CURRENT TOPICS.

Treated by The Reporter's Special Correspondent, and Served in a Pleasing Manner.

THE statement has been made by a prominent lawyer recently, that "This is the beginning of the end of the Trusts in the United States."

SPAIN evidently has little compassion for Uncle Sam in his present difficulties with Cuba. Experience is the only real school but it still continues to be "a dear school."

MANY will undoubtedly be awed by the fact that the New York Central, and the Standard Oil Company have been convicted. The prevailing corruption of the world has been evidence for one and all that it takes less courage to stand up for the evil than it does to stand by and for the good.

ADMIRAL DEWEY'S confidence in the Bluejackets, has been expressed in the statement that "if every officer on the American ship were killed, the Bluejackets could and would fight on and win. Our gunners at the present time are called the best marksmen in the world. So much for the reckless American."

THE Mohawk Conference held recently at Lake Mohawk, New York, gave to the public a report of good work in behalf of the Indians. Dr. William Hayes Ward, one of the speakers, expressed the present sentiment of conference in his statement that "It is very important that we do not assume that any race lacking in culture is not capable of being as decent as ourselves."

MR. BRANDER MATTHEWS, has recently published an address on "American Character." In this publication he calls to task the ignorant foreign critics who have for years taunted the Americans with lack of Creativeness. He gives the names of Americans who stand foremost in all the new developments. By his time and study, and the words of his pen he defends the American and gives him the place he has earned.

Important Announcement!

We desire at this time to make an announcement that to us seems an important one, and we think our readers will agree with us. Hereafter, during any political campaign, all articles for publication in our columns pertaining to matters of this nature will be signed by the author's name which must accompany same; also that they will be charged for at a certain price per inch as advertising matter. This conclusion is arrived at after due consideration, and will be strictly adhered to.

WEB OF THE SPIDER.

The Many Uses to Which Its Singular Spinner Puts It.

Spiders form good subjects for rainy day study, and two hours spent in a neglected garret watching these clever little beings will often arouse such interest that we shall be glad to devote many days of sunshine to observing those species which hunt and build and live in the open fields. There is no insect in the world with more than six legs, and as a spider has eight he is therefore thrown out of the company of butterflies, beetles and wasps and finds himself in a strange assemblage. Even to his nearest relatives he bears little resemblance, for when we realize that scorpions and horseshoe crabs must call him cousin we perceive that his is indeed an aberrant bough on the tree of creation.

Nature has provided spiders with an organ filled always with liquid, which on being exposed to the air hardens and can be drawn out into the slender threads which we know as cobweb. The silkworm incases its body with a mile or more of gleaming silk, but there its usefulness is ended, as far as the silkworm is concerned. But spiders have found a hundred uses for their cordage, some of which are startlingly similar to human inventions.

A list of all the uses of cobwebs would take much space, but of these the most familiar is the snare set for unwary flies—the wonderfully ingenious webs which sparkle with dew among the grasses or stretch from bush to bush. The framework is of webbing, and upon this is woven the sticky spiral which is so elastic, so ethereal, and yet strong enough to entangle a good sized insect. How knowing seems the little worker as, the web and his den of concealment being completed, he spins a strong cable from the center of the web to the entrance of his watertower. Then, when a trembling of his aerial spans warns him of a capture, how eagerly he seizes his master cable and jerks away on it, thus vibrating the whole structure and making more certain the confusion of his victim.

Those spiders which leap upon their prey instead of setting snares for it have still a use for their threads of life, throwing out a cable as they leap to break their fall if they miss their foothold. What a strange use of the cobweb is that of the little flying spiders! Up they run to the top of a post, elevate their abdomens and run out several threads, which lengthen and lengthen until the breeze catches them, and away goes the wingless aeronaut for yards or for miles, as fortune may dictate! We wonder if he can cut loose or pull in his balloon cables at will.

A most fascinating tale would unfold could we discover all the uses of cobweb when the spiders themselves are through with it. Certain it is that our ruby throated humming bird robs many webs to fasten together the plant down and lichens which compose her dainty nest.

Search the pond and you will find another member of the spider family, swimming about at ease beneath the surface, thoroughly aquatic in his habits, but breathing a bubble of air which he carries about with him. When his supply is low, he swims to a submarine castle of silk, so air tight that he can keep it filled with a large bubble of air, upon which he draws from time to time.

And so we might go on enumerating almost endless uses for the web, which is nature's gift to these little waifs who ages ago left the sea and have won a place for themselves in the sunshine among the butterflies and flowers.—C. William Beebe in New York Post.

The Regular Custom.

In a London street a girl of twelve and a boy of ten were playing a family drama of "mother and father," and Bobby was being instructed in his role. "Now, Bob," said the girl, "you jest walk up ter ther corner an' wait there till we tells yer ter come. We're a-goin' ter git dinner ready, an' when we calls yer, yer ter come 'ome and chuck the fings about." "Ho!" said Bobby. "Come 'ome drunk, do? And why for?" "Why for, stoopid?" retorted the girl, with a glance of mingled scorn and pity. "Ain't it Saturday?"

Generosity.

Never be sorry for any generous thing that you ever did, even if it was betrayed. Never be sorry that you were magnanimous if the man was mean afterward. Never be sorry that you gave. It was right for you to give even if you were imposed upon. You cannot afford to keep on the safe side by being mean.

THE WAILING WOMAN.

A Queer Old Legend of the City of Mexico.

As is generally known, senior, many bad things are met with at night in the streets of the city, but this wailing woman, La Llorona, is the very worst of them all. She is worse by far than the Vacá de Lumbre, that at midnight comes forth from the potrero of San Sebastian and goes galloping through the streets like a blazing whirlwind, breathing forth from her nostrils smoke and flames, because the fiery cow, senior, while a dangerous animal to look at, really does nobody any harm, and La Llorona is as harmful as she can be.

Seeing her walking along quietly—at the times when she is not running and shrieking for her lost children—she seems a respectable person, only odd looking because of her white skirt and the white reboso with which her head is covered, and anybody might speak to her. But whoever does speak to her in that very same moment dies!

No one who has stopped her to talk with her ever has lived to tell what happens at that terrible encounter, but it is generally known that what does happen is this: Slowly she turns toward the one who has spoken, and slowly she opens the folds of her white reboso, and then is seen a bare grinning skull set fast to a bare skeleton, and from her fleshless jaws comes one single icy cold breath that freezes into instant death whoever feels it. After that, shrieking again for her lost children, she rushes onward, the white gleam of her gushing the darkness, and in the morning the one who spoke to her is found lying dead there with a look of despairing horror frozen fast in his dead eyes.

What is most wonderful is that she is seen in the same hour by different people in places widely apart, one seeing her hurrying across the atrium of the cathedral, another beside the Arcos de San Cosme and a third near the Salto del Augua, over by the prison of Belen, and all in the very same moment of time.

She is so generally known, senior, and so greatly feared that nowadays few people stop her to speak with her, and that is fortunate. But her loud, keen wailings and the sound of her running feet are heard often and especially on nights of storm. I myself have heard them, senior, but I have never seen her. God forbid that I ever shall!—Thomas A. Janvier in Harper's.

WHEN NOT TO KICK.

When you get a bad shave or hair cut. Neither lasts long.

When you find you're going to die poor. They haven't begun making pockets in shrouds yet.

When your health goes back on you. Life isn't very long, anyway, and a healthy man dies just as dead as a sick one.

When you discover a mean streak in your neighbor. He has to stay with that mean streak day and night, and you don't.

When you can't pay all your debts at once. Your creditors would a great deal rather get the money in dribbles than not at all.

When you have had a bad meal set before you. You may get over it before the next meal even if you eat it, and you don't have to eat it.

When your wife isn't in good humor. She is partially balancing the books against some of your numerous disagreeable spots that you never make note of.—Chicago News.

Special Election.

Owing to a tie in the vote for one of the Supervisors at the election on Tuesday, Nov. 6, a special election was held Tuesday of this week at the Town hall, with Moderator W. E. Cram presiding, Town Clerk J. A. Balch had charge of the check list, and the Selectmen were in attendance. The polls were open at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and by vote were kept open till 7 o'clock in the evening, at which time this result was announced.

Editorial Pen-Points

An English woman says that women are better financiers than men. Everyone knows that they are distinguished for being able to keep money in circulation.

Some Englishman has been writing in the papers about the "joyless American face." He was probably thinking of a crowd of defeated candidates the day after election.

The President of France has eight newspaper men in his cabinet but the President of the United States has a Cabinet composed of all the newspaper men in the country.

The Standard Oil Company has been fined only five thousand dollars by the Findlay Ohio court. The Judge probably had some sympathy for the consumers who will doubtless pay the fine.

Now that the elections are over and the result is known and while the President is speeding over the flashing bridge to study the Canal on its own ground, the country is looking forward to the assembling of Congress for a short, sharp, but probably eventful session that must end at noon on Mar. 4, 1907. There is no doubt but that the President's message will mark out a program of legislation that will give the country something to think about and will give Congress something to do, if it is as responsive as was the last Congress to executive suggestion.

President Roosevelt's strength has been confirmed both in the country and Congress by this election. He is assured of a party majority during the remainder of his term. Those who opposed him have gone down, while the people have embraced opportunities when presented to approve his friends. His hands are upheld and there is reason to believe that this and the following session of Congress will emulate the last session in progressive wholesome legislation.

2 BRICK COURT.

Temple Chambers in Which Oliver Goldsmith Amused Himself.

Few buildings link the London of the present day with so many of the literary characters of the London of the past as does the house at 2 Brick Court, Middle Temple. The dominant memory which clings around it is that perpetuated by a handsome tablet on its front elevation bearing the words:

In these chambers died Oliver Goldsmith On the 4th of April, 1774.

and a medallion of the poet. Goldsmith's, however, was seldom a lonely figure, and he gathered around him at Brick Court all the wit of the metropolis of his day. In 1763, on the strength of the success of "The Good Natured Man" and the fact that he was making some £500 a year, "Goldie" expended £400 on chambers "up two pair right" and fitted them with showy carpets, gilt mirrors and furniture extravagantly upholstered in blue velvet. Thus equipped, he embarked on a course of expenditure in which fine clothes for himself, grand dinners to a literary coterie and pretty trifles for venal beauties all bore costly parts. Johnson, Dr. Arne, Percy Reynolds, Francis and Bickerstaff were among the frequent visitors at 2 Brick Court, but their arrival was not the cause of so much concern to Goldsmith's coteries as that of some other of the poet's guests. It was the little supper parties to Goldsmith's young friends of both sexes that drew from the studious Blackstone, hard at work on his famous "Commentaries" in the rooms below "Goldie's," bitter protests against the racket of his "revelling neighbor."

Both "The Traveler" and "The Vicar of Wakefield" were published soon after Goldsmith moved into Brick Court, but the income they brought him was insufficient to withstand the drain made on his resources by his extravagance, his generosity and his taste for gambling. Owing £2,000, unable to obtain further advances from his booksellers and seeing no way out of his embarrassments, Goldsmith broke down in spirits and health. He had to leave those windows from which he used to watch the rooks in the grove, which once stood where now is Elm Court, and, as he wrote, "often amused myself with observing their plan of policy." Goldsmith returned thither, nevertheless, to die, and though he was carried to his last resting place through rows of weeping women the benches of the Temple appear to have valued him so little that the very place of his burial became forgotten. For that neglect the tablet came as tardy but welcome reparation.—London Tribune.

Amy Robsart. On a Sunday in September, 1590, Lady Robert Dudley, better known under her maiden name of Amy Robsart, being in good health, sent to a fair all the people of Cornhill Hall, near Oxford, where she was residing, except one friend. On their return she was lying dead at the foot of the stairs. Dudley courted inquiry. The inquest found that she died by accident, and she was splendidly buried in St. Mary's, Oxford. The Spanish ambassador wrote that Elizabeth had told him a few days before that Amy was likely to die soon, but he may well have had a motive for a false statement. It is Sir Walter Scott's greatest crime that he misdates Amy Robsart's death by some fifteen years.—Pall Mall Gazette.

In a Chicago school a class was studying irregular plurals of nouns when it was asked by the teacher to give the plural of "child." Then it was that little Edgar, who knew how it was at home, promptly answered, "Twins."

ANTRIM PHARMACY.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How To Find Out.
Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or something indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

State and County News

The house, barn and outbuildings of Charles Miles at Dover were destroyed by fire Wednesday evening. Loss $8500.

Joseph Burke, 15, Nashua, slipped from a freight car under the wheels. His left leg was amputated above the knee.

The water house at South Danbury caught fire about Saturday morning, probably owing to cinders from a freight train. The crew of another freight discovered the blaze and extinguished it after most of the roof had been burned off.

Albert J. Giguere of Manchester dislocated his left shoulder by falling from a ladder while assisting to decorate Mechanic's hall.

John O'Keefe, a Manchester cigar-maker, committed suicide by jumping into the river at Litchfield Friday. He had been on a spree.

Charles Amlaw, who has been living with his daughter, Mrs. Robert Palmer, Manchester, fell down the back door steps of the Farmer home Sunday and was badly injured. Mr. Amlaw is nearly 89 years of age, and it is feared the fall will have fatal results.

The stable attached to the residence of Joseph M. Howe of Woodsville was entirely destroyed by fire Friday morning and the L of the house badly damaged by fire and water before the flames were extinguished. The fire caught from the rear of the stable. The loss is upwards of $1000.

Andrew G. Lowd and Charles Burbank of Manchester were seriously injured Monday by the breaking of a staging, while they were at work shingling a house. The men were fully 40 feet from the ground when with a crash that could be heard for a long distance the staging gave way and the two men fell upon a heap of waste material. Lowd was hurt internally, and also received a dislocated shoulder. Burbank could not stand and his injuries are of a serious nature.

Lake Sunapee vacationists will hold a reunion in Boston Nov. 21, the proceeds to be presented to the Rev. J. J. Hogan of Newport, to be used for the erection of a Catholic church on Great Island, situated about the center of Lake Sunapee, within easy reach of Burke Haven, Blodgett's Landing, Soo-Nipi Park, Georges Mills, Grandlinden and other nearby places.

Canterbury was visited by a costly blaze Friday morning, when the farm buildings owned and occupied by Chas F. Jones were destroyed with their contents. The fire is supposed to have caught from the chimney.

As the result of operations of a fire-bug the Boston and Maine passenger station, freight depot, train sheds and wharf at Alton Bay, and the mill in Alton village are in complete ruins, and the Colbath box factory shows the effects of a fire that was checked by the quick work of the fire department. The loss is about $30,000.

A peculiar case came up before probate court at Newport, when a petition was brought to the court by Geo. Patten of Springfield, grandfather of Fred Austin, a young lad of 7 years, asking that his great-grandmother, Mrs. Adeline J. Chase be appointed his guardian. This is a very unusual case and it is doubtful if any similar case has appeared before.

Preventics, as the name implies, prevent all Colds and Grippe when "taken at the sneeze stage."

Preventics are toothsome candy tablets. Preventics dissipate all colds quickly, and taken early, when you first feel that a cold is coming, they check and prevent them. Preventics are thoroughly safe for children, and as effectual for adults. Sold and recommended in 5 cent and 25 cent boxes by Wm. F. Dickey.

It Takes Nerve

Everything depends upon your nerves. It is nerve force that causes the brain to direct the motion of your body; it is nerve force that causes your heart to pulsate, and send the blood through your veins; it is nerve force that causes your stomach to digest food, your kidneys to filter the blood, and the liver to secrete bile.

In fact, nerve force is the power that runs your body, so if you feel worn-out, irritable, nervous, cannot sleep, or eat well, have pain or misery anywhere, your nerves are weak, and your system run-down. To restore this vitality take Dr. Miles' Nervine which will strengthen and build up the nerves. You cannot be healthy without strong nerves.

"For eighteen years Dr. Miles' Nervine and Anti-Pain Pills have been my close companions. Early in married life, while raising children, my nerves became all worn-out—could not sleep; had no appetite; indigestion very bad, and had such awful dizzy spells. Then I began using Dr. Miles' Nervine, and at once I began to improve, and soon found myself in perfect health."

MRS. S. L. YOUNG, 324 Pittsburg St., New Castle, Pa. Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Two Dyspeptics

If you are too fat it is because your food turns to fat instead of muscle—strength. If you are too lean the fat producing foods that you eat are not properly digested and assimilated. Lean, thin, stringy people do not have enough Pepsin in the stomach, while fat people have too much Pepsin and not enough Pancreatine.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

contains all the digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach, and in exactly those proportions necessary to enable the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all foods that may be eaten. Kodol is not only a perfect digestant, but it is a reconstructive, tissue building tonic as well. Kodol cures indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Palpitation of the Heart and Constipation. You will like it.

Digests What You Eat
Rests the stomach, rebuilds the tissues and gives firm flesh.

Regarding Your Eyesight!

Caution about the Use and Selection of Spectacles

Persons who have eyesight which is not perfect should be careful in the selection of their spectacles. It is not enough to have a pair of spectacles made to order, but they should be made by a person who has had a thorough study of the optical business and is able to select the proper lenses for each case. If the lenses are not properly selected, they will do more harm than good.

NOTICE THE ACCOMPANYING CUT.

We DON'T know it all but we DO guarantee to give you BETTER RESULTS for LESS EXPENSE to you than it would cost you to leave town or be fitted by a so-called Travelling Optician.

WHY BETTER RESULTS—Because, we have made a thorough study of the Optical Business and if, as in many cases, the first set of lenses do not exactly fit your case after a few days, we are where you can find us at any time.

WHY FOR LESS EXPENSE—Because, our expenses are less than almost all others in the same line of business and all we want is a fair profit. We buy our material right, therefore we sell it right.

Give us a fair trial and judge for yourself.

Made Happy for Life.

Great happiness came into the home of S. C. Blair, school superintendent, at St. Albans, W. Va., when his little daughter was restored from the dreadful complaint he names. He says: "My little daughter had St. Vitus' Dance, which yielded to no treatment but grew steadily worse until as a last resort we tried Electric Bitters; and I rejoice to say, three bottles effected a complete cure." Quick, sure cure for nervous complaints, general debility, female weaknesses, impoverished blood and malaria. Guaranteed by W. F. Dickey's drug store. Price 50 cents.

A Year of Blood.

The year of 1903 will long be remembered in the home of F. N. Tackett, of Alliance, Ky., as a year of blood; which flowed so copiously from Mr. Tackett's lungs that death seemed very near. He writes: "Severe bleeding from the lungs and a frightful cough had brought me at death's door, when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, with the astonishing result that after taking four bottles I was completely restored and as time has proven permanent cured." Guaranteed for Sore Lungs, Coughs and Colds, at W. F. Dickey's drug store. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

THE TRADE RAT.

Odd Ways of This Peculiar Little California Rodent.

One of the oddest little animals in existence is the California wood rat, better known as the "trade rat." It owes the latter name to the fact that, though it is a great thief, it never steals anything without putting something else in its place. It is said that a paste pot which had been left overnight in the assay office of a silver mine in that state was found in the morning with the oddest collection of rubbish. This was the work of trade rats. They had stolen the paste and left in exchange a piece of stick, a length of rope, some odds and ends of wire and an unbroken glass funnel. The object of the trade rat in so scrupulously paying for what he takes is something of a mystery, but these same rats certainly take the greatest pleasure in the odds and ends which they steal and collect.

In Lindsay's "Mind in Lower Animals" a description is given of a trade rat's nest found in an unoccupied house. The outside was composed entirely of iron spikes laid in perfect symmetry, with the points outward. Interlaced with the spikes were about two dozen forks and spoons and three large butcher knives. There were also a large carving fork, knife and steel, several plugs of tobacco, an old purse, a quantity of small carpenters' tools, including several augers, and a watch, of which the outside casing, the glass and the works were all distributed separately, so as to make the best show possible.

The trade rat has its South American counterpart in the viscacha, a pretty little relative of the chinchilla, which lives in families of twenty or thirty on the pampas. Everything that takes its fancy and is portable is carried by the viscacha and piled in neat little heaps at the mouth of its burrow. If a ranchman drops his watch or any similar article he always searches the viscacha burrows in the neighborhood and generally finds his lost property.—Chicago News.

ABORIGINES OF AFRICA.

Vaalpens Seem to Be the Lowest Order of Cannibals.

An obscure race may possibly be the true aborigines of Africa south of the Zambezi.

These are the Kattea, or Vaalpens, as they are nicknamed by the Boers on account of the dusty color their abdomen acquires from the habit of creeping into holes in the ground, who live in the steppes region of the north Transvaal as far as the Limpopo.

As their complexion is almost a pitch black and their stature only about four feet, they are quite distinct from their tall Bantu neighbors and from the yellowish Bushmen.

The "dogs" or "vultures," as the Zulus call them, are the "lowest of the low," being undoubtedly cannibals and often making a meal of their own aged and infirm, which the Bushmen never do.

Their habitations are holes in the ground, rock shelters and lately a few hovels. They have no arts or industries or even any weapons except those obtained in exchange for ostrich feathers, skins or ivory.

Whether they have any religious ideas it is impossible to say, all intercourse being restricted to barter carried on in a gesture language, for nobody has ever yet mastered their tongue, all that is known of their language being that it is absolutely distinct from that of both the Bushman and the Bantu.

There are no tribes, merely little family groups of from thirty to fifty individuals, each of which is presided over by a headman, whose functions are acquired not by heredity, but by personal qualities.

So little information is available concerning the Kattea that it is impossible to say anything about their racial affinities.—Scientific American.

A Queer Marriage Custom.

Members of the M'iji tribe, who live on the Limpopo river, wear an extraordinary "marriage dress." This weird and uncomfortable looking costume is made entirely of split reeds, fastened together with grass, and the unhappy bachelor who contemplates matrimony is compelled to wear it for three solid months before the happy event comes off, meanwhile leading a life of strict seclusion. What effect this extraordinary custom has on the popularity of marriage among the M'ijis is not known, but it was only with the utmost difficulty that some members of the mounted police, who encountered some would-be Benedicts, induced them to allow their photographs to be taken.—Wide World Magazine.

Not an Irishman.

There is a bust of Hugh O'Brien, a former mayor of Boston, in the corridor of the Boston Public library and one of John Boyle O'Reilly in the newspaper room. The other day a man approached one of the clerks in the newspaper room, saying, "Isn't there a bust of anybody except Irishmen in the building?" "Certainly," replied the clerk. "There is a bust of Lucifer in the periodical room, and he wasn't an Irishman."

Dyspepsia of Women

Cased by Female Disorders and Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

A great many women suffer with a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not seem to yield to ordinary treatment. While the symptoms seem to be similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines universally prescribed do not seem to restore the patient's normal condition.

Mrs. M. Wright

Mrs. Pinkham claims that there is a kind of dyspepsia that is caused by a derangement of the female organism, and which, while it causes a disturbance similar to ordinary indigestion, cannot be relieved without a medicine which not only acts as a stomach tonic, but has a peculiar tonic effect on the female organism.

As proof of this theory we call attention to the case of Mrs. Maggie Wright, Brooklyn, N. Y., who was completely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after everything else had failed. She writes:

"For two years I suffered with dyspepsia which so degenerated the entire system that I was unable to attend to my daily duties. I felt weak and nervous, and nothing that I ate tasted good and it caused a disturbance in my stomach. I tried different dyspepsia cures, but nothing seemed to help me. I was advised to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, and was happily surprised to find that it acted like a fine tonic, and in a few days I began to enjoy and properly digest my food. My recovery was rapid, and in five weeks I was a well woman. I have recommended it to many suffering women."

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement or has such a record of cures of female troubles, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Spoiling a Romance

By CLAUDE PATRICKS

Copyright, 1906, by E. C. Parcells

The broker's private secretary looked up in astonishment as the gray haired old broker, who was friggity itself, hailed the visitor with:

"Well, well, Tom, but where the devil did you spring from this morning?"

And Tom, who appeared to be fully as old and frigid and gray haired as the other, replied:

"Say, Jim, it's good for sore eyes to see you. The G. and S. road wants a thousand new freight cars, and I'm in the east to raise a loan. How are you, anyhow? Feeling pretty gay, old boy?"

And then the broker and the general manager sat down for a chat over old days at college and talked of this and that for an hour before the broker said:

"By the way, Tom, I've got a boy out on your road."

"You don't say! He hasn't been near me with a letter."

"But he's there. You remember my boy Dave? Always fussing around with machinery since he was a kid. I wanted to make a broker of him, but a couple of years ago, after going through the Polytechnic against my wishes, he threw me over. He wanted to go railroading, and I wanted him here and so we had a falling out."

"You don't say?"

"I didn't drive him from the house, but he left just the same. Said he was going to make his own fortune and all that bosh. Hasn't had a cent of his income from me in over a year. He writes to his mother, but I never hear direct from him. Got brains, I think, but he's self willed and inclined to be an ass."

"Don't be too hard on him. If it isn't his way to skin the lambs, let him try some other. I believe you used to be known as 'Old Obstinacy' once upon a time."

"Yes, I remember. If you happen to come across the boy and he deserves a lift, give it to him. No petting or pampering, though. Let him have all the roughing it he wants."

Away out west on the G. and S. railroad there was a young man of twenty-two working as fireman on an engine drawing a local. Two years before when he had applied to the superintendent of motive power for something to do the "super" had looked him over in contempt on account of his white hands and patent leather shoes and replied:

"Want work, eh? Well, I'll give it to you. Go up to the roundhouse and tell Sam to set you to work as a wiper. The pay will be $28 per month, and if you get grease spots on that dandy suit of yours the company won't pay for the cleaning."

The official turned away with a grin, thinking that that was the last of the young man, but he was mistaken. When three days had passed the boss of the roundhouse reported:

"Jay, you sent me a Jim Dandy of a wiper. Hanged if he don't seem to know something about machinery."

"What, did the young fellow show up?" asked the "super" in surprise.

"Been working right along, and he's the handiest chap I've had since my time here. You'll be promoting him out of the house in a month."

The young man was watched closely and kept track of. He had been put at the very dirtiest work and given the poorest pay, but he made no complaints. His time came when an engine was telephoned for in a hurry and there was nobody to run her out of the house and up the yard. He stepped into the cab and had the table turned for him and turned the engine over without comment. He was going back to his work when the superintendent asked:

"Did you ever fire an engine?"

"No, sir."

"Think you could?"

"I'm ready to give it a trial."

Two weeks later he was put on a yard engine. The engineer meant to find fault with him because he was a "dandy," but no opportunity occurred. He was kept in his place for six months, as there were many to be promoted in advance of him, but he was finally given a place on the local. When this engineer was asked to report on his "cab" he said:

"He's a peach in his way, but I dunno how he'll pan out in the end. He's one of these book engineers. He thinks he could take an engine to pieces and set her up again by the books, and I'm lookin' to see his head get swelled until the road has to bounce him."

Things were in this shape when the general manager returned from New York. He had forgotten about David Holmes for the moment. He wanted to go down the road for a few miles, and so he took the local.

He was accompanied by his daughter Nettie, but not in the car. It was said of this piquant girl of eighteen years that she ran the G. and S. road by running her father. She wanted to go down on the engine, and she had her way about it, and the meeting between her and "the handsome fireman," as Dave was called, had consequences. He had on his jumper and was grimy, but she saw beyond that. Her heart was beating faster before she had been in the cab five minutes.

During the next month that cab ride was repeated three or four times on one excursion and another, but the engineer grinned and said nothing. What might be called a clandestine correspondence followed. Perhaps there were clandestine meetings in the park when Dave had his days off. The very fact that an employee of a railroad dares to fall in love with the daughter of the general manager is a clandestine act.

The general manager had not yet hunted up the son of his old friend, being busy about those new cars and having to smooth down the backs of several directors who believed that the road was going into bankruptcy, when the motive power department promoted the fireman to be engineer and gave him a local of more importance.

It can't be said that Dave and Nettie were waiting for this thing to happen that something else might be brought about, but they were not long in taking advantage of it. The silly young couple planned an elopement.

It was given away by Miss Nettie's maid, and the general manager laid his little plans accordingly. The girl and her maid were allowed to depart for Royalston in the cab of Dave's engine, and at the first stop the G. M. left the passenger car in which he had been ensconced and appeared in the cab.

The way the maid shrieked out, added to the way the daughter turned pale and the engineer turned red, were sufficient evidence of guilt. The G. M. meant to be an avenging father. He meant to compel his daughter to faint away with remorse and the engineer to drop on his knees and beg pardon for living until he could reach the next station and get off his engine. In fact, the G. M. had a gun with him, and there is never any telling what a man who don't know the muzzle of a revolver from the butt may do when he gets to playing heroes.

"Young lady!"—he had begun in his sternest tones, when Dave interrupted to take all the blame. While he was taking it he gave his name and spoke of his father.

"Then—then you are David Holmes?"

asked the G. M. as he put up his gun.

"I can identify myself satisfactorily, sir."

"Then why in the devil haven't you done so long ago?"

"I wanted to succeed by my own efforts, and I think I have done fairly well."

"Y—s, I think you have," said the official as he looked at his daughter with a grim smile on his face.

"Father, Dave has invented a new fire box for engines, and it's bound to be a great success," said Nettie, with an appealing look.

"And is this eloping in an engine cab one of his inventions as well?"

"And, papa, dear, he has invented a new kind of frog—one you can't get your foot fast in and be run down—and he's got a jack by which one man can lift five tons, and you don't know how much coal and oil and labor he's going to save. He's one of the brightest and smartest and dearest!"

"That will do for just now," interrupted the father as he laid a hand on her arm. "Young man, do you think you could find my house if you tried very hard?"

"I do, sir," replied Dave.

"Then I will get off at the next station with the girls and be looking for you tomorrow evening. I believe you have the evening off. I want to talk with you about these new fire boxes, frogs, jacks and elopements."

Dave found the house without going far astray, and there was a conversation. The waybills of the G. and S. road don't show whether the couple had to wait three months or six, but they referred to David Holmes a year later as a division superintendent, and he did not stop there. When the marriage took place the father's face wore a smile as he kissed the bride, but the bride pouted and said:

"Now, papa, how mean of you to spoil our romance and make us get married in this stupid and old-fashioned way!"

Safe.

A New York man was stopping for a month at an inland town in Florida. This man is exceedingly fond of swimming, but has a horror of snakes, and this fear kept him from indulging in his favorite sport in the nearby river. He was fishing one day and mentioned his desire and the barrier to its enjoyment to his guide, a lanky and sorrowful "cracker."

"Oh, I kin fix yo' all up all right," the guide drawled and led the way to a beautiful little lake some distance back from the river. "Ain't nary snake in hyah," he said.

The northerner enjoyed a half hour's sport in the clear water and then, coming back to the white sand beach, began to dress. He then observed that what he had taken to be logs floating upon the water were in motion.

"Wonder what causes those logs to move?" he said.

"Them ain't logs," his guide calmly replied, chewing on a straw: "them's gators. That's how come there ain't no snakes in hyah—gators keeps 'em et up."—Harper's Weekly.

Right Handed.

It has been observed that infants who crawl on all fours make much more use of the right than the left hand unless they are left handed. A scientist accounts for this by declaring that right handedness is caused by the location of the organs of the body. The heart being on the left side causes very much greater weight than in the right. During active life the heart and arteries filled with blood make the increased weight of that side an item of some importance. The center of gravity is therefore thrown more to the left side. This being the case, the right arm is much more free than the left. There may be also a provision of nature in the use of the right hand more than the left. Throwing a ball, striking with a hammer or other violent exercise might have a depressing or injurious effect upon the heart if done with the left hand.

Incapacitated.

As the "extra hand" rose from his dinner in the farm kitchen the farmer's son informed him that he was to pitch hay in the afternoon.

"I won't do it!" was the curt reply.

"All right, please yourself. It doesn't make any difference to me," retorted the farmer's son. "My father told me to deliver the message, and if you don't pitch you'll get into trouble with him."

"I won't do it for either you or your father," rejoined the man. "You should 'ave told me sooner. At dinner time I filled myself for raking, and I can't pitch."

The First Scapegoat.

The word "scapegoat" originated in an ancient Hebrew custom practiced at the feast of the Passover. Placing a young goat upon the altar, the priests would pray over it, asking that all the sins of the people be visited upon the goat. Then, after each member of the tribe had transferred his guilt to the victim by laying on his hands, the animal was turned loose in the forests to be devoured by the wild beasts.

All Pleased.

"I hear your club is going to give an entertainment. Do you think it will be a success?"

"Sure to be. We've arranged it so that every member is chairman of some committee or other."—Philadelphia Ledger.

SECOND That they should be Ornamental as a Piece of Furniture. The new Designs speak for themselves and the finish insures their continued fine appearance.

THIRD That they should be Easily Cared For. The easiest lamp to rewick that is made, and burner parts so constructed as to be easily kept clean.

FOURTH That Wicks and Chimneys to Fit can be had Anywhere. Half the odor from lamps is due to improper wicks and chimneys that do not fit perfectly, the B & H wicks and chimneys are to be had in every lamp store.

Table Lamps, Hanging Lamps, Electric Reading Lamps, all the Very Finest in their Class.

Chimneys to Fit Any Lamp You May Have

MACBETH The Standard of the World. To have a chimney fit any burner means something more than that it will set up without falling off, it must be shaped exactly right or it will cause the lamp to smoke and will break when lamp is not in use. Bring us the name of your burner and we will give you a chimney that it should have, then remember the number (every one is numbered near the top) and you will have no difficulty again to fit your lamp.

Owing to the hard travelling and obstructions in the road, by way of snow-burden trees, James Favor was unable to reach the milk station in season to ship his milk Monday morning.

Your stomach churns and digests the food you eat and if foul, or torpid, or out of order, your whole system suffers from blood poison. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea keeps you well. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Wm. F. Dickey, Antrim, and Geo. O. Joslin, Bennington, N. H.

SOUTH LYNEBORO.

There was about 8 inches of snow on the ground Monday morning.

Mr. Beals returned from Concord, where has been for two weeks, Saturday night.

Susie Hartshorn is visiting her brother, John, in Antrim this week.

The Christian Endeavor Society held a sociable at the Vestry last Friday evening. A nice entertainment was furnished and home-made candy was for sale. The proceeds are to go toward purchasing an organ for the Vestry, the old one being about worn out.

Town meeting passed quietly. A. W. Putnam was chosen Moderator. Roy N. Putnam, Representative; A. Melendy, John Spaulding, C. H. Tarbell, Supervisors. The vote on license stood 76 to 16, for no license. The town is Republican but the vote for Governor was much reduced.

[Deferred from last week.]

Miss Ada Smith went to the Homeopathic hospital for treatment Monday.

Mr. Beals, who was sent to the asylum at Concord, seems contented and happy. The doctors pronounce it a case of softening of the brain and will probably never be any better.

A. W. Putnam shot a hawk which measured three and a half feet from tip to tip of wing. It had a large chicken when it was shot, which it had not killed. It was a very handsome bird and is to be stuffed.

Our townspeople are justly proud that our much esteemed citizen, Hon. Fred Kimball, has been reelected Senator in the 8th district. Congratulations.

A. A. Martin and John Harmon have returned from a hunting trip up north. The game is still cunning.

"One of the worst things that has happened to our town for years is that on Tuesday last she voted for license. Many were fearful that such a condition of things might prevail, and the drift of the thing could not be changed. After a trial, and we hope it will be a short one, many who today vote yes will cast their vote on the no side. Experience is a great teacher and we think this will give them an object lesson.

Danger From The Plague.

There's grave danger from the plague of Coughs and Colds that are so prevalent, unless you take Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Mrs. Geo. Walls of Forest City, Me., writes: "It's a Godsend to people living in climates where coughs and colds prevail. I find it quickly ends them. It prevents Pneumonia, cures LaGrippe, gives wonderful relief in Asthma and Hay Fever, and makes weak lungs strong enough to ward off Consumption, Coughs and Colds. 50c and $1.
