Camilla's Bargain.

By JEANETTE WILSON.

Copyrighted, 1907, by Jessie Morgan.

"Poring over those advertisements still, daughter? Aren't you afraid of letting your economy run into extravagance?"

"Why, daddy, I never bought anything!"

"Oh, Camilla!" reproved Mr. Sheldon, casting an amused glance about the dining room.

"Anything that wasn't a bargain," continued Camilla, unabashed. "And the very thing we needed—those decanters and the old fashioned plates and the brass candlesticks and the electrolier and—"

"Yes, yes," admitted her father hastily. "We certainly couldn't get along without them." The twinkle in his eyes escaped Camilla. "But what have you found so remarkable this morning?"

"A samovar, daddy. And so cheap! Here 'tis! Listen! Bargains—Cheap for cash. On account of moving entire contents of bachelor's studio—oriental rugs, leather easy chairs, Japanese screens, antique copper samovar, etc. Inquire of janitor." There, now, what do you think of that?"

"Just what is a samovar, dear?"

"Why, daddy, you know! It's a sort of tea urn. They use them in Russia. I think I'll look it up this afternoon. You won't mind, will you?"

"Oh, no—no, indeed!" conceded Mr. Sheldon. Somehow he never could oppose Camilla. "Anything I can do for you this morning, dear?" he asked, as usual, on rising from the breakfast table.

Camilla smiled in her most captivating manner.

"Well, if I might have just a little money," she urged.

"Oh, yes, of course. Well, here's $15. That ought to buy an old copper tea urn, oughtn't it?"

Camilla gave him a bug of gratitude.

"Don't forget that Robert Demarest is coming home to dinner with me to-night, dear."

"That old bachelor?" sniffed Camilla. "The very one," answered her father.

Late that afternoon, arrayed in summery whiteness, Camilla started on the quest of the samovar. She had meant to take Sarah with her, as she had promised her father she always would on such expeditions. But Sarah, in the midst of dinner preparations, refused to budge.

In response to Camilla's energetic ring at the address specified a woman's voice called from the basement: "R-run up to th' fr-ont dhure, Pat! There's a lady waitin'!"

"I came in answer to this," announced Camilla, holding out a tiny newspaper clipping. "Is the gentleman at home?"

"Not till this evenin', miss," replied the genial blue overalled Pat. "Will ye call ag'in later?"

"Oh, no," gasped Camilla. "I don't want to see him at all. I just wanted to be sure he was out. Will you show me the things?"

"Shur-re, miss. Come r-right along. Up wan fight, miss."

Once inside the long, spacious studio Camilla gave a little cry of delight.

"Oh, isn't this lovely!" she exclaimed.

"May I look around a little?"

"Take y'r time, miss. He'd say th' same himself, miss."

Such a wealth of soft, rich rugs, such rows and rows of exquisitely bound books, such beautiful pictures, and finally, keeping guard over the fireplace, such a queer fat little ivory god!

Camilla laughed aloud at his funny wrinkled face.

"Who tied this green ribbon round his neck?" she asked, turning suddenly to Pat.

"Th' wife," he replied glibly.

"Th' wife?" echoed Camilla. "Why, I thought the owner was a bachelor?"

Pat slapped his knee and then put a restraining hand over his mouth.

"Excuse me, miss, 'twas me own wife I was w'anin'."

"Oh," said Camilla, "I see."

"Yes, th' onld woman's very fond of Mr. Takes care iv 'im like a baby."

Camilla, doubtful as to whether it was the grave image or the bachelor that claimed "the wife's" solicitude, hastened to change the subject.

"I must be hurrying," she announced. "Where is the samovar that was advertised? That's what I came specially to see."

"The copper tanyot? I'll fetch it fer ye."

Pat brought it forth from a corner, and placed it in all its shining glory on the large center table for Camilla's inspection.

"Oh, what a beauty!" she exclaimed. "How much does he want for it?"

"Will, he mitioned quite a high pr-ice fer it this mornin', but I reckon he'd let you 'ave it at yer own agger."

"Would he sell it for $15, do you think?"

"Shure, an' be a lucky mon-at that. Where will ye have it slutt?"

While Camilla was hunting in her purse for a card a click in the lock of the outside door made her jump. The bachelor! What should she do?

"Shur-re, sir-," said Pat, "ye're home airly tonight. Here's a lady customer. I've been sellin' her th' simover," and with that the sly one sid out of the door, closing it firmly behind him.

"Pat showed you how the samovar works, I suppose?" asked the bachelor courteously. He wasn't at all sure that he knew himself, but he must find some excuse for detaining this radiant apparition a moment.

"Yes, no! I mean, I mustn't stay any longer," stammered Camilla.

"Pat's a dolt!" sputtered the bachelor. "I told him if he sold the samovar to be sure to tell the purchaser how to use it. I'll!"

"Oh, don't scold him, please," interrupted Camilla. "He's really very nice. He was awfully kind about the samovar. He said you wanted quite a high price for it, but he let me have it for $15. I hope it's all right."

The bachelor swallowed hard.

"Of course it's all right," he answered cheerfully. "I'm glad to hear that some one has got the best of Pat once. He needs all the beating down that's coming to him."

Then the while the bachelor deftly filled the little pipe of the samovar with charcoal to himself he kept repeating: "I'll make her stay as long as I can. Isn't she bewitching? I'll make her stay as long as I can. I'll make her!"

Camilla broke in upon this silent chant of adoration.

"I shouldn't think you could bear to part with it," she said, giving the samovar an appreciative little pat.

"Well, I don't exactly like to," he admitted. "It's a sort of companion when you're all alone. But I'm tired of living alone—going to give it up."

"But your wife will certainly love to have it," ventured Camilla, pretending to be absorbed in the charcoal demonstration.

"My wife!" the bachelor fairly shouted. "Pardon me, I'm not so lucky. I'm just going back to my old home for a change."

"And leave this beautiful studio and sell all these wonderful things?" commented Camilla. "I think you're crazy. I'd just adore to live in a place like this!"

The bachelor watched her flushed cheeks and her sparkling eyes. He had an inspiration.

"Oh, by the way," he suggested, with well assumed carelessness, "I suppose you told Pat where to send the samovar?"

Camilla laughed a bit shyly.

"Well, no, I didn't. You see, I was just hunting for a card when I heard you unlocking the door. That scared me so that I forgot all about the card. Here it is."

The bachelor glanced at it politely, then looked at it again more closely. Could he believe his eyes?

"Camilla Sheldon!" he exclaimed. "Why, I know your father! Let's shake hands. I'm Robert Demarest."

"Oh, you can't be!" gasped Camilla. "Why, he's a stupid old bachelor. Daddy's going to bring him home to dinner with him tonight."

"I'm the man," affirmed Robert, laughing. "You've sized me up all right."

Camilla covered her burning cheeks with her little white gloved hands.

"Oh, how can I look you in the face again?" she cried.

"That's the question for me to ask," Robert retorted.

Camilla lowered her hands, but her eyes were still downcast.

"You won't tell father, will you, Mr. Demarest?"

"All right," assented Rob. "Mum's the word—if you say so, Miss Camilla."

When the door had closed after her Robert stood looking down thoughtfully at the samovar. "No going back home for you, old man," he soliloquized. "She'd adore to live in a place like this! Think of it!"

He rang the bell for Pat.

"See here, Pat," he directed, "I want you to wrap up this teapot and take it around to this address. Be quick about it."

He handed Pat Camilla's card, and at the same time slipped a coin into his hand. The astounded Pat allowed no grass to grow under his feet.

At the first opportunity after dinner Camilla cornered Robert Demarest.

"It was most thoughtful of you to send the samovar over tonight," she began hurriedly. "But I forgot to tell you this afternoon that I hadn't paid Pat for it, and now that I've thought it over, Mr. Demarest, I don't see how I can take it from you at any price."

"Then let me give it to you," begged Rob.

"Sh! There comes daddy. No, I'm going to confess everything to him after you're gone. And then you two can settle the matter between you."

It was several months after the discovery of the samovar "ad." that Camilla, seated on a low divan in front of an open fire in her father's big rambling library, looked up at Rob suddenly and asked:

"Which got the best of the bargain, Rob, you or dad? Aren't you ever going to tell me? I've asked you and asked you."

"I'm going to tell you right now," Rob declared. His tone was so serious that Camilla was almost frightened.

"Your father said I might give the samovar to you on one condition," he announced.

"Well, of all things," protested Camilla, "without even asking me!"

"Wait a minute," interrupted Rob. "That was just the condition—if when I asked you you would have me. Camilla, will you marry me? You know you once said that you would adore to live!"

Camilla buried her face in a sofa cushion.

"You did say so, Camilla," he repeated. "Won't you say so again, dear?"

"I suppose that means," said Camilla, lifting her mischievous face, "no Robert, no samovar."

Robert didn't even smile, but looked into Camilla's eyes searchingly.

"Well," she sighed, "I guess you've got the best of the bargain, Rob. Pat will be pleased."

Whereupon Rob stopped her saucy mouth with kisses.

John A. Robb Dead.

John A. Robb, who will be remembered by many in Antrim and vicinity as a manufacturer of pails in Stoddard many years ago and later went West, died in Pender, Nebraska, recently.

He leaves relatives in this section, a sister being Mrs. John C. Butterfield.

The Pender Republic of Oct. 11, has the following article with reference to the life and death of the deceased.

John A. Robb, an aged and respectable citizen of this community, passed quietly away at his home in Pender on Wednesday morning, Oct. 9. He was sick only 36 hours previous to his death. The attending physicians called it simply a case of the machinery of the body wearing out.

Mr. Robb was born in New Hampshire in 1832 and therefore 75 years of age. He was married in 1852. To Mr. and Mrs. Robb were born ten children, six of whom are still living as follows:—Mrs. Claude of Wright County, Iowa; Mrs. Chas. Warren of Kearney, Neb; Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. Fellows and Mrs. C. G. Frey and Fred Robb of Thurston County, Neb.

Mr. and Mrs. Robb came West in 1873 and located in Wisconsin where they lived two years. They then moved to Iowa where they lived until 1886 when they came to Thurston County, located a few miles north-west of where Pender now stands. There he lived on his farm until six years ago when he moved to town where he has since resided. Mr. Robb has been one of the prominent citizens of the county holding at one time the office of Commissioner and always being an honored and respected citizen.

"No bronze or marble shaft, no splendor of ancient or modern tombs and no play of immortal genius can adorn the memory of such manly men. Their lives, their deeds, their influence, living or dead, and their pure aspirations are the monuments that will keep their names burning in the home and the hearts of kindred and brethren, while the flying moments are dimming with their dust and rust the inscription upon the brightest obelisk in the cemetery. While the silence of death wraps and chills us at this moment, memories, sweet and precious, come crowding in."

The funeral service will be held from the Presbyterian Church at one o'clock this afternoon and the body laid to rest in the Pender cemetery.

Rev. O. E. Kendall, New Pastor of the Antrim Baptist Church.

The Antrim Baptist church, one of the foremost societies of its denomination in this section of the state, has been without a regular pastor since early in August, but on Sunday last, Oct. 27, the new Rev. Oren Edwin Kendall of Plattsburg, N. Y., began his pastorate here.

Rev. Mr. Kendall is a native of Canada and was born near Ottawa, Ontario; his boyhood and early youth were passed among the sawmills of the Ottawa district, where he learned the trade and became a proficient master millwright. His literary education was received in McMaster university, followed by a three years' course of preparatory work at Woodstock Baptist College. This was supplemented by four years in the full theological course in McMaster hall, Toronto, Ont., where he was graduated in the class of 1900.

Immediately following his graduation Rev. Mr. Kendall received a unanimous call to the pastorate of the Osgood Baptist church at Vernon, Ont., where he remained for five years; in March, 1905, he accepted an urgent call to the pulpit of the Baptist church in Plattsburg, N. Y., which position he has since filled with satisfaction.

Rev. Mr. Kendall comes to the Antrim Baptist church highly recommended, both as a preacher and leader, as well as a pastor and counsellor.

Shake in a Bottle.

Now is the time when the doctor gets busy, and the patent medicine manufacturers reap the harvest, unless great care is taken to dress warmly and keep the feet dry. This is the advice of an old eminent authority, who says that Rheumatism and Kidney trouble weather is here, and also tells what to do in case of an attack.

Get from any good prescription pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces Compound Syrup Sarasapilla. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take a spoonful after meals and at bedtime.

Just try this simple home made mixture at the first sign of Rheumatism, or if your back aches or you feel that the kidneys are not acting just right. This is said to be a splendid kidney regulator, and almost certain remedy for all forms of Rheumatism, which is caused by uric acid in the blood, which the kidneys fail to filter out. Any one can easily prepare this at home and at small cost.

Druggists in this town and vicinity, when shown the prescription, stated that they can either supply these ingredients, or, if our readers prefer, they will compound the mixture for them.

So far as heard from no one has ever discovered a gas meter that suffered from "that tired feeling."

It seems what the Montreal public wanted was for the Detroit railroad to make a noise like a dividend.

This is off season with the United States. Baseball is about over and football and Congress have not yet begun.

The chances are that the seeds of peace Secretary Taft has sown in Japan will sprout all right unless they are withered by hot air from the United States.

The Carnegie meeting in London has settled the American race problem with the off-hand facility that usually characterizes a discussion 8,000 miles from the scene of action.

There is a great lack of data in arguing over these centenarians who used whiskey and tobacco. For there is no telling how long they might have lived if they had not contracted the habits.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has "kindly consented" to serve on a jury says a New York dispatch. It is only to be hoped that he will make more of a bit at absorbing information than his elders have done in imparting it to the courts.

The old favorite, "Old Farmer's Almanac" for 1908, by Robert B. Thomas, has reached our desk, and is as usual up to date in its several departments. The publishers, William Ware & Co., Boston, have our thanks for a copy.

State Trade Report.

Bradstreet's reports show that retail trade has steadily improved with the cooler weather and there is a brisk demand for fall lines. In manufacturing lines business is generally good except with shoe manufacturing, which is improved somewhat. There are other concerns which have slowed up and are taking inventory, but these are expected to start up at once. Farmers are generally busy completing their harvesting and doing their usual fall work. In lumber lines there is considerable activity and there is much complaint of a shortage of experienced help. Wholesale trade is fairly good and collections are fair.

At Concord manufacturers are well employed and merchants report a good fall business; business in granite lines is holding up well for the season.

Colebrook reports labor of all kind scarce and good wages high; retail trade is of good volume. Crops in this vicinity were good but weather has been bad for harvesting and potatoes are rotting somewhat.

At Claremont the paper and cotton mills and other manufactures are very busy and there is a brisk trade in retail lines.

Milford reports manufactures all busy and granite trade good with a good volume of business in retail lines. The apple crop in this section is much better than expected.

At Keene retail trade is brisk and business with the mills, machine, chair and box shops is very good.

The paper concern at Nashua is rushed with orders and the cotton mills and machine shops are busy. The shoe factories have been quiet, but are expected to start up at once.

The paper and lumber mills at Gorham are very busy and retail trade is good. The potato and apple crops in this section were poor but other crops were up to the average.

At Manchester business is slack at the knitting mill, shoe factories and garment concern, but the cotton mills, locomotive works and wood working concerns are all rushed. Retail trade has improved steadily and the fall rush is now on.

ANTRIM CENTER.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH NOTES.

Saturday was a red letter day at the Congregational church at the Center. The interest was intense, the dinner good while the services were a revival of Christian Endeavor. As a whole it was very successful. The program was of special importance to all present. Pastor Wildey gave the address of welcome, and the response was given by President Amlaw. Rev. George Dunlap of Bennington gave an address on "The Seattle Convention," and the other members on the program were of great benefit, some speakers of prominence being present from cities in the state. The Antrim Baptist Juniors were awarded the banner for the largest delegation present. The services were brought to a close very fittingly by all forming a circle around inside the church and with clasped hands singing "Bless be the tie that binds."

Preparatory meeting Saturday evening at 7.30. Sermon, and Communion at its close next Sunday morning.

President Amlaw gave the ladies great praise for their hospitality and good dinner at the C. E. Convention.

The closing hymn, with clasped hands, was very impressive.

Every speaker held the audience; even children of junior societies listened with great interest.

Pastor Wildey preaches at North Branch next Sunday.

HUMOR OF THE HOUR.

The Thoughtful Landlord.
A New Yorker whose business frequently takes him through the south tells of an amusing experience in a country hotel in one of the Carolinas.

The New Yorker soon learned that the landlord of this establishment laid it down as one of his principles of action to give his patrons a little more than they asked for—to be "extra accommodating," as he termed it.

The New Yorker had left a call for 8 in the morning, so that he might take an early train north, and he went to sleep in the calm assurance that he would be aroused at the proper hour.

"I seemed hardly to have fallen into a sound slumber," says he, "when I heard a terrific pounding at my door. I sprang up, wide awake.

"What's the matter?" I called out.
"Four o'clock! Four o'clock!" came the landlord's voice from the other side of the door. "Two more hours to sleep!"—Harper's Weekly.

A Strenuous Hint.

It was growing very late, but the young man in the parlor scene showed no signs of making a home run.

"You evidently have a very vivid imagination, Mr. Borem," said the dear girl as she made an unsuccessful attempt to strangle a yawn.

"Why do you think so?" queried the unsuspecting Borem.

"I thought perhaps you imagined yourself in the arctic regions, where the nights are six months long," she explained.

And thirty seconds later he had faded into the plumpsome gloom.—Chicago News.

Future Housekeeping.

Henry—I don't know, dearest, what we are going to do after our marriage. There isn't a house or cottage for rent in all the town, and you know how disagreeable flats are.

Ethel—But, sweetheart, couldn't you rent a hammock?—Woman's Home Companion.

Making a Bargain.

A great tenor had been slaying for some hours into a phonograph.

"The phonograph," he said, "is a wonderful thing. It almost realizes the wish of the Scottish poet, the wish that we might see ourselves as others see us. We can now, at least, hear ourselves. When I was in the army, before I realized the capabilities of my voice, I played the flute. A phonograph salesman brought a phonograph to my quarters and tried to sell it to me. I was undecided. Finally the man took out a blank cylinder.

"See," he said, rather reluctantly. "Here is a blank cylinder. You may make a record on it, then we will run it off and you shall hear yourself. It's a costly favor I am doing you, but it will show you what a fine instrument this is."

"I was delighted.
"I'll get my flute," I said. "I'll play a flute solo."

"Well, I played my best into the machine. It seemed to me that I had never combined before such feeling with such accuracy. I was more than pleased with myself. Then the man put in the cylinder, and the music began to issue forth. I frowned.

"Is that me?" I said.

"Yes, sir," said the man.

"Really me, just as I played?"

"Precisely, sir, precisely. And now," said he, "do you want to buy the phonograph?"

"No," said I. "I want to sell the flute."—London Mail.

Must Use The Knife

Said the Surgeon, but Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was taken and the Knife Avoided.

The Union and Advertiser of Rochester, N. Y., recently published the following interesting account of how William W. Adams of 127 South Avenue, that city, was saved from a painful operation by the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

Mr. Adams said: "Three years ago I was taken with kidney disease very badly; at times I was completely prostrated; in fact, was so bad that the day was set for the doctors to perform an operation upon me. But I decided I would not submit. I had been put in hot water baths, and, in fact, nearly every means was tried to help me. Upon the day set for the operation I commenced the use of Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a Home of Swamp-Root pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Catarrh

To prove unquestionably, and beyond any doubt, that Catarrh of the nose and throat can be cured, I am furnishing patients through druggists, small free Trial Boxes of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure. I do this because I am so certain, that Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure will bring actual substantial help. Nothing certainly, is so convincing as a physical test of any article of real, genuine merit. But that article must possess true merit, else the test will condemn, rather than advance it. Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure is a snow white, healing antiseptic balm, put up in beautiful nickel capped glass jars at 50c. Such soothing agents as Oil Eucalyptus, Thymol, Menthol, etc., are incorporated into a velvety cream like Petrolatum, imported by Dr. Shoop from Europe. If Catarrh of the nose and throat has extended to the stomach, then by all means also use internally, Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Stomach distress, a lack of general strength, bloating, belching, biliousness, bad taste, etc. surely call for Dr. Shoop's Restorative. For uncomplicated catarrh only of the nose and throat nothing else, however, need be used but

THE PUBLIC'S GLAD RESPONSE

Gordon's October Sale!

We have reason to feel gratified at the auspicious opening of our October Sale.

The result, however, is what might be expected when a stock of the character of ours is placed at the disposal of the Public at such Remarkable Discounts.

From our side it is simply a means to an end, it being our desire to reduce our stock and make room for Holiday Goods.

Up to, and including October 26

the extremely Low Prices will prevail on all goods in the store. As the days roll by it stands to reason that many lines will be materially reduced and we suggest that those having in mind certain purchases, should call and make their selections while the stock is practically unbroken. Some of the Special Lots advertised last week are almost entirely sold out, but we have many other articles equally as good bargains.

REMEMBER. Discounts are from 10 to 50 per cent, which brings some goods less than wholesale cost.

THE fact that the La France is the best shoe for women is proven again and again by the satisfying experiences of its thousands of wearers, many of whom are patrons of this store. These particular women find only in the La France that invariable combination of best-shoe qualities essential to perfect footwear—that's why each and every one requests "another pair of shoes like the last ones I bought here."

Think what high quality of materials, what honest, painstaking labor in making, what accuracy in inspection, must go into every La France to enable it year after year to merit and receive such hearty approval. If you would profit by the experience of others, let your next pair of shoes be the La France.

Don't fail to examine that latest and most popular innovation in women's footwear—the new La France Flexible Welt, the shoe that combines the advantages of both "welt" and "turn" in a unique and most satisfying way.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Proclamation by President Roosevelt for National Observance.

Once again the season of year has come, when in accordance with custom of our forefather's for generations past, the president appoints a day as the special occasion for all our people to give praise and Thanksgiving to God.

During the past year we have been free from famine, from pestilence, from war. We are at peace with all the rest of mankind.

Our natural resources are at least as great as those of any other nation. We believe that in ability to develop and take advantage of the resources the average man of this nation stands at least as high as the average man of any other. Nowhere else in the world is there such an opportunity for a free people to develop to its fullest extent all its powers of body, of mind and of that which stands above both body and mind, character.

Much has been given us from on high, and much will rightly be expected of us in return. Into our care the ten talents have been entrusted; and we are to be pardoned neither if we squander and waste them, nor yet if we hide them in a napkin; for they must be fruitful in our hands. Ever throughout the ages, at all times and among all peoples, prosperity has been fraught with danger and it behooves us to beseech the giver of all things that we may not fall into love of ease and luxury; that we may not lose our sense of moral responsibility; that we may not forget our duty to God and to our neighbor.

A great democracy like ours, a democracy based upon the principals of orderly liberty, can be perpetuated only if in the heart of the ordinary citizen there dwells a keen sense of righteousness and justice. We should earnestly pray that the spirit of righteousness and justice may grow ever greater in the hearts of all of us and that our souls may be inclined evermore both toward the virtues and forbearance one with another and toward those no less necessary virtues that make for manliness and rugged hardihood, for without these qualities neither nation or individual can rise to the level of greatness.

Now, therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States, do set apart Thursday, the 28th day of November, as a day of general thanksgiving and prayer, and on that day I recommend that the people shall cease from their daily work, and in their homes or in their churches meet devoutly to thank the Almighty for the many and great blessings they have received in the past, and to pray that they may be given the strength so to order their lives as to deserve a continuation of these blessings in the future.

Through all these years this paint has sold in greater quantities each season, despite the fact that hundreds of imitations, represented to be "just as good" have flooded the country with advertising similar to ours in an attempt to divert our trade.

NATURE PROVIDES FOR SICK WOMEN

a more potent remedy in the roots and herbs of the field than was ever produced from drugs.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers few drugs were used in medicines and Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., in her study of roots and herbs and their power over disease discovered and gave to the women of the world a remedy for their peculiar ills more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

is an honest, tried and true remedy of unquestionable therapeutic value. During its record of more than thirty years, its long list of actual cures of those serious ills peculiar to women, entitles Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to the respect and confidence of every fair minded person and every thinking woman.

When women are troubled with irregular or painful functions, weakness, displacements, ulceration or inflammation, backache, flatulency, general debility, indigestion or nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

No other remedy in the country has such a record of cures of female ills, and thousands of women residing in every part of the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable compound and what it has done for them.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. For twenty-five years she has been advising sick women free of charge. She is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and as her assistant for years before her decease advised under her immediate direction. Address, Lynn, Mass.

taity. A fine crossbred Persian mysteriously disappeared from its home and sixteen days later was found in an open field firmly secured in a rabbit trap. Notwithstanding the animal's long and painful confinement and exposure to the heavy rains it was still alive. It was, however, reduced to a mere skeleton and was unable to walk, but under proper treatment it recovered.

The czar's one and only great-aunt, the Grand Duchess Alexandra-Josefowna of Russia, bought two pairs of camels some years ago while on a visit to the Caucasus, and at her lovely palace outside St. Petersburg she devoted much of her time each summer to her somewhat uncommon pets. She has now no fewer than seventeen of the animals, and several zoological gardens in various Russian towns have been presented with camels bred upon the grand duchess' estate.

Kansas is perhaps the only state in the Union that can boast of a citizen who declined a seat in the United States senate and thrust aside a nomination for governor that would have been the equivalent of election. This extraordinary man is the Hon. Foster Dwight Coburn, secretary of the state board of agriculture. For years his sole ambition has been the booming of the Sunflower State, and he did especially good work in this line during the world's fair at St. Louis.

Tooth Plugging.

"You remember," said Mr. Kilkin-ton, "that grand old song, 'Grandpa's Teeth Are Plugged With Zinc' Well, I always supposed that that zinc business was simply a grotesque humorous flight of fancy. I never thought that anybody's teeth could really be filled with zinc, but now I am not so sure about that. Lately I have had four teeth filled, and no two have been filled with the same material. One was filled with amalgam, one with gold, one with porcelain and one with gutta percha, and now the material they used to fill grandpa's teeth with in the 'song doesn't seem to me anything like so ridiculous as it did. I have seven teeth yet to be filled, and if the dentist keeps on as he has begun, using something different for every tooth, why, I wouldn't be surprised if before I got through I had one tooth at least filled with smc."—New York Sun.

This specimen was the admiration of every one.

There is a Great Difference in DINING CHAIRS!

Some come loosely jointed before you have them six months. The varnish becomes grimey and sticky and the seats give out. Why!

The factories draw a log out of the mill pond and in 6 weeks it is a finished chair, the stock is green and when it dries the joints come loose. To save expense they use cheap benzine varnish and dip the chairs to save time, such varnish loses its luster in a very short time and sticks to you when you sit in the chair.

We have had Lots of Experience with Chairs During the past 25 years.

Polished Oak, (like cut), Many Patterns

We Buy our Chair Stock in the White. We dry it thoroughly and glue it properly when it is put together. We buy good varnish, apply it with a brush, thoroughly smoothing the chairs between coats.

IT MEANS TO YOU more than Twice the Service and a considerable Saving in Expense. It means Chairs without the mars incident to railroad transportation.
