The Youth in the Schools.

There is once in awhile a man who will speak out just what he thinks, and such a one is Superintendent Henry D. Heavey of the Malden public schools, a well-known Bay State educator, who advances radical ideas regarding the compulsory attendance of youth in schools. In addressing the convention in Lynn of the Massachusetts state conference of charities he said:

"Compulsory attendance at school for children under 9 years of age is sinful, and every law for its enforcement is sure to ruin the generation victimized by it.

"The statement that the child of 6 is better off at school than at home, when the home is poverty-stricken, may be true. But this does not save the child, nor does it save civilization from its sin that any mother can be poverty-stricken. Children of five years of age should not be required to go six hours daily, five days a week, to school, with a fixed program, for forty weeks in the year.

"It would be interesting and instructive if it were possible to trace the evolution of the idea that the most effective means to produce a hardy and resourceful race of men and women is to take children at the age of five, place books in their hands and herd them in blocks of forty-five or fifty in stuffy school-rooms for five hours a day, two hundred days in the year, for nine, thirteen or seventeen years of their lives.

"Whatever the origin of this idea and whatever the reasons may be for justifying it, it is firmly fixed in the minds of a great majority of the American people—so firmly fixed, indeed, that any attempt on the part of serious students of education to question the wisdom of the present method is met with stern rebuke by so-called level-headed tax payers.

"Yet it may be seriously questioned whether a just indictment may not be drawn against our present almost exclusively bookish education."

In commenting on the above very plain statement of facts, an exchange has this to say: "That Prof. Heavey, to certain degree, is in the right, will be admitted, but reform is coming about of its own accord. As years go on, the needs of the individual pupil are going to be more and more carefully considered, instead of being massed heterogeneously together. Movements in this direction have been started at various points about the country, and it is probable that if the professor will wait a few years he will find but little to complain of in this line."

Should Corpulency be a Dreaded Quantity?

Many think it should be, and not a few stout people would willingly give all they possess if they could only grow thin, and even make themselves sick in the effort to reduce their weight. After all, if one enjoys good health, it matters but little whether you tip the scales at 250 pounds or only weight 100 pounds. The real secret of enjoyment in this life is a contented mind, and we have yet to learn that the size of the person makes any difference in this respect; regularity in habits, however, is very necessary.

A recent magazine article on this subject created quite a bit of excitement among the heavy men of Chicago, and a leading newspaper "butting in" to the affair, consulted a notable cook expert, in order that the good wives of corpulent husbands shall have no excuse of ignorance; they of course should not longer pamper their tastes, and tempting viands must be kept off the bill of fare. Here are a few "Don'ts" compiled by the expert in cooking:

Don't drink water, beer, milk or sweetened coffee or tea with meals.

Don't eat pie, cake or any other pastry.

Don't use butter or cream to excess.

Don't eat potatoes, rice, cereals.

Don't eat hot bread or blanc mange.

Don't eat at night.

"Nine out of ten women" observes this caustic cook expert, "don't know how to feed fat husbands or thin husbands. They don't know anything about food values. A fat husband should be fed on fruits, and such vegetables as carrots, spinach, tomatoes and asparagus. Let him have toast without butter, coffee and tea without sugar, and broiled steak with no butter. A husband inclined to corpulency, treated in this manner, should last a long time." This sage lady fails to observe that some husbands under this regulation might prefer their chances of heaven to its continuance.

It was the observation of General Francis Walker, a former President of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, that life on earth is properly to be measured by the satisfaction of living not by the lapse of years.

"Medicinal" Fakes Unearthed.

A number of new medicinal fakes, as the result of the analysis made at state laboratories of hygiene, have been made public by boards of health. The analyses are being conducted in connection with the pure food law,—much good is being accomplished, and in certain states prosecutions are likely to follow. It is true that the preparations in some cases are harmless, which is the one point in their favor, but they are still frauds, and their makers should not be allowed to escape the just penalty of their wrongdoing.

"Evangeline" Nov. 29.

For the second attraction in the Citizen's Course of Entertainments, will appear "Evangeline," on Friday evening, Nov. 29, at the town hall. This is one of the famous Kempton lectures and will be sure to please. All our people should arrange to attend this lecture, as well as the others in the course; they are all fine.

The list of attractions and the dates on which they appear in the Citizen's Course are as follows:

Nov. 29, Friday evening, Kempton; Evangeline; illustrated lecture.

Dec. 11, Wednesday evening, Honolulu Students.

Jan. 1, Wednesday evening, Caveny, crayon artist and clay modeller.

Jan. 29, Wednesday evening, lecture by Chamberlayne.

Feb. 21, Friday evening, The Scotch Singers.

Concert and Ball.

Tuesday evening, December 17, is the date set for the Concert and Ball to be given by Felt's Singing Orchestra of Dartmouth College, at the town hall. This organization, in making its second appearance in Antrim, comes highly recommended. Its members have been carefully selected, and both concert and dance music are of the highest order. The Orchestra, during the week of December 15, is to make a tour of the state, playing in the larger towns and cities, and the people of Antrim and vicinity are assured of a rare treat. Watch for particulars and concert program later.

The supreme court of New Hampshire has re-affirmed its previous declaration in regard to the constitutionality of the inheritance tax law, and includes within the scope of the law deposits of New Hampshire descendants in out of the state banks. The opinion overrules a contrary decision of the probate judge of Hillsboro county which the state treasurer had taken to the supreme court on an appeal.

It is suggested that when the correspondence schools include ballooning in their courses, as they of course will do, they should give a life insurance policy along with each diploma.

If anything were needed to clinch Henry Watterson's determination not to retire from politics, the outcome in Kentucky probably furnished it.

The success of the reform element in San Francisco makes it look as though the other party did not think there was anything left to graft.

There are still a few sure things left on the counter. Virginia has gone Democratic and Pennsylvania has stayed Republican.

As soon as the Cleveland street railroads found they could not defeat Mayor Johnson, they quietly raised the fares on him.

The recent election did not leave Delaware as dry as she might have been. Neither did it leave her as wet as she has been.

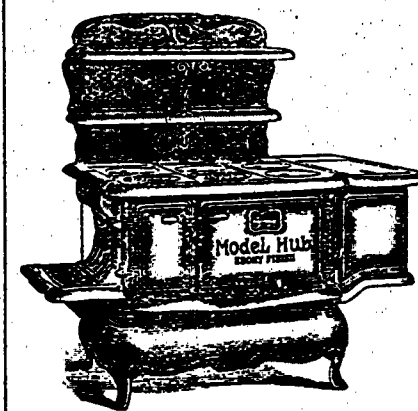

It is asserted that the Chanler boom has been hauled back on the ways to have some of its rivets tightened.

Few Here Know This.

When an eminent authority announced in the Scanton (Pa.) Times that he had found a new way to treat that dread American disease, Rheumatism, with just common, every-day drugs found in every drug store, the physicians were slow indeed to attach much importance to his claims. This was only a few months ago. To-day nearly every newspaper in the country, even the metropolitan dailies, is announcing it and the splendid results achieved. It is so simple that any one can prepare it at home at small cost, it is made up as follows: Get from any good prescription pharmacy Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. These are all simple ingredients, making an absolutely harmless home remedy at little cost.

Rheumatism, as every one knows, is a symptom of deranged kidneys. It is a condition produced by the failure of the kidneys to properly filter or strain from the blood the uric acid and other matter which, if not eradicated, either in the urine or through the skin pores, remains in the blood, decomposes and forms about the joints and muscles, causing the untold suffering and deformity of rheumatism.

This prescription is said to be a splendid healing, cleansing and invigorating tonic to the kidneys, and gives almost immediate relief in all forms of bladder and urinary troubles and backache. He also warns people in a leading New York paper against the discriminate use of many patent medicines.

A New York paper says that Secretary Taft will spend the last part of his journey in cooking up a home coming speech. It is a good thing he is going to start early. In the last speech at home, his tariff revision sentiment seemed a little underdone on one side.

A London chemist has just discovered a way of making all sorts of precious stones out of fieldspar. Wonder if anthracite coal was included in the list. That is getting right into the precious stone class these days.

Foreign Minister Hayashi at Tokio in a long and thoughtfully worded interview, explains that there will never be any chance of America and Japan fighting if the two governments can just keep their subjects apart.

Trouble all Along the Line.

There seems a superabundance of trouble in both of the major parties just now. In both it is internecine strife. With the old line leaders of the Republicans, it is anything to beat Roosevelt and with the Democrats it is anything to beat Bryan. It may not be necessary for the reactionaries of the Republican party to fight Roosevelt personally. Taft means Roosevelt to the leaders quite as much as Roosevelt means Roosevelt. It is the policies that the President stands for that fault are found with. Secretary Taft is committed to the bulk of these policies, and the next nearest chance in the party for the nomination is Governor Hughes of New York and he is perhaps as bad from a corporation view point as either of the others. So the talk of the third term is again brought to the fore in the hope that the possibility of a Roosevelt nomination will dissipate the strength of the other two dangerous candidates. It is well known to the leaders of the party that the President will not except a third nomination so it seems to them a safe subject to play with. On the other hand there is the sound of whetting knives in the Tammany camp. Of course Tammany is not the whole Democratic party, but it will have much to do with shaping the party course. Since the victory in New York, the sachers of the wig-wam have been inflating their chests a bit and it is said there is a vigorous hunt still going on for some man who could beat Bryan in the convention. Tammany does not look with favor on Lieut. Gov. Chandler and it is a little hard to see to whom they may turn. But the time is drawing on, and the parties will have to first settle themselves before attempting to settle each other.

Ten Weeks Winter Courses at the State College.

The N. H. College has just published an attractive 12 page bulletin describing the Ten Weeks Winter Courses in Agriculture and Dairying. These courses will open at the college Tuesday, Jan. 7, and continue until Friday, March 14. No entrance examinations are required and the total expenses will amount only to about sixty dollars.

There are a large number of young men located on the farms of our state who find it impossible to be absent from their homes during the spring, summer and fall months but who are anxious to receive training along certain lines of farm work. Besides the young men there are many mature men who are desirous of becoming familiar with the most recent agricultural studies and practices.

The Winter Course in Agriculture is designed to give such men an opportunity to study the latest investigations in agriculture and to learn how to make practical application of the fundamental principles to the work on the farm.

Along the line of dairying there is a greater need now than ever for competently trained men. There is an increasing demand for first class dairy products, and the continuous campaign for pure milk in our cities is constantly opening up new positions. The demand for men who can successfully manage dairy farms, milk depots, creameries and other dairy establishments is greater than the supply. The Dairy Division at Washington and the organization of local test associations is opening up a new field in which the farmer may be assisted in producing more and better milk. Good salaries and good positions are always open to trained dairy men who can do things.

The bulletin describing these winter courses in detail will be sent free of charge upon application to Prof. F. W. Taylor, Durham, N. H.

There has been enough row raised over the Jamestown show to draw a paying crowd if they can only keep it open next year.

Governor Floyd's Thanksgiving Proclamation.

New Hampshire has abundant reason for being profoundly grateful to "The Giver of all good and perfect gifts" for innumerable blessings that in His great goodness He has bestowed upon us. The year has been one of unusual prosperity among all our people. Labor has had ample opportunity for remunerative employment, and capital for profitable investment. Never before have our homes enjoyed so many of the comforts and pleasures of life. Never have peace and happiness more largely abounded.

In humble recognition of these manifold blessings, and in harmony with long-established usage, I, Charles M. Floyd, Governor of the State of New Hampshire, hereby set apart and appoint Thursday, November 28, as a day of public Thanksgiving to Almighty God. I would respectfully recommend that the day be observed in accordance with time-honored custom, by appropriate exercises in our houses of public worship, and by those customary fireside reunions that have marked the day in the past and have endeared it unto us; and that both in our public and private gatherings, a due and fitting remembrance of our mercies and blessings be made.

Inasmuch as no worship is acceptable without its appropriate works, I would suggest that before we partake of our well laden tables we seek out and share our abundance with our less fortunate neighbors to whom the day may bring no cheer. By so doing we shall render our due-service to Him, who said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto me."

Our intellectual and moral advancement should keep pace with our material betterment, and if for any reason changes have brought about conditions not in harmony with our traditional standards, we have no need to confess a mournful competency to face them. New Hampshire has never yet failed to meet courageously and to conquer every situation of whatever nature has confronted her, and by the blessings of God and the zeal of her loyal sons and daughters, the future of our State will equal in achievement the highest ideals of her splendid past. On this Thanksgiving day let us dedicate ourselves anew to the great and sacred duty of maintaining New Hampshire, in moral and intelligence, among the foremost states in this great American nation.

Given at the Council Chamber in Concord this sixth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and seven, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and thirty-second.

CHARLES M. FLOYD, Governor.
By His Excellency the Governor with advice of the Council,
EDWARD N. PRARSON,
Secretary of State.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—takes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruiise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

The poorest policy and the worst economy is to keep the children out of school. Every day lost has its manifold effort; the knowledge gained on that day is missed, the pupil is thrown behind, becomes discouraged, has a bad effect on the class and the very habit is to be avoided.

Mrs. Sady J. Green,

Wife of James Green, died at her home on Main street, in Antrim, on Sunday evening, November 17, at 7 45 o'clock, aged 64 years, 1 month, 4 weeks and 2 days. She had been in ill health for a number of years, being a great sufferer from rheumatism for a long time, and during the last of her life was unable to leave her room, the disease taking on the form of a dropsical nature. For about forty years she had resided in town and was known by all to be a kind-hearted woman and good neighbor. She had been married to Mr. Green 48 years.

Mrs. Green was a member of Ephraim Weston W. R. C., which organization attended the funeral in a body and at the close of the service read their ritual. She was also a member of the Methodist church, where the funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock, Rev. A. M. Markey officiating; burial was in the family lot in North Branch cemetery.

Deceased is survived by a husband, one son, Charles E. Green, of Lynn, Mass., three sisters: Mrs. Mary E. Gilmore of Newport, Mrs. Anna Wilcox of Washington, this state, Mrs. Alice Wilcox of Lancaster, Mass., who have the sympathy of all in their bereavement.

The Christmas Number.

Miss Annie O'Hagan, whose charming stories are well known to readers of the New Idea Woman's Magazine, contributes to the December number a delightful article entitled "Christmas by Double Entry," in which she begins by making all our preparations for the holidays, our way of spending them when they come as well as their after-effects, seem very ridiculous, and then ends by convincing herself and her readers that the present way of doing things is a pretty good one, after all, and we would not change it if we could. Read it, and you will want to begin your Christmas planning at once. Miss Jean Webster, whose book, "When Patty Went to College," still gives pleasure to a great many readers, is represented by a bright and sparkling love story of a Christmas in the tropics entitled "From Rangoon to Mandalay." Have you heard all about the gorgeous historical pageants which were given in England last summer? If not, there are some excellent photographs in this number which will give you an idea of these events, and the text tells of facts in England's glorious past which were celebrated. The amount of work which each Christmas season means to a whole army of people is told about in an interesting article on "Filling Santa Claus's Pack."

Notice.

On and after Friday, Nov. 8, we shall charge ten cents for each meal bag and three cents for each sack, the same to be paid when they are returned.

THE ANTRIM REPORTER has purchased a handsome $72.50 Model HUB Range and will give it away absolutely free to the lady receiving the largest number of votes.

The Model HUB Range is unexcelled as a sure and easy baker and cooker, and an economical consumer of either coal, coke or wood. The Model HUB Range is world-famous, and is well known to the good cooks of New England, who have always led and will lead the world. This Range is made by the Smith & Anthony Co. of Boston, which, in itself is a guarantee of good faith, and is sold by leading dealers everywhere.

This Range will be given to the lady in the town of Antrim or any of the neighboring towns who receives the most votes.

Conditions of the Contest.

The Model HUB Range will be given to the lady receiving the highest number of votes. There must be two or more contestants.

Vote coupons can be obtained only by payment of yearly subscriptions, old or new, at the Antrim Office, or sent in by mail. To prevent trading among contestants, those receiving coupons should fill them out at once, preferably with pen and ink. No coupon will be counted upon which two names have been written, even if one of these have been erased.

Any contestant, or friend of contestants, is at liberty to canvass for subscriptions, no matter where they may reside.

Collections may be made on old subscriptions by contestants or their friends and a 100 vote certificate will be issued for 1-year renewal, 250 vote certificate for 2-year renewal.

Changing from one member of a family to another will not be accepted as a new subscription. Receipt blanks and other printed matter will be furnished the contestants for use in making a canvass or for making collections, as well as lists of old subscribers, free of charge upon application.

The Range to be given away is a full size Model HUB Range, of the latest pattern, and will be delivered at the freight depot nearest the residence of the winner. The value of this Range, at retail, is $72.50. The Model HUB Range will be on exhibition and can be soon seen and examined at the REPORTER OFFICE.

One of the principal objects being the securing of new subscribers, we will give increased value or 300-vote certificate for every year paid on all new subscriptions; and 700-vote certificate for 2 years. No Coupons will be printed in The Reporter. The only way to get votes will be by payment of subscriptions. If you pay at The REPORTER OFFICE ask for your coupons. If you send by mail request that the coupons be sent you.

Rheumatics Escape Cure By Bee Stings.

Harrisburg, Pa.—The demonstration of bee stinging as a cure for rheumatism, by State Zoologist Surface of Pennsylvania was postponed, at the closing of the National Bee Keepers' Association to-day until next year, because of the death of several bees which had been selected for this purpose.

Medical authorities now agree that Rheumatism is caused by uric acid, which is the source of most liver, kidney and blood diseases. If we remove the uric acid (caused by indigestion) we stop the other diseases. After all, the best known and surest preparation to drive out this deadly poison is that favorite remedy of physicians, introduced over 30 years ago by the skilled physician and surgeon, Dr. David Kennedy, and now familiarly known as Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and sold by that name generally in at least 40,000 drug stores.

Hydro-Carbonite Paint

For use on Tin, Iron, Felt, Canvas, or Shingle Roofs. Especially suitable for iron or Steel Buildings, Bridges, Machinery, Tanks, etc.

ELASTIC INEXPENSIVE DURABLE

Stops Leaks, Prevents Rust, Checks Decay. Guaranteed for 6 years. Made in BLACK only.

This is the old original roof and iron paint placed on the market by us many years ago. It is the pioneer of roof paints, and we are the parents of the roofing paint industry in this country. Through all these years this paint has sold in greater quantities each season, despite the fact that hundreds of imitations, represented to be "just as good" have flooded the country with advertising similar to ours in an attempt to divert our trade.

For use on Roofs, Iron or Metal Buildings, or any surface where a thoroughly good paint is required, Hydro-Carbonite Paint is unequalled as time and experience and thousands of imitations prove.

MRS. A. M. HAGERMANN.

ALL WOMEN SUFFER

from the same physical disturbances, and the nature of their duties, in many cases, quickly drift them into the horrors of all kinds of female complaints, organic troubles, ulceration, falling and displacements, or perhaps irregularity or suppression causing backache, nervousness, irritability, and sleeplessness. Women everywhere should remember that the medicine that holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female ills is made from simple native roots and herbs. For more than thirty years it has been helping women to be strong, regulating the functions perfectly and overcoming pain. It has also proved itself invaluable in preparing for child birth and the Change of Life.

Mrs. A. M. Hagermann, of Bay Shore, L. I., writes:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—“I suffered from a displacement, excessive and painful functions so that I had to lie down or sit still most of the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman so that I am able to attend to my duties. I wish every suffering woman would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see what relief it will give them.”

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female illness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. for advice. She is the Mrs. Pinkham who has been advising sick women free of charge for more than twenty years, and before that she assisted her mother-in-law Lydia E. Pinkham in advising. Therefore she is especially well qualified to guide sick women back to health.

MAKING THINGS DO.

Willing Sacrifices People Will Make in Time of War.

Not the only heroes of war were those who bore the musket and sword. The women and children who stayed at home and kept up heart in spite of the privations of siege are to be numbered among the valiant. A glimpse of some of the southern domestic economies during the civil war is given by Miss M. J. Walsh in her personal recollections printed by the Mississippi Historical society:

Among the glorious achievements of that time the makeshifts at home deserve recognition, for they represent ingenuity and willing sacrifice. As various articles gave out substitutes were found. If no substitute could be invented for an article we simply did without.

Coffee, the southerners' daily beverage, was manufactured from parched corn, burnt corn bread, even burnt molasses. Sweet potatoes cut into small squares, dried, parched and ground were also used. The stimulating effect was lacking, but it was all the better for our nerves. For tea, young raspberry leaves dried were used.

Sugar was a serious problem, and molasses was as precious as sugar.

“What shall we do when the present supply of Louisiana molasses gives out?” was a burning question, and the only answer was, “Do without.”

Grits were eaten for rice. When we wanted soda we swept the fireplace clean and burned corn-cobs.

Mustard and pepper were made of home grown products. Salt was costly. Every bit was shaken off dry pork and used. All brine was boiled down and dried. Still the supply grew lower and lower. Some one discovered that the dirt floors of the old smoke-houses were salt mines, so to speak. The dirt was put in hoppers and run down, the brine boiled and dried.

All new cloth had to be manufactured at home from raw material. The dyestuffs were made from root-bark, walnuts and indigo.

Shoes were rough affairs made from the hides of beavers, cured by the negroes. Buttons were made of coarse thread or persimmon seeds. Caps were cut out of cloth and hats plaited from palmetto.

Letters were written on the blank leaves of books, the wrong side of wall scraps or old envelopes turned and pasted together.

Carducci, the Italian poet, came near having a duel, I say. He possessed a fine spirit of contradiction and had the characteristics of a fighter. Once while traveling in Lombardy he was in a railway compartment with an army officer, who did not recognize him. Conversation turned upon the latest literary productions. They spoke of a poem by the author of “Odes Barbares,” which had just appeared.

“This Carducci,” exclaimed the officer, with enthusiasm, “is a superb genius, the greatest since Dante, the equal of Dante himself.”

“Humph!” said the other. “A genius? That's too much to say. I find him mediocre.”

“Mediocre, sir? You don't know anything about it.”

“Oh, you are incapable of judging.”

“I?”

“You!”

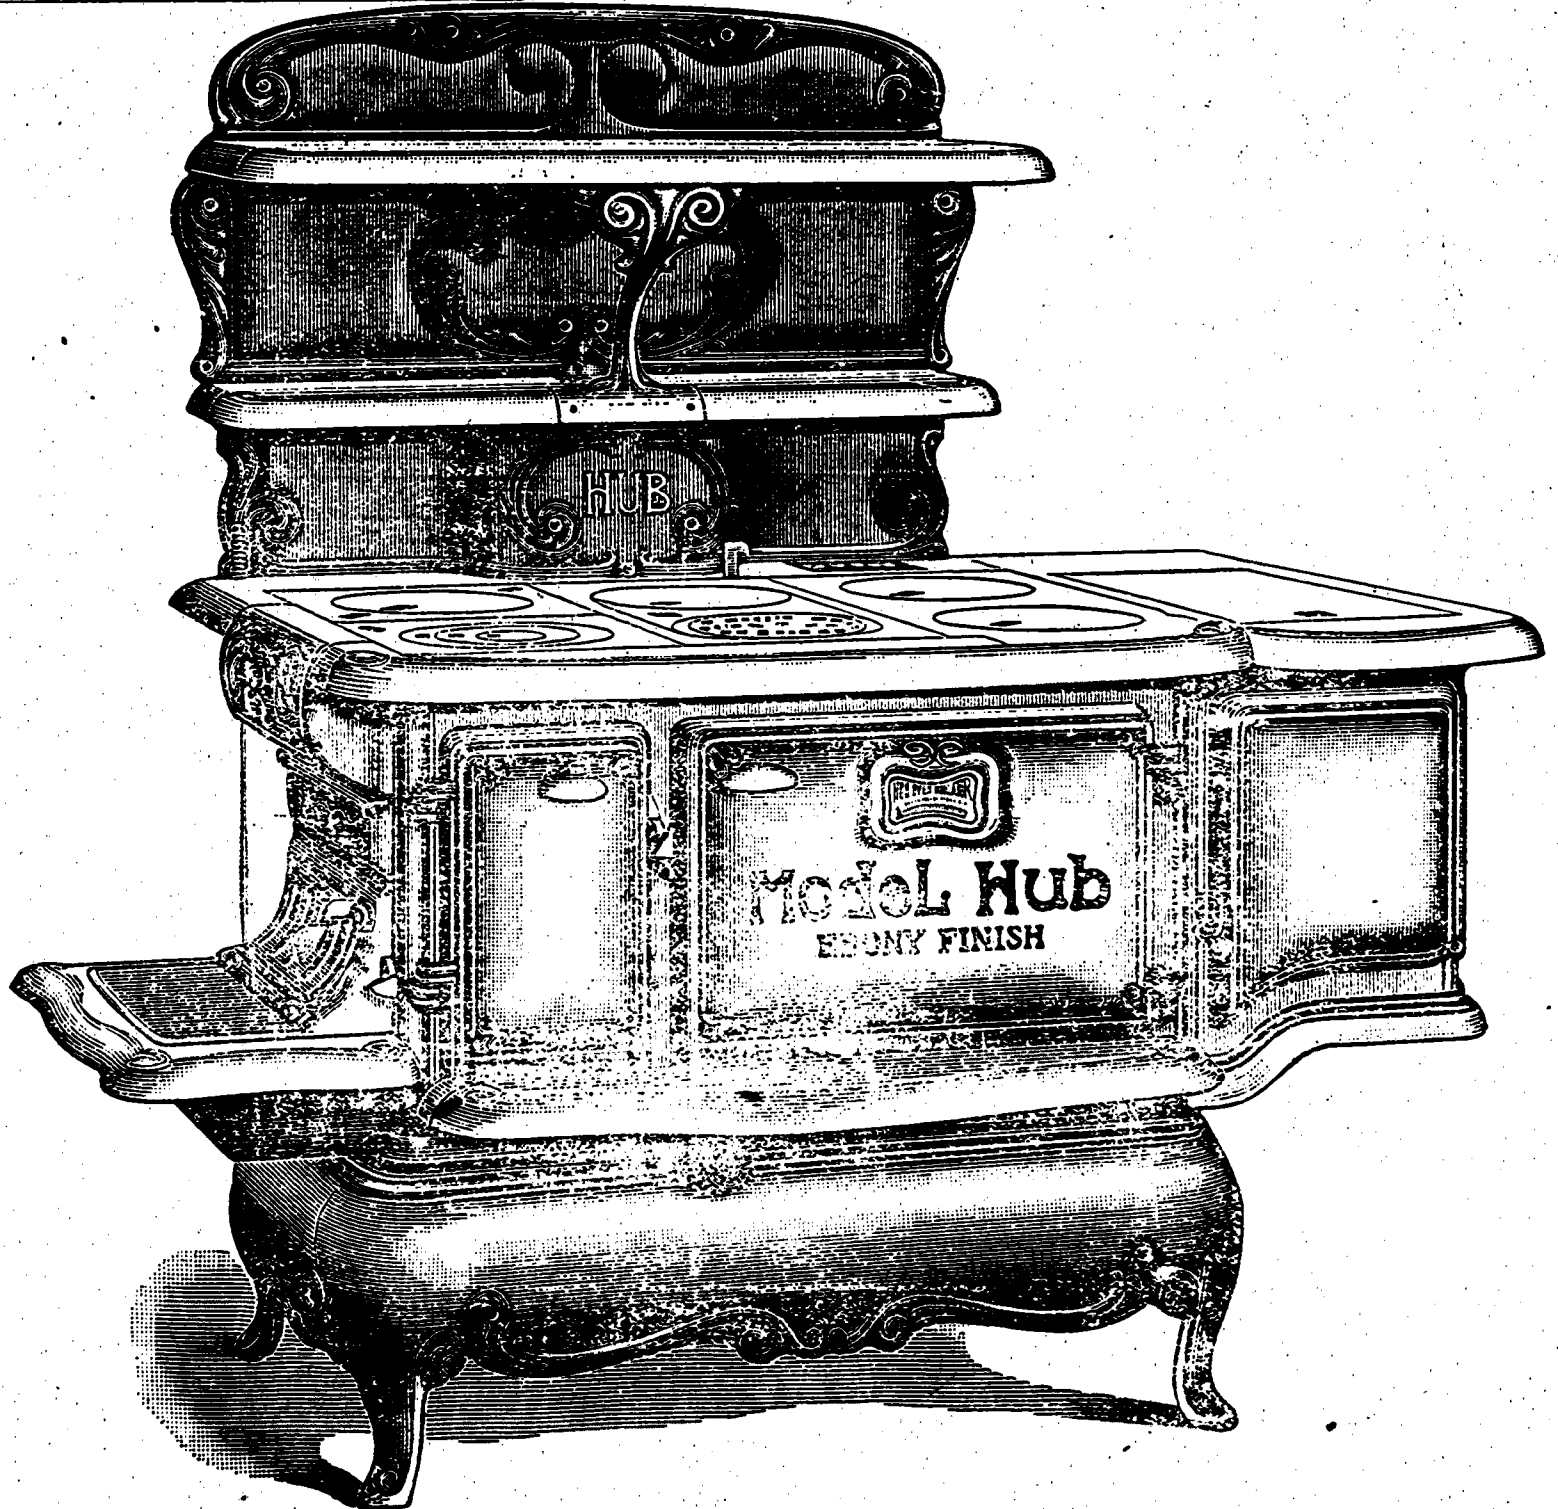

“Sir!”

“Sir!”

The officer handed his card to his attendant. The other smiled. “There's mine.” And on it was the name “Giosue Carducci, professor at the University of Bologna.”

The officer, removing his hat, politely bowed.—Le Cri de Paris.

Hats in Olden Days.

The felt hat is as old as Homer. The Greeks made them in skullcaps, conical, truncated, narrow or broad brimmed. The Phrygian bonnet was an elevated cap without a brim, the apex turned over in front. It is known as the cap of liberty. An ancient figure of Liberty in the times of Antonius Livius, A. D. 115, holds the cap in the right hand. The Persians wore soft caps. Plumed hats were the head-dress of the Syrian corps of Xerxes. The broad brim was worn by the Macedonian kings. Castor means a beaver. The Armenian captive wore a plug hat. The merchants of the fourteenth century wore a Flanders beaver Charles VII. in 1469 wore a felt hat lined with red and plumed. The English men and women in 1510 wore close woolen or knitted caps. Two centuries ago hats were worn in the house. Pepys in his diary wrote, “September, 1664, got a severe cold because he took off his hat at dinner,” and again in January, 1665, he got another cold by sitting too long with his head bare to allow his wife's maid to comb his hair and wash his ears, and Lord Clarendon in his essay, speaking of the decay of respect due the age, says that in his younger days he never kept his hat on before those older than himself except at dinner.

Heirs of the Air.

The owls, solemn birds, strongly imbued with the obligations of the married state, mostly begin to sit as soon as the first egg appears, so that the eggs, having a fair field and no favor, hatch out in precisely the same order as that in which they are laid. With the majority of smaller birds another habit prevails, for these do not commence to sit in earnest until the full clutch, perhaps a dozen in number, is complete. This obviously means that the earlier eggs in the nest have had time to grow cold and must be warmed up again. As a result, the eggs are hatched out in the inverse order of laying. It is a good thing that bird life is devoid of litigation, otherwise what terrible arguments this difference between first laid and first hatched might lead to.

When a girl with an angel food taste marries a man with a ginger bread income it's a sign that she doesn't know on which side her bread is buttered.—Dallas News.
