Seeing New York

The first question to consider, is how shall we make the trip. I presume there are some who like myself prefer traveling on land. I am like the Irishman, who being asked how he preferred to travel said on land sure. Why? says Pat; because, says Mike, if you are wrecked traveling on land, there you are; but if you are traveling on water and are wrecked, where are you? But in this case I was as the political candidate would say, in the hands of my friends, they were bringing me to New York for a visit and I would leave all arrangements to them. So we traveled by rail to Providence and then by the Steamer Providence of the Providence Line to New York. In getting my stateroom I found it to be a very pleasant outside room with large window looking out on to the water, this is desirable as there is no view from an inside room. There is scarcely any motion of the boat except what is caused by the engine, but this was just enough to prevent my getting much sleep the first night, so I was up and dressed by daylight and throwing open my window, watched the sun as it rose like a big ball of fire from the depths of the sea.

We were now nearing New York so we went forward and watched the grand panorama which was gradually being unfolded to view. To my eyes everything was new and as my companion pointed out the different points of interest I was delighted with everything. It was some over an hour after coming in view of the city before we tied up at the dock. New York City boasts of having the highest and greatest number of high buildings of any city in the world and after seeing them I concluded New Yorkers intended to get as near Heaven as they could in this way if in no other. The churches alone remain intact and they look like so many dwarfs beside the giants which tower on all sides.

I passed Trinity church several times, this society is claimed to be the richest in America, the structure is of brown sandstone in Gothic style, and is a dark and sombre building but this is not strange as it gets so little sunlight. An iron fence surrounds the building and a small burial place, with pickets eight feet high and very sharp; I suppose this is to prevent some one lugging it off as a souvenir. It didn't seem that any one could scale the fence but I saw a man making the attempt, he had a friend on the outside so he stepped over on to his shoulders. I asked what business he had inside that he should be obliged to get out in this way, my friend said it was hard telling who had a right inside and who had not; he said that a short time ago some men looted a building in the absence of the owners in broad daylight, they lowered the safe to the street and a policeman kept back the crowd while they did it, supposing they were the rightful owners—this shows what a man of nerve may do in New York, where people know so little of their neighbors.

It is impossible to speak of all the buildings I visited. I made several purchases at R. H. Macy & Co's, said to be the largest retail store under one roof in the world, 24 acres of floor space, and 80 odd departments which embrace the choicest products of Home and Foreign markets. In the toy department I noticed a full fledged automobile for a boy ten years old, price $335. I didn't have the price so didn't take it, although my boy had told me that he wanted one.

The Singer building at the corner of Broadway and Liberty streets owned by the Singer Sewing Machine Co., overshadows every lofty building in its vicinity, its tower is 612 feet in height, the highest one at this time, the tower of the Metropolitan Life Insurance building will be four stories higher, when completed, and another building is contemplated on Broadway with a tower 60 stories, what a place this would be for an earthquake but New York people don't seem to worry any about this. The interior of the Singer building is finished in colored marble 1100 tons being used. There are 16 electric elevator machines of 70 horse power each; after inspecting the building I entered one and was conveyed to the top of tower traveling at the rate of 600 feet per minute. From this point you get an unobstructed view of greater New York, and the people in the streets look like so many ants crawling in all directions. The lantern crowning the tower contains a powerful search light the rays of which may be seen from a distance of 60 to 75 miles. It would seem as though there was not enough money in the whole world to build so many large and elegant buildings, but they are building them all the time.

I was impressed very much with the system they have for handling the immense crowds, especially in the subway which is rectangular, 13 feet high, 25 feet wide for two track sections and 50 feet wide for four track sections. It is mostly near the surface, but at certain points drops lower notably at Columbus avenue and 104th street where the cars pass at a depth of 80 feet. At 109th and 181st streets there are elevators to station 110 feet below the surface. I passed through the Brooklyn tunnel several times which is constructed under the East River, 90 feet below the river bed, the train travels through this tunnel a mile a minute. I also took a trip to the Jersey side under the North River, this tunnel is lately finished and the construction is entirely different from anything I had seen, the cars are entirely of steel and very heavy, no such speed is attained here as yet, as in the Brooklyn tunnel and my impression is it could not be as it seemed far from straight. It would seem the limit would be reached with the completion of the Pennsylvania tunnel and station which is to be a stupendous affair, the front is partly done and gives an impression that the building will be handsome as well as large, taking several blocks, it is estimated that this venture will cost $34,000,000, and the full development of the various transportation schemes which at 6th Avenue and 32nd street will form five superimposed railroad systems. Starting at the bottom 55 feet below the street surface will be the new Pennsylvania tunnel, immediately above the roof of this is the three track Rapid Transit Subway, over this the tracks of the Hudson Company System, then the surface railroad, over this the elevated and above the elevated at 32nd street station the foot bridge.

Places of amusement are thick. New York seems to have gone crazy over moving pictures, lots of places this is the only entertainment. I visited the Metropolitan Museum of fine Arts also Museum of Natural History, the finest collection of their kind in America. Central Park which contains the Egyptian Obelisk presented to the city of New York by the Kediye of Egypt,—it is covered its entire length with figures which represent some language unknown to the people of New

As an Independent Candidate for Representative

My name will again be upon the Official Ballot as a candidate for Representative, for various reasons. To keep the fact that there are Independent voters in this town, that the intimidation or disfranchisement of the right of voting for men free from dictation of those who have heretofore virtually fixed the nomination in the caucuses. And though I may place myself again in the position of being called by those worried dictators of trying to be "The Whole Thing", think I can stand it. In this connection will say that more voters have come forward on their own account and stated that they were with me, through thick and thin, than ever before and I shall be a candidate till election night, unless am satisfied that some other of the candidates are free from certain influences and if elected will be a good help in obtaining the reforms the people of this state should obtain.

In the book recently issued entitled "The Machine" by A. J. Lucier, a prominent democratic leader of the last legislature, he says, "while it may not be in the same conventional form 'The Pass' will be with us as before". Lawyers, agents, witnesses and other privileged classes, and is fair to assume there is nothing in the present law that prohibits the free transportation we have enjoyed so long.

Seek out the Independent man in your community, and there are such men, and elect him to the legislature; do not permit the powerful influence of those who prey upon their friends and neighbors to choose, elect and count the representatives of the people, and make them the representatives of the politicians.

The red man scalps his enemy, "the white man skins his friends", the latter might be applicable to the actions of some of the politicians of this locality, both in politics and business, during the past two years.

Many towns are protesting against the unequal rates of the American Express Company which are higher than in war times here. The telephone rates have been increased twice here within the past two years, but there will be no help from same as long as a large proportion of the legislature are their agents or particular friends of those who are.

The game laws are an imposition on the country towns; they seem to me mostly for a certain few of the sporting class of the cities and for the game wardens and spys. In my opinion, rather not have any than as they are. I believe in most liberal rights to hunt on the out-lands of the towns by the inhabitants of a town with due protection to buildings and stock.

It would seem as if it was the duty of every good citizen to attend their party caucuses for representative (they are obliged to give you a ballot); and try and nominate someone whom you have faith will attend to the interests of the town, and if they do so, send them back another term, unless you have faith enough with some who have been to return them. The country towns are making a mistake by not returning members who have faithfully attended to their interests. The railroads and other corporations are sure to have a good number of their friends returned.

As I shall vote for the democratic candidate for Governor, Judge Bugham, as it would seem as if it was the duty of every good citizen, and for most of the state ticket, I claim that I have more claims for the endorsement from the Democratic Caucus than three out of the four last candidates for Concord. Will say for the benefit of those who go to the expense of time and money to find out the signers of my petitions that the majority are not usually reckoned as my supporters; that I could have two hundred if needed, who are fair-minded Americans, who think it is right to give all parties a privilege to express their choice, and that ridicule and trying to intimidate in the past, has only helped me, except in one or two cases. Quite a number of my steady supporters are never asked to sign. You might be surprised; you certainly do not suspect some.

Beginning Monday, Oct. 5, the REPORTER will have a new attache to its staff, having created the department of Associate Editor. He will, besides having the gathering of news to look after, have charge of the subscription list and advertising department,—also attend to the soliciting and collecting.

Mr. Scott comes to us from Waltham, Mass., is a young man of good address and pleasing manner, and of some newspaper experience; we feel sure that our people will be pleased with him, and this new arrangement, and at once make him feel at home. This move we are making in the interests of the REPORTER, with a view of making its columns more interesting to our subscribers and more valuable to our advertising patrons. Trusting that all will work together to this end, we feel confident that success will be the result. Everything in the power of the REPORTER's staff will be done to make our paper one of the best local sheets in the state, and much more attention will be given to the make-up and general appearance of the paper.

This arrangement will give us more time to personally attend to our job department, which is constantly increasing, in addition to having a general oversight of the entire business. Here too is where we hope to improve and increase the output, and we feel that the REPORTER plant will be in much better condition for the execution of first-class work and to serve our customers than we have ever been. Our patrons in every department are assured of our continued best efforts in their behalf, and we solicit a continuance of their good-will and favors in our lines of business.

York. Is this strange when we remember that the site of New York was unknown to the Eastern World when this Obelisk had an existence of 2000 years. I visited Grant's Tomb on Riverside Drive, one of the largest monuments in the world 150 feet high and covers an area of 10,000 square feet, the exterior of Maine White Granite the interior of marble, an elegant testimonial to the great general, cost $100,000. I visited the five points where it is said more people exist to the square mile than anywhere else in the world, some of the streets make me think of a bazaar.—Chinatown with its stores, theatres and restaurants all Chinese, I had dinner here one evening, don't think I should like Chinese fare all the time, but anyway they didn't seem to be looking for a tip. I lunched in a different restaurant almost every day I was there from the basement to a restaurant 22 stories up, and the same rule applies, you must tip the waiter or you don't get your money's worth; from the bootblack up they are all looking for the tip, it seems to me this system is carried to the extreme in New York and how the man of moderate means gets ahead, beats me—think I will stay in Antrim for a while longer.

The water is very poor here; no need to drink water though if you aren't too fussy and have the price, saloons are as plenty as flies, but I didn't see but two men so intoxicated as to need help, so much for the saloons in a big city, but this does not change my mind any about a saloon in Antrim. Politically everything seems to be one way, saw 50 democratic banners to three of the others. Tammany runs everything. I supposed the Independence Party would be strong here, but they told me Hearst was not popular here, that although he claimed to be the friend of the poor man, the poor man could not get within 10 miles of him. It's estimated that there are 50,000 loafing men in New York City, I saw them on all the squares, some places they were gathered together and listening to some political oration. The police of New York are a fine looking lot of men and they know it, they always wear white gloves when on duty, this is not so in Boston, I found them very accomodating and willing to answer questions. I witnessed the great parade in honor of the return of the Olympic heroes, some 30,000 in line and the way the police handled the crowd was fine.

There are many pleasure trips which you may take by boat, I took the Statue of Liberty excursion visiting the Bartholdi Statue, located on Bedloe's Island in the harbor, historically this statue was presented to the United States by France and erected in 1886, but it was some time before Congress appropriated enough money to beautify the grounds and make the necessary improvements and even now the grounds are not kept as nice as I should think they would be, soldiers were doing guard duty and flirting with the girls; I think Uncle Sam better put them to mowing the lawn, signs were up to keep off the grass but I didn't see any grass to keep off of. I took 34 steps from the ground to the head of the Goddess which will accomodate 12 persons and from which a fine view may be obtained of the harbor and shipping. Through the courtesy of Capt. J. P. Roberts manager of these excursions I took a sight seeing trip around Manhattan Island, a three hours sail, passing through the East River, Harlem River and back by the Hudson River, this trip gives one a good idea of the magnitude of Manhattan Island, besides being a delightful trip on the water with music and a lecturer to point out the places of interest. Four large bridges now connect New York proper and Brooklyn, the Brooklyn, the Williamsburg lately completed, the largest suspension bridge in the world, 118 feet wide giving room for six tracks, two drive ways, two foot paths and two bicycle paths, there are two others being constructed. Of course a trip to New York is not complete without a visit to Coney Island, I had seen Wonderland and Revere Beach and its attractions, but they paled into insignificance, when I saw Coney, I decided there was only one Coney, in the evening it is a sight long to be remembered.

But only too soon the time arrived when I must say good-by to Yorktown. I was fortunate in getting a nice stateroom on the new steamer Commonwealth on the Fall River Line, this boat in speed, size and magnificence outrivals any vessel heretofore built for service on inland waters. For construction, equipment and its decoration, the New England Navigation Company expended $2,000,000. Her length over all is 458 feet and she has sleeping accommodations for 2,000, and on this trip every stateroom was occupied—she has a speed of 22 miles an hour and in the way of comforts and conveniences no Metropolitan hotel can offer more than the Commonwealth, and so I left the great city as the sun was setting, sinking like a great ball of fire down among the great buildings. I watched the lights flash out on the many buildings and streets and soon the moon shone out casting a silver sheen over the waters as the great metropolis faded from view.

It was a trip long to be remembered and so I say go to New York by all means, but go by the Commonwealth if possible, and the trip which is long and tiresome if made all by land, becomes a pleasure from beginning to end.

State Trade Report

Bradstreet's returns show that with the vacation period practically over and the fall trade beginning, retail trade is improving, and while not quite up to that of previous years, is fully as good as was expected. Manufactures also have generally resumed, either with more help or on full time and the situation is gradually clearing up, and after the approaching election it is expected that business of all kinds will steadily come back to former conditions. Owing to continued dry weather, a large amount of rain will be needed to fill up springs and streams. Crop conditions are generally good although hay and potatoes are short of the average. Wholesale trade is starting up somewhat, but collections are generally slow.

A Household Necessity

If you live anywhere in New England, there is one publication which should be in your home every day. There is no other paper in Boston or New England that compares with the Boston Daily and Sunday Globe. Fathers like it, mothers like it, children like it.

No other medium gives the educational matter that is contained in the Boston Globe. The series of "Famous Gems of Prose" that are now running in the Globe are alone worth the price of the paper.

This collection of the best oratory and literature that the world has produced should be cut out and kept in a scrap book in every home.

In no other paper is there a household page that compares with the one run by the practical housekeeper of New England in the Boston Daily and Sunday Globe. A careful perusal of this page in the Globe every day is of the greatest help to women in keeping their household expenses down and setting a table that will please all members of the family.

In addition to its many features, the Globe has the best equipped force in New England, over 1000 men being employed daily in the publication of the Daily and Sunday editions. You get the results of their labor in the Daily and Sunday Globe; also special features, which cost in the course of a year, thousands of dollars.

See your newsdealer tomorrow and arrange to have the Boston Daily and Sunday Globe delivered regularly at your home.

When Trifles become Troubles

If any person suspects that their kidneys are deranged they should take Foley's Kidney Remedy at once and not risk having Bright's disease or diabetes. Delay gives the disease a stronger foothold and you should not delay taking Foley's Kidney Remedy. W. F. Dickey.

MAKE A NOTE NOW to get Ely's Cream Balm if you are troubled with nasal catarrh, hay fever or cold in the head. It is purifying and soothing to the sensitive membrane that lines the air-passages. The Women's Home Companion for October

An important article in the October WOMEN'S HOME COMPANION is entitled "Seeking Shelter in New York." "Five dollars in my purse, a few plain clothes in my bag, an ordinary school education behind me, and New York, with its boundless opportunities, ahead of me," that is the beginning of the adventures in New York of Lucy Green. They are real adventures of a real girl, who tells her story to readers of the COMPANION.

This October issue is particularly rich in fiction, having stories by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Harrison Rhodes, Octave Thanet, Nellie McClung, Margaret Sutton Biscoe, and especially good stories by Irving Bacheller and Juliet Wilbor Tompkins.

There is perhaps no more important question to the average American than the one of owning or renting a home. The results of the most careful investigation and the experiences of thousands of Americans are given in a series of articles on this subject, which begins in the October number.

Of special interest are Kellogg Durand's intimate picture of the life of the Tsar's son of Russia, and Dr. Woods Hutchinson's article, "Are Babies Moral?"

The fashion department with the Latest Fall Fashions is full of valuable suggestions.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a Home of Swamp-Root pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

FRANCESTOWN.

A sad death was that of Clarence Hopkins, who was brought here for burial Tuesday night; he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hopkins, formerly of this place. Mrs. Hopkins was Miss Jennie Hoyt. This was their only child. Mr. Hopkins suddenly became unconscious while seemingly as well as usual. The doctor could not tell what the trouble was; he could not speak, altho' he seemed to know them most of the time. Everything was done for him that medical skill could do, but of no avail; he died after a week's illness of great suffering. A wife and two small children; and a father and mother are left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving husband, father and son. Deceased was only 35 years old. He leaves many relatives in this place. A profusion of flowers covered the grave.

Miss Emma George died very suddenly Sunday, Sept. 20, at 5 o'clock from apoplexy. Miss George was a teacher for a good many years and over-work and the death of her brother last winter caused an illness in the spring from which she seemed to be recovering. She died at the home of Fred Prescott, where she had been for two weeks, thinking the mountain air would be beneficial; she was getting ready to visit her sister at their home in the village, when she was stricken and lived only a short time. She leaves one sister, Frances George and one brother to mourn the loss. The funeral was held Wednesday. She lay in a beautiful gray casket, as if sleeping. The sister and brother have the sympathy of many friends.

Mail Carrier C. E. Hopkins is taking a two weeks' vacation. Levi Bixby is doing duty on the mail line.

Mrs. Mary Reed of Manchester is in town visiting friends.

The well which was commenced the first of the summer, is finished by Ed Newton, S. E. Crowell and Bert Smith, who superintended the blasting in the well.

Mrs. Cynthia Ward returned home last week from her visit with relatives and friends in Cambridgeport and Manchester. She is improved in health and reports a delightful visit.

The funeral of Miss Susan Dodge was held at the Congregational church Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

The October number of THE LADIES' WORLD is without question the best issue of that popular monthly that we have yet seen. It is about equally divided between fiction and practical departments, with some special articles thrown in, notably that on The Holy Land of Today, by Allen Sutherland; The Boy and His Parents, by Priscilla Wakefield, and What Women Can Do to Earn Money, by Laura A. Smith. The short stories are by Harriet Rowland, B. M. Burrol, Edith Robinson and Anna E. Finn, while there are serials by Mary Means and Albert Bigelow Paine. The Fashions and Dress-making department is notably good in this number, and those looking for pretty designs to make up the Autumn wardrobe cannot do better than consult this. The dressmaking hints alone are easily worth the subscription price. Taken all in all, this is a good specimen of a good magazine—[New York; Fifty Cents a Year.]

Health for the Sick Without Medicine or Drugs.

A NEW DISCOVERY

Vigorous health for the sick, by a new Rational and Effectual Method, discovered by Dr. Hercules Sanche, scientist and physician of long practice. No medicine, electric battery, or "faith cure"; but the application of an inexorable Natural Law. No matter what disease you have, if no vital organ is irreparably destroyed, and you apply at any reasonable hour, in all probability you will be restored to health. By the use of Oxydonor, the human body is Revitalized by oxygen from the air. Oxygen is a Vital Necessity. Oxygenation of the whole organism reaches and remedies all diseased conditions. Oxydonor has brought health and happiness to hundreds of sufferers with Nervous Prostration, and all Nervous Trouble, Rheumatism (Sciatic, Muscular, Inflammatory), Stomach trouble, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Bright's disease, Liver Kidney, Bladder Trouble, Bronchitis, Throat and Lung Trouble, La Grippe, Colds, Spinal Disease, Blood Poison, Dysentery, All Fevers, Diseases of Women and Children.

Rev. Joseph A. Ticknor writes the following strong endorsement after many years' successful use of Oxydonor. Very sincerely yours, Joseph A. Ticknor, Rector of Union Church.

Dear Sirs:—I rejoice to have the chance given me to answer your question. Has Oxydonor given entire satisfaction? It has!

I hold it to be one of the greatest discoveries of the 19th century. For three years I have used it with ever increasing sense of its value. At the start it wrought a permanent cure of Rheumatism in my left shoulder; next of Tonsillitis in my youngest child, and it has since easily and successfully combated whatever ills have assailed my family. Its potency in dissipating an attack of Grippe is especially to be noted. Wishing that every family in the land might have an Oxydonor, I am,

Very sincerely yours, Joseph A. Ticknor, Rector of Union Church. Seven Years Later. 47 Park Avenue, Athol, Mass., Nov. 20, 07 Dr. H. Sanche & Co., New York Dear Sirs:—It gives me great pleasure, after a further use of nearly seven years, to again testify to the worth of Oxydonor. Two of the instruments are kept on hand for family use. Having learned to apply Oxydonor at the first signs of serious trouble (without knowing oftentimes what such may indicate) we keep free from disease, and this is about all that there is to it now, so far as we are concerned. Very sincerely yours, Joseph A. Ticknor, Minister in charge St. John's church

Oxydonor is made for Self Treatment at home. All members of the family from the youngest to the oldest can use it safely. Easily applied. Plain directions accompany each Oxydonor. Lasts a lifetime. Beware of Fraudulent Imitations. The genuine is plainly stamped with the name of the Discoverer and Inventor—Dr. H. Sanche. Mr. Handy, Howard Deacon and Carroll Gibney went to Hillsboro Saturday representing Antrim High to confer with committees from Hillsboro and Henniker High schools in regard to the Triangular Athletic Meet. It was decided to hold the contest at Hillsboro, where it was held for the first time last May. The events are:

- 100 Yard Dash
 - 1/2 Mile Run
 - 75 Yard Hurdle Race
 - Potato Race
 - Running Broad Jump
 - Running High Jump
 - Running Hop, Step, and Jump
 - Shot Put (12 lbs.)
 - Pole Vault
 - 1/2 Mile Relay Race
- There will be two base ball games, Antrim and Hillsboro at 9 o'clock in the morning, and Henniker plays in the afternoon the team that wins the morning game. A fine time was enjoyed when Antrim High entered this contest last May and as much is hoped for this time. The meet will take place Oct 10.
- Howard Deacon has been chosen Captain and Manager of the base ball team for the game at Hillsboro Oct. 10.

A DRAMATIC CLIMAX.

Effect of One Woman's Pathetic Eyes Upon a Jury.

James T. Brady, who was one of New York's greatest lawyers, was once counsel for a young woman in a case involving an attempt to break a will. His client sat by his side. She was a very beautiful young woman, whose eyes seemed always to rivet the attention of those upon whom her glance fell. There was a pathetic expression which affected every one. She sat watching the jury during the course of the trial, and at last there was some complaint that she was attempting by means of her glances to excite the sympathy of the jury.

Then Mr. Brady arose and in one of the most touching and beautiful of all the addresses he ever made in court spoke of the blessings which every one who had an appreciation of beautiful things and could see them enjoyed and dwelt for some moments upon the happy lot of the jury who could see the budding of the flowers—it was then springtime—and the charms of nature. Then, suddenly turning to his client, he said, "That blessing is denied my client, for, though she has eyes which seem to look upon you, gentlemen, there is no vision in them, for her sight has been taken from her."

She had been, in fact, the victim of total paralysis of the optic nerve, which had not impaired the beauty of her eyes, but had given to them that singular pathetic expression which she was thus falsely charged with employing that she might secure the sympathies of the jury.

A Helping Hand.

Among the contributors to a minister's donation party was a small but very bright boy belonging to one of the families of the congregation. After obtaining his mother's permission to spend his money for anything he pleased he went to the village store and returned home with a neat package. In it was a pair of suspenders, and attached to them was a card upon which was written in a scrawling hand: "For the support of our pastor."

He Knew His Mamma.

Neighbor—Bertie, your mother is calling you. Bertie—Yes'm, I know it, but I fancy she don't want me very badly. Neighbor—But she has called you seven times already. Bertie—Yes, I know, but she hasn't called "Albert" yet.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The great are only great because we are on our knees; let us rise up.—Prudhomme.

MISS ANNIE CATRON.

CATARRH MADE LIFE

A BURDEN TO ME.

MISS ANNIE CATRON, 927 Main St., Cincinnati, Ohio, writes: "As I have found Peruna a blessing for a severe case of catarrh of the head and throat which I suffered from for a number of years, I am only too pleased to give it my personal endorsement. "Catarrh, such as I suffered from, made life a burden to me, my breath was offensive, stomach bad, and my head stapped up so that I was usually troubled with a headache, and although I tried many so-called remedies, nothing gave me permanent relief. I was rather discouraged with all medicines when Peruna was suggested to me. "However, I did buy a bottle, and before that was finished there was a marked change in my condition. Much encouraged I kept on until I was completely cured in a month's time, and I find that my general health is also excellent." People who prefer solid medicines should try Peruna tablets. Each tablet represents one average dose of Peruna. Man-a-lin the Ideal Laxative.

Fred B. Richards

Of South Lyndeboro was nominated on Tuesday of this week at the Democratic convention at the town hall, Antrim, candidate for Senator to represent the eighth district. Mr. Richards had every vote cast. The candidate was escorted to the platform and made a brief speech of acceptance, and pledged himself if elected to that which he thought was right; he extended an invitation to the delegates to dine with him at Maplehurst Inn.

Mr. Richards is well-known in this section, at one time being a school teacher in Bennington and Hancock; he is now a wholesaler of whips, lashes and small wares, driving team through many adjoining towns. He represented his town in the legislature in the year 1898.

Looking Towards a Historical Society

On Wednesday evening last a meeting was held at the Selectmen's room to talk over the matter of forming a historical society in Antrim. After due consideration it was thought best to organize, and a committee of five comprising F. C. Parmenter, F. F. Roach, H. A. Hurlin, C. W. Prenties, H. W. Eldredge, was appointed to further consider the matter, prepare constitution and by-laws, and report at a meeting in the near future when an organization will probably be effected.

It is hoped that at this meeting soon to be held, due notice of which will be given, that all of our citizens who possibly can will attend; also that everybody will show their interest by becoming members. Now that the town has such a nice room for this purpose in the new library building, it is needful that a society of this kind be formed to carry on the necessary work in connection therewith.

Fine Imported China

A RICH SHOWING

Few persons have any conception of the thought and painstaking art that enter into the making of decorated China—how new shapes are created and new designs are worked out; how the colors and the glass are mixed and applied, and in the heat of the kiln, become a part of the ware.

Have you seen the beautiful China we are showing this spring? Nothing could be finer or more appropriate for wedding gifts.

WORTH KNOWING.

To remove Pimples, Blackheads, Blisters and all forms of Skin eruptions, is, according to a well known Physician, a very easy matter; he says that many are afflicted with some one of the above ailments, and are subject to a great deal of embarrassment on account of the unsightly appearance which they present, and recommends the following simple harmless and inexpensive treatment. Go to your druggist and get this prescription filled: Clearola one-half ounce, Ether one ounce, Alcohol seven ounces; mix, shake well and apply to the parts effected night and morning, allowing it to remain for at least ten minutes, then wipe off the powder from the skin. Use a soft cloth or sponge in applying the mixture and in from ten days to two weeks your face will be smooth and clear as a marriage bell. Get the Pure Clearola, which is only put up in one-half ounce packages. Ask to see it.

BLOOD

We live by our blood, and on it. We thrive or starve, as our blood is rich or poor. There is nothing else to live on or by. When strength is full and spirits high we are being re-freshed—bone, muscle and brain, in body and mind—with continual flow of rich blood. This is health.

When weak, in low spirits, no cheer, no spring, when rest is not rest and sleep is not sleep, we are starved; our blood is poor; there is little nutriment in it.

Back of the blood is food, to keep the blood rich. When it fails, take Kitty, Sam and the Peacemaker.

By COLIN S. COLLINS.

Copyrighted, 1938, by Associated Literary Press.

When it has been "Sam" and "Kitty" from the school it is rather difficult to pass suddenly to the "Mr. Hastings" and "Miss Norwood" stage. Both Sam and Kitty felt the strain, though each took mental obligation to do nothing that in any way might be construed into an overture of friendship.

It had all started innocently enough. Kitty on her way to the postoffice encountered Jim Saunders. She regarded Saunders as a persistent pest, but she could not very well refuse his suggestion that they stop in at the drug-store and have a glass of soda.

Then it happened that they turned into Bowling street in animated conversation and Sam could not know they had met just around the corner. Of all the summer visitors to Auburnville Sam disliked Saunders the most and Kitty knew it. It looked to him as though she had deliberately accepted Saunders' attentions to punish him for a trivial quarrel of the night before.

Kitty was just finishing the last tiny lump of ice cream from the bottom of the tall glass when Sam entered the store with Belle Paulding. Kitty's dearest enemy.

He had bowed stiffly in salutation, and Kitty had responded with a "Good morning, Mr. Hastings," emphasizing the name as sweetly and as coldly as the frozen delicacy she had just consumed.

That had been the start of the trouble, but the end had been slow in coming. That afternoon Kitty went motoring with Saunders, though she hated motor cars, and Belle went buggy riding with Sam to punish Saunders for his imagined disloyalty.

Saunders and Miss Paulding had quickly patched their quarrel up, but Kitty was unyielding, and there was a squareness to Sam's chin that did not argue in favor of pliability of personality.

With ceremonious politeness each strove to show the other how little it mattered, but Kitty cried herself to sleep night after night, and Sam swore softly, but fervently, at what he was pleased to term the foolishness of woman-kind.

So matters stood when the excursion of the Auburnville cornet band was announced. The boys needed new uniforms, and Dick Potts had promised to learn the euphonium if they would buy him one.

All public spirited citizens purchased tickets. Sam bought two through force of habit and then viciously tore them up, whereby the band profited another 50 cents, for Sam was determined to go on that excursion if only to show that he could go without Kitty.

He had never gone on an excursion alone save once, when Kitty was spending a week with her aunt over in Cadville, and he had had a miserable time. Now he did not look for enjoyment, but Kitty needn't think he could not go alone if he wanted to.

Much the same sentiment animated Kitty, though she arranged to go with a married sister, and it so happened that they passed over the gangplank together, with the formal greeting that was now customary.

The picnic was held on Paddle Island, out in the lake, a favorite picnic ground. A narrow strip of land connected two rough oval extremities that by an abuse of the imagination might be said to resemble a paddle. Bobby Seaton, who was in the primary class, aptly, if improperly, described it as "a peninsula with an island at each end."

As soon as lunch was disposed of the elders settled themselves near the baskets, while the young folk wandered off to either end of the island, followed by a fusillade of injunctions to hurry back the moment the first whistle sounded.

Sam and Kitty followed suit, but Sam made certain that Kitty was headed for the southern blade of the paddle before he started north. It was dreary work sitting all alone on the point, and presently the fresh air and the soft bed of pine-needles combined to bring sleep to the worried brain.

It seemed to Sam that he had enjoyed only a brief nap, but by the time he had hunted up the cabin some of the boys had built for use in the duck season and had borrowed the bathing trunks he found there he was in the cool water a few minutes when the warning whistle blew.

Madly he dashed from the water into the hut to find that in that brief interval some one had "chawed" his clothes. His underwear was as full of knots as a snake that had been lunching off a full set of pool balls, his trousers were tied into a true lover's knot that suggested anything but sentiment, and the laces of his shoes offered a good ten minutes of unpicking. Sam was still surveying the damage when the second whistle sounded. "Blow, darn ye!" he cried savagely as he attacked the knots. "If you can't wait for a fellow I'll swim for it. I'm not goin' to make my dee-bu in this."

He cast a glance of scorn at the infinitesimal swimming trunks and attacked the knots with a haste that verified the old adage as to speed. The boat was a good half mile from shore as he burst through the bushes that grew about the rude landing and shook his fist at the departing steamer.

He was still expressing his opinion of things when there was a rustle in the bushes, and Sam turned to face Kitty, who walked with a limp and carried a stick in her hand.

"Has the boat gone?" she cried in despair. "I started up so quickly that I wrenched my ankle. I called for help, but no one seemed to hear."

"I was at the other end of the island," explained Sam, who seemed to think that the reproach was directed against him. "I took a nap and didn't realize how long I slept. I took a swim after that, and some kids 'chawed' my clothes. I just got here myself. They'll miss us at the dock and send back for us. Can I fix your ankle?"

"I'm afraid I shall have to ask your assistance, Mr. Hastings," said Kitty, suddenly mindful of the fact that she was speaking to Sam.

He helped her to a rock and carefully cut away the shoe. Then with the sleeves of his shirt he improvised a bandage that brought relief and noted with satisfaction that the sprain seemed to be slight, since there was little swelling.

"That will have to do until we can get to town," he said as he rose to his feet. "Does it feel any easier, Miss Norwood?"

"Very much, thank you, Mr. Hastings."

Sam gritted his teeth and mentally assured himself that when a fellow takes the trouble to bind up a girl's ankle and sacrifices his very newest and handsomest shirt for a bandage the least she might do would be to call him "Sam," as of old. He moved stiffly away and took a seat on a bowlder behind her. If she was lonesome she could call him.

But Kitty, though she was dreadfully lonesome and a little bit afraid, was too proud to call. Even the faint scent of tobacco that now and then drifted past her on some vagrant breeze was comforting, since it was an indication of Sam's presence, but she would not speak.

Sam gloomily regarded her eloquent shoulders and longed to take her in his arms and comfort her, but he assured himself that it was her place to make the overture. It looked as though the deadlock would continue unbroken when the serpent entered this lonesome Eden.

It was only a tiny gartersnake scarcely twelve inches long, and it was hurrying away from the human intruders as rapidly as possible when Sam spied it. With a long switch he turned its course and headed it past the rock where Kitty was sitting.

The rustling in the grass caught her attention, and, looking down, she spied the wriggling length of green.

With a shrill scream of "Sam!" she struggled to her feet and the next instant was sobbing in her terror, with her arms about his neck.

With cruel ingratitude Sam dispatched his benefactor and lifted the girl in his arms.

"We'll go sit on the dock, Kitty," he suggested. "There are no snakes there. Pretty soon, if help doesn't come, I'll swim over to shore and get a small boat somewhere."

"Some one will come, Sam," she declared. "Anyhow, it's nice here—for awhile."

"You bet it is, Kitty," assented Sam as the girl crept close to the protecting circle of his arm.

Then in a torrent of words they had their explanation. It cleared the air wonderfully, and presently Kitty patted the hand that clasped her waist.

"You say you didn't like to take Belle riding," she whispered. "Just as though you had all the trouble. I bet you wouldn't like it any better to let Mr. Saunders pretend to make love to you."

"No, I wouldn't," assented Sam honestly as he bent his head to claim another kiss. "Kitty, I'm sorry I killed that snake."

"But it was a snake," explained Kitty, as though that were sufficient reason, even though it was very nice—for a snake.

"Papa, will you tell me one thing?"

"Yes, my son."

"If crows were to hold a meeting and swear at one another, would that be what they call a caw-caw?"

BENNINGTON

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Knight are in Boston for a few days.

Miss Helen Holt attended the fair at Rochester on Sept. 23.

Rev. G. H. Dunlap is to exchange next Sunday with the pastor at Charlestown.

Mr. Charles Gunn received a visit from his brother recently, Samuel Gunn, of Lynn, Mass.

George W. Clyde of Keene, with Mrs. Sarah Darrah of Antrim, were calling on friends in town last week.

Miss Adelaide Richardson who has spent the summer in the family of her brother, W. G. Richardson, has gone to Winchester, Mass., to spend the winter.

The roll call of the Congregational church last Thursday evening was a most delightful and interesting occasion. One of the most pleasing events was a beautiful letter written by Lucretia Dodge, one of the oldest if not the oldest member. Supper was served to one-hundred, the entire parish being invited. Mrs. Sarah Keeser of Andover, Mass., was one of the visiting members. The church has of late received some very handsome gifts of money.

At the eighth Republican senatorial convention held in town hall, in this place, on Thursday last, Edson H. Patch, Esq., of Frankestown, was unanimously nominated their candidate to represent the district. Mr. Patch is a farmer, cattle and lumber dealer, and has served his town six years as Selectman; is a successful business man. If elected, no doubt Mr. Patch would faithfully and well represent the district.

EAST ANTRIM.

Miss Ethel Day, who has been at the Mt. View farm returned to Massachusetts on Tuesday.

Earl Prescott visited his sister, Mrs. McDowell, last week.

Campbell pond water seems to be causing about as much excitement as politics just now.

A settlement of the Chase Joudrey dispute was effected last week, Mr Chase settling the claim.

Mr. Nylander lost a valuable horse last week.

Herbert Curtis is teaming lumber for Mr. Hafeli.

Kasimir Hafeli has taken the contract to put the Chase lumber on the car at West Deering.

It isn't often that East Antrim has a husking but when they do it is usually a success, and the one at Otis Knapp's on Wednesday evening of last week was no exception. A large number were present and fun reigned supreme. There was only one fault there was a very few red ears, so some were imported for the occasion. Lunch was served in abundance.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly falling to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

The Direct Primary

Under this heading the Nashua Telegraph has the following very apt statements to make, and they just coincide with our views to the letter:

There is no question but that nominations made through the direct primary come the nearest to being real expressions of the people. The caucus-convention method is cumbersome. Sometimes, perhaps we might say many times, the Convention choice meets with the approval of the majority and of course it is right that the majority should rule. With the direct primary, however, there can be no question on this point. Nominations made under such conditions are direct expressions of the popular will. Under the old system of electing delegates, it was comparatively easy for shrewd politicians to get hold of credentials and intrust them into the keeping of persons who could be "depended" upon. With the caucus-convention law now on the statute books of New Hampshire it is manifestly more difficult to "control" a convention than under the old regime. The present law is a vast improvement, but the direct primary would be better.

With the Republican party pledged to the direct primary there is abundant hope that this law may be written into the statutes of New Hampshire. Many of us hope that the time will be at the session of the legislature next winter. But should there be a slip-up, should representatives and senators be elected, a majority of whom were not in favor of the direct primary, we must not be discouraged. The good intent of the Republican party is shown in its platform declaration. The real success will depend upon how the voters in the districts, cities and towns view the matter by insisting that their representatives subscribe to the state platform before nominations are made.

Much care and attention should be given this matter and when our candidates are nominated in caucus to represent the town in the legislature, whether it be of one party or another, our people should know about where he stands—whether he will represent the people who send him, or whether he will represent only himself or someone who does not have the interests of his constituency at heart. Voters should bear this in mind, and in looking out for their own interests will very much improve existing conditions.

Someone has suggested that the significance of the three republican flags to one democratic, displayed in the Square, is the ratio of the town vote in the coming national election, however this is not vouched for at the present time, and could not be believed by some.—Peterboro Transcript.

And what shall we say of Antrim; two Democratic flags, two Independence flags, and no Republican flag!
