Special School Meeting.

It has been thought best by the members of the Antrim School Board to hold a special school meeting on Saturday afternoon, December 8, 1906, at 2 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting is to see if the District will authorize the School Board to hire money to pay for the new heating apparatus recently installed in the school house in District No. 1. It is desired that a good attendance be present.

Silver Wedding.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fowler on Prospect street was the scene of a pleasant gathering Friday evening, when some thirty of their friends and neighbors gave them a surprise party in honor of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. Refreshments, consisting of ice cream and cake, fruit and confectionery, were served, after which George Dresser, in a pleasing manner, presented Mr. and Mrs. Fowler with twenty-five new silver dollars. Mr. Fowler responded expressing their thanks and appreciation. At a late hour the friends dispersed, wishing them many happy returns of the day.

The Millionaire Marauder

By MARGARET MUZZEY

Copyright, 1906, by Ruby Douglas

"Going downtown, Dick?"
"Not in this flood. My umbrella has a broken rib."

"You are almost a surgeon. Why don't you set it?" asked Joe. "Take mine and have yours mended."

"Have mine fixed, too, will you?" called a voice from the next room.

"Mine needs a patch," said another young student of medicine, appearing in the door.

"I say, get the handle put on mine while you're about it," demanded a third.

Dick departed with Joe Dart's umbrella over his head and three disabled ones besides his own under his arm.

After leaving them with an umbrella mender he did some shopping and went into a corner drug shop to wait for a car. He was absorbed in the marvelous representations of a new patent medicine until, glancing out of the window, he saw his car, seized the nearest umbrella and hurried to the door.

As he passed out a feminine voice cried:

"Stop thief! He's stolen my umbrella!"

Without the faintest suspicion that it referred to him Dick ran and jumped on the car.

When he reached the boarding house he carried Joe's umbrella to his own room and forgot it until the next rainy day, when his friends inquired for their mended property.

"The repairs will be finished today. I'll bring your umbrellas on my way back from the hospital," he told them.

When he went out with Joe's umbrella, which he had not returned, it struck him as being rather small for a man, although it had not occurred to him when he carried it before.

As he seated himself in the car going uptown the woman next to him muttered an angry ejaculation. Dick moved his bunch of umbrellas and apologized, fearing he had set it on her foot, when to his astonishment she whispered:

"I congratulate you, young man. You have had a very successful morning. If it were not for making a scene that would get my name into the papers, I should denounce you here and now."

Dick was speechless. He started to his feet.

"Don't you suppose I recognize my stolen umbrella right there in your hand?"

"North street!" bawled the conductor.

"I will leave you to your own conscience," added the woman and was gone before Dick recovered sufficiently to retort.

"Isn't this your umbrella?" he asked Joe when he reached the house.

"It's five times as good. Where did you get it?"

"I must have exchanged with somebody," said Dick ruefully.

"Take my silver watch out and swap it off for a gold one, will you?" said Joe.

"Who shall you take to the next assembly?" Joe inquired later.

"I have asked Miss Mildred Wells, but, as I have only met her once, she will probably decline."

"Not Milly-with-the-mercenary-mother. She won't be permitted to refuse an invitation from the only son of a gold mine."

"Her mother has never even heard of me," said Dick crossly.

"She'll find you out soon enough. She keeps a regular Bradstreet's of eligible men. She has married all her nieces to diamond tiaras and is just waiting for a chap like you to crown her daughter. Her permission won't be asked this time, though. She is going away tonight. Milly told me so this afternoon."

Joe was eight, and Mildred accepted Dick's invitation. During her mother's absence she was relegated to the chaperonage of a much married cousin, who was too engrossed in the pursuit of sterilized nutriment and sanitary apparel for her children to keep a vigilant eye on her guest.

The night of the assembly found her unable to leave her youngest, who, having deposited a dime in his inside, refused to honor a draft of mustard and warm water for the amount. The distracted mother was easily persuaded to allow Milly to go with a friend.

"I shall have to leave early," Milly told her escort. "Mother will be home at 1 o'clock, and I must be there to greet her. I have been staying with Cousin Carrie, you know, but I promised mamma I would be back at our own house when she arrives."

They left the dance at midnight and started for Mildred's home. When they reached the house Dick inserted a latchkey, but it would not turn.

"Bridget has slipped the night latch," exclaimed Milly. "She sleeps on the third story and is so deaf she can't even hear by mail. What shall we do?"

"Isn't there a window I can open somewhere?"

"Suppose you try mother's room. The windows are on the piazza, and they are seldom locked."

"I will do my criminalist," said Dick.

"Just inside the window at the left is a stand with candle and matches. You can easily find the front door when you have a light."

Dick opened the window, stepped inside, felt around with his hand, which came in violent contact with something on the stand and knocked it off. The one match that he found in his waistcoat-pocket spluttered long enough to show him the little china match holder, which had rolled under the edge of the bed. He was on his knees to pick it up when suddenly the room was flooded with electric light, and he was seized by the tails of his evening coat and jerked violently backward. Struggling to his feet, he turned and looked directly into the muzzle of a revolver held by the accusing angel who had commended him to his conscience in the street car.

The surprise was mutual. Dick's first impulse was to laugh, but immediate contact with a loaded weapon in the hands of a feminine fury is not stimulating to one's sense of humor if the situation is sustained.

"Ah, ha, young man!" she cried triumphantly. "I have got you now—Daniel come to judgment!"

"In the lion's den, you mean," said Dick.

"You are delivered into my hands by an interposition sent direct from Providence."

"You've mistaken the postmark; it's from the other place," protested the prisoner.

It was futile to explain.

"You shall not escape me a second time. March straight into that closet."

She locked him in, withdrew the key and left the room.

Dick glued his ear to the keyhole, heard an electric bell, followed by the banging of the front door, and his custodian returned, accompanied by Mildred.

"Cousin Carrie gave me permission to go to the dance, mamma," she said, "and we left, as we thought, in plenty of time to reach here before you."

"What do you mean by 'we'?" I found you alone at the front door."

"Why, Dick—I mean Mr. Brown—was with me. My key wouldn't work, so he got in the window. He must be in the house somewhere. It's funny you haven't seen or heard him."

"I caught a young thief in the act of hiding under my bed, and I have put him where he can't do any harm unless from sheer viciousness he sees fit to tear my clothes."

"For heaven's sake, mamma, you haven't mistaken Dick for a burglar? Why, he is the only son of Richard Jones-Brown of Boonville, who owns the largest gold mine in the west."

"That's a lie," said the gentle parent.

"Richard Jones-Brown is Mrs. Doan's brother. I met him at her house in New York last week. He promised to send me a photograph of his son, who is a student in the medical college. I shall ask him to dinner."

Milly picked up some unopened mail that lay on the table.

"This must be a photograph. Look at it," she said.

Mrs. Wells tore off the envelope, disclosing the unmistakable likeness of "Daniel come to judgment."

"Oh, what have I done?" she moaned, collapsing into a chair.

Milly snatched the photograph.

"Isn't he the best looking thing you ever saw?" she exclaimed involuntarily. "I'm simply crazy about him!"

"Hear, hear!" bawled Dick, thumping on the closet door.

"Good gracious, mamma, have you locked him up? Give me the key this instant."

"Oh, don't let him out till I get upstairs," implored the old woman. "I've insulted him not once, but twice. He will never forgive me, never!"

But for reasons best known to herself Mildred thought that he would, and he did.

Probable Change at Tilton.

It is reported upon good authority that a change is soon to be made in the command of the New Hampshire Soldiers' Home at Tilton. It is understood that the present commandant, Capt. E. H. Smith of Peterborough, who has held the position since the home was opened, contemplates resignation on account of poor health. Already there are several applicants, the most prominent being Capt. A. D. Sanborn of Franklin.

Capt. Sanborn is a veteran of the Fifth New Hampshire volunteers, a past president of the New Hampshire Veterans' Association and at present junior vice commander of the department of New Hampshire, Grand Army of the Republic. He is a native of Franklin and is sixty-three years of age.

CAN YOU BELIEVE YOUR SENSES? When two of them, taste and smell, having been impaired if not utterly destroyed, by Nasal Catarrh, are fully restored by Ely's Cream Balm, can you doubt that this remedy deserves all that has been said of it by the thousands whom it has cured? It is applied directly to the effected air-passages and begins its healing work at once. Why not get it today? Fire at Clinton.

An alarm of fire aroused the people of this village on Friday last; the fire was at Harry McMahon's at Clinton Village, in the brick house formerly owned by M. Moore. It was due to a defective chimney probably, where the fire started. No serious damage was done, but the occupants were considerably frightened.

Recount of the Senatorial Vote in the Eighth District.

A petition was received by the secretary of state last Friday from W. H. Kiniry, the defeated candidate for senator in the eighth district, asking for an inspection of the ballots cast in that district. A date for the inspection has been fixed by Mr. Pearson for Dec. 26.

The eighth senatorial district is a large one and adds to the enormous amount of work in the inspection line now confronting the office of the secretary of state. The district comprises the towns of Antrim, Alstead, Bennington, Bradford, Deering, Franconstown, Greenfield, Hancock, Lyndeborough, Marlow, Mont Vernon, Newbury, Stoddard, Sutton, Walpole, Washington, Weare, and Windsor.

A Change in the Liquor Law.

It is a little early to talk prospective legislation by the coming General Court, but already there is such talk, and among other matters the one relating to a change in the present liquor law is talked of, something like this: "When the legislature convenes in January it is understood that a strong attempt will be made by the liquor dealers throughout the state for a revision of several of the chapters of the license law and the repeal of some. It is argued that the law has been tried and the defects found. One move, it is understood, is to have the law so fixed that when a town goes no-license, it will be strictly so, with no license to drugstores or to inns or hotels. It has been intimated that druggists have been influential in some cities and towns in the vote for no-license for the furthering of their own interests."

The new Pure Food and Drug Law will mark it on the label of every Cough Cure containing Opium, Chloroform, or any other stupefying or poisonous drug. But it passes Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure as made for 20 years, entirely free. Dr. Shoop all along has bitterly opposed the use of all opiates or narcotics. Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure is absolutely safe even for the youngest babe—and it cures, it does not simply suppress. Get a safe and reliable Cough Cure, by simply insisting on having Dr. Shoop's. Let the law be your protection. We cheerfully recommend and sell it. Wm. F. Dickey.

Almost Admitted It Was Proved. John Kendrick Bangs was discussing in a New York club a case of plagiarism.

"The man admitted that plagiarism was suspected of him," said Mr. Bangs, smiling. "He almost admitted it was proved. He reminded me of a Yonkers boy I used to know.

"This boy said to his chum one morning:

"I hid under the parlor sofa last night to hear what young Soffleigh would say to my sister."

"Well, what did he say?" the other boy asked.

"He only talked religion and politics, and he kicked me about thirty times on the head."

"He knew you were there, I guess," said the second boy.

"I'm afraid he suspected it."

About Advertising

It costs money to advertise in a paper of circulation and influence in the community. Every business man who seeks to enlarge his trade, recognizes the fact that advertising is a legitimate expense. It is not the cheapest advertising that pays the best. Sometimes it is the highest priced newspaper that brings the largest net profit to the advertiser.

NEW SHORT STORIES

King Edward's Politeness.

Since the return of the Marlborough party a series of new stories of the king have been going the rounds of the clubs, according to a London cablegram. Two of the most popular are here repeated:

"A few days before his departure the king was overtaken by a shower when about ten minutes' walk from the hotel. Although he was without the protection of an overcoat, he carried an umbrella and proceeded to avail himself of its shelter as he tramped back to the hotel with vigorous strides.

"He had scarcely covered half the distance when he noticed an old woman, a native of the place, with her head bent downward, trying to make headway against the heavy shower.

"The king crossed over and placed his umbrella in the old woman's hand; while she, in the intervals of a moment, heaped blessings on the head of the good natured stranger. "Send it to the hotel when you have finished with it," said the king carelessly, as he prepared for a brisk walk.

"Who shall I say it's for?" asked the grateful old dame.

"Address it to the Duke of Lancaster," answered his majesty, giving the name as he moved away, leaving the old woman prostrated with awe as the identity of her good Samaritan dawned upon her.

"Next day the umbrella was returned, with a huge bunch of flowers attached to the handle."

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How To Find Out.
Fill a bottle of common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.
There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contains Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and slow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend WANTED—by Chicago wholesale and mail order house, assistant manager (man or woman) for this county and adjoining territory. Salary $20 and expenses paid weekly; expense money advanced. Work pleasant; position permanent. No investment or experience required. Spare time valuable. Write at once for full particulars and enclose self-addressed envelope. Address GENERAL MANAGER, 184 E. Lake St., Chicago, Ill.

THE WHOLE system feels the effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla—stomach, liver, kidneys, heart, nerves are strengthened and SUSTAINED.

It Takes Nerve

Everything depends upon your nerves. It is nerve force that causes the brain to direct the motion of your body; it is nerve force that causes your heart to pulsate, and send the blood through your veins; it is nerve force that causes your stomach to digest food, your kidneys to filter the blood, and the liver to secrete bile.

In fact, nerve force is the power that runs your body, so if you feel worn-out, irritable, nervous, cannot sleep, or eat well, have pain or misery anywhere, your nerves are weak, and your system run-down. To restore this vitality take Dr. Miles' Nervine which will strengthen and build up the nerves. You cannot be healthy without strong nerves.

"For eighteen years Dr. Miles' Nervine and Anti-Pain Pills have been my close companions. Early in married life, while raising children, my nerves became all worn-out—could not sleep; had no appetite; indigestion very bad, and had such awful dizzy spells. Then I began using Dr. Miles' Nervine, and at once I began to improve, and soon found myself in perfect health."

Two Dyspeptics

If you are too fat it is because your food turns to fat instead of muscle—strength. If you are too lean the fat producing foods that you eat are not properly digested and assimilated. Lean, thin, stringy people do not have enough Pepsin in the stomach, while fat people have too much Pepsin and not enough Pancreatine.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

contains all the digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach, and in exactly those proportions necessary to enable the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all foods that may be eaten. Kodol is not only a perfect digestant, but it is a reconstructive, tissue building tonic as well. Kodol cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Palpitation of the Heart and Constipation. You will like it.

Digests What You Eat. Rests the stomach, rebuilds the tissues and gives firm flesh.

An East St. Louis Court has decided that sixty cents a year is not sufficient allowance for a wife's clothes, and Miss Julia Morosini of New York says that a woman cannot dress well on less than $100,000 a year. There is considerable room between the two sums for people to decide just what is the proper amount.

Near Buffalo recently an automobile was driven 492 miles in four hours, or at an average speed of 123 miles an hour. This reminds us of the Kansas farmer who was blown into the next county in a fearful storm and where a preacher condescended him saying, "God was with you all the time." The farmer said, "Well, if He was He was going some."

WASHINGTON LETTER

[Special Correspondence.] Cranks have ceased to trouble the White House. Whether the cessation of their activity is permanent it is impossible to say. At any rate the secret service men and police whose business it is to guard the White House grounds and watch over the safety of the president have been having little or no difficulty with them lately.

It is said the secret service men and the police have had comparatively little difficulty with individuals of the crank species since the forcible ejection of Mrs. Minor Morris from the White House. Whether the summary treatment of Mrs. Morris had the effect of serving notice on them that their presence was not desired about the executive grounds and mansion can only be conjectured. Indications are that the effect was something of this kind.

Secrecy of Cranks. When the president first took office and nearly all through his first term cranks seemed to be attracted to the White House in large numbers. They came in waves. Some months there was a scarcity of crank visitors, and then there would be a flood of them. The news that some objectionable visitor had been cut off in an attempt to see the president one day was pretty apt to be surely followed by two or three other similar announcements the same week. Some were arrested and examined as to their sanity. Others were merely intercepted and sent out of Washington.

Secret service men and police alike are congratulating themselves now on their secrecy.

Pedigree Diplomats. Again the American appetite for title and pedigree is tickled by the appointment of Esme Howard to succeed Walter Beaupre Townley as counselor of the British embassy here. Like his predecessor, Esme Howard has a titled wife, Lady Isabella Howard, a genuine Italian princess, her father having rather more titles than one can remember at the first sitting. Esme Howard's pedigree is quite long enough, and he has quite a sufficient number of ancestors to satisfy the American appetite.

Americans Like Titles. Generally a diplomat with a title is selected for the post here, and if he has not one and shows signs of making good he soon receives one. When Baron Speck von Sternburg first came to Washington as a simple secretary of the German embassy he was Speck von Sternburg. Those were days when he reserved three regular places for dining, two of the number being the homes of Mrs. L. Z. Leiter and Senator Lodge, while he was on no less familiar terms than now with the president, who called him "Speck." Now he is his excellency Baron Speck von Sternburg, and though he modestly records himself in the diplomatic list as Freiherr Speck von Sternburg, his friends, all but the president, roll the "baron" under their tongues with keen relish.

Cupid in the Departments. A considerable stir was made in the departments here by a story to the effect that where a man and wife were employed in the departments one or the other would have to sacrifice the position. Investigation shows that for the present, at least, no action of this character has been decided upon. There appears to be no good reason why a man and wife should both be employed by the government. Before this cabinet officers have taken cognizance of marriages between clerks, and such clerks as have wives or husbands in other departments find it hard to get promotions. Often in public office here clerks marry and continue in office, drawing two salaries in effect if not in law. Many such marriages are concealed for fear that one or the other of the contracting parties may be discharged.

POMPEIAN MASSAGE CREAM

is today indispensable on the dressing table of gentlewoman or gentleman. Not only does a Pompeian Massage perfectly cleanse the skin, but it removes wrinkles and blackheads, takes out stiffness of the facial muscles, animates the tissues, and makes the flesh firm and solid. Men use Pompeian Cream after shaving—it flexes the muscles and takes away shaving soreness. Most women recognize the value of this preparation in maintaining a clear and healthy skin.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Dickey had the misfortune to fall from a chair one day last week and hurt her head quite seriously; she is now getting along as comfortably as possible.

A Thanksgiving sermon will be preached by Rev. William Hurlin at the Woodbury Memorial M. E. church on Thursday morning at 10.45 o'clock. It is earnestly hoped that an unusually good attendance will be present.

A committee from the three village churches met in the Methodist church lecture room on Sunday afternoon for the purpose of considering the advisability of holding special services in the near future. No definite action was taken, but a committee of the three village pastors were appointed to further consider the matter and report at a meeting to be held in two weeks.

On Sunday, December 2, Rev. G. W. Buzzell of Nashua, will occupy the pulpit at the Woodbury Memorial M. E. church; a children's quartet from the Goodwill Institute in Nashua will sing. In the evening of the same day there will be a union service at the same church. On Saturday evening, Dec. 1, Rev. Mr. Buzzell and quartet will give a concert at eight o'clock in the vestry of the Methodist church.

PASSWORDS AT THE BANKS.

A Secret Sign Given Those Who Cannot Write Their Names.

The banks give secret passwords to depositors who cannot read or write. When one of these depositors goes to draw out money the cashier leans forward and whispers:

"What's your password?"

The depositor whispers an answer, and if the correct password is given the money is paid out.

In a bank the other day a negro woman sat upon a bench, her face indicating intense application of mind. The cashier nodded toward her and said:

"She's forgotten her password and is trying to think of it. She came to the window awhile ago and wanted to get some money. She only wanted a small amount. But she can't write. She's one of quite a number of our depositors who are given passwords when they open an account. When she came in I asked her to give her name and address. She answered right up. 'What's your password?' I asked her.

"M-m," she exclaimed, pursing her lips, 'let me see. Ain't dat peculiar? Hit done 'scaped mah mind now!'

"Can't you think of it?' I said. 'You know I can't pay the money until you give me the password?'

"Lord, honey," she exclaimed, 'Ah's mighty nigh dat money! But Ah jes' can't 'member hit now!'

"Well, sit down and think it over," I suggested to her. 'It may come to you.'

In a few minutes the old woman arose with a happy look upon her face and went up to the cashier's window. She put her face as far inside the narrow window as she could and whispered:

"Abraham Linkin."

"Correct," answered the cashier, and he paid her the money she was after.

"Ah-jes' couldn't place dat man's name at first," she said as she went out.—Kansas City Star.

Afternoon Gown.

The silks of the season are exceptionally charming, exceptionally beautiful in color as well as in weave, and are greatly in vogue for afternoon gowns. Here is one that is trimmed with velvet ribbon and lace applique and that is combined with a chemisette of lace over chiffon, the whole gown giving a princess effect, while in reality waist and skirt are separate. The waist is one of the pretty ones that suggest the gimpie idea, while the skirt is in princess style and shirred to form the girle. All the soft and crushable silks and wool materials of the season are suited to the model, and that means an almost indefinite list, for almost everything fashionable is soft and almost everything allows of shirring without appreciable bulk. The narrow gathered frills at the lower edge of the skirt are among the season's trimmings and are particularly effective in materials of this sort.

PRINCESS EFFECT.

CRISIS OF GIRLHOOD

A TIME OF PAIN AND PERIL

Miss Emma Cole Says that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has Saved Her Life and Made Her Well.

How many lives of beautiful young girls have been sacrificed just as they were ripening into womanhood! How many irregularities or displacements have been developed at this important period, resulting in years of suffering!

Miss Emma Cole

A mother should come to her child's aid at this critical time and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will prepare the system for the coming change and start this trying period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities.

Miss Emma Cole of Tullahoma, Tenn., writes:
Dear Mrs. Pinkham:
"I want to tell you that I am enjoying better health than I have for years, and I owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

"When fourteen years of age I suffered almost constant pain, and for two or three years I had soreness and pain in my side, headaches and was dizzy and nervous, and doctors all failed to help me."
"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended, and after taking it my health began to improve rapidly, and I think it saved my life. I sincerely hope my experience will be a help to other girls who are passing from girlhood to womanhood, for I know your Compound will do as much for them."

"If you know of any young girl who is sick and needs motherly advice ask her to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and she will receive free advice which will put her on the right road to a strong, healthy and happy womanhood. Mrs. Pinkham is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge."

A QUIANT CHARACTER

THE ECCENTRICITIES OF THE ITALIAN MARQUIS DEL GRILLO.

Grim Joke by Which He Attempted to Revolutionize the Administration of Justice in Rome—Giving to Caesar What Belonged to Caesar.

The Marquis del Grillo, husband of the famous actress, Adelaide Ristori, was one of the best known characters of his day. Rich, bearing a title that made him one of the most conspicuous figures in Roman life, and absolutely indifferent to what others thought of him, he indulged in all sorts of pranks. Society called them eccentricities and pronounced him slightly unbalanced, but in reality he was possessed of unusually bright faculties. He had a keen sense of humor, loved excitement and was thoroughly awake to the shortcomings of his generation. His eccentricities were so many and so varied, which pleased him to administer in his own quaint way, and they seldom went wide of the mark.

His first attempt at a practical joke, if such it may be termed, came fair to revolutionize the administration of justice in Rome.

Punctually at 10 one bright spring morning every church bell in town began to ring "a morte," a long, peculiar toll used to announce a death. Pius IX. was then reigning pontiff and, hearing the general tolling, asked who the great personage was that all Rome was mourning. None of his "saints" knew, but inquiries at St. Peter's elicited the fact that the Marquis del Grillo had sent the order without specifying who was dead. The pontiff was even more mystified, and when word had come from other churches to the same effect he sent for the marquis, who promptly answered the summons.

"I hear," said Pius IX. to the marquis, that it is at your bidding that every bell in Rome is tolling. Who, then, is dead?"

"Justice, your holiness," was the enigmatic reply.
"Justice?"
"Yes, your holiness—Justice. The goddess is no more in the pontifical states."

And thereupon he related to the astonished pontiff how, becoming aware of the corruption existing in judicial circles, he had made an experiment. Claiming that the farm of a poor neighbor of his belonged to him, he brought the poor man to court and by liberal bribing obtained possession of the whole estate, to which he had no right whatsoever.

The pope, after listening attentively, censured the marquis severely for the method used, but history tells us that the lesson bore fruit and that many changed took place in important civic positions.

At another time the marquis, who always dressed very modestly, made his way on foot to the palace of Prince Massimo, where a big reception was being held. As he approached the entrance a pompous lackey looked him over from head to foot and then barred the way.

"No admittance tonight," he said insolently. "A reception is going on."

The nobleman stood amazed, for even over princes he often took precedence, but then he saw the humor of the situation and, smiling to himself, walked away.

Half an hour later a magnificent coach drew up before the palace, and out stepped the marquis, resplendent in a gorgeous court uniform and scintillating with decorations. In a minute the whole house was astir, and the hostess herself met him and led him in. The night was warm, and soon she invited him to have an ice, an offer which he promptly accepted. Imagine her feelings when, instead of eating it, he coolly and deliberately proceeded to spread spoonful after spoonful over the front of his uniform and on his numerous decorations.

"Why, marquis," she exclaimed in alarm, "what are you doing?"

"Giving Caesar what belongs to Caesar," was the quiet reply. "Your servants refused to let me in in the garb of a plain gentleman, but promptly admitted my costume and decorations when I carried them in. Is it not that that should be rewarded?"

A peculiarity of the marquis was his refusing to have as personal valets any but the most quick witted of young fellows, who could help him in his little escapades without having to be coached too much. Many amusing tales are told of his experiences in engaging them. In one instance he was sitting at the piano trying some church music when a new applicant was ushered in. He didn't stop playing or even glance around, but began to ask questions, the answers to which evidently did not appeal to him, for he suddenly struck a loud chord and, following the tune of the music, chanted in a loud voice, "You will never do for me." Then he rose and without a look at the man started to walk out of the room. Quick as a flash the applicant stepped to the piano and, striking the keys with both fists, chanted back solemnly on the same air, "I'm very glad of it, because I don't like you a bit."

Any one else would have had the man thrown out for his impudence, but the marquis paused at the door and smiled with appreciation.

"I guess we shall get on nicely, after all," he said pleasantly. "See my 'maggior domo' and speak to him about terms."—New York Times.

One by Mr. Cushman.

Representative Cushman of Washington is a delightful story teller. The following is his latest:

"Once there was a young man who got into the habit of drinking too much. He would go out almost every night and get filled up, and a friend of his would be obliged to take him home. This friend got tired of piloting the fellow home night after night. One night he was escorting him in his customary condition and was delivering him a lecture on morals en route. They had turned a corner, and directly in front of them was a big distillery in which the night force was at work. The structure was lighted up with electricity from basement to cupola. Just then his friend said to him, 'Harry, you ought to have sense enough to know that you can't drink all the whiskey that is manufactured.' Harry took another reef in his legs and, pointing his unsteady finger toward the distillery, said, 'Well, I call (hic) your attention to the fact that I am making them (hic) work nights, all right.'"

Self Evident.

"That proposition is self evident," said Senator Beveridge in the course of an argument. "It reminds me of two men at a horse race."

"The course was crowded, and one of the men was short, while the other was tall. The short man could see nothing. The tall one had to look on for both. And during the principal race this conversation went on between them:

"Where's the Scarlet now?"
"He's leading fine."
"And now?"
"Hang it, he's down."
"Now?"
"He's up. He's leading again."
"Now where is he?"
"Still leading."
"And now?"
"He still leads."
"Thereupon the short man exclaimed in great excitement:
"By Jiminy, if he maintains it he'll win!"

"I have quite a unique little episode worked out for my new historical novel."

"What is its tenor?"
"Instead of having my hero fling the driver his purse, I propose to have him proffer the exact legal fare. This will naturally bring on a dispute and afford the hero an excellent and logical opportunity for shedding gore."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

CHOICE MISCELLANY

Importance of Alcohol.

The most important measure of the last congress from an industrial standpoint was the denatured alcohol bill, so called, as if the prime object of nature in making alcohol was to provide a beverage. The bill removed the entire tax from alcohol which had been rendered undrinkable, so that this important agent in the arts might be used with comparative freedom. Free alcohol in the arts lies almost at the basis of industrial Germany, which employs it to the extent of 75,000,000 gallons a year. Our own tax of $2.18 on each gallon was practically prohibitive, and in these important manufactures which depended upon its use we were at the mercy of our rivals. The possibilities of the employment of alcohol in producing light, heat and power are also enormous, as gallon for gallon it has a far greater potency than the best grade of refined petroleum and need not much, if at all, exceed it in price. The only opposition to the bill came from the wood alcohol interests, but as the use of that article even in the arts is attended with danger to life and health no reason appeared for taxing for its benefit a more efficient and safer rival product, and the bill passed by a nearly unanimous vote.—S. W. McCall in Atlantic.

Soil Deterioration.

Many scientists are viewing with alarm the possibility of a deterioration of soil, which some claim may eventually threaten the world's food supply unless the experiments to secure nitrogen from the air should prove commercially successful and thus make possible the constant refertilization of the soil. Already the rich prairie states are finding commercial fertilizers a necessity, and last year Ohio used 300,000 tons. The south holds a world monopoly on fertilizer making materials, such as phosphate rock, sulphur, etc. Europe draws its phosphate rock mainly from this section, and Louisiana now dominates the sulphur market of Europe and America. Strong as the south is in coal and cotton and iron, it is equally strong in phosphate rock and sulphur, and it cannot only enrich its own soil, but supply the needs of other sections and other countries. Great is the south.—Manufacturer's Record.

Uses For Elks' Teeth.

John D. Losekamp of Billings, Mont., is selling out his stock of elks' teeth, about 40,000 in all. "Elk Tooth John," as he is called, has for twenty-five years been buying the tusks of bull and cow elks until a short while ago he was the possessor of 80,000 elks' teeth. He is the "elk tooth king" of Montana, if not of the entire west. Losekamp formerly bought dresses from the Indians, the dresses being decorated sometimes with 500 teeth. Any hunter with elks' teeth in his possession was sure of a purchaser in Losekamp. But he cannot buy them any more and make a reasonable profit, for any cowboy nowadays knows the value of an elk's tooth. Losekamp is disposing of his teeth to a firm in the east at the rate of 400 or 500 a month. The firm makes them into watch fobs for members of the Order of Elks.

Combating the "Lazy Worm."

A large district in the middle of Porto Rico, with a population of 100,000, is afflicted with the "lazy worm," and official efforts are being made to improve the inhabitants' condition. A hospital has been established at Albonito, with an endowment of $15,000, and will do what it can to check the ravages of this minute reptile, of the existence of which the old time native Porto Rican never had the slightest notion. Last year an American medical officer, Captain Ashford, treated 4,500 cases, and nearly all of them were cured. As a result the population is aroused to much enthusiasm, and the afflicted are applying in great numbers for treatment. Heretofore the malady has been deemed incurable.—Dundee Advertiser.

The Ready Made Lecturer.

Anybody may be a lecturer these days if he has a fairly good voice and a few dollars. The novice merely visits an office in one of the downtown streets, asks for a list of lantern slides, pays the required deposit and goes his way with his lecture "ready made." On the list of customers are many ministers, who consider it necessary to give an illustrated sermon during the winter. The proprietor secures a deposit on the plates and charges at the rate of about $3 for a full series of even less if they are not colored.

The word "nuttsal" or "slave" has hitherto been used by all the Manchurian officials as well as military officials in addressing the throne, but it is now proposed to stop such words being used hereafter and to order them to use the word "ghien," or servant of a sovereign, which is at present used by Chinese officials and civil officials. An imperial decree to that effect will be issued when the new administrative system is published.—Shanghai Mercury.
