CELEBRATES 125th ANNIVERSARY

Presbyterian Church Holds Commemorative Services This Week

The one hundred twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of Presbyterian church is being observed this week, and a fine program has been prepared for each meeting. The anniversary sermon was delivered by Rev. Mr. Arbuckle, Sunday morning. He based his address on Jer. 6:16. "Thus saith the Lord, stand ye in the ways, and see, ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls." He very ably reviewed the history of the church during the past century and a quarter, presenting many interesting facts and figures. Rev. William Wood, of

BOARD OF TRADE CONCERT

For Benefit of Town Fair to be Held Friday, August 22nd

Last year we raised a good sum of money from the proceeds of the concert. By doing so we were able to meet the expense of the town fair, which every one declared a big success. This year we must raise a sum of money necessary to meet expenses, which we hope to be able to do by the proceeds of this year's concert.

Tickets on sale Aug. 5, at Lane & Weeks' store, [Continued on page three]

Monday evening the auditorium of the church was filled when the new pipe organ was dedicated. The presentation of the organ to the Trustees was made by the organ committee. In behalf of the Session, Senior Elder E. C. Paige presented a resolution commending Pastor Arbuckle on his labors in securing the organ, and Rev. Arbuckle presented a set thanking Andrew Carnegie for his contribution, which were adopted by a rising vote.

Last night, Tuesday, a stereopticon lecture by Rev. Mr. Arbuckle, from the subject: "In Old Japan," was the feature. The slides were made by an Antrim boy, Julian Mortimer Cochrane, who has traveled the world over taking photographs.

A public reception and banquet is the attraction for Wednesday, Kirk D. Pierce, of Hillsboro, and Hon. John M. Whiton, of Plainfield, N. J., grandson of the late Rev. John M. Whiton, who preached here for 44 years, are expected to speak at the exercises.

Presbyterian Church

Thursday afternoon and evening "An outing and old time sing" will be held on Meeting House Hill at Antrim Centre, where the society was organized 125 years ago. Ralph G. Winslow will have charge of the concert Friday evening.

The Presbyterian society is the oldest in town. At the annual town meeting March 11, 1788, a committee was appointed to attend the next meeting of the Presbytery and ask for the establishment of a church in Antrim. The Presbytery granted the request and August 2 of that year, 125 years ago, the first Presbyterian church was organized, Rev. Walter Fullerton from the neighboring town of Peterboro, was chosen as the first pastor and installed Sept. 3, 1800. The next regular pastor was Rev. John M. Whiton, who carried on church work here for 44 years, establishing a record for length of service. The Presbyterian church was so thoroughly a town church at that time its affairs were decided by public vote in legal town meetings. Following Dr. Whiton's resignation in May, 1852, Rev. John H. Bates preached for 13 years. He was succeeded by Rev. Warren R. Cochrane, D. D., in 1865, whose pastorate of 40 years is well remembered by many yet living. Rev. Duncan Salmond preached for a short time. The present pastorate commenced Aug. 1, 1912, Rev. F. Albert Arbuckle coming to this charge from Houlton, Me. The modern church edifice in which worship is now held was dedicated July, 1894. The total additions to membership since organizing is 1255, present membership 200.

The Officers of the church are: Rev. Arbuckle, pastor; Enoch C. Paige, George P. Little, Squires Forsaith, Frank J. Wilson, Ira P. Hutchinson, and William C. Hills, elders; John B. Jameson, George P. Little, and Anson Swett, trustees; Charles F. Downes is treasurer of the church and Frank J. Wilson treasurer of benevolence; Archie M. Swett, Sunday

ANTRIM ADDS ANOTHER

Defeat to List -- Henniker is Also Beaten

Saturday was an important day in the Coontocook Valley League. Antrim played at North Weare, and was narrowly defeated by a score of 9 to 7; the game was easily Antrim's until the comedy of errors was enacted and the victory was made a defeat. Henniker played at Hillsboro, and was trimmed 3 to 1, in a good contest. Hillsboro and Antrim are now in a tie for second place.

Whitney made four hits in four times at bat, two two baggers and two singles; Hanson made two hits, Crampton, Jim and Lynch one each. Deacon got four base on balls, and made two runs.

This shows the player in the act of making the play which has lost the last two games, "miffing" the ball

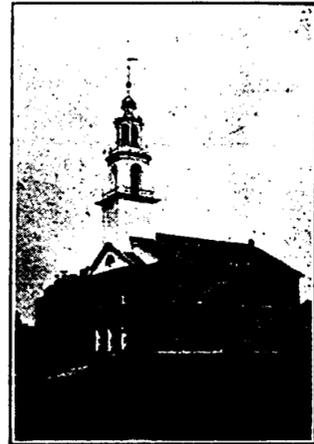

Whitney allowed nine hits, and the team made five errors.

The league season is now more than half over. Saturday's game made a total of four consecutive defeats for our team: With such a record it has been said by many that the line up of the team should be changed. The players have been given more than a fair trial in their respective positions and it would seem that those who may not be making good should be replaced by better players, and given a try elsewhere.

The standing of the league teams is as follows:

Team	W	L	PO
Henniker	8	2	.600
ANTRIM	5	5	.500
Hillsboro	5	5	.500
North Weare	2	8	.200

A Town Fair Poem

September one

The day for fun

At the town Fair

For Antrim.

The things to show

Will make a go

Of the town Fair,

For Antrim.

So bring them in

Take hold with vim

For the town Fair

For Antrim.

Two games of ball

And that's not all

At the town Fair,

For Antrim.

Remember date

And don't be late

At the town Fair,

For Antrim.

NEVER LOVED BEFORE

Story of Man's Love and Woman's Constancy—He Soon Forgets—She, Never.

BY PHILIPPA GRAY.

Everybody in the hotel smiled at the little bride. She was so obviously in love with her husband, and he with her. But somehow it seems more interesting when it is the bride who shows the chief devotion. Everybody expects it of him. And women are more adept at hiding their feelings.

So everybody was really sorry for the bride when the bridegroom was called back to the city on a most important business matter which meant the transference of several thousands of dollars. There was no alternative, however, and so she bore up bravely and was quite chatty and communicative with the other guests.

And out of her own heart, overflowing with sympathy, she gave a bounteous store to the lonely girl who knitted on the piazza. She wondered why such a nice girl had never married. One day, in a moment of confidence, the lonely girl told her.

"You see, my dear," she said, "when once you have really been in love you cannot ever love again in the same way. I gave my heart long ago—five years ago, my dear. It was stolen, I should say, because—" She hesitated. "I never learned his name," she whispered.

"You never learned his name?" questioned the little bride.
"I suppose that sounds dreadful," the other admitted. "And yet I had never loved before—I was twenty-three and I had never had a beau. I had never let a man kiss me—until then.

"I was living on Staten island and crossed on the ferry to Manhattan every morning to my place of business. He lived there too. I used to see him on the boat. The look in his eyes used to be a delight to me; he was so youthful in spirit, so happy, so buoyant, so different from that crowd of commonplace city men. I knew he wanted to speak to me. But he was a gentleman and I knew he never would unless we found a mutual friend to introduce us. And I did not want him to; I knew somehow that it would break the spell if he should do so.

"I think we must have known each other in this way for three months, although we never exchanged a word, or bowed. And then—do you remember the ferry running the steamship in the fall of 1908?"

"Yes," said the little bride breathlessly.

"We were almost side by side when the shock came. The ferryboat turned on her side and a dozen of us were flung into the water. I could not swim. I was struggling wildly, battling with death when I felt his arm round me and heard his voice in my ear. 'Keep cool,' he said quietly. 'There is no danger. In a few moments the boat will reach us.'

"When he said that my terror left me. I just lay still and let him support me above the water. I think those were the happiest moments of my life. And when at last we were picked up and put safely aboard and given warm clothes and hot drinks in the saloon cabin, a sudden fear fell on my spirit. I knew that, since he had spoken, I should never see that look in his eyes again.

"Just before we stepped ashore he came up to me. He looked at me inquiringly. He said nothing; there was nothing for either of us to say. He took me in his arms and kissed me.

"Then he spoke. 'I am going west today,' he said. 'Tell me your name. When I come back I shall come to see you. It may be six months or six years. But I shall always claim you. I shall never let you go out of my

"And?" questioned the little bride.
"That is all, my dear."

The lonely girl had arrived the day before the bridegroom was called back to the city. She was a bird of passage; she was due to return on the day that the bridegroom returned. The bridegroom actually arrived at the hotel just as the lonely girl stood in the office, her baggage beside her, waiting for her carriage. The bridegroom walked in and the lonely girl turned and looked him full in the face.

The little bride saw the look on her face, but she was too much absorbed in the bridegroom to think much of the lonely girl. She was engaged just then in putting a muffler about the bridegroom's shoulders, so that he should not catch cold. The lonely girl sat down in a chair and leaned her head back against the wall, her face the color of chalk. The bridegroom had gone out of the office and the little bride hurried to the girl in the chair.

"You feel ill?" she asked. "Can I get you some water? Won't you lie down?"

"No," answered the girl, rising with an effort. "It was the heat, I think."

The little bride had thought that it was very cold. She did not say anything, however, but helped the lonely girl into the carriage and waved her good-by.

The lonely girl, lying back against the cushions, sobbed wildly. Yet, though her grief overwhelmed her, in her heart was a song of gladness because she had not let the little bride know. Thank God that she would go through life ignorant of that!

She had recognized him as soon as he entered the office. He was unchanged; there was the same joyous look in his eyes; the same spirit of youth stirred in his heart. Even in her pain she would not have missed that period of happiness and those years of waiting.

Meanwhile the little bride had sought and found her husband and taken him to the cozy seat on the stoop which everybody had agreed to leave unused for the sake of the little bride.

"Arthur, dearest," said the little bride, "I want to say something—something awful. Do you remember a confession you made to me the day before we were married about—about

It was a fine entertainment and deserving of a much larger audience than was present. Miss Miriam Perkins was accompanist at the piano.

NEVER LOVED BEFORE

"I don't want to remember those past transgressions," growled the bridegroom, kissing the little bride.

"But why did you do it, Arthur?" persisted the little bride.

"Why, I told you, my dear," answered the bridegroom, huffily. "I felt sorry for her and—well, she looked as if she wanted someone to kiss her. That's all. What harm did it do?"

"You hadn't ever seen her before, Arthur?" persisted the little bride.

"Not so far as I am aware, my dear," her husband answered. "Go on; don't spare my feelings."

"You've not seen her again, have you, Arthur?"

The bridegroom took the little bride in his arms.

"My dear," he said, "I never saw her before and I've never seen her since. To my belief, I shouldn't know her from Eve. Why?"

"O, nothing," answered the little bride happily.

NEWS OF THE GRANITE STATE

Items of Interest Culled From Here and There FOR THE BUSY READER

Main Central Complies With Law—Refused $3 for Collision With Auto, Gets Nothing—Firebug Confesses.

Concord.—The public service commission has received a letter from E. D. Waldron, general passenger agent of the Maine Central, stating that the road will comply with the provisions of the law passed at the last session of the legislature, and will issue 500 mile mileage books and keep them on sale at all principal stations. It will be remembered that a short time ago President McDonald of the Maine Central wrote the public service commission that the earnings of the road would not justify the insurance of these books, and it would not do so. The matter was turned over to the attorney general, but before any action has been taken to enforce the act, the road has decided to obey the law. The books will only be good in New Hampshire.

Refused and Got Nothing.

Dover.—Elias Hanna is a Syrian who travels about the country dispensing wares of various kinds while quietly driving along a road Friday afternoon and speculating on the profit of his next sale, a Massachusetts car suddenly collided with his vehicle and one of the wheels was wrecked. The driver of the car stopped and offered Mr. Hanna $3 if he would say nothing about the accident. He considered that the sum would not make his loss good and refused. Instead of increasing the bid the unknown autoist got into his car and drove away. Mr. Hanna took the number, but is wondering if the police to whom he reported the matter will get the man.

The Waiting Game.

Concord.—The governor and council gave a third hearing Friday in this city on the Nutt-Mammoth road controversy in regard to the proposed state highway from Manchester to the Massachusetts line. About 50 persons attended the hearing and there were a large number of speakers who argued for the respective routes.

It was expected that the appointment of a license commission would be announced, but nothing transpired. Senator Joyal of Manchester is now an active candidate for the place and says he is in the race to stay.

Funeral of Warren F. Daniell. Franklin.—The funeral of Warren F. Daniell, one of the best known residents of the state, who died Wednesday, took place Saturday afternoon at the Unitarian church. That edifice was crowded with friends of the ex-Congressman, and a large delegation of Knights Templar from Concord was present and performed the funeral service of the order. Rev. Henry C. McDougall, pastor of the church, was the officiating clergyman and interment was in the family lot in Franklin cemetery. All the stores and places of business were closed during the services.

Confessed to Being a Firebug.

Hudson.—Robert Perham, aged 25, was sent to the State Hospital Saturday for examination as to his sanity. Within the last four years his father, George A. Perham, has lost three houses by fire. Last week his barn was burned and the house partially destroyed. Suspicion pointed to the son, who finally confessed to setting the last fire, but did not own up to setting the three previous ones. After so many fires Mr. Perham was unable to obtain insurance, and the loss has badly crippled him financially.

Had Lived More Than a Century.

Franklin.—John LeClair, the oldest person in this vicinity, died Thursday night at the age of 103. For about thirty years Mr. LeClair carried on a farm in Salisbury, not far from the Daniel Webster birthplace. He was born in Canada, and came to this country when a young man. He worked in Massachusetts for several years before coming to this state. He was twice married, and was the father of nineteen children. Several grandchildren, great grandchildren and great-great grandchildren survive.

July a Record Breaker.

Manchester.—According to records kept in this city at the pumping station and the Amoskeag gate house the month of July was the driest of which there is any record. The rainfall at the pumping station was less than an inch, while at the gate house it was slightly over that amount. The normal rainfall is about 2 1/4 inches for the month.

Lived to Age of 100.

Goffstown.—The body of Mrs. Jas. Rameau of New Boston was brought here for burial Saturday. She lived to be 100 years of age, and had been a resident of New Boston for 40 years. She was born in Canada and is survived by 45 children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

THAT COMPLICATED CRAWFORD NOTCH CASE.

State of New Hampshire is Made Defendant in Suit.

The payment of the governor of $62,000 has resulted in proceedings to recover from the state for money paid Leslie P. Snow of Rochester for land taken in Crawford Notch. Proceedings were instituted by Allen Hollis, Esq., counsel for the Forest Products Company by the filing of an intervening motion in the Superior Court for Carroll county in the appeals of the state from the award of damages to Chas. H. Morey, Abraham H. Stahl and the Barron Hotel company.

This action was taken by counsel when it was learned that the state has made no move to dismiss the appeal following the settlement reached with Snow in behalf of his clients and the payment of $62,000.

The motion sets forth that the Forest Products Company are owners of a large portion of the Four Thousand and Acre Tract, estimated to embrace 1,000 to 2,000 acres, that the company had no notice of the hearing or filing of the award, and they now ask to have their rights ascertained and that a jury may hear the case and return a decision. It appears on the face of it that the state may have an expensive litigation on its hands.

Mt. View House Notes

A progressive whist party under the direction of Miss Katherine Clark, was the attraction at Mt. View House, Saturday evening. Judging by the lively chatter heard between changes, a very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

A very successful barn party was held here Wednesday evening, July 30th. At eight o'clock neighbors and guests of the house assembled on the front veranda, and Mr. and Mrs. Shakum in bridal costume, led the grand march to the barn, which was very attractively decorated with flags, flowers, and Japanese lanterns. After some lively games and dancing, refreshments were served on the lawn. Much credit is due those who helped Mr. and Mrs. Hubley to make this one of the most enjoyable occasions of the season.

It was with much regret that the guests at Mt. View Farm bade good-bye to Wm. Hyde and wife of Malden, Mass., Saturday. Mr. Hyde has been one of the jolliest of the merry party at the house, while Mrs. Hyde has endeared herself to every one by her quiet, motherly ways.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. adv.

Suffered Twenty-One Years-- Finally Found Relief

Having suffered for twenty-one years with a pain in my side, I finally have found relief in Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root. The physicians called it "Mother's Pain" and injections of morphine were my only relief for short periods of time. I became so sick that I had to undergo a surgical operation in New Orleans, which benefited me for 2 years. When the same pain came back one day I was so sick that I gave up hopes of living. A friend advised me to try your Swamp-Root and I at once commenced using it. The first bottle did me so much good that I purchased two more bottles. I am now as well as a new woman. I passed a gravel stone as large as a big red bean and several small ones. I have not had the least feeling of pain since taking your Swamp-Root and I feel it my duty to recommend this great medicine to all suffering humanity. Gratefully yours,
