Emma Goldman says "I am a follower of Satan". We are glad to hear it and if she catches him we predict he will find his equal.

A balloonist the other day, fell 4000 feet and was not hurt. Evidently ballooning is not so dangerous a sport as stepping on a banana peel.

A woman who had not heard from her husband for a month walked a distance of 1000 miles carrying 85 pounds of baggage, to find him. Our wager is two to one that he isn't worth it.

Lord Nelson, the famous British Admiral, signaled at Trafalgar "England expects every man to do his duty". The town of Antrim expects every man to do his duty at the polls. Vote NO!

Smith College has just inaugurated a course in journalism for its female students. Hereafter the newest ideas in "How to be beautiful" and "What to do in society" will bear the true University authority.

The wife of the Republican candidate for representative in Columbus, Ind., has declared that she is for his opponent and that she will use her influence to have him elected. This is certainly a striking example of a man losing his home district.

The supervising principal of the Trenton, N. J., public schools has issued an order that school teachers shall not use the telephone during school hours for the purpose of conversing with their men friends. This may be called a mandate for breaking up man dates.

W. R. Hearst recently had his sleep disturbed by a deputy sheriff who broke in the door of his state room on a Pullman car. Mr. Hearst should not complain though, when he remembers how many men's sleep he has disturbed of late by breaking open their letters.

According to the papers Mr. Bryan cannot win and Mr. Bryan cannot lose. This is a summing up of the situation with reference to both candidates in these last days of the campaign. If it were not for the betting pools it would be difficult to see through the fog of campaign lies.

The War Department has ordered the Ladrone Islands in the Phillipine group to be known hereafter as the Marianne Islands. It is said the natives objected to the name Ladrone as it is Spanish for robber. It is probable that they are well satisfied to be known now as the Mary Ann's.

The Duke of Abruzzi will marry the daughter of Senator Elkins of West Virginia. At least the King of Italy and his mother and his sister say he may. Only one obdurate old aunt remains to be coaxed into giving her consent. Where is that "new and independent spirit that is alive in Italy" that we have heard so much about?

Visitors arriving in Antrim at the Depot are usually told among the first things they hear, that half of the bridge spanning the river is in Bennington and half in Antrim. Crossing the bridge you are in Antrim and the first thing to meet the eye of our visitors is a "dump" where a large sign gives permission to any one to dump rubbish there. It is a most unsightly thing and should be discontinued. It does seem that some other place might be chosen for a public dumping ground than such a conspicuous place as this. We see the dump heap the moment we enter the town and first impressions are lasting. It is also the last thing we see when we leave Antrim. The Reporter is sure it would be gratifying to a large number of citizens, if the proper authorities would give this matter their attention.

The Licensed Saloon Question

Next Tuesday we are to decide whether we will have a licensed saloon in Antrim for 2 years from next May. Shall we try the experiment and see how we like it? It is said there are a number of persons in Antrim who drink intoxicating liquors, and it would be very convenient for them to be able to get their liquors in town instead of having to send away for them, and to drink them in company with others at the saloon, and thus have a good time all round. And then our boys, and our girls also would be able to see what a liquor saloon looks like, and how its votaries enjoy themselves, and could look forward to the time when they would be old enough to enjoy the same liberty.

Let every voter look the matter over, and decide, and act on the question. Those who wish for a licensed saloon will not forget to vote for it. But there is danger that some of those who do not want one may think the matter of little consequence, and may neglect to mark the "No" at the bottom of the list, and suppose it will come out all right. Let every voter who does not want a licensed saloon in Antrim be sure to vote "No" and thus show the full strength of the town on the right side of the question.

Good Citizenship Meeting

There were over 100 present at the good citizenship meeting held in the Town hall on Sunday afternoon, and what was peculiar the greater part of this attendance was men.

Ex Gov. Goodell presided at the meeting, also, spoke interestingly on the subject.

The principal speaker was Rev. O. E. Kendall of this town.

Rev. Mr. Salmond of South Framingham, Mass., also spoke in a very interesting manner and his remarks were both instructive and helpful.

Rev. A. M. Markey was to have spoken at the meeting, but owing to illness was unable to be present.

At intervals between the speeches, several of the old hymns were sung and congregational singing was enjoyed.

The meeting lasted about an hour and closed by the singing of America.

A serial story that promises remarkably well begins in the November number of THE LADIES' WORLD. It is called Hearts Insurgent, and the author is Grace MacGowan Cooke, whose name alone guarantees excellence. Besides this there is a quantity of short fiction by Harriet Rowland, and others that is unusually interesting. The special articles on The Holy Land, The Boy and His Parents, and What Women Can Do to Earn Money are continued; and in excellent time, there are several pages of suggestions for Christmas gifts to be made at home by grown-ups and children. The Household, Fashions and Dressmaking departments are full of tempting things both to eat and to wear. This number also contains a new song by the author of The Sweetest Story Ever Told, called "I've a Little Blue-Eyed Lassie". The children are well provided for, and altogether the issue is a most attractive one. [New York; Fifty Cents a Year.]

Hisgen and Graves Rally

The Evenly-Balanced Scales—signifying Equal Justice to All, Special Privileges to None!

In spite of the fact that the weather on Monday night was not up to the standard of late, quite a number of people were present at the "Independence" Rally held in the town hall. Something over 200 being estimated and mostly men.

Charles R. Jameson, Independent candidate for Representative, introduced the several speakers of the evening, among whom were Walter H. Lewis, candidate for Governor, and George M. Rief, candidate for Mayor of Manchester.

Mr. Lewis talked principally on the money situation of the country, explaining in an able manner the difference between currency and money, exhibiting a note bearing the date 1863 which was a treasury note, then one bearing the date of 1867 issued after the war and being styled as currency, and finally a silver certificate which was backed by silver bullion in the United States treasury. Mr. Lewis's remarks were instructive and well delivered holding the attention of his audience to the end when he received such generous applause that he was obliged to acknowledge the same.

Mr. Rief's address was of equal interest and he too received applause when points of interest were brought out. Mr. Rief explained in detail how that when a person gets money from the bank, and understands that he is only paying 5 per cent in reality he is paying as high as 12 per cent, when all indirect taxes are figured. The greater part of his address however was along the line of the tariff which he termed as the "mother of trusts."

The Antrim band furnished suitable music for the occasion rendering selections between the speeches. The meeting adjourned at about 9:30.

Resolutions

Whereas, in the Providence of God the Rev. D. A. Morehouse former pastor of the Congregational church of Hancock, N. H., has been taken from us by death and

Whereas, we esteemed him highly as a sincere christian, an able and consecrated gospel minister, an influential citizen, a sympathetic and brotherly man and a devoted husband.

Resolved, that we the Contoocook Valley Union, do express our deep sorrow over his death and our heart felt sympathy with his family.

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent by our secretary to Mrs. D. A. Morehouse in her sorrow.

Resolved, that this convention of Christian Endeavorers places itself on record as radically and unalterably opposed to the licensed dram shop. That it invites the heartiest effort of its members to turn the corrupt and corrupting institution out whereas it has been admitted, and to keep it out wherever a virtuous public opinion has declared it an out-law: That it hopes and expects from the legislature such sane and advanced legislation on the liquor question as shall protect all communities throughout the Commonwealth from a traffic that is no defender of virtue, can apologize for, but must consistently arraign and condemn.

Current News and Notes

New Material for Pulp

The wealth latent in weeds, garbage, rubbish and ash heaps is no doubt great. It has been often said and with truth, that the French would live luxuriously on the wastage of American tables. There is no doubt that we in this country are laboriously wasting fortunes in material that will, in future generations, be utilized and turned to account. For example, the useless cornstalk has been found, by recent experiments of chemists in the Bureau of Forestry, to be of decided value. It has been long known that alcohol can be manufactured from corn stalks, but it has only recently been discovered that fine grades of paper can be made from it at a cost almost as low as that of making wood pulp paper. The chemists in their experiments used the "soda-cooked" process. The pulp from the corn stalks was made in from 2 to 2 1/2 hours; while the preparation of wood pulp, has it is known, required from 12 to 14 hours. The cost of the wood paper pulp is $18 a ton and it is estimated that the new corn stalk material will not cost more and may probably cost less than that with further improvements in its manufacture. It is estimated that the supply of trees for wood pulp will soon be exhausted and it is interesting to know that we will still have the foundation of reading matter in the heretofore useless and even troublesome corn stalk.

Next Tuesday is Election Day

And it's up to every voter in Antrim and surrounding towns to go to the polls, and in voting his convictions exercise all the manhood there is in him. This is a time when this privilege should be a serious duty, and should be treated as such; to elect the best men to assist in making laws to govern the people and affairs of the state and nation, is a problem not easy to solve, and needs thoughtful consideration by everyone. The matter has so many sides to it that it seems almost impossible to touch them all, and the men to fill the several offices should be selected with great care—be positive that in the main their ideas are the same as yours. And in the matter of license, be sure that you vote NO! for no man who has the welfare of the town and her people at heart can do otherwise!

The Smoke Talk --- Political

Will take place Friday evening, to which all town-people are invited, ladies as well as gentlemen. Though it looks as if we shall not have the assistance of some of our politicians who were invited, some facts relating to Antrim affairs, both of the present time and during the past thirty years, and statements relating to the present National election, will be sandwiched in between good music, by Appleton's orchestra, which has been engaged till twelve o'clock.

A parade, with the band, is promised if the weather is favorable.

Remember date and place,—Friday evening, October 30, at the Antrim town hall.

Regards Hiring the Band

Statements to prejudiced voters against the Independent candidate, as to who the individuals were that paid for the band Monday night, he does not know; and the main promoter says no one knows but himself, that he considers the majority were naturally Democrats,—my opinion that the most of them were Independents. Just guess, as they have to as to where the 60 straight Independent votes for Selectman came from. The expenses of the Rally, including R. R. and hotel fare, is paid by Independents from this town; we never agreed to show the subscriptions. C. R. JAMESON.

The estate of the late John Alexander Dowie, alias Elijah the Second, it is said, is about four millions less than nothing, as is the mushroom religion founded by him.

[Deferred from last week.]

Mrs. Duncan of Antrim is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Hartshorn.

Bessie Dolliver was home for a day or two last week. She attended the Teachers' Institute at Manchester Friday.

The session of Teachers' Institute which was held here two weeks ago was said to be a very interesting one. The ladies furnished a dinner which added $12 to the funds of the Sewing Circle towards the repairs of the church. Many thanks are due the young ladies who took charge of the dinner.

Mrs. Adeline E. Steele, wife of William P. Steele, passed away at her home Oct. 5, at the age of 75 years. She had been failing for some time but the end came very suddenly at last. She was a kind neighbor and left many friends. She was a member of the Baptist church. She left a husband two sons and two daughters, several grand-children and two or more great grandchildren, to mourn their loss.

Saturday, Oct. 17, (the oldest person in town), Luther Cram died at his home. Had he lived to see his next birthday he would have been 90 years of age. He was born and had lived most of his life on the place where he died. He was a man who had the respect of all who knew him. He had held many town offices, representing the town at legislature at one time. He was always a strong temperance man and was interested in anything that pertained to the good of mankind. He leaves one daughter and two sons (one being in Romania) and four grand-children. He will be greatly missed in the community as well as in his home.

The Woman's Home Companion for November

The November Jubilee issue of the WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION has a special interest, because it is the Seven Hundredth Number of the oldest living Woman's Magazine. This issue of 88 pages, illustrated by famous artists, contrasted with the little flimsy 8-page issue of the same magazine which appeared in 1875.

The November issue, on which the publishers have spent special effort, contains two articles of importance to dwellers and home renters. These articles, with facts and figures, show the advantage of owning a home.

Jack London, has in this November issue an account of travel adventure, rich with the spice of the South Seas.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a Home of Swamp-Root pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Claremont, N. H., Feb. 11, 1901.
Dr. H. Sanche & Co., New York,

Dear Sirs:— I rejoice to have the chance given me to answer your question. Has Oxydonor given entire satisfaction? It has!

I hold it to be one of the greatest discoveries of the 19th century. For three years I have used it with ever increasing sense of its value. At the start it wrought a permanent cure of Rheumatism in my left shoulder; next of Tonsillitis in my youngest child, and it has since easily and successfully combated whatever ills have assailed my family. Its potency in dissipating an attack of Grippe is especially to be noted.

Wishing that every family in the land might have an Oxydonor, I am,

Very sincerely yours,

Rector of Union Church.

Dear Sirs:—

It gives me great pleasure, after a further use of nearly seven years, to again testify to the worth of Oxydonor. Two of the instruments are kept on hand for family use. Having learned to apply Oxydonor at the first signs of serious trouble (without knowing oftentimes what such may indicate) we keep free from disease, and this is about all that there is to it now, so far as we are concerned.

Very sincerely yours,

Since music has again been taken up in the High school the organ has been brought back there. Perrett Smith is the organist. Part of the time in the afternoon has been given to the study of music. New books for singing have been placed in the school.

The Sophomores are wearing a neat class pin. The shape is triangular with one triangle mounted on the other and the pin is enamelled in the class colors, crimson and white. The pin bears the letters A. H. S. and the figures of the year in which the class will graduate, '11.

Pe-ru-na as a November Remedy.

The month of November, in temperate regions especially, requires of the human body a very radical adjustment to climatic conditions. The hot weather has passed, and cold weather has taken its place. That the CIRCULATION OF BLOOD IN THE SKIN SHOULD BE FREE and active is a matter of common knowledge. And in order that the body may be protected against the lowering temperature a vigorous circulation of blood in the skin must be maintained.

It is not so generally known, however, that the inside of the body also needs protection. THE MUCOUS MEMBRANES OF THE BODY, that line every passage and cavity and duct, also suffer from the change from hot to cold weather.

A medicinal compound that gently tones up these mucous membranes, enabling them to ADJUST TO WINTER WEATHER, is not only valuable to a great multitude of people, but to another multitude is absolutely essential to health.

Whether Peruna is a medicinal compound that meets these requirements can be judged by a hasty glance at some of its principal ingredients.

Take, for instance, Hydrastis canadensis, which is an ingredient of Peruna. The United States Dispensatory says of this herbal remedy, that it is employed as a cure for DEPRAVED MUCOUS MEMBRANES, not only of the nose and head, but also of the stomach and intestines, as well as other internal organs. Hydrastis canadensis, ordinarily known as golden seal, is thus very clearly classed by the highest authorities as a valuable remedy wherever the mucous membranes of the body are in need of a little medicinal help.

Cedron is also one of the principal ingredients of Peruna. It is recognized by the United States Dispensatory and all leading works on materia medica, as a TONIC OF THE GREATEST VALUE. It is also an anti-periodic and anti-malarial remedy, and is therefore frequently used as a SUBSTITUTE FOR QUININE. It is a remedy of great merit, somewhat overlooked by the medical profession of late, but its undoubted tonic qualities are sure to restate this remedy in its original high-class rank as a safe and efficient tonic and appetizer.

Another ingredient of Peruna which is of manifest benefit is cubeba. Bartholow, in his excellent work on therapeutics, states that cubeba PROMOTES THE APPETITE, ASSISTS DIGESTION, and increases the circulation of the blood. He also goes on to recommend it for catarrh not only of the head and pharynx, but also of the stomach, as well as the other internal organs.

LAST, BUT NOT LEAST, IS COLLINSONIA CANADENSIS. This remedy, for many years has enjoyed a great reputation in southern states as a panacea for many diseases such as dropsy, indigestion, cramp, sick headache, and the like. Dr. Scudder, a writer of great fame, also recommends this herbal remedy for chronic diseases of the lungs and heart.

These are some of the principal ingredients of Peruna compounded into a single remedy by skillful and experienced pharmacists. The compound has been so devised that each remedy retains its full therapeutic value, one assisting the other in their beneficial action upon the human system, MAKING OF PERUNA A VERY EFFICIENT AND VALUABLE REMEDY.

People who pass through the month of November safely and find themselves acclimated to winter weather, generally pass through the remainder of the cold season without any serious difficulty. But NOVEMBER IS A CRITICAL MONTH. The adjustment of a large multitude of people fails to meet the exigencies of approaching winter.

No safer or more appropriate remedy than Peruna could be found. Taken according to the directions on the bottle, not only would catarrhal ailments be ward off but catarrh already acquired be corrected. It is with the assurance of knowing that we are right that we present to the public Peruna as an IDEAL TONIC AND CATARRH REMEDY.

WORTH KNOWING.

To remove Pimples, Blackheads, Blisters and all forms of Skin eruptions, is, according to a well known Physician, a very easy matter; he says that many are afflicted with some one of the above ailments, and are subject to a great deal of embarrassment on account of the unsightly appearance which they present, and recommends the following simple harmless and inexpensive treatment. Go to your druggist and get this prescription filled: Clearola one-half ounce, Ether one ounce, Alcohol seven ounces; mix, shake well and apply to the parts effected night and morning, allowing it to remain for at least ten minutes, then wipe off the powder from the skin. Use a soft cloth or sponge in applying the mixture and in from ten days to two weeks your face will be smooth and clear as a marriage bell. Get the Pure Clearola, which is only put up in one-half ounce packages. Ask to see it.

How To Gain Flesh

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce of Scott's Emulsion. It is strange, but it often happens.

Somehow the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health; if you have not got it you can get it by taking

THE WOOING OF ROSYBEL.

By KATHARINE K. CROSBY.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Farmer John considered him a most ungodly young man and forbade him to enter the yard. He also forbade his daughter, Rosybel, to leave the yard, except on Sundays, when she could go to church under his eagle eye.

It may be that Farmer John's ideals were rather exacting. Rosybel thought them so anyway. To her there was nothing absolutely wicked about a pipe of tobacco, especially if the pipe were of the rakish type affected by young men who had been to college.

Dick Melton had been to college. Indeed his A. B. was barely a fortnight old. Now he was touring the country after a fashion all his own in the search of amusement.

He told his father that he wanted to see something of life before entering upon that glorious political career which his dotting parent saw stretching before his eldest born.

Now, touring suggests a gay and festive motor car, all red enamel and sparkling brass work, but Dick had eschewed such vanities as all too commonplace. He was touring in a hayrack.

Besides Dick there was in the hayrack a variety of commodities—a pile of boards of assorted sizes, for instance; a couple of canvas contraptions which when you gave them a chance evolved into a cot bed and a lounge chair; a nickel plated pall, which could be transformed by some miracle into a complete chafing dish outfit; a small table and, most important of all, a camp organ of the sort carried about by wandering evangelists.

When Farmer John issued his edict that the young man who had dropped into church from nowhere at all and walked home from the meeting with his daughter Rosybel should not enter his premises on pain of death—via bulldog Towser—Dick was rather pleased than otherwise.

His vacation bade fair to furnish more entertainment than he had anticipated. Moreover, he was really very much taken with Rosybel, who was not only the prettiest girl whom he had met with in his travels, but was also blessed with a sense of humor. "This is an adorable combination, hard to resist."

The afore mentioned edict was pronounced on Sunday evening, when Dick again presented himself to see Rosybel home from meeting. On Monday morning the hayrack drove into the field which was bordered in part by the neat white palings of Farmer John's homestead fence.

The field did not belong to Farmer John. Quite near the fence, in the shade of a big elm tree, the young man proceeded to assemble the boards which he had taken from the hayrack. It happened that Rosybel's garden had run sadly to weeds over Sunday, and she was obliged to spend considerable time out there on Monday morning in consequence.

As the garden was between the house and that particular part of the fence where the elm tree stood, she could not help seeing what the young man was about. For one thing, he was smoking, except at times when he removed the pipe and sang a bacchanalian ditty about a "tella on a table, which Rosybel was glad her father did not hear, for he always voted no license.

For another thing, the young man was building a house, which in her part of the country is not often gone about so casually. There was, however, neither pounding of nails nor noise of saw. The birds sang undisturbed in the branches of the elm tree, and the hang bird in her nest watched him without alarm.

When Farmer John came in from the fields at noon he snorted at the sight of his new neighbor. By this time the house was nearly done. Dick was hanging the front door, and there remained only the piazza steps to be put in place.

When Farmer John came in from the fields at night the camp organ was hard at work on the piazza. Later many couples came strolling by, on the lookout to see Rosie's new fellow.

They came to see and remained to dance. The grass had been clipped short, and the strains from the organ invited to "Portland Fancy," "Lady of the Lake" and kindred measures.

When they had gone, Rosybel stole down to the fence from the place among the shadows where she had been watching the scene. Dick got to the fence first, and there was neither pipe nor song in his lips.

By the shine of his eyes you might have guessed that there was a whole cycle of songs in his heart, all having for chorus the refrain, "Rosybel, daughter of John!" It was not long, however, before they were interrupted by the voice of this same John calling loudly for Rosie.

It now became the favorite pastime for lovers, young and old, married and courting, to go down to the Old Mill road to watch the wooing of Rosybel. Usually there were music and dancing, but once they had a grand candy pull after the chafing dish had been unnumbered and brought into action.

On this occasion Rosybel came down from her place among the shadows and "pulled" with Dick over the fence. That was the gayest evening of them all, for Farmer John was attending a grange meeting over the mountain and no sound of revelry could reach him.

"This has been going on for a week, and tomorrow is Sunday," said the young man when the rest had gone and his heart was, singing songs against the white paling fence. "Tomorrow is Sunday, and I should like to walk home from church with you, Rosybel."

"But you can't," provoked Rosybel, "because dad will be there."

"And there's a crowd, I've noticed. Do you happen to know, belovedest, what is wrong about your little Dick?"

"Nothing, of course, only dad thinks you are a loafer and don't know how to work."

"We'll show dad his little mistake. Some one said he was short handed for the haying next week. Is that so?"

"Yes. He can hardly get help, but what"—The sound of approaching wheels threatened Farmer John's arrival, and her question was not finished.

Early Monday morning a stranger applied to Farmer John for work. He wore heavy, silver rimmed spectacles, and his hair was slicked down over his forehead in a bang. His clothes were all that a farm hand's should be, from torn straw hat to sullied shoes.

Farmer John was nonsighted and never interested in matters of personality. He chuckled afterward over the good bargain he had made, for in addition to the horse and hayrack which the man offered along with his services he would furnish his own meals.

He realized that this was unusual, the stranger said, but he had indigestion and could only eat his own cooking. Farmer John was delighted, and Rosybel, listening around the corner, did not know whether to laugh or be glad at her lover's sense of honor which prevented his eating forbidden salt.

Every evening after that they met under the elm tree, and Dick showed her the new callous spots which the day had brought forth, the while he boasted of his prowess in the field. Rosybel listened eagerly and let her eyes tell him what she thought of him, which was very pleasant for Dick and made life altogether worth living.

By Saturday the hay was well in except from a choice patch of clover which the farmer had been obliged to leave out overnight. It was all seasoned and cocked and ready for the fork. The weather had been fine all the week, and when the men turned into their beds at an early hour there was still no threat of change.

In the middle of the night, however, Dick was wakened by a low rumble of thunder. The young man's first thought was of those haycocks over in the west mowing; his next was to get there before the rain. Stopping only for trousers and shoes, he rushed out to where his horse was picketed. The moon gave light enough between gathering clouds for him to see his way to the field, where he put in a half hour of such work as he had never known, even in football season.

The hayrack was loaded and under way for the barn before the rain struck. Farmer John met him in the farmyard with a lantern as he drove up in a hurry and stared at him in astonishment.

"Open that barn door, you loafer!" Dick yelled in his excitement, quite forgetting that he was addressing the father of Rosybel. Farmer John was not used to being called a loafer, but when he came to understand the situation he rather liked it.

When the hay was safely housed and the barn door padlocked he invited the young man into the house to dry off. There he hustled about and built a fire in the kitchen stove, and while Dick was toasting his feet in the oven the old man surveyed him thoughtfully. Presently he inquired mildly:

"What do you do for a living, young fellow?"

"Going into politics," Dick responded modestly.

"Grange or capital?" demanded Farmer John. It was a crucial question.

"I'll stand for the farmers every time," Dick assured him, and that settled it. The two were earnestly discussing the ownership of wild lands when the sitting room door opened and Rosybel appeared.

Neither saw her, and presently the conversation took a more personal trend.

"Do I understand," asked Farmer John, "that you're talking of getting Rosybel to finish your education for ye?"

"With your consent, yes," replied Dick politely.

"She can teach ye a lot. Women folks mostly can. Well, seeing as you've the makings of a farmer, politics fall, she can have the job if she wants it."

A little gasp from the girl brought them both to their feet. Dick's interest in the farm versus capital was for the moment in abeyance as he crossed quickly to her side.

"When does school open, Rosybel?" he demanded tenderly. Farmer John picked up a candle and stumped toward the back hall door.

"Usually begins 'bout September round these parts," he grumbled as he went out. He foresaw that on the next day, which was Sunday, he would walk home from church alone.

"But it's you who will be the teacher," corrected Rosybel some time later, and Dick, after the way of men, was not at too many pains to set her right.

Proof is inexhaustible that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound carries women safely through the Change of Life.

Read the letter Mrs. E. Hanson, 304 E. Long St., Columbus, Ohio, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was passing through the Change of Life, and suffered from nervousness, headaches, and other annoying symptoms. My doctor told me that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was good for me, and since taking it I feel so much better, and I can again do my own work. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me during this trying period."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

BROILED OWL.

The Feeling in Camp Before and After the First Nibble.

I told the guides that it would be better to begin supper right away in order that we might not get too hungry before the owl was done. I thought them slow in their preparations for the meal. It was curious, too, for I had promised them they should have a piece of the bird. Del was generous. He said he would give his to Charles; that he never really cared much for birds anyhow. Why, once, he said, he shot a partridge and gave it away, and he was hungry too. He gave it to a boy that happened along just then, and when another partridge flew up he didn't even offer to shoot it. We didn't take much stock in that story until it dawned upon us that he had shot the bird out of season, and the boy had happened along just in time to be incriminated by accepting it as a present. It was better to have him as a partner than a witness.

Wood was gathered then, and the fire blazed. The owl's breast—fat and fine it looked—was in the broiler and on the fire. There it cooked—and cooked. Then it cooked some more and sent up an appetizing smell. Now and then I said I thought the time for it had come, but there was a burden of opinion that more cooking would benefit the owl. Meantime we had eaten a pan or two of trout and a few other things, the bird, of course, being later in the bill of fare. At most dinners I have attended this course is contemplated with joy. It did not seem to be on this occasion. Eddie agreed with Del that he had never cared much for bird anyway and urged me to take his share. I refused to deprive him of it. Then he said he didn't feel well and thought he really ought not to eat anything more. I said grimly that possibly this was true, but that he would eat the owl.

It was served then, fairly divided and distributed, as food is when men are on short rations. I took the first taste—I was always venturesome—a little one. Then immediately I wished I had accepted Eddie's piece. But meantime he had tasted, too—a miserly taste—and then I couldn't have got the rest of it for money.

For there was never anything so good as that breast of young owl. It was tender, it was juicy, it was as delicately flavored as a partridge almost. Certainly it was a dainty morsel to us, who had of late dealt so largely in fish diet. Had we known where the rest of that brood of owls had flown we should have started after them then and there.—Albert Bigelow Paine in Outing Magazine.

A Poor Place

"And you say you almost entered to death in your last position?" said the kind housewife. "What position was it?"

"I was treasurer of a poor union, mum," replied the dusty workman, with a deep sigh.—Exchange.

A DRAMATIC CLIMAX.

Effect of One Woman's Pathetic Eyes Upon a Jury.

James T. Brady, who was one of New York's greatest lawyers, was once counsel for a young woman in a case involving an attempt to break a will.

His client sat by his side. She was a very beautiful young woman, whose eyes seemed always to rivet the attention of those upon whom her glance fell. There was a pathetic expression which affected every one. She sat watching the jury during the course of the trial, and at last there was some complaint that she was attempting by means of her glances to excite the sympathy of the jury.

Then Mr. Brady arose and in one of the most touching and beautiful of all the addresses he ever made in court spoke of the blessings which every one who had an appreciation of beautiful things and could see them enjoyed and dwelt for some moments upon the happy lot of the jury who could see the budding of the flowers—it was then springtime—and the charms of nature. Then, suddenly turning to his client, he said, "That blessing is denied my client for, though she has eyes which seem to look upon you, gentlemen, there is no vision in them, for her sight has been taken from her."

She had been, in fact, the victim of total paralysis of the optic nerve, which had not impaired the beauty of her eyes, but had given to them that singular pathetic expression which she was thus falsely charged with employing that she might secure the sympathies of the jury.

Her Predicament.

A celebrated divine was to preach in a small village one Sunday where he had been several times. The family who entertained him had a little daughter who was usually fond of attending service. When the other members of the family were ready to go little Nellie firmly refused to go with them.

"I do not want to go to church," she declared.

"Why, what is the matter?" asked her mother, very much surprised. "Are you ill?"

"No, but I heard Parson D. before, and I do not like him," said little Nellie.

"Oh, Nellie, that is a very wicked thing to say!" replied her mother. "Tell me why."

"Well," said Nellie, rather confusedly, "he preaches so long that I cannot keep awake, and he preaches so loud I cannot go to sleep, so there!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Women Barbers.

In Gay's "Journey to Exeter," published in 1715, it is told how after passing "Morcombe's lake" the travelers reach Axminster, where they sleep. The next morning—

We rise; our beards demand the barber's art. A female enters and performs the part. The weighty golden chain adorns her neck. And three gold rings her skillful hands bedeck; Smooth o'er our chin her easy fingers move. Soft as when Venus stroked the beard of Jove.

—London Notes and Queries.

Missed the Combination.

He is one of those ginsing old beans who think flattery the key to favor with the gentler sex. The other evening he was at a reception with his wife, and they met the handsome Miss Blank, at whom he fired a whole battery of compliments. Then, turning to his wife, he said, "It's a good thing I didn't meet her before I married you, my dear."

"Indeed it is," she smiled sweetly—"for her. I congratulate Miss Blank!"

—Exchange.

Never Touched Him.

Landlady (to new boarder, crushingly)—Mr. Newcome, that is the cream and not the milk you are pouring on your oatmeal. It was intended for the coffee. Mr. N.—Oh, never mind, Mrs. Balkins. I like it just as well.

Let those who would affect singularity with success first determine to be very virtuous, and they will be sure to be very singular.—Walter Colton.

No Police in Heaven.

Small Isabel's particular friend, the policeman on the beat, contracted pneumonia and died. Isabel was greatly grieved until her mother convinced her that he had gone to heaven. Even then she was not quite reconciled. "If heaven is such a good place," remarked the little skeptic, "I don't see what God wants policemen there for."—New York Press.

Caveat.

Conscience looks out upon every human life.—Bartolom.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. ## Special Precinct Meeting

At a special meeting of the South Antrim village fire precinct, the water commissioners were instructed to purchase land on the shore of Campbell pond, the source of the town's water supply, and to fence the pond in from the adjoining pastures.

A committee, consisting of W. E. Cram, F. C. Parmenter and Morris Burnham, was appointed to make improvements at the spring on the east shore of the Contoocook river near the iron bridge on Depot street, so that water might be secured after the fall rains have raised the river. Nearly all the drinking water is brought from this spring.

Reports from the State Chemist show that there has already been a marked improvement in the condition of the Campbell pond water.

Good Home Recipe

Get from any prescription pharmacist the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.

The above is considered as the most certain prescription ever written to relieve Backache, Kidney Trouble, Weak Bladder and all forms of Urinary difficulties. This mixture acts promptly on the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys, enabling them to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes rheumatism.

Some persons who suffer with the afflictions may not feel inclined to place much confidence in this simple mixture, yet those who have tried it say the results are simply surprising, the relief being effected without the slightest injury to the stomach or other organs.

Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended. It is the prescription of an eminent authority, whose entire reputation, it is said, was established by it.

A druggist here at home, when asked, stated that he could either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription for our readers, also recommends it as harmless.
