NOT MUCH DOING

The Past Week Along Board of Trade Lines

It is very near the first of the new year when it is hoped our town can boast of a progressive Board of Trade. Everyone interested should not fail to make this fact known at a very early date. The benefits will be worth much more than cost of the effort.

Hides and Shoes

(From the Philadelphia Record)

Leather has been going up, and a scarcity of hides is said to be the cause. The result must be higher prices of shoes. For months the manufacturers have been in controversy with the wholesalers, whose customers, the retailers, say they can't get higher prices from the consumers. In all probability there is no scarcity of hides. The shoe manufacturers are in competition, but the beef trust has got possession of the cattle trade of the country, and it is in control of the leather trust. There are independent producers, but they evidently think they can make more money by selling at the trust prices than by cutting under them. The leather trust is a dangerous enemy to antagonize.

What are the statistics of hides? The beef trust says the high prices of beef and hides are due to a deficient supply of cattle. The department of agriculture reports that in 10 years from 1899 to 1909 the number of cattle, other than milch cows, increased very close to 80 per cent. The population did not increase more than 20 per cent, probably. That does not look like a short supply—that is, if we are to place any confidence in the enumeration of cattle. There is not much room to question the accuracy of the trade figures of cattle received at the principal markets. According to the Cincinnati Price Current the number of cattle received at Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha in 1908 was 28 5 per cent greater than in 1898. That is a very much larger increase than the growth of population.

Now look at the imports of hides of cattle this year and 1907—last year being omitted, on account of bad trade—were: Eight months ending August, 1907, 95,358,265 pounds; eight months ending August, 1909, 156,737,999 pounds.

The business is being strangled by the combinations in restraint of trade—the beef trust, and the leather trust, which it owns.

State Trade Report

Reports to Bradstreet's show that the cooler weather of the past week stimulated retail trade, and that with seasonable weather a good business is looked for. Owing to the holiday the week was more or less broken up and many manufacturing concerns closed down to take stock. Lack of water continues to be a prominent feature throughout the state and with lakes, streams and wells at a low point it will cause much loss in time and money to manufacturers and farmers if heavy rains do not come before the ground freezes. Lumbermen are busy and all that is needed to start business to full proportions in that line is snow enough for teaming. In wholesale lines trade is good and collections are up to the average for this season.

National Night

A patriotic service in honor of Ephraim Weston Post, No. 87, G. A. R., the Woman's Relief Corps, the Daughters of the American Revolution, and George H. Chandler Sons of Veterans, will be held in the Woodbury Memorial M. E. church on Sunday evening, December 12th.

Colonel E. C. Paige will preside, and there will be brief addresses by members of Ephraim Weston Post.

A special feature of the evening will be the singing of national hymns and old time war songs.

Patriotic solos and duets will be given under the direction of W. A. N. Scott.

The church will be elaborately decorated for the occasion, and it is expected that each organization will march to the church in a body.

A warm welcome to this national service is extended to the entire community.

It is hoped that a gathering of this nature may be held in Antrim each year. Time and place to be settled upon by a committee appointed at each yearly gathering.

Service begins promptly at 7 o'clock. At this coming service a collection will be taken for the benefit of Ephraim Weston Post.

New Hampshire Dairy School

The winter courses in Dairy Farming and Creamery Buttermaking, begin January 4th, 1910, and close March 11, 1910.

Dairy farming is preeminent in New Hampshire Agriculture. The course in dairy farming this year has therefore been materially strengthened by the introduction of several new subjects. Courses will be given in improving the soil, raising of crops, feeding, breeding, and judging of dairy cattle, and on the making, handling and marketing of dairy products on the farm. It is the business or occupational course and the aim is to teach the fundamental principles of successful dairy farming with as much detail as the short time allows.

The course in creamery buttermaking is intended for those desiring to take up factory work. The College conducts a commercial creamery the entire year, thus offering an opportunity for study and practice in creamery operation and management.

For further information and circulars describing courses in detail, write to Dairy Department, New Hampshire College, Durham, New Hampshire.

The publishers of The Youth's Companion will, as always, at this season, present to every subscriber whose subscription ($1.75) is paid for 1910 a beautiful Calendar for the new year. The picture panel which suggests the title, "Venetian," for the Calendar was painted by the famous marine artist, Thomas Moran. His Venetian scene, reproduced in the Calendar by thirteen-color lithography, will be found well worth preserving, long after 1910 is gone by.

Charles F. Whitney, Jr.

It was with very much sorrow that this community learned of the death of Charles F. Whitney, Jr., which occurred last Thursday afternoon at his home north of this village, at the age of 28 years, 1 month, 17 days. He leaves a father, mother and two sisters, to mourn their loss.

The deceased had always lived in town, with the exception of a few years; a young man of Christian character and integrity and beloved by all who knew him. He was a devoted member of the Methodist Episcopal church and was one of the official board, holding the office of recording steward; and a beloved teacher of a class of young men in the Sunday school. He was valedictorian and president of the graduating class of 1905, A. H. S., and held a tender place in the hearts of his classmates and teacher.

Of a very kind and loving disposition he had always shown the most tender care and affection in his family, especially to his invalid mother, to whom he gave the tenderest devotion and care, which showed his patient loving nature.

The funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, and were conducted by his pastor, Rev. Alba M. Markey, who spoke tender words of love and sympathy to the sorrowing relatives and friends, who have the sympathy of all in their sad bereavement. They were attended by a large number of relatives and friends from all sections of the town. A quartet, composed of Morris Burnham, Mrs. Hattie Goodwin, Charlotte E. Balch and W. A. N. Scott, rendered beautiful selections, including a solo by Mr. Scott, all of which were special favorites of the deceased. At his request, the bearers were composed of his Sunday School class: H. Burr Eldredge, Cranston Eldredge, Raymond Farrant, Melvin Poor and Ross Roberts.

The flowers were many and beautiful and showed the sincere esteem and love in which he was held. They were as follows:

Pillow, from Father and Mother, with the words "Our Son"; spray white pinks, with "Brother", May Somers; daybreak pinks, "Brother," Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Taylor; scarf white pinks, Official Board M. E. church; scarf pink and white pinks, G. G. Whitney and family; scarf white pinks, tied with purple and gold ribbon, class colors, Class 1905, A. H. S.; spray pink and white pinks, Sunday School class; twenty-three white chrysanthemums, Mrs. George Miner and Mrs. Mary Temple; spray white pinks, Wallace Cooley; scarf daybreak pinks, Miss Charlotte E. Balch; scarf pink and white pinks, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. N. Scott; spray white pinks, Miss Nancy Harlow.

The interment was in Maplewood cemetery. Funeral services were in charge of F. Grimes & Co.

THE EDITORIAL PEN

Makes a Few Timely Dashes of a Readable Nature

West Virginia has taken advanced ground in the suppression of the football shambles. Members of the Legislature have been interviewed and a majority of them are opposed to the game, some of them being in favor of making it a penal offense to play football in that state.

The first instance of a rise from the ranks in the Pension Office is the promotion of First Deputy Commissioner James L. Davenport to be Commissioner of Pensions. Mr. Davenport entered the Pension Bureau as a clerk twenty-eight years ago. Hitherto, with one exception, the chiefs have been taken from political life. Dominic I. Murphy, a deputy commissioner, was promoted by President Cleveland to succeed Commissioner Lochren but he had been in the Bureau only one or two years.

The most encouraging estimate of the coal resources of the United States is contained in a late report by one of the experts of the United States geological survey. There have been so many conflicting opinions on the supply of American coal that the American public may well be pardoned for a feeling of confusion. Now the official estimate is that the coal supply will last 7,368 years. The kitchen range and the furnace may glow with undiminished vigor until about the year 9278. From this it appears that there is little reason for apprehension for there is every reason to hope that by the time the coal supply is exhausted an available substitute will have been discovered.

The comparisons of wages, expenses, cost of food and general standard of living between American and German workmen as prepared by government officials present some instructive and significant figures. The German figures were secured by the German government through the examination of about 1,000 families in Berlin and Hamburg. The American figures were secured by the American government through the examination of 1,415 workmen in the North Atlantic States. In Germany the average incomes were $458.83 for skilled workmen and about $409.8 for the unskilled. In America the skilled workmen receive an average of $834.83 while that of the unskilled workman averages well over $650. But the expenses of the American workmen are higher. In Germany the expenses of skilled workmen were $447.71 and of the unskilled $411.70 while in America the expenses were found to leave the workman an average surplus $56.79. The German skilled workman had a surplus of only $1.12 while the unskilled found a deficit of $1.92.

Proof of Germany's success in self-development is offered in recent statistics of emigration. Less than 20,000 emigrants left the Empire last year. In the eighties the number of emigrants to the United States alone was more than a quarter of a million. The explanation is found in the fact that Germany has been learning to conserve and utilize its resources. It has been educating its artisans and training men and women in productive capacity. It has been practicing an intensive policy and as a result has increased its national earning and self-sustaining power to such an extent that it no longer has a surplus population but has ample room and opportunity for all its own people. In a representative district of Berlin out of a total number of emigrants in one quarter of last year but one-third could be classed as poor or seeking a new opportunity because of their poverty. The other two-thirds carried with them substantial evidences of industrial prosperity. It is predicted that the emigration from Germany will continue to fall off thus depriving the United States of a class of immigration which has ever been considered among the most desirable.

Red Cross Christmas Stamps

The New Hampshire Branch of the American Red Cross received from the sale of Christmas stamps last year $1,300.00 and additional contributions of $200 from friends. This money has been expended in the campaign of publicity and prevention and in endeavoring to show the people of our state that tuberculosis is curable, contagious and preventable.

The public generally can aid the work by using the stamps during the Christmas season and by selling them among their friends. By special permission of the American Red Cross, we have been allowed to print the word "New Hampshire" across all the stamps sold within our state which gives them an added local interest. It is thought that people, former residents of the state, would be glad to buy these stamps in considerable quantities to help the work in New Hampshire.

The Christmas sale of Red Cross stamps has now begun and it is hoped that the amount derived from their sale will be much larger this year than last. The stamps designed for sale in this state have been super-printed "New Hampshire" by special permission of the American Red Cross and it is hoped that former New Hampshire people now resident in other states will send home to the old Granite state to buy their stamps.

Supplies of stamps have been placed throughout the state, at many national banks and with Woman's clubs, and they can be obtained from General Thayer at Concord or Colonel Leighton at Monadnock.

It is hoped that orders will be sent in as early as possible that the stamps may be used very generally on letters and packages during the month of December.

A Special Sermon

A few weeks ago, the Rev. Duncan Salmond was asked the question: "Did God make the Devil?"

This together with other such questions as, Who made the Devil? What was he originally? Where was his habitation? How did he become the Devil? What is his work? What are his powers? Since God alone is omnipresent how can the Devil be present in London, New York and Antrim at the same time?

These questions will be answered in a special sermon in the Presbyterian church next Sunday evening at 6:30. You are welcome.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it. Heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health of that organ is obtained quickest by a prompt treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and resulting pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. A trial will convince anyone.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

FINLAND SUMMERS.

Effect of the Famous "White Nights" Upon Vegetation.

The famous "white nights" of the north are a most surprising phenomenon to the visitor from southern climes. It is a weird experience, declares A. M. Scott in "Through Finland," to sit for the first time upon a veranda at midnight and read a newspaper or to walk home from a restaurant at 1 o'clock in the morning and to see people still gossiping at the street corners or strolling along the promenades under a bright, clear sky.

A spirit of rest and peace is over all the earth. The sky is bright, not with the fiery brilliancy of noon, but with a tender, gentle radiance. The colors of the landscape have become softened, but not blended. There are no shadows save for a week or two in June, when the bright northern sky at midnight projects faint, ghostlike shadows toward the south. The sun just dips below the horizon and no more. There is no division between the sunset and the dawn. The same rosy flush serves for both.

Summer in Finland is, in fact, one long day. Never a star is to be seen, and when the first faint star glimmers in the south it is a sign that the summer is past and that the autumn frosts have arrived.

The long light has a marvelous effect upon vegetation, forcing its growth at hothouse pace. The "white nights" account both for the suddenness of the burgeoning and for the intensity of the heat. Land and water have no time to cool. One cannot fall to be struck with the enormous size of the foliage upon the oak and hawthorn trees as compared to that to which we are accustomed. Botanists have explained this as being due to the large supply of light. It has sometimes been suggested that we may hasten the harvest by the use of artificial lights. Nature herself does this for the Finnish farmer.

The Broadax.
A city man who went out into the Ozarks to learn to make railroad ties was asked by a native whether he was right or left handed.

"If you are left handed," he was told, "you will have to get a left handed broadax."

The city man replied: "I'm wise to this left handed monkey wrench business. I'm from the city, but I know there is no such thing as a left handed broadax." But he was wrong. A broadax is beveled on one side only. A left handed man must have an ax with the bevel on the left side.—Kansas City Times.

What Yeomen Were.
Yeomen were formerly considered to be by their title on a level with esquires, and they were called yeomen because, in addition to the weapons proper for close engagements, they fought in the wars with arrows and a bow which was made of yew; hence the word. After the conquest the name of yeoman, in reference to the original office in war, was changed to that of archer. The term, however, was continued with additions—the yeoman of the crown, of the chamber, yeoman usher, etc.—and we find that considerable grants were bestowed on some of them. In the legal view a yeoman is defined to be one that has fee land of the value of 40 shillings a year and is thereby qualified to serve on juries, to vote for knights of the shire and to do any other act which the law may require. The yeomen always took a leading part in whatever concerned the regulations or interests of the kingdom, and their renown as warriors is fully established by their numerous heroic achievements.—London Globe.

Insects and Flowers.
Experiments on showy flowers like the poppy tend to show that insects are not always attracted to flowers by the brightly colored petals, but rather by the perception—doubtless by means of smell—that there is honey or pollen. In these experiments the unopened flower bud is enclosed in a gauze net so as to protect it from insects, and when it expands the petals are carefully removed without touching the remaining parts with the fingers (for bees avoid a flower if the smell of human fingers is left on it), and the petal-less flowers receive practically as many insect visits as untouched flowers do.

Her Complexion.
We once knew a woman who quarreled with her complexion. At one time she touched it up so much that it became touchy. At another time it was beyond the pale. Occasionally it broke out and became very fiery. But, however much she quarreled with it, she was always ready to make it up.

A Merger.
Regular Customer—There used to be two or three little bald spots on the crown of my head, away back. Are they there yet?

Barber—No, sir; it ain't so bad as all that. Where those spots used to be, sir, there's only one now.—Chicago Tribune.

FLOATING STORES.

Merchandise Steamers of the Muskoka Lake Country in Ontario.

Among the interesting features of life in the Muskoka lake country, in Ontario, are the floating stores. A good sized steam vessel fitted out with every imaginable item of merchandise that might be required makes a tour of an assigned chain of lakes once each week. On a certain hour of a certain day the boat is expected at the different resorts and summer homes, and enough merchandise must be bought at each to tide over until the next trip of the floating store.

Upon stepping on board the store boats, says a writer in Popular Mechanics, the purchaser approaches a counter with scales and cash drawer, as in any other kind of store. Behind the counter are shelves, on which are displayed such articles as may tempt the eye. Behind these shelves is the entrance to the storeroom and hold, in which more merchandise is stored. Each article has its place, and the storekeeper can find it in a moment.

Sometimes isolated farms on the lakes are not worth stopping at every trip, so a flag is flown when stores are desired. The store vessel drops anchor when the signal flag is flown, and some member of the family rows out and makes the purchases.

Engraved Gems of the Ancients.
Engraved gems are among the most interesting objects of art inherited by us from the ancients. Though many of the cameos and intaglios were engraved on precious stones over 2,000 years ago, they are still as clear and fine as if they were cut yesterday. The designs engraved on these stones indicate that the old Greeks and Romans regarded them as charms against accident or misfortune. This superstition generally took the form of a fondness for representation of certain animals. Sailors, affected the dolphin because it was believed to be the mariner's friend. Women, so far as fishes were concerned, preferred the representation of the prolific arizaga of the Adriatic, which was a symbol of fruitfulness because of the great number of its eggs. The ant was worn as an emblem of industry. By the frog was indicated the idea of resurrection, because that interesting batrachian renews its youth each spring by shedding its old skin.

Attempting a Diagnosis.
Mrs. C. was overhauling a lot of old clothes, and her little daughter Rebecca, aged four, was an interested spectator. When one garment was brought to light the little girl asked what were the "green speckles" on it. Her mother explained. Some days later a friend called whose little girl was somewhat freckled. After their departure Rebecca was thoughtful for some time and then inquired, "Mamma, was that little girl's face mildewed?"—Woman's Home Companion.

Little Dorothy was playing "house" with her small friend Elizabeth, when suddenly she said, "I guess I'll have to go home."
"What for?" asked Betty, with a good deal of concern.

"To ast my mamma if I can tum back again," answered Dorothy.—Woman's Home Companion.

Have you ever noticed that you no sooner get one trouble off your hands that another comes along?—Aitchison

A Hard One.
"When," he demanded, "will you pay this bill?"
Smiling, we waved him toward our confrere.
"You must ask," we said, "the puzzle editor."—Exchange.

Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm.—Emerson.

The Producer.
"Does your husband play cards for money?"
"Judging from practical results," answered young Mrs. Torkins, "I should say not. But all the other men in the game do."—Washington Star.

The man who loves home best and loves it most unselfishly loves his country best.—J. G. Holland.

All Against Him.
A tailor who was defendant in a case tried in court seemed much cast down when brought up for trial.

"What's the trouble?" whispered his counsel, observing his client's distress as he surveyed the jurymen.

"It looks pretty bad for me," said the defendant, "unless some steps are taken to dismiss that jury and get in a new lot. There ain't a man among 'em but what owes me money for 'clothes.'"

Vain Regrets.
Mrs. Benham—How mpeh did you pay the minister when we were married? Benham—Don't ask me. I hate to admit that I paid him anything.—New York Press.

At the formal opening of the rooms in the vestry of the Baptist church on Wednesday evening last for men and boys of 12 years or over, there was a good attendance. These rooms will be open every Wednesday evening during the winter, between the hours of 7 and 10 o'clock, for reading and recreation.

Friday afternoon the December meeting of Molly Aiken chapter, D. A. R., was held at the pleasant home of Mrs. Harry Deacon. A large number was present, and the meeting proved to be one of the most enjoyable held for a long time. At the close of the meeting a social season was enjoyed, and refreshments were served.

Antrim hunters were out Dec. 1, in full force; the record was A. J. Lapoint two, Francis Grimes one, Andrew Cuddihy one, Ray Taylor one, Leonard Merrill of the Center one. They were captured near Black pond in Windsor. On Friday Francis Whittemore, about 15 years old, shot a 10 point buck weighing over 200 pounds when dressed; and Waldo Brown shot the accompanying doe. These were gotten near Rye pond.

Would respectfully inform the citizens of Antrim and neighboring towns that they have purchased the Stock and Business of the Harry Deacon Dry and Fancy Goods Store, and will be pleased to hold the patronage of all who have favored the store with their trade. We shall endeavor to make it pleasant for all who will visit our store whether their wants are small or large and we cordially invite everybody to come in and see us.

The Store and Business will have the constant personal attention of one or more of the proprietors and the wants of customers will be carefully considered in the selection and purchase of all new goods.

We shall make no radical changes at once as we desire to first learn by personal contact with our patrons what will prove the most satisfactory along certain lines that will be considered. It may, however, prove of interest to our customers and well for us at this time to call particular attention to some of our business plans that will be adopted from the first and continued as important features in the fixed policy of conducting our business:

- First—We shall always sell goods as low as we can possibly afford to strictly for cash.
- Second—We shall always treat customers and visitors to the store with courtesy and respect whether trading or not.
- Third—We shall always treat children coming or sent to our store with the same attention and courtesy as we would their parents or other adults.
- Fourth—We shall always represent our goods just as they are in quality so far as it is possible to depend upon the quality of manufactured products.
- Fifth—We shall always maintain a uniform or "one price to all" policy.
- Sixth—We shall always receive kindly and appreciate suggestions or criticisms that may be offered in the interests of the business.

We believe that our extensive experience in the management of large retail stores and our acquaintance with many of the largest wholesale houses in the country, will avail much to the advantage of our friends and customers in this community. We are in a position to secure the latest and most attractive novelties sold in the city stores and have facilities also for the direct importation of useful and fancy articles from the largest European cities.

Christmas Greeting!

"Heap on more wood! the wind is chill;
But let it whistle as it will,
We'll keep our Christmas merry still."

A visit to our store next week will no doubt serve to increase your enjoyment of Christmas. We have made it a point in buying Christmas goods this year to secure a line of more durable and useful articles than is usually offered for holiday trade. We shall not undertake to advertise in detail articles and prices but cordially invite all to come to our store and see for themselves what we have to sell for Christmas gifts. A pleased customer is of more value to us than a long advertisement which may or may not convince the public of the merits of our goods and prices. We think you will find in our store many new and attractive Christmas values not to be found elsewhere in this vicinity. We hope to have the most of our Christmas goods ready for sale Monday, the 18th.

PLAYED WITH A LION.

A South African Child Who Ran to Meet the Big "Doggie."

The infant son of one of the Dutch settlers in South Africa had strayed away. After some time a search party discovered little footprints leading in the direction of the bush. Following up these, the search party came upon a large open space, at the farther side of which they discovered the object of their search sitting nuzzling a little wooden doll and munching a piece of bread and butter. Before they could make their way through the thick, tangled undergrowth a large lion sprang into the clearing. The little boy, far from being frightened, ran to meet the lion, holding up his bread and butter and said, "Take a bite, doggie."

The father stood powerless to move or speak through fear, expecting each instant to see the child crushed under the lion's paw, but instead of doing as he dreaded, the lion turned himself over and lay on his back at the child's feet, looking up at his face as a cat would do at play. Watching his opportunity, the father raised his gun and fired, hitting the lion in the leg. The animal sprang up and, leaving the child, rushed on the party, injuring two of the number before it was finally killed. From this circumstance the child was immediately christened by the settlers "Daniel."—London Family Herald

WAITED FOR HEALY.

An Incident of the Land League Agitation in Ireland.

One morning during the Land League agitation Mr. Parnell left Dublin by the early mail train for Roscommon to address a meeting. On arriving in the town he received a telegram from Dublin which ran:

Missed mail train. Will get down at 3 o'clock. Postpone meeting till I arrive.

HEALY.

Mr. Parnell was pleased to learn that T. M. Healy, M. P., was coming down. He had, however, to be the main promoter of the demonstration, and the meeting was accordingly postponed for a few hours.

At 3 o'clock the railway station and its approaches were thronged with people with bands and banners, and the train from Dublin steamed in amid terrific cheering for Tim Healy.

The train pulled up, a carriage door opened, and the local reception committee rushed to it, when out stepped "Healy," but it was not T. M. Healy, M. P. It was W. Wallace Healy, a well known reporter on the staff of the Irish Times.

He had been assigned to the Roscommon meeting, had missed the mail train, and it was most important that his paper should have a report of Mr. Parnell's speech; hence the telegram.

Influence of Sunshine.

M. Pouillet, an altogether competent authority on the subject, concluded from some experiments he made that the cold of void external space must be at least 253 of Fahrenheit's scale lower than the temperature of freezing water—that is, further below freezing water than boiling water is above it. Such would certainly be the condition of things upon the surface of the earth in the entire absence of sunshine, and such the earth will eventually become, for it is as certain as anything in the world that the time will come when the heat of the sun will cease.—Exchange.

WANTS HER LETTER PUBLISHED

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—“I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me, I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman.

“I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.”—Mrs. JOHN G. MOLDAN, 2115 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She will treat your letter as strictly confidential. For 20 years she has been helping sick women in this way, free of charge. Don't hesitate—write at once.

THE EAGLE'S EYE.

A Screen That Protects It Against a Too Brilliant Light.

The eagle that stares proudly at the sun has now been found to be no figment of tradition.

M. de Chardonnet, in a paper communicated to the French Physical society, has shown that the eagle's eye has a special apparatus adapted to this feat, though it seems probable that he is not the only bird with this useful possession.

The apparatus is not, however, the “nititating membrane” which all of us have perceived in looking even at the barnyard fowl. That is a mechanism designed merely to wipe the eye and to keep it clear of dust.

M. de Chardonnet's discovery was made while he was studying the transparency of the central part of the eyes of animals. He had already noticed that the eyes of night birds, such as owls, were more transparent than any other for ultra violet rays, and he had tried to push the experiments further by ascertaining whether they would be affected by ultra violet rays alone.

These experiments failed because of the absence of responsiveness on the part of the birds, which did not appear to manifest any sensation in passing from darkness to light, whether this light was visible to human eyes or not. M. de Chardonnet's failure led him to inquire whether there was any organ of which he was ignorant in the bird's eye, such as would intervene in such circumstances.

While dissecting a bird's eye he was struck to find an organ to which French naturalists have given provisionally the name of the peigne or comb. A better idea of its function would be obtained by calling it a parafol.

This organ is formed of a very thin membrane, black-opaque and situated in the eye where the optic nerve penetrates it. The structure of this membrane is such that the retina is completely masked when the “parafol” is open. It is reasonable to suppose that the parafol is therefore a screen to protect the eye against a too brilliant light, whether the light is visible in the ordinary sense or whether it consists of ultra violet rays.

Not Worth a Rush.

“Not worth a rush” is, as a popular saying, the predecessor of the now more common simile “not worth a straw.” In precariously days it was the custom to strew the floors of dwelling houses. When guests of rank were entertained fresh rushes were spread for them, but folk of lower degree had to be content with rushes that had already been used, while still bumber persons had none, as not even being “worth a rush.”—London Standard.

The Benefit of the Doubt.

Horried Citizen—Hey, there! What are you pounding that man for? Man on Top—He says he can't remember whether he ever called me a liar or not. I'm (biff) giving him (biff) the benefit of the doubt.—Chicago Tribune.

A NATURAL WONDER.

The Devil's Race Course in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

“The Blue Ridge mountains abound in natural wonders,” observed an old resident of Penmar. “Most wonderful of them all, in my opinion, is the Devil's Race Course, which is but a short walk from Penmar.

“At first view this strange natural phenomenon appears like a broad roadway of great stones which extends away up the mountain in a path no human hand could ever build. Many of these great stones weigh tons, while others are only a few hundredweight. Lying close together by the thousand, they present an extraordinary spectacle.

“Tradition has it and scientists agree that a thousand or more years ago this strange track was the bed of an ancient river. The conclusion is drawn from the looks of the stones. They are all well rounded and worn smooth, showing the action of water, which had polished their rough edges no doubt for centuries.

“But the mystery is, if this theory be true to explain how the great body of water was confined at the sides, for the course is not hemmed in by high banks, nor is it located in a ravine. In fact, it stands somewhat higher than the natural side of the mountain. The puzzle only intensifies interest in the queer place and multiplies the arguments and theories of its prehistoric origin.”—Baltimore American.

THE ANIMAL MIND.

A Story About a Cow and the Calf She Licked.

An absurd story is cited about a cow, showing what creatures of habit animals are. This particular cow would not stand to be milked unless she could lick her calf at the same time. For a long time she always had a calf of some age or other to lick, but at last by ill fortune one of her calves died.

There is no reason why a bereaved mother should mourn her loss just at milking time, but there was the fixed habit of making certain motions. The farmer, however, was a practical psychologist. He stuffed the skin of the calf with hay and let the cow have that to lick. To be sure, the hay calf had neither head nor legs, but a cow has no general ideas concerning the nature of calves nor any special reason for assuming that calves should have heads and legs. It felt right, and it smelled right. It enabled her to go through the customary motions at milking time. Therefore it was sufficient.

By dint of caressing and licking her little calf the tender parent one fine morning unruffled it. The hay issued from within, and the cow, manifesting not the slightest surprise or agitation, proceeded tranquilly to devour the unexpected provender.—E. T. Brewster in McClure's Magazine.

A Gentle Rebuke.

It was late in the year for strawberries, but Mrs. Beacon was determined to have some for Sunday dinner. Over the telephone came the news that they were “very fine, ma'am; very fine indeed.” Being, however, a cautious housekeeper, she decided to look over the fruit herself, as the grocer was not always to be trusted.

“They don't appear very good,” she said some time later, examining carefully a basketful. “They look”—here she extracted one and tasted it—“they look a little green. I don't know. Just let me try one.” She took another. “I guess I'll take one box, please. You don't put very many in a box, do you?” she inquired.

“There was,” said the grocer respectfully, “but there's been so many ladies looking ‘em over that there ain't!”

“You may give me two boxes,” said Mrs. Beacon.—Youth's Companion.

Lincoln's Religion.

I have never united myself to any church, because I have found difficulty in giving my assent without mental reservation to the long complicated statements of Christian doctrine which characterize their articles of belief and confessions of faith. Whenever any church will inscribe over its altar as its sole qualification for membership the Saviour's condensed statement of the substance of both law and gospel, “Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself,” that church will I join with all my heart and all my soul.—Abraham Lincoln.

Quiser Friends.

On board the Union Castle R. M. S. Goth on a voyage from the Cape to Tenerife was a little monkey belonging to one of the stewards. It was very fond of sitting on the back of a tortoise, another ship's pet, while the latter crawled about the deck. Although rather ill tempered and snappish with people, the monkey was always friendly with the tortoise, which made no objection to being used as her steed.—Wide World Magazine.

DIPLOMACY.

A Vague Threat That Meant Nothing but Brought Quick Results.

The late Lord Salisbury some years ago sent a foreign office emissary to make some demands of a South American republic. Before setting out on his mission the emissary, to whom his lordship had explained the exact nature of the demands, desired to be informed as to the course to take if after he had said everything, there was a refusal.

“Oh,” answered Lord Salisbury, “this is not a matter in which we have the least thought of fighting. If the president refuses, why, you will simply have to come home again.”

The emissary went and had his say to the president of the republic, who blankly refused to give in, and the diplomat retired to think things over. A few hours later he wrote to the president:

“I regret that your excellency does not see your way to recognize the justice of the claims which I have had the honor to present. I have now to say, on behalf of her Britannic majesty's government, that unless your excellency yields on all points which I have named it will be my painful duty to act on the second half of my instructions.”

Under this vague and significant threat the president yielded at once.—London Telegraph.

HAUNTED ALASKAN ISLAND.

Ghosts of Russian Exiles Who Died of Starvation or Torture.

To the south and west of Kodiak, distant about 100 miles and forming one of the Semidi group, is the island of Chirikof, the haunted island of Alaska.

Enshrouded for a great portion of the time with almost impenetrable fog, this lonely isle is an object of terror to the natives, who claim it is haunted by the ghosts of Russian exiles.

The natives will not go near the island, saying it means certain death to invade the cannical confines, and there are few men in the far north who have the temerity to test the truth of the many and weird tales told of this forbidding and barren island.

Shipmasters and sailors passing the place assert that the agonizing cries of Russian exiles sent there to starve or die by torture are sometimes heard on quiet nights, while the clink of chains and the sound of blows are testified to in an affidavit by a white man who once attempted to remain there for a week and who nearly lost his reason.—Tanna Tribune.

The Noise Habit.

A personal experience first showed the writer the possibility of a state of affairs where the habit of noise could become as fixed as the habit of a drug. Waking one night in the quiet of a country house far from other habitations, I suddenly heard the starting of the hot air engine which pumped the water—chug, chug, chug, chug. I lay listening to its monotonous vibrations and wondering at the unusual hour for pumping until I fell asleep. The next night the sound was repeated. On mentioning the matter to my host he confessed that he could not sleep in the quiet of the country; that the sudden change from the roar of a great city to the silence of the woods was so great as to cause him real suffering. As his only way to rest he would leave the house in the middle of the night, start up the pump and, lying down in a nearby hammock, find sleep brought him by the lullaby of the hot air engine. That man recognized that he had the noise habit and finally conquered it.—Hollis Godfrey in Atlantic.

Oddly Named.

A Mr. Hudson, who had made a large fortune as a dentist, had built a very expensive country house near Dublin, but of such an extraordinary construction as to bid defiance to the criticism of the architect.

One day after dinner at Curran's this singular mansion became a subject of merriment for his guests. The question for their satirical inquiry was, “What was its order of architecture?” One said it certainly was Grecian, another contended it was Saxon, and a third that it was oriental, when their host thus interposed:

“Excuse me, gentlemen, you are all wrong. It is Turkish. From the irregularities of the mansion and from its proprietor being a dentist the Irish call it Snaggletooth Hall.”—London Answers.

The Little Thing Counted.

The Pastor (dining with the family)—Ah, yes, Brother Smithers, it is the little things of this life that count! Little Willie (in a loud whisper)—Maw, that's the sixth biscuit he's took.—Exchange.

Emotional.

“What sort of role does Rounder take in the new drama?”

“An emotional one. In the big scene he is offered a drink which he has to refuse.”

Labor bestowed on trifles is silly.—Martial.

U.S. U.S.

THE 1909 MODEL UNITED STATES Cream Separator

bowls are greatly reduced in diameter and prove by their clean skimming records, durability and the superior excellence of their work, the correctness of the principles upon which they are built and the perfection of material and workmanship which produce them.

You can buy a separator for less money than the United States—that every dairyman knows. But consider this:

When a U. S. is bought and paid for, it is paid for.

A cheap machine is never paid for. Every cent for repairs must be added to the original cost—less system of instalments. These instalments, at first cost of the machine, soon exceed the cost of the U. S., and after each successive repair, (if you can get another part) the cheap machine grows more and more second-hand—one step nearer the junk heap.

The loss of cream, cost of repairs, time lost, the trouble and worry outweigh many times over the difference in cost between the "cheap" separator and the clean skimming, Reliable, Substantial United States Cream Separator.

Examine the U. S. yourself and see its good points.

Would be pleased to quote prices and give an actual demonstration of what the U. S. Separator will do. Remember: The U. S. Separator was the ONLY SEPARATOR to win the GRAND PRIZE at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, Seattle, this year. The highest award of all.

Don't boast if you have not the prevailing distemper, your turn will surely come.

Walter O. Smith had to keep company with a quincy sore throat for his Thanksgiving. Doubtful if he was very thankful on that day.

E. I. Dodge, M. M. Cheney, H. Putnam and J. A. Eaton each brought in a deer last week. Three were captured in or near Merrimack; the other one in Washington.

The funeral of Ruth Mulhall, at the Catholic church, Dec. 2, was quite largely attended. Little Ruth was a great favorite with friends and teachers, being of a lovely disposition and a particularly bright intellect. Mrs. Harry Muzzey of Marlboro and Mrs. Louise Sullivan of Hillsboro were among those present from out of town. Much sincere sympathy is extended to the family.

Miss Alice Bushee, a teacher in the Mission School for Girls in Madrid, Spain, will give an address in the vestry Friday afternoon, Dec. 10, at 8 o'clock. A social hour will follow the address. All are cordially invited. Light refreshments will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. Alba Carpenter have returned to their home in Plymouth, N. H., after visiting her brother, S. F. Heath.

A Card

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to our neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted us during the sickness and death of our little daughter, and to her teacher, Miss Dutton, and schoolmates for the beautiful flowers which showed the high esteem in which they held our little Ruth. MR. AND MRS. EDWARD MULHALL

Several times the electric light globes in different parts of the town have been broken of late, presumably by thoughtless and mischievous boys, and we desire to give notice that this practice must stop, or we shall have to take such steps as will be necessary to put a complete stop to it.

High School Department.

The third month of school was finished last Friday and on Monday morning reports were again distributed.

Remember the 8-act comedy "Me An' Otis" to be presented Friday evening, Dec. 17. See posters and watch for flyers.

Since it marked the close of the month, last week was partially taken up with the regular monthly tests, which for some reason are not very popular with some pupils.

Oftimes the omission of a letter will not entirely disfigure a word; also it often does. For instance notice how "immoral" immortals become by simply dropping the "t".

Principal Handy spent last Friday evening at Peterboro, where he delivered several very pleasing readings at the entertainment following the Annual Choir Supper of the First Congregational church of that town.

After exposure, and when you feel a cold coming on, take Foley's Honey and Tar, the great throat and lung remedy. It stops the cough, relieves the congestion, and expels the cold from the system. Is mildly laxative. Lane & Weeks, Antrim Pharmacy.

About Advertising

It costs money to advertise in a paper of circulation and influence in the community. Every business man who seeks to enlarge his trade, recognizes the fact that advertising is a legitimate expense. It is not the cheapest advertising that pays the best. Sometimes it is the highest priced newspaper that brings the largest net profit to the advertiser.
