There Were Seven Men

There were seven men, and one was a fool
 And one was the boss of a country school;
 The third was a man of wonderful brain,
 The fourth was a crook and the fifth insane;
 The sixth was a preacher, the seventh a knave,
 And they all were bound for the self-same grave.

The fool, as time whirled its weary way,
 Became a professor, honored and gray;
 The schoolmaster worked from his low position
 And became a national politician;
 The brainy chap lost his mind; the crook
 Became a priest, with his cowl and book,
 And the crazy man recovered his mind,
 While the knave took to saving his fellow-kind.

And only one stuck to his trade of the seven—
 The preacher kept preaching of hell and heaven.
 There were seven men, there were seven minds,
 There were seven humans of seven kinds;
 And none who had known in their early days
 These men, who traveled their seven ways,
 Would have thought that the crook would be a parson
 Or the knave would take up humanity.

But you never can tell—and the moral is here:
 Don't accept things always as they appear,
 For under the gistle and skin and bone
 Is something that works in a way of its own—
 And you never may know the saint from the knave
 This side of the edge of the common grave.

Carl W. Blaisdell, violinist of the orchestra which is to assist our Choral Society at their concert on April 11, is the son of Henri Blaisdell, well known hereabouts as a choral and orchestral conductor. Mr. Blaisdell speaks in the highest terms of the men he is bringing with him, and has arranged for the cellist, Mr. Green, to play a solo number in the first part of the program.

EASTER SUNDAY

Observed by the Churches of Antrim's Oldest Male Resident Passes Away

The Eastertide was observed at the churches on Sunday last in a most fitting manner, as is their annual custom. At each of the village churches and at the Centre, the pastors preached sermons appropriate to the day, while at the latter a sunrise (six o'clock) prayer meeting was held.

The special exercises at the Methodist church were held in place of the regular session of the Sunday school, the younger portion of the school taking the principle parts in a very pleasing manner, the responsive reading and some of the chorus singing being done by the older ones. This was as much of an observance in honor of David Livingstone as of the resurrection time. The goodly company present seemed to greatly enjoy the hour.

At the Baptist church a similar exercise to the one just described was given, the hour being at seven o'clock in the evening. A goodly number were present to enjoy the occasion. The members of the Sunday school taking part proved a credit to the committee, and showed that much interest was taken in the program in order that it might be nicely given.

A special song service, interspersed with and accompanied by the violin and piano, was given at the Presbyterian church at seven o'clock in the evening, to an audience of nearly three hundred. The pastor read from St. Luke's gospel the story of the resurrection and offered prayer. With quartet, duet and solo selections, the hour was well filled and all were given most appropriate selections in a truly artistic manner. Those participating were Rev. F. A. Arbuckle, F. J. Boyd, E. G. Dearborn, C. W. Prentiss; Mrs. Arbuckle, violin; Miss Mae Harris and Miss Irene Grant, accompanist.

There is much talk about the slump in value of Boston & Maine stock; by some it is claimed that the continued unfavorable talk regarding the road and its management is the direct cause of it. It is surely too bad for holders of this stock to see their investments depreciate in value (from whatever cause), and if we held any B. & M. stock for ourselves or in trust, we should feel equally as sore in the matter if not more so. However, the fact remains that this stock is down; and considering that values of stocks are fixed, governed and controlled largely from a place known as Wall Street (our information is not gained by experience) will some one kindly volunteer the information who it is that is crowding down this stock just at this time in an effort apparently to have it appear to an unsuspecting public different from what it really is? The people from Missouri "who want to know" are constantly increasing in numbers year by year.

SOME LEGISLATIVE DOINGS

The Law Makers Settled Right Down United States Senator Ceased

The legislature resumed the even tenor of its way after the excitement of electing a United States Senator had subsided. A Democrat was elected as expected, and after the smoke of battle had cleared away there were seen evidences of that which to many are quite displeasing, judging from newspaper utterances. However, a man of unusual intelligence in the prime of life has been selected and his friends feel sure he'll make good.

One of the things which created some stir was the message received from Governor Felker, recommending some economical measures, a few of which received favor while others were thought to be at the expense of efficiency.

One other stir was made in the matter of the

J. DOW CLEMENT

Observed by the Churches of Antrim's Oldest Male Resident Passes Away

On Thursday last, at his pleasant home, "The Maples," J. Dow Clement, the oldest male resident of the town, well and favorably known throughout this section of the state, passed on from this life to the great beyond, at the advanced age of almost 85 years.

Mr. Clement was the son of the late Jonathan and Lucretia (Merrill) Clement and was born in the adjoining town of Deering. He was married June 11, 1853, to Vienna P. Dickey of that town, who died about one year ago. In 1870 the family came to Antrim, where they have since made their home. Deceased was a veteran of the Civil war and had many thrilling experiences during the service, at one time being captured and held prisoner of war for a long time. He was a man of genial disposition, with many friends.

The survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Charlotte M. Harvey, of this town, who has tenderly cared for her aged father, and Mrs. Mary A. Atwood of Hillsboro; and three sons, Frank O. Clement of Manchester, John D. and William D. Clement of Waltham, Mass.

IN MEMORIAM

J. Dow Clement passed suddenly away. Although in failing health for some time, still the summons was not expected so soon. His daughter Mary had driven over from Hillsboro to spend the day, little thinking that it would be her father's last. He would have been 85 years of age within the week. The last half of his life or more than 40 years had been passed at "The Maples." Early in life he left his home in Deering and became engaged as a railroad employee, which he continued until the beginning of the Civil war. Entering the service of the government as an engineer, he continued till its close. In the performance of his duty, he was made a captive and spent many months in a rebel prison.

He was happily married when young, and lived with his partner (who passed away a few months ago) nearly 60 years. Nine children blessed their union, of whom five remain and were present at the funeral which was on Sunday and largely attended. He saw his children and his children's children gather around him. He had his failings, known to all who knew him best, but no one is perfect and he will not have lived in vain if we avoid that wherein he was weak, remembering only the good that he accomplished by his works and example.

Both he and his wife were tenderly cared for in their declining years by their daughter, Charlotte. The other children, by their frequent visits from their distant homes made life cheerful to them. The funeral was attended by Rev. Mr. Wallace of Hillsboro who spoke comforting words to the bereaved ones. Francis Grimes, undertaker, and burial was at Deering.

Fast Day this year will occur on Thursday, the 24th day of April, and Governor Felker has issued his proclamation accordingly. It is hoped by that time the travelling will be somewhat settled and the walks into the country more enjoyable.

investigation of bribery charges, but to date not much of importance has been brought to light.

Bills of almost every kind have been introduced, many of which made no progress, some moved up a peg, and the more deserving ones received the proper attention; a number of bills have passed to become law and the solons are working hard on the others, getting them where they will be acceptable or otherwise.

Spring is fast approaching and the legislators seem anxious to close up their labors as soon as possible, so are showing some evidence of a desire to work: some have guessed Fast Day will see the legislature prorogued, but others think the first week in May will see the date.

Local Matters

Easter at the Baptist

Easter Sunday was observed at the Baptist church by special services both morning and evening. At the morning service the pastor, Rev. Wm. J. B. Cannell, preached an Easter sermon and there were musical selections as follows: Anthem, "Awake! Glad Soul," by the choir; solo, "Eastertide," by Susie Whitney, with violin obligato by R. G. Winslow; male quartet, "Gethsemane", Messrs Robinson, Dresser, Winslow, and Thompson, with soprano obligato by Mrs. Fred Thompson; carol, "Easter Sunlight," by the choir.

The Sunday school gave a concert in the evening which was well attended. The exercises combined with the thought of Easter, reminiscences of David Livingstone, whose centennial is being observed this month. An offering was made for missions amounting to $98.26.

The decorations, potted plants and cut flowers, were very effective.

Sale of Seats

HOBO'S CLOSE SHAVE

TRAMP ACKNOWLEDGES OWING LIFE TO SLIGHT MISHAP.

Had His Hat Not Blown Off at Just That Moment He Would Have Gone to Death With His Fellow Wanderer.

"I have had some very narrow escapes in my life," said the reformed hobo, "but none of them can hold a candle to one that happened down in Texas.

"It was the endup of a very strenuous week which began with a fire in a lodging house in San Antonio, where I had to get out with less than half of my then very scanty wardrobe. I had to get out of a window on the fourth floor at that, and the fire ladder was a trifle short. I had to hang by my hands from the window sill, and as I dropped a fireman caught me between the ladder and the building and then half carried me down to safety.

"Two days later I was one of the last they dug out from under the trucks and debris of a baggage car and with no bones broken and few bruises worth mentioning. The next day I got arrested for walking across a railroad bridge, but they let me go when I explained I wasn't trying to avoid paying toll on the highway bridge, but had to take the railroad bridge because I was broke.

"After being released I started out on foot until I came to a water tank. There I was hailed by another hobo, who happened to be a big black fellow, bigger I imagine than Jack Johnson. He said he was waiting for the 10 p. m. express, was going to ride the blind baggage and wanted me to go with him for company. It was full 60 miles before the next stop, he said, and I would be a fool to walk.

"It had cleared up a little from a very heavy rain, but there were still some very black clouds on the horizon and it looked like another storm to come later. I consented to wait for the express, and shortly before it arrived at the tank the wind began to blow terribly. The express arrived, and the black fellow made it all right, but my hat blew off in my rush to make the blind baggage and it was a case of losing the hat or the train and I chose the latter.

"The storm that broke loose a few minutes later was the worst I ever saw, and it lasted for half an hour. The water tank was no protection, so I got soaked through, and after the storm was over I started to walk the tracks. I was wet and cold and had to do it to keep from becoming completely numb. The moon came up a little later in a clear sky.

"After I had walked about five miles in the moonlight my feet slipped over something that gave me the heebie-jeebies. It was the negro's body. He had unaccountably been unable to walk as far as I had been blown off the train in the heat of that terrible storm. If my hat had not blown off as it did, I might have joined the negro on the ground, but I certainly would have been blown to Kingdom Come, too."

A WARNING TO MANY

Some Interesting Facts Regarding Health Statistics

Few people realize to what extent their health depends upon the condition of the kidneys. The physician in nearly all cases of serious illness, makes a chemical analysis of the patient's urine. He knows that unless the kidneys are doing their work properly, the other organs cannot be brought back to health and strength.

When the kidneys are neglected or abused in any way, serious results are sure to follow. According to health statistics, Bright's disease which is really an advanced form of kidney trouble, caused nearly ten thousand deaths in 1910, in the state of New York alone. Therefore, it behooves us to pay more attention to the health of these most important organs.

An ideal herbal compound that has had remarkable success as kidney remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy. The mild and healing influence of this preparation is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of cures.

If you feel that your kidneys require attention, and wish a sample bottle, write to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper and they will gladly forward it to you absolutely free, by mail.

Swamp Root is sold by every druggist in bottles of two sizes—50c and $1.00.

The Wooing of Minnelaou!

AN ANTRIM LEGEND

BY C. N. GIBNEY

Foreword—Like many another legend this has its origin in fancy, bolstered by facts to give it the semblance of truth. It is hoped however it will please some and that slight wanderings from absolute veracity will in view of this apology be either overlooked or pardoned as necessary.

When Peterwaugh stepped from his canoe and drew it up on the shore of Gregg Lake one could see young strength and litheness in every move, but when a few moments later he came forth from his wigwam you could scarcely have suppressed a sigh of admiration for that perfect specimen of manhood approaching the water. There he stood in the last reflected rays of a gorgeous sunset—representative of a pure-blooded race. His long black hair, of a finer texture than is usually found among the American Indians, hung with a tendency to curl over his shoulders. He was a little above the average height and all over his well-proportioned body muscles seemed to play hide-and-seek as they smoothly slipped past each other as he walked. Once he stooped to pick up a flat stone; there was a quick movement, arm and shoulder showed rigid lines of strength while the whole body became tense; then he hurled the stone far out over the lake and fell into a position of easy rest as with thoughtful eyes he watched its descent into the water.

He crossed the shallow sand-bar and stood fifty feet from shore on a great rock known from its shape as "the Hog's Back". With arms folded he faced the darkening west in silent thought. Sometimes a smile crept over his features indicative of a pleasing theme as the subject of his staid meditation.

Peterwaugh was in love. He had only just realized how intense was the feeling, and he believed that the dark-eyed Minnelaou returned his affection. It was the uncertainty of this belief and the recent return of an old suitor that troubled him as he stood quietly on the "Hog's Back" and reviewed the events of the day.

That morning he had started to go hunting. Eager to bring home many partridges he had paddled far up Great Brook before drawing his canoe to land at his sister's lodge. It was Pollywaugh who had told him of his rival's return and chided him for faint-heartedness; but Peterwaugh had replied with a quick laugh as he strode off into the wood.

As he walked he had thought again of his sister's words and laughed aloud. "What! he faint-hearted. He, Peterwaugh, who could outdo all his fellows at feats of strength and skill; who had saved his fur money and owned the best tract of land and the finest lodge on the lake; who had the swiftest canoe and the best rifle in the country; was he afraid to ask any maiden to be his wife?" Again he laughed, dismissing the subject from such disquieting consideration.

Yet after being in the hills all day he had returned with a single brace of birds. When he returned he had shot at mark, but his sure rifle seemed to have lost its wonted skill. At noon he had stood on the top of Tuttle Mt. Below him lay the green valley of wooded hills like a drop of dew on a mountain leaf. Lake Nubora shimmered toward the left, stretching its length in a narrow gleam of sun-gleaming brightness.

Today was a most peculiar day. The sun shone warmly and brightly but down as in the day before, to admit no more time had it been the reason for Peterwaugh's return. Tuttle's Summit until the day before had been a great rock told him that it was well past mid-afternoon.

When he had noticed this he had risen, quickly made his way down the mountain to his canoe and with powerful strokes brought it to the beach in front of his home. Now he was again wasting time while standing quietly on the "Hog's Back."

Again Nature warned him of the passing time. Shaking his long hair he raised his arms above his head, stood perfectly poised for a moment and then dove into the still water. Only an ever-widening ripple told of the plunge, for it was more than a hundred feet away that the swimmer finally came to the surface and waded up to the shore. He shook himself like a dog and ran up and down the beach till dry. Then he entered the lodge to eat supper.

It was evening when Peterwaugh, again seated in his canoe, was paddling slowly toward the southern end of the lake. The new moon had risen in full splendor and cast a strong yellow light over all the landscape; Goodhue Hill was directly ahead; Tuttle Mt. at the north showed a sky-line of scraggy fir-trees; Bald Mt. rose dark and angular but no signal fires flashed warnings from its treeless summit. Indeed the soft moonshine would have almost contradicted the fact that watchers had ever been stationed on that peaceful hilltop.

The beauties of that night could never be described. It is enough to say that as the day was perfect so was the night and with an added witchery of stillness which daytime never carries.

Under the spell of nature and emotion, as the moon coming from behind a cloud relooded the earth with light, his staid training again gave way and with a laugh Peterwaugh sang in a low chant.

"O Moon!
Up on high in the sky,
Fair art thou;
And yet is she as fair as thee:
My Minnelaou.

"O Star!
Resting there in the air,
Bright art thou;
But brighter art than any star
Is Minnelaou.

"O Breeze!
Whispering sigh floating by,
Sweet art thou;
But sweeter she than thou can be:
Is Minnelaou.

"O Gods!
Of Rocks and Hills and Trees and Hills,
Grant me my prayer, my love so fair,
My Minnelaou."

The song ended, once more all was quiet save the swish of water as it rippled away from the sides of the now swiftly moving canoe. He rounded White Birch Point and coming from behind Patten Hill the lover saw the glowing embers of old Rurora's campfire. It was still some way off but he was certain that the daughter was sitting there, listening to her father's tales of times before the white man had invaded those New Hampshire hills.

Now the paddle moved more slowly and the canoe seemed to barely crawl, but when Peterwaugh could at last see the maiden in the firelight, strength and vigor returned to his arms. With a shudder the light craft leaped forward; swiftly tho' silently it sped over the water till almost without a sound it came to a stop under some bushes which overhang the water a few yards from the fire. Old Rurora lifted his head for a moment and then resumed his story, but Minnelaou rose and came toward the shore. The hidden lover watched her as a lover must; his heart beat wildly as again he broke into a chanting song.

"Fairest maiden drawing nearer,
Listen to my song of love,
Minnelaou thou art dearer
Than the stars and moon above.

"Sweeter is thy voice than breezes
Blowing from the pine tree woods,
Brighter than thy eyes than dewdrops
Sparkling in their flow'ry buds.

"Come still nearer to the lakeside,
Let me whisper soft and low;
Sweetheart, will you be my dear
buddy?

"Home, then, to the north we'll go,
The maiden turned and without a word entered her father's lodge. Peterwaugh sat under the alders, hoping, hardly daring to think at all, Rurora still smoked his pipe and thought of the good old days.

But they had not long to wait. Soon she came with a small bundle holding all the precious belongings left her by her mother, together with the slight wardrobe that she owned. She walked slowly to her father and on her knees before him received the old man's silent blessing. She came quickly to the shore where Peterwaugh kissed her tenderly as she stepped into the canoe. Then he dipped the paddle deep and steered his flying craft thru the moonglade toward the north.

About Advertising

It costs money to advertise in a paper of circulation and influence in the community. Every business man who seeks to enlarge his trade, recognizes the fact that advertising is a legitimate expense. It is not the cheapest advertising that pays the best. Sometimes it is the highest priced newspaper that brings the largest net profit to the advertiser.

Prominence

I have a cousin twice removed who lacks a jaunty air; He lives at Turnipopolis and is a leader there; Here in the city he would stand back in some safe retreat And look with bulging eyes and be afraid to cross the street; He moves with very little grace, his clothes are cheaply made, But he has money in a bank and all his debts are paid.

He lives at Turnipopolis, where daily, wet or dry, The people of the town turn out to watch the train go by; And there at times when flags are raised and thrilling songs are sung, 'Tis he that makes the speeches to the old and to the young; He is the leading citizen, he strokes the children's curls And proudly claims a leader's right to kiss the pretty girls.

I sometimes wonder if it pays to toil and med and fret, Where virtue is so very cheap and life is cheaper yet; Where thousands come and thousands go, unnoticed and unknown, Where, lacking room a man may still be friendless and alone— I sometimes wonder if it pays to merely live for this, When each might be a leader in some Turnipopolis.

"I will not wed for wealth, she said, "True love must come to me!" So she didn't wait when she met her fate, Though penniless was he.

"I will not wed for wealth," she said— "Alas! A spade's a spade!" Now she has learned that the wealth she spurned Throws love far in the shade!

His Reasoning.
"I believe I'll open a dramatic school," said the seedy-looking man. "Why? You never have been on the stage, have you?" asked the preacher. "No."

"Then how do you expect to be able to teach people to act?" "It's simple enough. You're teaching people how to be angels, aren't you? Have ever been in heaven?"

Wholly Superfluous.
Electrical Supply Agent—You ought to have a burglar alarm system in your house, so that you would be instantly awakened if any intruder were to step inside one of the doors or windows. Mr. Younglove—My dear sir, we don't need anything of the sort. We are weaning our baby.

No Deception There.
"How many clubs does your husband belong to, Mrs. Pennington?" "None." "Dear me! What excuse does he have to offer for being out at night?" "He doesn't need an excuse. He works on a morning newspaper."

Impertinence.
"It seems to me that the ten-cent cigars we used to get were a great deal better than the ones we get now." "Has somebody been giving you one?"

Solemn Truth.
Women will lie as long as children under twelve may go for half-price.

A lasting memorial to the late Dow Clement is the stone bridge, near the Tuttle farm and in sight of his old home, which he built. A remarkable coincident of his death is the fact that it was exactly 85 years ago on Sunday and nearly the same hour, when his body was carried to the Deering cemetery, that he was brought from Deering over the same road a tiny babe on horse back to the Perkins place, his mother having died.

Items of Interest Culled From Here and There

FOR THE BUSY READER

Leaves Money for Y. M. C. A.—New Councillor District Lines, Students Will Not Get Increase in Wages.

He Needed the Money. West Concord.—During the absence of the family Thursday evening the residence of Alfred Larson was entered and $14.50 taken. No evidence as to how the break was effected could be found, but suspicion fell upon a young man named Henry Simpson, 16 years of age, who lived near by, and while the officers were looking for him he took a train for Gardner, Mass. When he stepped off the train there he stepped into the hands of an officer and was brought back Friday afternoon. He confessed to taking the money, and said he left a note which was found. The note read: "I need the money. Off to Boston." He was held for trial after a hearing in the juvenile court Saturday morning.

Spine was crushed, but May Recover. Concord.—George N. Stanley of this city, a flagman on a freight running between this city and Boston, fell from the top of a caboose at Mystic Thursday afternoon and crushed his spine. His lower limbs were entirely paralyzed. The locomotive was detached and with the caboose was rushed back to Boston where the injured man was taken to the Massachusetts General hospital and an operation performed. As similar operations have been successful there it is hoped that he may recover from the injury.

Just Missed the Train. Intervale.—A huge boulder accompanied by a mass of earth and rock crashed down upon the track of the Maine Central not far from the Wilby house Friday evening. The Portland train had passed but a few minutes previously, excepting what might otherwise have been a serious disaster. The track was completely blocked and a working train was soon up from Portland to clear it.

STUDENTS GET NO WAGE INCREASE.

Haver students employed as waiters at the Commons, the dining hall which is run by Haver, with college, recently petitioned for an increase of wages from 20 to 25 cents per hour. The matter has been considered by Controller Fairfield, who has charge of the hall, who informs the students that it is now run at a financial loss and that no increase can be allowed them.

COUNCILLOR DISTRICT LINES

Re-Arrangement of State Task of G. H. Duncan. Concord.—The amendment to the constitution which was adopted last November requiring that population instead of wealth shall be the basis of the councillor districts of the state will make a rearrangement of lines necessary. This is the task which George H. Duncan of Jeffrey now has before him, and in order to facilitate the work he passed a map of the state upon a board and with a saw cut each town's parcel. He is now trying to arrange these parcels in five groups so that the towns shall be contiguous, and the population equal and is finding it some puzzle.

Has a New President. Manchester.—The annual meeting of the New Hampshire Luncheon Association was held at Manchester on Thursday of last week, at which time Warren Tripp, for many years its president, declined a reelection. Mr. Tripp was so seriously ill for many weeks last winter at a hotel in Canada that his recovery was despaired of, and his health will not allow him to longer assume the duties of the office. The officers elected were as follows: Irving H. Chase of Portsmouth, president; John H. Walker of Newmarket, vice president; L. Ashton Thorpe of Manchester, secretary and treasurer.

No One to Claim the Body. Manchester.—A woman named Mary Mack was found dead in her room in Manchester one day last week and the body was taken to a local undertaking establishment. Efforts were at once made to find some friend or relative who would come forward to claim the body and her personal effects, but at last accounts had been unsuccessful.

Gives $5,000 for Free Bed. Claremont.—The General Hospital here has just received from Mrs. Laura L. Ainsworth of Williamstown, Vt., a gift of $5,000 to perpetuate a free bed to be known as the Capt. J. E. Ainsworth free bed. Capt. Ainsworth was a native of Claremont where he was born in 1830, and died at Williamstown in August, 1909.

IN AID OF Y. M. C. A.

SUCCESSFUL CAMPAIGN CLOSES IN BERLIN. W. W. Brown Leaves $40,000 for New Building. Berlin.—A most brilliant and successful campaign in aid of the Y. M. C. A. was closed in Berlin last week. W. W. Brown, late president of the Berlin Mills company, in his will left a bequest of $40,000 as a nucleus for a building for the Y. M. C. A. in this city. Later six acres of land were acquired giving ample room for a quarter mile cinder track, baseball grounds, tennis court and other features. Last week it was decided to raise $75,000 in six days, and two committees were appointed one of fifty members and the other of 100. After four and a half days of effort it was found that $85,000 had been subscribed, $10,000 more than the proposed amount, and soliciting was discontinued. It is a record seldom equaled, and a magnificent testimonial to the push and energy of the people of the paper city.

UNPLEASANT HAPPENINGS.

Thieves ransacked the apartments in Manchester of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Martin and secured about $300 in cash. Bernard Murphy, who escaped from the Stafford county house of correction last fall, was recaptured in Dover recently. Herman Wenzel of Manchester was nabbed in the back as the result of a quarrel and Aristidis Theodore is under arrest. Sadie Grauer, 16 years old, of Manchester, was severely scalded by tipping over a kettle of boiling water upon herself. The soap and postoffice at Riverdale were visited by thieves one night last week, but the amount of booty secured was not large. The Pease company of Milford has entered suit against the Boston & Maine railroad, charging that it has paid freight rates since 1904 in excess of legal limit. The Manchester police ambulance called on March 16 to the suburbs to carry a man to the hospital, was stalled in the mud and the sufferer had to be borne a third of a mile or a stretcher. The gates of the Northern New England Coal company in West Manchester was visited by burglars a few nights ago, but the entire reward of the crime amounted to only about $18 in value. Mrs. Albert E. Chase, a Dover octogenarian, was found dead in her room and a coroner's jury led to an investigation. Dr. Medical Referee H. L. May decided that death was due to natural causes. Arthur Smith of South Freeport, and dead near by. Had his throat cut, was murdered by the fact that all the evidence pointed to light by the authorities before the court. The Fort Constitution soldiers who took a horse and wagon in Portsmouth without being charged by the owner in an automobile and the car. It was a case of mistaken identity, and the man who accompanied him.

Argue for a Deeper Channel.

Boston. Arguments in favor of a deeper ship channel in Boston harbor were heard by a board of United States army engineers for rivers and harbors here last week. An appropriation by Congress for deepening Broad Sound channel from President Roads to the sea is held up by the refusal of the army engineers to order a survey of the proposed improvement, pending an expression of opinion from local interests. Thousands of Women

Have Been Restored to Health By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

There is no doubt about this fact. Why during the last 30 years we have published in the newspapers of this country volumes of letters from women who have been relieved of all their suffering by the timely aid of this grand old medicine. Letters like the following, true, genuine and honest expressions of gratitude coming from grateful hearts. Surely you can believe these women.

Mrs. L. S. BRENNER, Hudson, Mich., says:— "Sometime ago I was taken with a terrible pain in my right side, such sharp pains just like a knife sticking me. I tried hot applications but that did no good. I went to our family doctor (we were living in Fayette, Ohio, at that time) and he said it was organic inflammation. I doctored with him a while but kept getting worse. The pain was so terrible I could hardly stand on my feet. I would have that sharp pain in my right side, and a dull heavy pain the whole length of my limb. I realized that something had to be done quickly, so I looked up all of your advertisements I could find, and saw several that described my case. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me from the first dose, and when I had taken two bottles my trouble was gone. Your medicine has done so much for me that I am willing you should publish this letter for the sake of other suffering women."—Mrs. L. S. BRENNER, Hudson, Michigan.

Mrs. L. E. BOWERS, Girard, Pa., says:— "I take pleasure in informing you of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I had a sick spell last February, and for some months after that I was not regular and had many bad feelings. I was tired all the time, had dull headaches, not much appetite, and also what the doctor called organic inflammation. Your Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me and I feel that too much cannot be said in its praise as I am now able to do my own work. You are perfectly welcome to use my testimonial for the benefit of others."—Mrs. L. E. BOWERS, R.F.D. No. 1, Girard, Pa.

Mrs. ELIZABETH GENTILCORE, Buffalo, N.Y., says:— "I feel that I must write to you about your wonderful remedies. About ten years ago I was troubled with female weakness and was all run down. I was tired all the time and could hardly walk without feeling dizzy. I heard about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, took it, and also used the Sanative Wash. I got stronger, and have not had those dizzy spells since. I feel that I owe my health to you, and hope your remedies will help others as they have me. I tried most everything I heard of, and yours are the best medicines for women's ailments."—Mrs. ELIZABETH GENTILCORE, 26 Glor Street, Buffalo, New York.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health. Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
