By Alphonse Daudet.

A battle here? But there never was any battle. It's an invention of the newspapers.
Here's all that actually did happen. On the evening of the 22d, which was Sunday, we saw some 30 federal artillerymen come up with a battery of 7 pounders and a mitrailleuse of the new kind.
They took position right above the cemetery, and as that part was in my beat it was I who had to meet them.
Their mitrailleuse was there at that corner of the path near my box, their guns a little lower on the level.
As soon as they came they made me open several chapters. I thought they were going to smash and plunder everything down there, but the officer kept good order and, putting himself right in the middle, made them a little speech: "The first hog that touches anything, I'll smash his jaw for him! Break ranks!"
He was an old man, all gray, with the Crimean and Italian medals, and didn't have an easy going way about him. The men took it as settled, and I will do them the justice to say that they did not take a thing from the monuments, not even the Duke of Moray's crucifix, which they say is worth 2,000 francs by itself.
For all that, they were a lot of rascals, these rascals of the commune. Second rate artillerymen, they did not dream of anything except to swallow down their big pay, three francs fifty.
You ought to have seen the life they led here in the cemetery. They slept in the vaults in the Moray's, in Favronne's, that beautiful tomb of Favronne, where the emperor's durak is buried.
They put their wine to cool down in the Champagne vault, where there is a spring. Then they had their women come. The whole night they drank and boozed. Ah, you'd have thought the dead people would have heard their jokes!
All the same, in spite of their clumsiness, these robbers did Paris a great deal of damage. Their position was fine. From time to time they would order: "Fire at the Louvre! Fire at the Palais Royal!" Then the old soldier would aim the guns, and the petroleum shells would fall into the city at every discharge.
What was going on down below nobody knew exactly. We heard the firing coming nearer, little by little, but the communists did not disturb themselves about that. It did not seem possible that the Versailles troops could advance under the cross fires from Chamont, Montmartre and Pere-la-Chaise. What brought them to their senses was the first shell the soldiers sent us when they reached the Montmartre hill. They expected it so little!
As for me, I was right in the middle of them all leaning against the Moray monument, busy smoking my pipe. When I heard the shells coming, I had time to throw myself flat on the ground. At first our artillerymen believed that it was a mistake in aim or some comrade on a spree.
But that was just the beginning! At the end of five minutes there was Montmartre blazing out again and another big bombshell coming down upon us just as straight as the first. This time my bullets let their guns and mitrailleuse lie where they were and stretched their legs to save themselves. The cemetery wasn't big enough for them. They kept crying out: "We are betrayed! We are betrayed!"
The old fellow, left there alone under the shells, stood like a brave devil in the middle of his battery and cried with rage to see his gunners had deserted him.
All the same, toward evening, at pay-time, some of them came back to him. Hold on, sir; look at my proofs. They are still the names of those who came to draw their pay that evening. The old man called out their names and wrote them down as they came along: "Michele, the painter; Cholemyra, present; Bijou, Yellon."
As you see, they were not more than four or five, but they brought their women with them. Ah, I shall never forget that night! Down there Paris was blazing, the Hotel de Ville was burning, the streets full of goods.
In Pere-la-Chaise you could see as in broad daylight. The Federals tried to settle down to their guns again, but they were not enough, and then Montmartre made them stop. Then they took to their heels and ran.
The old man and some of his boys went to the Hotel de Ville to see if they could get some more powder.
The old man and some of his boys went to the Hotel de Ville to see if they could get some more powder.

door. My wife, all in a tremble, went to open it. We believed we were going to see more Federals. It was the navy—a captain, ensigns, a surgeon. They said to me: "Get up! Make us some coffee."
I got up. I made the coffee for them. You could hear in the cemetery a murmur, a confused movement, as if all the dead people were rousing themselves for the last judgment. The officers drank very quickly, standing up; then they took me outside with them.
The place was full of soldiers and sailors. Then they put me at the head of a squad, and they set us to search the cemetery, tomb by tomb. From time to time the soldiers would see the great long black flag flying from a path at a bust or a grating. Here and there we found some unlicked fellow hid away in a corner of a chapel.
That is what happened to my friends the artillerymen. I found them all, men and women, in a heap near my box, the old man with his medals on top. It wasn't a cheerful thing to see in the cold of the early dawn. B-r-r!
But what took me the most was a long line of national guards they were bringing out at this moment from La Roquette prison, where they spent the night. They came up the grand avenue slowly, like a funeral. You couldn't hear a word—not a groan—these poor fellows were so fagged out, so crushed down. There were some who were asleep as they walked and the thought they were going to die couldn't wake them up. They made them file into the lower end of the cemetery, and then the volleys began. There were 147 of them. Do you suppose that took long? That was what was called the battle of Pere-la-Chaise.
Here my old fellow, seeing his sergeant, left me abruptly, and I stood alone looking at his sentry box, with the names of that last day written on it, by the light of blazing Paris. I called up that night in May, streaked with shells, with blood and flame, the great lonesome cemetery as brightly lit up as a city on holiday; the guns abandoned in the middle of the crossways; all around, the open vaults, the orgies in the tombs, and near, mid this crowd of domes, of columns, of stone statues which the leaping flames made look alive, with his broad forehead and great eyes, the bust of Balzac looked on.—Exchange.

Very Interesting For The Men!

To reduce stock before stock-taking, we will FOR ONE WEEK ONLY (and that will be long enough for you to buy what you want for six months to come) make prices on MEN'S OVERALLS, JUMPERS, UNDERSHIRTS AND DRAWERS, AND CHEVIOT SHIRTS, that will be AT COST, and some of them AT LESS THAN COST. What do we do this for? Because it is much easier to take stock of the money than it is of the goods. We've got a BIG STOCK OF THESE GOODS, so we can supply you all.

Remember, You Buy at Cost or Less!
Have You Seen the Men's Caps We're Selling for 17 cents?

It does not take A very smart man To sell goods at less than cost,

But that's what store keepers in this section have been doing and ourselves included. They say it draws trade—we don't believe it, because if goods are sold by one for Less Than Cost, others will follow. The great trouble we have found has been that others have been selling Old Rubber Goods. Rubbers that have been carried over from last year and may have been for years back, but Doctors and Beards.

Doctors have very much less latitude in the matter of facial decoration than men of any other profession because it seems to be taken as a settled fact that they must wear only beards.
"I happen to have a great many doctors under my care," said the barber whose name is known to more New Yorkers than any other, "and all of them excepting two wear beards. These two are both over 50, and they allow themselves the luxury of gray mustaches. Most of the others are men between 30 and 40, and I don't believe there is one of them who wears a beard from choice. Some of them would very much like to be smooth faced, while others look with envy at the men who wear only a mustache. They also say that professional reasons compel them to wear beards.
"Youthfulness in a doctor seems to be more of a disadvantage than in any other profession. One hears a great deal of gray haired men having to dye their hair and mustache if they want to find work, but it is just as true that men are compelled to adopt some device to make them look older when youthfulness is a disadvantage. For that reason all my doctor clients have to wear beards whether these are belonging to them or not."—New York Sun.

FOR REMEMBRANCE.
George—Just look, father! Isn't our baby the finest in town?
Father—It may be, George, but I hope it won't turn out to be like a car window.
George—How is that, father?
Father—Hard to raise and after you do raise it, it's unmanageable.—Philadelphia Record.

FEELS OF NIGHT.
"Oh the best!" asked the stranger, looking at the pharmacist's drug store.
"You've noticed the pharmacist clerk?" asked the pharmacist.
"Yes, he looks like a man who's been through a rough time."

The Steady Subscriber.

How dear to my heart is the steady subscriber, who pays in advance at the birth of each year. Who lays down his dollar and parts with it gladly. And casts round the office a halo of cheer!

He never says, "Stop it; I cannot afford it." Nor, "I'm getting more papers now than I can read." But always says, "Send it; the family likes it." In fact, we all think it a real household need.

How welcome he is when he steps in the sanctum! How he makes our heart throb, how he makes our eyes dance! We outwardly thank him, we inwardly bless him. The steady subscriber who pays in advance.

Congressman Clarke Dead.

Congressman Frank G. Clarke died at his home in Peterboro Thursday evening.

He had been suffering from a bronchial trouble for some time, which culminated in quick consumption, or tuberculosis, and eventually in his death. Mr. Clarke was 50 years of age, and his second term as representative to Congress from the Second New Hampshire district expires in March of the present year.

Frank G. Clarke was born in Wilton Sept. 10, 1850, and was educated at Kimball academy and at Dartmouth college. He entered upon the practice of law in Peterboro in 1875, and since had been a resident of that town. He served as a member of Gov. Hale's staff in 1883, with rank of colonel, and in 1885 was elected to the House of Representatives. In that session he won many laurels in the hotly contested debates of the year.

Returning to the practice of his profession, he was again called into political prominence by an election to the State Senate in 1889 from district No. 10. In that body he added to his reputation as a man of exceptional ability. In 1891 he was again elected to the House of Representatives, and was chosen Speaker of the Republican caucus. Col. Clarke won additional honors as presiding officer throughout that session. He made a successful canvass in the Second Congressional district in 1896 and was re-elected in 1898. He was an active candidate for senatorial honors to succeed William E. Chandler.

Colonel Clarke is survived by a widow and one child, a daughter, 15 years of age, and by a host of appreciative friends and admirers, who regard his death as a personal loss to them individually and collectively.

Funeral services were held on Saturday last with a largely attended delegation from the N. H. legislative body as well as from the National House and Senate being present.

Chandler Defeated.

The downfall of Senator Chandler is generally attributed to the enemies he has made in his own party. Indeed there seems to be no other way of accounting for it. He is confessedly the ablest senator the state has had for nearly, if not quite, a generation. As far as we can learn, there is no complaint that he has not attended well to the state's interests. He has been erratic in his course upon some public questions, but amidst his constitutional nor his party have suffered from this. The trouble with him has been that, in personal affairs affecting those who have had influence in the Legislature of New Hampshire, he has insisted in having his way, and that in a headstrong manner. They have remembered it against him, and have at last combined successfully to compass his defeat. He will be missed by his associates in the Senate as one of the most forcible and effective partisan members of that body.

Mr. Chandler sent this message to his associates in Washington: "I have been run over by a railroad train."

Judge Henry E. Burnham of Manchester, the newly nominated Senator and who will doubtless be elected today in executive session at Concord, is a man who has been but little in state politics altho' he is now a member of the House of Representatives, is very much to the manner born. He first saw the light of day here, and he has passed all his life here as well as his parents before him. Moreover, he is a Dartmouth graduate, and is well thought of by all who have come in contact with him, or had acquaintance with him either in business or any other way.

Selectmen's Notice.

The Selectmen of Antrim hereby give notice that they will be in session the first Saturday in each month, at their rooms in Town hall block, to transact any and all town business.

Per order,
SELECTMEN.

The Collector of Taxes will meet with the Selectmen the same day.

His Wife Saved Him.

My wife's good advice saved my life. For I had such a bad cough I could hardly breathe. I finally gave up under doctor's treatment, but my wife urged me to use Dr. King's Remedy for Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat, and all the other ailments of the throat. I used it and I feel like a new man.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

Ex-Gov. D. H. Goodell was in Concord the last part of the past week.

A new sign is hung over the entrance to the jewelry store of F. M. Alexander.

Monday morning at Antrim station the thermometer registered 18 degrees below zero.

Mrs. E. V. Goodwin who was confined to her home by illness is much improved in health.

Master Archie Perkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Perkins, has been sick with pneumonia but is writing improving.

Several members of the encampment I. O. O. F. in this place, attended installation of the order in Hillsboro on Monday evening.

The series of meetings which have been held during the past week were brought to a close on Sunday evening by a union meeting in the Presbyterian church.

Several from here attended the 30th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Smith of Stoddard on Friday last. A goodly number were present and Mr. Smith and wife were presented with a set of crockery, glassware, cutlery, etc., and a purse of money, in a neat presentation speech by James Greene of Antrim in behalf of relatives and friends. Mr. Smith said a few words expressing his appreciation to the assembled guests.

The town received yesterday a new sidewalk plow. It looks well and it is hoped that it will prove satisfactory. It is also hoped that when it is used, the user will break out the streets most traveled; recently Jameson avenue has only been broke out about half its length, notice should be taken that this street extends from West to Summer street. Owners and occupants of houses and business places along the streets would do much for the convenience of the general public if they should take their shovel and use it on their sidewalk for about fifteen minutes or so after a snow-storm; don't wait until it would make tearing easier? It would also show a spark of public spirit.

The Mother's Favorite.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the mother's favorite. It is pleasant and safe for children to take and always cures. It is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough, and is the best medicine made for these diseases. There is not the least danger in giving it to children for it contains no opium or other injurious drug and may be given confidently to a babe as to an adult. For sale by C. H. Martin.

A Card.

Come to my store and get a twenty-five or fifty cent bottle of Greene's Warranted Syrup of Tar, and I will pay you back your money if it does not cure your cold or cough.

Old People Made Young.

J. C. Sherman the veteran editor of the Vermontville (Mich.) Echo, has discovered the remarkable secret of keeping old people young. For years he has avoided Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Indigestion, Heart trouble, Constipation and Rheumatism by using Electric Bitters, and he writes: "It can't be praised too highly. It gently stimulates the kidneys, tones the stomach, aids digestion, and gives a splendid appetite. It has worked wonders for my wife and me. It's a marvellous remedy for old people's complaints." Only 50 cents at Martin's drug store.

Blood Humors

It doesn't make any difference whether you believe in the modern theory or speak of the causes of diseases as referable to germs, microbes or bacilli, or whether you use the older and better understood terms of "humors" and "blood diseases"—Hood's Sarsaparilla cures them all.

It cures scrofula, salt rheum or eczema, catarrh, rheumatism, malaria and all other blood poisons, nervous troubles, debility and that tired feeling. This is not merely modern theory; it is solid up-to-date fact.

"Salt rheum on my hands so severe I had to wear gloves most of the time, and could not shut my thumb and finger together," writes Wm. H. Galtman, West Earl, Pa. "My three months old boy was cured of a violent case of scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla."—Wm. H. Galtman, West Earl, Pa.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Promises to cure and keeps the promise. No substitute for Hood's acts like Hood's—be sure to get Hood's.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Twenty-nine young men listened to a very interesting and helpful address last Sunday afternoon by Sec. Smith of the Concord Y. M. C. A. Forty-six men were present at the men's meeting.

At the Director's meeting on Monday evening the following officers were elected:

President—R. C. Goodell.
Vice President—H. W. Eldredge.
Treasurer—Wm. Weston, Jr.
Secretary—W. E. Prescott.

The directors have decided to extend the privileges of the rooms to all boys under 14 years until 8 o'clock.

A Prominent Chicago Woman Speaks.

Prof. Roxa Tyler, of Chicago, Vice-President Illinois Woman's Alliance, in speaking of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, says: "I suffered with severe cold this winter which threatened to run into pneumonia. I tried different remedies but I seemed to grow worse and the medicine upset my stomach. A friend advised me to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and I found it was pleasant to take and it relieved me at once. I am now entirely recovered, saved a doctor's bill, time and suffering, and I will never be without this splendid medicine again." For sale by C. H. Martin.

Cut this out and take it to Martin's drug store and get a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, the best physic. They also cure disorders of the stomach, biliousness and headache.

Beat Out of an Increase of His Pension.

A Mexican war veteran and prominent editor writes: "Seeing the advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, I am reminded that as a soldier in Mexico in '47 and '49, I contracted Mexican diarrhoea and this has kept me from getting an increase in my pension for over a year. I am now getting a new pension and I feel like a new man. It is unequalled as a quick cure for diarrhoea and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by C. H. Martin.

Old People Made Young.

J. C. Sherman the veteran editor of the Vermontville (Mich.) Echo, has discovered the remarkable secret of keeping old people young. For years he has avoided Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Indigestion, Heart trouble, Constipation and Rheumatism by using Electric Bitters, and he writes: "It can't be praised too highly. It gently stimulates the kidneys, tones the stomach, aids digestion, and gives a splendid appetite. It has worked wonders for my wife and me. It's a marvellous remedy for old people's complaints." Only 50 cents at Martin's drug store.

GEORGE F. FISH A SUICIDE.

This town was thrown into considerable excitement on Monday by the discovery that George F. Fish had committed suicide.

The facts of the case as far as can be learned are as follows: Mr. Fish was employed at the paper mill and arrived at his home Saturday morning at 5 o'clock.

The neighbors not seeing Mr. Fish at the premises and fearing that something was wrong notified the authorities and selectmen Fred H. Kimball and Royal V. Knight went to the house to investigate, finding the door locked and failing to arouse Mr. Fish they forced an entrance into the house and found him dead in bed with the top of his head blown off.

The shot gun with which the deed was done was one which he always kept loaded and suspended over the bed, and it is supposed that he reached his head on the muzzle of the gun and pulled the trigger with his toe.

Mr. Fish had been married three times and lived with his wife until she became insane. A few weeks ago he was arrested on the charge of assaulting his wife, was taken to Hillsboro, tried and sentenced to six months, which was suspended, he returned home and soon after Mrs. Fish died.

He was 45 years old and it is thought that his insanity together with his sickness caused temporary insanity and a desire in this condition he committed the deed.

He had many threats to take his life and to many his act came as no surprise; he left a note stating where some money could be found, gave directions as to his burial and stated that he had lived long enough. Beside the wife mentioned above he is survived by several children by his former marriages. Funeral services were held Tuesday.

THAT WAS DIFFERENT.

Page said there was no similarity in the two cases. "Page," asked the little boy, "do you remember the first money you ever earned?"

"Yes," said papa. "It was a nice, new, shiny 5 cent piece that old Mr. Gregg, the grocer, gave me for doing about a quarter's worth of work in carrying a load of potatoes into his cellar. I worked all Saturday afternoon to earn that nickel, and when he paid me I ran three blocks home, tired as I was, to show it."

"And did you put it in your little bank?" asked the little boy. "No; I got father's permission to spend it just as I pleased. However, I kept it for three or four days, just to have the satisfaction of having money of my own, earned by my own exertions. And if I could have bought all the things I thought of buying with that nickel I would have had about $10 worth of goods, toys, marbles and what not. Finally I made up my mind. What do you think I bought?"

"I am sure I can't guess," said the little boy. "What did you buy, papa?" "I went to the bakery and bought a custard pie."

"You never allow me to eat custard pie that way, papa," said the little boy. "Oh, that's different!" said papa. "Indiana's Press."

PAINT ON INDIAN FACES. Nearly All of It Means Something to Those Initiated.

The fact of the matter is that every part of an Indian's face is a sign with a definite meaning which other Indians may read. When an Indian puts on his full war paint, he decks himself not only with his own individual honors and distinctions won by his own bravery, but also with the special signs of his family or tribe.

Among the Indian tribes is one designated by the symbol of the dogfish, painted in red on the face. The various parts of the fish are scattered heterogeneously on the surface of the face; the peculiarly long snout is painted on the forehead; the gills are represented by two curved lines below the eyes, while the tail is shown as cut in two and hanging from either nostril.

Very peculiar are some of the honorable symbols painted on the Indians' faces. There are fish, flesh and fowl of all kinds, dog, cat, owl, rabbit, starfish, woodpecker, eagle, raven, wolves, bears, sea lions and sea monsters, mosquitoes, frogs, mountain goats and all manner of foot, claw or beak marks—each with a special meaning of its own.—Pearson's Magazine.

He Got Some Work to Do. "Prisoner," said the learned magistrate to a lazy fellow before him, "this is the third time you've been here."

"But, your honor," pleaded the prisoner, "I've been trying to get work, but couldn't."

"You wouldn't work if you could get it?" "Yes, I would, your honor."

"What kind of work?" "Anything, your honor, so long as it was honest work."

"What kind of wages?" "Wages is no object, your honor; all I want is work, with food and clothing and shelter."

"And you'd work if you had that sort of a job?" "Indeed, I would, your honor; only try me," and the tears actually came into his eyes.

"Very well," said the magistrate kindly, "we'll give you a job with shelter, food and clothing combined. Six months' hard labor. Next case."—Tit-Bits.

Asparagus With Oil. Fontenelle, who was passionately fond of asparagus with oil, invited to dinner an able dog, and invited to dine with butter. Mindful of hospitable obligations, M. Fontenelle had given orders that half the dish should be served one way, half the other.

The Expert. "Do you think those two letters were written by the same person?" "I really couldn't say," answered the handwriting expert.

Particular About His Name. "Don't drag my name into print in connection with this absurd affair!" cried the indignant citizen. "But if you do be sure to spell out my middle name in full."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Rheumatism.

Nobody knows all about it; and nothing, now known, will always cure it.

Doctors try Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, when they think it is caused by imperfect digestion of food. You can do the same.

It may or may not be caused by the failure of stomach and bowels to do their work. It is, you will cure it; if no one will do no harm.

The way, to cure a disease is to stop its cause, and help the body get back to its habit of health.

When Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil does that, it cures; when it don't, it don't cure. It never does harm.

The genuine has this picture on it, take no other. If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

is not to be confounded with any of the cheap "elixirs" and "cough syrups." Such remedies (so called) simply soothe the sufferer. They are mere palliatives. They never touch the root of the disease or cure a chronic cough. Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a real remedy; it is the prescription of a practical physician, not the preparation of an irresponsible medicine maker.

Cures

and all colds, coughs, and lung diseases. It's a standard and a staple remedy, and should be kept on hand in every household.

"About a year ago I had an attack of bronchitis, accompanied by a dry, hacking cough. This soon developed into quick consumption. I had heard of the curative properties of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and commenced using that medicine at once. Before I had taken one-third of a bottle I felt better, and in a short time I was entirely cured." W. A. COCKER, Allis, Ark.

"I caught a bad cold which resulted in asthma so severe that I was threatened with suffocation whenever I attempted to lie down in bed. A friend recommended Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I began to take it, and soon obtained relief, and finally was completely cured. Since then I have used this medicine in my family with great success for colds, coughs, and croup." S. HUTTER, Editor Relief, Stevens' Point, Wis.

"I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs and did not yield to the various remedies I tried. I had noticed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral extensively advertised where I had traveled, and decided to give it a trial. I purchased two bottles, and before I had finished the first one I was almost cured, and I am now in perfect health. My work subjects me to very severe weather, but I find that a timely dose of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will serve as a preventive against colds and coughs." CHAS. HULL, Whortley Road, London, Eng.

BENNINGTON, N. H.

January Bargain Chances.

Under ordinary circumstances the man offering you gold dollars at 50c is a doubtful fellow to do business with, but there are periods in business when selling goods at cost and even below cost, is a necessary step. We have taken stock in our Clothing Department, and we must take that step, we are overstocked. We have had a successful season still we have lots of excellent goods that for some reason have not moved as we would like to see them. Perhaps we bought too heavy, whatever the reason they are here and must be sold. We never carry over our stock and for this reason our goods are always new and up-to-date. We have no old goods on our counters. We now offer to the people of Bennington and surrounding towns Our Entire Line of

MRS. GALLUP MOURNS

A SIGN WARS HER THAT HER TIME HAS ABOUT COME.

So Between Sets She Has a Little One State Talk With Her Devoted Husband About the Home and the Things That Are in It.

(Copyright, 1900, by C. R. Lewis.)

When supper had been concluded, Mr. Gallup sat down to read a pamphlet descriptive of the Wiggins washing machine, and Mrs. Gallup flung a shawl over her head and ran over to a neighbor to give warning that her chicken pox had broken out in a town only ten miles away and would probably sweep the whole country before it could be staid. It was hardly a quarter of an hour before she returned, and her first act was to go forward to the lounge and roll over three times before she got settled down into a comfortable position to do some weeping. Her conduct ought to have attracted immediate attention, but it didn't. Mr. Gallup was reading the description of the sole inventor and proprietor of the Wiggins washing machine had saved the public 1,000,000 pounds of soap in the last year, and the family clock might have stopped without his taking notice of it. When about 50 sets and signs and greens had failed to arouse him, Mrs. Gallup sat up and said: "Samuel, you know I went over to see Mrs. Taylor. As she has 'leven children and is allus willin' to lend me her notions, I thought it only right to let her that the whole 'leven might be taken down with chicken pox any minute. I hadn't hardly got my mouth open before she bust into tears and put her arm around me. She wasn't cryin' on account of the chicken pox, but on account of I had bad news for her, but she had better for me. 'Don't you want to know what it was?' Mr. Gallup didn't. He was reading a testimonial from the wife of a governor that the Wiggins washer had brought joy to her household and was deaf to the outside world. Mrs. Gallup waited a reasonable time for a reply and then she said: "The news she had to tell me, Samuel, was that I had but three days to live. If I had had news for her she would have come over here, as she thought I ought to be makin' ready. That's Mrs. Taylor all over. She's allus doin' sunthin' for other folks. You must remember when Sary Ann Spogee died? And you remember when the 'nigger' was booked to death by a cow? Well, Mrs. Taylor had warnin' three days ahead that both of 'em was goin' to perish. Her clock suddenly stopped with a white-r-r-r, and both hands p'inted in a certain direction. 'What's that a general thing, the clock stoppin' ag'in and the hands p'intin' right toward our house. That meant me. In three days from now I'll be sailin' around among the clouds.' Mr. Gallup didn't dispute it. He was reading that the Wiggins washer would do the work of ten women at the washboard, and he was giving the inventor credit for being a bigger man than P. T. Barnum or Dan Rice.

"I'm glad it's come, Samuel," continued Mrs. Gallup in more cheerful tones. "You need a new hanger. I expect to die any minute for the last 25 years, and it has kinder kept me up-sot. You'll be glad, too, because you don't like the smell of camphor and mustard plasters around you. You may feel a little lone some, but with play days after it's gone, but with play checkers goin' to the debate society and lookin' around for a second wife you'll soon chirp up and git your appetite back. I ain't goin' to ask you who you shall take for your second wife, but before I go I want you to talk with me about the house. Will you talk with me, Samuel?"

Mr. Gallup refused to commit himself. That Wiggins washer was being sold for $10 when other and inferior machines were foliated on for $25, $15, and he was tryin' to himself that Wiggins ought to have the gratitude of the nation. Mrs. Gallup shed seven or eight tears, caught a sob between her teeth and went on:

"In the first place, the oven door to the stove needs a new hinge. It got broke seven years ago, but I have got along with it so as to save expense. Then the snout is broke off our two quart pitcher, and the handle is off the gallon jug. If I was goin' to stay right along on earth, I shouldn't tell you that we ought to buy a new set of 'spoon or that there are three holes in the dishpan, but I'm goin' fur, fur away, and your second wife won't put up with things as I hev. We are still sleepin' on the same feather bed mottin' gave me when we was married, and the feathers ought to be new tickin'. If I was to live on, I could make the old sheets do fur a year more; but as it is, I guess you'll hev to buy at least two. You ought to hev some pillowslaps too. Down cellar you'll need half a barrel of soft soap, two jars of peach pickles and six gallons of apple butter. I hope your second wife will be as careful of 'em as I hev bin. Many a time I hev wanted a peach pickle in the middle of the afternoon, but I wouldn't go down arter it and be a pig. Did I tell you about the cider strainer, Samuel?"

Mr. Gallup was holding his breath over the statement that the Wiggins washer washed a shirt for the governor of Arizona in 18 seconds, and of course he didn't answer; but no good. "The old I tell you and you might as well throw it away. Before you marry ag'in you ought to fix the leak in the roof, git a new pump for the well, whitewash the kitchen and buy a new mop handle. First wifin can git along most any way and make one mop last for 20 years, but second wifin begin to kick right away. I ain't tellin' you these things because I'm jealous. Samuel, but because I'm givin' you a hint. I don't want you to be a fool."

of socks, eye collars and two nankeen-chiefs in the bureau, and hangin' up one old hat. In the top drawer of the bureau you'll find a piece of canvas for your hat, and in the bottom drawer is some farrowl versus I writ out a year ago. I don't owe none of the naybars no tea or coffee or sugar, and none of 'em owes me anything. Now, that's all, and if you want to kiss me and say you're sorry I've got to go and hope I'll meet you some day, then I'm ready."

She looked full at Mr. Gallup for the first time. His eyes were still glued to that pamphlet. It was stated that the Wiggins washer was so constructed that it could be attached to a potato slicer or an apple parer and no reader's interest could help but grow.

Mrs. Gallup waited 60 seconds for an answer, and then as none came she softly rose up and went into the kitchen and began to get things ready for breakfast. She had been gone ten minutes when Mr. Gallup smiled. He didn't smile because he heard her singing a verse of "The Old Oaken Bucket," but because Mr. Wiggins finished his pamphlet with the declaration that no matter who wrote the poetry of the sole inventor and proprietor of the shirts of the nation.

WEST WIND.

The years go by, though the days are long to a hungry heart. I was feeling content last night before the wind from the rainy west, toasting the wet, green logs; it came and nudged me; it filled my soul with a thousand woes.

O wind from over the sea, voice from a dear land lost, why need you seek me here, waking the old time pain? My life is hard enough; there is not much joy to spare. My heart must break or follow if you call me like that again!

O wind from across the wave, wet with the wild sea spray, were you not free, like you, I never would ask to roam.

From the farling land you left and the scent of the heath clad wind first to the hills of home? Do you come to break my heart, dear wind from the hills of home?—Winifred Paton in Spectator.

GREASE AT LAUNCHINGS.

The Cost of Getting a Battleship Into the Water.

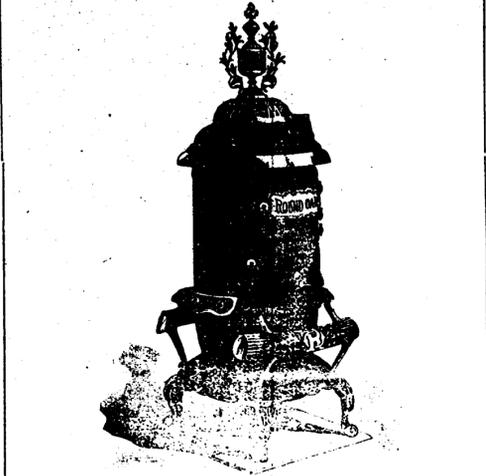

"The mere act of getting a war vessel into the water costs a lot of money, time and trouble," said an engineer, speaking of the recent launching of several new torpedo boats. "I spent a year and a half in the designing room of the 'Cramp' yard, and he continued, 'and happen to know what I am talking about. Of course the launching of a little torpedo boat is comparatively easy, and the cost is not over a few hundred dollars, including flowers and champagne used in the christening. But when it comes to a big armored cruiser or a first class battleship it is a horse of a different color, and the actual expense seldom falls below $4,000 or $5,000. I've known it to go as high as $8,000."

"The building of the ways for the ship to slide down over is the main item, and then comes the greasing. Every inch of timber over which the vessel slides must be covered with a lubricant. Different firms use different substances, but soap and tallow forms the best. The 'Cramp' yard used a layer of beef tallow and a layer of soft soap, and taken together, between 1 and 1 1/2 tons of the stuff were required to put a move on the average battleship. The 'Cramp' yard used a layer of soft soap and a layer of tallow, and the workmen use big fat trowels to make the surface as smooth as possible. Then they pour over the soft soap, which is just thick enough to run, or about the consistency of tar.
