Base Ball.

Antrim played her last game on the home grounds Saturday, Aug. 24, defeating Henniker 12 to 10.

The Cuddibys did some fine stick-work: "Dick" having three two-baggers and a single out of five times up; "Jim" hit it for a three-bagger; "Larry" got three hits out of four times up; "Andy" got his eye on the ball at Peterboro, Aug. 20, and rung in for two hits Saturday. Guildea excelled for Henniker.

Probable Deer Killing.

A mysterious find of a bit of flesh and bone wrapped in a bag, caused somewhat of a sensation last week in Bennington, from which town it was reported to County Solicitor Boisvert by Deputy Sheriff Dutton; the find was however in Hancock, on the C. H. Tenney farm, only a short distance from Antrim village.

From the partial information first received by Mr. Boisvert, he got the impression that the flesh and bone was found in a travelling bag, but on investigation he learned it was merely a grain bag. The flesh was so decayed that its nature was uncertain and the investigators were influenced principally in their opinion by the appearance of the bits of bone. The pieces were so small however, that their nature could not be determined with certainty. Various theories are offered regarding the nature of the find. Some believe that it is a remnant of a woodchopper's provision which may have been thus thrown away when found tainted. Some think it was really a bit of human flesh which may have been removed through a surgical operation and thrown away where found. A more likely theory, in the opinion of the solicitor, is that the bit of flesh came from a deer which had been killed in violation of the law and that this piece was dropped where it was found when the other edible portions of the carcass were smuggled home by the outlaw hunter.

On one occasion not long since, in the north part of Antrim, when two men were out fishing they found a sack filled with flesh and bones secured by stones to a bridge over the river. On examination, these men discovered that the sack contained those parts of a deer which were not needed by whoever deposited them there, and the supposition was that the desirable and edible portions of the animal were taken better care of. Without a doubt, the solution of the former mysterious matter was the same as the latter, and both were correct.

Roll-Call and Church Family Gathering.

The members of the Antrim Presbyterian church held on Wednesday last their annual roll-call and church family gathering, in observance of the 119th anniversary of their organization. The exercises opened at 10 o'clock in the forenoon with prayers and roll-call; at noon a dinner was served in the dining room to all church members and their families. Following the dinner was a social hour with speeches and historical sketches. Music was interspersed throughout all the exercises. One of the most interesting and helpful occasions of this kind ever held by this church was the result of the efforts of the committee this year.

The musical program of the Roll-Call follows:

- "The Lord Reigneth," Sullivan, Anthem by the Choir.
- "List! the Cherubic Host!" Gaul-Ladies' Chorus; bass solo, Mr. Prentiss; violin accompaniment, Miss M. E. Forsaith; piano, Mrs. Muzzey.
- "The Friend Who Waiteth Nigh!" Macy, mixed quartette: Miss Gertrude Jameson, Mr. Carpenter, Mrs. Nims, Mr. Prentiss.
- "Jocelyn," Godard, Violin solo, Miss M. E. Forsaith.
- "Sing! Heavens! Sing," solo by Miss Achsah Wilson.

The Antrim Presbyterian church was organized Aug. 2, 1788, with seventy-two members and since its history of nearly 120 years has grown to several hundreds. There have been but four different pastors in the church's history and of these no one of them ever held a pastorate in any other town.

The first minister was the Rev. Walter Little, a Dartmouth graduate of 1796, who was installed in 1800. The second pastor was the Rev. Dr. John Whiton, Yale, 1805, who was ordained 1808 and resigned in 1833; his successor was the Rev. John H. Bates, Vermont university, 1840, who preached for thirteen years. The fourth minister was the Rev. Warren R. Cochrane, who began preaching here in 1808 and who will in a few months complete a pastorate of forty years.

The society has had three houses of worship, the first was built by the town on Meeting House hill and was raised June 28, 1775. The second building was known as the "brick church" and was built in 1826. It was considered to be one of the finest structures of its day in New Hampshire, and was used continuously until 1893, when the present handsome structure was erected at a cost of $18,000 and was dedicated free of debt.

The Industrial Outlook.

Jacob H. Schiff has spoken on the financial and industrial outlook. Mr. Schiff is well able to give the views of the capitalist class, for he is a member of the immense international banking house of Kuhlen, Loeb & Co., and he might well be expected to take the anti-administration view of things. But instead of that he says philosophically that the situation in which we find ourselves is perfectly natural. In one part of his talk he says: "To blame the Federal Administration for the difficulties in which we now find ourselves is both thoughtless and unjust." He points out that immense industrial activity of the past few years has caused the demand for capital to outrun national credit, and he says that we will have to slow up for a while to allow credit to catch up with industrial expansion. As to the attitude of the Administration toward corporate prosecutions, he says that the corporations have themselves to blame for the situation. President Roosevelt has had the nerve and honesty to uncover a lot of corporate crookedness, and there is only one right way to settle the matter, namely by punishing the crooked ones and getting business back into the paths of honesty. Mr. Schiff ends the homily by saying: "At present, it is true we have to suffer the consequences of the President's uncompromising attitude, but posterity is certain to profit by it."

Very Large Crops.

It is an ill wind that blows nobody good, and it really looks as though the wind was blowing in the direction of this country most of the time. Just at the moment when we came to the conclusion that the wheat crop was going to be about the average and would fetch the average price, comes the report of frost damage in Canada which sends grain prices in this country up with a rush. There has been such a succession of record-breaking crops in this country that it looks as though we were due for a reversal. The green fly did some damage it is true, in the southern central states this spring, but the recent reports of the Department of Agriculture show that the crop is well up to the average, none-the-less. Now comes the report that unseasonable weather is likely to seriously injure the Canadian crop of the great northwest, and here we are again with a good crop and high prices. Of course, we are sorry for Canada, but after all, it is very human philosophy that "don't care what happens, just so it don't happen to us."

It seems as though the striking telegraphers had got their wires crossed. It appears now as though the telegraph strike had settled down to an endurance contest. Both parties claim to be entirely satisfied. The telegraphers say that the companies are wholly tied up and the companies say that the strikers have done their worst and that this is not bad enough. The indications to an outsider are that the strikers are in rather a worse position than the companies. They are beginning to talk of a compromise and their employers say that there is nothing to compromise. Probably before they get through, the operators will wish they had stayed at work while they had the chance.

Misses Eva W. Brown of Hillsboro and Lillian Seaver of Townsend, Mass., Harold D. Collins of Boston, A. Burleigh Sawyer of Merrimac, Mass., are visiting friends in town.

FROM ONE OF ANTRIM'S VALUED RESIDENTS

Now Visiting in the West. An Interesting Letter from the Pen of George A. Cochran, Esq.

The following letter to his town's people, we are pleased to publish; it is written in Mr. Cochran's accustomed easy style, and is entertaining as well as very interesting. The writer thinks the West is all right, but for a life-long resident of New England the old Granite State holds him firmly in her grasp, and he has a very warm place in his heart for the old home-state:

CLINTON, Iowa,
August 24, 1907.

DEAR REPORTER:

My better half and myself left our domicile the 7th inst., in the morning, en route for the west, going via the Hoosac Tunnel route, Niagara Falls, Chicago, to Clinton, Ia. Before entering the tunnel, all the doors, windows and ventilators are closed, so as to keep the smoke and dust out of the cars. When we emerged from the stifling, smoky atmosphere, all had shining faces, dampened with perspiration.

We arrived at Rochester, N. Y., about one o'clock a.m., and for five long, solemn hours, we tried to keep awake; the trains did not make connections. Again we moved on and arrived at Niagara about 8.30 a.m.; we at once boarded a trolley car, crossed over the river on the suspension bridge to the Falls. The cars stop on the river's bank close to the Falls,—here we are at the mighty cataract, the waters falling down the precipice 165 feet to the yawning gulf below, throwing up a spray of water and mist into the air several hundred feet. After getting pretty well sprinkled, we entered the car again which circled around and went down on the west bank of the river on the Canadian side, passing the Gen. Brock monument 180 feet high, and other points of interest. Seven miles below the Falls the cars cross the river to Lewiston: here was a steamer starting for Toronto. Here the cars turn around and go up the river on the American side; the track is down near the water most of the whole distance up the river so that one gets a good view of the whirlpool, rapids, etc., thus making a trip of 14 miles, all the while near the seething, foaming waters. This route is called the Belt Line; a part of it on the American side is called the Gorge. The Falls are in close proximity to the city. At Prospect Point the rocks or ledge reaches out over the American Falls; it is here that one gets a good look at the Falls,—for more than a mile up the river, above the Point, the water is dancing and jumping into the air as it makes its mad rush for its mighty leap. A short distance above the Falls is a bridge across the river to Goat Island which contains 148 acres of land. The state owns 400 acres of land up and down the river, also the Island, so no buildings that might be considered a nuisance or any "undesirable citizen" cannot locate there; no firing of guns are allowed on any of the grounds. The crows seem to have learned that they are in no danger from the guns of the hunter, for during the winter thousands of them stay on the Island.

Anthony Trollope is quoted as saying, "Of all the sights on this earth of ours which tourists travel to see, at least all those that I have seen, I am inclined to give the palm to Niagara Falls; I know of nothing so grand, so powerful, so beautiful!"

We left Niagara at 9.05 p.m., crossed to the Canada side, traveled through the Old Dominion until about midnight, when we crossed the Detroit river into Detroit, Mich.; in crossing the river the cars run on to a long boat and are ferried across the water, so there is no changing of cars.

We arrived at Chicago about 8.30 a.m., the 9th. Our route from Niagara was over the Mich. Central R.R. We rode across the city—Chicago—in a bus to the station of the Chicago & Northwestern R.R.; at 12.30 p.m., we were getting out of Chicago, gliding over the state of Illinois, passing fields of wheat and corn, hundreds of acres all in one field seemingly. Crossed the Mississippi river about 5 p.m. into the city of Clinton, Ia.; went direct to the home of our relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Ben. P. Baldwin and family, where we were met with uncontrollable smiles upon their faces. Clinton is a city of about 25,000 inhabitants, is located upon the west bank of the Mississippi, is connected with Fulton, Ills., by three bridges, each of them nearly one mile in length.

We have seen a few New Hampshire people: one of them it gave us pleasure to meet for the reason that he is a real son of our own town of Antrim; he was the Hon. John C. Weston, who was born at the Weston homestead in 1834 on the west side of Robb mountain, a brother of the late Capt. Ephraim Weston, in whose memory the G. A. R. is named. Mr. Weston has been a citizen and prominent business man here for 40 years, now retired. We gladly accepted an invitation to take a ride with him in his surry and were kindly shown about the city and the adjoining city of Lyons. "A genial man well met!"

We have had the pleasure of joining an excursion party and sailing up the river 20 miles to the town of Savanna, Ills., and return on the steamer J. S. there were 450 people aboard. Dancing was in order. The boat is 230 ft. long, 40 ft. wide, is licensed to carry 2000 persons.

This is quite a railroad center. I visited the R.R. round house; it has stalls for 51 engines.

Horace Greeley is quoted as saying, "Go West, young man!" I think he was right. When a man has lived in the old Granite State three score years and ten, I should say, "Don't go West, old man!"

ANCIENT ATHENS.

Banqueting in the Grecian City in the Time of Plato.

In Professor T. G. Tucker's "Life in Ancient Athens" the author gives us as a picture of a typical banquet in that city in the time of Plato: "When all are in place the servants come round with a vessel, from which they pour water over the hands of the guests. There are brought in small tables, light and ornamental, one of which is set down before each couch for two persons, and on these are placed the several dishes as they come in order. The tables are lower than the couches, so that the right hand can reach down easily to them. Knives and forks there are none. The food is taken up with the fingers. It is true that in dealing with very soft foods or gravies or in extracting things from shells spoons were not unknown, but usually the fingers were assisted by pieces of bread hollowed out for the purpose. It is clear that there was plenty of room for neatness and daintiness in handling food, and it was no small advantage to have fingers not too sensitive.

"There were no napkins. Portions of soft bread, often especially prepared for the purpose, were used for wiping the fingers and were afterward thrown to the dogs which might be present to catch them; but, apart from the dogs, it may be something of a shock to learn that the floor, which was, of course, without a carpet, was the receptacle for shells, bones, peelings and other fragments, which were, however, swept out at a given stage of the proceedings. Conversation meanwhile must be general. The first half of dinner consists of substantial, particularly fish and birds, eels (if they could be got), comparatively little meat (such as beef, lamb and pork) and vegetables dressed to a degree of which we should hardly approve with oil, vinegar, honey and sauces.

"During this part of the meal wine is not drunk. The Athenians kept their drinking as separate as possible from their eating. Water is then brought round again, hands are washed, the tables are carried out, the floor is swept, a chaut is sung to the accompaniment of the flutes, a libation of wine is poured out to the words 'to the good genius' or 'to good health,' and the second part of the banquet begins. The tables are brought in again, and what we call dessert was for this reason called by the Athenians 'the second table.' On these are placed fruits, fresh and dried; salted almonds, sweetmeats, cheese and salt."

People with poor digestion should drink no water with meals, but take a glassful half an hour before and drink plentifully an hour or so after each meal.

To inhale steam from a bowl of boiling water is very good for a sore throat. The sufferer should lean over the steam, drawing it in both throat and nostrils.

Many cases of indigestion, headache, neuralgia, cold hands and feet can be quickly cured by drinking slowly one or two pints of water so hot that it almost burns the throat.

Warts may be entirely removed by washing the hands two or three times a day with the water in which potatoes have been boiled or by bathing the wart several times with potato water.

INDIAN LODGES.

Homes of the Savages in the Days of the Buffalo.

While in buffalo days some of the wild Indians of the plains occupied permanent dwellings during a part of the year, there were others who lived wholly in movable lodges.

These were made of buffalo skins tanned white and sewed together. They were of different sizes, the poor occupying smaller lodges, while the wealthy man, he who owned many horses, very likely had a large family and required a larger lodge. The size of a man's lodge was to some extent an indication of his wealth. Two horses were needed to drag the poles of a large lodge and one to carry the lodge itself, three horses for the transportation of the dwelling alone, to say nothing of the other property and the different members of the family.

A lodge of moderate size required eleven skins, and eighteen poles were needed to set it up. A sixteen skin lodge required twenty-two poles. The larger the lodge the greater was the number of poles needed. From the fact that they used an unusual number of poles in setting up their lodges it resulted that the Cheyennes had well stretched, nice looking lodges.

The northern Cheyennes declare that an old number of hides was always used for the best lodges, and the number might range from eleven to twenty-one. The skins were sewed together with sinew thread. First, of course, the hides must be tanned, the hair removed and the skin softened. Then the Cheyenne woman held a sewing bee which was not unlike the bees of our ancestors in the early days of this country. She invited her friends to come and help her sew her lodge and provided them with refreshments. Among them was always one woman especially skillful in cutting out the lodges, and she fitted the skins together before the women began to sew them.—Forest and Stream.

HOLDING A CAMERA.

Some Practical Suggestions to the Beginner in Photography.

One of the most important lessons for a beginner to learn is to hold the camera in the proper position during exposure. Whenever there are corners of buildings or other objects which give vertical lines the camera must be held absolutely level. If this is not done, the building in the picture will appear to be falling either backward or forward, according to the way in which the camera was tilted.

There are times, however, when the camera may be tilted to an advantage. In some cases it is an absolute necessity. For example, in photographs of clouds, waterfalls, balloons, etc., the camera may point upward, while in taking pictures of people swimming or bathing, children at work or play, etc., it may be pointed downward.

Very successful photographs of prominent speakers, parades, crowds, etc., have been taken when the camera was upside down. It makes no difference in the negative whether the camera is right side up or not. By holding the camera in the way suggested many a photographer has secured good pictures, while others who tried to use the camera in the usual way made absolute failures.

Often by holding the camera by the side of the body and pointing it backward one may secure pictures of children at play and of older people in natural poses without the knowledge of any members of the group.

Another warning to beginners is necessary. Do not try to take a time exposure while holding the camera in the hand. Even if the camera is held against the breast and respiration stopped the action of the heart is sufficient to cause the box to vibrate and spoil the picture.—Circle Magazine.

Some years ago Phillips Brooks was recovering from an illness and was denying himself to all visitors when Robert G. Ingersoll called. The bishop received him at once. "I appreciate this very much," said Mr. Ingersoll, "but why do you see me when you deny yourself to your friends?"

"It is this way," said the bishop; "I feel confident of seeing my friends in the next world, but this may be my last chance of seeing you."—Argonaut.

Half a teaspoonful of table salt dissolved in a half glassful of cold water will give instant relief in case of heartburn.

A Hair Dressing

Nearly every one likes a fine hair dressing. Something to make the hair more manageable; to keep it from being too rough, or from splitting at the ends. Something, too, that will feed the hair at the same time, a regular hair-food. Well-fed hair will be strong, and will remain where it belongs—on the head, not on the comb!

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle

Home of Swamp-Root, by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Arrangements have been perfected for the holding at the Weirs on Sept 6 and 7 of the annual convention of the undertakers and licensed embalmers of New Hampshire. The association will make headquarters at Hotel Weirs during its stay and the members will be accompanied by ladies.

After a decision by the trustees of the Elliot City Hospital in Keene, that they would not accept the gift of the Edward C. Thayer residence on Main street, which was given the institution under the terms of the will of Mrs. Thayer, the place has been sold at auction to William Pearson for $9000. Under the will, if the hospital did not see fit to accept the property, it was to be sold at auction and the proceeds divided between the hospital and the Invalids Home, each of which will now receive $4000.

Work has been commenced on the demolition of the old Boscawen-Canterbury bridge, a structure which for many years has been famous throughout New Hampshire and beyond and which was built at a time when free bridges across the Merrimack were few and very, very far between. The bridge is of a style entirely unfamiliar in New England. It is covered and is after the architecture of an old English bridge with the two curving camel's back spans and believed to be one of a very few bridges perhaps the only one of the kind in the United States.

I will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart or The Kidneys, Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—meas Stomach weakness always And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's restorative has made its fame. No other remedy ever claims to keep the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me today for a sample and free Book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The restorative is sold by W. F. Dickey.

Head Ache Sometimes?

If so, it will interest you to know that it can be stopped with Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills; and without any bad after-effects, and this without danger of forming a drug habit or having your stomach disarranged. They positively contain no opium, morphine, cocaine, chloral, ether or chloroform in any form. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills relieve pain, and leave only a sense of relief. The reason for this is explained by the fact that headache comes from tired, irritable, turbulent, over-taxed brain nerves. Anti-Pain Pills soothe and strengthen these nerves, thus removing the cause. They are harmless when taken as directed.

"We use Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for the cure of headache, and we think that there is nothing that will equal them. They will cure the severest spell of nervous or sick headache in a very few minutes. I am of a nervous temperament, and occasionally have spells when my nerves seem to be completely exhausted, and I tremble so I can scarcely contain myself. At these times I always take the Anti-Pain Pills, and they quiet me right away. It is remarkable what a soothing effect they have upon the nerves."

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well. If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Entered at the Post-office at Antrim as second-class matter

A man who nurses a grievance must expect it to grow.

It is easy for one to poison a person's mind concerning another. There is measureless ruin wrought in the world by the thoughtless speaker. Characters are blackened, friendships are destroyed, jealousies are aroused, homes are ruined, hearts are broken. Let us never take up an evil report and give it wing on breath of ours. Let us never whisper an evil thing of another. We know not where it may end, to what it may grow, what ruin it may work. Words once spoken can never be gotten back again. We had better learn to keep the door of our mouth locked, and say no evil of anyone. This is a silence that is golden—Selected.

At Claremont, where the sale of liquor is so nicely (?) regulated by license, even the rum-sellers are dissatisfied, and think that the prospects of having license again in that town are ruined. The cause of these men making such a statement was the result of considerable disgust of many citizens at a street brawl and fight on the "Bowery of Claremont." The custom of the license commissioners in placing all of this class of business in one section of the town, while condemned by the liquor sellers, is upheld by a majority of the people. If it is an absolute necessity to have a cess pool in a town, it does not seem necessary or good judgment to tap it in any number of places and let the filth and disease run all over the town!

Letter to Antrim Lawyers,
Antrim, N. H.

Dear Sirs:—We should like to print your opinion of this guarantee in this paper, where all your neighbors will see it:

We'll furnish the paint to paint half the house of any fair man on these terms: He shall paint the other half with whatever other paint he likes; same painter (any fair man) same way (the way of all fair painters, to make a good job). If our half doesn't take less gallons of paint by one-tenth to seven-tenths, we'll give him the paint. If our half doesn't take less labor by one-tenth to seven-tenths, we'll give him the paint. If our half isn't sounder three years hence, we'll give him the paint. If our half isn't under six years hence we'll give him the paint. Any color.

We say one-tenth, because there are two or three paints with about first difference: we say seven—there are dozens of paints with about that difference—we say one to seven, because there's a hundred that waste one-third of the money paid for both paint and labor.

Is there a paint we haven't covered?

Yours truly,

F. W. DEVOE & Co
P. S. Davis Patterson Co. sell our paint.

Special Notice.

I will clean monuments, headstones and tablets, making them look as good as new; also reset tablets and stones in a workmanlike manner. My prices are very reasonable and good work guaranteed. Give me a call.

Complaints reach this office from some of our village residents that they have been losing vegetables from their garden, and in one case there is almost a beaten path to a certain patch of peas where some other party than the owner has been frequently "pinching" peas. It seems hardly creditable, but our information is the best which can be had.

On Friday, Aug. 23, occurred the 7th birthday of Master Alford L. Jones. His playmates gathered at his home on High street, bringing useful gifts. After games were played, refreshments were served, consisting of ice cream, cake, confectionery and fruit: some 25 partook of the treat. Such gatherings are dear to all children and leave many bright spots in life's journey

GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

ELLEN M. OLSON

CLARA E. DARMSTADTER

The responsibility for a daughter's future largely rests with the mother. The right influence and the information which is of vital interest to the daughter imparted at the proper time has not only saved the life but insured the success of many a beautiful girl.

When a girl's thoughts become sluggish, with headache, dizziness or a disposition to sleep, pains in back or lower limbs, eyes dim, desire for solitude; when she is a mystery to herself and friends, her mother should come to her aid, and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, will at this time prepare the system for the coming change, and start this trying period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities. It has been thus depended upon for two generations.

Hundreds of letters from young girls and their mothers, expressing gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for them, are constantly being received.

Miss Ellen M. Olson, of 417 N. East St., Kewanee, Ill., writes:—

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"I have had the best doctors in our town for my sickness and they all thought that an operation was necessary. I had headache,

No other remedy has such a record of actual cures of female ills. Thousands of women residing in every part of the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it has done for them. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; a Woman's Remedy for Woman's Ills.

sideache, and my feet were so sore I could hardly stand. I took two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when my periods were established and now I am perfectly well. Mama says she won't be without your medicine in the house. I have told one girl what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me and she is taking it now."

Miss Clara E. Darmstadter, of 453 Breckenridge St., Buffalo, N.Y., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"For about a year, except during the past few months, I suffered with severe pains every month, with backaches and headaches. I had the blues so bad that I was in despair. It is a pleasure to tell you that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured me. The change in my appearance is wonderful and I desire that this good may come to every sufferer. Any one desiring to know further details may write to me and I shall be glad to give them."

If you know of any young girl who is sick and needs motherly advice, ask her to address Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., and tell her every detail of her symptoms, and to keep nothing back. She will receive advice absolutely free, from a source that has no rival in the experience of woman's ills, and it will, if followed, put her on the right road to a strong, healthy and happy womanhood.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from native roots and herbs cures where others fail.

Duel Averted.
Carducci, the great Italian poet, came near having a duel one day. He possessed a fine spirit of contradiction and had the characteristics of a fighter. Once while traveling in Lombardy he was in a railway compartment with an army officer, who did not recognize him. Conversation turned upon the latest literary productions. They spoke of a poem by the author of "Odes Barbare," which had just appeared.

"This Carducci," exclaimed the officer, with enthusiasm, "is a superb genius, the greatest since Dante, the equal of Dante himself."

"Humph!" said the other. "A genius? That's too much to say. I find him mediocre."

"Mediocre, sir? You don't know anything about it."

"Oh, you are incapable of judging."

"I?"

"You!"

"Sir!"

The officer handed his card to his disputant. The other smiled. "There's mine." And on it was the name "Giuseppe Carducci, professor at the University of Bologna."

The officer, removing his hat, politely bowed.—Le Cri de Paris.

Heirs of the Air.
The owls, solemn birds, strongly imbued with the obligations of the married state, mostly begin to sit as soon as the first egg appears, so that the eggs, having a fair field and no favor, hatch out in precisely the same order as that in which they are laid. With the majority of smaller birds another habit prevails, for these do not commence to sit in earnest until the full clutch, perhaps a dozen in number, is complete. This obviously means that the earlier eggs in the nest have had time to grow cold and must be warmed up again. As a result, the eggs are hatched out in the inverse order of laying. It is a good thing that bird life is devoid of litigation, otherwise what terrible arguments this difference between first laid and first hatched might lead to.

Quite So.
"Don't let the gallery cause you to lose your temper," cautioned the old actor.
"Why not?"
"Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad."—Washington Herald

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Too many of us consider an excuse a reason.

Everything sounds like an encore to some men.

The philosophical person is apt not to be when considering troubles of his own.

Many a man who thinks he is getting into a peach orchard really finds his way into a lemon grove.

There are lots of answers to the question, "What's the use?" but the man who asks it never wants one.

When an acquaintance says to you, "I am going to be honest with you," brace yourself to hear something disagreeable.

Most of us when we ride a free horse start out on a walk, quicken into a brisk trot, then break into a wild gallop and are thrown.—Atchison Globe.

Good For Twenty.

"Lawyers get stung as easily as other people," said one who practices in the criminal courts. "Here's what happened to me the other day: A friend of mine tipped me off that there was a case coming up in special sessions and it would be easy to get the defendant, a negro, free.

"There's a twenty in it for you," he added. "I've got another case on upstairs or I would take it myself."

"Sure enough, I got the fellow off, and when we reached the corridor I politely intimated that I had heard there was a twenty awaiting me for my trouble.

"Sure thing, boss," said the negro, diving into his pockets. "It certainly am worth twenty, all right." Without a smile he handed over two dimes."—New York Sun.

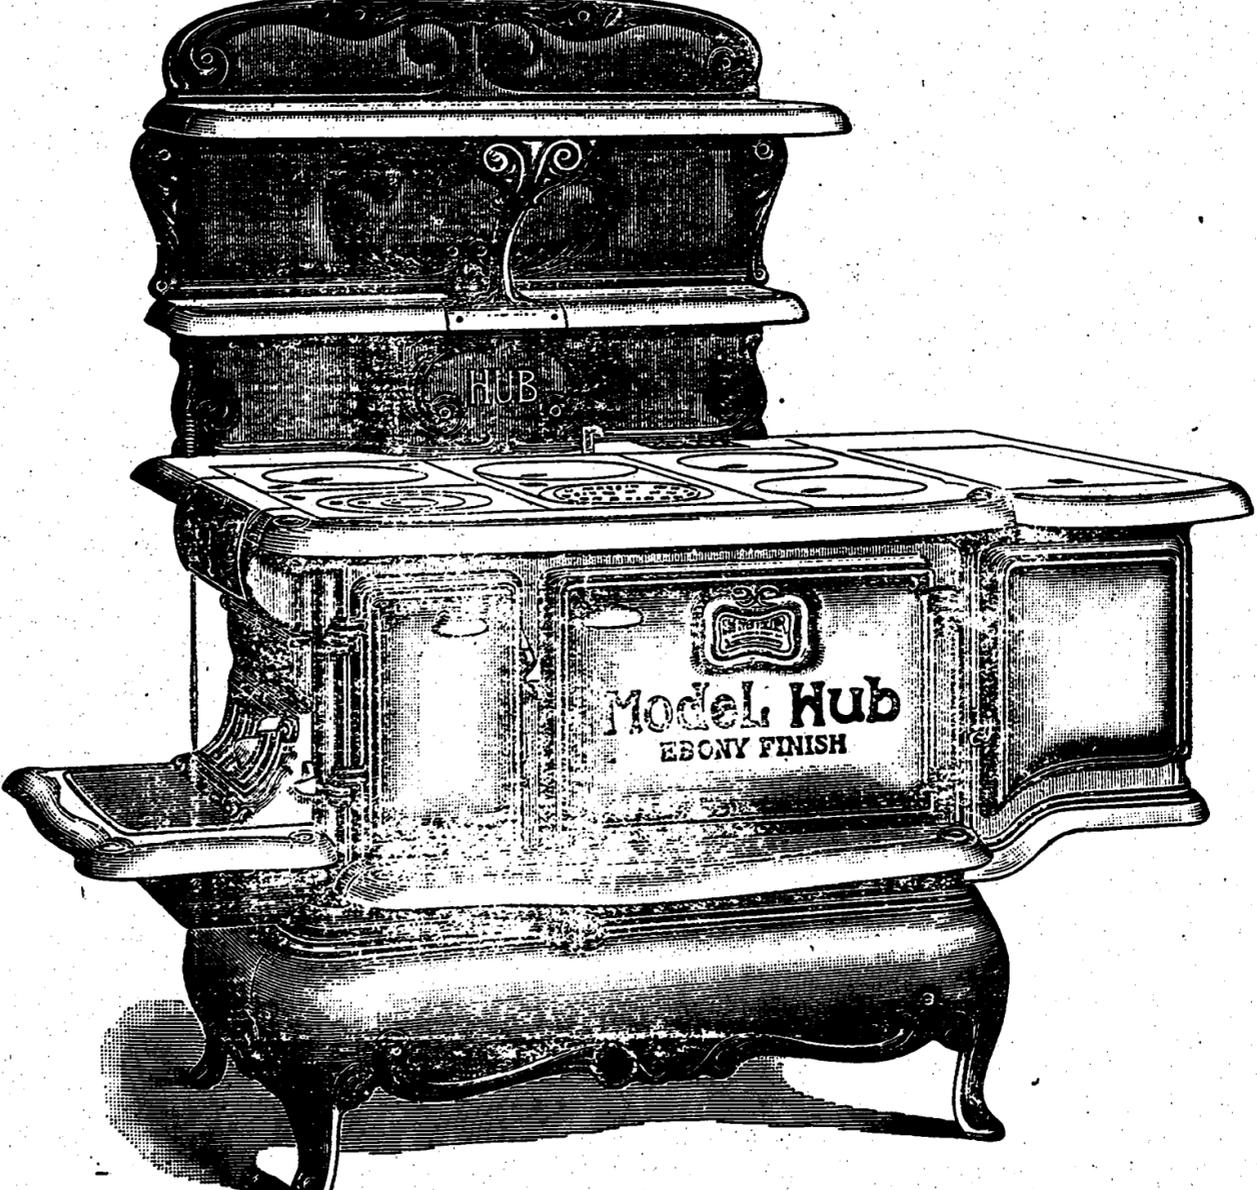

Two Duels.

Sainte-Beuve got an excellent advertisement out of a duel fought on a wet day by insisting upon holding his umbrella up with one hand while he fired his pistol with the other. He was willing, he courageously said, to take the risk of being shot, but he must be excused from taking the greater risk of catching cold.

The duel which Benjamin Constant, who suffered from gout, fought sitting in a Bath chair may have been of somewhat similar character. Honor in that case was declared to be satisfied when the Bath chair was hit.—Strand Magazine.

Nobody knows the age of man on earth. The tendency of opinion among scholars is to the effect that the human advent upon this planet took place many tens of thousands of years ago. John Fiske, backed by other high authorities, claims that man lived on the earth as long ago as half a million years.—New York American.

Willard Carlin, Esq., had a narrow escape from a serious accident while driving his four-in-hand last Friday. The horses became unmanageable on the main street in Hillsboro and ran quite a distance. Mrs. Carlin and daughter and the coachman were with Mr. Carlin; fortunately none of them were injured. One of the horses was hurt, but it is hoped not permanently.

The members of St. Patrick's church gave a pleasing entertainment at the town hall last Friday evening. Readings, given by Miss Emma Cashion and Miss Katherine Harrington, were especially fine, well worthy of professionals. Judging by the applause the numbers given by Walter Proctor, piano and vocal solos, were greatly appreciated; he is certainly wonderfully gifted. The other numbers on the program were well received and showed much talent. The different actors might feel complimented, for such applause as they received is rarely given.

BASE BALL NOTES.

One of the most interesting games of the season was played last Saturday between the married and single men. The bachelors had to take a back seat, the benedicts winning the game by a score of 11 to 5, showing what good training at home will do for a man.
