OLD CLOTHES AND NEW.

By Frank H. Sweet.

Copyrighted, 1907, by Mary McKeon.

They were all up in Aunt Clara's room, packing the box, when Jessie Boyd came in at 4 o'clock to ask Carrie what she was going to wear that evening to the musical. Jessie went upstairs without ceremony. She was Carrie's most intimate friend.

"Oh, there you are!" said Carrie, who was sitting on the foot of the bed with a pile of clothing on her lap. "I've been wondering all afternoon what had become of you. We're packing the box to go to mother's cousin in West Holden. Aunt Clara wants—"

"Where's the bottle of benzine?" asked Agnes, interrupting. "You had it last, Carrie."

"Look on the shelf in my closet," said Carrie. "What are you going to do with the benzine?"

"Clean the spots off that tan cloth cape of mine. I'm ashamed to send it as it is now."

"Oh, you needn't be ashamed to send anything," said Aunt Clara, who was on her knees before the box, spreading some newspapers over the bottom. "They are so poor they'll be glad of everything, no matter how old. You haven't time to clean off spots."

"They can do it for themselves," said Carrie. "Here, auntie, hadn't you better put these old white skirts in first?"

"Seems to me, Carrie, you could wear that white skirt with the ruffles yourself," remarked Mrs. Brandon, who was pulling over the contents of a trunk she had dragged in from the hall. "It doesn't look at all worn."

"No, but it doesn't hang right," rejoined Carrie, "and it's too short. Besides, I despise a ruffled petticoat."

"Very well," said her mother in a resigned tone. "Put it in. You and Agnes are dreadfully extravagant. I don't wonder your father complains about expenses."

"Here are some old nightdresses," said Mrs. Brandon. "I intended to tear them up for window cloths, but Rachel might patch them up."

"Of course she will," said Aunt Clara, seizing upon the nightdresses eagerly.

She thoroughly enjoyed the packing of this box. She always declared that, no matter what her faults were, no one could accuse her of not being generous.

The trunk yielded, in addition to the nightdresses, an old black alpaca skirt which had been spoiled by paint when the front porch had been given a fresh coat the previous fall, a much worn pair of shoes, a black straw bonnet which had been lying in the tray "for ages," several pairs of hose in sad need of darning, a gray wrapper damaged by moths and a black silk petticoat the ruffles of which were whipped out.

"You could use that silk for lining a grenadine, Frances," said Aunt Clara.

"But I don't expect to have a grenadine this summer," rejoined her sister, "and it seems a pity not to put in something decent."

"Well, if you had been to Cousin Rachel's and seen how poor they are," said Clara, "you'd know that anything would be acceptable. Rachel has a real gift for turning and patching too."

"For my part, I'm glad to get rid of my old clothes," said Carrie, "and I vote we send Cousin Rachel a box every year. It's a good deal better than making bundles for the Associated Charities to distribute. We know just where the things are going." She tossed her aunt a green sash wrist, the sears of which were frayed. "I can wear the skirt around mornings with a pearl shirt waist," she added.

All this time Jessie Boyd had stood quietly at the foot of the bed looking on.

"Has your cousin any girls about my age?" she asked, regarding attentively the two faded waists which Aunt Clara was folding together.

"Dear me, yes," answered the lady. "Alice is just your age and Stella a year or so younger. Then there are two little girls of ten and twelve, Amy and Ruth. I stopped over in West Holden for a day in March on my way home from Florida and saw them all. They're pretty girls, too, particularly Alice. I felt so sorry for them. I don't suppose Alice ever had a pretty gown or a bunch of ribbons in her life."

"Then would you mind if—could I send something?" stammered Jessie. "I wouldn't want them to know, of course, but I have several little things, and—"

"Oh, my dear child, yes," Aunt Clara interrupted. "Bring anything you choose; I'll pack it. No matter how old it is, they can make use of it."

Jessie went home at once. In about twenty minutes she returned with a food sized pasteboard box, with a narrow pink ribbon tied around it. On the cover was written, "For Alice."

"You're just in time; I'm ready to have Peter nail up," said Aunt Clara. "Oh, I'm not to see what you're sending. Now, my dear child, you needn't be ashamed of it, whatever it is, for they have so little that anything—I only hope Rachel will appreciate the trouble I've taken," and she followed Jessie into Carrie's room.

There, on the bed, lay the gown her younger niece was to wear to the musical. It was a cream chin silk, trimmed with lace and white ribbon, and beside it was a pair of high heeled slippers of French kid.

"You'll wear your new china silk waist, of course, Jessie," said Carrie as her friend glanced toward the bed.

Jessie shook her head. "No, I've decided on my blue organdie," she answered quietly and then began to talk of something else.

They were opening the box in the sitting room at West Holden when Alice Brent came in, breathless. She was a slender girl, with soft eyes.

"Has it come?" she cried. "How glad I am. I got here in time."

"Yes, but we weren't going to unpack it until you came," said Stella. "We just wanted to have it all ready. It's a family treat, to be enjoyed together."

Jessie's pasteboard box came out first, as it was on top.

"Something especially for me!" cried Alice. "How lovely! But I won't open it until the last. Take out the other things, mother, dear."

The other things were taken out. One by one Mrs. Brent unfolded them and laid them in a pile on the floor. Not one of the girls ventured to make remark of any sort, and Alice did not dare glance at Stella.

"That is all, I think, my dears," said the mother as she placed on the pile the white petticoats Carrie had contributed. "I will put all the things in my closet and examine them at my leisure."

"Blessed are they who expect nothing, for they shall not be disappointed," remarked Stella.

"Stella!" Mrs. Brent's voice was one of rebuke. Little Ruth began to weep.

"Here, let's look at my box, Ruthie," said Alice. "We mustn't forget that."

"Probably filled with soiled ribbons and discarded artificial flowers," muttered Stella, in whose black eyes angry tears burned hotly.

With fingers that trembled a little, Alice untied the pink ribbon and removed the cover of the box.

"Oh, oh!" she said. "Mother, look here! Just see!" And then her voice broke and tears filled her eyes.

In the box, neatly folded, lay a pretty white china silk waist trimmed with lace, a pair of perfectly new tan gloves, three dainty handkerchiefs and twelve yards of fine white lawn.

"There's some mistake," said Stella; "this doesn't agree with the rest at all. Probably they will write to have it returned."

"Stella, dear, we couldn't expect them to send things they could use themselves."

"No, I suppose not, and I'm an unthankful wretch. Beggars shouldn't be choosers, but—and her voice quivered a little—"It isn't in me, somehow, to be a grateful beggar."

Mrs. Brent wrote a well worded letter of thanks to her cousin.

"I must not neglect to tell you," she said in conclusion, "of Alice's pleasure in the contents of the pasteboard box. The pretty gloves and dainty silk waist fitted her perfectly, and she is busy today making up the lawn, which will be her best gown all summer."

Aunt Clara bit her lip as she laid the letter down.

"How ridiculous of Jessie to send new things!" she muttered. "And I was so particular to tell her that anything would do."

The hour which gives us life begins to take it away.—Seneca.

Baccalaureate.

On Sunday evening last, at the Presbyterian church, Rev. John L. Cairns of Hillsboro delivered the baccalaureate sermon before the members of the graduating class of the Antrim High school. Heretofore the sermon has been preached in the afternoon; the change seemed to give general satisfaction; no services were held in the other churches. A large number listened to the very able and pleasing discourse of Mr. Cairns.

The Boston Journal.

Already noted for its progressive and up-to-date policy, The Boston Journal has given new lustre to its reputation by adding to its already generous news service and complete American foreign service of the New York Times. The Times is known throughout the country as furnishing a service accurate and brilliant in every particular. Reck, for a quarter of a century the leading news editor of the New York Herald, has recently joined the Times and has already added new features, which now come to The Journal. The addition of this service to the regular service of The Boston Journal promises the readers of The Journal a daily paper unequalled by any other publication in the country.

The Boston Journal has also purchased an Autoplate Stereotype equipment, by which the casting and finishing of the stereotype plates is now done by machinery instead of by hand. This is a very costly equipment, but the big increase in The Journal's circulation necessitated the gaining of every possible minute of time, and with the Autoplate they are enabled to turn out the necessary plates twice as quickly as by hand. This addition places The Journal's mechanical-outfit among the very best in the newspaper world.

DOUBLE WEDDING AT ANTRIM.

An Unusual Occurrence for Our Town

The pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. George Woodward on West street was the scene of a very pretty gathering at noon Saturday last, when the double wedding of their elder daughter, Ethel M. Woodward to Granville G. Whitney, Jr., and of Miss Cora L. Strickland of Milford to their younger son, Ernest L. Woodward took place.

The ceremony, in which the ring service was used, was performed by Rev. Alba Markey, pastor of Woodbury Memorial Methodist church, in the presence of relatives. The large parlor was elaborately decorated for the occasion with a profusion of palms, ferns and cut flowers. One corner of the parlor was decorated with a bank of green composed of balsam and ferns intermingled with fragrant apple blossoms, making an effective background for the two couples who stood beneath an arch made entirely of evergreen and ferns and from the center of which was suspended a wedding bell made of delicate foam-flowers.

The brides were becomingly gowned in white silk Lansdowne dresses with trimmings of ribbon and lace and carried bouquets of cut flowers.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held and a buffet luncheon served.

The four young people left on the afternoon train for a short wedding journey. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Whitney will reside in Antrim and Mr. and Mrs. Woodward will reside in Milford.

The July Woman's Home Companion

A novel by Anthony Hope is an event in literature. The three most popular writers of fiction in English are Hall Caine, Marion Crawford and Anthony Hope, and many, many thousands of readers who recall "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "The Dolly Dialogues" believe that Hope is not the least of the triumvir. Anthony Hope's latest story, "Helen's Path," begins serially in Woman's Home Companion for July. It is most interesting and thoroughly wholesome, and embodies all the delightful romance of the Zenda stories. The July Woman's Home Companion is unusually strong in fiction, there being in addition to the Anthony Hope serial, short stories by Owen Oliver, Juliet Wilbur Tompkins, Jean Webster, and Robert C. V. Meyers, also a two part story by Herbert D. Ward. Dr. E. E. Hale writes of the pleasures of outdoor life in his monthly editorial page, and Charlotte Perkins Gilman describes the domestic progress of women. Other special articles are contributed by Samuel Armstrong Hamilton, "When the Garden Looks Shabby," and A. G. Richardson, who gives plans and instructions for building a suburban cottage for $1,700. Grace Margaret Gould, the foremost writer of fashion topics in this country, contributes several pages which undoubtedly will prove of deep interest to the feminine readers. In addition there are departments conducted by the National Child Labor Committee, Margaret E. Sangster, Sam Loyd, Anna Steese Richardson, Evelyn Parsons, Dan Beard and "Aunt Janet" Porter.

NO FALSE PRETENSE has marked the career of Ely's Cream Balm. No idle promises of rewards for cases it will not cure. Being entirely harmless, it is not responsible like the catarrh snuffs and powders, for minds shattered by cocaine. The great positive virtue of Ely's Cream Balm is that it speedily and completely cures nasal catarrh and hay fever. Back of the statement is the testimony of thousands and a reputation of many years' success. All druggists, 50c., or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York.

Taught School in Antrim.

The Bristol, Vt., newspaper of recent date contained an article entitled "In Retrospect," concerning the members of the class of 1897, of the High School of that town. We clip the following which will be of interest to many of our readers, as Mr. Paige was one of the best men our High School ever had within her walls.

A history of our class would be incomplete should I not include in it a tribute to one whose name and character will always remain bright in the memories of the members of the class of '97, Charles S. Paige. He was principal of the Bristol High school from 1892 to 1902, making our class one of those that took the full four years under his able direction.

During his term as principal he brought the standard of the school to a higher plane, and from one having no graduating class to one graduating yearly from five to twenty pupils. By all his pupils he will always be remembered as a kind, efficient, and broadminded teacher, a true and faithful friend and a polished gentleman in every respect. Commencement day of 1902, his last official day as principal of the school, showed the esteem with which he was held by Bristol people. On that day the whole atmosphere instead of being full of the usual joy and gayety of commencement was pervaded by a silent funeral sadness on account of losing one who had been such a power for good in our community. In Mr. Paige Bristol had a man whose place will be hard to fill. Many may be his equal in the school room but few his equal outside, and these out of the school room qualities make him an exceptionally fine teacher, teaching his pupils not books alone, but things not to be learned from books but from observation and experience. After leaving Bristol in 1902, Mr. Paige became principal of the High school at Antrim, N. H., where he taught two years, resigning to accept position with the Lippincott Publishing Co. His present address is Boston, Mass., care of J. B. Lippincott Co.

Municipal Advertising

In a strong editorial advocating advertising a municipality, the Brockton Times well says: "No sane business man of large affairs would ever dispute the assertion that it pays for an individual to advertise and the city is only an aggregation of individuals, bound together by a hundred and one diversified enterprises or experiments, on the result of which they must rise or fall together. If advertising is good for private individuals it is good for the public interests. The smaller towns have demonstrated its worth again and again in the matter of bringing in new industries. The fair week that has given Brockton a reputation far beyond the boundaries of the state is an illustration of the idea that might be extended into bidding for new enterprises or elaborating on those we already have."

As an illustration of what can be accomplished in this line the case of Dallas, Texas, is given, where the city has spent the sum of $25,000 in advertising its advantages, and during that period has gained 15 new manufacturing industries, employing 2000 people. Bank deposits have increased from $13,000,000, to $22,000,000, and the receipt at the post office 23 per cent, with a corresponding gain in all departments of business.

Auction Sales.

By W. E. Cram, Auctioneer.

Fortunate Father and Son.

I am as certain as I now live, says Mr. C. E. Bartholomew, Kalkaska, Mich., that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, Rondout, N. Y., saved my life when I was a victim of that terrible disorder—Bright's Disease. My son had a fever sore on his leg; he too used Favorite Remedy and is now well. All druggists $1.00; 6 bottles $5.00.

Kidney Disease Kills.

Thousands Never Suspect That They Have It.

It is now generally admitted that diseases of the kidneys and bladder constitute the greatest source of disease. Cure these and we remove the cause of nearly all ailments of the Liver, Blood, Stomach and Bowels. But the approach of Kidney disease is so slow and gradual that the first symptoms may not be noticed. Here are some of the most common symptoms of this dangerous disease:

Discolored or dark urine, sometimes excessive and of pale color.

Unusual desire to urinate, especially at night.

Urinary deposits, sometimes containing albumen and blood.

Swelling around eyes, ankles and abdomen.

Drowsiness and a constant tired feeling.

Pale, hot and dry skin.

Pain in the back, headache, cramps in the legs.

Bowels constipated; digestion impaired.

Rheumatic pains in the joints and muscles.

If you have any of the above symptoms your kidney's need immediate attention, and Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy should be taken at once. Do you know what will happen if you neglect these symptoms? Bright's Disease, I suppose, is nearly always the outcome. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy can cure thousands of kidney disease, and it gives the positive proof. It will cure you. Send to Dr. David Kennedy's Sons, Rondout, N. Y., for a free sample bottle and medical booklet. Large bottles $1.00, at all druggists.

WASHINGTON LETTER

[Special Correspondence.]

Stored away in the basements of the capitol, the old government printing office, in the Maltby building, in the old car house, south of the capitol, and in two rented warehouses there are said to be more than 3,000 tons of documents and reports issued by the government in former years. The pamphlets and books are comparatively useless, and the disposing of this superfluous literature is one of the problems which are under the attention of Victor L. Blodgett, secretary of the printing investigation committee.

It is estimated that the documents would fill a freight train composed of 250 cars, covering a distance of three miles, or supply a cargo for one of the largest ocean liners.

Carnegie Laboratory.

The new geophysical laboratory of the Carnegie Institution, which is being built just to the north and east of Cleveland park and opposite the cluster of buildings belonging to the bureau of standards, will be ready for occupancy by July 1. In fact, a part of the equipment of the laboratory has been moved into the building already.

This new laboratory is ideally situated for the purposes of experimentation. It is far from the noises and jars of the city, which might interfere with the results of the experiments, and it is built upon a high point of land, from which the ground falls abruptly to the south and east, giving a magnificent view of the surrounding country and the city lying in the distance. Carnegie Institution owns about five acres in this neighborhood, upon part of which the laboratory has been erected.

In Spanish Mission Style.

About a year ago the work on the new building was begun, and it has gone on smoothly and without a hitch. The plans call for a two story and basement building, having a frontage of 140 feet and a depth of 52 feet. The cost of the construction amounts to about $75,000.

The architects made the designs after the Spanish Mission style, and the building is particularly attractive from an architectural point of view. The walls are covered with stucco. In order to give the building touches of color such as lead attractiveness to many Spanish structures there are inlays of Moravian tile.

Scientific Research.

Although the Carnegie Institution makes its researches merely from a scientific standpoint and with no intention of making commercial use of the results, it is highly probable that a number of discoveries of great value to the industries of the country will be made in the new geophysical laboratory. In fact discoveries which will bring about new industries.

May Mine Diamonds.

It has been suggested that investigations will reveal the true constitution of portland cement, which is now prepared by routine methods, with rather inadequate knowledge of the chemical processes actually involved. Though it is too much to make any predictions along this line at present, it may be that the investigations at the laboratory will make it possible to manufacture diamonds and other precious stones.

It is probable that much will be done in the investigation of the peculiar properties of quartz glass. The possibility of preparing this glass with reasonable facility in considerable quantities is of much importance, for it is a very important material for lenses and laboratory vessels, and it may be possible, if manufactured in large quantities and economically, to use this glass for the doors of safes.

Gold Plate For President.

President Roosevelt was recently the recipient of a handsomely engraved plate of solid gold taken from a mine near the home of the president's mother in Georgia. The plate, which is valued at more than $400, is 6 by 10 inches in size and bears a reproduction of Bulloch Hall, the Bulloch coat of arms, the Georgia coat of arms and this inscription:

Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States; Georgia Day, Jamestown Tercentenary Exposition, June 13, 1887. W. N. Mitchell, president Georgia commission. Joseph M. Terrell, governor of Georgia.

The box in which the plate is incased is made of Georgia wood, lined with velvet and covered with white satin, the lid being handsomely trimmed with gold and bearing the United States coat of arms.

Upstairs in the White House.

So little is popularly known about the upstairs part of the White House that few people are aware of the fact that Mr. Roosevelt has another office on the second or bedroom floor. It is the old cabinet room, and is still retaining the long table of polished mahogany at which through successive administrations so many distinguished men have sat.

More interesting even than this table, however, is the desk which Mr. Roosevelt uses in his private study. It is a very massive affair of the knee-hole pattern, and is adorned by a silver plate which tells its curious history. Most striking indeed is the story told by the silver plate, for it appears that the desk is made of the timbers of a ship called the Resolute, which more than half a century ago voyaged in arctic regions in quest of the lost expedition of Sir John Franklin.

Adjoining Mr. Roosevelt's "study"

(as it is called), which was the old cabinet room, is a room twice the size, used as a business office by Mr. McKinley, by Benjamin Harrison and by Grover Cleveland, all three of whom did their work at the desk in question. But this large apartment has now been converted into a guest chamber. Like all of the other rooms in the east end of the second floor of the White House.

CARL SWIFTFIELD.

ROBBERY IN PARIS CAFES.

No Prices on Bills of Fare, and Waiters Impose on Guests.

"I tell you," said the returned European traveler, taking up the bill of fare, "it's a good deal of relief to get to a place where one can know the exact cost of things to eat and drink. When on the other side I narrowly escaped nervous prostration because of the latitude in the prices of items on the menu. Paris is about the worst offender among European cities in this respect. In restaurant after restaurant there prices are omitted from the bill of fare simply to give an opportunity to rifle the pockets of the unwary. Take my advice and have as close an approach to an ironclad agreement as possible with your garcon regarding the 'demolition total' of your meal before giving your order. If you don't, there's trouble and pecuniary loss ahead. The waiter, with the connivance of the proprietor of the cafe, will do all he can to impose upon you."

"One tragic story that I can vouch for may be of interest to American tourists. It shows one variety of restaurant robbery in Paris illustrating incidentally French ingenuity. An American woman gave a small luncheon at a well known place to a half dozen friends. She had no intention of making it an elaborate affair. She knew French ways and had a careful estimate made of the cost of the repast ordered. After the second course she noticed that the waiters were pressing upon her guests delicacies for which she had not stipulated, and she observed, too, that a point was made of asking each person if she would have some of this, that or the other thing. Of course the viands were accepted. These extras were succeeded, by others, the poor hostess not being able (or felt she was unable, which amounts to the same thing) to stem the tide rapidly overwhelming her pocketbook.

When she had a stormy session with the proprietor she could get no satisfaction. The things were offered; they were eaten. Of a surety, madame had ordered them, else they would not have been served. It is impossible that madame would wish to have consequences most unpleasant? She wisely paid the bill, but the experience cost her dear.

"So, you see, holdups are not confined to our beloved country. In fact, I think that our polite contemporaries over the Atlantic know things about the game about which our desperadoes are in entire ignorance."—New York Press.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.
It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle Home of Swamp-Root by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

State and County News

The 27th annual convention of the Hillsboro county W. C. T. U. took place at the Congregational church in Peterboro, on June 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Eben Dodge observed their 50th wedding anniversary Friday, June 7, at New Boston, the house where they have lived since their marriage.

James Bryce, the British ambassador, will take up his abode for the summer at a residence near Dublin, N. H., which has been selected as the summer home of the British embassy.

Contrary to general expectations, there is no prospect of the 10 mile link in the Atlantic Shore trolley line between York Beach and Kennebunkport being completed by July 4.

George J. Sisk of Dover, formerly of Milford, district superintendent of the public schools of Alton, Newington, Rye, Stratham and Greenfield, has been elected principal of the high school at Auburn, Me., which is the second largest in the state at a salary of $2000.

Four feet of snow and ice covers Mt. Washington. Owing to the wintry conditions it has been impossible to open the railroads yet or to have any communication with the house at the top of the mountain. All of the peaks in the White Mountain and Franconia ranges are covered with snow.

The annual meeting of the New Hampshire Orphans' Home was held Wednesday. Several trains made stops at Webster place, and there was a fairly large attendance. Satisfactory reports, including that of the Rev. R. P. Gardner, superintendent, were submitted.

From the superintendent these figures were secured: Endowment fund, June 1901, $119,844; total endowment fund at the present time, $148,500; increase, $28,662; valuation of property, June 1901, $52,000; present valuation $83,003; number of children in home, June 1901, 121; number received from that time till May 1, 1907, 439; total number cared for, 500; number of deaths 18; number placed in homes, 216. Thirty-two of these children were placed in private families and 184 county charges became self supporting.

The exercises held in the John Kimball chapel, were under the direction of the board of trustees, of which the Rev. O. B. Douglass is president, and the Hon. John Kimball of Concord, is treasurer, a position which he has held since the home was established. Mr. Kimball is 86 years of age.

The first and only secret society in the town of West Swansey was organized last week by the state officers of the Improved Order of Red Men. The ceremonies were conducted in the large hall at the Evans house. The three degrees were exemplified by the degree team of Shomet tribe of Winchester. A feast of corn and venison followed the degree work.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH NOTES.

There was a good attendance and excellent supper Thursday night at the social of the Ladies Aid Society.

Though a committee appointed by Pastor Wildey, the evening service recommended dispensed with, to permit all to freely attend the baccalaureate last Sunday night at South Village.

In February, Mr. Wildey, desiring to remove himself as any barrier to receiving a settled pastor, resigned to take effect at the close of his 2nd year, Sept. 30. At a meeting of the church Friday evening last, it was voted to request Mr. Wildey to withdraw his resignation and remain. Sunday morning he consented to remain, till the question of parsonage or pastorate can be congenitally decided. If some of the wealthy former residents, now living elsewhere, would supply the need of a parsonage, the time would be short, when the people could rejoice in a resident minister. Mr. Wildey appreciated the loyalty of the parish, and endorsement by them of his pulpit work, despite the deafness that cripples him socially.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Bailey observed the 50th anniversary of their wedding at their home in Duabarton, the 10th inst., with a reception to their friends. More than 200 were present.

A jury in the superior court Thursday noon awarded $400 to Frank G. Riley of Manchester in his case against the Boston & Maine railroad for damages to land and timber on his premises in South Manchester, April 19, 1905. Mr. Riley brought suit for $2000.

Robert J. Sisk of Dover, formerly of Milford, district superintendent of the public schools of Alton, Newington, Rye, Stratham and Greenfield, has been elected principal of the high school at Auburn, Me., which is the second largest in the state at a salary of $2000.

Finland has nineteen women in her legislature. The trouble will come when limited time for debate is ordered.

A Mr. Singer of Kansas has just married a Miss Nightingale. Doubtless their life is one "grand sweet song."

A Florida paper says that a snail found in that state the other day contained a watch, a comb and three shoe buttons. This is probably just another of these nature fakir stories.

General Kuroki is said to have remarked that Chicago beef is the kind for soldiers to fight on. Perhaps he was just wanting to do something that would make our army easier to conquer in case of war with his people.

The effect of an intoxicant recently discovered in Africa is to compel the person who imbibes it to tell the truth. This is the potency we have heard claimed for wine, though there are instances of notable exceptions. In vino non semper veritas.

Vassar college authorities this year have issued a decree that the graduates shall wear "simple, muslin gowns," instead of the costly creations of lace and silk that a few of each class heretofore have worn. If college is after all a preparation for life, what could be wiser than this first lesson in common sense and democracy?

Ephraim Weston is in Boston this week; he has been operated upon for appendicitis, from which he has been suffering for some months. He is getting along nicely.

Winifred M. Davis has been appointed by the board of education a member of the board to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of E. L. Ware.

Mrs. G. F. Weston, and elder son, Stewart, of Providence, R. I., came to their summer home on the shore of Lake Mianusit on the 1st inst. Mr. Weston will come at the end of the school year.

Sunday, June 9th, was observed as Children's Sunday by the church with program by the children of the Sunday School. At the close of the service a potted plant was given to each child and many sent to absent ones.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contains Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, contains no mercury, and when internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

HILLSBORO BRIDGE.

A striking feature of this village is the stone bridge across the Contoocook river. It is more than 100 feet in length, with a single arch in the center through which the water passes, and cost the town $50,000. It has been built about 15 years, and while its cost staggered the taxpayers a bit, they have the satisfaction of knowing that none of them will ever have to help pay for another bridge at that spot, in all human probability.

I will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart or The Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—means Stomach weakness always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's restorative has made its fame. No other remedy ever claims to keep the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me today for a sample and free Book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The restorative is sold by W. F. Dickey.

A GOOD LAWN.

The Best Way to Prepare the Ground and Sow the Seed.

A good lawn may be made either by laying sod or growing seed. If turf is used, the lawn is sometimes ready for use in less time than when seed is used, but practically the difference is very slight. Fewer lawns are made from turf every year. The turf or soil is nearly always obtained from a nearby field. It abounds in coarse grasses and pernicious weeds. The former may be got rid of after considerable trouble, but the latter rarely ever. Sod laid lawns are nearly always uneven, seamy and varied in color and texture. Their cost, too, is much in excess of seeding the lawn down.

A lawn produced from a mixture of good, new, reseamed seeds of the finer grasses and clovers is superior in quality and texture to the best sod obtainable. To obtain the best results from sowing, the ground should be carefully dug over—not too deep, six to eight inches will be enough—and nicely leveled off; then sow on broadcast a good fertilizer, 600 pounds to the acre, or about ten pounds to every 15 by 15 square feet. Rake this in and roll it or flatten it with the back of a spade; then sow seventy pounds of some good lawn seed to the acre, or one pound to every 15 by 15 feet. Sow half this quantity walking one way and half walking at right angles to it, so as to get even distribution. Do not sow in windy weather, and be sure to rake the seed in, and after sowing roll it well or beat it flat with the spade.

Those seeds that are deeply buried will not germinate, and those that are exposed will be scorched by the sun, blown or washed away or taken by the birds. Whenever necessary to sow in summer it is better to mix with rye or oats to protect the tender shoots from the hot sun.—Suburban Life.

The "Coney" of the Bible.

There is a queer little rock animal found in thousands in all parts of Cape Colony, South Africa, and called by the Dutch "daasje" (pronounced in English "dassie"). This little creature has many other names, such as the coney, daman, rock badger and rock rabbit. It is found also in Syria and is really the "coney" of the Bible, for one of the psalms contains this verse, "The high hills are a refuge for the wild goats and the rocks for the conies," while in the book of Proverbs we read, "The conies are but a feeble folk, yet make they their houses in the rocks." The South African dassie is a pretty gray, furry creature, merry and sun loving, and when taken young makes a charming pet.—Amy Sutherland in St. Nicholas.

How Fans Root in Boston.

"Advance expeditiously to third base!" "Endeavor to drive the horse-like sphere over the fence!" "He facet! Another visitor has been unable to solve Smith's parabolas!" "Scintillating! The Swifter Pace.

It requires more energy for a man to succeed today than it required twenty years ago, more talent, more capital of brains and faculty, the competition is keener, the race is swifter, the life is faster; hence the list of sacrifices to the Moloch of overwork.—Albany Argus.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Is acknowledged to be the most successful remedy in the country for those painful ailments peculiar to women.

For more than 30 years it has been curing Female Complaints, such as Inflammation, Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and consequent Spinal Weakness, Backache, and is peculiarly adapted to the Change of Life.

Records show that it has cured more cases of Female Ills than any

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound dissolves and expels Tumors at an early stage of development. Dragging Sensations causing pain, weight, and headache are relieved and permanently cured by its use.

It corrects Irregularities or Painful Functions, Weakness of the Stomach, Indigestion, Floating, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility; also, Dizziness, Faintness, Extreme Lassitude. "Don't care and want to be left alone" feeling, Irritability, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Flatulence, Melancholia or the "Blues." These are sure indications of female weakness or some organic derangement.

For Kidney Complaints of either sex Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a most excellent remedy.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice. She is the Mrs. Pinkham who has been advising sick women free of charge for more than twenty years, and before that she assisted her mother-in-law Lydia E. Pinkham in advising. Thus she is well qualified to guide sick women back to health. Her advice is free and always helpful.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

"Take that pistol, old man, as a present and I promise me that the next time any darned fool comes in here and calls for rattlesnakes on toast you'll shoot him dead!"

But Straight was too raving mad all the way through to willingly emerge from a situation only tolerably triumphant. So he took the weapon just as the order was being placed on the table and, pointing it at the terror, exclaimed:

"Now, then, my boy, dump yourself into that chair and eat them snakes-skin and all!"

The young fellow did as he was commanded, but after finishing his repast uttered the uncompromising Job by shouting:

"I say, Baldy, bring me another plate of snakes!"—Deutsch News.

Wanted New Ones.

A traveler putting up at a fifth class hotel brought the "boots" up with his heavy storming.

"Want your room changed, sir? What's the matter, sir?"

"The room's all right," fumed the guest searchingly; "it's the fleas I object to; that's all."

"Mrs. Blooms," bawled the "boots" in an uninterested sort of voice, "the rent in No. 6 is satisfied with his room, but he wants the fleas changed."—Illustrated Bits.

The Drawback.

Mile. Victorine confides to the janitor's wife that her mistress, who is old and feeble, has promised to remember her in her will if she takes good care of her till she dies. The janitor's wife shrugs her shoulders.

"The worst of that is, my dear, that the better you take care of her the longer you'll have to wait for your legacy."—Paris Journal.

Both Out and In.

The Needy One—I say, old man, could you lend me a dollar for a day or two? The Other One—My dear fellow, the dollar I lend is out at present, and I've several names down for it when it comes back.—Harper's Weekly.

Impudent

"When I was coming home last night," said Miss Skeery, "I saw a man skulking along in the shadow. Oh, how I run!" "Ain't you catch her?" inquired her little brother innocently.—Cleveland Leader.

MOSLEM ETIQUETTE.

Always Be In Good Humor and Talk Pleasant Things.

Here are some interesting Mussulman injunctions of courtesy, says the London Lancet. The honor of being served first belongs to the invited guest who is in the possession of any high title or who has in any way or sphere distinguished himself. If the host himself is the oldest in the company or has any high decoration of merit, he must first begin the meal without delay in order not to let the others unduly wait. It shows bad upbringing to be in a melancholy mood at table or to speak of disagreeable things or to engage in inappropriate discussions on matters of religious piety. Foremost of all, one must always be in good humor and talk of pleasant things, as did the prophet himself.

You must always help yourself from the side of the dish nearest to you and never try to find out the best bits, which ought to be left for other guests. If one of the invited has not much appetite, you must ask him up to three times with some kind chosen words to partake of the meal. A longer insistence would cause sum and would be most inappropriate. You must never stop eating before others, because in doing so you will embarrass them and cause them to finish quickly in irritating you.

Never eat glutonously, but also never attempt to conceal your good appetite. Always eat little by little. Extraneous compliments are always misplaced. The host's duty is to make his guests feel as comfortable as possible, encouraging the timid and shy. It is contrary to good taste to withdraw and to fix the attention of a guest when he is eating. Even if the host is not accustomed to sit up, he must always try not to stand before others. Should any dish be offered to him by his medical attendant, he certainly must not partake of it, but must at the same time excuse himself before his guests.

It is absolutely necessary to avoid every movement or gesture which is apt to create disgust.

A Brilliant Thought.

GIVES QUICK RELIEF

Applied externally it affords instant relief from pain, while permanent results are being effected by taking it internally, purifying the blood, dissolving the poisonous substance and removing it from the system.

DR. S. D. BLAND

Of Brewton, Ga., writes: "I had been a sufferer for a number of years with Lumbago and Rheumatism in my arms and legs, and tried many remedies, but with no success. I consulted with a number of the best physicians, but found none that gave me the relief obtained from 5-DROPS. I now call it my great secret practice for rheumatism and kindred diseases."

DR. C. L. GATES

Handy, Okla., writes: "I had a weak back caused by Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble that she could not stand on her feet. The moment they put her down on the floor she would scream with pain. I tried all kinds of remedies, but only one runs around as well and happy as can be. I prescribe '5-DROPS' for my patients and use it in my practice."

There was an instantaneously dead silence in that restaurant, and all eyes were again cast upon the terror and the waiter. The former turned ashen pale and began to weaken perceptibly, while Job gazed at his victim.

"Maybe you don't think we can serve till the market affords," muttered Job. "Maybe you don't like moccasin gravy or brochettes à la mode. Maybe you ain't hungry?"

"Say! You've got me—I ain't hungry, to help me. I couldn't eat a single hard-boiled egg. Countermand that damned order, old man, and I'll pay all expenses and set 'em up as long as anybody can drink. Beg pardon, gentlemen, all. My first attempt to be a terror—beg pardon me, gentlemen. It's my last!"

And then he handed his revolver to Job and added:

THE TERROR'S DINNER

"Rattlesnakes on Toast" Was the Cowboy's Order.

BUT HE MET WITH HIS MATCH

The Promptness With Which the Tough Waiter Served the Dish Took the Terror's Nerve Away—The Report and the Final Request.

Away back in 1876 a man named Turpin established a restaurant in Yuma, and among Turpin's original employees was a waiter named Job Straight, who could shoot with great precision, play draw poker with unwavering success and pack eighteen plates of miscellaneous grub upon one bare arm at one time. He could execute all the prevailing melodies either on piano or guitar, and he possessed the most tremendous baritone voice ever heard in Arizona. Why, men sometimes went to Turpin's just to hear Joe deliver gastronomic orders. No perfect description can be given of that voice, however, except to say that at times it really did make things chitter.

Once a fresh young cowboy from near Gila Bend entered Turpin's for a Christmas dinner who took a startling connection as an appetizer and then dropped thud-like at a table and roughly shouted to Straight:

"Say, there, Baldy! Bring me some gravy!"

Job was at first appalled; but, recovering his reserve limit of equanimity, he brushed an imaginary breakfast from the forehead tablecloth and whisked a bill of fare from the variegated castor and placed it before the new young terror of the Bend.

"Take it away!" cried the latter in tones that could give Straight's ordinary, everyday baritone a headache and charlame it in five moves. "I don't want to read your damned oil tract. I don't care a darn who comes into this world to save diners. Before the same grub—grub! Grub! Grub!"

"What do you want?"

"Rattlesnakes on toast! And I want you to bump yourself!"

"What's that?"

"I've given my order, you baldheaded old cigar-stick stem, and I want you to get a move on yourself, p. d. q. Rattlesnakes on toast!"

"Rattlesnakes on toast!" cried Job to the cook in accents that would have paralyzed Carl Formes had that old posse profundo been living and heard them.

"Rattlesnakes on toast!" was the reverberating response from the cook upon receiving the order.

There were a dozen or more people in the restaurant, and their eyes were at once turned on the young person from the Bend and the infuriated waiter.

In the meantime the cook had taken a big catfish and cut it into four strips and rolled these strips in batter, so that they much resembled the rind or leather, and after placing them in the frying pan he stuck his head out of the kitchen and shouted to Job:

"You want them rattlers rare or well done?"

The waiter repeated the interrogatory in a cyclonic way, and the terror replied in as violent a tone and manner as he could command, "Well done, with plenty of gravy and Chili Colorado."

And then Job thundered to the cook:

"Well done, with plenty of Chili Colorado, hot as —, and moccasin gravy on the side and brochettes of sand game livers and Gila monster livers!"

BENNINGTON

Mrs. Charles Burnham spent Wednesday of last week with friends in Franklin.

The Misses Mary and Elizabeth Rogers start this week for a western trip, to be absent several weeks.

Mrs. Sarah Rogers entertained a cousin from Munsonville last week; also Charles Brown of Antrim over Sunday.

Mrs. Charles Manahan returned to her home at Fall River, Mass., Monday, after spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Annie Fleming.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Knowles are entertaining a friend, Mr. Forsyth, of Scotland. This is his first visit to America. He returns to his home next week.

Rev. and Mrs. Dunlap entertained quite a party of friends from Concord on Saturday last, the occasion being their thirtieth anniversary. Bennington friends extend congratulations. May they have many happy returns of the day.

A ball game at Hancock last Saturday between the Hancock's and Bennington's, resulted in a victory for the Bennington's, by a score of 10 to 4. Unfortunately one of the nine, Samuel Bonnett was seriously injured. He is reported as being better at the present writing.

Frank Bass of Boston has been spending the week at his summer farm at Antrim Centre.

The Sons of Veterans Auxiliary will hold a Lawn Party on Thursday evening, June 27, on the grounds of Hon. Fred Kimball.

Although the Antrim Dramatic entertainment did not receive as good a house as could be hoped for last Wednesday evening, it is reported as an interesting play finely rendered.

Zisos Peter of Bennington was arraigned before E. W. Baker on Monday on a charge of breaking and entering and rape. He was bound over to superior court in $1000 bonds.

The house of Colby Greene is open for the season, with Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Holt of North Chelmsford, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Farnham of Lowell in charge. Mrs. A. D. Greene will come a little later, and other friends and relatives for longer or shorter vacations as their business arrangements allow. A pleasant summer is anticipated. Fred W. Farnham, Mayor of Lowell, Mass., and wife, were here over the 17th; other visitors have been Mr. and Mrs. L. Hartley, and Miss Martha A. Anderson of Lowell.

For Summer Boarders —and— Summer Residents.

We Have Made More Than Our Usual Preparation for the Summer Business.

And as a result the Summer Visitors will find it more than ever, not only a saving in Price Paid, but a Great Advantage in Delivery.

Chamber Furniture Made in Milford, purchased by us before the recent Advances, and sold on the basis of Old Prices, it saves not only the cost of packing and freighting, but the handling and unpacking, and it means a whole lot to you. Milford-Made Goods are the Best on the Market, have deservedly held their reputation for many years and never merited it more than now. They are from selected stock, and we finish them ourselves in the very best manner. The drawers run smoothly, not only the day they are delivered, but for all time; there are no open joints or joints to come open. Brass and Brass Trimmed Beds at Old Prices, and everything in Springs and Mattresses to fit. We buy in Quantity and You get the Advantage.

INVESTIGATE FOR YOURSELF!

Dining Furniture. Tables in all lengths, we buy in connection with our store in Vermont, in car lots, securing the jobbers price. Chairs that we put together ourselves (carefully glued) and finished smoothly ourselves, it saves both Price and Service.

Floor Coverings. Matting in Special Prices by the roll of 40 yards, a city assortment with much less than city prices. Fibre Carpet, lays like a wool carpet and sweeps as easy as matting, 30, 40 and 50 cents. Rugs either to cover the floor or part of it; Special Values in Large Sizes at Little Prices. Crockery. For Chamber or Dining Room, our own Importation. We think the Patterns are Right; We know the Prices are.
