Surprising Semple.

By WILLIAM F. BRYAN.

Copyrighted, 1907, by P. C. Eastment.

"Mrs. Greer will look after the canary, but you will surely look after the plants, won't you?" pleaded Mrs. Semple. "Those plants are such beauties it would be a pity to have them die."

"They won't," assured Semple. "One pint to each plant. I remember."

"You're a dear!" she exclaimed. "It's awfully good of you, Ned, to let me go when you won't even have a teeny vacation yourself. I feel almost ashamed of myself leaving you all alone in the hot city."

"You have the time of your life," ordered Semple. "I'll be all right. Don't you worry about me."

"I have such a surprise for you," she said, smiling through the tears that filmed her eyes. "I want you to write and tell me just how you like it."

"What's the surprise? I'll bet it's a cat."

"Better than that and not half the trouble," she declared.

"There's my train being called. It's a shame they will not let you pass the gate. Kiss me again, dear, and do be careful of yourself."

Ned Semple kissed her not once, but half a dozen times. He worshipped this dainty little woman who had lifted him out of bachelorhood and boarding houses and had made home a bit of paradise on earth. He hated to give her up for a whole six weeks, but he could not get away from town himself, and she needed the rest and change.

He waited until the train pulled out of the station and went back to the hot and stuffy office. It was no hardship to work when he worked for her, and there were certain deals that could not be neglected. Deals went through their heads both to Europe next year, and the occasional problem of where the money for bills was to be found would be solved.

He remained at the office later than usual to make up for the time he had lost over their last lunch together. The occasional charwoman only made the desolation of the huge office building seem more pronounced. The elevators stopped at 8, and it was after 9 when he descended interminable flights of steps, and the sense of depression grew upon him.

In the street the open cars whizzed past crowded with tired workers who found in the speeding trolleys the breeze that could not be coaxed into their stuffy rooms. Whole families filled some of the cross benches, and Semple thought regretfully of how only two nights before he and Alida had taken a ride in the cool of the evening, going clear to the end of the run and stopping at the restaurant for a bite to eat.

He did not feel hungry tonight, though he had had no dinner. He left the car at his corner and crept up the stairs to his apartment.

By this time he was thoroughly blue, and the darkness of the place crowned his misery. As he opened the hall door he seemed to hear her voice call a cheery "Good evening, dear. I hope you had an easy day. Did you?"

Could it be possible, he asked himself, that Alida had come back? She might be hiding in one of the closets. He lighted the gas in every room, but he could find no trace of her save in the orderly neatness which worked all for his comfort.

He went back to the parlor and puffed thoughtfully at his pipe. In his low nervous state but one explanation of the phenomenon was suggested. Alida was dead, and in her love she had come to greet him. So thoroughly wrought up did he become that he telephoned the railroad company to ask if the train had been wrecked.

The response did not seem to soothe his ruffled feelings if it did reassure his anxiety, and at last he went to bed, only to toss restlessly. Sleep did not come until absolute physical exhaustion closed his eyes.

It seemed scarcely five minutes before the alarm clock rang, and he dragged himself out of bed. Alida had left coffee and crackers and condensed milk in the house, and he sipped a cup of coffee while he searched the morning paper for news of a wreck.

He could find nothing of the sort, and at last he started for the office. As he opened the door Alida's voice rang in his ears again: "Goodby, dear. I hope you have luck today."

It was what she always said, and, although it did not sound exactly like her voice, there was no mistaking certain tricks of speech. He hastily closed the door and hurried down the steps. There was a telegraph office at the corner, and he sent a telegram asking her to wire her safe arrival. In the office building was the booth of another company, and he sent a second dispatch. She was not due at her destination for a full two hours yet, and he could not hope to receive a message before noon, but he paced the office impatiently, unable to concentrate his attention upon anything except the lagging hands of the clock.

At last the blue uniformed boy appeared with a yellow envelope and departed richer by a half dollar tip. He was back in an hour with another message that ran: "Both telegrams received. Telegraphed upon arrival. Of course nothing is the matter."

The assurance brought contentment, and that afternoon Semple put through an important deal. In his elation he dined at their favorite restaurant, and it was late when he reached home. The same ghostly voice greeted him and dashed his pleasure. He moodily smoked his pipe until late, and the unusual allowance of tobacco wrought further havoc upon his tired nerves.

The natural result was a dream in which he vividly saw Alida swathed in bandages, alternately calling to him and begging the attendants not to let him know her peril lest it interfere with the consummation of his plans.

It was clear that in her longing for him her spirit projected itself through space and that same self denial which had led her to keep back the news of her danger led her to give the old familiar greeting and farewell. Her spirit must be in the room.

On the way to the office he telegraphed her that he knew something must be wrong and that unless he received definite information at once he would leave on the next train.

The answer was a dual one. In addition to a long telegram his chum Ben Bradley put in an appearance. Bradley fenced for awhile with small talk, but at last he came to the point.

"Do you feel all right, old man?" he asked anxiously. "I had a wire from your wife. She seemed to think something was wrong."

"I am all right," said Semple wearily. "I've been nervous and despirited and I got imagining things. I guess."

He could not tell even Bradley what he feared, but he was at last convinced that all was well with Alida, and he was content.

Bradley turned up after office hours that evening and carried him off to dinner. "Mrs. Bradley is visiting friends in the country today," he explained, "and I need company. I'll come around to your apartments afterward, and we'll have a good old time chat."

Semple brightened visibly at the suggestion, and when at last they reached home he opened the door confidently. His face went ghostly white as the voice floated out upon the air. He turned to see if Bradley had heard.

Bradley stood there with a smile upon his face. "That's a great idea, isn't it?" was his surprising comment. "What's an idea?" asked Semple vaguely.

"Why, that phonograph," explained Bradley. "It's a German invention to be used in stores. When the door opens the phonograph announces the bargains of the day. A little alteration fixed this one so that the two messages could be given, one in the morning and the other when you came home. I was telling Mrs. Semple about it the night she was over to see my wife, and she had it fixed up as a surprise for you. I bet it was a starter, wasn't it?"

"It was," said Semple dryly, wondering how near to insanity he had been. "It was a decided surprise." Then he added to himself, "Now that I know it's going to be a comfort too."

Mrs. Smith Ahead!

The candidates in the contest all take a good stride ahead this week, with Mrs. Smith the leader.

There has been some confusion in the matter of who Mrs. W. F. Smith is, some thinking it to be Mrs. Walter Smith, but such is not the case; it is Mrs. W. Frank Smith and not Mrs. Walter E. Smith.

In the Schools.

Miss Ellen Tobey, of the Center Grammar school, has secured an exhibit of the manufacture of cocoa and chocolate. This exhibit comprises the cocoa bean, the nibs from which the cocoa is made, cocoa butter, and the commercial cocoa. Accompanying this is a book giving descriptions of the cultivation of the cocoa tree and the various processes by which the beans are prepared. The exhibit will be used in connection with the study of Geography in the school.

At the last regular meeting, the School Board voted to instruct the Superintendent to recommend text books for the study of music in the schools. It is found that such instruction can be given without extra expense, except that for text books. A sufficient number of these will be secured so they may be used at different periods in various rooms. The Superintendent has the promise of the services of the Supervisor of Music at Manchester in starting the course. This will be done without any expense to the schools.

Schools will be closed the coming Friday to allow the teachers to attend the State Convention to be held at Concord.

Of Practical Interest To Women

Our regular writer on fashions discusses in the November number of the New Idea Woman's Magazine the subject of fall and winter suits, giving an account of the materials, colors and trimmings in this important department of dress which will be in vogue during the winter of 1907-1908. The Thanksgiving season is a difficult time for the housekeeper, but the articles on Thanksgiving pies and tarts, the turkey and the day after, which tells of the use of left-overs when the great feast has come and gone, will make her burdens less. Those who entertain will find "After Dinner Fun for Thanksgiving Day," "A Progressive Marble Contest," "A Bride's Party," and some "Stunts" brimful of suggestions; "How to Manage Parlor Lectures," contains much practical advice toward a lucrative vocation, and the "New Education in Music" gives an interesting outline of work for a social club. Our regular departments, which every reader looks forward to from month to month, are unusually good for November.

Way of Manchester; grand chaplain, Claudius Byrne of Concord; grand representative to sovereign grand lodge, William E. Felch of Manchester.

Officers elected at the Rebekah state assembly last week include: President, Miss Hattie M. Smith of Sunapee; warden, Miss Minnetta F. Stanley of Troy; secretary, Mrs. Annie P. Rogers of Nashua; treasurer, Mrs. Addie E. Courser of Warner. Appointed officers are: Marshal, Clara Lang of Manchester; conductor, Stella Mulligan of Plymouth; inside guard, Nellie K. Weighing the Mails.

The Postoffice Department is getting busy this month in weighing the mails so as to furnish data on which to base appropriations to pay for transporting the mails by rail. This is a more or less perfunctory proceeding that has to be gone through with for a month, out of each year. The Department has been weighing the mails for the past six months or so for the benefit of a special commission that is to report on the same matter to Congress and between the two the mails ought to be thoroughly weighed. The only remarkable feature about the present yearly weighing is that it is being done while Congress is not in session and while it is harder for accommodating Congressmen to add a few tons of public documents each to the aggregate weight. This is a thing that is done almost every year, and it is remarkable that the department should be so neglectful as to have the mail weighing done during the recess.

The railroad commission has fixed the blame for the head-on crash at West Canaan, in which 26 persons lost their lives and several others were injured, in the dispatcher's office at Concord. This exonerates Operator John S. Greeley of Canaan and places blame on Dispatcher James A. Browley. The commission sums up its reports with these words: It seems to us more probably than otherwise that the dispatcher having written at the bottom of a page in his record book an order annulling one as to signals previously sent on No. 30, carried No. 30 in his mind and telegraphed it to No. 4, to Greeley inadvertently, and did not detect his error when the message was repeated back and O K'd by him."

The annual convention of the New Hampshire Sunday School Association will be held at Franklin Falls, Oct. 29, 30, 31. Reduced railroad rates have been secured from all Boston & Maine stations in the state.

Touching. President Manuel Amador of Panama was reviewing the wonders of Coney Island.

"A remarkable place," he said to a reporter. "It impresses me tremendously. I shall never forget it."

Slipping his well iced lemonade, President Amador laughed and said:

"Speaking of being impressed tremendously, I am reminded of a joke they are telling about a Cuban millionaire.

"An unfortunate man obtained access to this millionaire and depicted his wretched poverty in the most vivid and moving colors. Indeed, so graphic was the visitor's sad narrative that the millionaire was very profoundly affected, and, summoning his servant, he said, with tears in his eyes and a voice trembling with emotion:

"John, put this poor fellow out into the street. He is breaking my heart."

Did His Best. "My goodness," exclaimed an anxious mother. "What in the world made your face so dirty, Willie?"

"Johnny Jones and me had a fight," exclaimed Willie, "and he throw'd more dirt in my face than I could swallow."

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a Home of Swamp-Root pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments, must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is the Constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerves, all tissue, and all blood elements. The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

There is no "doubt Napoleon fell through the sheer dizziness of the height he had climbed to." "The Duc de Raguse," says the Comtesse de Bolgne, "once explained to me the nature of his connection with the emperor in a phrase which is more or less applicable to the whole nation. When Napoleon said, "All for France," I served with enthusiasm. When he said, "France and I," I served with zeal. When he said, "I and France," I served with obedience. When he said "I" without France, I felt the necessity of parting from him."—T. P.'s London Weekly.

The Dry Falls of Lodore.
Southey's description of Lodore has given to that charming friend of holiday days a reputation which is a little unfortunate. It has brought to its course worshippers from afar, when there has not been a cupful of water to perform as much as the meaneast of feats which the poet describes. One such visitor was an American. He had seen Niagara again and again. He read Southey on the wonders of Lodore and once more visited the vast cataract of his native land. Then, feeling that, after all, Niagara must be very small potatoes compared with the falls of which the poet had sung, he came to England in quest of Lodore, resolved to consecrate his holiday to the contemplation of its beauties and grandeur. He set out the moment he reached Keswick and long walked and toiled over rocks and bowlders. He could not find the falls. He rested and asked a native, "Can you direct me to the falls of Lodore?" "Why, you're a-settin' on 'em," was the heart-breaking answer. The falls of all the adjectives were dry!—St. James' Gazette.

A Hard Slop.
"Very well, sir," cried Dr. Kwack after his quarrel with the undertaker. "I'll make you sorry for this."
"What are you going to do?" sneered the undertaker. "Retire from practice?"—Philadelphia Press.

Dow of North Wear, will not be present as expected, and the oyster supper will be deferred till November 20th, when it is expected that the Deputy will be able to attend to his duties again.

Save This Anyhow.

This is a simple home made mixture as given by an eminent authority on Kidney diseases, who makes the statement in a New York daily newspaper, that it will relieve almost any case of Kidney trouble if taken before the stage of Bright's disease. He states that such symptoms as lame back, pain in the side, frequent desire to urinate, especially at night; painful and discolored urination, are readily overcome. Here is the recipe; try it:

Fuid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

A well known druggist here in town is authority that these ingredients are all harmless and easily mixed at home by shaking well in a bottle. This mixture has a peculiar healing and soothing effect upon the entire Kidney and Urinary structure, and often overcomes the worst forms of Rheumatism in just a little while. This mixture is said to remove all blood disorders and cure the Rheumatism by forcing the Kidneys to filter and strain from the blood and system all uric acid and foul, decomposed waste matter, which cause afflictions. Try it if you aren't well. Save the prescription.

La France SHOE FOR WOMEN

Many shoes appear beautiful—in a store window. But the shoe you want is the one that keeps its good looks—the La France. Permanent beauty requires far more than high-grade materials or even thorough workmanship. To these rare shoe-qualities must be added the skill and accurate knowledge of the designer who is able to perfectly fit coming footwear styles to the lines of a woman's foot. The popularity of the La France is partly due to its unvarying glove-like fit—the true basis for enduring shoe-attractiveness. What, then, would be more becoming on your feet than the La France—the quality shoe of lasting beauty that wears as well as it looks.

Every woman, such on her feet should investigate that newest invention in shoe-making—the La France Flexible Welt. Its unequalled comfort is in addition to, not in place of, the perfect fit, style, beauty and durability of every La France.

He claims his horse went over a steep banking near the "Colby place" near Hillsboro line, there not being a railing or sufficient protection; he and his horse and buggy were much damaged is also his claim.

We were much pleased to receive a delightful call on Tuesday of this week from Wyman Kneeland Flint. He was in the village looking over the new library building in which he has great interest. Mr. Flint informs us that the trip abroad this summer was an enjoyable one to the entire family, and the health of his daughter, for whose benefit they took the trip, is much improved, which all of his friends are pleased to hear.

There is no particular moral to be drawn from it, but one of the Pension Examiners of the Interior Department has just returned from the South with a story over which his fellow employees are laughing. It seems he was called on in the South to look up a colored applicant for government bounty who had lost his discharge papers, if he ever had them. But the supposed ex-soldier was not discouraged.

"You come right down hear t' Sam Johnsing, he de sargent in my company, an' he identify me 'bout the less trouble," the applicant assured the examiner.

They went down the street and found Sam Johnsing without much difficulty, but whether Sam had been nursing some secret grudge against the would be pensioner, or whether he had not been satisfactorily "seen" beforehand, will never be known. Suffice it to say that he turned down the erstwhile enlisted man cold.

"G'way from here, nigger," said he, "g'way from here. Never seed youalls, an' ef I did I don't know nothin' about it. I done got in a application for a pension m'self fer loss er mem'ry"

The Other Side of the Argument.

Occasionally we publish in the REPROBATE articles favoring the "home merchant" as against the "mail order house;" we presume the former appreciates it—there may be as many as one, possibly two merchants who have noticed them to the extent of saying to us that we are doing them a good turn. However, doubtless there are many of our subscribers who are somewhat in the position of a man in town who mailed us a few days ago the following article; everyone who reads it will know it contains much truth, and also that every argument has two sides to it:

"A farmer reader of the Alexander Citizen, published in Alexander, Minn., writes the editor of that paper a letter in which he answers some of the statements in the occasional articles that appear in print regarding the mail order houses. The reader says:

"If the mail order houses get $1,000 out of this county every month that belongs to the home merchant the fault is with the merchants themselves. The mail order houses advertise and give us prices on everything they offer for sale. They tell us what they have and what they want for it. Of course we get soaked once in awhile and if we do we can try some other house. Most of the home merchants who advertise at all don't quote prices. They neglect to tell us what we want to know—the price. Of course we can go to the store and ask the price of this article, and that, but you know how it is—one doesn't know so well exactly what he wants to buy when he gets in a store as when he is at home. And here is where the mail order houses make their hit. They send us their advertising matter into our homes and we read it when we haven't anything else to do and every member of the family who reads their stuff usually finds something that he or some other member of the family wants, and many orders are made up and sent out just at such times.

"Right here is where the home merchants fall down. If he talked up his business to us in our homes the same as the mail order houses do, the people would be in to see him the next time they came to town, and in many cases extra trips would be made to get the things at once, that we didn't know we wanted until they were brought to our attention.

"The home merchant can save the expense of getting out a catalogue. We people read the home papers more carefully than we do the catalogue, and if the merchant wants to talk in the home papers and puts it in so we know he means business. The home merchant likely, nine times out of ten, sells his goods as cheap as the mail order houses, and I believe on many things they are much cheaper, but how are we to know it if he don't tell us about it. A merchant must not think that even his best customers know his goods so well that they can tell what he has without being told.

"It is none of my business how the home merchant runs his business, but I don't like to see these roasts in the papers all the time about us fellows who get a little stuff shipped once in a while and never anything said on the other side. There are always two sides to a question, and I have given you mine. If it is worth anything to you you can take it."

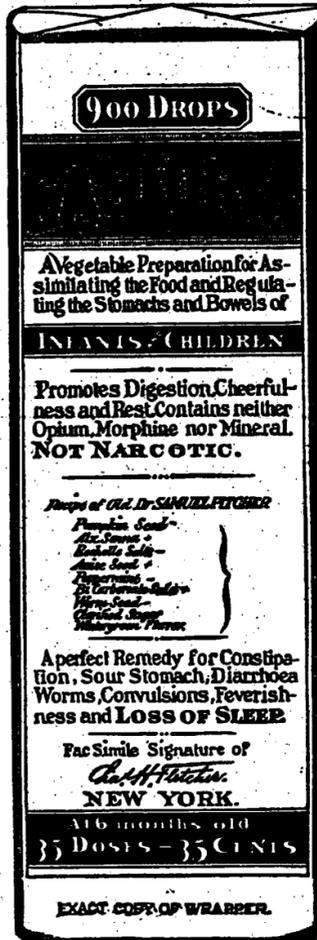

In reading this article valuable information and suggestions may be gained which if taken advantage of by the "home merchant" will easily increase his business. It is not because the country people go out of their way to spend their money out of town, but because the out of town merchant puts himself out of the way to induce them to trade with him. All this money may be kept right at home by following simple suggestions.

The matter of using the home paper is the most legitimate and easy way of stimulating trade, as well as the most inexpensive way of doing business and increasing the amount of sales. It will practically kill the "mail order" business, everything else being equal. The home merchant should not feel that the money paid out for advertising is just so much to assist the publisher in issuing his paper, but just so much "stock in trade," and the more of this kind of stock he carries just so much more business he is able to do.

The matter of advertising goods and connecting prices with them is the one thing that will draw trade when all else fails. This is the argument contained in the above article, and our readers know it is so. There never was a time equal to the present in the business world and every merchant and business man must take advantage of every open avenue to legitimately increase and build up his respective line of trade. Neglect in these important matters may mean great loss in the run of time.

KIDNEY TROUBLES

The kidneys are essential organs for keeping the body free from impurities. If they should fail to work death would ensue in very short time. Inflammation or irritation caused by some feminine derangement may spread to some extent to the kidneys and affect them. The cause can be so far removed by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that the trouble will disappear. When a woman is troubled with pain or weight in loins, backache, swelling of the limbs or feet, swelling under the eyes, an uneasy, tired feeling in the region of the kidneys, she should lose no time in commencing treatment with

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—"I owe a debt of gratitude to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for it has saved my life. I suffered with kidney trouble, irregularities and painful periods, and my blood was fast turning to water. I used your medicine for some time and it has made me strong and well."
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from native roots and herbs cures Female Complaints, such as Falling and Displacements, and Organic Diseases. Dissolves and expels Tumors at an early stage. It strengthens and tones the Stomach. Cures Headache, General Debility and invigorates the whole system. For derangement of the Kidneys in either sex Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is excellent.

WOMAN AND FASHION

An Odd Tailored Gown.

This costume has a two founce skirt with long skirted coat. The lower edges of each founce are decorated with embroidery done in delicate pastel shades. The coat has a vest of taffeta fastened across with three silk frogs. The underarm portions are plain. Wide shaped revers, which narrow to a point at the belt, are embroidered like the skirt and bordered with a narrow band of embroidery. The sleeves are plaited through the center.

Purple Season Ahead.

To judge by displays in the millinery and dry goods shops just now this is to be a "purple year." That color in all its varying shades is practically all one sees in the shopping district, and already many of these new hats are to be seen worn in the streets. That the heads of department stores do not take much stock in hard times stories is shown by the fact that on their shelves, in preparation for the winter trade, they have piles of stuffs, such as crepe de chine, that are ticketed at prices ranging from $7.50 to $15 a yard.

When You Buy Winter Gowns.

When you buy your winter gown get good material, good workmanship, cutting down expenses of trimmings and fussy frills that are never necessary and seldom becoming.

The modern dress of woman is beautiful, convenient and artistic.

The errors are in the gross exaggeration of beautiful fashions and in combining grand ideas and cheap materials.

A plain dress well made is worth half a dozen elaborate ones badly cut and shabbily put together.

New Neckwear Designs.

The Marie Antoinette plastron is the popular form of neckwear favored by Parisian women, one of the most pleasing types being made with a band of Irish lace in the center, on either side of which are placed lingerie frills edged with valenciennes lace. Fluffy lace jabots are also in vogue in Paris and are being adopted by visiting American women. Many returning tourists are wearing both the jabot and the Marie Antoinette plastron, which extends from the neck to the belt.

Fashions in Fall Frocks.

Among the first fall frocks now displayed is a walking costume of soft, light brown cloth. The bodice is made with oversleeves. The trimming is formed of applied stitched bands of material with velvet edging. The upper part of the bodice, the sleeves and lower part of the blouse are of green taffeta, braided with soutache. The belt carries out the material of the frock, and Irish lace forms the yoke and sleeves.

A Girl's Best Suit.
The jacket has a sailor collar effect in the back, the plain goods being cut off square just below the shoulders. Under the jacket the princess dress is buttoned in front and extends over the shoulders in narrow straps, which are ornamented with ecru lace en applique.

The Landlady's Mistake.

On her first night at the seaside lodgings the visitor found it. Incredible it seemed, for the landlady had appeared a neat, cleanly, cautious body. But as the lady visitor knew little of her landlady and nothing of her predecessor in the apartment she decided to mention the matter at breakfast. "I found something in my bedroom," she began, and the landlady interrupted. "Then you must have brought it with you!" "I am quite sure I didn't," said the visitor, "for I counted all mine before I left home. But if you insist that this sovereign is mine, of course!"—London Chronicle.

He Understood.

"Do you understand," asked the Sabbath school teacher, "what is meant when we say that time shall be no more?" "Yes'm," answered Tommy. "It means when the clock stops."
