EDSON H. PATCH,

Of Francestown, Republican Candidate for Senator in the Eighth District

At the recent Senatorial Convention held in Bennington town hall, Edson H. Patch, Esq., of Francestown, was its unanimous choice for candidate to represent the district in the New Hampshire Senate. Mr. Patch is a representative man of ability, and his election will elevate a man to a position which he will fill with credit to himself, his town and the district. His townsmen have honored him in office, as the following record will show:

Edson H. Patch was born Feb. 5, 1860, and always lived in Francestown. Has been engaged in lumbering, farming and cattle dealing and dealt some in real estate. Served his town as Selectman six years and Chairman of Board four years; Moderator for ten years. Represented Francestown in General Court in 1895. Is also Justice of the Peace and President of New Oak Fair Association. Has been Master and Secretary of Oak Hill Grange, No. 82, P. of H. Married, Jan. 18, 1892, Nell Eunice Fletcher of Greenfield, N. H., and have three children.

Death of Mrs. Harriett S. Brooks

For several weeks, Mrs. Brooks had been failing in health, resulting from a general breaking down. She died Saturday night last, at her home on Wallace street, where she had been tenderly cared for by her nephew, Irving Felton and wife, during her last illness. Her late husband, Levi Brooks, died about a year and half ago. Deceased was 64 years old. Funeral was held from the Baptist church Tuesday, of which she was a member; her pastor, Rev. O. E. Kendall, officiating. The members of Hand in Hand Rebekah Lodge and Ephraim Weston, W. R. C., attended in a body, the former reading their burial service; deceased was a faithful member of both organizations. Interment was in Maplewood. Sympathy is extended the surviving relatives.

A great disappointment to the state democracy and many others was the refusal of Judge Bingham of Manchester to accept the nomination of Governor of the state. However, the choice of Hon. Clarence E. Carr of Andover, places another good man in the field, and may the best man win!

There are a great many politicians and would-be politicians throughout this land who no doubt wish that this cruel scrimmage were over.

Someone has observed that Mr. Hearst is spending a great deal of money. Well, isn't he getting a quid pro quo in fame or notoriety?

Oliver Cromwell

Was one of the greatest men that England has produced; and after much calumny and misrepresentation he is becoming better known and more highly respected and valued as the years go by. Thomas Carlyle in his "Oliver Cromwell's Letters and Speeches with elucidations" published Litch in 1846, did much to bring out his true character; and he was followed by the celebrated historian J. H. Merle D'Aubigne, D. D., who wrote, "The Protector, a Vindication", in which he gave a full account of his life and character. The latter book is the more valuable; because it is the careful work of an outsider, native of Switzerland, who could not be charged with being swayed by English prejudices; and now Oliver Cromwell is generally praised and honored, and a number of statues have been erected to his memory in London and other parts of England; and as September 5, was the 250th anniversary of his death, attention has been attracted to him anew.

He was born in Huntingdon, a market town in the county of the same name, about 60 miles from London, on April 25, 1590. In 1610, he entered Sidney College, Cambridge; but his father dying the next year, he returned home to take charge of the family which consisted of his mother and six sisters. Soon after this he was converted and became prominent as a puritan; a position which he occupied during the remainder of his life. In 1620, he was married to Elizabeth, the daughter of Sir James Bouchier. In 1625, Charles the first became King, and soon after troublous times commenced in England. Charles married a French princess who was a Roman Catholic, and she used her influence in favor of that religion. In addition to this, Charles had high ideas of Kingly power and authority; sought to raise taxes without the authority of parliament; and vigorously and barbarously punished those who in any way opposed him either civilly or religiously.

Cromwell was elected a member of Parliament in 1628; and soon distinguished himself as a leader in this and successive parliaments. When the civil war commenced in 1642, Cromwell and two of his sons, one 20 and the other 16 years old, joined the parliamentary army, and he again distinguished himself, and became lieutenant general. After Charles was captured and brought under the power of the parliament, Cromwell did all he could to come to terms with him and restore to him limited authority; but at length fully convinced of the King's duplicity and insincerity, he joined with others in arranging for his trial and final execution on Jan. 30, 1649.

After the death of King Charles, Cromwell was appointed Lord-lieutenant of Ireland where the Roman Catholics were barbarously murdering the Protestants. After restoring order there, he went to Scotland, where the young prince, afterwards Charles the Second had raised an army, which Cromwell conquered. He was now acknowledged to be the chief man in the government; and some time after in 1653 it was decided that he should assume the title of "Lord Protector of the Commonwealth of England, Scotland and Ireland", and "all the courts of Europe recognized and congratulated the new Governor of England". In 1657 the parliament decided that for the best interests of the country, it was desirable that Cromwell should have the crown, and the title of King. He at once refused; but on its being pressed he asked for time to consider it, and after 10 days refused it. Another committee was sent to him, and he again refused; and then a third time he was pressed and he still refused. But he still continued to be "Protector", and really exercised more power than King Edward the Seventh does at the present time. The burden of government pressed him, and in 1658 his health began to decline, and he died Sept. 3, of that year, and the majority of the people regretted his removal from them. He was a good and a great man, and a Christian; and exercised a Christian influence on all around him.

His son Richard succeeded him as Protector, but he had not the ability of his father, and in April 1659, he left the office, and after awhile, he made his home in Cheshunt, near London, where he lived in strict privacy until his death in 1712. Charles the Second was invited to return to England and become King, which he did in 1660. He was a striking contrast to Cromwell. Chambers cyclopaedia says of him, "his life was most dissolute, his adulteries and the profligacy of his court, scarcely paralleled in British history".

Special Precinct Meeting

As is quite generally known throughout the Precinct, the water supply of Antrim has been unfit for drinking purposes for a week past, owing to existing conditions at the source of the supply—Campbell pond.

For this reason a special meeting was held at Engine house hall on Saturday evening last, called by the commissioners and board of health, to get an expression of the people in regard to fencing a portion of the pond. Some discussion was indulged in with reference to pastures, spring, debris, mud, etc., and it was finally thought best that the commissioners go ahead at once and clean out all refuse matter and put conditions in first class shape. The matter of fencing portions of the pond was postponed for the present.

The prospects are that with advancing cold weather and the probability of fall rains before long, that the water at the pond will improve; and when existing conditions there are removed, things will resume their normal shape. We shall then again enjoy pure water from the source of our supply as we have for so many years in the past.

The Caucuses

On Saturday evening last the Democratic voters held their caucus in Town hall; Milton Tenney was chairman, and L. R. Gove Clerk. The nominations made were as follows:

- Representative—William F. Dickey
- Supervisors—George F. Perry, Warren W. Merrill, Michael J. Lynch.
- Moderator—John S. McIlvaine
- Ballot Inspectors—John L. Brownell, Caleb M. Hills.

The Republican voters held their caucus on Monday evening in Town hall, and made choice of the following nominations:

- Representative—George F. Lowe
- Supervisors—John D. Hutchinson, Hiram W. Eldredge, Alfred G. Holt
- Moderator—William E. Cram

Supervisor of Music

Miss Helen D. Daggett of Lawrence, Mass., Supervisor of Music for Antrim and Hillsboro, visited all the schools on Tuesday. Miss Daggett is a graduate of the Weaver-System of teaching school music. This system was introduced into the schools of Peterboro and Hillsboro last year and met with the strong approval of all who saw the results. The introduction of instruction in music into the schools was made possible by private munificence co-operating with the School Board. The experiment will be watched with interest, as music is now generally recognized as a necessary part of the school curriculum.

The Antrim Pharmacy has a change of advertisement this week.

A Lower Rate of Postage

All good Anglo Saxons whether they reside in the British Isles or in the United States or in any of the four quarters of the globe where the Union Jack or the stars and stripes float, must rejoice at the advent of two cent postage between the two largest bodies of the English speaking races. There are many, but all too few, unifying influences of these two great people who are substantially one in language, in laws, in literature and in religion. There are thousands of Englishmen and Americans who cordially dislike each other, and with cause, for cousins, brothers and sisters do the same. There are many disagreeable, selfish and mean people in both countries but these people are not typical of either country for in heart and purpose and aspiration the spirit of both countries is progressive, tolerant and altruistic beyond that of any other country or time, ancient or modern. It is an inspiring thought, inspiring as it should be, to every Englishman and every American that the common language is slowly but surely pervading the entire world and that national honesty, benevolence and beneficence are following in its wake.

In the Post Office at Kansas there are $300,000 paid by the purchasers of money orders. If there were a postal saving bank as urged by Mr. George L. Von Meyer, the Postmaster General, this money and millions more would be safely deposited—more safely than under any bank guarantee system, and depositors would not only be getting a rate of interest on the money, but the money would be circulated.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox says that no man under 35 has ever been serious. Poets have different views points and we have Byron for authority that "An oyster may be crossed in love. Because he mopeth idly in his shell. And heaves a lonely subteraneous sigh Just as a monk might do within his cell".

The Republican candidate for the Presidency appears to be saying something these times, but the duel between the President and Mr. Bryan is creating so much fire and smoke, that the most can be said is that Taft also spoke.

Judge Cleland of Chicago has ordered that all baby carriages out at night shall carry head lights. It looks to us as if under the circumstances a curfew law would be more effective for the public safety.

The fact that so many undesirable citizens are taking to woods is another reason for forest preservation or reforesterization. It is awful to think there may not be woods enough to hide the grafters.

An Oklahoma bachelor's club has seriously propounded the question "how can 30 men marry 38 girls". The question is doubtless much more serious though to the 38 girls.

Every little while we are surprised by the return of an old fashion. It is a good many years now since we had a political tempest over that "burn this" letter.

The next Senator who exchanges letters with the Standard Oil or other suspicious corporation had better secure a safety deposit vault for his correspondence.

Political affairs have been so warm lately that the average voter has scarcely had time to think how funny it is that Mr. Taft weighs nearly 300 pounds.

From all we can learn there are not many babies being named "Haskell", "Foraker", or "Dunpont" just now.

Where now is that momentous Brownsville issue?

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a Home of Swamp-Root pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

The different departments were well filled with exhibits of a very superior nature, the department of fruit and vegetables calling for especial mention. Orland Eaton was the largest exhibitor in the former department, having 47 entries. Among his novelties he had on exhibition were several different varieties of apples grown in 1907, in fair state of preservation. In the art department Miss Florence Goodhue had several entries of beautiful work. She was an exhibitor and won several prizes at the state fair. The public were very generous in their patronage during the afternoon. There was a closed session of the order with program in the evening—Cabinet.

Rheumatism, Tonsillitis, Grippe.
Claremont, N. H., Feb. 11, 1901.
Dr. H. Sanche & Co., New York,

Dear Sirs:— I rejoice to have the chance given me to answer your question, Has Oxydonor given entire satisfaction? It has!

I hold it to be one of the greatest discoveries of the 19th century. For three years I have used it with ever increasing sense of its value. At the start it wrought a permanent cure of Rheumatism in my left shoulder; next of Tonsillitis in my youngest child, and it has since easily and successfully combated whatever ills have assailed my family. Its potency in dissipating an attack of Grippe is especially to be noted.

Wishing that every family in the land might have an Oxydonor, I am,

Very sincerely yours,
Joseph A. Ticknor,
Rector of Union Church.

Dr. H. Sanche & Co., New York

Dear Sirs:— It gives me great pleasure, after a further use of nearly seven years, to again testify to the worth of Oxydonor. Two of the instruments are kept on hand for family use. Having learned to apply Oxydonor at the first signs of serious trouble (without knowing oftentimes what such may indicate) we keep free from disease, and this is about all that there is to it now, so far as we are concerned.

Very sincerely yours,
Joseph A. Ticknor,
Minister in charge St. John's church

"I do not know what I would have been like today had I not got Peruna, for I was in a terrible state. I had pains all over and was cross and irritable. I was losing hope of ever being well again, and was downhearted. I am today a cured woman, after suffering for nine months."

"I cannot tell you how happy I feel, but you will know. I never heard of such medicine; it is the best medicine on earth. My husband is now taking it. I will always keep Peruna in my house. Peruna is the best friend I ever had. It must be praised; it cured me."

Pe-ru-na Tablets.

For two years Dr. Hartman and his assistants have labored incessantly to create Peruna in tablet form, and their strenuous efforts have just been crowned with success. People who object to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets.

"I was restored to health by this medicine. People ask about me from different places, and are surprised that I can do all of my housework alone, and that I was cured by the doctor of chronic catarrh."

"My husband was cured of asthma, my daughter of earache and catarrh of the stomach, and my son of catarrh of the throat. When I was sick I weighed one hundred pounds; now I weigh one hundred and forty. Peruna quiets the nerves, and is a great specific for all forms of chronic catarrh."

WORTH KNOWING.

To remove Pimples, Blackheads, Blisters and all forms of Skin eruptions, is, according to a well known Physician, a very easy matter; he says that many are afflicted with some one of the above ailments, and are subject to a great deal of embarrassment on account of the unsightly appearance which they present, and recommends the following simple harmless and inexpensive treatment. Go to your druggist and get this prescription filled: Clearola one-half ounce, Ether one ounce, Alcohol seven ounces; mix, shake well and apply to the parts effected night and morning, allowing it to remain for at least ten minutes, then wipe off the powder from the skin. Use a soft cloth or sponge in applying the mixture and in from ten days to two weeks your face will be smooth and clear as a marriage bell. Get the Pure Clearola, which is only put up in one-half ounce packages. Ask to see it.

The Proving.

By GRANT OWEN.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

"I don't just know how to explain it," said Margaret West.

She turned her eyes from the cool, blue stretches of the lake and looked thoughtfully at Graham, who peered on the rail of the boathouse, was absently pulling at the fingers of the gauntlets in his hands.

The young man stiffened, and a slow smile, in which there was a hint of grimness, curved the corners of his mouth.

"I rather think I understand," he said quietly. "You are disappointed in me. Isn't that it?"

She was silent for a moment. "Yes, that is it," she said at length, and at something in her voice his face hardened.

"Then you wanted me to enter that road race Thursday?" he asked.

"Yes," she said simply. "And because I won't."

She turned to him quickly. "It isn't that I'm tremendously interested in that race," she interrupted him, "nor that I care a snap whether or not you win it. The point is—the point is—"

She paused; her brows drew together in a little frown; her fingers toyed with a bit of watermelon she had broken from the vine that covered the porch.

"I wanted you to be in it—to go over the course. That would be sufficient," she finished.

"I see," he said. "You wanted me to disprove these stories that are going the rounds about my lack of nerve. Is that it?"

"Yes," she said again. He drew himself up. His shoulders were squared. His attitude was that of a man summoning to his aid all his moral courage.

"The stories they have told you are quite correct," he said, somewhat huskily.

"Oh!" she said, and in her voice there was something of pain and something, too, of weariness, as if she had been expecting this very thing and yet was unwilling, even in her preparedness, to hear it.

"They are perfectly right in what they say of me," he went on calmly. "I have lost my nerve. There's nothing would tempt me to take up road racing again."

"Nothing?" she questioned. "Nothing," he repeated inexorably. "I am not in the habit of offering an explanation nor any excuses for my position in the matter. But I would like you to know the circumstances. Would you care to listen to them?"

"If you choose to tell me," she said dully.

"You remember that race three years ago over the Meadow Brook course?" said he. "Well, it was then it happened. Stanley was with me. He and I had a good lead. We were tearing past the curve at the old church, letting out the car for all the time was in her. As we swung that turn I saw a child just in front of us not twenty feet away. It seemed—"

"How she got past the race that held the crowd back I can't say, but there she was right in the course and not a ghost of a show apparently of escaping us. I don't know to this day what saved her. I only know there was a great gasping sigh from Stanley and a groan from the crowd. I tried to swing out for her, but there was so little time. Anyway, it was some sort of a special Providence that saved her. We shot past her, so close that I shut my eyes."

The girl saw a nervous tremor shake the big shoulders. Her eyes narrowed. "But the child wasn't hurt, you say?" she asked.

"Not in the least. But those few seconds were enough for me. I couldn't stand them again. That is why I am out of the game—a quitter, if you choose to put it that way."

The girl said nothing. She sat looking out at the sparkling lake with troubled eyes.

At length Graham arose. "I don't blame you in the least for thinking of me as you do," said he, "nor for being disappointed. Goodby."

He slid from the rail and went down the steps to the big road car standing in the driveway. He had pulled on his gauntlets and was just climbing into the car when around the corner of the boathouse came a wild-eyed, disheveled gardener from one of the houses down the street.

"Mr. Graham, sir," he panted, "will you be gettin' the doctor, quick! Tim Conley's fell from the stagin' on the stables where they're palatin' an' he's hurted bad, sir. 'Tis dead he'll be in ten minutes if the doctor's not fetched before that. Hurry! For God's sake, hurry!"

"I'll have him here in five," Graham called, and opened up the big car. It sprang forward like a thing alive and went tearing down the driveway in a great cloud of dust.

Margaret, who had run to the edge of the veranda, saw him swing into the roadway beyond, and the drifting dust which rose high above the poplars told of the terrific pace he was setting.

It was four minutes later, after a nervous pacing of the veranda, that she heard the whir of the approaching car again. She ran down the steps and hurried along the drive to the roadway. Up the hill, with honking horn, came a dull, black streak. She could see Graham bending low over the steering wheel and the doctor, hatless and begrimed with dust, clinging desperately to the seat beside him.

Then out of the crossroad just below where she stood and directly in the path of the coming cyclone came a rattling farm wagon, driven by old Mrs. Clark, who was as deaf as a post. The girl covered her eyes and screamed. There were a wild yell, the sound of splintered wood and a terrific grinding crash.

When Margaret looked again the wagon alone was in the road. The automobile, turned on its side, lay against the shattered fence. In the field beyond lay two huddled figures.

In a moment the girl was running in that direction with all the speed she could summon. As she reached the scene of the accident one of the two figures scrambled limply to his feet. The other painfully propped itself upon an elbow. Then she saw that the man who stood erect was the doctor.

Even as she came running into the field she heard Graham's voice, rather faint, it is true, but perfectly calm. "How badly are you hurt, doc?" it inquired.

"Only a bit," was the response, "a few bruises and a scratch or two."

"Then get up to the Copley place as fast as you can."

"But you?" the doctor demurred. "I'm all right. Never mind me. I'll be fresh as a lark when you get back Hurry on now."

Margaret ran to his side and, kneeling down, began to wipe the blood from his face. Already the doctor was making a hurried examination, while Graham fumed and fretted and bade him hurry to Tim Conley.

"H'm!" said the doctor at length. "Pretty badly smashed up, but we're lucky, both of us, to get out of it as well as we did. Talk about your nerve! By Jove, the way he swung that car out of the way was magnificent. Never a thought for himself nor me either. I'm convinced," he ended.

He pulled a roll of bandages from his case and handed them to the girl. "Just do up his head and stop the flow of blood as best you can, if you will, Miss West," he commanded. "I'll go up to Copley's and fix Tim up. Then I'll come back here and set Graham's fractures."

He went limping up the road, and the girl bent closer to Graham.

"It was splendid!" she cried, her eyes shining.

"That?" said Graham. "Oh, that was nothing. I had to do that, you see. It was a question of killing the old lady or getting a bit banged up myself."

Her face was very close to his. Something warm and moist struck his cheek.

"Those wicked stories they told about you"—she began.

"They're true," he declared. "I have lost my nerve. I couldn't go into a road race to save my life. This was different, you see. This was something that had to be done."

Two warm lips were pressed to his grimy, blood-stained forehead. "I had to be done!" she repeated meaningfully. "Oh, you delicious simpleton!"

The doctor, limping back a few moments later, discreetly screened himself behind a tree.

"There are times it is better to wait before reducing fractures," he meditated.

Lefty Tibet.

Although the mystery concerning Tibet has been mostly dissipated as a result of the English invasion, the curious nature of that country continues to excite great interest. Think of an inhabited land covering between 700,000 and 800,000 square miles and having a mean elevation exceeding 10,400 feet, which is considerably higher than Mont Blanc! The loftiest peaks reach an altitude of about 20,000 feet, while the deepest valleys, in the higher parts of the plateau, do not descend below 14,400 feet, which is higher than Pike's peak. Toward the south the valleys sink lower, and rice and fruit are cultivated up to 11,500 feet. Here the most important centers of population are found—Lassa, Shigatse and Gyantse.—Youth's Companion.

WOMAN'S BACKACHE

The back is the mainspring of woman's organism. It quickly calls attention to trouble by aching. It tells, with other symptoms, such as nervousness, headache, pains in the loins, weight in the lower part of the body, that a woman's feminine organism needs immediate attention.

In such cases the one sure remedy which speedily removes the cause, and restores the feminine organism to a healthy, normal condition is LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Mrs. Will Young, of 6 Columbia Ave., Rockland, Me., says:

"I was troubled for a long time with dreadful backaches and a pain in my side, and was miserable in every way. I doctored until I was discouraged and thought I would never get well. I read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and decided to try it; after taking three bottles I can truly say that I never felt so well in my life."

Mrs. Augustus Lyon, of East Earl, Pa., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I had very severe backaches, and pressing-down pains. I could not sleep, and had no appetite. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me and made me feel like a new woman."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

LONDON GAMING DENS

The Way the Police Descend Upon Them In a Raid.

SKILL, CUNNING AND DARING.

Absolute Secrecy is Maintained by the Officials, and the Policemen Are Kept In the Dark Until the Last Moment—Getting into the Club.

The police have recently carried out some sensational raids on big gaming clubs, and it may be interesting to learn how these raids are effected. This is how it is done in London: As soon as the detectives' suspicions have been confirmed they apply to the commissioner of police for a warrant to enter. The warrant authorizes certain officers mentioned by name to enter the club in the name of the king. Ordinary policemen are not permitted to carry out a raid, but the detectives can call upon them for assistance at the critical moment.

Absolute secrecy is enforced right up to the moment of entry. There is no excitement at the station on that day, and the men on duty have no suspicion of what is in the wind. Plans of the house are drawn and carefully studied by the raiding officers, for the doorkeeper of the club is prepared at the slightest alarm to send a warning to his customers, and every vestige of gambling apparatus will mysteriously disappear and the raid fail. A carefully planned ruse, therefore, has to be evolved which will disarm suspicion.

During the day a body of "reserve" policemen will receive a communication from the station that they will be required to parade at a certain hour, and they meet with no idea of what is expected of them. They are drawn up in line, and after names have been called over they are dismissed from the station one by one, with the injunction to be in the immediate neighborhood of a certain street in a couple of hours and not to get near the spot before the prearranged moment.

The first officer to appear on the scene is the one in charge of the raid. He is always disguised and usually looks like a well-dressed man about town. He passes the club carelessly, but it is sufficient for him to learn from a confederate inside that gaming has commenced. A policeman then saunters to the corner of the street and stays there as though he were on "point" duty. Then, not till then, is the information of the precise club to be raided secretly conveyed to the attacking force in their hiding places, while the club, unconscious of its impending fate, pursues its gambling.

The first difficulty to surmount is to get past the burly doorkeeper. If this is not successfully done the raid will end in failure. Presently the sound of a drunken song is heard in the distance, and two apparently rough-looking men come staggering along. As they near the entrance to the club they begin disputing and soon come to blows. The doorkeeper peeps through the wicket and orders the men away. One of the men rushes at the wicket and challenges the doorkeeper to "come outside like a man" and at the same time shouts out something about the character of the house. The combatants continue fighting, and the officer at the corner comes along and orders them away. The men return, however, to "have it out with the doorkeeper." The noise increases, attracting homeward-bound gentlemen in evening dress, who gather round and urge the men on.

The doorkeeper by this time becomes alarmed, for the rowdy crowd will frighten away his clients. Perhaps just at this moment a member of the club arrives and seeks admission. The door is opened with the utmost caution to admit him. Before he has time to fasten if the two officers hastily secure the member and rush upstairs. The two combatants were disguised policemen and the onlookers detectives.

As soon as an entrance into the club has been effected the constable at the corner sounds his whistle, and before the sound has died away the whole neighborhood is alive with police. If the house boasts of a trapdoor on the roof, the flash of lanterns will be seen up there, the men having been concealed among the chimney pots since it was dark. The front door is secured, and the police form a guard around the house, so that escape is impossible.

Meantime the scene upstairs is one of the wildest excitement. The gamblers, intent on business, had not noticed the scuffle in the passage, and the first intimation they get of the state of affairs is when the door is thrown open and the officer in charge calls on them to regard themselves as his prisoners. Then they realize their position. The tables are overturned, and card counters and money roll all over the floor as the members endeavor to escape. They make for the street door, but, balked in this direction, hurry to all parts of the house to hide.

The crestfallen members of the club are conveyed to the station, each in the custody of two officers. Then the house is searched for the gaming apparatus. Every inch of the place is examined, for gamblers have remarkable contrivances whereby they can hide their apparatus in the event of being raided. Tops of tables are knocked off, flooring taken up and walls searched for secret compartments. Yards of chalked string are regarded as prizes, and with these and more apparent proofs the case is ready for the magistrate. The evidence is laid before him, and the proprietor and members are charged and the sentence passed or a heavy fine imposed on the prisoners.—London Tit-Bits.

The Letters He Dictated.

"Well, goodby, dear," said Mr. Trueboy to his beloved spouse. "I must go and dictate those letters—twenty-six of them—so you mustn't expect me home very early."

"All right," was the response. "But I wish you wouldn't work so hard."

Half an hour later Mr. Trueboy entered his club and sat down, with three others, at a card table.

"Just a moment, you fellows, before the first hand is dealt. I've got to keep my word with my wife. One of you just take down what I dictate: 'A b c d e f g h i j k l m n o p q r s t u v w x y z.' There, those letters are off my mind!"

Willie Has Such an Active Brain.

"Was Daniel really such a wise man, mamma?" asked Willie thoughtfully.

"Yes, dear, as wise almost as Solomon, Willie."

"Well, mother, I bet Solomon would have done better than Daniel did, anyway," continued Willie.

"Why, what do you mean, my son?"

"I'll betcher Solomon would have had sense enough to charge admission when he went into the lions' den!"—Ladies' Home Journal.

Good Family.

"My daughter appears to have married very happily," remarked a lady.

"Her husband has not wealth, it must be admitted, but he has family."

"Yes, I heard he was a widower with six children!" a neighbor called acidly.

Signs.

"Do you believe in signs?"

"Well, I must confess that when I see a man wearing one proclaiming that he is deaf and dumb I get a little shaky."—Philadelphia Ledger.

HIS CORRECTION.

The American Knew a Little About Shakespeare and English.

An English literary man who visited this country some years ago to lecture frankly declared that he came not expecting to find accurate scholarship among Americans, especially on purely literary subjects, adding affably: "You have been too busy and useful a nation in practical matters to give much time to the arts and graces of learning."

During the dinner at which he made this remark he criticized Shakespeare, sharply declaring that his metaphors often were absurd, "as, for example," he said, "Sleep that knits up the ravell'd sleeve of care." How ridiculous to figure sleep as knitting up a torn sleeve of a coat!

A young American sitting near him said modestly: "I think the word is not sleeve, but sleave, the thin stuff of a damaged web. It is a technical expression among weavers."

"In the United States probably?" retorted the critic irritably. "Shakespeare never could have heard it. He meant sleave."

"I believe," persisted the American gently, "the word is printed sleave in all the old editions. It is not an American word, but has been used for centuries by weavers in Scotland and the north of England."

The visitor frowned and then with English frankness said, laughing: "Thank you, I was mistaken. Perhaps I am mistaken about other things and will be corrected before I leave your shores."

Hamlet's Bowl of Gruel.

George Melville, an old English actor, was fond of telling a funny story at his own expense. He was acting Hamlet in Bristol. It was the actor's role to take a bowl of gruel in the course of the evening, and his landlady sent over the usual refreshment from the lodgings in Queen square. She happened to have a "new" servant girl, who was explicitly directed to get to the stage door by the entrance from Bank street and then carry the gruel into the greenroom. She arrived at a moment when Mr. Melville was "on." Being unused to the ways of the theater, she asked a man at the wings where Mr. Melville was.

"There," said the super, pointing to the stage.

The actor was in the middle of the soliloquy "To be or not to be" when the girl advanced toward him, bearing the bowl, and said, "If you please, Mr. Melville, sir, here is your gruel."

BENNINGTON

The Republican voters of this town have nominated Charles F. Burnham as candidate for Representative; the Democrats have renominated George O. Joslin as their candidate.

REPUBLICAN FLAG RAISING

In the square on Saturday evening last, the Republicans held a flag-raising which was largely attended by our towns-people and many from surrounding towns. The Hillsboro band furnished music for the occasion and the address of the evening was given by Hon. Charles J. Hamblett, of Nashua, who is an eloquent speaker and of great force. His remarks were listened to with interest, and applause was hearty. "Taft and Sherman" are sure of a large vote in this place, as well as the entire ticket, if we are to believe all we heard this night.

ADJUSTED HIS CANE.

Then the Man From Berlin Explained Why He Did It:

A man stood before a shop window with his cane sticking out from under his arm. A stout, blond gentleman in passing struck the cane smartly with his own, restoring it from its obstructive horizontal position to the proper vertical one.

"Say, what's the matter with you? You're the freshest guy I ever saw. Are you looking for trouble?"

Thus said the man whose cane had been tapped. But he who had tapped it, speaking with a German accent, answered gently:

"Why, sir, I did nothing but restore your cane to its right inclination. Absently you were holding it under your arm. It was jabbing people in the breast, the back, even the eye, and yet you meant no harm.

"Well, I stopped that nuisance which you were unconsciously committing. In Berlin it is the custom always to stop it so. And no one takes offense. On the contrary, in Berlin the correction is received with a smile and a word of thanks. Isn't it so here?"

"No, it isn't," said the other, "but it should be. I thank you, sir, myself, and I apologize."—New York Press.

John Wesley's Prescription.

"Here is a rare little book," said a Methodist local preacher. "It is John Wesley's 'Primitive Physick.' Wesley dabbled in medicine, setting a fashion that has not yet died out. Did you ever know a Methodist minister who didn't dabble in medicine?"

The full title of the volume was "Primitive Physick; or, An Easy and Natural Method of Curing Most Diseases." The local preacher said that he had paid $40 for the book, but that as a medical work it was not really worth 40 cents. To show the weakness of John Wesley's doctoring he quoted the following consumption cure: "Every morning cut up a little turf of fresh earth and, lying down, breathe into the hole for a quarter of an hour. I have known a deep consumptive cured thus."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Didn't Lose Any Sleep.

Jenner, the famous English physician, was essentially a strong and self-reliant man. He attended the prince consort through his fatal illness, he was the Prince of Wales' doctor when the heir to the British throne had so narrow an escape in 1872, and he also went to Darmstadt and remained in attendance upon the Princess Alice till she died. To practice medicine in "the fierce light that beats upon a throne" is not calculated to lessen the physician's anxieties, and one who knew Jenner well once questioned him on this point and hinted that his responsibilities must sometimes be sufficient to render sleep or rest impossible.

"Sleep," replied Jenner in his characteristic way. "I don't think that anxiety about a patient ever kept me awake five minutes in my life. I go to a bedside. I do my best. What more can I do? Why should I not sleep?"

THE SECOND EMPIRE.

Two Picturesque Episodes in a Period of Unrest.

Walking about the streets, riding on buses, junketing up and down the river in steamboats, I was profoundly struck by the unrest among the people, their intense hatred of emperor and empress. One day I caught a glimpse of Rochefort, carried aloft on the shoulders of a mob of students thronging the Boulevard Saint Michel. I never saw a man looking so helplessly frightened as did the founder of the Lanterne, then in its prime. Whether he feared the police or a fall I do not know, but his terror was affect.

In the summer time the emperor paid a visit to Beauvais. On the chance of getting material for an article acceptable in London I journeyed thither with North Peat, who went down as representative of the Morning Star. The prince imperial accompanied the emperor, who drove through living lanes of people stretching from the roadway to the open windows of the topmost chamber. They came to see, but they would not remain to cheer. The occasion was the presentation of prizes gained at the local Lycee. The head prize was never delivered, the winner, a lad of fourteen, declining to accept it from the hand of the hated emperor.—H. W. Lucy in Cornhill Magazine.

If you wish to reach the highest, begin at the lowest.—Syrus.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.
