VOL. XXVI NO. 47

ANTRIM, N. H., WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1909

Antrim Board of Trade

Don't that sound about right? Yes, it does; and the organization should exist and be an active reality rather than in name only. The Reporter would have had such an organization long ago, and now it could be in good working order, but we are frank in admitting that we can't do it alone. It is with pleasure that we state, however, that many of our merchants and prominent citizens are talking very encouragingly of the project and soon some forward steps may be taken in the right direction.

Most everyone wants new or additional business brought into town, but until there is some organized effort along this line and a proper channel through which such business can come, it will be like drawing a load all the way up hill.

It matters but little whether it is called a Board of Trade, Business Men's Club, or by some other name, so long as the desired end is reached.

State Trade Report

As reported to Bradstreet's, the continued warm weather is holding back retail trade, and while it is improving somewhat it is not nearly up to expectations. Manufacturing conditions as a whole remain good but there is some anxiety in the cotton textile centres regarding the proposed curtailment in working hours. Lack of rain is still a serious problem and lakes and streams continue at a very low point and many concerns are resorting to auxiliary power. Wholesale trade is good in grocery and kindred lines, but seasonable goods have not moved much as yet and in consequence very few reorders are seen. Collections are fair.

No Case on Record

There is no case on record of a cough or cold resulting in pneumonia or consumption after Foley's Honey and Tar has been taken, as it will stop your cough and break up your cold quickly. Refuse any but the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar in a yellow package. Contains no opiates and is safe and sure.

The World's Wheat Crop

Estimates of the world's probable wheat crop have been published during the past month by two English trade papers and by the Hungarian ministry of agriculture. Estimates at this time of the year, though they can only approximate actual facts, serve as a good indication of the results looked for by well-informed European official and commercial observers. As compared with last year, these estimates show a gain of from 185,000,000 to 270,000,000 bushels in the case of wheat. For corn, an increase of 265,000,000 bushels and for barley a gain of 334,000,000 bushels are indicated.

Foley's Kidney Remedy will cure any case of kidney or bladder trouble that is not beyond the reach of medicine. Cures backache and irregularities that if neglected might result in Bright's disease or diabetes.

HELP BOOM ANTRIM!

Great Results Will Be Accomplished When Every-One Does His Whole Duty

Advertising and Selling, the interesting monthly magazine published at New York, and devoted to advertising topics, says this: "There is one grave fault to be charged up against the people of New England, in this era of expansion and boom: They do not know the exact status of their states, they do not realize that they are still the richest in opportunity of any of the states of the United States, and they do not take kindly to the methods of publicity adopted by other states and sections of the country. Neither do they realize that it is New England that is still doing the big things of the country in the industrial world. If the New England manufacturers and the New England press made as much of new mills and new industries as the people and press of the west and south and the Pacific Slope make of the increases in those sections, the world would realize that we of New England are still in the lead, not only with respect to the products of the industries that have long been established, but also with respect to new industries and the expansion of old industries. It is not the old industries that we have to fall back upon; it is not tradition or history that we have to invoke, when we wish to emphasize the pre-eminence of New England in the industrial world."

That is pretty bad, and, what is worse, it is truthful.

Antrim has one of the largest cutlery manufactories in the country, but every one don't know it; they should. Within a mile of these very works, is one of the largest paper mills in the east making a high grade of book paper exclusively; everyone should know this also. Here too are extensive crib and cradle factories supplying the domestic market and in addition exporting large shipments to foreign countries; this as well should be very generally known. One of the best Creameries anywhere in this section is now being erected in town which will prove of untold worth and benefit to our town and the

Real Estate Sales

Reported by W. E. Gibney: For Henry D. Tudor, the buildings and 83 acres of tillage and woodland, belonging to the Buchanan farm in West Antrim, to Mrs. Sarah Russell of Newton Centre, Mass., who buys for general farming purposes and will occupy as soon as possible.

For Joseph St. John, a tract of valuable timber land in Deering to Henry D. Tudor of Boston, for investment.

many farmers in particular; this information also ought to be universally known. An idle mill and water privilege is about to change hands, repairs and improvements made, and the same put in operation; this deserves publicity as well as the others. A large tract of land has been opened up and developed to quite an extent during the past season, and the prospects are bright for a much further development during the coming year; this taking place on the shores of one of the cleanest, best and most beautiful sheets of water anywhere in this state. The best thing that could possibly happen now would be to have this matter widely known.

Just at this period in our town's history, there has been completed one of the best electric power plants that any town, east or west, north or south, can boast of—about 400 horse power awaiting some new industry or industries to enter our confines and utilize it. Best of power, right near the railroad, in one of the cleanest and most desirable towns that can be found anywhere. It is desirable that everybody knows this, that is why we are making a noise about it.

In addition to a most excellent town water system, the streets, business houses, public buildings and residences are lighted with electricity.

The summer resort opportunities of Antrim and vicinity are unsurpassed. What do you suppose would happen if they were advertised similarly to the winter resorts of Los Angeles and vicinity—if the community made its rule that the first thing to do was to advertise the community?

Maybe we do not want to imitate precisely the methods used by the boomers of Texas, Nebraska and California, but we ought not to be much behind them.

Let everybody boom Antrim three hundred and sixty-five and one-fourth days in the year and twenty-four hours in the day. Start with the manufacturing possibilities or with anything else that you like, but keep it up, and watch Antrim double her present population!

NO FALSE PRETENSE has marked the career of Ely's Cream Balm. Being entirely harmless, it is not responsible for minds shattered by cocaine. The great virtue of Ely's Cream Balm is speedily and completely overcomes nasal catarrh and hay fever. Back of this statement is the testimony of thousands and a reputation of many years' success. All druggists, 50c., or mailed by Fiy Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York.

BANK BOOK LOST.

Will anyone who can furnish information in regard to deposit book No. 1950 in the Windsor Savings Bank issued Jan. 3, 1863, kindly communicate with G. M. LOVEREN, admr. of the estate of Rodney H. Colby, Hancock, N. H.

The Last Wonder

[For The Reporter, by G. A. C.]

It is said that wonders never cease. The last wonder that has happened in this vicinity was when our venerable townsman, ex-Gov. David Harvey Goodell, harnessed up an eight-hundred horse-team, hitched it on to electricity at the Branch river, jumped upon the seat behind the fiery steeds and with the reins in his hands—like the man in the one-horse shay—"cracked his whip and drove right through." Yes, he drove that powerful team from the Branch river "o'er hill and dale" to the Contoocook river, distributing electricity from one end of the town to the other.

It was a wonderful feat for one man to perform, more so when we take into consideration the age of our worthy friend.

We believe that the people of this town sincerely hope that the introduction of this powerful agent will be the means of bringing into our town new industries and manufactories, thereby increasing the valuation and bringing into the treasury more money from taxation of the same.

May our esteemed energetic citizen live many years and be rewarded by seeing the fruits of the last Great Wonder grow to his satisfaction.

A Former Style

In the Old South Meeting House in Boston there are many mementos of our fore fathers which are very interesting. Among them is the following announcement of an entertainment and supper held long ago in the early 1700's.

ENTERTAINMENT.

High School Department.

Miss Neville, assistant, was in Concord Saturday.

Miss Anna Wyhe was a visitor in school one day last week.

Professor Handy spent Saturday and Sunday in Worcester.

Miss Helen Daggett taught the seventh and eighth grades last Friday afternoon in the absence of Miss Colburn.

The first basket-ball game of the season will be played in Antrim on November 5th between the high school teams of Antrim and Peterboro.

Beginning Monday morning, Nov. 8, the schools will start on the winter schedule. The morning session will be from 8.45 to 11.45; afternoon from 1.00 to 3.30.

A Hallowe'en surprise party which was deferred to Monday night, was given by the members of the high school to Miss Emma Merrill at her home in Antrim Centre. It was a complete surprise and the evening was very pleasantly passed with games of various sorts and music (also of various sorts.) Everybody had a fine time, came home at a very reasonable hour and up to the present date it has not been ascertained that any furniture was broken, souvenir carried away or other serious accident happened!

A Card

with the names of those who took part in the same, all written on paper which was yellow with age.

Besides the above announcements there are many other interesting relics to be seen in the Old Meeting House, including an old piece of a log with a spoon grown in it, the spoon probably having been hid in the cleft of the tree and the wood having grown around it, also a small vial of tea which was picked up from the shore the morning after the Boston Tea Party. And many others and of particular interest was the exquisite sample of bead work made by the Puritan girls whose names have made history for this country, as well as samples of the same work made by the "American Indian women".

HIS LEGAL AUTHORITY.

It Seemed to Fit the Case, and Joey Was Discharged.

There was consternation among the young folk. The "music" for the dancing at the picnic in the glen had got into trouble. No one ever considered any other "music" but Joey the fiddler. He was indispensable, but he was also erratic. In the old country Joey had been a schoolteacher and a man of considerable learning, but here he had fallen into evil ways. He was overfond of two things—a bottle and an argument. Having become engaged in the latter on this day of the picnic, he broke the former over the head of his opponent and was haled away to the lockup. The young people called a hasty meeting and appointed a committee to wait upon Squire Nugent to secure the release of the "music" if possible. The squire was hearing Joey's case when the committee arrived. The spokesman respectfully explained the absolute necessity of Joey's presence at the picnic that day.

"That's a good soul, squire, I've me go," put in Joey.

The squire took down a ponderous lawbook and began thoughtfully to turn the pages.

"If you're lookin' for the legal authority governin' my case, squire, ye'll find it in Byron," the prisoner suggested.

"Can you quote it?" asked the magistrate, with a twinkle in his eye.

"Aye, so I can," Joey promptly retorted. "It reads, 'On with the dance; let Joey be unconfined.'"

The squire adjudged Byron a competent authority, and Joey was unconfined.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Enjoying Himself.

A fond mother sent her small boy into the country and after a week of anxiety received the following letter: "I got here all right, and I forgot to write before. It is a very nice place to have fun. A fellow and I went out in a boat; the boat tipped over, and a man got me out, and I was so full of water that I didn't know nothin' for a long while.

"The other boy has to be buried when they find him. His mother came from her home, and she cried all the time. A horse kicked me over, and I have got to have some money to pay the doctor for mendin' my head. It was broken a bit.

"We are goin' to set an old barn on fire tonight, and I am not your son if I don't have some real fun. I lost my watch, and I am very sorry. I shall bring home some snakes and a toad, and I shall bring home a tame crow if I can get 'em in my trunk."—London Globe.

A Haughty Personage.

Professors in Germany are important personages and know it, but few probably ever reach the pinnacle of haughtiness attained by the one of whom this anecdote is narrated.

He was one of the greatest men in the faculty at Heidelberg. One day the authorities of that city ordered that the street in front of the professor's house should be paved.

"If you don't stop that noise," remarked the professor to the pavers, "I shall give up my position as a member of the Heidelberg faculty."

The pavers stopped work at once. The municipal authorities sent around to inquire respectfully of the professor when they might pave the street.

"When I take my vacation," he replied. Then, and then only, was the street paved.

Fun For the Boy.

"So you tried to convince your son that he was not too old to be subjected to corporal discipline?"

"That's what I did," answered Farmer Cornrossel. "I gave him a good old fashioned dressin' down in the woodshed jes' the same as if he had been ten years younger."

"What did he do?"

"He jes' laughed an' said it reminded him of the good times he had when he was belin' initiated in his college fraternity."—Washington Star.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle of common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a brick dust sediment, or setting, stringy or milky appearance often indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back are also symptoms that tell you the kidneys and bladder are out of order and need attention.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills almost every wish in correcting rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. Corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it; or had effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper and remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

THE VICIOUS PECCARY

A Fierce Creature Is the South American Wild Boar.

HE IS SMALL, BUT FEARLESS

Will Attack Man or Any Animal in Existence on the Slightest Provocation and Will Fight to the Death—A Battle With a Jaguar.

During one of his journeys into Mexico Edward W. Walton, a mining expert, had a close call from being sliced to shreds by the fierce little South American pig known as peccaries. He told the story of his escape to a Denver Post reporter.

"I wished to secure some plumes from a number of the beautifully plumaged birds," said Mr. Walton. "I went into the jungle and came to a small opening in which there were dry leaves, probably a foot in depth, covering the ground, and hundreds of beautifully colored tropical birds in the air and in the trees. I fired at one of the birds in flight, when it seemed to me the whole area of these dead leaves arose in front of and all around me. Being a stranger, naturally I was much frightened, especially when I saw the animals which raised up the leaves apparently ready for an attack. The older animals opened and closed their mouths, showing their big, sharp tusks, formed much like a dirk knife, and some of them started toward me. Impulsively I commenced firing my gun in the air and turned around, which seemed to stop most of them momentarily, and as I had lots of cartridges I kept up the shooting, and they turned and ran away. I found afterward that I had saved my life by so doing and by not shooting any of the animals.

"These animals proved to be peccaries. They are most ferocious and will attack any animal in existence on the slightest provocation. When I got back to headquarters and told my companions my experience I was informed that had I shot one of the animals and made him squeal the whole bunch would have been on me and would have torn me to pieces quickly. They have been known to kill bears, jaguars, cattle, horses and any number of dogs. Although in the fight scores of their number might be killed, they seem to have no fear when once aroused.

"I was told the peccaries burrow under the dry leaves to protect themselves from mosquitoes and other winged pests of that hot country. My friends had many exciting experiences to tell in regard to these ferocious little animals. One of this party, while traveling with a companion in a wagon, stopped for lunch under some trees and turned their horses out to graze. While at lunch a large bunch of peccaries appeared, and they thought it would be nice to shoot among them and get one or two for meat, so they fired into them, wounding several, which commenced to squeal. Then the whole bunch made an attack. The men climbed quickly into the wagon and kept on shooting so long as the ammunition which they had in their pockets lasted. As they were opening their bags to get out more ammunition the peccaries climbed up the tongue of the wagon and jumped into it, and the men saved themselves only by jumping on to the seat and then on to limbs of the trees, the peccaries taking possession of the wagon and tearing things to pieces. They remained in possession for hours, the men watching them from safety in the trees."

The peccary, or South American wild boar, is the smallest of his species, averaging about three feet long, nor is the animal possessed of any unusual degree of strength. To make up for the natural individual deficiencies in combat with the more powerful animals of the jungle the peccaries always travel in large herds. When once attacked by a herd of peccaries the outcome is nearly always death to their enemy. The little pigs are armed with short sharp tusks, and no matter how great the slaughter of their own number during the melee the herd stay on the job until the work is finished.

Travelers in tropical and South American countries tell of fierce encounters between the peccaries and the jaguar, the monster cat which is lord of the forest. The jaguar has a fondness for a dinner of pork, but a wholesome respect for the power of a herd of wild pigs. When he wants to satisfy his cravings for a pork diet he drops from a limb of a tree on to the back of a straggler in the peccary herd. The jaguar slays his victim and then retreats hastily to his tree before the herd can get at him. When the herd grows tired of waiting for him to come down and moves along the jaguar descends and enjoys his meal at leisure. Frederick Selous in his romance of the animal world has an interesting account of a fight between a jaguar and a herd of peccaries. The peccaries had the jaguar treed on the limb of a tree from which the bark had rotted away. He was only a few feet above them and by harassing and jumping at their enemy finally succeeded in bringing the conflict to the ground. After the fight was over there were eleven killed and wounded peccaries, but the jaguar was literally torn to pieces.

THE DARK OF THE MOON.

A Result That Is Produced by the Light From the Earth.

Many people have wondered why the part of the moon that receives no sunlight is often visible to us, the term being the "old moon in the young moon's arms." The dark part is easily seen as a copper colored globe reposing in the bright crescent. This that we see is nothing more or less than the earth shine on the moon. We appear the same way to the moon when we are in that phase, and our dark part is where the moonshine appears and the bright part of the sunshine.

The reason the copper color appears is because light has to traverse the atmosphere of the earth three times—once on coming from the sun to the earth, once when reflected to the moon and again on being reflected back to us. Our atmosphere possesses the peculiar property of absorbing the blue rays of this white light and allowing only the red and orange to go through, thus causing the appearance of copper color by the triple absorption.

An odd thing connected with this phenomenon, though having nothing to do with it, is this: That part of the moon which appears dark to us is the same part of the earth that appears light to the moon at any specified time, and that part of the moon which appears bright to us corresponds to the portion of the earth appearing dark to the moon.

Of course it is well known that the moon gives out no light whatever itself, the moonshine being merely the light of the sun on the moon reflected to us. The same applies with the earth in its shine on the moon, save that we do give out glows, no doubt, around great cities at night, on account of the enormous number of lights. One thing, however, in which moonshine exceeds the earth shine is its constant character. Where the earth possesses varying clouds the old moon never has any at all.—St. Louis Republic.

HIS MONEY TROUBLE.

He Gained a Dime and Then He Figured Up the Loss.

The next time Lionel, whose other name doesn't matter, gets his optics on an unattached dime he'll look the other way. For Lionel is all peeved up over an adventure he had the other night—an adventure that had a dime for its foundation and for which he can blame no one but Lionel. He rehearsed his money trouble thuswise:

"In a Broadway car I saw it—the dime that was hoodooed. It lay upon the floor of the car unclaimed and lonesome. No one else seemed to care to take it in and give it a welcome, so I did. But even as I reached for the bit of silver the trouble drama opened. My suspenders snapped with the strain—for, as you can see, I'm not built on the sunken garden plan as regards a voidrupolis. Thereupon I reached back to gather the frayed ends of the busted sangle, still feeling for the chunk of white metal with the other hand. My watch, not to be shovled out of the drama without a chance to do its little part, dropped out of my pocket, making a decided hit. The crystal broke into 7,500 pieces, not counting the one that I got in my finger later. The works mingled with the dirt and shattered glass, and the case tripped gayly into a corner. Just to show it was also interested, a perfectly good silver dollar bounced out of my waistcoat pocket and did the vanishing act—where, I know not. A fountain pen, all framed up with gold bands, followed suit. By this time I was giving the rest of the passengers the show of their lives—and nobody coming across with anything but the giggle gag. And I couldn't vocalize my feelings because there were ladies present. Holding on to my wrecked raiment and carrying my assorted ruins as well as I might, I hurled myself off that car at the next corner. Then I beat it for a friendly retreat and totaled up the wreck. The wreck had set me back $41, but I had the dime!"—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Selling by Candle Time.

"It did me good," observed a young girl who had just returned from England, "to see in real life one of the old customs my grandfather used to tell me about—the burning of the time candle at an auction. In Berkshire the old custom still prevails, and when an auction is in progress and an article is put up for bidding a short length of candle is lighted as the bidding begins. The shouting continues until the candle burns out, and the last bid before it flickers its last is the one that takes the cake. I don't know but what it has an advantage over the 'Going, going, gone' variety, but it is fearfully low and un-American."—Exchange.

UNITED STATES MONEY

There Are Ten Kinds on Uncle Sam's Official List.

ALL ARE NOT LEGAL TENDER.

Some of the Most Imposing of the Paper Currency May Be Lawfully Refused When Offered in Payment of an Obligation of Any Kind.

Officially there are just ten kinds of money in circulation in the United States. Could you name them all off-hand? Do you know which of those besides gold coin are legal tender and in what amount? It may be that "all money looks alike to you," but there's a difference, and below is the list:

Gold coins, standard silver dollars, subsidiary silver, gold certificates, silver certificates, treasury notes (1890), United States notes (greenbacks), national bank notes, nickel coins and bronze coins.

Looking upon this formidable classification of United States money as made by the treasury department, it becomes more formidable when it is considered from the highly technical point of view as a legal tender. Some of the most imposing of the paper currency is not a legal tender at all, while, as to the minor coins, they are legal tender in such small amounts as to startle the average layman. It may be well to recall to this layman that the term "legal tender" owes its significance to the fact that in payment of debt or obligation of any kind it can be forced upon the creditor "in full of all demands."

Gold certificates, silver certificates and national bank notes, of which such enormous numbers circulate everywhere, are not legal tender. If you have plenty of money and if you have forced Jones to sue you in order to get judgment, Jones can take down every one of these bills tendered in payment and force you to dig up something better.

Should Jones do such a thing you might conceive the idea of fixing him by unloading a whole lot of silver coins upon him. But you want to know what you're doing there, too, for he'll take only $10 worth of halves, quarters and dimes, while of nickels and copper cents only 25 cents value is legal tender.

But as to the standard silver dollar, there's no limit upon your shoveling them out to Jones. This old "dollar of our dads" still is the real thing in all business transactions unless some clause in a contract has provided otherwise. Jones may refuse the silver certificate, but when you dig up the metal dollar they go unquestioned at their face value. And 1,000 of them weigh 35.92 pounds.

Treasury notes of the act of 1890 are legal tender to their face value in payment of all debts, public and private, unless expressly stipulated in the contract.

Strictly speaking, the United States notes or greenbacks are legal tender, with the exception of duties on imports and interest on the public debt. Practically, however, since the resumption of specie payment in 1879, greenbacks have been received freely and without question by the government, though the law respecting them hasn't been changed.

While the gold and silver certificates are not legal tender as between individuals, both issues are receivable for all government dues of whatever kind, in this respect legally more acceptable than is the greenback.

National bank notes, while not legal tender and not receivable for duties on imports, still may be paid by the government for salaries and all debts of the government except interest dues and in redemption of national currency.

By special enactment no foreign coin of any kind or denomination shall be a legal tender in the United States, so that if some time the street car conductor does back at the chance Canadian dime fished from your pocket keep cool and dig for something that is United States. It's your move.—Chicago Tribune.

LINCOLN TRIED IT.

And That Ended the Naval Sweatbox Punishment.

On one of Mr. Lincoln's excursions to Fortress Monroe on the steamer Hartford in 1863 his attention was directed to a narrow door bound with iron, the use of which he was anxious to learn.

"What is this?" he asked.

"Oh, that is the sweatbox," was the reply. "It is used for refractory and insubordinate seamen. A man in there is subjected to steam heat and has very little ventilation. It generally brings him to terms very quickly."

President Lincoln's curiosity was aroused. "This," he said to himself, "is treatment to which thousands of American seamen are probably subjected every year. Let me try it for myself and see what it really is."

Taking off his hat, for he was several inches over six feet in height, he entered the inclosure, which he found to be little more than three feet in length or width. He gave orders that a signal from himself the door should be immediately opened. It was then closed and the steam turned on.

He had been inside hardly three minutes before the signal was given. President Lincoln had experienced enough of what was then regarded as necessary punishment for American seamen. There was very little ventilation, and the short exposure to the hot and humid air had almost suffocated him.

Turning to Secretary Welles of the navy department, the president ordered that no such inclosure as the sweatbox should ever after be allowed on any vessel flying the American flag.

It was not an hour after this order had been given before every sailor on every ship in Hampton Roads had heard of it. The effect was most remarkable on the older sailors, many of whom had themselves experienced the punishment of the sweatbox. Some of them wept from joy.

But the good results of this act of President Lincoln were not confined to the American navy. Great Britain, France, Germany and other European countries heard that the sweatbox had been abolished in America as inhuman. One and all of these nations in turn fell into line, and today the sweatbox is not to be found on any vessel flying the flag of a civilized nation throughout the world.

RAN THE BLOCKADE.

Putting Through a Risky Piece of Business at Santiago.

Some naval officers at a dinner party the other evening were discussing the efficacy of the Cuban blockade in 1898. That many vessels ran the blockade at Havana, Cienfuegos and elsewhere was admitted.

"But only one vessel ever ran the Santiago blockade," said one of the speakers, "and that was one of our own vessels, the little Gloucester."

He then described how the Gloucester ran the blockade, while commanded by Dick Wainwright, then a lieutenant commander, who had previously been executive officer of the Maine when it blew up.

"We had been sent down to Asseradoros to communicate with the insurgents," said the raconteur, who was on the Gloucester at the time. "Upon our return it was quite dark, and we were proceeding slowly to our station on the inside line of the blockade when the electric signaling apparatus broke down. We could not give a signal, particularly the private identification signal of the night. Had we been discovered by one of the blockading vessels it would at once have flashed the signal, and if we did not immediately respond it would have promptly opened fire. We would have been blown to pieces in a minute.

"It was a risky piece of business, but Dick Wainwright was perfectly cool, and the Gloucester actually plucked its way without being discovered through the whole blockading fleet, took up its station on the inside line, under the Morro, and as soon as the signaling apparatus was repaired reported its arrival. It was a clear case of blockade running, but it was mighty ticklish while it lasted."—San Francisco Call.

It is related that Chief Justice Salmon P. Chase on stopping at the birthplace of Patrick Henry in Virginia exclaimed: "What an atmosphere! What a view! What glorious mountains! No wonder that Patrick Henry grew here!" Whereupon an honest native dryly remarked that the atmosphere, the view and the mountains had been there for ages, but that only one Patrick Henry had been produced.—Macon Telegraph.

STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Hillsborough, ss.

To the Superior Court:

Michael J. Corliss of Antrim in the County of Hillsborough, and State of New Hampshire, complains against Nellie A. Corliss, late of Glastonbury, in the County of Hartford, and State of Connecticut, and says that she was lawfully married to him at Hartford, in said State of Connecticut, on the thirteenth day of February, A. D. 1889, by the Rev. Fr. Gleason, a minister of the Gospel, and resided with him at said Glastonbury and at said Antrim, from the date of their said marriage until some time in October, A. D. 1902, and your said libellant has resided in said Glastonbury from some time in October, A. D. 1902, until March, A. D. 1906, when your said libellant moved to said Antrim where he has lived ever since, and has always behaved as a faithful, dutiful husband. Yet the said Nellie A. Corliss, wholly regardless of her marriage covenant and duty, at said Glastonbury, some time in the month of October, A. D. 1902, and more than three years before the filing of this libel, without sufficient cause and without his consent, abandoned the said libellant and now refuses, and during all the time since her said abandonment, has refused to cohabit with him: The last known residence in this state of the said Nellie A. Corliss was said Antrim, and the last known Post Office address of the said Nellie A. Corliss was, Nellie A. Corliss, Hotel Belvin, New Britain, Connecticut. The name and address of a friend of the said Nellie A. Corliss is that of her mother, Minnie Friend, Glastonbury, Connecticut.

Wherefore the said Michael J. Corliss prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony between himself and the said Nellie A. Corliss may be decreed and for such other relief as may be just.

MICHAEL J. CORLISS.

STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Hillsborough, ss.

Office of Clerk of Superior Court,
October 28, A. D. 1909.

The foregoing libel having been this day filed in said office, it is ordered that the said libellant give notice to the said libellee to appear at the Superior Court next to be holden at Manchester in said County of Hillsborough, on the first Tuesday of January, A. D. 1910, then and there to show cause, if any she have, why the prayer of said libel should not be granted, by causing a true and attested copy of the foregoing libel and this order thereon to be published in the Antrim Reporter, a newspaper printed at Antrim, in said County of Hillsborough, it being the newspaper nearest the last known residence of the libellee in this state, three successive weeks at intervals of not less than seven days, the last publication to be not less than thirty days before said first Tuesday of January, A. D. 1910.

It is further ordered that on the date of the first publication the publisher of said newspaper shall mail a postpaid copy of said newspaper containing the libel and order of notice thereon, addressed to the libellee, Nellie A. Corliss, Hotel Belvin, New Britain, Connecticut, and a like copy addressed to Minnie Friend, at Glastonbury, Connecticut.

Attest: THOS. D. LUCE, Clerk.
Holman & Smith, Esquires, Attorneys for Libellant.

The foregoing is a true copy of a libel for divorce filed as aforesaid, and of the order of notice thereon.

Attest: THOS. D. LUCE, Clerk.

FORECLOSURE OF MORTGAGE By Peaceable Entry and Publication.

I, Mary Butler Jameson, of Battle Creek, in the County of Calhoun, and State of Michigan, depose and say, that, on the thirtieth day of October, 1909, in the presence of Anson Sweet and William E. Cram, I made a peaceable entry upon a certain tract of land, with the buildings thereon, situate in Bennington, in said County of Hillsborough, and bounded and described as follows: Beginning on the north side of the highway leading from Bennington Village to the Paper-Mill, at a large stone in the wall, at a stake and stones, it being the corner of land formerly of George Alfred Whittemore; thence easterly and northerly by the wall and the said Whittemore land, about eleven rods, to a Maple tree by a stone wall; thence southerly, about nine rods, to a small Elm tree; thence west, in a straight line, to the aforementioned highway; thence northerly by the highway to the bounds first mentioned, containing one half acre more or less. The land on the east and south of said tract is now, or formerly was, owned by T. C. Whittemore; for conditions broken, and for the purpose of foreclosing the right of the said mortgagor, the late John Cody, and all persons claiming from, by or under him, to redeem the same; and at the same time I publicly declared that such was the purpose and object of said entry, and of the possession so taken. This being the same tract of land which was conveyed in mortgage to the said Mary Butler Jameson by said John Cody, by mortgage deed, dated April 10th, 1895, and recorded in the Registry of Deeds for the said County of Hillsborough, Volume 551, Page 265, and by a second mortgage deed dated April 29th, 1896, recorded in said Registry, Volume 551, Page 531.

MARY BUTLER JAMESON.

We, Anson Sweet and William E. Cram, severally depose and say, that we were present, and witnessed the proceedings stated in the foregoing affidavit, and that the facts are as therein stated.

ANSON SWEET,
WILLIAM E. CRAM.

State of New Hampshire,
Hillsborough, ss.

On this thirtieth day of October, 1909, personally appeared the above named, Mary Butler Jameson, and Anson Sweet, and William E. Cram, and severally made oath that the above affidavits by them subscribed, are true.

Before me,
J. E. PERKINS,
Justice of the Peace.

The Family Reading Problem

To find reading that satisfies one's craving for the bright and attractive, and is at the same time perfectly suitable for impressionable young people, is at times difficult. The best magazines are admittedly published for mature readers only. The Youth's Companion alone is for all the family. While the editors keep in mind the eager desire of the young for tales of action, enterprise and adventure, these stories in The Companion are so well written as to fascinate men and women in all stages of life's journey. And this is true not only of the fiction in The Companion, but of the entire contents. The articles, by famous writers, convey knowledge that is useful to the wisest and most experienced as well as to the immature. In short, The Companion solves the reading problem for the entire family. It is entertaining and it is "worth while."

Every new subscriber will find it of special advantage to send at once the $1.75 for the new 1910 Volume. Not only does he get the beautiful "Venetian" Calendar for 1910, lithographed in thirteen colors and gold, but all the issues of The Companion for the remaining weeks of 1909, from the time the subscription is received.

A PUNJAB CIRCUS.

Program, in "Punch and Jab" English, as Good as the Show.

The sun never sets on the English language. This overgrowth of sunshine sometimes warps it out of shape. In the Malays it becomes "pigeon." In the south seas it is either "sandalwood" or "beche de mer," and among the erudite along the water front at Yokohama it is "banzai." Here is a sample of a brand sometimes called "punch and jab" English. It was captured alive by a Calcutta exchange editor armed with his scissors in the jungle of advertising literature that threw its shadow ahead of a native Punjab circus:

PROGRAMME.

Under patronage of Royal Duke of Knaught, E. C. B., &c.

N. B.—This Circus is the very better, therefore he comes to see that.

The performance preparation will commence at 8 p. m. sharp.

PART I.

1. Some horse will make very good tricks.
2. The clown will come and talk with that horses, therefore audience will laugh itself very much.
3. The lady will walk on horses back and horse is jumping very much also.
4. The clown will make a joking words and lady will become to angry therefore clown will run himself away.
5. One boy will fall a ball from top side, then he can catch that ball before that ball can fall.
6. This is the very better jumping trick.

Refreshments 10 minutes.

PART II.

1. One man will make so tricks of trapeze, Audience will traid himself very much.
2. Dogs will jump and roll in the mud.
3. One lady will make himself so bend, then everybody he will think, that he is the rubber lady.
4. This is the very grand display.
5. This is the very better Gymnastics.
6. One man will walk on wire tight, he is doing very nicely because he is a professor of that.

Refreshments 10 minutes.

PART III.

Then will come the very good Dramatic.

NOTICE.

No sticks will be allowed in the spectator, and he shall not smoke also.

Charges for Entrance.
1st class .....Rs. 2
2nd class .....Rs. 1
3rd class .....annas 3
There is no any 4th class.

—New York Tribune.

Lost Temper.

"Lost temper does great harm," said a politician. "I once knew a man who held thirteen trumps at whist, and on account of his partner's temper he took only one trick with that ideal hand." "Impossible!" sneered a reporter who conducted a weekly bridge column. "Impossible? Not at all," was the politician's reply. "You see, as soon as this man trumped his partner's ace on the first play his partner in a rage jumped up and kicked him out of the room."

Necessary.

"Dear me," exclaimed the lady, "that's twice you have dropped that cut glass pitcher within five minutes!" "I know it, ma'am," replied the maid, "but it didn't break the first time."—Chicago Record-Herald.

An Intelligent Cow.

A few nights ago a citizen went home and found a cow in his yard. He drove her out. He then went into the house and later heard the animal in the yard again. He drove her out the second and third times. The citizen's son came home later and found the animal in the yard and drove her out. The citizen then made an investigation and found the cow got in by wading around the fence on the river side. He hung up a lantern to deceive the cow as she came in, and the next morning, so he says, he found the cow in the yard with the lantern hung on her horns, using the same to hunt out the best grapefruit in his grove. Say what you please, but that was an intelligent cow. And the story is true—of course it is.—Fort Myer Press.

Swall Stock.

"Could I sell you an imported Persian cat for $1,000?" ventured the cat and dog fancier.

"What?" exclaimed the multimillionaire in surprise. "Why, I just bought a $5,000 bulldog from you the other day."

"Yes, but I thought you'd want a $1,000 cat for that swall bulldog to chase. You surely wouldn't allow a $5,000 bulldog to chase a common cat, would you?"—Pittsburg Press.

An Important Advantage.

"Do you think a college education affords a man an important advantage?"

"Oh, yes! One has to have it in order to get into a university club."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Where Courtesy Prevails.

"The South Americans are very polite," said the man who travels.

"Naturally," answered Miss Cayenne. "In some of those republics it is not safe to slight the humblest citizen. There is no telling what moment he may become president."—Washington Star.

Marriage.

"Marriage may be compared to a tram car," said a confirmed bachelor.

"Why?" asked his fair partner. "Because some people are just as anxious to get out of it as others are to enter!"—London Telegraph.

Foresight.

Little Willie—Say, pa, what is foresight? Pa—Foresight, my son, is the faculty of being around when there is a melon to be cut.—Chicago News.

Circumstances are not in our power; virtues are.—Farrar.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Louisville, Ky.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has certainly done me a world of good and I cannot praise it enough—I suffered from irregularities, dizziness, nervousness, and a severe female trouble. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored me to perfect health and kept me from the operating table. I will never be without this medicine in the house."—Mrs. SAM'L LEE, 3523 Fourth St., Louisville, Ky.

Another Operation Avoided. Adrian, Ga.—"I suffered untold misery from female troubles, and my doctor said an operation was my only chance, and I dreaded it almost as much as death. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me without an operation."—LENA V. HENRY, R. F. D. 3.

Thirty years of unparalleled success confirms the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to cure female diseases. The great volume of unsolicited testimony constantly pouring in proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a remarkable remedy for those distressing feminine ills from which so many women suffer.

The Magic Carpet

A Thanksgiving Story

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.

The committee on repairs walked down the aisle and wagged disapproval at each pew.

"It never struck me before how untasteful it was to have every pew carpeted different," wheezed Miss Lee importantly. "They look just like folks' houses. Jeremiah Little's is got a piece of his parlor carpet spread on it, and all it needs is a basket of wax flowers to make you think you're sitting in his front room at a funeral."

The other members of the committee cast surreptitious glances at their several pews, each with its gaily covered floor and fat, carpeted hassocks. Then they looked at Sarah Lee's own pew, with its neat red floor covering that exactly matched the carpet in the aisle.

"We ain't all agents for a carpet store," remarked Hannah Smith dryly. Miss Lee reddened. "That's neither here nor there," she said hurriedly. "The facts are these: Daniel Merton has sent us $1,000 for the church repairs. Dr. Long says $500 will be needed for repairs to the building and befrify. The other $500 is to be used by the ladies of the committee to redecorate the inside and for a new carpet to cover all the pews."

She looked narrowly at Serena Webb in the background. "My pew will remain as it is," said Serena calmly.

The committee drew a unanimous breath of dismay. "That's the old Merton pew," protested Miss Lee.

"I know it," replied Serena. "I should think that when a man cares enough for the old church he was baptized in to send $1,000 for repairs it would be a delicate attention on the part of the committee to refurbish his old family pew," said Dr. Long's wife bitterly.

"Perhaps Mr. Merton would prefer to see the old church restored rather than redecorated. He must have tender recollections of the old pew with its mother's carpet on the floor and the same old hassocks he knelt on when a boy. I am sure he would rather see the chancel restored to its old-time beauty rather than done over in the latest fashion," said Serena Webb eagerly.

she ended, with a triumphant re-escape into slang. He'd admire to see his money's been put to some good purpose."

The other ladies nodded approval of this statement. All save Serena Webb, who was gazing wistfully at the dim and faded frescoes in the chancel.

"So, you see, Miss Webb, Dan Merton would be pleased enough to have his old family pew done over new. We're planning to have it all done by Thanksgiving and then invite him down and have a regular thanksgiving over the bull thing," said Miss Lee persuasively.

"My pew will remain as it is," said Serena firmly as she turned toward the door. "I have paid for it."

"Very well," returned the other bitingly. "I shall take care to let Dan Merton know that a stranger has come to Redbush who ain't grateful enough for his generosity to try to please him. I shall let him know."

Serena Webb merely bowed politely and passed through the door. Once within the gate of her quiet, old-fashioned garden her straight, slim figure relaxed into a rustic seat. She clasped her white hands behind her sunny brown head and surveyed the low, ivy covered house with contemplative eyes.

"The Merton homestead and the Merton pew are the possessions of an eccentric spinster," she mused whimsically. "First, Daniel Merton, president of the cordage trust, writes and commands that I sell him his old home for an absurdly high price, which I refused because the house just suits me, and I am tired of wandering. Again, he sends a gift to his church, and they demand that I tear out the charming, old-fashioned furniture of the Merton pew—and transform it for him! I am selfish enough to like it as it is—and to believe he will like it best too! But I am afraid of that Daniel Merton, a man who has risen to such eminence, as he must possess a strength of purpose that will at last prevail upon me to part with this charming place!"

With a little sighing laugh she went into the house—the quiet house which she occupied with her servants and her pets. Her kinsfolk were awaiting her in another distant country. Serena was young yet. She was thirty-five, and she was lonely.

For weeks after that September day the Redbush church was closed for repairs. Heavy canvas covered the old Merton pew and protected it from showers of lime and plaster and later from the dripping brushes of painters and decorators.

Little by little the old church took on a new appearance. Shaky timbers were strengthened, the great belfry was repaired and the bell rehung. Gray paint restored the building to Quaker-like respectability. The furnace was mended, and the organ was repaired.

Indoors the warm glow of the old red carpet was replaced by sober brown pile, and the newly varnished pews were carpeted with the same material. Wooden foot rests took the place of the discarded hassocks, and polished seats were supplied instead of the comfortable cushions.

The faint pinks and reds of the old decoration gave way to sea green walls and chancel. It was all very new and very hideous and extremely uncomfortable.

The minister was joyful and the congregation was gratified at the splendor of the shabby old church. The committee on repairs proudly sent in their report on the Sunday before Thanksgiving day. At the same time the minister read a letter from Daniel Merton saying that he would gladly accept their invitation to attend the special services on Thanksgiving day.

Cold and crisp the day dawned, and the usual festivities of the day were pushed forward that none might miss the services at the church.

There was a rustle of expectation as the people gathered in the redecorated edifice. Up in the front pew, on the right of the aisle, in the old Merton pew, with its still gorgeous turkey carpet and hassocks, sat Serena Webb, conscious that her seat was a blot on the fair scene.

In the front left hand pew sat Dr. Long and his wife, nervously awaiting the arrival of Daniel Merton, for it was understood that the great man was to be ushered into the good doctor's sober brown pew.

The last bell was ringing, the choir was rustling the pages of their books and the organ was growling a low voluntary when there was the insistent blast of a horn and then the soft chug-chug of a motorcar. It stopped at the church, the door opened, and then Redbush drew a long breath as Daniel Merton walked up the aisle and was ushered into Dr. Long's seat.

For several moments he knelt in prayer, and then he arose and looked about him as the service began.

He saw a strange church and strange people. He had borne in his mind's eye for years past a quaint old church with warm red carpet and many pews, each furnished according to its owner's fancy. There was nothing here to remind him of the past and his boyhood save the seat across the aisle.

There in the old Merton pew, with its ancient turkey carpeted floor and fat hassocks, sat a slender woman with sweet, serious face bent above her book. That was what Daniel Merton saw in the old pew where he had knelt when a boy.

The people of Redbush saw a tall, thin man with a handsome face lined with care, a man plainly dressed as one of themselves, and those who had known him when a boy traced in his countenance a vague likeness to the ambitious lad of twenty-five years before.

Then they saw him look about the church with impassive face, which did not change until it reached the old Merton pew. They saw his keen eyes rest on Serena Webb's face and on the old-time furnishings before they turned to cast a sweeping glance up and down the aisle at the brown carpet.

Then they saw him leave his seat and deliberately cross the aisle and sit down beside Serena Webb. Serena blushed and shared her hymn book with him.

The service was long, for the good people of Redbush were very grateful to their beneficent townsman, and the minister must express their gratitude in sonorous sentences that a millionaire might appreciate.

A year afterward Sarah Lee surveyed the church in high disdain. Workmen had completed its restoration to its original decorative scheme, and the dork's men were banking palms about the chancel.

"To think Serena Webb should marry Dan Merton after all—never saw him in her life till that Thanksgiving day," murmured Mrs. Long in Sarah's ear.

"That there old turkey carpet did it," sniffed Sarah Lee. "Just to think of him insisting that everybody must carpet their own pew to suit themselves! Even old Hulda Jones has made her a braided mat for hers. Redbush is behind the times."

In the meantime Daniel Merton was whispering to Serena in the garden of his old home. "It was the combination of you and the old pew set in the midst of that hideously decorated church—it was you, sweetheart, that broke through this crust of money getting and made me again in heart like the boy I used to be."

"I am so glad," murmured Serena happily. "Let us always keep the old turkey carpet, Dan. It carried you back to your boyhood, it brought you across the aisle to me, and it has carried us both to happiness. It is a magic carpet, indeed."

Knowledge and Culture.

A great memory does not make a philosopher any more than a dictionary can be called a grammar. There are men who embrace in their minds a vast multitude of ideas, but with little sensibility about their real relations toward each other. These may be antiquarians, analysts, naturalists; they may be learned in the law; they may be versed in statistics; they are most useful in their own place. I should shrink from speaking disrespectfully of them. Still, there is nothing in such attainments to guarantee the absence of narrowness of mind. If they are nothing more than well read men or men of information they have not what specially deserves the name of culture of mind or fulfills the type of liberal education.—Newman.

Influence of Sunshine.

M. Pouillet, an altogether competent authority on the subject, concluded from some experiments he made that the cold of void external space must be at least 253 of Fahrenheit's scale lower than the temperature of freezing water—that is, further below freezing water than boiling water is above it. Such would certainly be the condition of things upon the surface of the earth in the entire absence of sunshine, and such the earth will eventually become, for it is as certain as anything in the world that the time will come when the heat of the sun will cease.—Exchange.

Wise Girl.

"What? You're going to marry Tom Speed? Why, he's awful."
"What makes you think so?"
"I hear he's been blackballed by every club in town."
"Yes, I heard so too. That sort of husband won't have much excuse for staying out nights, will he?"—Cleveland Leader.

Trying to Place Him.

Boody—I'd have you to know, sir, that I'm not the idiot you think I am. Knox—Oh, I beg pardon. Which idiot are you?—Chicago News.

Repartee.

Bluff—I look upon you, sir, as a racial. Riff—You are privileged to look upon me in any character you desire to assume.—Vogue.

No Fun.

Kills Her Foe of 20 Years

"The most merciless enemy I had for 20 years," declares Mrs. James Duncan, of Haynesville, Me., "was Dyspepsia. I suffered intensely after eating or drinking and could scarcely sleep. After many remedies had failed and several doctors gave me up, I tried Electric Bitters, which cured me completely. Now I can eat any thing. I am 70 years old and am overjoyed to get my health and strength back again. For indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Kidney Trouble, Lame Back, Female Complaints, it's unequalled. Only 50c at Lane & Weeks, Antrim Pharmacy.

The Reporter Two Months Free

Read the adv. on 4th page this week and learn how new subscribers may get three months subscription to THE REPORTER for absolutely nothing.

Mrs. Louie Hite, 428 Outlet St., Danville, Ill., writes, October 1st: "Foley's Kidney Pills started me on the road to health. I was treated by four doctors and took other kidney remedies but grew worse, and was unable to do my housework, and the doctor told me I only could live from two to six months. I am now so much better that I do all of my own work, and I shall be very glad to tell any one afflicted with kidney or bladder trouble the good results I received from taking Foley's Kidney Pills." Commence today and be well. Do not risk having Bright's Disease or Diabetes.

Forced into Exile

Wm. Upchurch of Glen Oak, Okla., was an exile from home. Mountain air, he thought would cure a frightful lung-racking cough that had defied all remedies for two years. After six months he returned, death dogging his steps. "Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery," he writes, "and after taking six bottles I am as well as ever." It saves thousands yearly from desperate lung diseases. Infalible for Coughs and Colds, it dispels Hoarseness and Sore Throat. Cures Grip, Bronchitis, Hemorrhages, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, 50c and 1.00, trial bottle free, guaranteed by Lane & Weeks, Antrim Pharmacy.

Rogers Bros

SPOONS, FORKS, KNIVES, Etc. have been made for over fifty years, steadily gaining in character of design, finish and general popularity, but best of all, the good old "Rogers" quality has been maintained. It would be hard indeed to improve upon the wearing qualities first exhibited by this brand, and which have made "1847 Rogers Bros." the most famous of all silverware. Do not experiment by trying something that has not stood the test of time. Buy "1847" goods, which have a well-known and well-earned reputation, and you run no risk. There are other "Rogers." The original and genuine has the prefix "1847."

Sold by leading dealers everywhere. Send to the makers for catalogue No. 6 containing newest designs. J. W. ROGERS & CO., Successors to MERIDEN BRITANNIA COMPANY, MERIDEN, CONN.

About Advertising

It costs money to advertise in a paper of circulation and influence in the community. Every business man who seeks to enlarge his trade, recognizes the fact that advertising is a legitimate expense. It is not the cheapest advertising that pays the best. Sometimes it is the highest priced newspaper that brings the largest net profit to the advertiser.
