STATE REPUBLICAN.

New Hampshire Elects Charles M. Floyd Governor.

GIVES NATHAN C. JAMESON, DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE, A LARGE VOTE.

The Weather Was Good, Vote Throughout the State Large, and the Interest Manifested More Intense Than Usual.

The biennial election was the all-absorbing matter of interest in Antrim Tuesday, and judging from the results it would seem that everybody with "an axe to grind" had got in their work. It was anticipated somewhat that Antrim would give our townsmen's, Mr. Jameson, the democratic nominee for governor, a good vote and so she did. Many things about the election in this place as well as others were surprises, and along with them came disappointments. However, on the whole, it seems that the plans of conducting matters during the campaign were generally approved, and all seem pleased to know that the anxiety and uncertainty is about over.

At a little past 10 o'clock, Moderator William E. Cram called the meeting to order, and after the reading of the warrant prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Cochrane. Under Article 1. voting for state, county and town officers was begun.

Voted, that Article 2, in relation to the James A. Tuttle Library, be taken up at 11.15 o'clock, when action under same was begun, and continued till 12 o'clock, when it was voted to adjourn for dinner and resume action at 1.30 o'clock.

The Committee's report was read by the secretary, Fred C. Parmenter, who reported that of several suitable sites on which to erect the Library that the committee had investigated, the lot of land next south of Morris Christie's residence, donated by Hon. D. H. Goodell, was the unanimous choice of the committee. In regard to the Library building and plans for same, the committee's report appears herewith:

Plans.—We have considered plans submitted by ten different architects. The plans submitted by Mr. Edwin

R. Clark of Lowell, Mass., which are on exhibition, we believe to be best adapted—all things considered—to our needs. This plan provides for a brick building with Granite or Cement trimmings, about 52 feet on the front by 85 feet deep, with stack room in the rear 18 by 24 ft. which will be practically fire proof. This stack room will accommodate 6000 books on the first floor. By using the second floor and basement as it becomes necessary, there will be ample room for 18,000 books.

Provision is made on the first floor for a Main hall or Delivery room 16 by 22 ft. with a general Reading room on one side and Reference room on the other, both approximately 16 by 22 ft. (one of them may be used for a children's reading room), also a Librarian's room, with lavatory and fire place, situated between the reading room and stack room. A basement extends under the whole building in which are located closets stock and work room, heating apparatus, coal bins, etc.

We learn that in many of the Library buildings recently constructed provision has been made for an Antiquarian room where articles of interest and value on account of age or other reason, which may be given outright or loaned to the town, may be placed on exhibition and properly cared for, and it has seemed wise to your committee to make provision for such a room. This plan provides a room located in the second story about 32 by 22 ft., which may be used for this purpose, also a room for use of trustees or other purpose.

This building is designed to be finished inside with quartered oak and white wood or pine all in keeping with the character of the building and the purpose for which it is intended.

It seems to your committee that it will be adequate in size, nearly perfect in arrangement, artistic in design, symmetrical in proportions, in short: a building of which the citizens of Antrim may well be proud; a building which will be a fitting memorial to the donor.

We recommend, that only the words "Tuttle Library" appear on the outside of the building and that a suitable tablet be placed in some conspicuous place on the wall inside, which will set forth such facts regarding the donor, date of erection, etc., as the building committee may deem advisable.

Mr. Clark assures us that this building if made in accordance with his plans and specifications, will be quite equal, except in the matter of size, to the best library buildings, some of which cost many times the estimated cost of this. That he is confident that it can be erected and furnished complete ready for occupancy, for a sum not exceeding $12000, which sum will include his fee (of 5 per cent) for plan, specifications and supervisions.

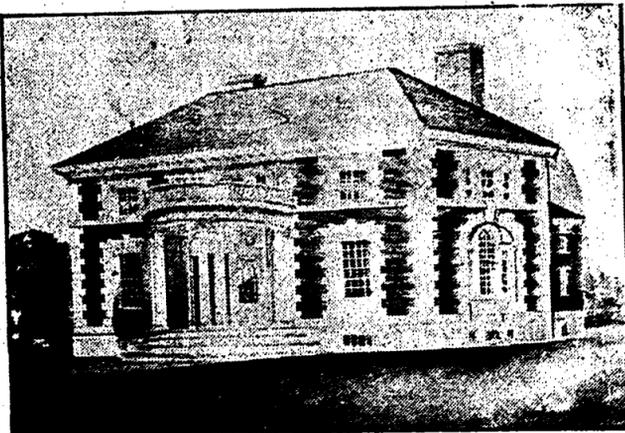

We recommend that these plans be accepted with such minor changes as the building committee may deem necessary; that Mr. Clark be employed to complete said plans and specifications and supervise the construction of the building.

We also recommend, that a committee of five be appointed or elected at this meeting or at some subsequent meeting of this town and that said building committee shall proceed with the work of construction as soon as practical after the funds are available.

We further recommend, that the management of the affairs of the new Library be put in the hands of a Board of five Trustees, the present Library Trustees be members of this board until the expiration of their present term of office, that three (3) Trustees be elected in March 1907, one to serve five years, one for four years, and one for three years, and thereafter one each year for a term of five years.

That this board have the power to fill vacancies which may occur from any cause until the next annual meeting; that this board shall make all necessary rules and regulations for the government of the library; appoint a Librarian, Janitor, and any other necessary employee, and fix their salary; that this board shall control and invest all funds remaining after the completion of the building and grounds, and all permanent funds which may hereafter come to the library. But that the Town Treasurer shall be the custodian of such permanent funds as also the current funds, and pay out same only upon order signed by a majority of the Trustees; that this board shall make a report at each annual town meeting, the financial part of which shall be audited by the town auditors.

PROPOSED "TUTTLE LIBRARY"

After some discussion in regard principally to location, the report was accepted and adopted by vote.

A vote of thanks was extended to Hon. D. H. Goodell for his unconditional and generous offer of land for a library site.

Remarks were made by N. W. C. Jameson, stating that several persons had been to him regarding the "band-stand" lot so-called for a library site; stated that on certain conditions which were not then in shape he might donate this lot.

When business was resumed in the afternoon, the matter of the generous offer of Wyman Kneeland Flint, of his entire library at North Branch to be added to the Tuttle library when completed, was accepted with the heartiest thanks of the town.

Voted, that a committee of three retire and bring in the names of five men as a building committee, and these were elected: Ephraim Simonds, George F. Lowe, Charles S. Abbott, Fred C. Parmenter, D. H. Goodell. Voted that Wyman Kneeland Flint be made a member of this committee.

Voted, that thanks be extended the committee whose report was accepted and adopted.

At this juncture it was voted, after some discussion on the matter, that the location of the library building be reconsidered. The "band-stand" lot was again before the voters, this time in somewhat changed form; remarks were general and numerous, and the matter of location was voted to be left with the building committee.

Thanks were voted Mr. Jameson and Mrs. Nims for their offer.

A resolution was presented and adopted "that the Selectmen remove the present chandeliers and place the lights in clusters under proper reflectors upon the ceiling" in the town hall. In connection, other resolutions were adopted in regard to letting the hall for basket ball playing, under certain conditions; the matter is really in charge of the Selectmen.

Under Article 4. voted that the electric line be extended in North Branch village to opposite the S. S. Sawyer house so-called.

In regard to the matter of carrying off the water at the south end of the new state-town road, voted that it be left with the Selectmen.

Voted, that the polls be closed at 4 o'clock.

Except voting, the business of the warrant was completed at 2.45 o'clock, and the result of the counting was announced at about 9.15 o'clock, as follows:

Something unusual in town under the Australian system of voting, is a tie; this occurs in the Board of Supervisors with Fred G. Mower and George F. Perry. This makes necessary another election, which will take place next week Tuesday, beginning at 8 o'clock in the afternoon.

Under Postmaster Cortelyou and during the last two years fifteen hundred violations of the postal laws have been investigated and five hundred and fifty persons or concerns placed on the fraud list. Gold mines, Mexican plantations, clairvoyance and fortune tellers and medical frauds have all been forced out of business to the benefit of the people and to the credit of Mr. Cortelyou. It is difficult to see how that gentleman as head of the Treasury Department can be of greater service to his country.

Catalogue of Misnomers.

"A silver shoehorn is a misnomer," said a philologist. "So is a wooden milestone. So is a steel pen."

"A shoehorn is a piece of horn, according to its name. How can it be made of silver, then? In like manner a milestone can't be made of wood—though they have them, the same as nutmegs in Connecticut—nor can a pen, which strictly means a feather, be made of steel."

"Irish stew is a dish unknown in Ireland. Jerusalem artichokes were never heard of in Jerusalem. Prussian blue does not come from Prussia, but from the red prussiate of potash."

"Galvanized iron is not galvanized. It is zinc coated. Catgut is not the gut of cats, but of sheep. Kid gloves do not come from kid skins, but from lamb skins."

"Sealing wax has no wax in it, nor is it a byproduct of the seal. Wormwood bears no relation either to wood or worms. Rice paper is never made from rice. Salt is not a salt."

"Copper coins are bronze, not copper. India ink is unknown in India. Turkeys come from our own country, from Turkey never."

The Danger of White Lead.

Probably lead working and particularly the manufacture of white lead is the most dangerous calling. In this industry it is inevitable that sooner or later the workers must succumb to lead poisoning, and there would appear to be no part of the body that the poisonous fumes and floating particles which permeate the atmosphere of the workshops do not affect. The complexion takes on a ghastly corpse-like pallor, the gums turn blue, the teeth decay rapidly and fall out, the eyelids are hideously inflamed. A scratch or an abrasion of the skin becomes an unhealable sore. Later on, when nerves and muscles become affected by the poison in the blood, the eyeballs are drawn into oblique positions and take on a dim and bleared appearance. The joints, especially the knee and the wrist, become semiparalyzed, and the whole form is gradually bent and contorted.

The Vision of Insects.

A notable fact about the vision of insects and one which it may be supposed must largely influence their view of the external world is the number of facets or lenses in compound eyes. A German naturalist, K. Lehnemann, has been painstaking enough to count the number of facets in the eyes of no fewer than 150 species of beetle. He finds that in the same species and sex the number increases with the size of the body. There is usually no permanent difference between the sexes as to the number of facets. Occasionally, however, the difference is marked, as in the case of Lampyrus splendidus, in which the male has 2,500 and the female 300. One species is noted which has the extraordinary number of 24,000 facets in its eye. The number of facets is greater in the rapidly moving active forms than in the more sluggish species.—Philadelphia Record.

A bullet that hits the mark, but does not kill, has just been invented by Dr. Deirlers of Paris. The details of its construction are not mentioned, but it is said to be hollow and can be used several times. In a test for dual practice pistols were used with steel guards resembling a sword hill, because, although the bullet does not penetrate the clothing, it will wound naked flesh. Both men wore goggles. Out of 272 shots 202 struck some part of the bodies of the duellists.

Mme. Emma Calvé says there is nothing as "stimulating as debts" and in proof of it cites the fact that the first year of her engagement at the Paris Opera Comique at $100,000 she ended up $12,000 in debt. America came to the rescue, and she accepted an engagement for that sum. By the time she had returned and paid off her previous debts she owed $10,000 more, mostly to dressmakers. She came back to America and made $10,000. She has made more since and has learned to save and is building a house for herself at Montpellier.

Madison C. Peters, clergyman and author, was talking to a group of young men.

"Half the wrong things you chaps do," he said, "you do only because they are forbidden. If you didn't know they were wrong, they would only seem to you disgusting and repugnant."

"I strolled one spring morning in a beautiful park."

"Look here," I said to one of the guards, "why do you have 'Keep off the grass' signs all over the park? You don't seem to enforce the rule."

"No, sir," said the guard. "The object of the signs is to cause the people to more thoroughly enjoy being on the grass."—New York Tribune

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How To Find Out.
Fill a bottle or commop glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contains Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists, 75c. State Trade Report.

The most prominent feature of conditions as reported to Bradstreet's is the almost universal complaint of a shortage of labor. There seems to be no particular line from which the complaint comes, but in all kinds and classes of labor-employing concerns comes the cry of an inability to obtain help at any price. Manufacturers are all very busy, and in some lines the height of the run is not on as yet. Lumbermen have part of their crews in the woods and more will go with the nearer approach of winter. The warm and fine weather, while unfavorable to the movement of heavy kinds of goods in retail lines, is very favorable to all kinds of outdoor work, and much is being done in this line. Retail trade is good, but cooler weather would give it an additional impetus. Wholesale trade is of fair volume and here seems to be some improvement in collections.

At Keene the wood-working shops, mills and shoe concerns are all well employed and there is a good trade in retail lines. The potato and apple crop in this section was below the average.

At Nashua conditions in manufacturing lines are as good as ever known, and more help could be used if obtainable. Merchants report a good trade, which would be helped by cooler weather.

At Concord the granite trade is unable to handle promptly all the business which is offered. Manufacturers are fully employed and fall trade is coming along well.

At Manchester retail trade is good, but not brisk. Manufacturing concerns are working all the help obtainable and could use more. The new shoe shop has started up work, although not as yet fully in operation. Wholesale trade is good, and collections about as usual at this season.

Plymouth reports business conditions generally good in all lines.

Famous Strike Breakers.

The most famous strike breakers in the land are Dr. King's New Life Pills. When liver and bowels go on strike, they quickly settle the trouble, and the purifying work goes right on. Best cure for constipation, headache and dizziness. 25c at W. F. Dickey's, druggist.

A hard snow storm raged at Littleton for several hours Monday morning and the ground was white at 7 o'clock. On the lowlands the snow soon disappeared, except for patches, but the mountains remained dazzling white.

Joseph McDonald of Manchester married pretty 14-year-old Lizzie Bennett last Saturday evening, without parental consent, and now the mother seeks to have the marriage annulled.

John McCarty of Keene was killed while sleeping under a freight car Tuesday night. The man went under the car to get out of the rain and fell asleep. When the car was moved the wheels passed over his neck.

Henry Smith of Suncook accidentally shot himself Sunday. He was in a boat and while reaching for the gun the trigger caught in his trousers and discharged, causing the contents to enter the arm just below the elbow.

The new Pure Food and Drug Law will mark it on the label of every Cough Cure containing Opium, Chloroform, or any other stupefying or poisonous drug. It Takes Nerve Everything depends upon your nerves. It is nerve force that causes the brain to direct the motion of your body; it is nerve force that causes your heart to pulsate, and send the blood through your veins; it is nerve force that causes your stomach to digest food, your kidneys to filter the blood, and the liver to secrete bile.

In fact, nerve force is the power that runs your body, so if you feel worn-out, irritable, nervous, cannot sleep, or eat well, have pain or misery anywhere, your nerves are weak, and your system run-down. To restore this vitality take Dr. Miles' Nervine which will strengthen and build up the nerves. You cannot be healthy without strong nerves.

"For eighteen years Dr. Miles' Nervine and Anti-Pain Pills have been my close companions. Early in married life, while raising children, my nerves became all worn-out—could not sleep; had no appetite; indigestion very bad, and had such awful dizzy spells. Then I began using Dr. Miles' Nervine, and at once I began to improve, and soon found myself in perfect health."

Two Dyspeptics

If you are too fat it is because your food turns to fat instead of muscle—strength. If you are too lean the fat producing foods that you eat are not properly digested and assimilated.

HANDLING MEN.

Directing Others in Business Demands Tact and Ability.

Business men often fail because they do not know how to handle men. They can do their own work all right, but they are failures when it comes to directing others. They lack tact, diplomacy.

Many men antagonize others; they lack patience, lose temper, fly to pieces over little things. And no man is a good leader who cannot control himself.

A great many business men seem to think that it takes a deal of driving, scolding, fault finding, to get the best out of others. It is, however, just the opposite. Employees never give up their best in response to forcing methods.

I know a young man who promises to be a leader in his line who is as quiet and gentlemanly in his methods as a modest woman. He never raises his voice, never gets angry. When an employee needs correcting, instead of scolding or nagging he sits right down and shows him or her just how to do the thing. He tries to help them out of their difficulty, not to confuse them. He does not need to scold, because everybody respects him, admires him and knows that he is always trying to do the fair thing, to give a square deal, that he wants only what is just right and there is nothing arbitrary in his methods.

The result is he does not need to storm around his establishment and use abusive, profane language. He knows there is a stronger force, a better way than that. The result is that he has perfect discipline.

Not one would think of taking advantage of him or trying to deceive him, because he is so kind, square, true.

I know another man in business near by him who adopts just the opposite method. He storms and swears, scolds, nags, goes through his establishment like a bull through a china shop, making everybody feel mean and disagreeable. Nobody respects him. He rules by brute force, keeping everybody cowed and afraid of him. They obey him and let him impose upon them in order to avoid a scold or for fear they will lose their positions. If an office boy or stenographer makes a little mistake he will go off to pieces, fly into a rage and make it very uncomfortable for everybody about him.

People waiting in the outer office often hear loud talking and most abusive language in his private office. But he is not nearly as successful as his quiet, unobtrusive neighbor.

He never thinks of recognizing one of his employees on the street.

The other man always lifts his hat to the humblest girl in his employ and has a pleasant smile for everybody, because he feels an interest in everybody and they all love him. —Success.

Classical and Romantic Music.

Classical composers are those of the first rank who have developed music to the highest pitch of perfection on its formal side, and, in obedience to generally accepted laws, preferring aesthetic beauty, pure and simple, over emotional content, refusing to sacrifice form to characteristic expression. Romantic composers are those who have sought their ideals in other regions and striven to give expression to them, in respect of the restrictions and limitations of form and the conventions of the composers with whom, in brief, content outweighs manner. —How to Listen to Music, Kalmus.

THOMAS JEFFERSON.

Wonderful Personal Charm of the Old Time Patriot.

In December, 1800, a few days after congress had for the first time met in our new metropolis, I was one morning sitting alone in the parlor when the servant opened the door and showed in a gentleman who wished to see my husband. The usual frankness and care with which I met strangers were somewhat checked by the dignified and reserved air of the present visitor, but the chilled feeling was only momentary, for, after taking the chair I offered him in a free and easy manner and carelessly throwing his arm on the table near which he sat, he turned toward me a countenance beaming with an expression of benevolence and with a manner and voice almost femininely soft and gentle entered into conversation on the commonplace topics of the day, from which, before I was conscious of it, he had drawn me into observations of a more personal and interesting nature. I know not how it was, but there was something in his manner, his countenance and voice that at once unlocked my heart, and in answer to his casual inquiries concerning our situation in our new home, as he called it, I found myself frankly telling him what I liked or disliked in our present circumstances and abode. I knew not who he was, but the interest with which he listened to my artless details induced the idea he was some intimate acquaintance or friend of Mr. Smith's and put me perfectly at my ease—in truth, so kind and conciliating were his looks and manners that I forgot he was not a friend of my own until on the opening of the door Mr. Smith entered and introduced the stranger to me as Mr. Jefferson.

I felt my cheeks burn and my heart throb, and not a word more could I speak while he remained. Nay, such was my embarrassment I could scarcely listen to the conversation carried on between him and my husband. For several years he had been to me an object of peculiar interest—in fact, my destiny—for on his success in the pending presidential election, or rather the success of the Democratic party (their interests were identical), my condition in life, my union with the man I loved, depended.—"Washington in Jefferson's Time," by Margaret Bayard Smith, in Scribner's Magazine.

Balzac's Buttons.

Balzac wore a blue dress coat with metal buttons. A play of his, "Les Ressources de Quinola," was in rehearsal at the Odeon theater in Paris, and Balzac, ever hopeful, expected an immense success. In order to appear in gala costume on the opening night he ordered a blue dress coat lined with satin, the buttons of which were of solid eighteen carat gold. "Quinola" was a ghastly failure, and for some time after it left the bill Balzac was exceedingly hard up. Whenever ready money failed him—and ready money failed him often—he used to cut one of his buttons off and sell it to a jeweler, and to the day of his death the coat with the gold buttons and its successors were called by Balzac and his friends "Les Ressources de Quinola."

The Metaphor of the Spider.

Better than most metaphors that have been drawn from the spider's way of life is the delightfully human one of Alphonse Karr's in his "Voyage autour de mon jardin." The spider, he says, is more truthful than man. When man says, "If my wife does not love me I shall die," he does not die. But when the spider says so he knows he is speaking the truth, for if his wife does not love him she kills him.—London Saturday Review.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

Digests what you eat.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

"Digests what you eat."

Every mother possesses information which is of vital interest to her young daughter.

Too often this is never imparted or is withheld until serious harm has resulted to the growing girl through her ignorance of nature's mysterious and wonderful laws and penalties.

Girls' over-sensitiveness and modesty often puzzle their mothers and baffle physicians, as they so often withhold their confidence from their mothers and conceal the symptoms which ought to be told to their physician at this critical period.

When a girl's thoughts become sluggish, with headache, dizziness or a disposition to sleep, pains in back or lower limbs, eyes dim, desire for solitude; when she is a mystery to herself and friends, her mother should come to her aid, and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will at this time prepare the system for the coming change, and start this trying period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities.

Hundreds of letters from young girls and from mothers, expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for them, have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., at Lynn, Mass.

Miss Mills has written the two following letters to Mrs. Pinkham, which will be read with interest:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (First Letter.) I am but fifteen years of age, am depressed, have dizzy spells, chills, headache and backache, and as I have heard that you can give helpful advice to girls in my condition, I am writing you. Myrtle Mills, Oquawka, Ill.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (Second Letter.) It is with the feeling of utmost gratitude that I write to you to tell you what your valuable medicine has done for me. When I wrote you in regard to my condition I had consulted several doctors, but they failed to understand my case and I did not receive any benefit from their treatment. I followed your advice, and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now healthy and well, and all the distressing symptoms which I had at that time have disappeared. Myrtle Mills, Oquawka, Ill.

Miss Matilda Borman writes Mrs. Pinkham as follows:—

"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my periods were irregular and painful, and I always had such dreadful headaches.

"But since taking the Compound my headaches have entirely left me, my periods are regular, and I am getting strong and well. I am telling all my girl friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Matilda Borman, Farmington, Iowa.

If you know of any young girl who is sick and needs motherly advice, ask her to address Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and tell her every detail of her symptoms, and to keep nothing back. She will receive advice absolutely free, from a source that has no rival in the experience of woman's ills, and it will, if followed, put her on the right road to a strong, healthy and happy womanhood.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for the greatest number of cures of female ills of any medicine that the world has ever known. Why don't you try it?

GOLF and GUILF

By Margaret Muzzey

Philip Prentiss was looking for a place where he could spend his two weeks' vacation playing golf. As he stepped on the train he tried to recall exactly what pretty Sallie Norton had told him at a dance the night before. She said there were several attractive resorts along the river and one where a lot of professional men and women went every summer. Unfortunately the two-step had struck up at that moment, and she had omitted to mention its name.

"Golf links here?" Philip asked the conductor as the train slowed down at a little station.

"Yes, sir; finest in the country. Rockdale, Rockdale! Don't forget your packages!"

An unfortunate commuter who bundled off at the same time told Philip that the pretty little house he saw on the hill was the Rockdale Golf club, so he made his way across the fields to inspect it. The fresh breeze fanned his cheek, the blue river looked cool and refreshing in the distance, and he hoped this was the place Sallie had referred to. If, with its natural charm, it combined the advantage of making acquaintances desirable for a young man eager to advance in the legal profession nothing was left to be wished for. He felt inclined to join the commuter and ask a few more questions, only could not, in decency, without offering to carry some of his bundles and fated to make a first appearance in a new place bearing a bright blue box of laundered shirts or a large gilt bird-cage.

He interviewed the club instructor, who was leaning dejectedly against a pillar of the piazza. After inquiring the requisites for eligibility Philip said: "You give lessons, I suppose?" "I can't collect anything. Amounts to givin' 'em, don't it?" "How many members?" Philip asked. "Half an almshouse, a third of an old ladies' home, a quarter of a state hospital—there's that many and that kind of folks."

The man had been drinking, Philip thought, as he strolled down the hill toward a boarding house not far away in search of luncheon.

Philip was seated at a small table opposite a grumpy old man dressed in a dirty flannel shirt. Among the other "guests" was an elderly woman wearing a very short skirt and spectacles, who hurried into the room followed by a fat man, who was muttering imprecations on things in general and golf in particular.

Philip's table companion chuckled maliciously.

"Must be pleasant for a man and his wife to occupy a ten by ten room all summer and not be on speaking terms. She won a cup because her handicap was bigger than his, and he won't forgive her."

"The whole atmosphere appears sulphuric," Philip remarked.

"Are you a golfer?" asked the old man.

"Trying to be," said Philip.

"Married?"

"No."

"It is a great game for the single blessed, but every family should be without it. There is no blood or marital relationship that can mitigate its concentrated bitterness. A woman went away from here yesterday to get a divorce because her husband accused her of moving her ball. It is an awful temptation. We are all human."

After luncheon the old man asked Philip to play around the course. Philip borrowed some clubs of the instructor and they started off. The old duffer, as Philip mentally stigmatized him, sent his ball twenty-five yards, Philip sent his seven times as many, then he and the caddy—they had one between them—ran ahead and waited.

The old man raised his ball and a clod of earth at the same time.

"He's diggin' for bait," said the caddy, grinning.

The duffer found his ball behind a small mound of sod, which he pounded flat with a brassy, batted the ball to the near side of the bunker, then paused to consider.

"Stamp on it; mash it!" cried Philip.

"Why let a barrier raised by man interfere when you can smooth out nature as you did?"

Three times the duffer struck his ball, and each time it leaped up in the air and fell on the ground just behind him.

"I sav, old man, go back to the farm-and play tiddywinks," gasped Philip.

"But I don't need any more practice. I'm learning from observation."

He sent his ball, however, to the edge of the green.

The next time the duffer's ball landed just off the course in a rut. Philip lighted a cigarette, keeping one eye on his opponent, and as he held the blazing match before his face the old man shuffled his ball with his foot to an easy lie.

"Hold on there! What are you doing?" Philip cried.

"Nothing—nothing. I—"

"You moved your ball. I saw you. Didn't you?" to the caddy.

"Ain't he the Foxy Grandpa?" said the boy.

"He is a dishonest, disgusting, disreputable person. A man who would do that would rob widows and orphans." And Philip marched off in a rage, leaving the duffer staring in amazement after him.

Philip returned the clubs to the dismal instructor and wrung his hand at parting.

"I did you an injustice," he said.

"Knowing, as I do now, what your life in this place must be, my heart bleeds for you."

Sallie had gone away when he returned to town, so Philip could not tell her the result of his first venture into the world of sport, but he soon made another and that time scraped the acquaintance of a youth on the train who gave him some information worth having.

"If you are looking for golf come to Sunnyside—going there myself. The links are good, and you will find a lot of nice people."

"I spent an afternoon at Rockdale recently," said Philip, "and found the oddest collection of cranks and farmers imaginable."

"Cranks perhaps, but not farmers," said the youth, laughing. "The most distinguished doctors, lawyers, politicians and scientists in the state go there and all the literary and progressive lights in petticoats."

"Good heavens! All my discrimination must have escaped," Philip exclaimed.

In the autumn Sallie was again visiting their common friend at whose house Philip first met her. They fell deeply in love with each other. Philip asked Sallie to marry him, and she went home to tell her father about it. Soon afterward Philip was invited to dine at Judge Norton's house in Orange.

The lovers had a few minutes' talk before dinner.

"Father says you won't be able to support a wife for years," said Sallie sadly.

"We are young enough to wait."

"But he says in New York without a 'pull' a young man isn't likely to succeed ever."

"Doesn't he want a young partner to relieve him of the petty details?"

"Well, you see, there's my brother Sam—he's a sophomore and will be graduated in four years, if he's dropped only twice more."

They found the judge and his son waiting for them in the dining room. After greeting Philip cordially Sam introduced him to his father, and, to his blank dismay, Philip found himself shaking hands with—the duffer!

There was not, however, the faintest gleam of recognition in the judge's eye. Philip thanked heaven he had grown a Vandyke beard since their last meeting. At the end of the dinner Sam and Sallie left Philip to speak his piece to their father.

"Judge Norton, I want to marry your daughter," he said.

"How do you propose to support a wife?" inquired the judge.

"I shall work for her."

"To all appearance," interrupted the judge, "you are without influence, fortune or the semblance of a clientele. No, young man. Go back to the farm and play tiddywinks."

So the old duffer had known him after all.

"By the bye," said Philip, after an instant's hesitation, "I was telling Sam about our game of golf."

"You held me up to ridicule before my son?"

"It was your moving the ball that impressed him. He said he would despise a man who did that, even if it were his own father."

"You took a mean advantage of me as if a man is ever expected to play fair when he is off for relaxation in the summer!" The judge was greatly irritated. "I would have given anything to prevent having Sam told that," he continued. "The effort of my life has been to inspire him with absolute confidence."

"But, don't you see, I couldn't tell Sam the man's name? I didn't know it myself till tonight."

"Upon my word, I forgot that!" exclaimed the judge, immensely relieved.

"How about my marrying Sallie? You said you would give anything to prevent Sam knowing you cheated at golf."

The judge winced.

"We're all human, remember. I might be tempted to tell him the man's name yet."

"No, no—not on any account! I'll gladly give you Sallie!"

"To have and to hold"—my tongue—from this day forward," interrupted Philip, laughing.

THE TACON THEATER.

Havana's Famous Playhouse Has an Interesting History.

The history of the Tacon theater of Havana is very interesting. In the year 1825 Francisco Marty, who was then the leader of a band of pirates which infested the island of Cuba and who had a price of $10,000 on his head, was captured and ordered to be put to death. Seeing there was no hope for him, he asked leave to see General Tacon, who was then governor general of Havana, and told him if his life was spared he would denounce his entire band and assist him in ridding the island of the number of pirates which infested it at that period. Accordingly General Tacon gave him a two weeks' parole, and inside of a week Marty had denounced his fellow pirates and turned them over to the government. For this service he was pardoned.

In 1836 Marty asked for the concession to build a national theater on the site of Parque Central. It was granted to him. General Tacon went further and allowed him the privilege of the use of forty convicts who were then confined in Morro castle to assist him in the work, each convict receiving the sum of 20 cents a day. In 1838 the theater was finished, and Marty, as a proof of the gratitude he felt toward General Tacon for sparing his life, named it El Teatro Tacon. During the insurrection in Cuba many exciting incidents took place here. In one instance a regiment of Cuban insurgents barricaded themselves in the theater and held it against the Spaniards for three days. Finally they were starved out, and as they were making their escape all were shot.

The theater is built of white stone, with decorations of marble, and faces Central park, being in the center of the fashionable district of Havana. It is one of the largest theaters in the world, seating over 3,000 persons.—Cuban Review.

The Range of Apples.

"Pineapple" and "love apple" (tomato) are instances of the manner in which the apple has been habitually taken as the typical fruit, the name of which is naturally borrowed in naming all sorts of fruits and vegetables that only remotely resemble it. Dr. Murray's dictionary gives an imposing list of them—Jew's apple, devil's apple, kangaroo apple, and so on. A writer of the seventeenth century speaks of "the fruit or apples of palm trees," and a fourteenth century man says that "all manere aples that ben cloyed in an harde skinne, rynde, other shale, ben callyd Noces" (nuts). In the year 1000, apparently, "earth apples" meant not potatoes, but cucumbers. And even Eve's "apple" is believed to have been a citron.
