CHARLES O. WOODS.

Prominent Citizen Dies Saturday at His Home at The Branch.

The sad though not unexpected death of Charles O. Woods occurred last Saturday, July 22, at his home at the Branch. Mr. Woods had been ill for a long time but bore his sickness with a brave and patient fortitude that was truly pathetic. The whole community is in mourning; Charles was our friend; he was a good man, too good to be taken away when he is so much needed in his family and the community.

Mr. Woods was born in Windsor, April 7, 1863; he leaves a wife and three children.

Mr. Woods has faithfully served the town as a public official, having been Selectman, Road Agent, and a member of the Board of Health.

The funeral services were held at the house Monday afternoon, Dr. Cochrane who officiated, spoke cheering words to the family and friends, and paid a touching tribute to the deceased.

A quartette, Mrs. Nims, Mrs. Whittle, Messrs. Carpenter and Little sang several appropriate selections. Beautiful flowers from friends far and near were in abundance.

Death of Mrs. C. A. Brackett.

Mrs. Juliette, wife of Dr. Clarence A. Brackett, who formerly lived for many years in Antrim on the old Brackett place, and a few years since removed to Chelsea, Mass., died there on Saturday last as a result of heat prostration. She was taken ill Tuesday and gradually grew worse when Thursday she was taken to the hospital where she died early Saturday morning. Deceased is remembered by many in this vicinity as a woman of pleasing manner and a retiring disposition, and her death comes as a heavy blow to her husband who is somewhat broken in health in his declining years. Mrs. Brackett was 64 years of age. The body was brought to town Monday for interment in North Branch cemetery. The bereaved husband has the sympathy of many friends in this section in his affliction.

Remedy for Hay Fever.

After Trying Other Treatments, Hyomei Was Used With Perfect Success.

Before the discovery of Hyomei the only advise a physician could give his hay fever patients, was to go away from home, but now anyone who is subject to this disease can, if Hyomei is used, stay at home without fear of the annual attack of sneezing, watery eyes, and other discomforts.

J. F. Forbes, a well known Western railroad man, whose home is at McCook, Nebraska, writes "I have never had any relief from any remedy for hay fever, even temporarily, until I discovered the merits of Hyomei. I always recommend it when occasion requires."

There is no offensive or dangerous stomach dosing when Hyomei is used. This reliable remedy for the cure of all diseases of the respiratory organs is breathed through a neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, so that the air taken into the throat and lungs is like that of the White Mountains or other health resorts, where hay fever is unknown.

The fact that W. F. Dickey agrees to refund the money to any hay fever sufferer who uses Hyomei without success, should inspire confidence in its power to effect a cure. A complete outfit costs only $1.00 and extra bottles but 50 cents.

What sort of a man is Klosefist? Well, he's rather tight, except when he happens to get tight, and then he loosens up a bit.—Pittsburg Post.

$100 Reward $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitutation and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

My Lord and His Daughter

By CONSTANCE TYLER

Copyright, 1905, by T. C. McClure

Mr. Thomas Hope of Chelmsford was not only the proprietor of Hope's bank, the owner of three or four factories and the recognized business head of the town, but he was president of three or four societies and charities and of high standing as a church member. Whatever Mr. Thomas Hope said or did was always the correct thing. He and his wife could have existed without Chelmsford, but had they departed for other climes that town would have died—socially.

It happened that Mr. Hope had to make a trip to Paris in financial interests. He spoke to no one on his way over. Several strangers dropped remarks to which he could have replied consistently, but he held himself aloof with true British reserve. When British reserve has money behind it, it is a stone wall. Mr. Hope might have replied to an earl or a lord had such a personage addressed him and had he been certain that there was no imposition. The banker shuddered as he looked over the common travelers.

Mr. Hope was not impressed with Paris. He had been there before. It was his duty to impress Paris instead, and when he departed, after a stay of three or four days, he felt sure that he had done so and was very complacent over it. This self complacency served to a certain extent to thaw out his reserve. That is, he deigned to show himself among his fellow passengers on the boat instead of locking himself up in his stateroom, but at the same time he let it be seen that his dignity was not to be trifled with.

Suddenly something happened to the great man. A good looking young woman approached him and, addressing him as "My lord," asked the privilege of speech. Never before in his life had he been addressed by a young woman—a strange young woman. His dignity would have received a fatal shock had she not used the prefix. His flattered vanity offset the shock. His wife had several times averred that he looked like an earl, and now here was living proof that she was right. He put up his eyeglass and gave the young woman a critical glance and indicated by a cold bow that she might proceed.

She had a story to tell. She was an English governess who had passed the last three years in a Parisian family. As she had great property expectations the family wanted her to marry one of the sons. Because she would not—because she had said that as an English girl she would not marry an enemy of her country—she had been charged with purloining certain articles of jewelry and driven from the house. The incensed family might even seek her arrest.

It was a pathetic story, with many embellishments, and Mr. Hope's heart was touched—his British heart. It wasn't touched because the young woman was good looking, but because she had continually addressed him as "My lord" and had appealed to him as the British lion itself. She wanted his protection while landing. That French family might have set the minions of law at work and she might be arrested and haled back to Paris and thrust into a dungeon for years without trial. Under the protection of "My lord," what officer of the law would dare look twice at her? If they looked many times it would mean war between the two countries.

Thomas Hope listened, was flattered, and his head and dignity became as putty. For the first time in twenty years he had some human feeling about him. He came out of his shell and discovered that there were joints in his backbone. Had that young woman made the mistake of appealing to him as "Mr." or even as "Viscount" her petition would have been ignored, but that little trick of "My lord" worked like a miracle. She should land under his protection, and if any one interfered with him war and all its horrors would burst on the country within two hours. Thanking him over and over again and with tears in her eyes as she repeated her thanks, the young woman returned to her [illegible] and made some [illegible] changes in her attire. Shortly afterward the boat reached its dock on the English side of the channel.

Mr. Hope was ready to rise to the occasion, and the girl walked ashore leaning on his arm. He had a cane in the other hand, his monocle in his eye, and he walked erect. He was the British empire!

While the baggage was being inspected there was a delay—that is, others were delayed. As for Mr. Hope and the young woman hanging on his arm, they walked up to a customs inspector. A card was produced and thrust into his hand along with a Bank of England note, and there was no inspection of the [illegible] four trunks. It never occurred to "My lord" that a girl flying from enemies would hardly have four great trunks along with her. He saw them loaded into a van which was suspiciously convenient and was about to hand his protegee into a cab and resume his interrupted dignity when they were approached by a common looking British subject with what looked like a warrant in his hand.

"Excuse me, please"— he had begun when Mr. Hope interrupted him with:

"Sir, are you addressing me?"

"Y-yes, sir. I have here a warrant for the arrest of"—

"A warrant, sir?"

"Yes, sir. A warrant for"—

"What have I to do with you and your warrants, sir?" thundered Mr. Hope.

"But I"—

"That is enough, sir! There is my card. I will communicate with the government at once regarding this outrage. I will see whether British citizens must submit to such humiliation while traveling about in a peaceful manner."

"But may I ask, sir"— persisted the officer as he nodded his head toward the young woman.

"You may, sir," replied Mr. Hope, rising to the occasion. "This young lady is my daughter, sir!"

"Then I beg a thousand pardons—a thousand pardons, sir," said the abashed officer.

The cab drove off. Mr. Hope raised his hat in answer to the smile and the "God bless you," and he never, never again saw the distressed English governess who had been obliged to flee from the enemies of her country. He resumed his dignity and boarded a train for home, and to make up for having temporarily thawed out he greeted Mrs. Hope with a grunt as he arrived.

Three days later a man who would not be denied had an interview with him in his private sanctum at the bank. The great Mr. Hope met him with a glare and a frown and began to read him a lesson on his impudence in interrupting business men when they were engaged in financiering the government of Great Britain. But at the end of a very brief quarter of an hour the banker was a much humbled man. He learned that he had assisted a noted character to escape with four trunks full of plunder from a daring Paris robbery and that he had lied to do it. Not only did the breath of scandal menace his name, but the law was after him in several directions. Even being Mr. Hope of Chelmsford would not save him.

Mr. Hope had to go up to London, accompanied by his solicitors. He had to tell his story to police officials and others and submit to criticism. He had to advertise a reward for the capture of the young woman, and he had to sign statements and affidavits until he was tired of them. Being the great Mr. Hope he managed to get his neck out of the noose after much bother, but the authorities did not succeed in arresting his "daughter."

Answering the Emperor.

The following story of Kaiser William II. and one of his generals is told by a biographer of the German emperor:

At a review in Berlin the kaiser impatiently reprimanded old General von Meerscheidt for losing his wits at a critical moment.

"If your majesty thinks I am getting too old, I beg of you to allow me to resign."

"No, no," replied the emperor. "You are too young to resign. Indeed if your blood didn't course through your veins quite so fast you would be a more useful army leader."

On the evening of that day the kaiser and the general met at a court ball. The general was talking to some young ladies.

"Ah, Meerscheidt," cried the emperor, "that is right. Get ready to marry. Take a young wife, then that excitable temperament of yours will soon vanish."

The general bowed low as he retorted:

"I beg to be excused, your majesty. A young emperor and a young wife would be more than I could possibly stand."

Floating Homesteads.

On all the great lakes of China are found floating islands, which are enormous rafts of bamboo, overlaid with earth and upholding above the surface of the water pretty houses and gardens. They are, in fact, aquatic farms, bearing crops of rice and vegetables. The rich bottom mud, utilized as an artificial soil, is extremely fertile and yields bountiful harvests, though on a small scale. In a country where there is such a lack of available land owing to the overplus of population these floating plantations are most serviceable, large sails being attached to the dwelling house as well as to each corner of the island whenever it is desired to move about. After gathering a crop of grain or garden truck from the surface of the lake the floating farmer [illegible] into the water [illegible] from [illegible] brings up a supply of fish for his family.

TWO SIZES 50c & $1.00

A Physician healed, now prescribes it daily.

DR. GEO. EWING, a practicing physician of Smith's Grove, Ky., for over thirty years, writes his personal experience with Foley's Kidney Cure: "For years I have been greatly bothered with kidney and bladder trouble and enlarged prostate gland. I used everything known to the profession without relief, until I commenced to use Foley's Kidney Cure. After taking three bottles I was entirely relieved and cured. I prescribe it now daily in my practice and heartily recommend its use to all physicians for such troubles, for I can honestly state I have prescribed it in hundreds of cases with perfect success."

Pets the Sailors' Joy.

Animal pets have ever been a great joy to the average sailor. There is hardly a ship afloat that does not carry one or more such little favorites to whom the crew are universally kind. More than this, there is frequently developed an attachment between men and animals that is seldom to be seen on shore, and the intelligence displayed by these animals often far exceeds the wonderful stories we sometimes see in print. On men-of-war there is probably no consideration shown the crew in this regard than on merchantmen; at all events you will find there many more ship's pets. It is by no means uncommon to see upon the same deck a dozen or more well trained animals of various kinds whose natural homes are separated by thousands of miles.—St. Nicholas.

Turning the Tables.

Pliny tells us that the phrase "turning the tables" arose from the extravagance of the Romans. In the time of Augustus men of wealth spent fabulous sums of money on tables of costly material, such as ivory, gold, silver, marble and highly prized woods, especially the citrus wood of Mount Atlas. These last were called tigrine, or pantherine, from the spotted appearance of the grain, as our birdseye maple takes its name. Cicero, a man of moderate means, gave nearly 20,000 for one. Hence when the gentlemen charged the ladies with extravagance in jewels, especially pearls, the ladies retorted on their lords by pointing to the vast sums spent on tables and thus literally "turned the tables" upon them.

Like the "ill wind," volcanoes can have their uses. An eruption in Guatemala three years ago spread a layer of ashes over the coffee belt, and this year the crop exceeds in quality and quantity any yield of recent times. Now let the natives do their own fertilizing and not wait for Providence to bless them. Providence can get tired too.

CORRECT ATTIRE.

He Who Dresses In Good Taste Shows That He Respects Himself.

When our country was in the log cabin stage of its growth correct dress was not held in high regard, and obviously so. The stout hearted pioneers were too busy hewing paths and blazing trails to cultivate life's finer side. Theirs was the rough work of the axe and camp, of hammer and saw. The times, men and manners have changed and a new conception of dress has sprung up. Young men of to-day recognize the direct relation of correct dress in business and social progress. The well dressed man commends his introduction with himself as a man [illegible] of himself and of the [illegible]. He commands the respect of others because he shows that he respects himself.

It is true that there are some men of wealth and position who [illegible] clothes and even some who feign to scorn the niceties of dress. The habits of a careless youth have left their imprint on such men, and it is quite certain that their disdain of dress played no part in their success and detracts measurably from their enjoyment of it, for, after all, the ripest fruit of success is the esteem of one's fellows, and who can esteem the sloven? In talking to a man one's attention naturally roves to his clothes, his hair, his teeth and his finger nails. Dandruff on the shoulder, stains on the waistcoat and unshaven face, untidy hair, creases in the coat, a soiled collar, a mussed cravat, proclaim in trumpet tones that a man lacks the truest refinement—respect of self.—Success.

The flag which will greet the veterans at Denver is the biggest in the world. It is 115 feet long by 55 feet wide and weighs a quarter of a ton. As it is too big to be swung to the breeze it will be stretched across the front of a five story building.

They All

Stomach Trouble

Could Not Retain Food and Medicine Did No Lasting Good—Dyspepsia Cured by Hood's.

"My stomach was in very bad condition and I could not retain food. My husband paid out a great deal of money for medicine that did not do me any lasting good. About a year ago I commenced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it has cured me. I am now able to eat anything I wish." MRS. LOTTIE E. YOUNG, Stratford, New Hampshire.

"I was troubled with dyspepsia and did not obtain relief from the prescriptions I tried. A friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I procured a bottle and found it to be just the medicine I needed. It did my stomach more good than any other medicine I ever took and I think it is truly wonderful." MRS. JAMES GORMAN, Riverton, N. Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

The location of the Massachusetts leper hospital has at last been decided upon, says an exchange, the state board of charity having purchased the island of Penikez, in Buzzard's Bay, from George S. and Frederick A. Homer for $25,000. It is expected that the hospital will be ready for occupancy sometime in the autumn.

The people may be heard from later, and possibly a new location may be considered advisable.

Important Officials.

Under the above caption appeared the following item of interest to our readers, and especially those interested in the town's early history, and is taken from the Youth's Companion of July 20:

"Whether the officers mentioned by Mr. Whiton in his 'History of Antrim' (New Hampshire) regarded their position seriously and lived up to their official dignity is not told. It is certain that the small boys would have hailed the opportunity of exercising such functions with glee, and would have discharged their duties with vigor and alacrity.

In 1783 the town of Antrim officially appointed three responsible persons to fill the position of 'dog-pelters.' [illegible] duty to [illegible] door and [illegible] cane any dogs that came to enter [illegible] [illegible]"

The Souvenir Postal Card.

In the postoffice department's crusade against impurity in the mails attention has been directed to questionable souvenir postal cards.

Daily the offices of the general superintendent of the city and rural free delivery are in receipt of scores of these pieces of brilliantly printed cardboard, having a tendency towards the immoral, obscene or profane. They are sent in by argus eyed mail carriers, postal clerks or postmasters all over the country, in conformity with instructions of the postmaster general that such missives must not be delivered to the person addressed.

Hundreds of designs, just a trifle "off color," but which may be seen exhibited in windows of reputable stores in city, town and hamlet, are among the tabooed. The fellow who blows in his penny for the card that bears the inscription, "I'm having a devil of a time," with the devil represented by a flaming red figure of his satanic majesty, will be greatly disappointed when he learns that the cent stamp affixed carried his cheerful message to Postmaster General Cortelyou, instead of to his chum back at Jonesville.

A Surprise Party.

A pleasant surprise party may be given to your stomach and liver, by taking a medicine which will relieve their pain and discomfort, viz: Dr King's New Life Pills. They are a most wonderful remedy, affording sure relief and cure for headache, dizziness and constipation. 25c at Dickey's drug store.

The Delineator.

From the standpoint of fashion the August Delineator is a most attractive number, portraying the midsummer styles in all their charm and variety; and it contains, besides the fashions, many features of interest to the general reader and practical householder. The first chapters of a new serial story by Helen M. Winslow is an item of note; it is called "At Spinster Farm" and relates the actual experience of a woman who forsook the busy city for the countryside and found there real peace and happiness. "The Lucky Piece" is continued, and there are also short stories by Cyrus Townsend Brady and Lynn Roby Meekins. Of general interest are articles on "Old-Fashioned Timepiece," and "Old-Time Summer Resorts," and on Martin Luther's famous hymn "A Mighty Fortress is Our God." Mothers will find Dr. Murray's paper on "Feeding the Child" well worth reading, and for the children themselves there are entertaining stories and pastimes, including an "Animal Fairy Tale" by L. Frank Baum, and a "Son Riley Rabbit" story. House plans, and housefurnishing ideas and suggestions in cookery and other housewifely matters complete the number, which is of much interest throughout.

Letter to Hon. D. H. Goodell,
Antrim, N. H.

Dear Sir: Mr———— President of a cotton-mill at Union, S. C.—he don't want to see his name in print—had two offers of 500 gallons of paint: $1.30 and $1.25. Took the $1.25; and got skinned. He'd have got three-quarters skinned if he'd taken the other.

The $1.30 was full-gallon; the $1.25 was 18 per cent. short. The full-measure paint was adalterated forty per cent.; the short-measure paint was adulterated forty-five per cent., besides benzine in the oil, don't know how much.

Devoe lead and zinc wasn't sold in the town then.

It don't pay to monkey with paint. Devoe costs less than any of 'em: not by the gallon, of course; by the house and year. That's how to reckon it. Go by the name.

Yours truly,

The Souvenir Postal Card.

In the postoffice department's crusade against impurity in the mails attention has been directed to questionable souvenir postal cards.

Daily the offices of the general superintendent of the city and rural free delivery are in receipt of scores of these pieces of brilliantly printed cardboard having a tendency toward the immoral, obscene or profane. They are sent in by argus eyed mail carriers, postal clerks or postmasters all over the country in conformity with instructions of the postmaster general that such missives must not be delivered to the person addressed.

Hundreds of designs, just a trifle "off color," but which may be seen exhibited in windows of reputable stores in city, town and hamlet, are among the tabooed. The fellow who blows in his penny for the card that bears the inscription, "I'm having a devil of a time," with the devil represented by a flaming red figure of his satanic majesty, will be greatly disappointed when he learns that the cent stamp affixed carried his cheerful message to Postmaster General Cortelyou, instead of to his chum back at Jonesville.

A Surprise Party.

A pleasant surprise party may be given to your stomach and liver, by taking a medicine which will relieve their pain and discomfort, viz: Dr. King's New Life Pills. Dear Sir: Mr——— President of a cotton-mill at Union, S C—he don't want to see his name in print—had two offers of 500 gallons of paint: $1.30 and $1.25. Took the $1 25; and got skinned. He'd have got three-quarters skinned if he'd taken the other

The $1.30 was full-gallon; the $1 25 was 18 per cent. short. The full-measure paint was adulterated forty per cent.; the short-measure paint was adulterated forty-five per cent, besides benzine in the oil, don't know how much.

Devoe lead and zinc wasn't sold in the town then.

It don't pay to monkey with paint

Devoe costs less than any of 'em: not by the gallon, of course; by the house and years: That's how to reckon it. Go by the name.

Important Officials.

Under the above caption appeared the following item of interest to our readers, and especially those interested in the town's early history, and is taken from the Youth's Companion of July 20:

"Whether the officers mentioned by Mr. Whiton in his 'History of Antrim' (New Hampshire) regarded their position seriously and lived up to their official dignity is not told. It is certain that the small boys would have hailed the opportunity of exercising such functions with glee, and would have discharged their duties with vigor and alacrity.

In 1793 the town of Antrim officially appointed three responsible persons to fill the position of 'dog-pelters.' It was their duty to sit near the meeting-house door and to 'pelt,' drive away or cane any dogs that dared to enter the sacred edifice. In the official records of the town are found votes of subsequent years, continuing the vocation of the dog pelters.

One might question which would make the most disturbance in the church, the chased dog, or the 'pelters' in the exercise of their official duties."

The Souvenir Postal Card.

In the postoffice department's crusade against impurity in the mails attention has been directed to questionable souvenir postal cards.

Daily the offices of the general superintendent at the city and rural free delivery are in receipt of scores of these pieces of brilliantly printed cardboard, having a tendency towards the immoral, obscene or profane. They are sent in by argus eyed mail carriers, postal clerks or postmasters all over the country, in conformity with instructions of the postmaster general that such missives must not be delivered to the person addressed.

Hundreds of designs, just a trifle "off color," but which may be seen exhibited in windows of reputable stores in city, town and hamlet, are among the tabooed. The fellow who blows in his penny for the card that bears the inscription, "I'm having a devil of a time," with the devil represented by a flaming red figure of his satanic majesty, will be greatly disappointed when he learns that the cent stamp affixed carried his cheerful message to Postmaster General Cortelyou, instead of to his chum back at Jonesville.

A Surprise Party.

A pleasant surprise party may be given to your stomach and liver, by taking a medicine which will relieve their pain and discomfort, viz: Dr. King's New Life Pills. They are a most wonderful remedy, affording sure relief and cure, for headache, dizziness and constipation. 25c at Dickey's drug store.

Letter to Hon. D. H. Goodell,
Antrim, N. H.

Dear Sir: Mr.——— President of a cotton-mill at Union, S C —he don't want to see his name in print—had two offers of 500 gallons of paint: $1.30 and $1 25. Took the $1 25; and got skinned. He'd have got three-quarters skinned if he'd taken the other.

The $1 30 was full-gallon; the $1 25 was 18 per cent. short. The full-measure paint was adulterated forty per cent; the short-measure paint was adulterated forty-five per cent, besides benzine in the oil, don't know how much.

Devoe lead and zinc wasn't sold in the town then.

It don't pay to monkey with paint. Devoe costs less than any of 'em: not by the gallon, of course; by the house and year. That's how to reckon it. Go by the name.

Yours truly,

The wagon was badly demolished; the horse was somewhat hurt, but doing well at this writing.

A temperance meeting will be held at the Congregational church Sunday evening next. All cordially invited to attend.

A HOME GATHERING.

Maple Farm, in this town, was the scene of rejoicing on July 28, when was held a home gathering after years of separation.

Forty-six years ago last April a family of two sat at table, and on this occasion it took two tables to accommodate the family, now numbering twenty-one.

Twenty years have passed since Macajah George and wife, Lucy Rogers, have enjoyed having all their six children together at table, and it was a merry group that gathered round that "groaning board" and chatted the pleasant hours away. There were present Carrie, who married Frank Smith, and their five children, from Antrim; Henry, who lives with his parents; Edward, wife and two children, from Antrim; Alonzo, wife and son, from Granville, N. Y.; Alice, from Lowell, Mass.; Emma, wife of Arthur Holt, and daughter, from Francestown.

It was a late hour before the circle broke and the children started for their own homes. Many were the wishes for more happy returns of the day.

Cure for Hay Fever.

W. F. Dickey Says Hyomei Will Give Relief—Sold Under Guarantee.

The season for hay fever is almost at hand, and many people feel that they will be obliged to go away in order to avoid the sneezing, watery eyes, and other annoying symptoms of this disagreeable summer disease.

W. F. Dickey wishes us to announce when Hyomei is used as a preventive, or a cure, there will be no hay fever. He advises daily treatment with Hyomei for two or three weeks before the usual time for the annual appearance of hay fever. If this is done, the attack will be prevented. However, if the preventive treatment is not started soon enough, and the disease makes its appearance, use Hyomei six or seven times daily, and relief will come at once

There is no stomach dosing when Hyomei is used. Breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, its medicated air reaches the minutest air cells, killing all germs and soothing and healing the irritated mucous membrane.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1, extra bottles 50 cents. It is the only treatment for hay fever sold by W. F. Dickey under a guarantee to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

We learn that the estate of Aunt Harriett Preston has been sold to a lady from Washington, D C.

Last Saturday that which was very near a serious accident occurred in this village. As Mr. Doolittle and family were entering a carriage, the horse started leaving Mr. Doolittle without control of the animal. Mr. Doolittle jumped or was thrown from the carriage, striking on his face in the hard road; the wheels most likely ran over his face, which produced bad wounds. The telephone was brought into use, and in less than three-fourths of an hour medical aid was in attendence and rendered aid to Mr. Doolittle No bones were broken but a badly ruptured face. He is doing finely and will be out in a few days The horse ran with Mrs. Sawyer and Mrs. Doolittle in the carriage, but by the courage of Mrs. Doolittle, who jumped from the carriage and stopped the runaway, a more serious accident was averted.

EAST ANTRIM.

Mrs. Mills and Miss Hattie Mills of Roxbury, have arrived at Mountain View house.

Ed. Roker was called to Winchester on account of the illness of his mother; he returned Monday.

We have been much interested in the Civic Camp, located on R. F. D. Route No 2, just over the line in Hillsboro, on the Chas. Gibson farm, and thinking something of its purposes, plans, etc., might be of interest have procured the following facts. The camp is composed of some 35 young people, and is known as Hartford Civic Camp: this is their 7th summer in camp, spending two summers in northern Mass., one summer in northern N Y., and four summers in New Hampshire. Purpose, educational advantages and physical upbuilding General plan of life: Routine of life based upon laws made by members in parliamentary meeting Officers of Camp, President, General Secretary and Captain. Boys rank in school life from 6th grade to senior year in high school. Domestic life is upon co-operative plans to extent of accomplishing the light duties. Experienced cook supplies abundant and suitable food for table; Minor military regulations; Certain hours set aside for study; Remainder of time at disposal of the boys, and is spent in games and athletic work, swimming, fishing, tramps, etc. Evenings given to music, debates, indoor games, readings, recitations, visits, entertainment of friends, etc. Camp field supplied with tents, base ball, tennis, croquet, camp fire, "evening roasts," mostly potatoes. Last year they camped at Stoddard, and are enthusiastic over their camp this summer.

Backache, "The Blues"

Both Symptoms of Organic Derangement in Women—Thousands of Sufferers Find Relief.

How often do we hear women say: "It seems as though my back would break," or "Don't speak to me, I am all out of sorts?" These significant remarks prove that the system requires attention.

Backache and "the blues" are direct symptoms of an inward trouble which will sooner or later declare itself. It may be caused by diseased kidneys or some uterine derangement. Nature requires assistance and at once, and Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound instantly asserts its curative powers in all those peculiar ailments of women. It has been the standby of intelligent American women for twenty years, and the ablest specialists agree that it is the most universally successful remedy for woman's ills known to medicine.

The following letters from Mrs. Holmes and Mrs. Cotrely are among the many thousands which Mrs. Pinkham has received this year from those whom she has relieved.

Surely such testimony is convincing.

Mrs. J.G. Holmes, of Larimore, North Dakota, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I have suffered everything with backache and womb trouble—I let the trouble run on until my system was in such a condition that I was unable to be about, and then it was I commenced to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If I had only known how much suffering I would have saved, I should have taken it months sooner—for a few weeks' treatment made me well and strong. My backaches and headaches are all gone and I suffer no pain at my menstrual periods, whereas before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I suffered intense pain."

Mrs. Emma Cotrely, 109 East 12th Street, New York City, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I feel it my duty to tell all suffering women of the relief I have found in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When I commenced taking the Compound I suffered everything with backaches, headaches, menstrual and ovarian troubles. I am completely cured and enjoy the best of health, and I owe it all to you."

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, bloating (or flatulence), general debility, indigestion and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all gone" and "want to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. Refuse to buy any substitute.

FREE ADVICE TO WOMEN.

Remember, every woman is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything about her symptoms she does not understand. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass., her advice is free and cheerfully given to every ailing woman who asks for it. Her advice and medicine have restored to health more than one hundred thousand women.

Ask Mrs. Pinkham's Advice—A Woman Best Understands a Woman's Ills.

Why the Bears Fought.

C. M. Russell, the western painter, tells an amusing story of a bear fight which he thinks is funnier than any humorous sketch he has ever seen portrayed on a vaudeville stage. He had been out with a guide all day, and toward evening they saw far down the road two bears sauntering along quite oblivious of the presence of human beings, as the wind was in the wrong direction. Russell and his guide quickly jumped behind a small thicket, and when the bears were within shooting distance the painter let fly and struck one of them fair in the side. The shot stunned the animal for a moment, and he was under the impression that his mate had struck him a terrific blow when he was not looking. As there appeared to be no reason for this chastisement, he proceeded to resent it by attacking the other bear. About this time the guide took a shot at the assaulted animal, with the result that the brute was infuriated and imagined he had been struck with undue force by his comrade. Upon this the two bears set to and had a terrific fight.—Success Magazine.

A Close Bargain.

The reputation held by Mr. Cobb of Canby for making the closest bargains of any man in the region was sustained during the summer by his dealings with several of his neighbors from the city.

"Mr. Cobb," said one of these neighbors whose orchard was in need of pruning, "the man says he must have a longer ladder than mine, for when he's finished the orchard I want him to trim that scraggly elm just this side of the apple trees. Have you a ladder I could hire?"

"Um-m, well, I s'pose I hev," said Mr. Cobb grudgingly as he turned his lean face half away from his visitor's gaze. "I've got one, but it's kind of loose j'inted toward the top. I'm not cal'latin' to put any repairs on to it, for I don't ever go clear to the top myself. I'm willin' to let ye take it, but I shall hev to charge ye thutty cents, I guess, on account of the resk of your man's breakin' through the top rungs, he bein' so much heftier anyway than I am, and along of not intendin' to have it hired out, as a rule."

Strange Women.

In Japan it is the height of bad form for a woman to express an opinion contrary to that of her husband. Wonderful people!—Minneapolis Journal.

TROT OR GALLOP?

What Do Fish Do, and the Seals and Insects and Worms?

Here is a problem for people with sharp eyes: As we all know, a horse when walking or trotting advances only one leg of each pair at a time, but when galloping lifts both fore feet together and then both hind feet. Now, the question is how other animals manage this matter. The birds, of course, flap both wings together, but which birds run and which hop? We human beings "trot" when we walk and "gallop" when we swim—that is, if we are using the plain breast stroke. The dog, however, "trots" for both. Now, do the amphibious animals—the seals, otters and the rest—swim like men or like other four footed creatures?

Then there are the fish. One would rather expect that, as they move their tails from side to side, they would flap alternately with the fins, which are their hands and feet. Who can tell whether they do or not and whether all fish at all times follow one rule? By the way, how does a frog use its "hands?"

The great anatomist E. Ray Lankester has pointed out that, while the "thousand legs," such as our common gally worm, always use two feet of a pair together, the centipede, which are much like them, do exactly the opposite, and the swimming worms also alternate the stroke of each pair of paddles. I doubt if many people can tell on which system the caterpillar manages its dozen or so legs or whether the adult insect walks, trots, paces or gallops on its six. How does the spider use eight?

Altogether this is a large field for observation, a field, too, where any one may discover new facts as yet unrecorded, and thus add to the store of knowledge.—St. Nicholas.

Carnegie can well afford to say that poverty is the greatest legacy a man can have bequeathed to him, but the average man agrees with the late Disraeli when he said that "to be harassed about money is one of the most disagreeable incidents of life. It ruffles the temper, lowers the spirits, disturbs the rest, and finally breaks up the health."

Incompatible.

"What would you do if you had a hundred thousand dollars?"

"I'd own a private yacht."

"Then you wouldn't have a hundred thousand dollars."—Washington Star.

HENRY HUDSON.

Born No One Knows Where and Died No One Knows How.

Hudson must have been at least forty when he died, but nothing is known of his life before the last four years of it. A certain Henry Herdson, or Hudson, alderman of London and one of the founders of the Muscovy company, has been suggested as his grandfather, and the relationship is the more likely because it is certain that some of his name and kin were interested in the company. It may have been upon their recommendation that he was first appointed to the command of a ship in the company's service in 1607. Of his early training and previous voyages nothing is known. The beginning of his history is as mysterious as its end. He was born no one knows where, and he died no one knows how. He comes into our knowledge on the quarter deck of a ship bound for the pole; he goes out of it in a crazy boat manned by eight sick men, and so fades away into the dim haze that hangs about the desolate ice floes.

The four voyages of Hudson of which we have record were not directed to absolutely unknown waters, but the observations made by his precursors were so untrustworthy that they were of little service except to mislead him. The object of his first voyage in the service of the Muscovy company was "to discover the pole and to sail across it to the islands of Spicery or Cathay," and on April 19, 1607, he, with John Hudson, his son, sixteen years old, and the ten men who made up the crew of the Hopeful, took the sacrament together at St. Ethelburga's, in Bishopsgate, "purposing to go to sea four days after." In the following year Hudson sailed again, still in the service of the company. They reached the Lofoden isles in a month and rounded the North cape on June 1. A fortnight later they encountered one of those wonders of the deep which the seamen of that time were so often privileged to witness and describe on June 15.

"One of our company, looking overboard, saw a mermaid. Calling up some of the company to see her, one more came up, and by that time she was close to the ship's side, looking earnestly on the men. A little after a sea came up and overturned her. From the navel upward her back and breasts were like a woman (as they say that saw her); her body was as big as one of us; her skin very white, and long hair hanging down behind, of color, black. In her going down they saw her tail, which was like the tail of a porpoise and speckled like a mackerel. Their names that saw her were Thomas Hilles and Robert Rayner."

The only really incredible part of the story is that no more than two men thought it worth while to go on deck to look at her.—W. J. Fletcher in Macmillan's Magazine.

Forced Liberality.

It is not often miserliness gets such a straightforward rebuke as in the case quoted by the Montclair Times. In the early days of primitive Methodism there traveled in England an eccentric minister named Neale, who was famous for his plain talking. On one occasion he was preaching missionary sermons at a village so noted for its small collections that he determined to pass the plate himself.

On his round he came to a farmer who was, as Mr. Neale well knew, the richest man in the place. This individual placed a penny on the plate. Mr. Neale stopped immediately and said in a loud voice:

"Take your penny out, man, take it out! Don't you see you've covered up your laborer's sixpence?"

The rebuke was effectual, and a much more valuable coin was placed on the plate.

Cloves.

From Java, Sumatra, Mauritius, Zanzibar and Guiana come the little brown flower buds of the clove tree. When gathered the buds are red and are dried by exposure to the smoke of wood fires and afterward by the rays of the sun. In a very short time they become of a deep brown color. To secure a monopoly and thus keep up the price the Dutch in the seventeenth century destroyed all their clove trees except those in the island of Amboyna. The chief value of cloves lies in their essential oil, which forms about one-sixth of their whole weight.

Good Stage Elocution.

It was one of Joseph Jefferson's distinctions that he was not only an advocate, but an example, of good stage elocution. He was, however, an exception that proved the rule. The first step toward a better state of affairs is to convince managers and actors that it is desirable. With the memory of many a bad quarter hour of strained effort to hear what should be apprehended with ease, we respectfully submit this word of suggestion.—Century.

McCoy, "king of bank robbers," died just in time to save his professional honor. He wouldn't be in it with the robbers who loot from the inside.

Wit should be used as a shield for defense rather than as a sword to wound others.—Fuller.

M'KINLEY'S DEATH.

How the Associated Press Worked to Get and Give the News.

On the afternoon of Sept. 6, 1901, worn out by a long period of exacting labor, I set out for Philadelphia with the purpose of spending a few days at Atlantic City. When I reached the Broad street station in the Quaker City I was startled by a number of policemen crying my name. I stepped up to one, who pointed to a boy with an urgent message for me. President McKinley had been shot at Buffalo, and my presence was required at our Philadelphia office at once. A message had been sent to me at Trenton, but my train had left the station precisely two minutes ahead of its arrival. Handing my baggage to a hotel porter, I jumped into a cab and dashed away to our office. I remained there until dawn of the following morning.

The opening pages of the story of the assassination were badly written, and I ordered a substitute prepared. An inexperienced reporter stood beside President McKinley in the Music hall at Buffalo when Czolgosz fired the fatal shot. He seized a neighboring telephone and notified our Buffalo correspondent and then pulled out the wires in order to render the telephone a wreck, so that it was a full half hour before any additional details could be secured.

I ordered competent men and expert telegraph operators from Washington, Albany, New York and Boston to hurry to Buffalo by the fastest trains. All that night the Buffalo office was pouring forth a hastily written but faithful and complete account of the tragedy, and by daybreak a relief force was on the ground. Day by day through the long vigil while the president's life hung in the balance each incident was truthfully and graphically reported. In the closing hours of the great tragedy false reports of the president's death were circulated for the purpose of influencing the stock market, and to counteract them Secretary Cortelyou wrote frequent signed statements giving the facts to the Associated Press.—Melville E. Stone in Century.

LITERARY DRUDGERY.

Froude passed seven years in collecting materials and writing his "History of England."

Nearly five years of Irving's time were consumed in writing "The Life of George Washington."

Gibbon devoted over twenty years of his life to the labor of reading for and writing the "Decline and Fall."

Dickens says in the introduction to "David Copperfield" that he spent two years in the composition of that novel.

Bancroft devoted nearly thirty years to his "History of the United States," which is not a history of the country at all, since it ends where the history of the country properly begins.

Crudon labored nineteen years on his Concordance to the Bible and immediately after its publication was sent to a lunatic asylum. He never fully recovered from the mental disease brought on by this gigantic undertaking.

Primitive Water Pipes.

Very primitive water pipes of an ancient date have been discovered in the streets of Manchester, England. They were hollowed out tree trunks fitted together so as to make a wooden conduit. The joints were somewhat in the style of those of a fishing rod, the thin end of one trunk being made to fit into the thick end of the other. It is supposed that this means of supplying Manchester with water was in use about 250 years ago, and discoveries of the same kind made in other towns go to confirm that view. The boring through the wood was about four inches in diameter. The supply of water in those days was not only much less in absolute quantity than now, but very much less in proportion to the population.

Highholes' Large Families.

Few birds have larger families than the highhole, but, were it not for the number of his family, how could he hold his own among so many enemies? His conspicuous size and color always make him a shining mark to the collector, for every village lad in the land has collected flickers' eggs. He is a fellow of expediency, however. If his home is robbed, his wife soon lays another set of eggs. It is on record that one pair, when tested by the removal of egg after egg, laid seventy-one eggs in seventy-three days.—St. Nicholas.

The growing practice of christening farms with a name is a good one. A place is certain to have a name tacked on to it, and it is well for proprietors to take the matter in hand and forestall the crowd. The more appropriate the name the better it will stick, for far fetched names, taken from novels, tempt the frivolous to ridicule them. Thus, for instance, Woodcrest, Hillcrest, Broadview, The Pines, The Elms, etc., are dignified and descriptive.

Fire! Fire!

The Laws of New Hampshire provide:

If any person shall kindle a fire by the use of firearms, or by any other means on land not his own, he shall be fined not exceeding ten dollars; and if such fire spreads and does any damage to the property of others, he shall be fined not exceeding one thousand dollars. Chap. 277, Sec. 4.

If any person, for a lawful purpose, shall kindle a fire upon his own land, or upon land which he occupies, or upon land which he is laboring, at an unsuitable time, or in a careless and imprudent manner, and shall thereby injure or destroy the property of others, he shall be fined not exceeding one thousand dollars.—Chapter 277, section 5.

Whoever shall inform the prosecuting officers of the state of evidence which secures the conviction of any person who willfully, maliciously, or through criminal carelessness has caused any damage by fire in any forest, wood lot, pasture or field, shall receive from the state a reward of one hundred dollars. The state treasurer shall pay the same to the informer upon the presentation of a certificate of the attorney-general or solicitor that he is entitled thereto. —Chapter 277, section 7.

It shall be the duty of any person who discovers a forest or brush fire, not under the control or supervision of some person, to extinguish it or to report it immediately to the local fire warden, and failure so to do shall be punished by a forfeiture not exceeding ten dollars, to be recovered upon complaint of the warden.—Laws 1905 Chapter 97.

All persons will govern themselves accordingly.

HENRY O. KENT, M. C. WENTWORTH, JASON E. TOLLES, GEORGE H. MOSES, Forestry Commissioners.

Herewith is published a recent law in regard to forest fires, and which is contained in the Session Laws of 1905, published with the REPORTER in April last. Mr. John Frank Tenney has been appointed by the Forestry Commissioners the local Fire Warden, to whom all forest fires of any importance should be reported at once upon their discovery. Special attention is called to those sections of the law, and it is hoped that every one will govern themselves accordingly.

POSTAL TYPEWRITER
$100.00 TYPEWRITER $25.00

No one can imagine how much easier and faster it is to write with a machine than with a pen, until one has tried the comparison. It is like riding and walking. The Postal at its very low price offers the opportunity to everybody to try.

The Postal is first of all a practical typewriter, having the Universal keyboard. The working parts are made of best steel hardened and tempered to withstand wear, and everything in the manufacture of the Postal is the same quality as goes into the high priced machines. The construction is so simple and strong, that not only has the number of parts been brought down to about one third of what it is in the high-priced machines, but, what is far more important, the number of accurate adjustments has been reduced to the proportion of 1 to 28 as compared with other type wheel machines and 1 to 76 in type bar machines.

In the Postal the alignment is practically perfect and permanent.

The Postal offers the advantage of changing in a few seconds from one style of type to another, or from one language to another.

The writing is in sight all the time, with the exception of the few letters immediately near the point of printing.

We warrant all our machines to be of good workmanship and material and agree to furnish free within one year any part that may wear out or break through defect.

A Postal Typewriter may be seen in operation at The Antrim Reporter Office, Antrim, N. H., where orders will be received.
