- Hymn, America
- Benediction

Should the weather prove unfavorable, service will be held in Grange Hall.

The following notices relative to the 3 p.m. Sunday meeting, please take note:

All singers are requested to report at the platform as near 2.45 as possible. Printed programs will be circulated.

Teams—Those wishing conveyance to Meeting-house Hill Sunday, Aug. 16th, for 3 p.m. service, please leave names at Cram's store on or before Friday evening, Aug. 14th; fare upon application. The hill top may be reached with team from the old road opposite Ira Hutchinson's or via Grange Hall.

The Old Home committee appreciate the promptness put forth by several towns-people in doing their outside renovating at this time, for certainly ours is a village of unusual attractiveness, and any special decorations for the day would certainly add harmony to the occasion.

The 19th. the Day we Celebrate, will open at 6 a.m. with ringing of the town's bells (excepting the Baptist, as this is a fire bell).

8.30 to 10 a.m. the James A. Tuttle library will be open to inspection and the library reception committee will answer all questions appertaining to time and place.

The committee on Historical display have worked hard to make this feature a success and their labors have been amply rewarded by the willingness on the part of owners to donate to the collection. The display is certainly of the finest and includes many old and valuable articles.

Dedicatory services of the James A. Tuttle library at the town hall, 10 a.m. Special program to be furnished.

The Antrim Band will furnish music during library inspection and throughout the day.

Basket picnic in Kelsea Grove at 12 o'clock with after dinner speeches by prominent and well-known parties.

The committee trust that all families in the village and out will avail themselves of this opportunity to forget household duties, and swell the number at the grove, that amid music and cheer, all may be young.

There will be two ball games, one at 10 a.m. and one at 3 p.m. on the base ball grounds, West Street between Hillsboro and Antrim. These teams always excite interest and two lively games are predicted.

Band Concert and Entertainment

The second public entertainment by the Antrim Band was held on Friday evening last, and notwithstanding the inclement weather there was a large attendance at the town hall. Included in the program were selections on the piano by Miss Bessie C. Parmenter, instructor of music at Ricker institute, Houlton, Me.; reading, Miss Ethel L. Muzzey; violin solos, Fred Whitney, Jr., and solos and duets, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Godfrey, Dorchester, Mass. Mrs. William R. Mussen assisted as accompanist during the evening. At the close of the entertainment promenading was enjoyed until midnight. Music for the promenading was furnished by the band and by Appleton's orchestra. A generous amount was realized from the sale of home made candies, fruit punch and ice cream and this with the proceeds of the entertainment will be used to finish paying for the new band uniforms and purchase new music.

The concert on the band stand before the entertainment was good and enjoyed by a large number.

The band has every reason to be grateful to the people for their patronage since organization, and in turn the people feel that the members of the band appreciate their help.

The Thirty-second Annual Encampment of the New Hampshire Veterans Association will be held at Camp William Pitt Moses, on the grounds of the Association, at The Weirs, on the shore of Lake Winnepesaukee, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, August 25, 26, 27 and 28, 1908.

A SHORT SPEECH.

Made by an Indian Chief in Reply to a Government Agent.

Old Shah-bah-Skong, the chief of Mille Lac, brought all his warriors to defend Fort Ripley in 1862. The secretary of the interior and the governor and legislature of Minnesota promised these Indians that for this act of bravery they should have the special care of the government and never be removed.

A few years later a special agent was sent from Washington to ask the Ojibways to cede their lands and remove to a country north of Leech lake. The agent asked my help. I said:

"I know that country. I have camped on it. It is the most worthless strip of land in Minnesota. The Indians are not fools. Don't attempt this folly. You will surely come to grief."

He called the Indians in council and said:

"My red brothers, your great father has heard how you have been wronged. He said, 'I will send them an honest man.' He looked in the north, the south, the east and the west. When he saw me, he said, 'This is the honest man whom I will send to my red children.' Brothers, look at me! The winds of fifty-five years have blown over my head and silvered it with gray, and in all that time I have never done wrong to any man. As your friend I ask you to sign this treaty."

Old Shah-bah-Skong sprang to his feet and said:

"My friend, look at me! The winds of more than fifty winters have blown over my head and silvered it with gray, but they have not blown my brains away."

That council was ended.

THE NECK RUFF.

It Reached Its Full Glory in the Sixteenth Century.

One of the most peculiar and interesting evolutions in historic fashion is the growth and development of the ruff in England. This ruff began its career as a humble little something like a tuck running along the top of the chemise from shoulder to shoulder. You can see it grow in the portraits of royal personages slowly, but surely, like a great lily flower opening its plaited petals from generation to generation. During the reign of Henry VII. it was scarcely more than a budding excrescence, but with Henry VIII. it had outgrown its tuck stage to the extent of reaching up to the ears and was beginning to sport a mild flare. Those were the days of such strict sumptuary laws that in order to wear black gemet you must be royal, to wear sable you must outrank your viscount neighbor, to wear marten or velvet trimmings you must be able to show an income of over 200 marks a year. The reign of Edward VI. and Queen Mary merely fostered the ruff without encouraging it to any greater development. But Queen Elizabeth, seeing in it possibilities for offsetting her red hair and clear skin, fanned it into vigorous life. In the sixteenth century the ruff burst into full bloom. Men and women, even tiny princesses, were overshadowed by the stiff rays of the ruff on all great occasions. Even over France, Germany and Italy it spread its white pinions and held unquestioned sway until it fell with the Roundheads.

The Burnt Cork Circle.

"Mistah Middleman, Ah has ah riddle."

"Mr. Bones, we shall be delighted to have you-propound it."

"Yessah, but hit ain't nothin' lak dat. Ah jest desires to ax yo' what am de difference between ah storekeeper whose business is improvin' an' a man who selects feathers fo' sofa pillows?"

"That's a pretty hard nut to crack, Mr. Bones. Now, what is the difference between a storekeeper whose business is improving and a man who selects feathers for sofa pillows?"

"De storekeeper's business is pickin' up, an' de other man's business is pickin' down."

"Mr. T. N. Orr will sing the pathetic ballad, 'He Married Himself to a Marcell Wave, an' Now He's All at Sea.'"—Harper's Weekly.

Swankers.

A number of our contemporaries appear to be somewhat exercised as to the precise meaning of the word "swank." Swank, though usually called by other names, is the leading characteristic of Englishmen. Frenchmen used to talk of "perfidious Albion." It was simply another way of calling us swankers. To swank is, broadly, to make the thing that is not seem as the thing that is.—London Globe.

Not.

"Shall we marry, darling, or shall we knot?" was the short and witty line an ardent lover dispatched to the idol of his heart.

But where the strangeness of the matter comes in, the girl replied: "I shall not." You may do as you please.

Moral Lesson Lost.

"Good for Squillips! I hear that since he quit drinking he has got rich." "It's too bad to spoil that story, but it's the other way. Since he got rich he has quit drinking."—Chicago Tribune.

Much Easier.

Candidate of Ideals—Wouldn't you rather be right than president? Practical Friend—Certainly! It is so much easier to be right.—Baltimore American.

Honesty is the best policy, but it is the sort of policy that has no surrender value.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

OLD CLOTHES IN AFRICA.

The Natives Often Make Dreadful Mistakes With European Attire.

The "ol' clo' man" is a familiar figure in American streets and one by no means without picturesqueness, but no American dealer in old clothes has established a business of such extent of interest as that of John Hyman of London, whose specialty is to purchase showy costumes and discarded military and official uniforms for disposal in the orient and Africa.

Even the retiring lord mayors of London have become almost by official tradition his customers, and the cocked hat, gold laced coat and knee breeches at which during one season London has gazed with awe in the famous pageant of the lord mayor's procession are likely the next season to delight the eyes of darkest Africa upon the proud person of a darkest African.

"I have visited most of the great oriental bazars and watched our goods being purchased," says Mr. Hyman. "I have seen blacks solemnly walking around with waistcoats buttoned behind instead of before and even men wearing ladies' costumes. I have seen enormously big fellows in clothes so small I could not imagine for the life of me how they got into them or how they could get out again unless the stitching gave way."

The Prince de Joinville when off the Gabon coast once received on his ship an official visit from two chiefs, father and son, who must, one would think, have been Mr. Hyman's customers. They were known as Big Denis and Little Denis, and each owned for ceremonial occasions a military uniform.

That of Big Denis was a French general's, which his wives managed to get him into. That of Little Denis was a Hussar's, and its intricate cut, numerous buttons, straps and buckles and painfully small size proved quite too much for him. He sent the prince a despairing message begging help, and a relief party of delighted midshipmen was sent to dress him and bring him aboard.

They fulfilled their errand; but, with the mischievousness of their kind, they so tightened every fastening of his overtight attire that the poor youth was nearly bursting with combined pride and suffocation when he arrived, and it was evident he could never be got out of his unwonted finery by any method less drastic than cutting him out.

Still, no manner of wearing a complete costume ever equals in comic effect some of the savages' combinations of unrelated items. One venerable African chieftain received his European guests with an antiquated evening shoulder cape of pink flowered satin and spangles worn about his waist as an apron, while his white wool was martially crowned by a military helmet.

Still another conducted important negotiations with an exploring party clad simply and impressively in a lady's large Gainsborough hat, a pair of cavalry boots and a necklace of glistening tin ornaments used to decorate Christmas trees.—Youth's Companion.

NORTH BRANCH

Col. Drake was an invited guest and attended the battle-ship ceremony at Portsmouth last Saturday.

Mr. Flint has covered 2000 miles with his auto so far this season, and more to come.

Mr. Draper, the present owner of the Sawyer place, and family are in possession of their new home and will occupy the same until late in the fall.

John Champney of Boston was a guest of the Tafts over Sunday.

Rev. C. C. Kellogg held service at the Chapel last Sunday.

Mr. Crombie was presented with a very nice bronze sun-dial by Mr. Flint the past week and will soon have it installed in his grounds; can't beat "Old Sol" for true time.

Mr. Chapman, who was out fishing during the down-pour last week, says he did not get wet-soaked was his name for it. By the looks of the clothes hung out to dry, guess he was right.

The roads in this vicinity stood the heavy rain very well.

EAST ANTRIM.

Mrs. Collins and daughter of Dorchester, Mass., are at Butter-nut Lodge for a season.

Mrs. Abi Perry is taking a much needed rest and is the guest of Mrs. Puffer of Ogunquit, Me.; Mrs. Young presides in her absence.

Mr. Chase will soon move his mill to the Curtis lot to finish the job.

The first former resident we have seen over this way who is here to celebrate Old Home week is W. N. Swett of Brooklyn, N. Y., at M. S. French's.

Miss Victoria Noll of Brooklyn, N. Y., is visiting at the Brookside farm.

Miss Lincoln, who has been stopping with her sister for some weeks at Mt. Campbell farm, has returned to Hingham, Mass.

Harry W. Harvey is entertaining his sister, from Manchester, at the "Maples."

St. Patrick's Church, Bennington

There will be an entertainment and dance in town hall, Bennington, on Tuesday evening, August 18, for the benefit of St. Patrick's church. The drama, "Won by a Wager," with a local cast will be presented and a pleasant time is promised. For particulars read posters.

Notice—Have Your Work in the Cemetery Done Before Old Home Day.

I desire to announce to the public that all who wish their Monuments, Headstones and Tablets Cleaned before Old Home Day—August 18—and there are some which need it, should attend to the matter early, giving their orders at once. I also reset Tablets and Stones. Good work at reasonable prices guaranteed.

Why You Should Take ZION'S HERALD

I—Because by means of its strong editorial force and correspondents in all important centres it furnishes needed information on world-wide movements from a Christian standpoint.

II—Because it keeps its readers posted on the doings of the Methodist church and of the religious world at home and abroad, and the results of such activities.

III—Because it is the best religious newspaper for Methodists published in America, with departments that suit all parts of the family life, encouraging deeper religious life in the elders, and aiding the young to become of spiritual value in the church and world.

Cure Your Dandruff

Why? Because it is annoying, untidy. And mostly, because it almost invariably leads to baldness. Cure it, and save your hair. Get more, too, at the same time. All easily done with Ayer's Hair Vigor, new improved formula. Stop this formation of dandruff!

Does not change the color of the hair.

Formula with each bottle. Show it to your doctor. Ask him about it, then do as he says.

The new Ayer's Hair Vigor will certainly do this work, because, first of all, it destroys the germs which are the original cause of dandruff. Having given this aid, nature completes the cure. The scalp is restored to a perfectly healthy condition.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Sheldon gave a most delightful lawn party to their associates in John Hancock grange and their pleasant home and spacious grounds on the 23rd ult. The occasion was a very pleasant one.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Autumn Fashions for School-Days

The time to prepare for the coming school-days is at hand. Every mother should be early in selecting a suitable and durable outfit, also the small essentials that make for the happiness of the growing child.

An easily carried lunch basket or box, a strap or a bag to hold books and papers, a box for pens and pencils, otherwise easily lost, help the daily studies and teach system and order.

Many of the bags and boxes can be easily made at home by the ingenious parent, or bought for moderate prices in the stores.

The school dress and coat should be both smart and serviceable. The old stand-by, pepper and salt, in good quality of cloth, with cap of the same, for the boy, is durable for rough wear and useful for all occasions. Dark blue seersers are the proper thing for the small boy or girl. With these either a wide-brimmed sailor hat or a cloth tam-o'-shanter may be worn.

Sensible shoes should always be worn. Whether laced or buttoned, the boots should have spring heels, square toes and be longer than apparently necessary—The September NEW IDEA WOMAN'S MAGAZINE.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold

A. S. Nushaum, Batesville, Indiana, writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success."

COCAINE WHICH DULS THE NERVES never yet cured Nasal Catarrh. The heavy feeling in the forehead, the stuffed up sensation and the watery discharge from eyes and nose, along with the other miseries attending the disease, are put to rout by Ely's Cream Balm. Small and taste are restored, breathing is made normal. Until you try this remedy, you can form no idea of the good it will do you. It is applied directly to the sore spot. All druggists, 50c or mailed by Ely Bros. 56 Warren St., New York.

FRANCETOWN.

T. F. Foote has been picking corn in his garden for two weeks; it is very nice.

Bert Lockwood is cutting the hay on the Blood farm.

The Ladies' Alliance Society will hold their Annual Fair August 26, at town hall.

Two portable saw mills have been put in running order in the last two weeks; Carpenter's mill at Pleasant pond on the Reed lot; Campbell's mill on the Putnam lot at the north part of the town.

Henry Hood had the misfortune to lose the horse he had just purchased of Frank Colburn about four weeks ago; he paid $100 for it.

Much damage was done by the heavy storm of last week. Tucker's buildings in New Boston were burned; a barn in Greenfield was burned; and Bert Smith's house was struck by lightning and shingles and plastering torn off, but did not set the house on fire.

George E. Downes and Rev. Ralph Ward were in Wilton calling on Rev. A. G. McVay and family Thursday.

Mrs. Nellie Smith of New Jersey is with her aunt, Mrs. P. M. Foote, for a few weeks.

The fair and entertainment given in town hall Saturday afternoon and evening were largely attended. The hall was very attractive with decorated booths, being decorated with evergreen and Japanese lanterns, also the walk to the hall; the lanterns were hung on each side making it charming outside as well as in. The little ones were made happy during the afternoon by a pony ride, through the kindness of Master Dana Hill, who is the owner of Pandora, the pony. Much credit is due Mr. and Mrs. Hill for their work and interest in this fair, also for their phonograph music both afternoon and evening. The fair was a decided success, the sum realized being $108. Everyone responded willingly to help make it a success, and many thanks are due to all.

Summer Beverages for Lawn and Veranda

Usually there is a good deal of uncertainty on the part of the hostess as to what she shall offer for a beverage at an outdoor affair, says the September DESIGNER. Most persons are weary of lemonade, and, while iced tea and iced coffee seldom fail to be acceptable, a little change is pleasing. This is easily attained if the hostess will take the pains to make a lemonade as a foundation and transform it into a punch of this or that by the addition of other ingredients. A fruit punch is little more than a good lemonade to which one adds sliced orange, banana, pineapple and a few strawberries or red raspberries when these are in season.

Strawberry, raspberry or orange sherbet may be made by crushing the fruit, after letting it stand for a while with sugar on it to extract the juice, adding cold water in the proportion of a quart of this to a pint of the juice, the juice of a lemon, more sugar if needed and pouring all into a bowl on a block of ice. Put in some of the berries or a few slices of the orange before serving.

ANTRIM PHARMACY

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

The Too Fat.

Fat hens, being wretched layers, are always sold off by farmers. The early Romans banished all useless persons, including the fat in this category.

Ovid, in his "Art of Love," says "Keep ever slender and supple, for the fat have no success with women."

The Goutoo tribe enter their houses by a hole in the roof of a certain prescribed size, and they who grow too bulky to enter by this hole are slain as useless and lazy.

In England it was once the law to put the fat to death—"All drunkittis, fatt gluttonis and consumers of vitallis more nor was necessary to the sustentation of men, were tane, and first commandit to swell their fouth of gubart drink they pleattit, and incontinent tairafter was drount in aue fresche rever."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Spinach Omelet.

Make a puree of spinach in the usual way—that is to say, after having boiled it till tender chop it very fine and rub it through a coarse wire sieve, season with salt and pepper, stir over the fire and add two ounces of butter and a little cream. Take two tablespoonfuls of the spinach and stir it into four eggs which have been previously beaten, yolks and whites separately. Add a little piece of shallot which has been rubbed through the sieve, and salt and pepper to taste. When thoroughly mixed put the whole into an omelet pan with two ounces of butter and fry a pale brown. Serve very hot.—By-stander.

History of Smallpox.

Smallpox appears to have been first described by Rhazes, an Arabian physician living about 900 A. D. It was introduced into southern Europe in the time of the crusades and slowly spread into the more northern regions. In 1517 it was carried from Spain to Santo Domingo and thence to Mexico, where it is said to have swept off 3,500,000 of the natives. It spread rapidly all over the new world, and whole villages and even tribes of Indians were carried off by it.

Easier.

"That house I have taken from you," said the dissatisfied tenant, "is horribly drafty. When I am sitting in the middle of the room my hair blows all over my head. Can't you do something to the windows?"

"Don't you think, sir," replied the house agent suavely, "it would be easier and cheaper for you to get your hair cut?"—London Telegraph.

Health for the Sick Without Medicine or Drugs.

A NEW DISCOVERY

Vigorous health for the sick, by a new Rational and Effectual Method, discovered by Dr. Hercules Sanche, scientist and physician of long practice. No medicine, electric battery, or "faith cure"; but the application of an inexorable Natural Law. No matter what disease you have, if no vital organ is irreparably destroyed, and you apply at any reasonable hour, in all probability you will be restored to health. By the use of Oxydonor, the human body is revitalized by oxygen from the air. Oxygen is a Vital Necessity. Oxygenation of the whole organism reaches and remedies all diseased conditions. Oxydonor has brought health and happiness to hundreds of sufferers with Nervous Prostration, and all Nervous Trouble, Rheumatism (Sciatic, Muscular, Inflammatory), Stomach trouble, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Bright's disease, Liver Kidney, Bladder Trouble, Bronchitis, Throat and Lung Trouble, La Grippe, Chills, Spinal Disease, Blood Poison, Dysentery, All Fevers, Diseases of Women and Children.

Rev. Joseph A. Ticknor writes the following strong endorsement after many years' successful use of Oxydonor.

Rheumatism, Tonsillitis, Grippe.
Claremont, N. H., Feb. 11, 1901.
Dr. H. Sanche & Co., New York,

Dear Sirs:— I rejoice to have the chance given me to answer your question. Has Oxydonor given entire satisfaction? It has!

I hold it to be one of the greatest discoveries of the 19th century. For three years I have used it with ever increasing sense of its value. At the start it wrought a permanent cure of Rheumatism in my left shoulder; next of Tonsillitis in my youngest child, and it has since easily and successfully combated whatever illness have assailed my family. Its potency in dissipating an attack of Grippe is especially to be noted.

Wishing that every family in the land might have an Oxydonor, I am,

Very sincerely yours,
Joseph A. Ticknor,
Rector of Union Church.

Seven Years Later.
47 Park Avenue, Athol, Mass., Nov. 20, '07
Dr. H. Sanche & Co., New York

Dear Sirs:— It gives me great pleasure, after a further use of nearly seven years, to again testify to the worth of Oxydonor. Two of the instruments are kept on hand for family use. Having learned to apply Oxydonor at the first signs of serious trouble (without knowing oftentimes what such may indicate) we keep free from disease, and this is about all that there is to it now, so far as we are concerned.

Very sincerely yours,
Joseph A. Ticknor,
Minister in charge St. John's church

Oxydonor is made for Self Treatment at home. All members of the family from the youngest to the oldest can use it safely. Easily applied. Plain directions accompany each Oxydonor. Lasts a lifetime.

Sweet Temper is The First Aid Toward Beauty

Beauty of grooming, correct poise and ability to make the most of one's good points count for more than a beautiful face. Any woman with a passable face may be attractive and even be considered beautiful, if she will cultivate the art of being well groomed.

"There are so many great things that go toward making a well-groomed woman," said a well-known beauty culturist. "The first thing we teach our patrons is the proper use of the mirror. We teach women to look hopeful, how to wear their clothes, how to make their eyes shine, to lift the corners of their lips, and to observe what a pleasing effect is obtained. After a time this becomes a habit, and the mirror watchfulness is no longer necessary. Good nature is an essential to a woman who would appear at her best. Crouchiness, or ill-temper, is her own worst enemy. Good nature depends, of course, very largely on being well dressed, and a well-groomed woman is nearly always sweet tempered."—The September DELINEATOR.

How to Avoid Appendicitis

BRADLEY'S BUILDING.

By ANDREW PHAIL.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

It was a tiny little island. The year before Dick Staley had threatened to come back some day and carry it off in a shoe box. But such as it was it was Barton Bradley's own, and he was immensely proud of his possession.

Four years earlier his physician had ordered him to spend the summer in the woods to escape an impending attack of "nerves." He had rented this little island from its woodsman owner and had spent a delightful summer chopping his own wood, frying his own bacon and in the intervals planning the play that had brought him recognition.

His first royalties had gone to pay for the little island, and now, when Bradley pitched his tent early in May, he went to work to build a log hut that should form a more permanent camp.

Since success had come he was in a position to build a camp as elaborate as any of the electrically lighted, steam heated structures which masqueraded as camps in the fashionable colony at the upper end of the lake, but Bradley would have none of these.

As far as possible the camp should be his own handiwork. He even rebelled at the necessity for assistance in raising the logs when the walls reached a height above his ability to handle the heavy logs.

He made the island his sanctuary and a thing apart from the busy months of the winter season. No one save Staley had ever been invited to the place, and only the guide who sometimes came to see that all was well or leave mail when Bradley lacked the time to row down to the little village ever braved the "No Trespass" signs with which the shore bristled.

So it happened that Bradley, tramping over his five acre domain, was astonished to see a canoe on the shore and a girl calmly eating a late lunch under the very sign forbidding a landing.

She was undeniably a pretty girl, with crisp brown curls escaping from a tam-o-shanter and straying over a cheek on which the red showed bravely through the tan.

Bradley approved her costume of brown. It was so unlike the frocks of the fashionables, who dressed not for the woods, but for the men in camp and with an eye for spectacular effect.

But notwithstanding the fact that Bradley approved of the slender, well built figure he resented the intrusion on his island.

He hated the fashionable crowd, and here was one at his very door, perhaps the advance guard of a horde of lion hunters who would overrun the place and gushingly assure him that they doted on his plays even while their conversation showed that they had been more intent upon the chatter in the box than upon the dialogue on the stage. It was this habit of using the boxes for social visits that had first given Bradley his distaste for society.

"It is too bad that you cannot read," he said, with what was intended to be cutting sarcasm, though insensibly his voice softened as he looked into two glorious brown eyes.

"I know what you mean," declared the girl, with a laugh and a meaning glance at the forbidding sign, "but I was tired puddling, and when I saw you at work on the hut I knew that the owner was not here, and I supposed that the sign was enforced only when the owner was here. Can you be bribed?"

She held toward him the well filled lunch box with its appetizing sandwiches and dairy cake.

"I'm human enough to be hungry," she explained, with a little laugh, "but I always carry more than I need."

Bradley looked into the brown eyes and was lost. He accepted a sandwich and sank down on a rock opposite the one on which she was sitting.

"Who is the horrible man who won't let us land on this little 'Eden?' demanded the girl.

"He's a New York chap," explained Bradley noncommittally. "He doesn't like the people at the upper end of the lake, and he stuck those signs up."

"Thereby preventing me from finding a refuge from the play campers," said the girl severely. "He should change the sign to read, 'No Trespassing by People Who Do Not Understand.' There are people even up there who love the woods and hate the poor imitation of Newport. Newport," she added in explanation, "is a fashionable colony down on the Rhode Island shore."

"I've heard of it," assented Bradley, the scene of whose latest comedy had been laid in that very resort. He was glad that this girl mistook him for a guide. It would be a pity to undeceive her and place their impromptu acquaintance upon a coldly formal basis.

She chatted of the lake and the woods, and Bradley more than ever admired her when she grew eloquent regarding the beauties of his beloved lake. It formed a common bond of sympathy.

The girl forgot that she was talking to a guide, and Bradley in turn forgot that she was a member of the hated colony of fashionable folk who were doing their best to make the lake as artificial as themselves.

It was a good two hours before his visitor sprang up with an exclamation of surprise that she should have lingered so long, and with a little sigh of regret Bradley watched her paddle away, handling the frail canoe as cleverly as though to the manner born.

After that she came frequently and became much interested in the building of the house. The heavy logs were all in place now, and only the lighter work remained.

The girl (Bradley soon knew her to be Miss Nannette Cowdrey) found the completion of the cabin a matter of absorbing interest. It was no better than the huts of the natives save that it was more carefully finished, and of this Nannette highly approved.

"It seems so foolish," she observed, "to go in out of the glorious woods and turn on the hot water and dress for dinner in the same frocks we wear in town. I should love to spend a summer in a camp like this with only sympathetic people around me."

She sighed to think of the impossibility of obtaining her wish and then gave her attention to superintending the fabrication of a rustic chair, deep, roomy and resilient of the woods.

For a month she was almost a daily visitor. Then one afternoon she came with a frown upon her pretty face, and as Bradley settled himself for a chat she drew a slip of printed paper from her pocket and regarded him attentively.

"A penny for your thoughts," he offered when she did not speak.

"I think that you are horrid," was the unexpected answer. "This little island has been such a haven of rest to me. Now I find that, instead of being a guide, you are a nasty, cynical playwright. I hate you!"

"Because I write cynical plays?" he asked. "I assure you that I would rather write the other kind, but they do not take with the audiences."

"I hate you because you deceived me," was the answer in a voice that was close to tears. "I saw this in a magazine."

Bradley groaned. In an evil moment he had given an interviewer a glowing description of his island without betraying its location. It had been made the basis of an absurd "human interest" magazine story.

A copy must have fallen into her hands, and more than ever Bradley was determined to get even with the imaginative person who had written the story.

"And we cannot be friends," he asked, "just because I am not a guide?"

"Because you deceived me," corrected Nannette. "You were just leading me on to talk about the imitation campers so you could put it into a play."

"Not into a play," denied Bradley. "Into a romance—a private romance. I had hoped. Had I introduced myself as a city man you never could have come again. I should have raised the barrier of conventionality between us. As it was, you thought me a guide because I was building my own cabin. With a guide you felt free to come and go as you pleased. It was only for that reason I did not explain your error."

"But now that I know the truth I must come no more," she said slowly as she rose to her feet. "I am sorry that I have found out."

She looked longingly about the camp which she had helped to make so comfortable with her suggestions and aid. Then she turned and ran down to the beach, where her light canoe lay upon the sands.

She had already pushed off when he reached the beach, but at his call she checked her headway.

"May I come for you?" he called softly. "May I come for you, Nannette, and bring you back to the camp that we built for ourselves?"

For a moment Nannette paused.

one of its regularly retained counsel, if not as general counsel of the company. He asked for a personal interview with me to consider that suggestion. But nothing contained in Mr. Tuttle's letter to me caused me to reconsider my determination to leave the service of the Boston & Maine railroad, and I did not think there was anything to be gained by an interview on that subject. On Nov. 12, I wrote him to that effect.

"While Mr. Tuttle's offer may have been a gratifying endorsement of my professional work, yet with our divergent views as to the political obligations, outside of professional duties imposed by a general retainer for this company under its present management, I could not except such general employment. My decision was not reached in any spirit of unfriendliness to the Boston & Maine or to Mr. Tuttle, and I so informed him.

"My views were well defined with respect to the true relations of counsel and railroad, and also regarding the exercise of political power by Mr. Tuttle in New Hampshire. I believed then as now that the exercise of that power through the methods adopted was foolish and must result in disaster to the Republican party and impairment of the value to the stockholders of the railroad properties of which he has charge. These views were set forth in my letters to Mr. Tuttle. I shall be very glad to have him give out all the correspondence if he has no objection."

STREETER WANTS TUTTLE TO GIVE FULL TEXT OF THE LETTERS

Former Counsel of B. & M. Tells Why He Severed Connections with It and Suggests Its President Make Public the Correspondence.

IMPAIRMENT OF VALUES TO STOCKHOLDERS SURE

Methods Employed by Road in New Hampshire Cannot but Result in Wrecking the Republican Party There, His Direct Charge.

[Special Dispatch to the Boston Herald.]

Concord N. H., Aug. 6.—Gen. Frank S. Streeter, who has been the leader of the Taft campaign in New Hampshire, was asked to-day by a Herald staff correspondent if he was willing to give out for publication the much referred to correspondence between himself and President Tuttle of the Boston & Maine railroad at the time that their official relations came to an end, or, in case he declined to disclose the correspondence, if he would state his reasons for his refusal, or should he decline to do that, to give his reasons for refusing to answer the insinuations of certain prominent Republicans that he, Gen. Streeter, was withholding information that would clear the political atmosphere in New Hampshire.

The correspondent finally secured the following statement:

"While I have felt some reluctance about speaking of the conditions attending the severance of my connection with the legal department of the Boston & Maine railroad, still I see no reason why it is not quite proper for me to discuss the subject freely in view of the frequent mis-statements which have been published purporting to define my status in the matter. The persistent endeavor to create a false impression, recently renewed with vigor by some newspapers over which political control is exercised by the management of the Boston & Maine seems to require some authorized statement.

SOMEWHAT HANDICAPPED

"It has been urged that it is incumbent upon me to make the exact facts known, but although I am willing to do so, I am handicapped to some extent, as I do not now feel at liberty to publish without his consent the correspondence which passed between President Tuttle of the Boston & Maine and myself bearing upon my resignation and setting forth the reasons which I felt made it impossible for me to remain in the service of the railroad. The facts are these:

"It was becoming more and more apparent to me prior to 1906 that the increasing demands made upon me by the railroad management would inevitably submerge my political independence if I permitted these demands to continue unchecked. The attitude and acts of Mr. Tuttle during the unfortunate gubernatorial campaign of that year sharply emphasized that view.

"On Oct. 29, 1906, I wrote President Tuttle about the matter. I said that our beliefs as to what corporate political policy in New Hampshire might best conserve the property interests of the railroad had not been in accord for some time. I called attention to the radically different views we held with reference to the exercise of political power by Mr. Tuttle as president of the Boston & Maine in state and party affairs, immaterial to railroad interests or business, and the professional obligations or individual freedom of counsel in respect to such matters.

"Our widely divergent views I regarded as irreconcilable. In my letter I tendered my resignation as one of the generally retained counsel of the Boston & Maine railroad. I believe that such a course would relieve both Mr. Tuttle and myself from embarrassment.

WOULD NOT RECONSIDER

"The resignation was accepted by Mr. Tuttle in a letter dated Oct. 31. He did not wish to have it take effect until Dec. 31, 1906. At the same time he suggested that it might not be incompatible with my interests to continue in the service of the railroad as Stransky Enameled Ware!

THE WARE THAT WEARS. Every piece guaranteed for five years, which means that we replace free of charge any piece which from use shows wear in that length of time, we do not guarantee it will not chip if dropped on the floor or in the sink but we do guarantee it will not chip from legitimate use.

IT WILL STAND THE FIRE. We have on exhibition a sauce pan, in which we have boiled the water repeatedly on a blue flame stove allowing the pan to remain on the stove for a half hour after the water is boiled away. This abuse has made no impression whatever on the sauce pan, the enamel is not even colored. There is no other ware would stand this test as well.

THE LINING IS WHITE. A new fire-resisting white without any poison whatever and upon which acids have no effect, it is hard yet elastic, it does not chip easily and will never crackle, the spoon you use in mixing does not mark it.

THE PIECES ARE SEAMLESS. It never leaks, and does not wear off at the seam like other wares.

WE HAVE JUST OPENED A LARGE SHIPMENT. Every size of every article is in stock, and we carry a very large assortment of shapes and sizes.

THE PRICE INTERESTS YOU! It is slightly higher than the inferior wares but it twice over pays for itself, and its price when purchased from us is much lower than city stores get.

DO NOT BUY "THE JUST AS GOOD." We are sole agents in this vicinity for this ware, it has made such a reputation for itself that other stores claim to sell ware just as good; you know what that means.

GET THE GENUINE. Every piece has a lion stamped on the bottom, look for the lion.
