An Earnest Trifler.

By Constance D'Arcy Mackay.

Copyrighted, 1907, by P. C. Eastmont.

"What an age it is since I've seen you!" said Branton Ridgely, turning with enthusiasm to Eleanor Grayson. The pink skirted caudles on Mrs. Courtney's dinner table cast a glow across the pale oval of Miss Grayson's face. From under her dark, delicately arched brows her hazel eyes looked out on the world with starry seriousness.

"The last time we met," he went on, "was at the Van Nestor's tennis tournament on the 17th of September."

Miss Grayson laughed. "What a memory for dates! I suppose you also recall each bit of our conversation?"

"Every word. Do you remember calling me a trifler?"

"Did I? Well, I recollect your telling me that I was an erratic, headstrong young woman. That was two months ago, and I don't think either of us have changed much since."

"I accept the rebuke," said Ridgely meekly.

"Isn't it a pity to waste such good material? Instead of a leader of cottons you might be a leader of men."

"And isn't it a pity to hide yourself from your friends and stay in that settlement, toiling and slaving?"

"And enjoying it more than anything I've ever done before," supplemented Miss Grayson warmly.

"That's all very well, but how am I ever to catch a glimpse of you? I was just beginning to know you last summer, and now your time is taken up morning, noon and night, and you haven't a moment to give me. And you'll end," he predicted savagely, "by falling in love with one of the workers down there—unless you're already interested in some one else."

"Such frankness merits frankness in return. I am deeply interested in some one. But your first surmise was wrong. The hero in this case is quite unknown. I've never even seen him."

"Never mind," growled Ridgely, "he'll atone himself soon enough when he's found you've begun to care."

"Well, then, he'll have to change his present tactics," answered Miss Grayson lightly. "Do you know, it's the most mysterious thing! Each week through the mail I've been receiving an envelope filled with paper money. Inclosed is a printed note which says, 'For the needy,' and it's signed 'E. T.'"

"Strange," murmured Ridgely.

"Yes, and there's more"—

"More?"

"I mean each day there's a bunch of violets, too, and the same initial on the card."

"The deuce!" said Ridgely. "Well, and what then?"

"Then? Oh, there's nothing more. The flowers continue to come, and the money continues to come, and though I have no clew as to who E. T. is, I continue to accept both."

"How do you know he's a man?"

"What woman would be so—so systematic?"

"True. And do you wear the flowers he sends?"

"Sometimes."

"Lucky dog! He's to be envied!"

"That's so like you, Mr. Ridgely, to think of the flowers first and forget all about the money that has made it possible for me to carry out one of my pet schemes. This week Miss Elliston and I have rented and renovated a house—number 12 Pearl street, and we're going to live there and run it to suit ourselves."

"Alone?"

"Why, of course?"

"Well, to say it's madness is inadequate! In that quarter of the city—regular slums! If you had parents!"

"I shouldn't be doing it? Probably not. As it is, my friends have expostulated in vain, for I am quite capable of taking care of myself. And I see no reason why I shouldn't make experiments and do as I please. Besides, Miss Elliston and I aren't altogether alone. We have a very competent German servant, Gretchen. And I'm sure the man who sends the money would be delighted to see to what use we've put it. We have only been in the house a week and have an inmate already—such a piteous case, a little Italian girl whose stepfather, Grinaldo, forced her to work in a cigar factory, though she was so ill she could scarcely stand. Grinaldo used to beat her if her earnings didn't please him. If you could have seen her poor arms—so wasted and pinched black and blue! Of course it was a case for the societies, but I didn't wait for them to interfere. I took her in myself. I wanted to see those olive cheeks of hers grow rounded out and rosy, and those scrawny brown hands—do you know, she looks as if she'd gained pounds already! Her eyes are beginning to lose their haggard look, and she doesn't duck her head as if she expected a blow."

"And her stepfather?"

"Grinaldo? Oh, he's disappeared! We won't have any more trouble with him, I fancy. There! I've bored you with talking about myself, but it's going to end, for I am taking the privilege of excusing myself and leaving early. Mrs. Courtney is a lenient hostess!"

"You'll let me put you into your cab?" said Ridgely.

"I would if I expected to take one, but I'm going back to Pearl street via the friendly street car. It drops me within three blocks of the door."

"Three blocks! Oh, I say, Miss Grayson, won't you let me?"

"Thank you, no! I shall be perfectly safe. I've come and gone at my own free will for the last week. The people down there are too busy minding their own affairs to interfere with mine."

A few moments later, swathed in a long dark coat that fitted closely and hid the folds of her dinner gown, Miss Grayson hailed a crosstown car. It was a cloudy evening that threatened rain, and before she reached her destination the storm broke wildly, the great drops falling in gusts against the car windows. The corner at which Miss Grayson alighted was utterly deserted. Pale gleams from half opened tenement shutters and the dim, murky yellow of the street lamps were reflected in the streaming gutters and the sidewalk's miniature pools. Miss Grayson splashed briskly ahead, looking neither to the right nor to the left, till she neared her own abode and turned her head to glance in the windows. The partition of what had once been a narrow hall had been removed, and the whole was turned into a spacious sitting room. The embers of a half spent grate fire threw a softened color over books and pictures, and the dark, thin face of little Tessa, who was seated on the hearth rug.

"Well, Tessa," called Miss Grayson, opening the door and pausing a moment to wrest the key from the reluctant lock. "Did you sit up for me? And where's Miss Elliston?"

But Tessa's slow, sweet voice was checked midway in reply, for of a sudden Miss Grayson was thrust violently into the room, and the half opened door was closed behind her. Against it leaned the threatening figure of Grinaldo, his lips in an ugly line.

"What do you mean by breaking in like this?" demanded Miss Grayson, sternly quiet, though a pulse beat hurriedly in her throat.

Grinaldo fixed his narrow eyes on her. Angry red surged under the brownish pallor of his skin. She had taken his daughter, he said, his daughter who earned for him. Now he had come to fetch Tessa away. She would not be found a second time.

Tessa was staring at a window at the other end of the room as if she did not hear Grinaldo's words, but Miss Grayson's eyes were on the thin, keen knife that flickered in his hand.

"If the lady screams or calls the police, I strike now," said Grinaldo softly, with a threatening gesture.

"Oh, no you don't!" cried Branton Ridgely, crashing in the window with his walking stick and vaulting over the sill with the jump that had won him a medal at college. Beyond were the amberlike lamps of his waiting hansom, the cabman whistling shrilly for the police. Miss Grayson saw as through a maze the things that followed, Ridgely's arm striking out and Grinaldo sprawling. She heard Tessa's cry of relief, the startled voice of Miss Elliston, who, panic stricken, was descending the stairs. Lastly came the police. It was Ridgely who told them the necessary details; it was Ridgely who calmed the excited Miss Elliston and half hysterical Tessa; it was Ridgely who came to Miss Grayson when it was all over with a fervent "Thank heaven, I was in time."

"How did you know?"—
"Why, after you were gone I felt a premonition, so I took a cab and followed."

Miss Elliston had discreetly turned her back. Miss Grayson lifted a bunch of violets from a bowl on the table and held them out to him.

"Instead of laurels," she began tremulously.

"I couldn't—I can't—you see—that is"—stammered Ridgely, coloring to the roots of his hair.

Their eyes met.

"Oh," cried Miss Grayson, with a deep breath, "then it was you who sent them! And the money too."

"But the initials?" she questioned, perplexedly after a moment's silence.

"Stand for 'Earnest Trifler,'" he said lightly. "I thought I'd like to help, but I'm pretty much of a thick headed blunderbuss and didn't quite know how. You see, a trifler wouldn't stand much of a chance with you, would he, Miss Grayson?"

"An earnest trifler would," she answered, looking down at the violets she still held in her hand.

"Really?" cried Ridgely, with a delight half boyish in its impetuosity.

"Yes, really," said Miss Eleanor Grayson in a tone that made Ridgely's heart skip at least three beats.

Why They Cheered.

Dr. Whewell, master of Trinity college, Cambridge, was a great but unpopular man. When he entered the senate house it was the ill mannered practice of the undergraduates to begin a loud and continuous whistle.

"How this originated I do not know," writes Dean Farrar in his book, "Men I Have Known." "There were two legends about it. One was that it originated that the master would have to whistle for a bishopric; the other, equally absurd, was that when some one had asked him how to pronounce his name he had said, 'You must shape your mouth as if you were going to whistle.'"

But under the rough manners of the students there was genuine goodness of heart. Dr. Whewell's wife died. He had been tenderly devoted to her, and when he attended chapel after her death the undergraduates were touched by an "old man's anguish and a strong man's tears."

"When next he entered the senate house," writes Dean Farrar, "there was dead silence. For the first time for I know not how many years not a whistle was heard, and then a moment afterward as by spontaneous impulse the whole crowded mass of undergraduates in the gallery burst into a loud and long continued cheer. It was not astonishing that such a proof of sympathy should move the heart of the great master or that the tears should run down his cheeks. I do not think that he was ever whistled at again."

Paying Through the Nose.

"Paying through the nose" is to be indirectly swindled in a transaction or to pay an exorbitant price for a thing in consideration of long credit. A variant is "to be bored through the nose," "bored" here having the meaning of cheated, deceived.

At this instant he borrows me with some trick.—"Henry VIII," I, l. 123.

One that hath guiled you, that hath bored you, sir.—"Life of T. Cromwell," 1622, II, l. 103.

And Howell in his "Instruction For Forren Travell" (1650), page 59, "had known divers Dutch gentlemen grossly guiled by this cheat (the selling of forged manuscripts to young travelers in Italy), and some English bo'd also through the nose this way by paying excessive prices for them."—Notes and Queries.

Oldest of British Sports.

Hawking is the oldest of all British sports. To the uninitiated the most marvelous feature of hawking is the manner in which the hawks themselves, naturally the wildest and wariest of the feathered tribe, have been trained to surrender voluntarily their liberty and return literally like a bolt from the blue in obedience to the will of the falconer. This indeed seems the more remarkable when one learns that the best birds are those which have attained maturity in a wild state.—London Ladies' Field.

Wanted a Better One.

Patient—When you're ill, doctor, do you treat yourself?

"No. I call in one of my colleagues."

"Then can't I call in one of them—the one that cured you?"—Kurger.

Careful.

"I'm going to put a fender on the front of my runabout."

"So you won't run over some one?"

"Nope. So it won't hurt the radiator when I do."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

BASE BALL.

At last Antrim was successful in defeating Bennington. Although Bennington has taken four games from Antrim this season, the local boys found the ball for 16 hits, and it took the visitor's spare pitcher to finish the game.

It looked good to the spectators to see three Cuddihys on bases and "Andy" at bat.

Cuddihy pitched a fine game, holding Bennington to 6 hits, and having 9 strikeouts to his credit.

It was Bennington's game for four innings, but, with four hits and three errors in the fifth, Antrim began "piling up" the scores.

Number of points scored by Antrim this season 118. By opponents, 22.

Antrim has won 10 games and lost 6.

There will be one feature handed out to the Antrim people on Saturday, Aug. 10, on Jameson grounds, in Antrim, that is not down on the season's schedule, which will be a game between the married men and the single men. The reason that we have this game is that the Hillsboro Base Ball Team, with whom we had this date, has disbanded.

As far as spectacularism goes the game will have Barnum's Circus back of the flag and pulled up lame.

The married men claim they will do things to the single men, but the latter say that it is pretty hard for a lot of old men to realize that they are down and out when it comes to dabbling with the sphere and willow.

The players will be as follows:

Married Men	Single Men
Alonzo Brooks	J. Cuddihy
Wm. Ashford	D. Cuddihy
L. H. Carpenter	A. Cuddihy
Ray Taylor	L. Cuddihy
Granville Whitney	Hobart
Walter Smith	H. Whitney
Frank Dickey	F. Woodward

ADMISSION

Gents, 15c. Ladies, 10c.

The Summer Institute for Teachers will open at Plymouth, Monday noon, August 12, and will continue two weeks. Advance applications seem to indicate a larger attendance this year than usual. This institute is a part of the regular institute system of the State, provided for by the act creating an institute fund, and is under the direction of the Department of Public Instruction. In substance it is a two weeks' conference of superintendents, principals, and the more progressive of our teachers upon matters of special interest in the work of teaching and school management and administration. The summer institute should not be confused with the summer school. The former will be in session August 12-24, inclusive; the latter, which is the newly organized summer session of the Normal School, is in session July 9 to August 30, inclusive.

Spraying for the Brown Tail Moth and Orchard Caterpillars.

Inquire frequently come to this office as to whether the young caterpillars of the brown tail moth after they hatch from the eggs early in August may not be killed by spraying the foliage of the trees and thus prevent the formation of the winter webs. As the eggs are now on the trees and are just hatching, it seems opportune to call attention to the fact that the brown tail moth may be very satisfactorily controlled in orchards by spraying at this time. Not only the brown tail moth but numerous other caterpillars commence to attack the foliage of the apple orchard early in August.

Among these may be mentioned the fall web worm, a hairy caterpillar which spins its web over the foliage eaten: the yellow-necked apple caterpillar, a black larva with yellowish stripes and yellow collar or neck; and the red-humped apple caterpillar which is known by the prominent red hump bearing black spines just back of the head. The yellow-necked and red-humped caterpillars are readily recognized by the fact that the eggs are laid in the tip of the twigs or limbs and the caterpillars defoliate the twigs from the tip inward and usually feed in colonies. All of these caterpillars may be largely controlled by spraying during the first week of August with the arsenical poisons. Of these the arsenate of lead is the best insecticide for the reason that it adheres best to the foliage and is not easily washed off by rain. It should be used at the rate of 5 lbs. to the barrel and can be secured of any large seedman or agricultural warehouse. It should be kept in stock by a local merchant in every town as it is now coming into very general use for foliage insects. Paris green at the rate of 1-3 lb. to the barrel of water to which should be added a pound or two of freshly slaked stone lime, will also be effective, but is more readily washed off by rain. Paris green should never be sprayed without adding the fresh slaked stone lime to take up the free arsenic as otherwise a burning of the foliage may occur from the soluble arsenic.

The spray should be applied very thoroughly to all parts of the tree, spraying from below and above so as to reach both surfaces of the foliage. To reach most of the large orchard trees it is desirable to build a tower on the wagon so that with an extension rod all parts of the tree can be sprayed, for it is well known that the brown tail moth lays its eggs at the tips of the twigs, and the top-most branches must therefore be thoroughly drenched. Such a tower and other spraying apparatus is described in bulletin 131 of this Station which may be had upon application.

Even with thorough spraying some of the caterpillars will escape and there will be a few brown tail nests, but with thorough work the number of caterpillars can be so reduced that there will be but few of the winter nests to prune. Spraying will be of little value after the latter part of August as the young brown tail caterpillars commence to spin up their winter webs by the latter part of the month or the first of September.

The Hampden Publishing Company of Springfield, Mass., is being most successfully represented in this town by Edwio O. Raabe, a hustling sophomore of Dartmouth College, who is soliciting for "King's Illustrated Portfolio of Our Country." The work is really a marvel of conception and execution and is well worth the careful examination of all educated people. The vastness of its scope of important information and the unique simplicity of its plan readily account for Mr. Raabe's almost phenomenal success in Bennington and Jaffrey. The young student is to be congratulated on his agency for such a work.

I will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart or The Kidneys, Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—means Stomach weakness always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's restorative has made its fame. No other remedy ever claims to keep the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me today for a sample and free Book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The restorative is sold by W. F. Dickey.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a Home of Swamp-Root pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Pure Blood is a Defence.

The biggest snake story of the season comes from a northern state. The snake was forty feet long, twenty inches in diameter, and when a man sat on his back thinking it to be a log, it bucked and threw him twenty-five feet. But why this wave of skepticism and disbelief in nature fakirs? Some people are even beginning to doubt the stories of Baron Munchausen.

Epilepsy Fits St. Vitus Dance

Are nerve diseases, and unless checked, lead to destruction of both mind and body. The weak, shattered nerves must have something to strengthen and build them back to health. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a remarkable nerve tonic and stimulant. It strengthens the nerves, relieves the nervous strain, and influences refreshing body-building sleep and rest. Persistent use seldom fails to relieve these afflictions.

"I was taken with epileptic fits; had eleven in less than 12 hours. My father sent for our family physician, but he could do very little for me; and I grew worse every day, and at last they had three doctors with me, and I still got worse. My father heard of Dr. Miles' medicine and bought a bottle of Nervine and a box of Nerve and Liver Pills. I had taken only a few doses until I began to feel better. I took 12 bottles, and it cured me sound and well. It has been worth all the world to me. I recommend it wherever I go. You may use this as a life-long testimonial to the merits of your medicine, for I am enjoying the best of health, and feel that my life and health is due to this wonderful medicine." R. F. D. No. 2, Boston, Ga.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had. For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

Entered at the Post-office at Antrim as second-class matter

A good reputation may be a valuable asset, but it is sometimes very laborious to live up to.

In spite of the fact that Oklahoma's troubles are constitutional, a patriotic paper in that section insists that she will get over them.

The call of Kansas for fifty thousand harvest hands to save her blighted crops has resulted in an influx of one hundred and eighteen laborers.

An Illinois clergyman says kissing is worse than whiskey, drugs and other demons that populate Hades. Well, every man to his taste.

A pessimist who insists that everything has been absorbed by the trusts has evidently overlooked Wellman's air-ship expedition to the North Pole.

There is a strong law against the selling of cigarettes to minors, yet the kids appear to have no difficulty in buying all they want. Who is responsible?

The advertiser who succeeds is broadminded enough not only to advertise in the papers he likes, but also in the papers other people like — Lewis-ton Journal

The King of Sweden has expressed the desire that the Swedes in this country return to their homeland. The Swedes, however, will pay little attention to his call.

The country has often forgiven the President for breaking his promise, but there are thousands who will not forgive if he fails to reconsider his statement that he will not stand again for the Presidency.

The President of a Western College has predicted that China will in time become the greatest nation on the planet. But a hundred million Ah Sins and Si Ans tell us that China has been the greatest for fully ten thousand years.

The new Postmaster General, who has so recently lived abroad as ambassador to Rome and later to St. Petersburg, is evidently a man of broad view, and if he can in any way influence legislation it may be that our narrow and backward postal establishment can be brought nearer to the perfection of the postal establishments of the old world. It is simply outrageous that the tens of thousands of letter carriers traversing the cities and rural routes of the country are not permitted to deliver packages to the millions of people that want them. It is humiliating that in this country of all others, the parcels post is with held through selfish interests of exorbitant express companies and petty ship-keepers. The wrong grows in enormity when we reflect that our postal establishment, supported at an enormous expense, would be a paying institution if the people of the country could receive their packages through the Post-office Department at one fifth the expense now paid for express packages.

Piles get quick and certain relief from Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment. Please note it is made alone for Piles, and its action is positive and certain. Itching, painful, protruding or blind piles disappear like magic by its use. Large nickel capped jars 50 cents. W. F. Dickey.

Weak Lungs Bronchitis

For over sixty years doctors have endorsed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs, colds, weak lungs, bronchitis, consumption. You can trust a medicine the best doctors approve. Then trust this the next time you have a hard cough.

"I had an awful cough for over a year, and nothing seemed to do me any good. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and was soon cured. I recommend it to all my friends whenever they have a cough." Miss M. MEVENS, Washington, D. C.

Resolutions

Passed at a recent business meeting of the officials of the First Baptist Church of Antrim:

Whereas:—Our pastor Rev. W. E. Braited has tendered his resignation to take effect August 31st, and has accepted a call to Barre, Vt., therefore,

We resolve:—That we accept the resignation in the same Christian spirit in which it is offered, and cheerfully grant leave of absence after August 11th, that a short vacation may be enjoyed by the pastor and family.

That we express our hearty appreciation of the pastor's assistance in the spiritual and material growth of the church in the past five years.

That we are thankful for the strong and helpful sermons to which we have listened, and for the many helpful words and letters we have received.

That we testify, that we have never heard anything from our pastor to lead us to question the divinity of our Lord and Savior or the authority of the bible as the guide of our lives, but have heard much to strengthen our faith.

That we will pray to our Heavenly Father to bless our pastor and his family, and to give him strength for all that He plans to do.

A distinguished Englishman visiting this country has expressed the opinion that the President will never be able to cope successfully with the trusts, because they are protean-shaped, hydra-headed, deep-rooted and every other metaphor that will suggest ineradicability. Behind them all is the tariff—the most powerful stand-pat idea of political faith now popular with both parties, popular with the rich and with the poor—the bed-rock of stimulated industrialism and commercialism in this country. Efforts to reform the tariff seem worse than puerile. A tariff that is not pervasive and thorough will amount to nothing, and any real reform, if it were possible, would mean revolution and disruption. The Manufacturers' Association which recently met in New York asserts for example that the tariff schedules are so high that Republicans believe they should be reduced for political reasons alone. The Standard Oil Company, which many suppose to be independent of the tariff, is protected by a duty of 150 per cent from Russian importations, the only country which has an oil output equal to that of the United States and which is able to export to this country. The product of the coal trust is on the free list, but it is protected from the competition of Welch coal by an ingenious device which is in effect a tariff.

The Value of Diamonds.
The value of the diamond is so much per carat, and up to a certain limit the value per carat increases as the size of the stone increases. When a carat diamond is quoted at $125, a diamond weighing a half a carat is counted at the rate of $75 per carat, three-quarter carat diamonds at $100 per carat, one and one-quarter carat diamonds at $140 per carat, one and one-half carat diamonds at $150 per carat, one and three-quarter carat diamonds at $180 per carat, and two carat stones at $200 per carat. Stones weighing more than two carats sell at about the same rate as that quoted for two carat stones, and do not increase as rapidly owing to the more limited demand for the larger sized stones.—New York Herald.

To Calculate Longevity.
"Bacon took a deep interest in longevity and its earmarks," said a physician, "and Bacon's signs of long life and of short life are as true today as they ever were. You will live long, Bacon pointed out, if you have soft, fine hair, a fine skin, quick growth, large head, early corpulence, short neck, small mouth, brittle and separated teeth and fat ears. Your life, barring accidents, will be very lengthy if you have slow growth, coarse hair, a rough skin, deep wrinkles in the forehead, firm flesh, a large mouth, wide nostrils, strong teeth set close together and a hard, gristly ear."

Dogs That Worry
If you have ever seen a dog that has lost its master in a London street you will wonder whether even the lower animals have not the elements of worry to disturb them. But the man worries about many other things than bones or masters, and the dog never suffers from insomnia through fear of a future life or the state of his banking account.—Reader.

WORKING WOMEN, WHAT THEY SHOULD KNOW

MRS. SADIE ABBOTT

MRS. PREE MCKITRICK

Women for the most part spend their lives at home, and it is these women who are willing and ambitious that their homes shall be kept neat and pretty, their children well dressed and tidy, who do their own cooking, sweeping, dusting and often washing, ironing and sewing for the entire family, who call for our sympathy.

Truly the work of such a woman is "never done" and is it any wonder that she breaks down at the end of a few years, the back begins to ache, there is a displacement, inflammation or ulceration of the abdominal organs, a female weakness is brought on, and the struggle of that wife and mother to continue her duties is pitiful.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, is the exact medicine a woman needs whose strength is overtaxed. It keeps the feminine organs in a strong and healthy condition. In preparing for childbirth and recuperating therefrom it is most efficient. It carries a woman safely through the change of life and in making her strong and well assists her to be a good wife and mother.

Mrs. Sadie Abbott, of Jeannette, Pa., writes: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham—'I suffered severely with pain every month and also a pain in my left side. My doctor prescribed for me but did me no good; a friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I wrote you in regard to my condition. I followed your advice and am a perfectly well woman. The pains have all disappeared and I cannot recommend your medicine too highly.'

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

Mrs. Pree McKitrick, of La Farge, Wis., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham: "For six years I suffered from female weakness. I was so irregular that I would go from three weeks to six months, so I thought I would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

"Now I am once more well and can do my work without a pain. Any one who wishes, can write to me and I will answer all letters gladly."

Women should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for the greatest number of actual cures of female ills. Every suffering woman in the United States is asked to accept the following invitation. It is free, will bring you health and may save your life.

Mrs. Pinkham's Invitation to Women.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. From the symptoms given, the trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised. Out of her vast volume of experience in treating female ills Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that will help your case. Her advice is free and always helpful.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

his first round of inspection and with much pomposity thus addressed the prisoner who occupied it:

"Well, my man, do you know who I am?"

"No, nor I dinna care," was the nonchalant reply.

"Well, I'm your new chaplain."

"Oh, ye are? Then I hae heard o' ye before."

"And what did you hear?" returned the chaplain, his curiosity getting the better of his dignity.

"Well, I heard that the last two kirks ye were in ye preached them baith empty. But ye will na find it such an easy matter to do the same wi' this one."—Philadelphia Ledger.

What He Missed.

One of the officials of the Indian office at Washington was visiting a reservation in Montana on government business when a certain chief who had taken a fancy to Uncle Sam's agent invited him to attend the wedding of the Indian's daughter.

The Indian office man was, to his regret, unable to be present at the festivities, but the Indian laconically described the function subsequently in order to indicate what the agent had missed.

"Five dogs," said the chief, "and plenty pie."—Harper's Weekly.

Compromise.

"And you will give us your blessing?" asked the eloping bride, returned to the parental roof.

"Freely," replied the old man. "No trouble about the blessing, but board and lodging will be at regular rates."—Philadelphia Ledger.

No Regrets.

"Don't you sometimes regret that you never learned to swim?"

"No," answered the complacent person. "The knowledge that I can't swim has always led me to avoid deep water. Possibly it has saved my life."—Washington Star.

Taken at His Word.

Mrs. Smart—So these are the china bargains you advertised?

Clerk—Yes, ma'am, and they're going for little or nothing.

Mrs. Smart—All right. I'll take that blue bordered dish for nothing.—Philadelphia Press.

HUMOR OF THE HOUR

The Bright Side.

"After all, the life of the horny handed son of toil has its recompenses," a bit grimly remarked the honest but eminently astute agriculturist. "It is true that us angular agriculturists are cartooned in the comic papers, lampooned and occasionally babooned on the stage and are frequently run over by automobiles, and the poets sing-oh, sing-heh and a rondo delay without any special provocation as far as I can see about us, and we are kept pretty busy horning off agents of various kinds and being everlastingly licked for our impudence in the best magazines by clean limbed young college men with pale, dissipated faces and are considerably kicked by the lowing kine, stung by the busy bee and are forever losing our wallets and our equilibrium every time we get as far as seven miles from home, but still I admire to say that I believe we are about as well off as the city men, who, according to what I read in the papers, suffer from the social afflictions of their women folks, the slings and arrows of them they elect to office, the wiles of adventuresses, blow and all such as that on their escutcheons and the thousand and one fads, foibles and follies that afflict people who feel that they must keep up appearances and a lifelong warfare with first mortgage bonds, second mortgage bonds, improvement bonds, refunding bonds, blanket mortgage bonds, common stock, preferred stock, treasury stock, watered stock, the old Knickerbocker stock, consolidated first, second and third mortgage bonds and incidentally in a good many cases the galling bonds of wedlock.

"I believe I'll stick to the old farm for a spell yet. It ain't near as picturesque as the city, but it also lacks quite a good deal of being as strenuous."—Tom P. Morgan in Puck.

BENNINGTON

Will Gerrard is home for a short vacation.

Miss Lula Franc is a guest of friends in town.

Miss Helen Holt went to Boston last Saturday.

Mrs. Josephine Woods has returned from a visit to her sister, in Philadelphia.

Miss Mary Rogers returned to her home Monday night, after an absence of several weeks.

Misses Grace and Dorothy Taylor are visiting friends in Highlandville and Cambridge, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Brooks were the guests Sunday of Mrs. Brooks' mother, Mrs. Annie Fleming.

Mrs. Aphia Eaton entertained last week her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Faton; also Mrs. M. A. Jacquith, of Philadelphia.

Miss Maria Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Knight were called to North Chelmsford, Mass., to attend the funeral of an aunt, Mrs. Francis Duncan, widow of the late Nathaniel Duncan. Mrs. Duncan was born in Bennington, in the year 1824; was the last of a family of fourteen children of Josiah Taylor.

BASE BALL NOTES.

Bennington boys were nicely beaten at Antrim last Saturday by a score of 12 to 4.

Hancock team play here Saturday August 10.

In the distribution of license fees by commissioners, Bennington received $263.47. This is the amount in dollars and cents that our town gains by the licensed saloon; what don't she lose?

Killing Time.

At the Jamestown exposition Mark Twain talked about laziness at a dinner.

"We are all lazy," he said, "but some of us fight it down. Some of us, again, don't."

"I knew a noncombatant of this class when I was a boy in Hannibal. His name was Jim Black, and one fine summer morning I found him lying under a tree beside the river listening to the birds and watching the steamboats glide up and down the great stream.

"Well, what are you here for?" I said.

"I'm here," said Jim, "for to pile them bales on to the wharf."

"Oh," said I. "And now you are resting, are you?"

"No," said Jim; "I ain't resting, because I ain't tired. I'm just waiting for the sun to sink down behind that there hill, so's I can knock off work."

Decidedly Ominous.

The late Senator Morgan, discussing "red rubber," once said of a certain Belgian report:

"It seems harmless on its face, but between the lines an ominous meaning is hidden."

The senator smiled.

"It reminds me," he said, "of the old miser of my native Athens. This miser hated to part with money, and to the physician who was just bringing him around from a long illness he said one day:

"Ah, doctor, we have known one another such a long time I don't intend to insult you by settling your account in cash. But I have put you down for a handsome legacy in my will."

"The doctor looked thoughtful.

"Allow me," he said, "to look at that prescription again. I wish to make a slight alteration in it."

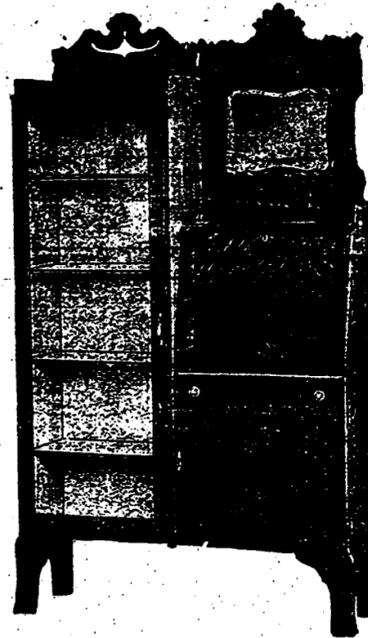

Notwithstanding the absence of the artificial safeguards that a conventional society has ordained, circus performers are, as a class, the most moral folk on the face of the earth. An old circus man expressed the fact in this way:

"For 200 years there has not been a domestic scandal nor a divorce among us when both husband and wife were from recognized circus families. In every case where there has been a scandal, either one or the other has been an outsider."—Everybody's Magazine.
