EVENTIDE.

By Dana Smith Temple, Hillboro Upper Village, N. H.

When the long day's work is ended
And the dark'ning shadows fall,
When our hearts with peace are blended—
And the night droops over all,
When the stars appear so slowly
And the night birds faintly call;
Then I fancy Earth is holy:
And its blessings are for all.

Blessings for the worn and weary
Who were happier long ago;
Though the hearth is lone and dreary
And the hours are passing slow,
Yet we wait the brighter morning
With its sunshine drifting through;
Wait the morrow calmly dawning,
Wait its tints of brighter hue.

LIBRARY But only half-way. Last week Wednesday, the Building Committee turned over to the Selectmen the keys of the James A. Tuttle library building, with the understanding that the building being completed their duties had come to an end. The Selectmen in turn notified the Library Trustees that they were ready to pass over to them the keys of the building, and to meet them on Thursday evening for this purpose. The Trustees were present, but instead of being given the keys were told that because of unpaid bills amounting to about seventy dollars they had decided to hold the keys until these bills were paid. The situation appeared somewhat strange, but to this hour the Selectmen are in possession of the library, and having not the least bit of reason to doubt the truth of our information are likely to hold full sway for some time to come. The reason of this condition of things, we are informed on good authority, is because the Trustees are unwilling to draw their order beyond the amount of $13,000—the appropriation, the bills referred to being considered by the Trustees as an overdraw. The worst feature about the matter is: these unpaid bills are to town parties who have done work not in the contract.

For one cause or another, there has appeared at times to be somewhat of an unpleasantness between parties concerned, which it was hoped would gradually clear away and some morning the sky would be seen without a cloud. However, the sooner the fog lifts and the matter gets safely and securely into the hands of the Trustees, then will our people all feel better; they will then in short order begin to receive the benefits which are sure to come from a free public library with the large number of volumes and the many advantages that the James A. Tuttle library will have to offer.

MEN ABOVE REPROACH NEEDED. To show how much is expected of men for high places, and especially in the ministry, but no more in one denomination than in another, the following extract is taken from the Springfield Republican:

The battle over the election of the new bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, in Baltimore, finally grew so intense that some one began circulating the story that a certain candidate used tobacco. A decrease in his total vote was immediately perceptible, whereupon the indignant divine declared: "It's an infamous lie, started by my political enemies. I have been worried to death over these things this week. My position in regard to tobacco is one of uncompromising opposition." A minister with a "past," even if his worst crime be smoking, is up against it if he aspires to be a Methodist bishop. It is now easier to understand why Mr. Fairbank's candidacy for the place of delegate to this very conference was ruined by the cocktail story. And it is well. A bishop should be above suspicion.

GOES FOR PROHIBITION. North Carolina was carried for state prohibition Tuesday of last week by a majority that is estimated at from 40,000 to 42,000. The prohibition ticket carried 78 out of the 98 counties by majorities approximating 48,500. The anti-prohibition ticket has 20 counties by majorities approximating 5600. This calculation is partly based on estimates, and the prohibition leaders say it is possible for the prohibition majority to reach 50,000. The election passed off very quietly.

Special Town Meeting

On Thursday last at two o'clock in the afternoon, some twenty-five or thirty voters gathered at town hall for special town meeting. Moderator W. E. Cram read the warrant and business was at once begun.

Under the first article it was voted to instruct the trustees of the Salt-marsh property to sell, deed and properly convey the property.

Article two was for a similar purpose in regard to the James A. Tuttle property. It was voted to instruct the Trustees of the Tuttle property to sell, deed and properly convey this property.

Under article three, to see if the town will instruct the selectmen to build a walk around the pond at the rear of the town block, it was voted to dismiss the article, but not until some little oratory had been wasted for and against. This article as near as can be learned had its birth with the Improvement Society, but instead of having it in a town warrant in this manner, it would doubtless have received more favorable consideration had it been done in the regular way of petitioning the selectmen who would have granted a hearing to interested parties; and if in their judgement there was sufficient need and demand for such a walk, the prayer of the petition would probably have been granted.

State Examinations

Examinations for State Teachers' Certificates will be held June 26, 27. Attention is called to the fact that eligibility to District Superintendentcies is conditioned upon these examinations. No person will be admitted to examinations who does not file application on or before June 20.

Forms of application and general information may be obtained from the Superintendent of Public Instruction. The examinations will be set at Concord, and at other points in the state, provided the number of candidates will warrant.

Eminent scientists writing on the exhaustion of the coal measures are fearful that the coming generation is going to freeze. They, however, must have come to this conclusion three or four months ago. The activity of electric fans, the consumption of iced drinks and peekaboo raiment are not suggestive of a frigid era.

The scientist who went to California to estimate the force of solar heat, might have saved himself the trouble by remaining at home or by taking a walk on one of the principal streets during this heated season.

The scientists who declared that the world will be a frozen sphere in ten thousand years, will not, it is thought, be around here to annoy people with their "I told you so."

A Southern paper suggests that inasmuch as every husband has nervous prostration when the cook quits with the dishes unwashed, his wife should teach him to wash dishes himself.

The fact that people remarry after the second and third providential deliverance is a conclusive negation of the proverb that a burnt child always dreads the fire.

Antrim Wins Double-header.

Antrim won twice from Hancock Saturday in two exciting games. The features of the morning game were the batting of L. Cuddihy and the playing of Freeman. In the afternoon the home team played loose at times but rallied at the bat at critical moments. Features were the batting of Carpenter and the work of L. Cuddihy and Freeman.

W. F. Dickey

It is quite reckless for the socialists to nominate Eugene V. Debs again and again, when it is probable that he has never devoted a day's study to the wording of his presidential inaugural address.

David B. Hill, it is said, will spend the summer in Europe but will not wear that caricaturist feather in his hat, with the words "I am a Democrat."

MEMORIAL DAY IN ANTRIM.

The day in Antrim was observed in the usual manner; in the morning members of Ephraim Weston Post, No. 87, G. A. R., went to North Branch, where graves of departed comrades were decorated, and also in the Centre cemetery. Details from the Post performed the same service in the Meeting House Hill and East cemeteries. Dinner was served at Grand Army hall. At half past one the exercises in town hall began; E. C. Paige, presiding officer. Vocal music was furnished by a chorus choir, with a solo by Miss Ethel Ellinwood; other music was by the Antrim Band. The orator of the day was Rev. Francis Buffum of Winchester, this state, whose discourse was preceded by prayer offered by Rev. A. M. Markey.

At the conclusion of the exercises in the hall, the line of march was taken to Maplewood cemetery, where honor was done the brave soldier by decorating his grave.

Return was made to the Soldiers' Monument where the exercises were in charge of the Woman's Relief Corps. Here remarks were made by Rev. Mr. Markey, in his usual pleasing manner, which were well received and attentively listened to by every one present. This completed the day's program, and while during a portion of the afternoon it was showery, the rain came at a time when very little inconvenience was the result.

The oration deserves more than a passing notice, for it was really a fine thing, and it was pleasing indeed to see so large a company of our people present on this occasion. The speaker's theme was "Voices of the Past;" the ease with which he treated his subject and the many beautiful and pleasing thoughts which he presented were features seldom woven into a like address. It was one that did a man good to listen to; he felt like making a new resolve, to live a better and more patriotic life. The speaker being at the front during the dark days which he occasionally alluded to puts that spirit into his address that nothing else can equal; makes his hearers feel somewhat as he feels and one enjoys the thought that he who is speaking knows what he is talking about.

ANTRIM'S GUBERNATORIAL CANDIDATE.

In the Manchester Union of a very recent date, appeared an article setting forth the probability of the Hon. NATHAN C. JAMESON of this town being again the standard bearer of his party in the coming campaign which will soon be upon us. Mr. Jameson was candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket in the last campaign and received a very large vote, and his party has every reason to feel that he is the man they need in the coming campaign.

In a conversation with Mr. Jameson, he states that the newspaper article referred to appeared as a surprise to him, as he had given the matter but very little thought, having but recently returned to his home here and his time and attention being absorbed in other matters. On being asked, said he had no statement to make at this time in regard to the matter.

OUR TOWN IN HER BEAUTY.

Just at this time of the year, and for several weeks to come, Antrim is and will be one of the most beautiful towns in New Hampshire and we believe in all New England. The nicely shaded streets, well-kept lawns and residences, fine drives, good roads, together with clear and health-giving air, make our town among the best as a place in which to reside, whether it be for a few months in the summer season or for all the year round. This is what all say who have tried it!

THREE RULES.

As the result of long experience and careful observation, Edward Everett Hale has given to men three rules in life that are worth preserving and following:

- 1—Live in the open air as much as possible.
- 2—Touch elbows with the rank and file.
- 3—Speak every day to someone whom you know to be your superior.

Even the straw hat is not wandering very far from home these days.

But the busy men down at the Grocers' Exchange on Broad St., Boston, which is both the headquarters of the Boston Retail Grocers' Association and the Executive officers of their Food Fair, have not allowed the ponderous details of this convention to interfere with the progress of their elaborate preparations for the great fall event.

Must Use The Knife

Said the Surgeon, but Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was taken and the Knife Avoided.

The Union and Advertiser of Rochester, N. Y., recently published the following interesting account of how William W. Adams of 127 South Avenue, that city, was saved from a painful operation by the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

Mr. Adams said: "Three years ago I was taken with kidney disease very badly; at times I was completely prostrated; in fact, was so bad that the day was set for the doctors to perform an operation upon me. But I decided I would not submit. I had been put in hot water baths, and, in fact, nearly every means was tried to help me. Upon the day set for the operation I commenced the use of

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood. It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

FANTAN AT MACAO.

Gambling Houses of the Monte Carlo of the East.

Macao, a Portuguese-Chinese port at the mouth of the Canton river, in China, is the Monte Carlo of the east. One must wait until evening to see the famous "fantan" houses. The interiors are brilliantly lighted with oil lamps (for Macao boasts neither electricity nor gas) and furnished with costly Canton blackwood elaborately carved and upholstered in velvet. There are two floors. The coolly class remains on the ground floor, where the actual games take place, but in the room above, immediately over the table in the room below, there is a square "well" with a rail around it and a narrow table furnished with betting books and pencils, cigarettes, etc.

The visitor may take a seat and look down at the game, which really seems fair and simple. A man sits at the head of the table with a huge heap of brass "cash" before him and a slender wand in his hand. He takes up a handful of the coin and puts it on the table, covering it with a brass hat. Then the betting begins, the bets being laid on the number 1, 2, 3 or 4, after which the banker takes up the hat and counts out the cash in fours, separating them with his cane, the number left when the last "four" is removed being the subject of the betting. These houses, numerous as they are, make an enormous income and are a source of large revenue to Macao.—Exchange.

France and Fourteen.
So far as France is concerned, it is the number fourteen that has played a conspicuous and portentous part in her history. On May 14, 1554, the Rue de la Ferronnerie was enlarged by order of Henri II., and four times fourteen years later Henri IV. was assassinated there by Ravalliac—namely, on May 14, 1610. Henri had lived four times fourteen years, fourteen weeks and four times fourteen days—that is, fifty-six years and five months. Then Henri's son, Louis XIII., died May 14, 1643, the same day and month as his father. And 1643 added together equals fourteen. Just as 1553, the year of the birth of Henri IV., equals fourteen. Louis XIV. ascended the throne 1643, which added together, equals fourteen, and similarly the year of his death (1715) equals fourteen.—London P. T. O.

Kept Them All on Edge.
One of the favorite devices of Lord Nelson when ships were cruising in company was to signal to a given craft that Lieutenant Smith or Staff Engineer Brown or Captain of Marines Jones was to take charge, on the assumption that all his superior officers on board had been put out of action. The author of "Trafalgar Re-fought" says that the result was very good, for no one knew when he might be called upon to take command, and every one therefore made a point of trying to make himself fit to carry out the duty should it ever be assigned to him.

Rheumatism, Tonsillitis, Grippe.
Claremont, N. H., Feb. 11, 1901.
Dr. H. Sanche & Co., New York,
Dear Sirs:—
I rejoice to have the chance given me to answer your question. Has Oxydonor given entire satisfaction? It has!
I hold it to be one of the greatest discoveries of the 19th century. For three years I have used it with ever increasing sense of its value. At the start it wrought a permanent cure of Rheumatism in my left shoulder; next of Tonsillitis in my youngest child, and it has since easily and successfully combated whatever ills have assailed my family. Its potency in dissipating an attack of Grippe is especially to be noted.
Wishing that every family in the land might have an Oxydonor, I am

The town was greatly shocked on Friday morning last to learn of the sudden death during the night of Mrs. Walter Buchanan, at her home in the west part of the town. She had been in her ordinary health and this sad intelligence was wholly unexpected. The funeral services were held Sunday at the home, Rev. A. M. Markey officiating. The sympathy of all goes out to the afflicted husband in this hour of bereavement.

Temperance Rally Day.

On Sunday last, Rev. Dr. Robbins, superintendent of the State Anti-Saloon League, was in Antrim and spoke several times. He occupied the pulpit at the Methodist church in a union meeting with the Baptist society at the regular hour of morning worship; in the absence of Rev. Markey, Ex-Gov. Goodell presided. Dr. Robbins also spoke to the Sunday school, and from here went and spoke to the Sunday school of the Baptist church. In the afternoon he spoke at other gatherings.

In the evening, at the Baptist church at 7:45 o'clock, at a union service of the village churches, Supt. Robbins again spoke.

In the morning, he spoke at some length of the work of the anti-saloon league throughout different states and the advancement of the cause of temperance in every state in the union. In the evening, he reviewed the work being done in our own state and spoke of the great need of the repeal of the license law at the coming session of the legislature. Dr. Robbins is a forceful and convincing speaker and certainly understands the subject with which he has so long been connected.

ANY remedy that benefits digestion strengthens the nerves.

The nerve centers require nutrition. If the digestion is impaired, the nerve centers become anemic, and indigestion is the result.

Peruna is not a narcotic nor a stimulant. It benefits the nerves by benefiting digestion.

Peruna frees the stomach of catarrhal congestions and normal digestion is the result.

In other words, Peruna goes to the bottom of the whole difficulty, when the disagreeable symptoms disappear.

Mrs. J. C. Jamison, 61 Marchant street, Watsonville, Cal., writes:

"I was troubled with my stomach for six years. I tried many kinds of medicine, also was treated by three doctors. They said that I had nervous dyspepsia. I was put on a liquid diet for three months.

"I improved under the treatment, but as soon as I stopped taking the medicine, I got bad again.

"I took the medicine for two years, then I got sick again and gave up all hopes of getting cured.

"I saw a testimonial of a man whose case was similar to mine being cured by Peruna, so I thought I would give it a trial.

"I procured a bottle at once and commenced taking it. I have taken several bottles and am entirely cured.

"I have gained in strength and feel like a different person. I believe Peruna is all that is claimed for it."

Nervines, such as coal tar preparations, are doing a great deal of harm. Sleep medicines and headache powders are all alike,—heart depressants, and should not be used. The nerves would be all right, if the digestion were good. Peruna corrects the digestion.

Go to your druggist and get this prescription filled: Clearola one-half ounce, Ether one ounce, Alcohol seven ounces; mix, shake well and apply to the parts effected night and morning, allowing it to remain for at least ten minutes, then wipe off the powder from the skin. Use a soft cloth or sponge in applying the mixture and in from ten days to two weeks your face will be smooth and clear as a marriage bell. John Johnson of Minnesota

One of the Common People, Forceful in Character, Who Looms
 Up in the Presidential Limelight—How He "Made Good" Despite the Adverse Circumstances of His Early Life.

AT THE all the American people despise snobbery. There is but a very small class among us that apex aristocracy and puts ancestry upon a pedestal to kiss the dirt at its feet. For proof of this we have only to look to Minnesota, wherein dwells a man who in these anti-campaign days is being exploited for a presidential nomination by thousands of men who never saw him and never heard of him until three years ago.

Why this man's presidential boom? Just because he has "made good" despite the fact that his father died in the poorhouse and his mother took in washing. Nobody disputes the popular assumption that Governor John A. Johnson is an able man and of presidential dimensions. But, for all that, he never would have been mentioned for the presidency save for this poorhouse and washerwoman. Upon this foundation we base the proof that America, heart, head and hand, is still essentially anti-snob.

In 1904 the Democrats of Minnesota nominated for governor a country editor, the St. Peter Herald man, John Johnson was a pretty good country editor, too, but there were some 700 others in Minnesota. St. Peter is a small town, and the Herald is a small paper. But it is not necessarily true that a small paper in a small town has a small man at the head of it. Plenty of instances to the contrary might be cited, but Johnson's is enough. For fifteen years Editor Johnson had run the editorial end of the Herald, while his partner, Henry Essler, had run the mechanical end. Both took a hand at the business end. Johnson became secretary and then president of the State Editorial association. So the other editors knew him, and they liked him.

Johnson had served one term as a state senator, and some of the politicians knew him and liked him too. But he was defeated for re-election, being a Democrat in a Republican district, and when his party placed him at the head of the state ticket he was plain John Johnson, country editor.

Champion Political Joke.

Minnesota's normal Republican majority is between 60,000 and 70,000. The Democrats had little or no expectation of electing Johnson. One reason they picked him for the candidacy was that he was a Swede and would get the Scandinavian vote, which in Minnesota is a considerable factor. They hoped he, at any rate, would make a decent showing, and most of them would have been satisfied with that. But Johnson, having accepted the nomination, made a systematic campaign. His opponent, State Auditor Dunn, was not altogether popular in his own party. Dunn's unpopularity helped Johnson, against whose record nobody had anything to say. Johnson's popularity increased as Dunn's decreased. Something had to be done for Dunn. Then somebody "done it." The manner of doing it, the madness of its method, must stand forever as the champion political joke of the ages. Did you ever see a boomerang? A boomerang is a curved club. When thrown by one who knows how it makes a turn around in the air and comes back to the thrower. If the thrower doesn't look out, the boomerang will smash his face.

Ten days before election some boomerang thrower in Minnesota printed and distributed a circular setting forth that Candidate Johnson's father had been a drunkard and had died in the poorhouse and that his mother had taken in washing. You cannot find in Minnesota today the thrower of this political boomerang. Most likely he is and was then an inmate of the asylum for the insane.

Some supporters of Johnson, too much excited to know a golden opportunity when they met face to face, were perturbed by this circular and urged the candidate to make a strong denial of the statements.

"I can't," was Johnson's quiet reply.

Story Went the Rounds.

The reason he couldn't was that what the circular said about his parents was true. A St. Paul newspaper which supported him sent a staff correspondent posthaste to the little town of St. Peter. The staff man investigated the immediate antecedents of John Johnson. The reportorial assignment would have delighted any good newspaper man. It is not often that a reporter strikes such "human interest" color. The story of John Johnson of St. Peter as published in the St. Paul paper quickly went the rounds of the Minnesota press; also it went the rounds of the corner groceries and the drug stores and the country hotel offices, where governors are made and presidents are prepared from the raw material.

The St. Paul reporter discovered that Gustaf Johnson, a blacksmith, had emigrated from Sweden about fifty years ago, settling in St. Peter. He had been a heavy drinker in his native land and came to America in the hope that he might reform. He did reform for a few years. He married Caroline Haden, a Swedish girl, also an immigrant. She was utterly alone in America. The blacksmith installed her in a two room house near St. Peter. For a few years the brawny arms of Gustaf Johnson earned a living for the wife and the little ones who came, John being the first baby, born in 1861. Then returned an attack of the old malady, the old disease, which in the system of the village blacksmith demanded alcohol.

The blacksmith became a drunkard. Like many others of his unfortunate class, he went "from bad to worse." Finally the local authorities placed him in the poorhouse, where after some years he died.

Mrs. Johnson was left with six children to support. John was only twelve years old, but he arose to the occasion. He insisted upon quitting school so that he might help. He got a job in a grocery store. A grocer's boy has no snap of a job, but some of them have snap as individuals. John Johnson—they probably called him Johnny then—got $10 a month, which he turned over to his mother. He found time to deliver "laundry" washed and ironed by his mother, his splendid, heroic mother, and also to deliver papers on the carrier's route—the town paper. After two years of this grocer's boy life he got a job in the drug store at a slightly higher rate of pay. From this time on his mother quit taking in washing. John supported the family. In the years following three of the little sisters died, and John Johnson was in debt to the undertaker. The boy studied hard while working in the drug store. The little public library was in the same block. He read many books from the library, being chiefly interested in history. Meanwhile he studied pharmacy, too, and eventually he became a registered pharmacist.

Real Journalist With a Real Job.

After nine years in the drug store John Johnson became a journalist. In the cities a journalist is sometimes described as a newspaper man out of a job. In St. Peter John Johnson was a real journalist with a real job, paying for a half interest in the Herald, for which friends who believed in him had put up the money. Johnson had paid off the undertaker. He had bought in the two room family home-stead, which was about to be sold for taxes, and he had added other rooms and improvements.

So this was the story discovered by the St. Paul reporter. It was so magnificently true that American Minnesota arose gloriously to the occasion. President Roosevelt carried the always Republican state of Minnesota by a majority of 181,462—a hundred thousand above the normal majority. But, hold! John Albert Johnson, Democrat, was elected governor by a majority of 7,800—not a very large majority that, and yet he turned 84,400 votes to get it.

The country editor closed down his desk at St. Peter, probably saying to Henry Essler: "I'll be back in two

Then he went to work at his new job in St. Paul, his office being in Minnesota's new state capitol building. Did Johnson as governor of a great state pose as a sickly sentimental friend of "the common peep"? Not a bit of it—not he. Johnson made no pretense of being ultra Democratic. He wore good clothes, the prevailing style, and cut just as dignified a figure at a gubernatorial reception as he had cut in the editorial sanctum at St. Peter. He had sense enough to adapt himself to his environment.

He Made Good.

Johnson also had the moral and mental backbone to make him Johnny-on-the-spot with his new job. He had had no experience as an editor when he took hold of the St. Peter Herald, but he made good. He made good also as governor of Minnesota. Do you want proof? Then read the election returns of 1906. Normally the Republican candidate should have won by about 70,000 majority. As a matter of fact, Johnson won by 72,000 majority. Somebody asked him: how he did it.

"I only tried to make good," replied Johnson.

No boomerang was thrown in the second campaign. If Johnson had not made good in his two years' term as governor he would have been sent back to the St. Peter Herald office. As it is, he now stands in the glare of the presidential limelight. The washerwoman circular promulgated by the unidentified asylum inmate made him governor, but as governor he made good himself. Those years of struggle, of self effacement, of mother love and brotherly devotion in St. Peter gave him the stamina to make good. When some one asked him what he considered the most important result of his administration as governor he replied: "Law enforcement. We have brought about conditions by which the state officers obey the law themselves and enforce it."

But Governor Johnson did not stop at enforcement of the laws on the statute books. By his influence he brought about the enactment of new laws to meet conditions. One thing he did was to have the legislature give him a board of tax equalizers. Johnson appointed three of the best men in the state. Under the law this board had only advisory powers. The governor used his discretion. The steel trust has immense mines in northern Minnesota. These mines were taxed on a valuation of $38,000,000 when Johnson took office. Now they are taxed on a valuation of $194,000,000, and the poor taxpayer feels better. The electric railways uniting St. Paul and Minneapolis are paying twice as much taxes as they paid before the advent of Johnson. Tax dodgers have been wincing since Johnson became governor.

Strike Settled Without Riots.

The way Governor Johnson settled a strike last summer shows his power as a conservative official. The miners

HELPFUL ADVICE

You won't tell your family doctor the whole story about your private illness—you are too modest. You need not be afraid to tell Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., the things you could not explain to the doctor. Your letter will be held in the strictest confidence. From her vast correspondence with sick women during the past thirty years she may have gained the very knowledge that will help your case. Such letters as the following, from grateful women, establish beyond a doubt the power of

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND to conquer all female diseases. Mrs. Norman R. Barndt, of Allentown, Pa., writes:

"Ever since I was sixteen years of age I had suffered from an organic derangement and female weakness; in consequence I had dreadful headaches and was extremely nervous. My physician said I must go through an operation to get well. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I took it and wrote you for advice, following your directions carefully, and thanks to you I am today a well woman, and I am telling all my friends of my experience."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

In the Mesaba range went out, and there was imminent peril of violence. Instead of sending his state militia to the scene Governor Johnson himself went alone. He talked with the strike leaders and with the employers. He visited the strikers and heard their grievances. He gave them good advice. If they remained orderly, he said, no troops would be sent, but if they became violent he would be forced to quell their violence with soldiers. The strike was settled without riots.

Some persons take pleasure in comparing John Johnson with Abraham Lincoln. This is due to the fact that both men had immediate ancestors of the kind that, as a rule, do not produce society swells. Johnson seems to have much of the homely honesty of Lincoln and more dignity than "Honest Abe." Whatever he may turn out to be in the future we must go back to the original thesis and assert that if Johnson had been a candidate for head sheik of Fifth avenue's Four Hundred or for chief champagne of the Newport set that Lincoln's circular would have defeated him. But he was running merely for the governorship of the plain, common, sensible, intelligent people of an American commonwealth.

Selfish Etiquette.

Some rules in an old book on etiquette seem to encourage a practice commonly called "looking out for No. 1." Here are two of them:

When cake is passed do not finger each piece, but with a quick glance select the best.

Never refuse to taste of a dish because you are unfamiliar with it or you will lose the taste of many a delicacy while others profit by your abstinence, to your lasting regret.

An Electric Dance.

Take a pane of glass—a broken one will do—and secure it by placing the ends between the leaves of two large books, letting the glass be two inches from the table. Cut from lightweight writing paper, or, better still, from tissue paper, dolls, dogs and other figures. Place them on the table beneath the glass. Rub the glass vigorously with a silk handkerchief, and the figures will cut all kinds of antics.

HIS TURN CAME.

The Way the Liquor Man Got Even With the Bank Teller.

Many years ago there lived in Rutland, Vt., two men who bore the same name, which name we will call W. O. Jones. One of these men was a dapper young bank teller; the other was engaged in running a cigar store with a saloon attachment in the rear. This was in the days of prohibition in Vermont. Every three or four weeks the latter Jones would be hauled into the police court and fined for liquor selling, which was chronicled regularly in the daily papers. The bank teller grew nervous about it, and one morning this announcement appeared: "W. O. Jones, the popular young bank teller of the Rutland National bank, wishes it to be understood that he is in no way connected with the saloon keeper and hopes their names may not be confounded."

Now, it transpired that a few months afterward this young teller failed to appear one morning at his accustomed window at the bank. Upon a hasty examination it was found that $15,000 or more of the funds of the bank had also disappeared. The wires were called into requisition immediately, and after a few days he was located in Denver. It was the old story. He was brought back, incarcerated, tried, etc.

It was now the saloon keeper's turn, and this notice was duly published in the same paper that issued the previous one: "W. O. Jones, the widely known business man of Merchants' row, wishes it to be understood that he is in no way connected with W. O. Jones, the defaulting bank teller now in jail, and hopes their names may not be confounded."—Exchange.

THE TURNED UP MUSTACHE.

It Originated in Spain at the Court of Philip IV.

The German emperor, William II., is generally regarded as the inventor of the turned up mustache. This is true only as far as introducing it as a fashion. It was invented at the court of Philip IV., about 1625. That monarch was the first to wear his mustache turned upward. From the Spanish court the fashion spread over all Europe. Charles I. of England, Philip's brother-in-law, and many members of the Austrian Hapsburgs adopted it. It came to Belgium and was introduced into Germany by the Spanish soldiers during the Thirty Years' war.

It was also found in Sweden as well as in France under Louis XIII. Under Louis XIV. the beard went out of fashion, and during the time of Rococo the elegant world knew only clean shaven faces until the French revolution brought the mustache again into use. But nowhere except in its Spanish home did the mustache rise so extravagantly as with the German emperor and his imitators.

In Spain all kinds of artificial means, such as bandages and coverings, were employed to compel the mustache to keep this unnatural upward position, and in looking at the paintings of Velasquez or Murillo one can easily understand that without such coercive measures a true full blooded Spaniard could never have realized his ideal mustache.—Minneapolis Journal.

In the House of Commons.

In the days of Burke, Pitt and Fox members of the house of commons used to relieve the tedium of debate by sucking oranges and cracking nuts while lying full length on the benches, and Brougham made his great six hours' speech on law reform in 1828 with a hatful of oranges by his side for refreshment. Joseph Hume found solace in pears, which he took from his bulging pockets and munched by the hour, leaning the while against his favorite post. No wonder oranges were so popular, since their vender (one of them, at any rate) was a picturesque girl who used to sit with her wares in the lobby, attired in a "sprigged muslin gown with a gauze neckerchief" or in the glory of "clean white silk stockings, Turkey leather shoes and plaid silk petticoat, becomingly short."—Westminster Gazette.

The Tarantula.

Whether the tarantula is ever a death dealer or not is a disputed point. However, there seems to be no doubt that the bite of this spider-like creature inflicts one of the most painful wounds that the human body can endure. Stolid Indians who have borne the tortures of the sun dance without flinching have been known to roll upon the ground and shriek in agony when bitten by a tarantula, which leaves a livid scar that never grows dim. It is possible that the tarantula bite sometimes proves fatal, although it is difficult to find a well authenticated instance of this kind.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Just Got It Out.

"Why in the name of goodness," exclaimed a man to an acquaintance, "do you keep taking out your watch? Going to catch a train?" "Well, no," answered the other. "To tell you the truth, I haven't seen my watch for a long time."

A large number was present both morning and afternoon, and taken as a whole could be termed a success. The several events were interesting, being won by the schools in the order of Hillsboro 1st, Henniker 2d, Antrim 3d. Base ball in the morning was 7 to 6 in favor of Hillsboro, playing with Antrim; afternoon game, Henniker vs. Hillsboro, won by Henniker 16 to 4.

Memorial exercises were observed as usual in this place. At 10 a. m. a procession formed at town house, headed by Henniker Cadet Band with the Gen. Taylor Engine Co., and Henniker Cadets as escorts. The veterans were furnished with teams to ride. The line proceeded to the cemetery where prayer was offered and decoration exercises carried out. Return was made to town common and decorated the old cemetery after which exercises consisted of speaking and singing by the school children and an oration was delivered by Prof. Lincoln to the unknown dead. At 12 o'clock dinner by the Improvement Society was served in lower town hall to all those who participated in the exercises of the day, veterans and wives, band, escorts, firemen and cadets. At 2 p. m. exercises were held at upper town hall, consisting of music by band and quartette, recitations by high school pupils, etc. Address was given by Rev. Chas. N. A Mountain of Alum.

In China, twelve and a half miles from the village of Loucheh, there is a mountain of alum which in addition to being a natural curiosity is a source of wealth for the inhabitants of the country, who dig from it yearly tons of alum. The mountain is not less than ten miles in circumference at its base and has a height of 1,940 feet. The alum is obtained by quarrying large blocks of stone, which are first heated in great furnaces and then in vats filled with boiling water. The alum crystallizes out and forms a layer about six inches in thickness. This layer is subsequently broken up into blocks weighing about ten-pounds each.

"Travel forms the young" is a French proverb. So it does, and it also helps a teacher to become formative. Travel is good for teachers professionally, because travel is a teacher itself.
