UNITY AND HARMONY SAYS CAREW

Youthful New Hampshire Poet Addresses Prohibition Convention at Concord

Harold D. Carew, of Peterboro, N. H., one of New Hampshire's youngest literateurs, was one of the speakers who addressed the Prohibition State Convention, which met in the Knight's of Malta Hall in the Capital City, Wednesday, July 29.

In his address Carew brought out many good points maintaining that success is due only by unity and harmony in the party. In speaking of Prohibition he said: "We are the political party, and our platform is the suppression of the liquor traffic. Our issues are not radical, but conservative; our espousal is not theoretical, but practical." And in speaking of the work to be done, he continued: "This work can and must be carried on. Conditions of the country demand it. But it cannot be continued by coercion, it must be by sound, logical proof of its necessity. In this prolific age the world is calling for young men of the true patriotic principle. The young man of to-day is the leader of to-morrow. It is he who must become an actor on the stage of our national progression; it is he upon whom the country is depending for the welfare of her people, for protection from the inclement contingencies of time, and from the storm of criticism by which she is buffeted."

He also believes that the conditions and state prohibitory laws of Oklahoma, Georgia and Mississippi are ostensibly drastic, and says that its result will undoubtedly be a continuance of the passage of such bills in the legislatures of states throughout the Union.

Having considered the question of the liquor traffic, which is the first plank of the party ticket, he assumes a new aspect. We have seen through recent presidential administrations great improvements: the amelioration of the condition of wage workers; the complete overthrow of preferences, rebates, and discriminations; the prosecution of illegal trusts and monopolies; the acrimonious procedure against evil doers; and the forward step of social reform. But have we seen the liquor question foremost among the primary proceedings? Has there, moreover, been a decided wave for political reform?

In closing, the young orator held his hearers as he said: "Let us develop the new spirit of reform, so that when we shall have completed our work and attained the paramount object of our endeavors, we can reconnoitre the past and feel that whatever we may have espoused was from a sense of duty, whose unfallible reality is an inherent love for liberty, justice, and truth."

A Very Successful Fair.

The annual Fair and Entertainment of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church was held at town hall on Wednesday last and proved to be one of the most pleasant and largely attended social affairs of the season. The hall was decorated in colors and the array of booths with their brilliant decorations was especially pleasing.

Among the booths were the fancy-work and apron tables presided over by Mrs. Charles Balch, Mrs. H. W. Eldredge, Mrs. Emily Roach; popcorn booth, in charge of Miss May Ashford; booth where home-made candy found a ready sale presided over by the Misses Alice Markey and Edith B. Hunt; ice cream booth in charge of Mrs. Charles F. Carter, Mrs. Lena Bottgenbach, Mrs. C. H. Boutelle and Mrs. John Murray; home-made cakes presided over by Mrs. Fred J. Roberts and Miss Alice M. Clapp.

In the evening, a singing school of "ye olden time" was presented before a crowded house. The parts were all well taken and occasioned much merriment. In addition to this, there were solos by Miss Ethel Ellinwood, Alfred T. Balch, George Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Godfrey of Dorchester, Mass. The committee in charge of the evening entertainment were Mrs. George W. Hunt and Miss Charlotte E. Balch.

A large, handsomely decorated cake was presented to Mr. and Mrs. William Hill, who on Tuesday observed their forty-ninth wedding anniversary and are prominent in the work of Woodbury Memorial church.

The proceeds of the afternoon and evening amounted to $140.00

A New Dam at Gregg's

It is probable that soon there will be erected at the outlet of Gregg pond, near the ice house, a new and substantial dam to supplement the one which has been there for about 35 years. The first intimation of such need was last week when a leak was discovered and of such a nature as to cause some alarm. An engineer was summoned and on investigation it was seen that something must be done at once.

Above the dam on the east shore of the pond is now being built a coffer-dam to hold back the water while the work on new dam is in progress. This is a large sheet of water held back by the dam, and the interested ones—those who have factories on the stream—consider it good policy to take this extra precaution, especially as at times the pond gets very high and the danger is thereby increased.

Those residing on the banks of the stream have nothing to fear as every precaution is being taken and the management can be trusted to do everything as it should be and protect the interests of every one who is the least bit concerned.

Watch for program of band entertainment on Friday evening.

Was 94 Saturday

Rev. William Hurlin, the oldest active minister in New England and probably in the United States, observed his 94th birthday on Saturday last. Mr. Hurlin is a native of London, England, where he was born, July 31, 1814; he preached his first sermon before a London audience in the spring of 1835, and for over 78 years has been actively engaged as a minister of the gospel, during this time he has preached over 6400 sermons, officiated at nearly 300 funerals and solemnized many marriages.

For five years he served as lay preacher in London and suburbs, and in 1840 was appointed city missionary in London, holding the position nine years. In 1849, because of failing health, he with his wife and children sailed for America and settled in Vermont, where was pastor of a Freewill Baptist church in North Danville, and later serving in Acton, Me., and Amesbury, Mass.

Mr. Hurlin transferred his ecclesiastical relation to the Baptist denomination in 1855 and was pastor of churches in Acton, Damariscotta Mills, and China, Me. In 1866 he came to Antrim and served as pastor of the Baptist church for seven years, later going to Plaistow, and Goshen; thirty years ago he removed to Antrim, which has since been his home.

For 22 years he was the efficient secretary of the New Hampshire Baptist convention, and for nearly forty years has been a member of the board of the convention, was sixteen years treasurer of the conference of Baptist ministers in New Hampshire, and is the oldest member of the board of managers of the New Hampshire Baptist Historical society, and to-day he enjoys the distinction of being a vice president of the American Baptist Historical society, with headquarters at Philadelphia.

Mr. Hurlin has been an able and honored writer for both the secular as well as the religious press, and is the author of several important historical sketches.

On Dec. 25, 1836, Mr. Hurlin was married to Miss Harriett Brown of London, who passed away in 1905, after a companionship of over 69 years. Seven children were born of this union, of whom four reside in Antrim.

Although so near the century mark, Mr. Hurlin reads readily without the use of glasses, and is unusually erect in carriage. He has always had an interest in the progress of the town and is prominent in its best welfare, enjoying the highest respect and esteem of all classes and denominations in this town. It is the earnest wish of all for more years of useful life of the venerable gentleman.

State Trade Report

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade of the past week said:

Trade reports continue to indicate moderate net gains each week, although progress is irregular. Some sections make much better exhibits than others, the Southwest leading, while improvement is slowest at the East. There is also a similar irregularity in returns from the industries, some occupations gaining steadily, while others proceed erratically. The net result, however, is a larger volume of business in the aggregate.

Many inquiries are received in the primary market for cotton goods, and there is a hopeful feeling regarding the future, but actual transactions are still restricted. Purchases so long have been of a hand to mouth nature that more or less frequent sales are necessary to meet the wants of the trade, but speculative operations are almost unknown.

New England shoe manufacturers report business quiet since the departure of Western wholesalers, and mail orders are not large. Jobbers who recently visited the Boston market did not place more than half the business of the same time last year, and unless mail orders increase before September some plants will be compelled to go on part time again. It is expected, however, that this supplementary business will soon reappear, salesmen on the road reporting that the wholesalers have worked off the surplus stocks carried early in the year.

ANTRIM'S EARLY HISTORY

From this time on, as we have opportunity, in this column will be given some of our town's early history, being mostly extracts from Dr. Whiton's History, covering a period between the years 1744 and 1844.

Extract Number Twenty-seven

OF THE REPORTER'S SPECIAL SERIES.

David, resides in Antrim, quite aged.

BENJ. GRACE, a cousin of Samuel, came here as a resident, 1779, and began the Edward L. Vose place, at the Centre. Both he and Samuel had probably worked on their land a year or two before their permanent residence. He remained here about twelve years, sold his farm to Samuel Caldwell, and returned to Londonderry.

WILLIAM McDOLLE came from Goffstown, 1779, began the farm of Wm. S. Foster, buying the land at a quarter of a dollar per acre, resided there till 1804, then removed his family to Langgrove, Vt. He has since died.

THOMAS ENGLISH took up his abode in Antrim, 1779, or 1780; lived on the Tuttle hill, on the old road from Branch Village to Madison Tuttle's; had been a fifer in the revolutionary service; absconded, 1782, with a sum of money belonging to the town, who layed an attachment on his land, and afterwards made some sort of a compromise with his friends.

SAMUEL DINSMOOR, a son of John D., of Windham, and a grandson, on his mother's side, of Justice McKean, one of the earliest magistrates of Londonderry, came here, 1780; was working on his land on the dark day of that year. Died, 1822, aged 60. He was cousin of the elder Gov. Dinsmoor; was succeeded on his farm, first, by his son, Col. Silas Dinsmoor, now of Stoddard; afterwards by another son, Samuel, the present owner.

He had a brother, James, who began, 1779, the Zadoc Dodge farm, and was killed by a fall from the first meeting-house, 1780.

Another brother, Silas, a man of wit and shrewdness, was employed by government as an agent in Indian affairs. He is said to have lost his office by a witticism. Receiving in a letter from the Head of the Department, the inquiry, "How far Tombigbee ran up into the country?"—he replied, "The river ran down, and not up at all." The next communication from the seat of government brought him a dismissal from his office.

MAJOR RILEY, son of Philip, the first settler, began about 1780, the original Elijah Gould farm, removed to a place within the limits of Deering, and died, years ago, at an advanced age.

NATHAN AUSTIN, who had lived in Pelham and Hudson, commenced the clearing of the Danforth farm, west of Elijah Gould's, 1780, resided there at least twenty years, removed to Rochester, Vt., and died a few years since. Many of his descendants are at the west.

SAMUEL PATTEN emigrated to Antrim from Bedford, 1780, made a farm on the lofty hill still bearing his name, and lived there, it is believed, not far from fifteen years. He was well known as Capt. Patten; was a respectable citizen and selectman; was a grandson of John Patten, an emigrant from Ireland to America, 1728, and a brother of Hon. Matthew Patten, of Bedford, the second judge of probate for the county of Hillsboro', Capt. Patten, finding his residence on the hill lonely, and in winter almost inaccessible, removed his family into the State of Maine.

JAMES STEELE, son of Thomas, one of the first sixteen settlers of Londonderry, removed his family from that place to Antrim, 1780, began the cultivation of the farm now owned by his grandson, Dea. Robert Steele, lived to the great age of almost 95, and died, 1820. Two of his sons emigrated, many years ago, to Carolina. Two other sons became permanent inhabitants of Antrim; James, who for many years was the owner of the Asa Goodell farm, died, 1826, aged 68; and Samuel, the father of Dea. Robert S., who died, 1843, aged 80—both were respectable, substantial citizens. Several of the daughters of the first James married and resided in Antrim, of whom Susannah, widow of the late Dea. Spaulding, of Hillsboro', was the last survivor, dying 1850, and leaving bequests of several hundred dollars to religious charities.

SIMEON GEORGE removed from Newburyport to Antrim, 1781, and lived at first in a log-house near the rose-bushes still flourishing a little west of Dea. Nichols'. Several adult sons came here with him; David, who lived near a clump of apple trees in the north-west corner of Steven Paige's pasture; Michael, who began the Dea. Wilkins farm; and Simeon, who lived in a log-house once standing in Geo. F. Parmenter's field, and afterwards built a frame house on the spot at this day occupied by Dea. Nichols' dwelling. Mr. George, and his sons, David and Michael, had served in the war of the Independence. The various branches of the George family removed, about 1795, to the State of New-York.

SAMUEL AND DANIEL DOWNING, brothers, came here from Newburyport, probably about 1781. Samuel began the Stephen Butterfield farm, lived afterwards in a log-house south-west of Mr. Bond's, and removed from town. Daniel commenced the cultivation of the farm now occupied by the widow of Wm. Wilkins, and not far from 1792 removed to Milford.

JOHN AND WILLIAM McILVAINE, brothers, were sons of Daniel, an emigrant from Ireland, who settled in Windham

Sousa Visits Coliseum

Famous Band Master Pronounces Acoustics of the Mammoth Exposition of the Boston Food Fair in Park Square Perfect

John Phillip Sousa, the world's most famous band master, who with his famous band of 65 pieces—the largest organization he has ever brought to Boston—will be one of the leading musical features of the 7th Annual Original Boston Food Fair, is as particular about the acoustics of the building in which his musicians play as he is in regard to the perfection and care of their instruments.

This explains why he left his pleasant summer home to visit Boston last week. He came purposely to inspect the Park Square Coliseum and to determine what, if any, steps should be taken to make its acoustics perfect. The result of the trip was Sousa's enthusiastic report to the Boston Food Fair management that the Coliseum's acoustic properties were ideal and that nothing whatever need be done. He made the test, not only with band instruments, but with one of the several vocal soloists who will appear in connection with his band concerts both here and on his farewell tour of the world which immediately follows his Boston Food Fair engagement.

It is worthy of note and of the most pleasurable anticipation that the Boston Retail Grocers' Association, under whose auspices this big Exposition is held, will make it a great musical event. In fact, in respect to bands, musicians, leaders, vocal soloists, and music, the Boston Food Fair, as a musical event, will early prove the most notable in New England, if not in this country, since the famous World's Peace Jubilee held in this city over 30 years ago.

State Trade Report

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade of the past week said:

Trade reports continue to indicate moderate net gains each week, although progress is irregular. Some sections make much better exhibits than others, the Southwest leading, while improvement is slowest at the East. There is also a similar irregularity in returns from the industries, some occupations gaining steadily, while others proceed erratically. The net result, however, is a larger volume of business in the aggregate.

Many inquiries are received in the primary market for cotton goods, and there is a hopeful feeling regarding the future, but actual transactions are still restricted. Purchases so long have been of a hand to mouth nature that more or less frequent sales are necessary to meet the wants of the trade, but speculative operations are almost unknown.

New England shoe manufacturers report business quiet since the departure of Western wholesalers, and mail orders are not large. Jobbers who recently visited the Boston market did not place more than half the business of the same time last year, and unless mail orders increase before September some plants will be compelled to go on part time again. It is expected, however, that this supplementary business will soon reappear, salesmen on the road reporting that the wholesalers have worked off the surplus stocks carried early in the year.

ANTRIM'S EARLY HISTORY

From this time on, as we have opportunity, in this column will be given some of our town's early history, being mostly extracts from Dr. Whiton's History, covering a period between the years 1744 and 1844.

Extract Number Twenty-seven

OF THE REPORTER'S SPECIAL SERIES.

David, resides in Antrim, quite aged.

BENJ. GRACE, a cousin of Samuel, came here as a resident, 1779, and began the Edward L. Vose place, at the Centre. Both he and Samuel had probably worked on their land a year or two before their permanent residence. He remained here about twelve years, sold his farm to Samuel Caldwell, and returned to Londonderry.

WILLIAM McDOLLE came from Goffstown, 1779, began the farm of Wm. S. Foster, buying the land at a quarter of a dollar per acre, resided there till 1807, then removed his family to Lansgrove, Vt. He has since died.

THOMAS ENGLISH took up his abode in Antrim, 1779, or 1780; lived on the Tuttle hill, on the old road from Branch Village to Madison Tuttle's; had been a fier in the revolutionary service; absconded, 1782, with a sum of money belonging to the town, who layed an attachment on his land, and afterwards made some sort of a compromise with his friends.

SAMUEL DINSMOOR, a son of John D., of Windham, and a grandson, on his mother's side, of Justice McKean, one of the earliest magistrates of Londonderry, came here, 1780; was working on his land on the dark day of that year. Died, 1822, aged 66. He was cousin of the elder Gov. Dinsmoor; was succeeded on his farm, first, by his son, Col. Silas Dinsmoor, now of Stoddard; afterwards by another son, Samuel, the present owner.

He had a brother, James, who began, 1779, the Zadock Dodge farm, and was killed by a fall from the first meeting-house, 1786.

Another brother, Silas, a man of wit and shrewdness, was employed by government as an agent in Indian affairs. He is said to have lost his office by a witticism. Receiving in a letter from the Head of the Department, the inquiry, "How far Tombigbee ran up into the country?"—he replied, "The river ran down, and not up at all." The next communication from the seat of government brought him a dismissal from his office.

MAJOR RILEY, son of Philip, the first settler, began about 1780, the original Elijah Gould farm, removed to a place within the limits of Deering, and died, years ago, at an advanced age.

NATHAN AUSTIN, who had lived in Pelham and Hudson, commenced the clearing of the Danforth farm, west of Elijah Gould's, 1780, resided there at least twenty years, removed to Rochester, Vt., and died a few years since. Many of his descendants are at the west.

SAMUEL PATTEN emigrated to Antrim from Bedford, 1780, made a farm on the lofty hill still bearing his name, and lived there, it is believed, not far from fifteen years. He was well known as Capt. Patten; was a respectable citizen and selectman; was a grandson of John Patten, an emigrant from Ireland to America, 1728, and a brother of Hon. Matthew Patten, of Bedford, the second judge of probate for the county of Hillsboro'. Capt. Patten, finding his residence on the hill lonely, and it winter almost inaccessible, removed his family into the State of Maine.

JAMES STEELE, son of Thomas, one of the first sixteen settlers of Londonderry, removed his family from that place to Antrim, 1780, began the cultivation of the farm now owned by his grandson, Dea. Robert Steele, lived to the great age of almost 95, and died, 1820. Two of his sons emigrated, many years ago, to Carolina. Two other sons became permanent inhabitants of Antrim; James, who for many years was the owner of the Asa Goodell farm, died, 1826, aged 68; and Samuel, the father of Dea. Robert S., who died, 1843, aged 80—both were respectable, substantial citizens. Several of the daughters of the first James married and resided in Antrim, of whom Susannah, widow of the late Dea. Spanling, of Hillsboro', was the last survivor, dying 1850, and leaving bequests of several hundred dollars to religious charities.

SIMEON GEORGE removed from Newburyport to Antrim, 1781, and lived at first in a log-house near the rose-bushes still flourishing a little west of Dea. Nichols'. Several adult sons came here with him; David, who lived near a clump of apple-trees in the north-west corner of Steven Paige's pasture; Michael, who began the Dea. Wilkins farm; and Simeon, who lived in a log-house once standing in Geo. F. Parmenter's field, and afterwards built a frame house on the spot at this day occupied by Dea. Nichols' dwelling. Mr. George, and his sons, David and Michael, had served in the war of the Independence. The various branches of the George family removed, about 1795, to the State of New-York.

SAMUEL AND DANIEL DOWNING, brothers, came here from Newburyport, probably about 1781. Samuel began the Stephen Butterfield farm, lived afterwards in a log-house southwest of Mr. Bond's, and removed from town. Daniel commenced the cultivation of the farm now occupied by the widow of Wm. Wilkins, and not far from 1792 removed to Mahan.

JOHN AND WILLIAM McILVAINE, brothers, were sons of Daniel, an emigrant from Ireland, who settled in Wipham

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflammation of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Mr. Adams said: "Three years ago I was taken with kidney disease very badly; at times I was completely prostrated; in fact, was so bad that the day was set for the doctors to perform an operation upon me. But I decided I would not submit. I had been put in hot water baths, and, in fact, nearly every means was tried to help me. Upon the day set for the operation I commenced the use of

ANTRIM PHARMACY

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood. It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone. If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

THEY WENT TO CHURCH.

A Bit of Strategy That Won For the Minister.

"When Bishop Wilmer was rector of the little Protestant Episcopal church at Upperville, Va.," said a Virginia minister, "he was much worried by the nonattendance at service on Sundays of the majority of the young men of the community. On inquiry he found that instead of going to church they were in the habit of playing marbles for stakes. Marbles in those days, it must be remembered, was a much more serious game than it is now, occupying much the same position in the realm of sports as do billiards and pool in these days.

"Bishop Wilmer, then a 'parson' not well known, determined to break up this practice. He himself had been an expert marble player in his boyhood. Accordingly one Saturday he came across a number of the young men engaged in a game. The good bishop asked several questions and finally challenged the lot to play him for 'keeps.' They readily consented. "Much to their astonishment, the young minister won steadily, and soon they had to go to the stores to replenish their stock." Toward the close of the afternoon Mr. Wilmer had won every marble in the town of Upperville. Putting his winnings in a bag, he remarked as he walked away, "Now, gentlemen, since you can't play marbles tomorrow I hope to see you all at church." And he did.—New York Tribune.

THE IVORY HUNTER.

Troubles Begin When He Has to Get Ivory Out of the Jungle.

First catch your ivory, then get it home—if you can. A man's troubles have barely begun when the tusks of the fallen monsters are chopped out, wrapped in sack and taken back to camp. Each weighs 50 or even 100 pounds. I have seen specimens that are on record as tipping the scales at 250 pounds. Suppose I have got together $100,000 worth of fine ivory I can perhaps a thousand miles from anywhere with this load of 50,000 or 60,000 pounds. There are no railroads, no wheeled vehicles, even no draft animals. The stuff must be carried across the wilds of Africa on the backs of native porters, who think nothing of dropping their loads and deserting if the fancy happens to seize them. The worst of the hunting is nothing to what such a homeward march may mean. I have had my men shot down by hostile tribes from ambush with poisoned arrows. I have seen them die in agony from the bites of noxious insects. I have been attacked by bands of ivory as well as I did and who tried to help themselves to mine.—Everybody's Magazine.

Claremont, N. H., Feb. 11, 1901.

Dr. H. Sanche & Co., New York,

Dear Sirs:—

I rejoice to have the chance given me to answer your question. Has Oxydonor given entire satisfaction? It has!

I hold it to be one of the greatest discoveries of the 19th century. For three years I have used it with ever increasing sense of its value. At the start it wrought a permanent cure of Rheumatism in my left shoulder; of Tonsillitis in my youngest child, and it has since easily and successfully combated whatever ills have assailed my family. Its potency in dissipating an attack of Grippe is especially to be noted.

Wishing that every family in the land might have an Oxydonor. I am,

From a Sane Point of View.

How many there are who really believe that if the Republican party is continued in power the country will go to the bow-wows! And it is safe to say that there just as many who know that if the result of the coming election should be Democratic there will be no more prosperity during their reign! How utterly absurd!

To illustrate how the thing is worked just read the following clipping from the Springfield Republican:

An order for $100,000 worth of automobile gas engines has been received by a western motor manufacturing company, subject to the condition that it may be cancelled in case of Bryan's election. This has a familiar sound; it also rings viciously if listened to attentively. There is no occasion for business concerns to resort to these tactics, so generally employed in 1896 to elect one presidential ticket and defeat another. They would have the effect of suspending business activities throughout the greater part of the rest of the year, and would be so resented by all reasonable-minded people as to help rather than hurt the Bryan ticket. That prosperity association can do no better work than to suppress any such tendency as this among the business houses. The logic of it is to destroy all effective political opposition and keep the party in power there forever. If there is anything more genuinely un-American than this practice, pray what is it?

And witness the following extract from the same source setting forth the common sense side of the question.

The declaration of M. E. Ingalls, the well-known railroad man, that he proposes to support Bryan, and believes that whether the election goes to Taft or Bryan business will not be upset, is in the line of good sense and of such confidence in the wisdom and good sense of the American people as we all ought to cherish. Grover Cleveland upset the old republican theory that no democrat was fit to rule the country, so far as the occupant of the presidential chair does this. It is thoroughly unpatriotic for any man to contend that a change in the personnel of the federal government would mean ruin to business. If this were true, then the business of the country rests upon a most unstable basis. The great mass of business men in the country are sensibly attending to business, and worrying little about politics. More than ever before in our history is this true. This is the sensible and stable position to take, and the one that will best insure the future. Even the partisan hot-heads are more composed than they used to be.

Prohibitionists Nominate Tetley for Governor.

The Prohibitionists of New Hampshire in state convention last Wednesday nominated Edmund B. Tetley of Meredith for governor, and the following Presidential electors: John S. Blanchard, Concord; George Locke, Hinsdale; Roger E. Thompson, Franklin; and Thomas H. Scammon of Hopkinton. At the congressional conventions, A. H. Morrill of Laconia and Samuel T. Noyes of Colebrook in the second district. The platform demands the repeal of state license law.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold

A. S. Nusbaum, Batesville, Indiana, writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success."

The Antrim Improvement Society, through its representative, F. C. Parmenter, still manifests itself in making the town more attractive. ### WORTH KNOWING.

To remove Pimples, Blackheads, Blisters and all forms of Skin eruptions, is, according to a well known Physician, a very easy matter; he says that many are afflicted with some one of the above ailments, and are subject to a great deal of embarrassment on account of the unsightly appearance which they present, and recommends the following simple harmless and inexpensive treatment. Go to your druggist and get this prescription filled: Clearols one-half ounce, Ether one ounce, Alcohol seven ounces; mix, shake well and apply to the parts effected night and morning, allowing it to remain for at least ten minutes, then wipe off the powder from the skin. Use a soft cloth or sponge in applying the mixture and in from ten days to two weeks your face will be smooth and clear as a marriage bell. Get the Pure Clearols, which is only put up in one-half ounce packages. Ask to see it.

Few persons have any conception of the thought and painstaking art that enter into the making of decorated China—how new shapes are created and new designs are worked out; how the colors and the glass are mixed and applied, and in the heat of the kiln, become a part of the ware.

HUMOR AND ROMANCE.

By W. F. BRYAN.

Copyrighted, 1898, by Associated Literary Press.

"William Thomas Osbon" was the way the name was written in the big family Bible, but since he had graduated from curls and short skirts and "Willie" he had been "Bill" to all the boys and "Will" to all the girls. Only the occasional appearance of a letter addressed in full reminded him that his name was both sonorous and impressive.

Like Peter Pan, Osbon never had grown up. He had arrived at the dignity of a mustache, and since his father's retirement he had more than doubled the capacity and capital of Osbon & Son, yet he was still the same light hearted, apparently care free Bill Osbon that he had been in his boyhood and his college days. Therein lay the source of his great trouble.

From the time she first could toddle about until he had left for college Betty Durand had been his almost constant companion. About the same time she had gone to a finishing school, and when they had returned Osbon found that there had arisen a great barrier between them.

Betty had developed ideals, and her boyish sweetheart—boyish still—did not measure up to her romantic standards. She still liked Osbon except when he spoke of love, but Osbon was too genuinely light hearted to play the lovesick swain, and when he spoke of love with a smile upon his lips Betty was wont to frown.

"It's utterly absurd to ask me to marry you," she had declared. "I like you awfully well, Will, but I must respect and look up to the man I marry."

"I see," was the sign hearted response. "You want to be miserable though married."

Betty frowned again at this exhibition of levity at so important a moment and assured herself that she was right in her refusal to marry Osbon.

Augustus Esterbrooke seemed to answer to Betty's description of an ideal. He was tall, dark, mysterious and handsome in a saturnine way. No one ever dreamed of addressing him as "Gus," and he moved majestically in a little world of his own, where the cares and worries of everyday existence were not permitted to intrude. Esterbrooke had inherited wealth and estates, wherefore he despised the little things of prosaic everyday life.

It was characteristic of Osbon that he smiled as he saw the majestic Esterbrooke escorting Betty down the dock at the end of which lay the little steamer chartered for the Sunday school excursion down the lake.

Osbon was keenly conscious that he wanted Betty to be his companion, as she had always been in those early years when they had eaten a mixture of cake and sandwiches and deviled eggs out of the same shoe box and had been supremely content.

It was all different now. Esterbrooke's man solemnly bore an English lunch hamper and rugs and wraps enough for a score.

Betty smiled in friendly fashion upon Osbon, who was darting from crowd to crowd, exchanging a few words here, giving a word of greeting there and doing his best to inspire the holiday spirit.

He paused for a moment to exchange a word with Betty; then Esterbrooke led her off to the upper deck, where they could make themselves comfortable in the shade of the pilothouse. Passengers were not allowed on the upper deck, but Esterbrooke held a block of stock in the transportation company owning the feet of three steamers plying the lake, and he was a privileged person.

The pair were not again visible to the rest of the passengers until the grove was reached; then the servant spread the rugs, made coffee by the aid of an alcohol stove and served the lunch.

Esterbrooke and Betty wandered away to escape the crowd, and they did not reappear until the boat was ready to leave. Esterbrooke hated crowds, and he had come merely because Betty insisted. He argued to himself that there would be time enough after marriage to bend her to his ways.

When they reached the upper deck he directed the captain to take the back channel on the way home.

"It's a beastly bore to repeat the scenery," he offered in explanation. "The back channel will be a little different."

"The lake is at a pretty low stage," objected the captain. "There are some pretty nasty rocks in the channel, Mr. Esterbrooke."

"Of course if you are afraid"—he began and smiled softly to himself as the captain brought his teeth together with a snap and stepped inside the pilothouse. Esterbrooke had caused the discharge of one of the oldest men in the employ of the line for less than this, and the employees feared and hated him.

Presently the steamer entered the back channel, and Osbon came hurrying up to remonstrate at the risk. He was familiar with the lake, and as the chairman of the excursion committee it was his province to interfere.

The captain referred him to Esterbrooke, and the later smiled as he reminded him that the charter did not specify any particular route. Osbon, beaten, still smiled as he descended the gangway, but half an hour later the steamer struck a reef and held fast.

As the keel grated along the rocky ridge all was confusion, but in the midst of the confusion Osbon's voice rang out clear.

"No danger!" he shouted. "You can get shipwrecked without extra charge, and we'll get our names in the papers! There's a desert island within wading distance, and if we have to we'll all turn Robinson Crusoes."

The joke was inane enough, but it served its point. The confusion died down, and when it was found that the boat was not sinking every one decided to accept the happening as a huge lark.

One of the boats put off with men to wire that the steamer was safe, and Esterbrooke suggested to Betty that they go with the boat. "We can get a rig somewhere and drive into the nearest town," he explained, "and get the night express home. We are a good four miles from shore, and the rest of the party cannot be taken off until the Champion comes along in the morning. There is no steamer at this end of the lake."

Betty shook her head.

"We will stay with the others," she declared, and with no very good grace Esterbrooke led the way back to the upper deck.

"We might as well have some supper," he declared as he motioned to his man, and presently they were lurching off the remnants of the hamper's contents.

The evening fell, and Betty insisted upon going below. Esterbrooke held back as they entered the saloon. Here was a babel of sound. Babies and children cried through hunger and fear, and tired mothers sought ineffectually to secure quiet.

Through the confusion Osbon passed with the assurance that two rowboats had been sent out to forage and that food would presently arrive. His good humor had not failed him, and wherever he passed he left a trail of smiles behind.

At the sight of the mass of rugs borne by Esterbrooke's man Osbon's eye brightened, and after seeing that Betty was made comfortable the rest were commandeered for the women and children. Esterbrooke ventured a protest, but for once Osbon forgot to smile.

"Your order got us into this hole," he said fiercely. "If I hear another word from you I'll throw you overboard."

He looked as though he longed to do it, and Esterbrooke subsided with a suddenness that was surprising.

The return of the boats with such stores as they could obtain helped to lessen the discomfort. Osbon dealt out the supplies with a careful hand and a cheery word, and presently the women and children sought rest on the lower deck and smoked and slept as their fancy dictated.

Esterbrooke, finding the situation intolerable, at last engaged some of the crew to put him ashore. When the morning sun began to paint the east and Betty came out of the cabin for a breath of fresh air she found Osbon leaning against a pillar and searching the horizon for the smoke that should signal the advent of the rescuing steamer.

"You have been up all night?" she asked, with quick sympathy.

Osbon nodded.

"I never did like to sleep in a coal bin," he explained. "This was hard coal too."

"How did Mr. Esterbrooke stand it?" she asked.

"He went ashore," explained Osbon. "He felt assured that you would be looked after."

"With you on board," assented Betty tenderly. "You were a host in yourself, dear. I—I guess I love you even if you are not romantic."

"Good humor is better than romance sometimes," he said softly as he took her in his arms. "But I never thought that it would win you for me, dear."

Betty looked into the heavy lids of his now glowing with affection, and saw the man behind the harshness. "With you on board," she shyly said. "I'll be glad to go with you."

This woman says she was saved from an operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lena V. Henry, of Norristown, Ga., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I suffered untold misery from female troubles. My doctor said an operation was the only chance I had, and I dreaded it almost as much as death.

"One day I read how other women had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I decided to try it. Before I had taken the first bottle I was better, and now I am entirely cured.

"Every woman suffering with any female trouble should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

balance between the waste which the body accumulates and the amount it is able to throw off. During youth the balance is perfect, because the body has more than its normal vitality and strength to throw off the waste matter, but as we grow older this perfect balance becomes destroyed from one cause or another.

The strength that should go to eliminating impurities from the body is not husbanded, but rather squandered in different ways. Then, too, we eat and drink those things that cause excessive waste. An impure diet composed of foods containing uric acid, such as meat, or of drinks containing poisons, such as tea and coffee, taxes the eliminative powers, and, when the time comes when these give way a state of imperfect elimination has set in, and the wastes in part are deposited in the system, settling in the arteries and joints of the body and accumulating until they become obstructive elements.

The blood stream circulates imperfectly, and when once this condition exists bad functioning of every organ of the body results, and old age and death gradually ensue.

Mind, too, has a great deal to do in hastening or retarding the unpleasant signs of physical decay. Mental science has satisfactorily demonstrated that mean, narrow, selfish and unpleasant thoughts act destructively on the tissues of the body, while thoughts of a wholesome and positive character act constructively.

And when the curtains of "the windows of the soul" are drawn, when the temple's door is closed and a stifling silence is within, when the spirit passes the threshold to take up a newer and finer edifice of its own creation, science assures us that the body lives on. Here at least physical immortality is an assured fact.

Theology has irreligiously taught us that the body returns to inanimate dust. The religious answer of science is that it returns to God. The latest word in the field of biology is that all nature, including the all-mother soil, is animated and hallowed with the divine principle of life.

More than this, matter is indestructible and eternal. There is not an atom that can be lost in all the universe. For this reason our bodies do not really die. They are in the care of the angels of the elements.

The peculiar cellular arrangement that formed them into a beautiful body may be caused to disintegrate through the action of the oxygen upon it, time may change the position of the atoms composing it, but the latter still contain within themselves the sacred and eternal principle of life as much as does the soul, and they exist only to enter into new and perhaps more beautiful combinations of life.—Health.

Quaint Old Colonial Document.

New Amsterdam had been in British hands four years when this quaint and curious customs order, the oldest in existence, was penned:

"Instructions for Mr. Cornelius Van Ruyven, Collector of the Customs in the City of New York by Order of Colonel Francis Lovelace, Governour, May 24, 1668.

"You or y<sup>r</sup> clerk are to be dayly at ye Custome House from nine in ye morning untill twelve at noone. There to receive ye Customes both in and out, as the Merchants shall come & enter, ye merchant is to make foure Bills and signe them with his hand, writing his name to them, & ye same time, when you have signed ye Warrant, or one of ye Bills, you are to demand ye Custome, either in kinde at 10 P Cent upwards or double ye value of its first Cost in Holland, in Beaver. And likewise outwards for Peltry you are to receive 10½ P Cent according to ye value in Beaver, for Tobacco one half penny Pr. pound Sterg; which is noe more than all Englishmen doe pay. . . . You to tell ye Merchant you are not to give credit. . . . If they doe not like your propositions, you are not to pass their Bills. . . .

"And Lastly pray lett ye Books be kept all in English and all Factoryes and Papers, that when I have occasion to satisfy myself I may better understand them."

Bismarck's Love of Nature.

Speaking of the country and the long walks he took daily, Bismarck said he loved nature, but the amount of life he saw awed him, and it took a great deal of faith to believe that an "all seeing eye" could notice every living atom when one realized what it meant. "Have you ever sat on the grass and examined it closely? There is enough life in one square yard to appall you," he said.—Lady Randolph Churchill.

MISLEADING NAMES.

Terms in Science That Belie the Products to Which They Apply.

There are terms in certain departments of science that positively misname the products to which they are applied.

The word "oil" in its more comprehensive and indiscriminate uses is made to include hydrocarbons, like petroleum, and also many other substances that have an oily appearance, like "oil of vitriol," which is not oil at all, but sulphuric acid.

Strictly speaking, the mineral oils, including all petroleum products, are not oil, although we speak of "coal oil" and "kerosene oil."

The best classifications of oils do not include mineral hydrocarbons, like naphtha, paraffin and petroleum, but treat only the two well defined groups—fixed oils and fats and the essential or volatile oils.

"Copperas" is not copper, but sulphate of iron. "Salt of lemon" has nothing to do with the fruit of the lemon tree, but is potassium binoxalate or potash treated with oxalic acid.

"Carbolic acid" is not an acid, but a phenol. In structure it is allied to the alcohols and has only slight acid properties. "Soda water" has no trace of soda. "Sulphuric acid" contains no sulphur. "Sugar of lead" is innocent of sugar.

"Cream of tartar" has nothing to do with cream nor "milk of lime" with milk. "German silver" is a stranger to silver, and "black lead" is not lead at all, but graphite. "Mosaic gold" is a sulphide of tin.

These misleading names have come down from the vocabulary of an early and inexact chemistry. As popular science extends the old terms are yielding to the more scientific nomenclature.

JOKED HIMSELF IN.

How "Private" John Allen Got Himself Elected to Congress.

Here is Champ Clark's defense of humor, if it needs one:

"The dry-as-dusts solemnly asseverate that humor never did any good. Now, let's see. How did 'Private' John Allen of Mississippi get to congress? Joked himself in. One bit of humor sent him to Washington, a national lawmaker. Opposing him for the congressional nomination was the Confederate General Tucker. They met on the stump. General Tucker closed one of his speeches as follows:

"Seventeen years ago tonight, my fellow citizens, after a hard fought battle on yonder hill, I bivouacked under yonder clump of trees. Those of you who remember as I do the times that tried men's souls will not, I hope, forget their humble servant when the primaries shall be held."

"That was a strong appeal in those days, but John raised the general at his own game. 'My fellow citizens,' he said, 'what General Tucker says to you about bivouacking under yonder clump of trees is true. It is also true, my fellow citizens, that I was a redette picket and stood guard over him while he slept. Now, then, fellow citizens, all you who were generals and had privates to stand over you while you slept vote for General Tucker, and all of you who were privates and stood guard over the generals while they slept vote for Private John Allen.' The people caught on, took John at his word and sent him to congress, where he stayed until the world was filled with his renown."

Alcohol Devices Stoves, Lamps, Flat Irons Utility Burners

We called your Attention some weeks ago to our experiments with the new Alcohol-burning Domestic Utensils, we now have the benefit of actual tests in a great variety of homes and public houses. We can tell you what the points are and also where you might possibly find weak ones.

The Sale has Many Times Over Exceeded Our Expectations.

Alcohol-burning Devices are coming into very general use in homes even at the present price of fuel, and if the price of denatured Alcohol drops to anywhere near what is predicted it will entirely supersede kerosene for many uses.

We Are Now Able to Supply Any of The Devices You Wish.

Others like ourselves who dared venture in this matter have found the demand much greater than was expected and as the Utensils are mostly imported from Germany, or were early in the season, but are now made in this country, it has been impossible to get orders filled but we have at last succeeded in filling all orders and getting a stock ahead.

It will give us pleasure by demonstration to call attention to their merit, and will put any of them in any reliable family for trial.
