THE EDITORIAL PEN

Makes Timely Notes of General Interest to Readers

President Taft will have thrust upon him the necessity of appointing a new Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States to succeed Justice Moody, who it is now believed is hopelessly or chronically invalided, and there is a proposition before Congress to vote him a pension after his resignation, which is expected at an early day.

At the coming primaries the voting will be similar to the present methods at elections with the exception that one cannot make a cross at the head of a column for all in the column, because there may be several names for the same office. A cross must be made against such names as the voter desires to have nominated. If no one files an application for any office in a town or ward, the town committee can name the nominee later.

And so the government is still "hike ing" matters right along in certain cases, one of the latest being that of Charles R. Heike, the white-haired secretary of the American Sugar Refining company; he has been convicted of conspiracy to defraud the government of custom dues in the weighing of sugar, and prison doors are opening to receive him. It is sad but refreshing that the men "higher up," in spite of their wealth and social position, must be convicted and punished.

The following act, passed by the legislature of 1907, should be rigidly enforced in every town in the state. Its enforcement may prevent many a case of lockjaw and death:

Section 1. If any person shall have in his possession any fire-crackers of a greater length than six inches and of greater diameter than one inch, or explosives known as cane or potash dextrine tablets, with intent to sell the same, or shall sell, or offer to sell or give away the same, he shall be fined not more than fifty dollars.

It is also unlawful to sell the so-called toy pistol.

It is now expected that Congress will adjourn Saturday, June 25. These are the plans that were made public by the Senate leaders after a conference with the leaders of the House. Notwithstanding the nearness of the day of adjournment, it is understood that the House of Representatives will have an opportunity to vote on the Appalachian Forest Reserve measure which has been before Congress for a number of years. It is national in scope and provides that states may cooperate in the protection of watersheds and names national forest reserve board composed of the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Interior, Secretary of Agriculture, two Senators and two members of the House. Those who are urging this bill are particularly desirous of preserving the Appalachian and White Mountain Forests. This bill appropriates one million for the first year and two millions annually thereafter for five years for the purchase of forested lands on the headwaters of navigable rivers. Southern members are earnest advocates of the bill. It has been introduced in the House by a number of members and an analogous measure has been reported favorably by the Agricultural Committee after long hearings.

Going back to the subject of the World's Fair, the time is short enough for preparation if a real world's fair is to be held. The city that is to hold the fair should begin its preparations without delay in order that the exposition may not lag behind the opening of the Canal. An International Fair is a stupendous undertaking. There has never been a fair that at the inauguration day did not present a scene of confusion and unpreparedness similar in appearance to a city after an earthquake or to a half built house. The Canal, it is conceded, begins to approach the day of completion, and far-seeing men everywhere are catching the significance of the joining of the two oceans. Americans of enterprise are anxious to grasp the opportunities opening in South America and Asia. Great enterprises are taking shape in men's minds. Shipping, mining, lumbering, and colonization are among the great exploitations even now projected. These enterprises develop commerce, weld nations in friendship, and bring nearer universal peace. A World's Exposition will hasten the development of commerce and promote friendship. In such an exposition as is proposed, would be assembled the best work of all nations, and expert visitors from all countries would get a bird's eye view of the best effort of each section. Through these means, the world's progress in industry and peace (resulting from the world's greatest enterprise, the Panama Canal) would be promoted and hastened.

State Trade Report

As reported to Bradstreet's the continuation of the cold wet weather is holding back retail trade, and many merchants are complaining, this also shows up wholesale trade, as there are no re-orders being given and orders for fall delivery are light. Manufacturing is good on the whole, although some lines are duller than usual at this season. Frosts have done considerable damage to planted crops, but as few were through the ground the damage is not so heavy as it otherwise would have been. Continued good reports are received as to the condition of grass. Some of the smaller summer hotels are open and the larger ones will open before July 1st. At present there are a few coming, and it is expected that the rush will begin in less than two weeks.

Glad to Recommend them

ANTRIM HIGH SCHOOL

The Annual Commencement Exercises on Friday Last

The commencement exercises of the Antrim High school took place last Friday afternoon in the town hall in the presence of a large audience. The hall was very elaborately decorated with wild flowers, potted plants, crepe paper and ferns. The class colors of old gold and royal purple were in predominance. The class motto was "Nil Desperandum" and, being in gilt letters and occupying a prominent place on the stage, it set off very effectively the background of evergreen.

Rev. J. B. Hewett offered the prayer and the High school chorus sang. Miss Mary Leona Thompson delivered the salutatory and class history. Carol Newman Gibney gave the valedictory and an essay entitled "Psychology and the Advertiser." Others to give essays were Miss Mary Eckless Nay, "Uncrowned Heroes"; Miss Ruth Natalie Ashford, "Friendship"; Waldo Alonzo Robb, "Conservation of Our National Resources"; Miss Helen Catherine Hills, "The Knights of Old"; Miss Ethel Flora Ellinwood, "The Awakening of Korea"; Miss Alice Ruth Thompson, "Prison Reform," and Miss Myrl Mae Mart n, "Class Prophecy." The diplomas were presented by Charles F. Butterfield, chairman of the school board.

Seated on the stage with the class were LeRoy M. Hardy, principal, and Supr. F. L. Kendall.

The class officers were Carroll Newman Gibney, pres., Miss Alice Ruth Thompson, vice pres., Miss Ruth Natalie Ashford, sec.-treas.

Five of the graduates completed the classical course and the remainder completed the scientific course. The majority of them will probably attend higher institutions of learning in the fall.

This is the largest class to be graduated from the High school for four years, having a large percentage of the freshman class to finish the course.

The senior class gave the annual reception to the public in the evening at the town hall. This is one of the most important social functions of the season and well attended. Popular young ladies of the undergraduates were the ushers. They were Misses Eleanor Stearns, Mae Ashford, Hazel Burnham, Winnie Smith, Mae Harris, Mildred Cram and Helen Stowell. The class marshal was William Hurlin, class of 1911, A. H. S.

Those filling the role of flower bearers were Jeanette Fitts and Wendall Putnam.

The ushers in the afternoon were Rose Roberts, Cranston D. Eldredge, Clarence Elliott, Harold Stearns, Bert Eaves, Ralph Eaves, Raymond Farrant, Byron Butterfield, Carl Hansli, Wallace George.

Wood Notice

I desire to give notice to the public generally that I have no more wood for sale at present, and hope all will govern themselves accordingly.

WILLARD MANNING,

"Bass, Sulloway and Currier"

The slogan, "Bass, Sulloway and Currier" is being used extensively just now and it may prove the salvation of the congressmen who were getting decidedly worried over the outlook. Congressman Currier's statement that he "hardly thought the state would go democratic" is an evidence of how both congressmen have felt about the situation. Things look black from a republican standpoint, not only in New Hampshire, but all over the country. William E. Chandler believes that the triumvirate made up of Bass, Sulloway and Currier would pull through. It ought to be inquired however, just how both the congressmen will vote on the speakership before the Bass supporters permit him to be tied up with the two Cannon allies. New Hampshire is desirous of progressive legislation, particularly upon the forest reserve proposition, and it would be preposterous for the voters of the state to elect men to go to Congress to put stumbling blocks in its way. That's what we've done before. It ought to be pretty definitely understood what the attitude of these two congressmen is on this subject before they get the suffrages of the people again. Bass is too good a man to be hampered with such attachments unless they truly represent the people.—Littleton Courier.

This is not so bad advice after all; the north country people, as well as those of us who live in the southern section of the state, can easily read the signs of the times.

MANY REQUESTS from Catarrh sufferers who use atomizers have caused us to put up Liquid Cream Balm, a new and convenient form of Ely's Cream Balm, the only remedy for Catarrh which can always be depended on. In power to allay inflammation, to cleanse the clogged air-passages, to promote free natural breathing, the two forms of Cream Balm are alike. Liquid Cream Balm is sold by all druggists for 75 cents, including spraying tube. Mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York.

New Hampshire Board of Trade

The annual summer outing of the New Hampshire Board of Trade will be held at Canobie Lake Park, Salem, Thursday, June 30.

A banquet will be served by Graves & Ramdell, proprietors of Canobie Lake Park and Hotel, at 1 o'clock, after which, followed by brief business session of the Board, there will be speaking by Hon. Robert P. Bass of Peterboro, Hon. Clarence E. Carr of Andover and others.

The outing is open to all Board of Trade members and their friends, and as on former occasions in recent years the ladies are especially invited.

The price of tickets covering cost of banquet, badges and incidentals will be $1.50 each, to be had of the Secretary of the State Board or local board secretaries.

"It cured me," or "It saved the life of my child," are the expressions you hear every day about Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. This is true the world over where this valuable remedy has been introduced. No other medicine in use for diarrhoea or bowel complaints has received such general approval. The secret of the success of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is that it cures. Sold by all Druggists.

As to the State Highway,

Mr. Editor:

With the fact that the two manufacturing plants at Clinton have suffered heavily by fire and enlarged same, without asking any assistance from the town, and we have yet to learn of encouragement offered by those so deeply interested in encouraging manufacturing plants in town.

It would seem that the least that could be done would be for the Selectmen to use their influence to have their tax money reserved for State Highway, expending on Clinton Street until it is made as good a highway as there is in town.

These plants are worth to the town twice as much as any plant employing forty men, as we are likely to have located, as they buy large amounts of hard wood lumber which we have so much in town, and which in many towns there is a small market for.

These are not favored by any High Protective Tariff, in fact suffered by same. They have asked no particular favors of the town and it would seem it would be but a small consideration to expend this money and even add more in this way to assist them by giving them a first class road, cutting off the grades as far as possible to draw their supplies from the depot and goods to them.

Local Minstrels Not Repeated

However much we regret the occurrence of advertising something that does not take place, the performance of the Local Minstrels is not going to be repeated as announced last week in these columns. After the REPORTER went to press, conditions were such that the management concluded that it would not be advisable to again put the show on in town and the matter was dropped.

PAINTING THE WORLD.

Indian Legend of the Way Spring Came into Existence.

Once, long before there were men in the world, all the earth was covered with snow and ice.

White and frozen lay the rivers and the seas; white and frozen lay the plains. The mountains stood tall and dead, like ghosts in white gowns. There was no color except white in all the world except in the sky, and it was almost black. At night the stars looked through it like angry eyes.

Then God sent the Spring down into the world, the Spring with red lips and curling yellow hair.

In his arms he bore sprays of apple blossoms and the first flowers—crocus, anemones and violets, red, pink, blue, purple, violet and yellow.

The first animal to greet the Spring was the white rabbit. The Spring dropped a red crocus on his head, and ever since then all white rabbits have had red eyes.

Then the Spring dropped a blue violet on a white bird, the first bird to greet the Spring, and that is the way the bluebird was made. Ever since then it is the first bird to arrive when the Spring comes down from heaven.

So the Spring went through the world. Wherever he tossed the leaves from his fragrant burden the earth became green. He tossed the blossoms on the frozen seas, and the ice melted and the fish became painted with all the tint of his flowers. That is the way the trout and the minnows and the salmon became gaudy.

Only the high mountains would not bow to the Spring. So their summits remain white and dead, for they would let the Spring paint only the sides.

The snow owls and the white geese and the polar bears fled from the Spring, so they, too, remain white to this day.

Curious Tombstone.

On a gravestone in the parish churchyard of Great Yarmouth, England, there is sculptured the unusual representation of a clown seated in a tub, which is being drawn down a river by two swans. Beneath this stone lies one of the many victims who were drowned years ago by the collapse of an iron suspension bridge on which they had crowded to see a clown pass underneath in the manner described. The feat, which was a novel form of advertisement by a traveling circus, was actually performed, but the rush of people from one side of the bridge to the other after the man had passed under caused the tragic ending.

More Acceptable.

The judge frowned down on the humorous tramp.

"At first I was disposed to give you a year and a quarter," said the former in stern tones, "but now I think I'll drop the quarter and give you a year." The humorous tramp looked up quickly.

"Your honor, why don't you make yourself a good fellow and drop de year and give me de quarter?"—New York World.

Back to Nature.

"Yes; she is president of our Back to Nature club."—Life.

How They Are Kept.

God has lent us the earth for our life. It is a great estate.—Ruskin.

Major Pond and Bill Nye.

More than one successful lecture star had to thank Major Pond for his start. He had keen discrimination and not infrequently sought out and dragged upon the lecture platform an obscure genius who never thought to see himself before the footlights. Such a genius was Bill Nye. When the major found him he was acting as postmaster and editing the Laramie Boomerang over a livery stable. ("Walk down the alley, twist the gray mule's tail, take the elevator immediately!")

Pond persuaded him to try lecturing, and as there proved to be both money and useful publicity in it Nye was grateful and used for years to remember the major with characteristic notes, one of which had the following exhaustive signature:

Yours with a heart full of gratitude and a system full of drugs, paints, oil, turpentine, glass, putty and everything usually kept in a first class drug store.

P. S.—Open all night.

Experiments have shown that if a ball of solid iron be lowered into a mass of liquid iron by means of a metal fork the ball at first sinks to the bottom with the fork, but that in a few seconds it will leave the prongs and rise to the surface, where it continues to float until it melts. The rising is explained by the expansion of the ball, due to heating, whereby it becomes, bulk for bulk, less dense than the molten metal.—St. Louis Republic.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health in that organ is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. A trial will convince anyone. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

Watch Your Shoulders.

When standing before a looking glass notice if your shoulders are the same height. Generally the right is higher than the left. The reason for this unevenness lies in the way one sits. You get into a comfortable chair at your desk, and at once your right elbow on the arm of your chair or your desk, thus throwing one shoulder higher than the other. This is especially the case where one writes a great deal. When you notice that one shoulder is higher than the other the thing to do is to change your way of sitting at your desk. Two simple exercises will be beneficial. The arm of the lower shoulder should be extended upward, the hand grasping a dumbbell. That of the higher shoulder should be lowered and made to support a heavy weight.

The Sleep of Seeds.

Oats, corn, fennel and some flower seeds were exposed during 118 days to a temperature of 40 degrees F. below zero. Afterward when placed in suitable surroundings nearly all of the fennel, oat and corn seeds and many of the others germinated. It is concluded that the protoplasm, or the principle of life, in a resting seed is in a state of inaction not comparable to that of a smoldering fire, but rather like that of a chemical mixture which is capable of forming a combination whenever the required conditions of temperature and illumination are present.

She Was Born Yesterday.

She—Last night was the first time I ever heard you talk in your sleep, and you kept saying, "Four kings," and once in awhile, "Full house." He—Well, you see, I was down to the club last night playing checkers with a crack player and there was a full house watching us.

A JUGGLER'S TRICK.

Clever Feat of Illusion Performed by an East Indian.

A retired naval official who served long in the east says the feats of the East Indian jugglers are wonderful. He cites one.

While he was an officer on board a P. and O. steamship two natives came aboard at Madras, he says. They were a juggler and his assistant. After they had performed a number of minor feats and had gathered quite a crowd around them they called for a sack and a piece of sailcloth.

These having been provided, the chief juggler made a small tentlike structure with the canvas and some stools. He then placed his assistant in the sack and allowed a sailor to tie the knot which bound him a fast prisoner. This done, the chief carried the sack into an open space, warning the people to stand back some distance, and then carried on an animated conversation with his assistant, whose replies could be distinctly heard coming from the sack. Suddenly the chief rushed forward, picked up the sack and dumped it overboard, where, to the horror of the passengers and crew, it sank out of sight.

Immediately the captain rushed forward and seized the man under the full belief that he had murdered the companion, but the juggler only smiled and, pointing to the canvas, asked that it be raised. This was done, and the supposed drowned man was discovered squatting on the deck. So realistic had been the throwing overboard, however, that it was some time before the surprised passengers could realize a murder had not been committed.

BLIND OBEDIENCE.

Did as the Judge Told Him and Was Well Paid For It.

A gentleman had a head gardener who never thought of having a holiday or missing a day from work and so somewhat surprised his employer by asking him if he could have "next Friday off."

His request was immediately granted, but on the Saturday he did not show up, and a week went past, and then a fortnight, and still no sign of Mike. The gentleman reluctantly employed another man in Mike's place.

About three months afterward he was surprised on going into the grounds to find Mike at work just as if nothing had happened.

"Where have you been, Michael?" he asked.

"Well, sorr, it's like this: You remember the day you let me off? I had to appear at the court as a witness. When I gets there I sees the ould gint with the wig on 'is head and 'is specs on the tip of 'is nose.

"'Michael Dooley,' sez 'e.
"'Yis, sorr,' sez I.
"'Go into that box,' says 'e.
"'Right, sorr,' sez I.
"'Swear,' sez 'e.

"I did as 'e told me, though I don't use bad language as a rule.
"'Three months for contmpt of court,' sez 'e.
"'And they're only just let me out, sorr.'—Pearson's.

ACCUSED AS A WITCH.

Tried For "Conversing With the Devil in the Form of a Cat."

Jane Wenham was indicted at the Hertfordshire assizes on March 4, 1712, for "conversing with the devil in the form of a cat," under the provisions of the act of 1604, repealed in 1736. Her prosecutors wished to have her also indicted for practicing witchcraft to the harm of Ann Thorn, a servant girl sixteen years old, but this was not allowed, although evidence was produced at the trial to show what injury had been done the victim by means of crooked pins and by placing cakes and cats' hairs in Ann Thorn's pillow and how the prisoner had caused the death of some cattle simply by walking through a turnip field.

The jury brought her in "guilty," and Mr. Justice Powell passed sentence of death, but took steps to quash the verdict. Wenham's prosecutors published an account of the case, but their arguments were pulverized by scientific men. Jane Wenham herself was liberated and taken under the protection of Colonel Plummer, who gave her a cottage, and we are told by Dr. Hutchinsou that in 1720 the whole country was fully convinced of her innocence.—Loudon Spectator.

Thrift.

An economical housewife drank a quantity of silver nitrate by mistake. The doctor, who had been hastily summoned, ordered large drafts of the white of eggs to be administered. "Mary, Mary," murmured the almost unconscious patient, "save the yolks for puddings!"—Success Magazine.

THE ARCTIC PERIL

Peary's Method of Battling With Polar Conditions.

THE USE OF RELAY PARTIES.

Without This System, the Explorer Says, It Would Be a Physical Impossibility For Any Man to Reach the Pole and Return to Tell the Tale.

Many persons who have asked why, if Peary got to the pole, it was impossible for Cook to do so will find an answer in Commander Peary's own story in Hampton's. Although he does not mention Dr. Cook by name, Peary shows how impossible it would be for a man without his equipment and system to surmount the difficulties of such a journey. He says:

"Fortitude and endurance alone are not enough in themselves to carry a man to the north pole. Only with years of experience in traveling those regions, only with the aid of a large party also experienced in that character of work, only with the knowledge of arctic detail and the equipment necessary to prepare himself and his party for any and every emergency, is it possible for a man to reach that long sought goal and return.

"In order that the reader may understand this journey over the ice of the polar sea it is necessary that the theory and practice of pioneer and supporting parties should be fully understood.

"The use of relay parties in arctic work is not new, but the idea was carried further in the last expedition of the Peary Arctic club than ever before.

"Without this system it would be a physical impossibility for any man to reach the north pole and return to tell the tale.

"First.—Because a single division, comprising either a small or a large number of men and dogs, could not possibly drag all the way to the pole and back (some 1000 miles) as much food and liquid fuel as the men and dogs of that division would consume during the many weeks of the journey.

"Second.—It is absolutely necessary that the arduous work of trail breaking for the first two-thirds of the distance should be done by one division after another in succession in order to save the strength of the main party for its final dash alone.

"Third.—When the supplies of one sledge after another have been consumed the drivers of these sledges and the dogs are superfluous mouths which cannot be fed from the scanty supply of provisions being dragged forward over the ice.

"Fourth.—Each division being an independent unit, these divisions can be withdrawn at intervals from the main party without affecting the main party.

"Fifth.—At the very end, when the supporting parties have performed their important work of trail breaking and transportation of supplies, the main party for the final dash must be small and carefully selected, as a small party can travel so much faster than a large one.

"The pioneer party was one unit division, made up of four of the most active and experienced men of the expedition, with sledges lightly loaded with five or six days' provisions, drawn by the best dog teams that could be selected from the entire pack. When we started from Cape Columbia this pioneer party, headed by Bartlett, went out twenty-four hours in advance of the main party. Later on, when we reached the time of continuous daylight and sunlight through the twenty-four hours, the pioneer party was but twelve hours in advance of the main party.

"The duty of this pioneer party was to make a march in every twenty-four hours in spite of every obstacle, excepting, of course, some impassable lead. Whether there was a deep snow or violent winds to be faced or mountainous pressure ridges to be climbed over, the march of the pioneer party must be made, for past experience had proved that whatever distance was covered by the advance party with its light sledges could be covered in less time by the main party even with heavily loaded sledges, because the main party, having the trail to follow, was not obliged to waste time in reconnoitering.

"In other words, the pioneer party was the forerunner of the expedition and whatever distance it made was the measure of accomplishment for the main party. The leader of the pioneer party, in the first instance Bartlett, would start out ahead of his division, usually of the snowshoes. Then the light sledges of the party would follow after. Thus the leader of the pioneer division was pioneering ahead of his own party, and that whole division was pioneering ahead of the main party.

"One great advantage which I had on this expedition was that, owing to the size of my party, whenever the men in this pioneer division became exhausted with their arduous labor and lack of sleep I could withdraw them into the main party and send out a fresh division to take their place. A large party is absolutely necessary to success."

A BOSTON LANDMARK.

The Grasshopper Weather Vane Purchased Atop Faneuil Hall.

Perched on the cupola of Faneuil hall is a grasshopper weather vane which is not only one of the oldest vanes in the country, but is famous as the product of one of America's earliest woodcarvers and artisans, Shem Drowne of Boston.

Brown's shop was on Ann street in the north end. Of the many vanes he made only three are now known to be in existence—the one on the Shepard Memorial church in Cambridge, which formerly was on the steeple of the New Brick church on Hanover street in this city and known as the revenge vane; the one in the collection of the Massachusetts Historical society, a relic of the old Boston province house, and the one on Faneuil hall.

This grasshopper of copper, hammered out by hand, has large glassy eyes, which in the sunlight shine like fire. It was made in 1742 at the order of Peter Faneuil when the hall, his gift to the town, was nearing completion.

It has not, however, lived a life of unbroken peace, for several times it has been near destruction. In 1753, when Boston was shaken by an earthquake, the vane fell to the ground, but after being supplied with a new leg by the son of the man who made it it was replaced.

Five years later Faneuil hall was seriously damaged by fire, but the vane remained intact, and when the hall was rebuilt the grasshopper was once more given the place of honor.

Another disaster befell it when in 1880 a flag was being raised to celebrate the anniversary of the evacuation of the city by the British. The hopper hopped to the street below. But in a few days it hopped right back again, and there it has remained ever since, with the exception of an occasional removal for repairs.—Boston Globe.

UNCLE SAM'S STAMPS.

Wonderful Collection in the Postoffice Department Museum.

The fact that nearly all men at some time were stamp collectors is said to account for the popularity of the official stamp collection of the United States postoffice department maintained in connection with the postal museum in Washington. Postoffice department officials say 100,000 men call every year to see the museum stamp collection.

The postoffice department museum is full of interesting objects. It contains almost everything from a lock of Charles Guiten's hair to models of the big battleships of the navy, but by far its most interesting feature, according to the officials in charge, is the stamp collection. Few visitors miss that sight, and many "bobbyists" spend hours poring over it.

Uncle Sam as a stamp collector is a most signal success. He not only has a complete set of his own stamps, but a complete collection from every other stamp issuing country in the civilized world as well. His collection is valued by the department at $200,000, but stamp dealers say it would demand a figure many times that sum if placed on the open market for sale.

The fact that Uncle Sam's stamp collection is absolutely complete is a statement difficult to comprehend, even to those who have been collectors themselves. Most of those who were collectors in years gone by will remember how many empty places there were in their albums when they glared in the possession of 1500 and 2000 specimens. They will recall how many new varieties above the 2000 mark cost from $5 to $50 each; also the small fortunes placed on some of the specially rare specimens, the kind which the dealers' catalogues related had been printed only to the number of 100 or so and but six or seven were known to be in existence.

Well, Uncle Sam's stamp collection possesses all of these, besides the thousands of common kinds. Although it has taken hard work, many years and a tidy fortune to do it, the collection today stands absolutely complete. The only varieties yet to be added are those yet to be issued.—Baltimore American.

At a literary and scientific gathering a learned Greek scholar got into conversation with one of the leading mathematicians of the day and apparently found a ready listener. He gave again and again exquisite lines from Homer from the original, and the sonorous words rolled off his tongue in fine style. After awhile, noticing that his audience, the man of figures, made no remark, he paused and said in a questioning tone of wonder:

"Of course you think those lines masterly, do you not?"

"Certainly," said the mathematician, "but what do they prove?"

STRINGING PEARLS

A Difficult Task That Calls For Skill and Judgment.

CORDED ON SURGEON'S SILK.

A Soft, Round Strand of Pure White Woven Thread is Employed, and an Intricate System of Knotting Guards the Gems Should the String Break.

Every now and then a story is printed about the loss of a valuable string of pearls through the breaking of the cord on which they were hung and their slipping off and scattering over the floor or sidewalk. Those who know anything about the stringing of pearls, however, always read these tales with incredulity, because nowadays, as a general thing, only false pearls or those of small price are strung without a knot being tied between each of them, so that if the cord breaks no more than one can fall off.

It is common belief that because of their great value pearls are strung on something durable, like catgut or wire. As a matter of fact such material is never employed. There is no beauty to a string of pearls that looks wily or stiff. It must be flexible to the highest degree, otherwise all its graceful effect will be lost. Up to the time of the introduction of surgeon's silk for pearl stringing nothing had been found that would absolutely meet the requirements of strength and flexibility.

That the most valuable pearls are today strung on cords of surgeon's silk is due to the suggestion of a woman employee of a New York jewelry house.

Surgeon's silk—the thread that is used for sewing up cuts and wounds—is a soft, round strand of pure white silk which is woven, not twisted. The weave, when viewed under a magnifying glass, closely resembles that of fine silk braid and is capable of only a small degree of expansion. This thread is produced in several diameters or grades, which makes it all the more desirable for pearl stringing. These are numbered instead of being lettered like ordinary sewing silk and are wound on small cards like darning cotton.

When the young woman's idea was first adopted it seemed as though it would prove impracticable owing to the quantity of surgeon's silk manufactured being insufficient to meet the new demands from the jewelers. It was also very expensive. But the idea was such a good one and the surgeon's silk was so much superior to anything ever tried before that in time it was found possible to secure it in sufficient quantities and at wholesale prices.

The principal safeguard against loss, however, is in the method of string-ing. An intricate system of knotting the thread between each pearl is employed. This prevents the escape of more than one jewel should the thread break. This knotting is done with tweezers and is a task that requires great skill. There must be no unsightly gaps between the knots and the pearls, and the whole when finished must be immaculate in its whiteness. The tiny knots instead of detracting from the beauty of the necklace enhance it, for they look like seed pearls alternating with the larger ones. Knotting lengthens the necklace also and is often resorted to for that purpose.

When a strand of a certain length is desired and the number of large pearls is not sufficient imitation pearls of the exact size and color are often substituted. Some of these imitations will deceive the eye of any but the most expert.

It often happens that the largest pearls have the smallest holes drilled through them, for every grain that is taken from the pearl reduces it in weight. In such cases, however, the risk of the cord breaking is increased owing to the slenderness of the thread and the sharp edges of the pearls cutting through it quickly.

Stringing pearls is never done with a needle. A needle is not yielding enough to pass through very small holes, and the doubling of its diameter at the eye makes its use impracticable. Therefore the end of the thread is sharpened to a very fine point, which is waxed still enough to be used exactly as a needle would be.

Ordinarily pearl stringing is mechanically difficult and also requires taste and judgment. The pearls may have to be rearranged in order to improve their general appearance. In the laying out of collarets especially a great deal of skill is required. In the first place, the collaret must fit exactly. This seems comparatively easy, but it is not. A pattern is always fitted beforehand, but it is rarely the case that the result is satisfactory the first time. Some necks require straight collars and others slightly curved. The same care is given to the fitting of a collaret as to the set of an expensive gown, and it has to be tried on and changed and adjusted as many times.

Dividers are used to gauge the exact position in which the vertical diamond bars that support the strands of pearls should be placed. Endless care and judgment may be given to laying out the pattern for one of these bangles and getting the measurements absolutely exact, but when it comes to be fitted there is sure to be trouble. It may be too tight at the bottom and too loose at the top, or perhaps the ends may not even meet at all.—Thaddeus S. Dayton in Chicago Record-Herald.

THE ALBATROSS.

The Largest Sea Bird Having the Power of Flight.

The albatross, that wanderer of the seas so often referred to in prose and poem, is nevertheless a stranger to the average person and by some is even considered a myth. In Coleridge's "The Rime of the Ancient Mariner" the albatross plays a leading part, and one sorrows for the poor bird, which, after following the ship for weeks, is pitilessly shot down by a mariner.

The albatross is the largest sea bird having the power of flight and is closely allied to the gull, petrel and Mother Carey's chicken. It has a tremendous stretch of wing, averaging from ten to twelve feet. The wings are, however, extremely narrow, being about nine inches in breadth. The body is about four feet in length, and the weight is from fifteen to eighteen pounds, a comparatively light weight when one considers the extreme length of wing. The albatross is possessed of a peculiarly long, oddly shaped bill, which gives it a strange appearance. The nostrils open from round, horizontal tubes on each side of the bill, but at its base.

This great bird is generally met with in southern seas, although it is occasionally seen on our Pacific coast. On the Atlantic side it is rarely found as far north as Tampa bay.

Its food consists of cuttlefish, jellyfish and scraps thrown from passing ships. It is a greedy bird and at times gorges itself to such an extent that it is unable to rise from the water.

Its power of flight is, however, the most remarkable thing about the albatross. It spends its life, with the exception of a few weeks given each year to nesting, entirely at sea and is on the wing practically all the time. Furthermore, it does not progress by flapping its wings, as most birds do, but seems to soar at will, rarely if ever giving a stroke of the wing, seeming to need no impetus.—St. Nicholas.

THE PRIZE PRESENT.

It Was the Gem of the Wedding Gifts He Assured the Bride.

Bored, unspeakably bored, he found himself in the room where the gifts were displayed. But then he might as well be here as any place else, he argued, for everything connected with a wedding was a bore. His gaze wandered listlessly over the collection of silver, meat forks, cut glass berry bowls and onyx clocks till it fell on a faded little old Japanese print almost hidden behind a hideous chaffing dish that looked as if it might have been handed down by the cliff dwellers.

In another moment he was before it, tingling with excitement, the spirit of the collector rampant.

"An Utamaro, sure as you're alive!" he exclaimed, looking about for some one with whom to share his joy. Anybody would do, so he tapped a stranger on the shoulder and announced with the air of reporting the discovery of a diamond mine, "It's an Utamaro, the real thing!"

"A what?" asked the man, adjusting his glasses.

"It is by Utamaro, the master of Japanese artists," he answered as he fled in search of his wife. She would understand. "To think of wasting it on those donkeys who won't know it from a signboard!" he grumbled.

He found her shaking hands with the bride, so he rushed up and rung the girl's hand enthusiastically. "I have just been admiring that peachy Utamaro!" he exclaimed excitedly.

"A peachy Utamaro! What's that?" asked the bride, mystified.

"That rare old Japanese print up there. It's the gem of your whole layout."

"Oh!" exclaimed the bride faintly, looking a little queer, so he thought, as she turned to greet another guest.

As his wife dragged him away he demanded to know what the dickens was the matter with that Utamaro.

"It was our present to them," she moaned. "I didn't dare tell you. You would have wanted it for your collection."—Los Angeles Times.

How a Bird Dresses.

As bird fashions do not change, two suits a year are quite enough for most birds, but they need to take great care of them. Each separate feather must be cleaned and looked over and the useless ones pulled out. These feathers are not packed close together, you know, but lie loose and have places between filled with air. When a bird wants to get warmer he lifts his feathers so that these air spaces may be larger. But if his feathers are tangled or wet and dirty he could not raise them, and soon he could not keep the heat in his little body and would, of course, die.

Cutting It Short.

"How long can you stay?" asked a hostess who had received an unexpected visitor coolly.

"No longer than I can help," was the crisp reply. "I have telephoned to have my trunk stay at the depot and to notify me of the first train I can take home. So sorry I can't stay longer!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Dangerous Reproductions.

"An artist," said Mr. Trechum, "should strive to reproduce what is nearest to his thought and deepest in his affection."

"Yes," replied the mercenary genius, "but the laws against counterfeiting currency are so severe!"—Washington Star.

Sideboards and Buffets

Quartered Oak, $22.50

Twelve patterns at money saving prices, $18 to $35. A considerable part of the recent jobbers purchase we made from the local factory was in Sideboards and Buffets. Our prices reflect our quantity purchase.

The kind whose drawers run smooth and which look as well after ten years as when new.

You cannot appreciate the beauty of design, the superior workmanship, the excellence of the finish, the quartered figure of the stock used unless you see the pieces themselves.
