The Wall Between.

By TROY ALLISON.

Copyrighted, 1907, by E. C. Parcels.

"I would ask you to marry me," Graham said bluntly, "but I can't." Her eyes dilated, but she was quick of wit and action, and her reply came without a moment's hesitation.

"Indeed? Your attitude presupposes that I would accept you—if your systematic and well ordered mind had decided upon the asking," ironically.

"Yes, I think you would," he replied reflectively.

Angry spots blazed on Miss Fenton's cheeks. "This is—a little too much—from even you." She gripped the arm of her chair and leaned forward, her blazing eyes looking closely into his. "I have never been able to decide just what manner of man you are. Your reticence, your phlegmatic temperament and your crudeness are so foreign to me that they are an unreadable text. I've thought at times that they might cloak either a vast amount of intelligence and capability—or the lack of it. A large man like you only has to be reticent to make the world think he is a force to be considered—if he cared to exert himself. I have wondered at times if your reticence masked a lack-of-original thought. But under no circumstances had I imagined it hid—colossal conceit."

Graham's powerful hands, without a trace of the nerve tension in her own, took from her the Japanese fan that she was unconsciously tearing in shreds.

"I am not conceited, but I do think that you would marry me—if I could ask you," this in the fashion of a man of little worldly polish. He failed to soften and explain his statement by adding that the desire of his heart was to make her his wife.

She, judging without this inner knowledge, fought as a woman will—fought to keep it from being known that she had given her love unasked.

"I will admit I see no foundation for your conceit." The ache in her heart goaded her to merciless cruelty. "How or why should you think that a woman of the world like myself, who has been accustomed to comfort, if not to luxury, should care to marry a young physician without as yet a practice? Perhaps, my friend, you took stock of your attractions. They are impressive. I'll admit. Your broad shoulders and physique in general might also be counted assets, but not sufficient to balance the conceit that could imagine I would be content to wear homemade gowns in order to admire them a lifetime—I, who love pretty things, who like everything as dainty as this," taking her chain of pearl beads and holding them before him, letting them slip between her well manicured fingers. She lied bravely, stifling the memory of the little joyful plans that had for several weeks fitted through her mind—plans for making a home on his small income when he should ask her to be his wife.

Graham, his face pale, spoke slowly. "Unlike myself, you are never at loss for words, but I think you have said more than your world would consider courteous," he said tersely.

Her high strung temperament had reached a point where she gave her nerves free rein. "As for caring"—she leaned back in her chair and laughed recklessly—"of course your conceit prevents your discovering that I had been amusing myself. The summer was long and dull. You were the most available man and interesting because you were—less readable than the others. One looks with interest at an unread book. With such explanation I hope your sorrow that you could not decide to ask me to marry you will not prove crushing." She rose, with a little ironical smile that intimated that she was waiting for him to say goodby.

Graham towered above her as he rose. "Marion, I'm crude, as you say, and I am going to tell you that I absolutely disbelieve you. You care—as much as I do. I'll admit that you started out with the intention of amusing yourself and that I met you halfway, thinking that you might interest yourself and me at the same time. I had no idea that either of us would learn to care. But we have—both of us—and yet there is a barrier preventing my asking you to marry me—a wall between—and I don't know that I'll ever be able to get over it."

She smiled whimsically with the sudden change of mood characteristic of her.

"Tell me about it. I'm full of curiosity. Is it much of a wall, and what kind?"

"I'm not at liberty to tell, but it's a rather hard one to scale."

"Glass on top?" laughter coming back to her face.

"Figuratively speaking, lots of it. Are you a child or a woman, Marion, that you jump from one mood to another this way?"

"More of a barometer, I suppose. But I'm intensely interested in that wall. It sounds medieval. Couldn't you produce a rope ladder as a fitting accompaniment, or are such heroic measures for scaling obstacles only seen on the stage? I never saw one in real life."

"Girl, there is a serious side to you somewhere, but it's very elusive. It's the serious side I want to talk to now. I don't know that I can ever even make an attempt to scale that wall. If I felt I could do so honorably I would try it with my bare hands." His face lit with an emotion she had never before seen in it. "You will call it conceit, but it is—that I care so much that I don't want you to wait for me if I never get the chance to try to climb the wall to reach you."

She put her hand on his impulsively. "But you want to come?" she asked.

"More than anything on earth," he said, and his face grew whiter.

"Considering the wall—I think you had better go now." She followed him to the door and held out her hand. "I am glad you care," she said simply.

When she heard the hall door close behind him she sat down on the couch and stared absently at the torn fan lying on the chair near. She picked it up and tore it slowly and systematically into strips.

"I am glad—he cares," she said mechanically.

In the two years that passed she saw Graham occasionally on the street and nodded to him in passing. Their few mutual friends seldom mentioned him, and she heard only enough to know that he was rapidly succeeding in his profession.

When the servant brought her his card one afternoon she waited until the girl had left the room, then read it over and over. Suddenly she threw it on her dressing table, drew a long breath and went downstairs composedly.

"You are quite a novelty," she said when he rose to meet her.

"I've climbed that wall," he said bluntly, without any prelude.

"Er—what wall?" She raised her eyebrows, with a slightly puzzled frown.

He put a hand on each of her shoulders and held her facing him.

"Be honest," he said, still holding her.

She hesitated a minute.

"Well, then—how?" she said finally.

He sat down on the couch and drew her beside him. "Before my father died three years ago he told me that he had been speculating and that he had, along with his own, lost $5,000 that he held in trust for my little cousin Elizabeth. The girl was then eighteen, and I promised that I would make the amount good before her twenty-first birthday. I had just graduated from the medical college, and for fear I would not be able to save that amount from my first three years' practice he persuaded Elizabeth that he would die happier if he knew we would marry some time."

Miss Fenton's quick smile flashed to her eyes.

"The glass on top of the wall," she murmured.

Graham possessed himself of her hands.

"Exactly so. The top of the wall was reached yesterday—when I turned over $5,000 to Elizabeth on her twenty-first birthday. As for the glass—the child removed it herself and used it to puncture that colossal conceit you once attributed to me. She confessed tearfully that she was head over heels in love with young Freddie Dempster. So I've come, girl! What are you going to do to me?" he asked eagerly.

She saw him, as of old, utterly unable to find the words to express his feelings. "I think perhaps I'd better try to restore that colossal conceit," she said, but her eyes reflected the light in his.

Too Busy.

"I suppose you visited all the points of interest while you were abroad," said one young woman.

"No," answered the other; "we were so busy addressing post cards to our friends that we hadn't time to do much sightseeing."—Washington Star.

Conditions Abroad and at Home.

Senator W. A. Clark is back in this country after a three month's swing around Europe, and he has something to say about business conditions abroad. His remarks are well worth noting. Senator Clark is one of the richest men in the world. His money has been made in mining in the west where he has been phenomenally fortunate. He is interested like most of the rich men of the country with "the Amalgamated Crowd" in New York, and this means as well the Standard Oil group which controls so large a share of the finances of the world. But he is not a Wall Street man in the usual sense of the term, though much of his surplus wealth has of necessity to be invested there. So his views of business conditions abroad are not exactly inspired by what Mr. Thomas Lawson, of Frenzied Finance fame, calls "the system." Senator Clark says that business conditions in Europe are much the same as they are here. There is the same tightness of money without the vast natural resources back of the countries. Europe is not in a conditions or has it inclination to lend us money, and he says that this distrust of things American is due to the revelations in the American business world, the life insurance scandals, the packing scandals, the Standard Oil revelations and the general railroad situation. Europe does not want any American securities, but she has to have our food stuff and raw products. We cannot expect any financial aid there except what we get from selling products that Europe must have. The moral of this is that we should clean up our business affairs so that any country in the world would be willing to take American securities, and meantime we must depend on ourselves for financial help and thank Heaven for the natural resources back of the country.

Those Delicious Lemon Pies.

The kind that "make your mouth water" are easily made with no fussing and at the least possible expense if you use "Our-Pie" Preparation. It is put up in air tight packages and contains the right proportions of the choicest ingredients. Guaranteed under the Pure Food Laws. Don't hesitate. Try "Our-Pie" to-day and then tell your friends. At grocers, 10 cents. Each package makes two pies. Three kinds, Lemon, Chocolate and Custard.

Auction Sales.

By W. E. Cram and S. H. Baker, Auctioneer, Antrim, N. H.

On Tuesday, Oct. 29, the personal property of J. Elroe Perkins will be sold at public auction at his residence, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon. This is an exceptional sale of stock, farm tools, hay, household goods, etc., and is a grand chance to get extra good value in stock especially. Read posters for further particulars.

Anyway it's just as cheap to raise a vegetable garden as to try to pick out safe investments.

High School Department.

It is about time for the basket ball team to organize and "get busy."

Miss Ethel Russell of Henniker was a visitor in school one day last week.

The class of 1908, A. H. S., chose green and white as their class colors.

The second year English class are now studying Ruskin's "Sesame and Lilies." They have finished reading "The Last of the Mohicans."

The subjects of the graduating essays of the Seniors have been posted on the bulletin board and each of the Seniors are expected to choose one from the list soon.

The High School and grades did not keep school last Friday as a convention was held at Concord. The recent conventions at Greenfield and Concord included only the grade teachers but the convention at Concord included the High school teachers and the grade teachers also.

An excellent entertainment was given at the Town hall Friday evening by Harrell, a magician and musician. Some of his tricks were very good. His playing on glass goblets and Swiss bells was exceptionally good and well applauded. A large crowd was present and about $40 were realized by the Senior class for whose benefit the entertainment was given. Parties from Hillsboro and Bennington came to the occasion. A promenade was held after the performance and ice-cream was sold.

How Old Are You?

How old are you? A very impertinent question, admittedly. But you are asked to answer only to yourself, says the Derry Enterprise.

A noted physician says a man is as old as his arteries. When they commence to harden, we are growing old. Probably he knew what he was talking about when he said it. But, passing on to another answer, we learn that "a woman is as old as she looks, a man as old as he feels." The mind that evolved this statement forgot, purposely or otherwise, that the youthful looks were the result of feeling young. So the definition simmers down to the fact that one is as old as he or she feels.

It is a good thing to keep young at heart, there are some who have counted sixty years who are really as youthful in spirit, courage and hopefulness as others of twenty. Bodies and bones grow old; the dust is always and forever longing to return to the dust. But there is no reason why our inner selves should become aged in the sense that the joy of life flees away. Moreover a young mind tends to keep a young body.

There is a vast difference, however, between feeling young and trying to act unnaturally youthful. There is something especially sickening in the antics of the "bachelor girl" of forty, who hates to admit it and indulges in a species of kittenishness that is designed to help out her powder and rouge. Why not admit that she is forty, but still deny that she is old? There are many jolly people of that age who are still young. The same applies to the bachelor who gets his hair dyed and affects a younger set of friends merely to keep up the delusion that he is just out of his teens. It is possible to feel genuinely young without trying to make people think you are just over sixteen. It is a wise man or woman, who, realizing by life experiences his or her mistakes, and seeing the pitfalls wherein they have fallen and have seen others fall, have nevertheless recovered themselves with youthful buoyancy, picked themselves up, wiped away the tears, and gone on.

It is a good thing to keep young in our loyalty to what is good, our faith in the triumph of the right, our intolerance of cruelty and oppression and our belief and confidence in our own ability to do things worth doing.

The Honolulu Students

Will open the Citizen's Course of Entertainments at the town hall on Wednesday evening, Nov. 6, 1907.

The Honolulu Students, as the name implies, are natives of the several islands of the Hawaiian group, educated in public schools and colleges located in Honolulu. Born in a land of tropical flowers, surrounded by the grandeur of the sea and mountain, it is no wonder these people have a love for the beautiful, both in art and music. Many of the schools make a specialty of music and drawing. The Kilohana Art League is active in art, literature and music and holds semi-annual exhibitions and musical festivals.

Prof. Keouli organized the present Company, known as the Honolulu Students, six years ago, selecting his people from the best vocal and instrumental artists on the Islands. Last year he was persuaded to bring his Company to America, and appeared with great success in New York, Philadelphia and Boston. We are fortunate in having been able to secure this Company for the Citizen's Course, and believe that everybody looking for a decided novelty of great merit will be greatly pleased with this aggregation.

Their vocal and instrumental program is a gem and the several artists are stars in their respective line. The coupons for the course are now on sale; later they will be exchanged for course tickets at the Antrim Pharmacy as has been announced in these columns. For the price of the course, $1.50, for six entertainments, it is doubtless as good if not better than any course which has ever appeared in Antrim, and a large number of course tickets should be sold in advance; to get the best seats in the hall this should be done.

The Best Paper for Family Reading.

The contents of The Youth's Companion are chosen with a view to the interest of all tastes and ages. The father, as well as the son, enjoys the tales of adventure; the mother renews her girlhood in the stories for girls, while the papers always abound in stories, long and short, which may be read aloud in the most varied family group to the keen pleasure of all.

Full illustrated Announcements of The Companion for 1908 will be sent to any address free with sample copies of the paper.

New subscribers who send $1.75 at once for 1908 will receive free all the remaining issues of 1907 besides the gift of The Companion's Four-Leaf Hanging Calendar for 1908, in full color.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION,
144 Berkeley Street, BOSTON, MASS.

The "big head" is a popular way of expressing a common and very frequent ailment. It arises from various sources, but the real foundation is a lack of sense. A little money develops it in some people, a few good clothes gives it to others; a little office where a chance is given to exercise a little authority, is often the cause of it, while others get it having a little better job than their associates. The truth is, no sensible person gets the "big head." The ones who become stuck up and stiff-necked from sources of any kind are weak in the intellectual caliber.

Lieut. U. S. Grant, 8d, has been assigned to active duty in Boston. It is about twenty-four hours too soon to hear that like Lieut. Fitzhugh Lee, he has been "persuaded" to continue on duty at the White House.

DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Is backed by over 30 years of remarkable success in the cure of Kidney, Liver and Blood troubles, and the diseases peculiar to women. Not a patent medicine, but a prescription used by Dr. David Kennedy in his large and successful practice long before he placed it before the public. The formula is in keeping with strict scientific principles, and many physicians of the highest standing have prescribed Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy for their patients. This statement can be proved absolutely. We have never claimed that Favorite Remedy will cure all cases of Kidney, Liver and Blood diseases and associated ailments, but the fact remains that it has cured many cases practically abandoned by physicians.

Do you suffer from any dangerous symptoms of Kidney, Liver and Blood troubles? Have you pain in back, cloudy urine with sediment, pain in passing urine, constipation, skin eruptions, etc.? If so, water, constipation, skin eruptions, etc.? If so, water, constipation, skin eruptions, etc.? Neighborhood News

FRANCESTOWN.

Mrs. Carruthers is visiting her cousin, Mr. McKay and family, in Boston, for two weeks.

The beautiful warm days changed very quickly to cold windy weather, with a snow squall Sunday morning. Farmers are driving their work to harvest their apples; help is scarce.

L. H. Belcher has purchased the apple on the Newton farm.

Asher Clement is at home for a visit. Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Hill and family returned to their home in Boston Tuesday, after spending four months at their summer home, Hillside farm. Their many friends here hope to see them in the early spring of 1908.

Mrs. Clarence Foote and father, Mr. Lewis, visited in Derry with relatives last week.

Leonard Foote and wife visited with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Foote, Sunday, from Wear Center.

Mrs. L. H. Belcher is keeping house for her son, C. H. Belcher, in the absence of his wife, who is visiting her parents in Swampscott, Mass.

Miss Ninia Smith has returned to her home in Swampscott, Mass., after visiting with her sister, Mrs. Christie Belcher, for two weeks.

Adam Lardge is at home from Maine, where he has been at work.

The ladies of the Unitarian society served their Annual Harvest Dinner in the church Tuesday, Oct. 15; a good number were out and enjoyed a nice dinner.

Rev. H. R. Hubbard preached at the Unitarian church Oct. 13, and Rev. Mr. Noyes of Peabody, Mass., in the Congregational church. Both were former pastors here.

Mrs. H. R. Hubbard is visiting friends in town and preached in the Unitarian church last Sunday.

CLINTON VILLAGE

At the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Loverin, in Hancock, on Saturday, Oct. 19, a party of one-hundred friends from here and Hancock paid them a visit to remind them it was the 15th anniversary of their marriage. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed and many tokens of esteem were left them.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Story were at Peterboro Saturday.

Master Max Butterfield of Concord was a visitor here Saturday and Sunday.

The first snow squall of the season Sunday morning.

Apples froze on the trees Friday night.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contains Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists, etc. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

SOUTH LYNEBORO.

Lyndedero and Temple mountains were white with snow Monday morning.

Apple buyers have been quite plenty. Most of those who have apples have sold for $2.50 per barrel for mixed apples, and people are having more than they expected before they began to pick.

Mrs. A. W. Putnam has been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Edward Greeley. They returned to their home in Middlebury, Vt., Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pettengill are rejoicing over the arrival of another daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lane (nee Annie Holt) a son.

Mr. Carpenter has finished sawing on D. P. Hartshorn's lot and is about to move his mill on to Aaron Russell's lot, at Johnson corner. Mr. Venio will move his mill on to the Luther Cram lot soon. It is reported that Dana Hadley will soon put machinery into the mill formerly owned by the Hadley brothers. It would seem as if the pine timber would soon be all cut off but we hear of new lots being sold very often. Fred Richardson recently sold one for about six thousand dollars and Aaron Russell received five thousand for his, if reports are true. The owners of wood lots are the fortunate ones these times.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a Home of Swamp-Root pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Weak Women
To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments, must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is the constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments. The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

Basket ball was sharply criticised and restrictions placed upon it in a statement made public last night by the Dartmouth athletic council. The statement follows: "Because it seemed to the Dartmouth athletic council that basket ball as a game is becoming subject to interests contrary to college sports by reason of its professionalism, and that games are played with teams with whom the college has no reasonable connection, it was voted in their meeting, held recently, to place basket ball under the following restrictions:

"Basket ball should be under the control of a graduate coach, to direct the style of play and the policy of the team, subject to the approval of the council; that the season be not more than 12 weeks, not more than three games to be played upon any trip, and that three games be the maximum for any one week.

"It was further voted that no training table should be allowed and that the playing of an unauthorized game by individuals of the team whether under the college name or any other name renders all such players liable to disqualification from all Dartmouth athletics; also that any individual playing upon any basket ball team without the permission of the council is liable to disqualification."

Local and Personal Mention

Postmaster Albert Clement was in Nashua on business Tuesday.

Editor Eldredge was in Boston on business Tuesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cram were in Manchester Tuesday of this week.

George Darrah was at Albert Clement's a few days the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Goodell were Manchester visitors the first of the week.

Mrs. E. J. Whittle and daughter, Grace, are visiting Mrs. Mandeville in New Jersey.

Repairs are being made on the bridges on Depot street, getting ready for the winter season.

The Contoocook Valley C. E. Union will hold a convention at the First Congregational church at Antrim, N. H., on Saturday next. Everybody invited. Services commence at 10 o'clock.

At the town hall, Antrim, on Friday evening, Nov. 1, there will be held a grand masquerade concert and ball, with music by Appleton's orchestra. Further particulars will be learned by reading posters.

ANTRIM CENTER.

Arthur Smith and wife expect to winter again this year in South Village.

Mrs. W. W. Merrill is to take a vacation, visiting in Canada.

Mrs. H. P. Warden has been ill, but is convalescing nicely.

Mrs. Carr, son and daughter of Roxbury, Mass., were guests of Mrs. Otis Pike Sunday at dinner.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH NOTES.

Miss Lord was organist Sunday in the absence of Mrs. Sawyer.

It snowed Sunday night for a few moments. Despite the bad weather, Alfred Holt led an interesting C. F. Meeting.

Dr. Cochrane will go to North Branch next Sunday in place of Mr. Willey, who will go on the first Sunday of November.

The C. E. Union Conference on Saturday next, will doubtless draw a large number to the Congregational church. A fine program has been arranged. Pastor Willey will be present to assist in welcoming the Endeavorers.

The Congregational church, Shelton, Conn., of which Mr. Willey was its first pastor 25 years ago, has invited him to lecture there Nov. 6. The church is now one of the strongest in Connecticut. From a village the place has grown to city size, five churches, mills, railroad, etc., showing that some parts of New England grow in population.

Make It Yourself.

There is so much Rheumatism here in our neighborhood now that the following advice by an eminent authority, who writes for readers of a large Eastern daily paper, will be highly appreciated by those who suffer:

Get from any good pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake these well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime; also drink plenty of good water.

It is claimed that there are few victims of this dread and torturous disease who will fail to find ready relief in this simple home made mixture and in most cases a permanent cure is the result.

This simple recipe is said to strengthen and cleanse the eliminative tissues of the kidneys so that they can filter and strain from the blood and system the poisons, acids and waste matter, which cause not only Rheumatism, but numerous other diseases. Every man and woman here who feels that their kidneys are not healthy and active, or who suffer from any urinary trouble whatever, should not hesitate to make up this mixture, as it is certain to do much good and may save you from much misery and suffering after while.

Our home druggist say they will either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription ready to take if our readers ask them.

Most senior officers in the War Department these days dictate all their letters standing up

The November Woman's Home Companion

The opening chapters of a new novel, "Though Life Us Do Part," by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, is the feature of the Woman's Home Companion for November. The announcement of a new story by the author of "A Singular Life" is always agreeable, and this new novel gives promise of being one of Mrs. Ward's best.

Under the title "Do You Know Your Grocer?" the editor makes some very telling comments on grocery conditions throughout the county, that every housewife will read with interest.

Dr. Edward Everett Hale, one editor of Woman's Home Companion, contributes a charming talk on "Thanksgiving—Then and Now," and Mrs. Hannah Steele Richardson completes her series of three articles on "The Woman in Business." The other editors contribute especially interesting departments.

Stomach troubles, Heart and Kidney ailments can be quickly corrected with a prescription known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shorp's Restorative. The prompt and surprising relief which this remedy immediately brings is entirely due to its Restorative action upon the controlling nerves of the Stomach, etc. Sold by Wm. F. Dickey.

THE WHOLE system feels the effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla—stomach, liver, kidneys, heart, nerves are strengthened and SUSTAINED.

The HUB

THE ANTRIM REPORTER has purchased a handsome $72.50 Model HUB Range and will give it away absolutely free to the lady receiving the largest number of votes.

The Model HUB Range is unexcelled as a sure and easy baker and cooker, and an economical consumer of either coal, coke or wood. The Model HUB Range is world-famous, and is well known to the good cooks of New England, who have always led and will lead the world. This Range is made by the Smith & Anthony Co. of Boston, which in itself is a guarantee of good faith, and is sold by leading dealers everywhere.

This Range will be given to the lady in the town of Antrim or any of the neighboring towns who receives the most votes.

Conditions of the Contest.

The Model HUB Range will be given to the lady receiving the highest number of votes. There must be two or more contestants.

Vote coupons can be obtained only by payment of yearly subscriptions, old or new, at the Antrim Office, or sent in by mail. To prevent trading among contestants, those receiving coupons should fill them out at once, preferably with pen and ink. No coupon will be counted upon which two names have been written, even if one of these have been erased.

Any contestant, or friend of contestants, is at liberty to canvass for subscriptions, no matter where they may reside.

Collections may be made on old subscriptions by contestants or their friends, and a 100 vote certificate will be issued for 1-year renewal, 250 vote certificate for 2 year renewal.

Changing from one member of a family to another will not be accepted as a new subscription. Receipt blanks and other printed matter will be furnished to the contestants for use in making a canvass or for making collections, as well as lists of old subscribers, free of charge upon application.

The Range to be given away is a full size Model HUB Range, of the latest pattern, and will be delivered at the freight depot nearest the residence of the winner. The value of this Range, at retail, is $72.50. The Model HUB Range will be on exhibition and can be soon seen and examined at the REPORTER OFFICE.

Don't wait for somebody else, but send in your votes at once and hustle for a Range that is well worth your effort! Begin today!!

One of the principal objects being the securing of new subscribers, we will give increased value or 300-vote certificate for every year paid on all new subscriptions; and 700-vote certificate for 2 years. No Coupons will be printed in The Reporter. The only way to get votes will be by payment of subscriptions. If you pay at The Reporter Office ask for your coupons. If you send by mail request that the coupons be sent you.

The date of the close of the contest will be announced later.

Address all enquiries or coupons to Contest Department,

THE PUBLIC'S GLAD RESPONSE

Gordon's October Sale!

We have reason to feel gratified at the auspicious opening of our October Sale.

The result, however, is what might be expected when a stock of the character of ours is placed at the disposal of the Public at such Remarkable Discounts.

From our side it is simply a means to an end, it being our desire to reduce our stock and make room for Holiday Goods.

Up to, and including October 26

the extremely Low Prices will prevail on all goods in the store. As the days roll by it stands to reason that many lines will be materially reduced and we suggest that those having in mind certain purchases, should call and make their selections while the stock is practically unbroken. Some of the Special Lots advertised last week are almost entirely sold out, but we have many other articles equally as good bargains.

REMEMBER. Discounts are from 10 to 50 per cent, which brings some goods less than wholesale cost.

AN IRISH SUPERSTITION.

Fishermen Don't Like to Meet Women When Starting For Work.

Superstitions as to its being most unlucky to meet a woman when setting out to fish or upon any journey by sea are not uncommon. From a headland on the Donegal coast the writer was one day anxiously watching a small smack beating across the bay against a heavy sea and stiff breeze which had suddenly sprung up. After a long and hard fight for it the little craft made the pier in safety, and upon condolences being offered the skipper on his recent hardships he said: "Sure, what better luck could I have? Didn't I meet a redheaded woman in Sligo this morning the moment I left my lodging to walk down to the boat?" In this case the color of the woman's hair and the fact of her being the first person met with after the man left his house seemed to be the determining factors in the day's luck. But in other places the objection to such an encounter embraces hair of all shades and any hour of the day, it being amply sufficient to bring the ill luck that any woman should pass you by just as you are walking down to the boat. Only a few weeks ago the writer visited a small fishing village on the Galway coast and just before getting on his car to return home was chatting to the landlady of the little inn. A strapping young fisherman who was walking down the road toward the harbor suddenly stopped, climbed over the fence and made his way to his boat across the fields. The writer observed to his hostess that the young fellow must have mistaken him for a process server with a writ for him. She laughed rather derisively and said: "It's not you at all, sir, he's afraid of, but me. He's just going fishing and would not pass me by if you gave him the fill of his hat of gold."—London Chronicle.

Hydro-Carbonite Paint

For use on Tin, Iron, Felt, Canvas, or Shingle Roofs. Especially suitable for iron or Steel Buildings, Bridges, Machinery, Tanks, etc.

ELASTIC, INEXPENSIVE DURABLE

Stops Leaks, Prevents Rust, Checks Decay. Guaranteed for 6 years. Made in BLACK only.

This is the old original roof and iron paint placed on the market by us many years ago. It is the pioneer of roof paints, and we are the parents of the roofing paint industry in this country. Through all these years this paint has sold in greater quantities each season, despite the fact that hundreds of imitations, represented to be "just as good" have flooded the country with advertising similar to ours in an attempt to divert our trade.

For use on Roofs, Iron or Metal Buildings, or any surface where a thoroughly good paint is required, Hydro-Carbonite Paint is unequalled as time and experience and thousands of imitations prove.

STOP WOMAN AND CONSIDER

First, that almost every operation in our hospitals, performed upon women, becomes necessary because of neglect of such symptoms as Backache, Irregularities, Displacements, Pain in the Side, Dragging Sensations, Dizziness and Sleeplessness.

Second, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, has cured more cases of female ills than any other one medicine known. It regulates, strengthens and restores women's health and is invaluable in preparing women for child-birth and during the period of Change of Life.

Third, the great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time being published by special permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

For more than 30 years has been curing Female Complaints, such as Dragging Sensations, Weak Back, Falling and Displacements, Inflammation and Ulceration, and Organic Diseases, and it dissolves and expels Tumors at an early stage.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice. She is the Mrs. Pinkham who has been advising sick women free of charge for more than twenty years, and before that she assisted her mother-in-law, Lydia E. Pinkham in advising. Thus she is especially well qualified to guide sick women back to health. Write today, don't wait until too late.

a proper clock to get round twice. This is just twenty-four hours. Besides these, there is the sun day, its time told by the sundial, which, taking short with long, averages twenty-four hours, but is never found to be exactly the same length for two days in succession.

There is a string of long days in the winter, followed by a series of short ones in the spring. In the summer the sun days get long again, though not quite so long as in the winter. In the autumn come the shortest days of all. Only occasionally are clock day and sun day of the same length. Only four times a year do clock noon by the clock hands and sun noon by the sundial occur at the same moment, while, because the long and short sun days are found in sets, they oftentimes may be more than fifteen minutes apart.

The vast majority of the people reckon their time by the sun. But time for civilized men is time by the clock. The days are all twenty-four hours long, and no matter where the sun is it is noon for us when the clock strikes 12. Nevertheless, astronomers often go by star time, get in an extra day in each year and have their noon fall at all times of the day or night.—E. T. Brewster in Chicago Record-Herald.

LENGTH OF THE DAYS

Difference Between the Star Day and the Sun Day.

IT IS GREATEST IN WINTER.

Why the Difference Occurs and How It May Be Observed—Oddly Enough the Shortest Day in the Year is Really the Longest Day in Time.

How long, after all, is a day? The geographers say that it is the time required for the earth to turn once on its axis, that it measures twenty-four hours by the clock and that a fraction more than 365 of them are to be found in a year.

It is a good plan when one reads anything in a book to test it when he can for himself. We want to see just how long it takes the earth to turn over once. Let us take any one of the fixed stars that chances to be in line with some convenient point and, watch in hand, notice the precise moment at which the star touches, let us say, a particular tree, branch or steep on the horizon line. If on the next evening we stand at precisely the same spot and sight the same star again in line with the same point as before, then we shall know that the earth has turned on its axis just once.

Curiously enough, however, we shall discover, if this is done carefully, that, in spite of what the books say, it does not require twenty-four hours for the earth to turn over once. About four minutes before the day is up, by the clock, the earth has revolved once and brought the star back to its old position in the sky. Really, then, the earth turns on its axis once in twenty-three hours, fifty-six minutes and four seconds and, as one can easily reckon, makes something more than 366 revolutions in a year.

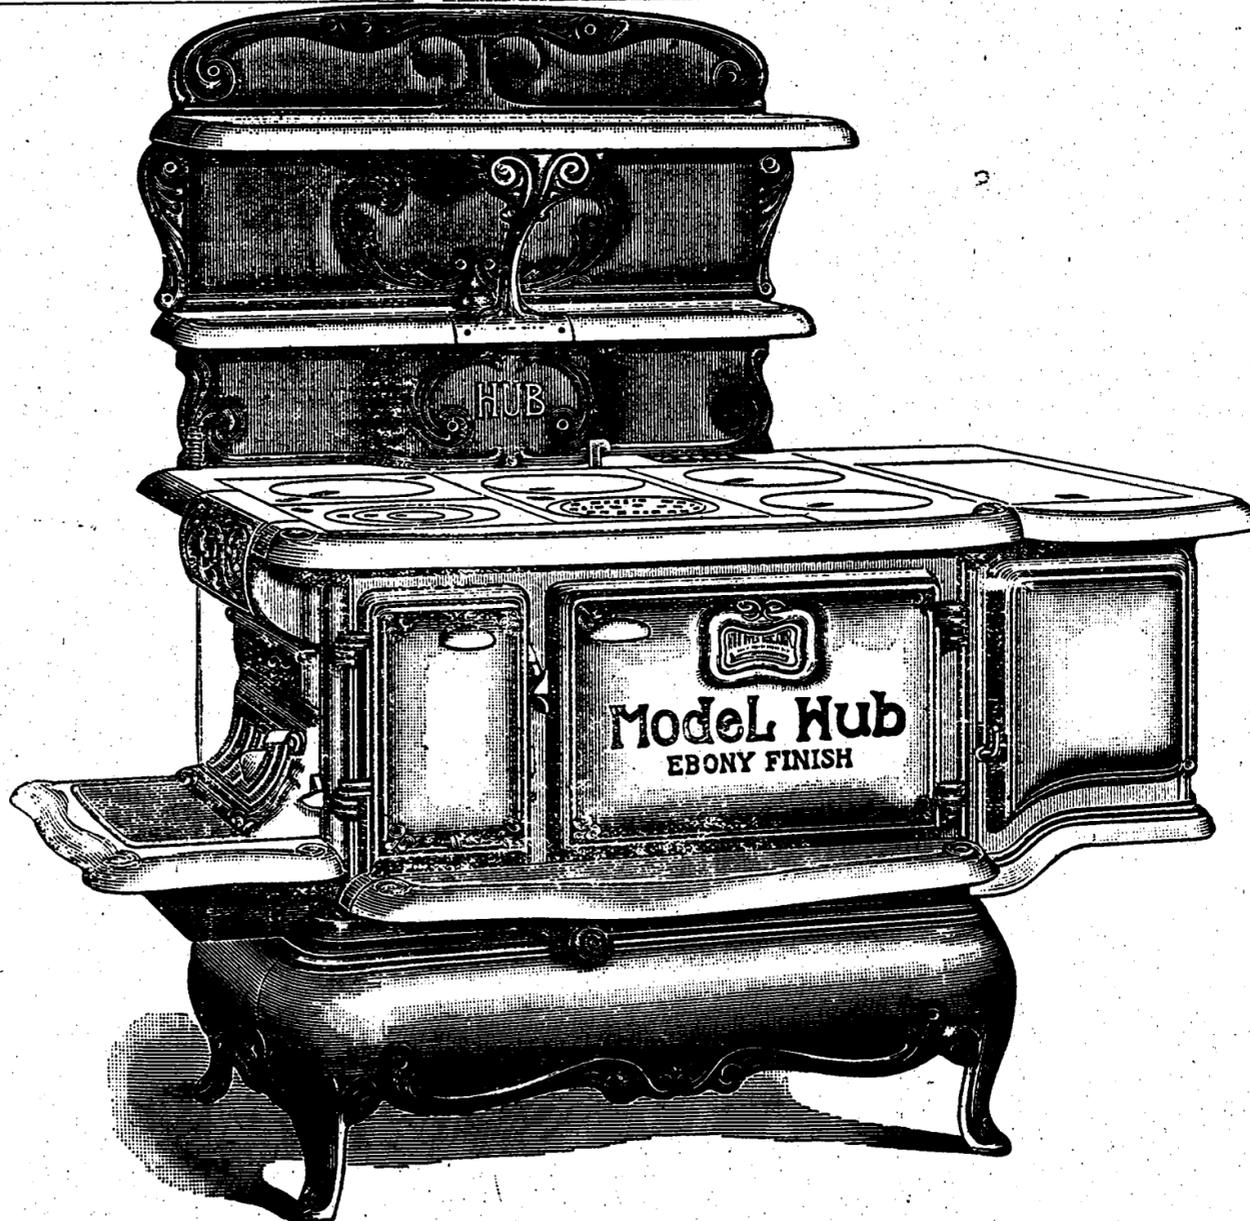

But human beings are not so much interested in the stars as in the sun. We really don't care much how long it takes the earth to turn over and bring a star back again to the same point in the sky or how many times in a year a star seems to go by. We set our clocks and reckon our year by the turning of the earth under the sun, and because the earth not only turns under the sun, but also goes round it, it takes about four minutes longer to bring the sun up to its old place in the sky than to bring back a star. This comes about simply enough. Suppose one is in a room looking out the window at a tree. If he turns round once exactly he will find himself looking straight at the tree again, but if he tried the same thing when he was on a moving train he would find that while he was making the turn the tree had fallen behind. He would then, according to the way he twirled, have to turn a little more or a little less to bring the tree straight before his nose.

Therefore it is not quite true that a day is the time required for the earth to turn once on its axis. It really is this time plus the four minutes or so required for it to turn and look back at the sun. The time required for this extra turn is not the same at all times in the year. One can easily see in the case of the moving train that the faster the cars were moving or the nearer the track the tree stood the more the latter would seem to shift its position. Since the earth is some 3,000,000 miles nearer the sun in winter than in summer, and since also the nearer the sun it is the faster it travels, the difference between star day and sun day is greatest in winter. Oddly enough, it happens that Dec. 22, which has the least daylight of any day in the year and is therefore commonly said to be the shortest of all days, is really the longest. It does, as a matter of fact, run almost half a minute over twenty-four hours, while the true shortest day, which comes on Sept. 17, falls short by about the same time.

So we really have three different "days." There is the star day, which is the time during which the earth turns over once. This, because the earth spins steadily, is always the same length, twenty-three hours, fifty-six minutes, four and nine-hundredths seconds, and there are 366 of them in a year. Then there is the ordinary legal day, which is the time required for

The blacksmiths of an adjoining town have entered into an agreement that on and after such a date the charge for "common shoeing" shall be so and so instead of as at present. Is this agreement a "combine," or a "trust"? In these days when it is held in so many high quarters that those who can compete and will not compete must be made to compete, the blacksmiths seem not to be competent authorities in the decision of the question for themselves.

DINING CHAIRS!

Some come loosely jointed before you have them six months. The varnish becomes grimey and sticky and the seats give out. Why!

The factories draw a log out of the mill pond and in 6 weeks it is a finished chair, the stock is green and when it dries the joints come loose. To save expense they use cheap benzine varnish and dip the chairs to save time, such varnish loses its luster in a very short time and sticks to you when you sit in the chair.
