ANTRIM LOAN AND BANKING COMPANY

SPECIAL NOTICE!

To Morris Christie, David H. Goodell, Elliott W. Baker, George A. Cochran, Squires Forsaith, William A. C. Oaks, Stephen G. Hastings, Warren R. Cochran, Fred C. Parmenter, Albert Clement, Milton Tenney and Charles H. Bass, surviving incorporators named in the Charter, and to all other citizens interested in perfecting the necessary organization to establish the Antrim Loan and Banking Company.

A special meeting is hereby called and will be held pursuant to the provisions of the Charter, in the Selectmen's room, Town Hall Building, Monday evening, September 12th, 1910, at 7.45 o'clock to take such action in relation to the matter of organization and starting the Bank in business as may be necessary.

Signed,

DAVID H. GOODELL
ELLIOTT W. BAKER
GEORGE A. COCHRAN

Incorporators named in Charter.

Antrim, N. H., August 29th, 1910.

By request of the Committee of the Antrim Board of Trade, recently elected for the purpose of advancing the Bank proposition.

The Antrim Loan and Banking Company bids fair to become a reality and the long-looked-for and much needed Bank in our town will certainly prove a great benefit. A good banking institution will attract new business and serve to greatly increase the general business and prosperity of the town.

It is proposed that this Bank shall be a distinctly Antrim institution managed by Antrim capital and by well known Antrim business men. The entire capital could be quickly secured from outside sources but the Banking Committee of the Board of Trade will offer Capital Stock shares to Antrim people and endeavor to sell at least a majority of the stock (which will be about 180 shares) to our own citizens.

Those who would like information regarding the Capital shares with a view to investment, may inquire for the present of W. D. Farnham, president of the Board of Trade, and chairman of the Banking Committee.

UNDER THE DIRECT PRIMARY

Antrim Sends Forth Her First Report—Large Vote Cast as Many Favor the Improved System

Although a very dull day in Antrim, and part of the time quite wet and some rainy, there was a very large vote cast at the Primary on Tuesday of this week, when 175 of our voters marked ballots for their choice of men on the two tickets; the registering of party preferences stood 103 Republicans and 72 Democrats.

The result of the vote for Bass was a surprise even to the most sanguine, as he carried almost everything. Some of the other votes are a bit interesting to say the least, and for the benefit of our readers we give Antrim's vote in detail below. What the election will reveal is only a bit forecasted by the nomination at the primaries. The work of keeping the voter interested in the several candidates for state and county offices will go merrily on from now till the day of election, and the prospects are good for an unusually active campaign.

The candidates nominated for office at the primaries by the two parties, so far as our town goes, will have their names appear on the official ballot; they are marked by an * and are given in separate columns with the names of their respective party at the head.

The polls were opened and voting began at 10 o'clock in the forenoon and continued till 4 o'clock in the afternoon, with Moderator William E. Cram presiding and the regular board of election officers in attendance; counting was commenced and at 6.40 o'clock the following result was announced:

SENATOR ROBERT P. BASS

Wins the Coveted Nomination of Republican Candidate for Governor of New Hampshire

Evidently the people understand in a measure the workings of the new primary election law, for where it was said by those who were "pushing" the so-called "machine" man that he would get two to one and in some places three to one, the returns show that the so-called progressive or reform candidate for Governor had the sympathy of the people,—they did not make much noise about it but their direct vote gave them a chance of expression and for the first time their voice is heard; they give the man—Hon. Robert P. Bass, the author of the new primary bill by which it is now possible for the voter to vote direct for the candidates—their hearty support making the figures at this hour look about like two to one in favor of Mr. Bass of Peterboro against Col. Ellis of Keene.

The County ticket returns are so incomplete at this writing that it is impossible to give much that can be depended on; however, it appears that Harry W. Spaulding has been elected Solicitor, Irving E. Forbes, Treasurer.

When Merit Wins

When the medicine you take cures your disease, tones up your system and makes you feel better, stronger and more vigorous than before. That is what Foley Kidney Pills do for you in case of backache, nervousness, loss of appetite, sleeplessness and general weakness that is caused by any disorder of the kidneys or bladder.

Death of Charles A. Whittemore

Charles A. Whittemore, a native and for many years a resident of this town, where he enjoyed the respect and esteem of a large circle of friends, passed away at his home on Main street shortly after 7.30 o'clock last week Tuesday evening.

He was the son of the late Reed Paige and Sarah (Dodge) Whittemore, and was born in Antrim, Jan. 23, 1843. He was united in marriage with Miss Anna Woodbury of Bedford, and for some years resided on the farm with his father near the Hillsboro town line, later moving to the Thomas Flint farm west of this village. For many years he had resided on Main street, was engaged in carrying the mail when the railroad was run to this town and also assisted his father in the express office for many years.

He has served the town as road agent. Mr. Whittemore is survived by his widow and three children, a daughter, Miss Martha Whittemore, who resides at home, and two sons, Edwin J. Whittemore, a teacher in West Newbury, Mass., and Philip Whittemore of Antrim.

The funeral was held at 1.30 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Presbyterian church and was largely attended by friends and relatives. Rev. W. J. Atkinson of the Methodist church officiated and spoke feelingly and appropriately of the life work of the deceased; and mentioned the high esteem in which he was held by his neighbors and friends. At the close of the service the body was taken to Maplewood cemetery where burial was made in the family lot. The family have the profound sympathy of a wide circle of friends in their affliction.

Stagers Skeptics.

That a clean, nice, fragrant compound like Bucklen's Arnica Salve will instantly relieve a bad burn, cut, scald, wound or pile, staggers skeptics. But great cures prove it's a wonderful healer of the worst sores, ulcers, boils, felons, eczema, skin eruptions, as also chapped hands, sprains and corns. Try it. 25c at Antrim Pharmacy.

Auction Sale

By W. E. Cram, Auctioneer, Antrim.

James Cody as agent for the heirs of the John Cody Estate, will sell at public auction, on the premises, on Saturday, Sept. 10, at 2 o'clock p. m., the homestead known as the John Cody place, situated on the road from Bennington village to the Paper Mill, consisting of house, barn and barn, a building lot and garden. For particulars read posters.

ONLY A LITTLE COLD in the head may be the beginning of an obstinate case of Nasal Catarrh. Drive out the invader with Ely's Cream Balm applied straight to the inflamed stuffed up air-passages. Price 50c. If you prefer to use an atomizer, ask for Liquid Cream Balm. It has all the good qualities of the solid form of this remedy and will rid you of catarrh or hay fever. No cocaine to breed a dreadful habit. No mercury to dry out the secretion. Price 75c., with spraying tube. All druggists, or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York.

Bury the Hatchet

Now that the primaries have been held and the excitement to a certain degree is over, of course some are disappointed,—it necessarily must be so; however, it is not wise nor manly to make a big touse over defeat along these lines. Everyone who cares at all for party or party harmony, should now bury all differences and at the election to follow vote for the nominee of your party. Parties are necessary and it is only by allowing the majority to rule that parties are kept together.

High School Exams

Examinations for admission to the Antrim High School will be given at the School Building on Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 12 and 13.

The Lash of a Fiend would have been about as welcome to A Cooper of Oswego, N. Y., as a merciless lung racking cough that defied all remedies for years. "It was most troublesome at night," he writes "nothing helped me till I used Dr. King's New Discovery which cured me completely. I never cough at night now." Millions know its matchless merit for stubborn colds, obstinate coughs, sore lungs, lagrippe, asthma, hemorrhage, croup, whooping cough, or hay fever. It relieves quickly and never fails to satisfy. A trial convinces. 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. It's positively guaranteed by

A PIG'S SQUEAL

It Played a Momentous Part in American History.

The war between this country and England in 1812 was caused by one vote, and, stranger still, the small margin came from a pig getting its head stuck in a wall fence. It was a Rhode Island fence at that, but built much like a Virginia worm fence.

They were having an election of members of the legislature in Rhode Island. One Federalist put off going to the election and left himself just time enough to get there before the polls closed. Just as he got on his horse and started for town he heard a pig squeal. He looked around and saw that the pig had its head jammed into that old rail fence, and anybody who knows anything about hogs knows that the hogs would have eaten that pig up if it hadn't been rescued. The farmer stopped long enough to liberate the pig, and when he got to the polls they were closed. He was too late.

The result was that a Democratic member of the legislature was elected from that district by one vote, and he would not have been elected if that Federal had got there on time. In the legislature a Democratic United States senator was elected by one vote, and that Democratic legislator who had been elected by one vote voted for him.

In the United States senate they voted for the war of 1812 by one vote, and that Rhode Island Democratic senator who had been elected because that pig was caught in the fence voted for the war of 1812.—Popular Magazine.

Not a Waxwork.

The opening of the courts in an asize town in England is always a great day for the residents. The procession to the church, where the judge says his prayers and listens to a homily, the march to the court, with the attendant javelin men and the braying of trumpets—the men in wigs and gowns—all the rustic mind with the sense of awe and the majesty of justice. It is related in Mr. Thomas Edward Crispe's book, "Reminiscences of a K. C.," that a farmer once took his son into the crown court.

On the bench was the Baron Cleasby, gorgeous in scarlet and ermine, stately and motionless. The yokel gazed with open mouth at the resplendent figure on the raised dais. Suddenly the baron moved his hand from right to left and left to right.

"Why, feyther," said the boy, "it's alive!"

Fred—I am helping you, old chap. I argued with her for two hours yesterday trying to convince her that you weren't as big a fool as you look.—Chicago News.

Speaking of Fair Taxation!

Some figures from the State Treasurer's Report which should interest people concerned in the development of New Hampshire

Did you ever realize the amount of money the Boston & Maine Railroad pays out in support of the State and the cities and towns of New Hampshire?

The amount is very surprising.

The total amount paid in 1909 was $669,626 84.

The amount paid in 1908 was $613,876 10, a total of $683,592.94.

The total state tax is $800,000.

Thus, the Boston & Maine Railroad alone pays an amount fully equal to the entire amount of money fixed by the Legislature to maintain the State of New Hampshire.

This interesting information should be a reminder that the work of the Industrial Department is growing continually and that the gospel of New England development is being sent throughout the nation at the time.

Women as Well as Men are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, or if, upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Men-Birds in Boston

The Big Aviators Meet to Have Full Reports in The Boston Journal.

Beginning next Sunday Boston is to be the scene of the greatest aviation meet ever held in this country. Aviators from all parts of the world, with their aeroplanes, monoplanes, triplanes and dirigibles, are to pit their skill against each other for thousands of dollars' worth of prizes. The skies about Boston will be alive with shooting birds, presenting a spectacle never before equaled in this country.

Realizing the importance of such an event—the fantastic mental picture of long ago, now come true—The Boston Journal has made extra preparation to report the progress of the aviators each day in a manner which will enable those people who cannot come to Boston to understand thoroughly just what is going on. A corps of aero experts will write daily for The Daily Journal and The Sunday Journal; (the new Sunday that sells for one cent), and the thrilling situations will be chronicled with accuracy and vividness.

Your petitioner, Henry A. Hurlin, of Antrim, in said County of Hillsborough, administrator de bonis non with will annexed of the estate of Rebekah J. Bass, late of Antrim, deceased, respectfully represents that in and by said will it appears to have been the intention of said testatrix that her executor, or the representative of her estate, should sell and dispose of her hereinafter mentioned real estate for the purpose of paying the legacies and bequests named and expressed in said will; but that the words used are deemed insufficient for that purpose. Wherefore he prays that he may have license to sell said real estate of said deceased for the purpose and in the manner intended by said testatrix, agreeably to the laws of said State: Said real estate is situated in said Antrim, and is bounded and described as follows, to-wit: Beginning at the north-west corner of the premises on land of Lizzie A. Hills to the bounds first mentioned; containing one hundred acres, be the same more or less; being the same premises lawfully owned and occupied by the late Thomas First, of said Antrim, deceased; reserving all rights and interests therein.
 The above premises are subject to be conveyed upon payment to the grantee of the said Hurlin, as such administrator, of the said bequests, legacies, and debts of said deceased, of the sum of seven hundred and seventy-five dollars, and interest since the ninth day of July, A. D. 1910, and the performance of all other conditions contained in a certain bond and agreement to convey the same, which was signed by the said Rebekah J. Bass, dated May 8, 1907, and recorded in the Registry of Deeds for said County of Hillsborough, Volume 24, page 22, and subject, also, to all the terms and conditions of said bond and agreement to convey. OWES HER LIFE TO

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I was troubled with falling and inflammation, and the doctors said I could not get well unless I had an operation. I knew I could not stand the strain of one, so I wrote to you sometime ago about my health and you told me what to do. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier I am today a well woman."—Mrs. WILLIAM A. HENNING, 287 E. 12th St., Chicago, Ill.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass. It is a medicine which has been cured from every form of female trouble, including inflammation, all kinds of displacements, old tumors, irregularities, pain, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every such sufferer owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

Her Place

He Takes It and Wins Musical Honors.

By T. W. WINDHAM.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Margaret Treutham, a fair Bostonian, stood in a room in a German pension. She was speaking to a young man, like herself a musician.

"You don't realize what it means to me, Mr. Tolstoy. This is my last turn here and the concert tomorrow my only opportunity of playing publicly in the Conservatoire."

"But the circumstances are exceptional," he urged. "It happens that Professor Meyerhaus is in Leipzig recruiting violinists for his American tour, and it occurred to me that perhaps he would include me in his orchestra as solo pianist."

"By engaging me Meyerhaus would save the huge fees demanded by musicians who have made a name, and for me—a pause gave additional weight to his words—"It means possibly the opening of a career. I should come before the public at once and without expense instead of returning to America to drudge at teaching, because I do not possess the means to make an imposing debut."

"But you forget," she added in self-vidication, "I have rehearsed with the orchestra throughout the term, and the conductor will not approve of a change at the last moment."

"I have already obtained his permission"—he began.

"Then if he is willing for you to play why does he allow the decision to rest with me?" she broke in.

The tension of a momentary silence tried him beyond endurance. Rising, he walked to the door, pausing at the threshold.

"Forgive the intrusion. Unfortunately I misled myself with the belief that you would willingly cede a chance to a professional, being yourself an amateur and independent. I can only hope that your triumph tomorrow"—he lingered on the word in conscious irony—"will atone for the vexation of my visit."

A large cosmopolitan audience filled the Conservatoire hall for the final concert of the season.

An attendant opened the piano in readiness for the concerto as the pianist came forward, escorted by the master under whom she had studied.

She seated herself at the instrument, and a little ripple of applause broke from the balcony. Glancing upward in shy acknowledgment, she met the steadfast gaze of a man seated immediately facing her, who vouchsafed but the merest glance of recognition and resumed the study of a music score lying on his knees.

The players lowered their bow hands for several bars' rest. In the lull preceding the excerpt for the solo instrument the sound of a sharp drawn breath struck downward through the silence.

The baton beat on steadily—three—four—

"One!"
No answering chord from the pianist. The conductor glared at her aghast, the orchestra in undisguised surprise. She started slightly, and the color flamed into her cheeks.

The baton swooped down again.
"One, fraulein!" The conductor leaned forward, half frantic. "Have you forgotten?" he hissed.

A soft, level voice prompted suddenly from the balcony. "The allegro movement, key A flat minor, extended chord."

She glanced swiftly forward with a little impulsive gesture and rose in her seat, faced the conductor, flashed a glance of swift defiance and passed with head erect through rows of thunderstruck musicians to the platform exit.

Bewildered comments were exchanged throughout the hall, and the notability in the stalls adjusted its spectacles rather irritably and awaited developments.

"These Americans! These Americans!" chafed the conductor, beside himself with rage; then he buried an order at the doorkeeper, pointing to the balcony.

"Herr Tolstoy! Fetch him immediately!"

The man at the end had already disappeared, and in the passage connecting the platform with the cloakrooms he encountered the retiring pianist.

"Quick!" she whispered. "The conductor called for you."

His face glowed with trembling, exultant gratitude. He seized her hand and started backward conscience stricken as a tear fell glistening on her sleeve.

She rushed past him disconcerted, paced the step or two down the passage and turned abruptly to avenge her momentary loss of self control in an outbreak of reproach.

"Why don't you go? My failure gives you your opportunity. Pray don't hesitate to avail yourself."

"I'm sorry, so sorry"—he began.
"Do go!" she reiterated less harshly. "They will continue the program. It will be too late in another moment."

Though his hope of the future depended on that moment, he still stood irresolute, gazing in sheer fascination at the tear stained, imperious face.

"Do go! Do please go! It won't have been any good if you don't, and I shall never forgive myself!"

"Herr Tolstoy!"
The stentorian voice of the doorkeeper rang down the passage, and she darted through a doorway.

Her companion followed, stopped a second, and his lips seared her cheeks. In the next the platform door closed behind him.

An echo reached her of the allegro-rippling, lightening, swirling across the keys, subdued at intervals to the tumult of orchestral accompaniment, then ringing again, triumphant, quivering at the last with the rapt, exalted passion of a love song, followed by the silence that is greater than applause.

The pianist himself broke the spell, rising from his seat. The hall shook with a burst of enthusiasm. He passed unheeded through the platform exit.

The white haired notability removed his glasses with a sigh of satisfied enjoyment and turned to his colleague, his rugged Teutonic features softening into a smile.

"Your American young ladies—do they often take stage fright? But her companion! He is magnificent! To play that most difficult concerto without notes, without rehearsal—touch technique perfect! Consider also his youth!"

The director broke in with adroit explanation and suggestion. The professor beamed with delighted recollection.

"It is the same, then, who offered his services? You are right, my friend, that I should change my mind, that the world should hear of him. He shall go with me on tour."

Twilight in the park, the sharp, gray twilight of late autumn. A smart electric runabout, with a lady at the lever and a chauffeur at her side, joined the stream of vehicles entering the park at the Plaza. Her features were only partially visible through her automobile veil, but an involuntary exclamation broke from a man pacing aimlessly along the walk.

"Miss Treutham!"

"Mr. Tolstoy!"
With the answering cry of recognition she drew up close to the walk, heedless of the rules of the road.

Half hesitating, Tolstoy went forward.

"So you are back in America, Mr. Tolstoy?"

"Yes." He muttered the monosyllable without raising his eyes.

"And I see from the papers that your European tour was a great success."

He blurted out a second affirmative. For the moment she was slightly nonplused; then with infinite tact she once more took the initiative.

"You are soon appearing in New York?"

"Tomorrow at Carnegie hall," he replied shortly.

Beardmen were parading Broadway with notices of the professor's concert. It humbled him that she had not recognized the large type at the foot of the boards—"Solo pianoforte, 31P, Alfred Tolstoy."

"A matinee?"

He nodded stiffly.
"Of course I shall go. It will be a great pleasure to me to be present at your debut," she continued.

"It happens to be the last concert of the series," he said icily.

"I had no idea," she began in a tone of eager explanation. "But, then, I have been traveling abroad a good deal with my parents since I saw you last. We only returned from Switzerland a couple of days ago."

The fact accounted for her apparent indifference, and his expression softened, but he stared moodily before him to avoid her eyes, and the handsome turnout in which she was seated with her liveried chauffeur somehow forced on him a sense of social disparity. When she spoke again her voice had a shy, hesitating ring.

"I need scarcely ask if you are successful?"

He produced a memorandum and read out some details—no trace of pleasure or enthusiasm in his tone, only a cynical sort of triumph in the sense of achievement.

"Tomorrow is my final appearance in New York with Professor Meyerhaus for the present. I am booked subsequently for various musical receptions; also the principal concert agents have made me very flattering offers."

"Shall I congratulate you?" she asked slowly.

"If you had congratulated me that night at the Conservatoire," he broke out resentfully, "and given me the opportunity to thank you"—

"You could not expect me to wait, to face every one after my failure. Besides"—she turned away her eyes to hide a sudden confusion—"you—you had already thanked me."

"It was not only to thank you—He was confused now, struggling with an increasing desire to make his hopeless avowal.

"I owe my subsequent success to you," he continued pedantically.
"No, indeed!" she broke in eagerly. "But—I am glad—more than I can say—that you have realized your ambition."

"I suppose I have."

His tone gave the lie to the acknowledgment.

He had fallen so pitifully short of realization. Could she but know! Despair overwhelmed the remnant of his pride and self control. He raised his eyes, aflame with his secret.

"I am still striving," he said haltingly, "for the unattainable."
She darted a questioning glance. The grim white face strained toward her through the dusk, and conviction flashed swift upon her.

She bent impulsively, with a radiant, triumphant smile. Her voice swayed with a little tremor of delight.

"I think I understand. But you are mistaken. For all you know the unattainable may be within reach."

HE GREETED THE CZAR.

Experience of Nicholas II. With a Parisian Street Arab.

On one of his visits to Paris Nicholas II. was left alone for a moment in his carriage. The czar was delighted at the feeling of freedom and ease. Looking out of the window with all the zest of a schoolboy playing truant, he saw before him one of these picturesque street arabs who seem to sprout between the paving stones of Paris.

This particular specimen, seated against the railings, with his nose in the air, was whistling the refrain of the Russian national hymn. Suddenly their eyes met. The street boy sprang to his feet. He had never seen the emperor, but he had seen his photograph, and the likeness was striking.

"Suppose it is Nicholas?" he said to himself, greatly puzzled.

He resolved to make sure without delay. Walking up to within a yard of the carriage and bobbing his head, he shouted in a hoarse voice to the unknown foreigner:

"How's the empress?"

Picture his satisfaction—for, in fact, he thought that it was only a good joke—when the stranger replied, with a smile:

"Thank you, the empress is very well and is delighted with her journey."

The boy lost his tongue. He stared at the speaker in dismay and then, raising his cap, stalked away slowly, very slowly, to mark his dignity.

Nicholas II. afterward often amused himself by scandalizing the formal set around him with the story of this private interview with a true Parisian—McClure's Magazine.

Mrs. Mary (Welch) Mulhall, aged 69 years, 8 months and 7 days, passed quietly away at her home here early last Monday morning. Mrs. Mulhall, although not restricted to her bed, had been an invalid for the past five years, being tenderly cared for by her daughter, Mrs. Fred Knight. She was a woman beloved by all who knew her, for her cheerful smile and kind words won for her many friends. The funeral took place at St. Patrick's Catholic church, Bennington, last Wednesday morning, Rev. Father Coakley officiating, who spoke beautifully of her gentleness, of the lovely life this woman had lived, and of her great devotion for husband, home and children. Six sons walked by her side and gently, tenderly laid her at rest in the family lot in Evergreen cemetery. She leaves an aged husband, who for 53 years was ever ready to share in her joys or in her sorrows; eleven children, sixteen grand children and one great grand child, with two sisters, and a brother, to mourn the loss.
