ROAD BUILDING

A Continuation of What was Said in Our Last Issue

We had somewhat to say in the last issue of the Reporter regarding the matter of permanent or state highway building in the smaller towns, and naturally enough we are now coming down to our own town. It is hoped that none of our road agents will take any offence whatever at what we have to say along this line from time to time, for no particular man will be in our mind, as what is said will be in a general way. Our last week's article brought out remarks of commendation, and whether it had or not, the statements would have been made for the reason that they were needed.

Antrim has had a touch of permanent highway and it was greatly enjoyed and proved well,—the only trouble with it being a sad case of neglect. The way to bring it back is not to again make a dust and mud road of it. The condition of our soil and road bed is such that other and better materials must be used to gain the best results; all this after proper drainage has been arranged for.

The connecting of Bennington and Antrim with permanent road is good and continuing on in our town to the Hillsboro line is a much needed improvement; this will be some length of road, but mark our words it must come, and a little at a time will not be so bad. We are pleased to think a piece of new road is to be built from the Robinson corner towards Clinton; it ought to be—the business and traffic demand it.

And right here let us say, that a good deal better road of some permanency should be built from Clinton corner to Gregg lake. The remarks of our summer guests who are compelled to travel this road are enough to make a conscientious citizen heart-sick. As we have said before: there is not another better source of revenue to our town in taxable property alone than the opening up of property around Gregg lake. The opportunity is great and it is then sure to develop, but good roads are a necessity, and not until there is a disposition on the part of our town to do this thing will there be any very much greater development here. Mr. Thayer with his energy and push has done much and added thousands of dollars to the valuation of the town and indirectly benefited a large number of people. His opportunities would be very much larger with a permanent highway to the lake. This is also true of all other owners of property around this beautiful sheet of water. Mr. Jameson controls much shore property that would be benefited largely by this one great improvement. No one can estimate the value to our town of a few thousands of dollars invested in permanent highway in this section. And what is said of this particular locality might truly be said of other sections. It would be only a few years when taxable property would so largely increase as a result of what we have brought to the attention of our readers that the most optimistic would really open their eyes with wonder. Antrim certainly has opportunities along this line that no other town around here has that we know anything about.

These plain statements of facts are worthy the consideration of all our people, and the columns of the Reporter are open to articles from the pens of any of our people for favorable consideration of this most vital topic; and let us awake to the needs of the hour, show ourselves alive to the situation, and in a comparatively few years Antrim can be put upon the map as one of the most progressive towns anywhere in New England.

The country's corn crop will fall short—only a little matter of 2,851,000,000 bushels—but the government estimate of the total wheat crop of the country at 754,000,000 bushels, or 6,000,000 bushels more than the great record crop of 1901. Will this bring down the price of flour?

Mann Said He Knew What All the Bills Meant

JAMES R. MANN of Illinois, Republican leader in the house, bears the reputation of knowing more than any other man in the house about the legislation before that body. He has also a well established reputation for being ready and able to talk on any subject at any time.

In the midst of one of the long night sessions near the close of the last congress some one proposed that the "private calendar" should be taken up, and that minor bills pending should be passed under suspension of the rules.

"I object!" shouted one member. "No man in the house knows what these different bills are!"

Mr. Mann, who was standing, reached into his desk and pulled out two big bundles. Holding them up, he said:

"Here are all the bills on the private calendar, and all the reports on those bills. I've read them all, and I know what each one means!"

Before the congress ended, Mr. Mann's colleagues in the house presented him with a costly watch, the presentation speech being made by "Uncle Joe" Cannon, and seconded by Speaker Clark.

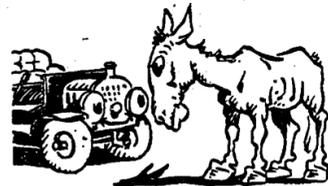

"It gives me great pleasure," said "Uncle Joe," amid the laughter of the house, "to present you with a stop watch."

During one of the lively debates near the end of the session a controversy arose as to who was "entitled to the floor." Speaker Clark tried to straighten it out, and in the midst of the discussion Representative Moore of Pennsylvania interrupted:

"Is not the present parliamentary situation this, that the gentleman from Chicago (Mr. Mann) has been caught asleep at the switch?"

"The chair is not going to rule that the gentleman from Chicago ever got caught asleep at the switch," replied Speaker Clark.

Horseless Age Near, Is the View of Experts

"I EXPECT to live to see the day when the keeping of horses in Washington will be prohibited on sanitary grounds, just as the keeping of pigs has been and the keeping of cows greatly restricted." This is a statement made by C. G. Bell, one of the experts of the department of agriculture. Mr. Bell believes that Washington is a much cleaner city because of the introduction of automobiles, and that the tendencies of the day is to eliminate horses in cities and restrict them to the country.

According to figures published by the department of agriculture, horse breeding is about the worst paying business that any one can go into. Inquiries were sent to 10,000 correspondents and the average for the cost of raising a colt to three years old was taken for the entire country.

Counting the service fee, feed, veterinary bills and breaking, the cost of raising a colt to three years old, even when making allowance for the farm work he does up to that age, is $96.54. The selling price averages $136.17. This is making no allowance for the mares that do not produce foals or for those that die prior to three years old.

Officials of the division of animal husbandry who are co-operating with the army in raising remounts for the cavalry, say that the only hopeful thing shown by these figures is that the government free service and the price of $150 paid by the army for three-year-olds helps out the average somewhat. Mr. Bell in discussing the matter said:

"While I think the government offer for army remounts is as fair as could be made under the circumstances, I certainly should not advise any one to go out and buy a lot of mares for the purpose of raising horses and selling them. There is no question that the automobile is hurting the horse business."

She Thought "Ze House Zey Tek Things So Calm"

J. J. SPEIGHT, clerk to the house committee on judiciary, is not at all the serious young man that any one would take him to be. Not at all. In spite of the fact that Speight sits in that large and impressive committee room, which probably is worth more money than all the halls the continental congresses ever dreamed of, and in spite of the fact that he is steeped in the lore of trust investigations, judicial secrets, possible constitutional amendments, impeachment trials and Alabama politics, Mr. Speight is always ready with a nifty little yarn.

He says that one day the house of representatives was in a terrific uproar. Progressives were hurling solid masses of objections against the reactionaries. Representative Cooper of Wisconsin, who refuses to go into caucus with any one, not excepting himself, was hurling defiance at Cannonism from the rear line of trenches, while ever and anon Representative Mondell would chirp feebly in reply.

The speaker's gavel was tattooing volleys of protest and the intrepid Mann of Illinois was upsetting all hopes by his constant objections. There was a din that gave one a headache. A French woman was in one of the galleries, the guest of some member of the judiciary committee, and Mr. Speight was showing her around, and at the particular moment when the noise was at its height in the house she turned to her guide and said:

"Ah, Meester Speight, you have reason to be proud of ze house! In France zey are so boisterous. Here in ze house zey tek teings so calm."

If women only knew it, sympathy and cushions nearly always make a man uncomfortable.

Actors are not the only public characters who "make up" when they have to face the limelight.

Think what an amusing time some people would have if they could see themselves as others see them.

A man with lots of money to leave and impecunious heirs need never feel that no one cares whether he lives or dies.

Life is like a moving staircase—one must always be going forward. It is a pity. It would be so nice if one could go back sometimes and pick up some of the things one dropped before one realized their value.

DIRECT PRIMARY

Not Favored by Some Politicians, But by the People

Every now and again some newspaper that never did favor the Primary law has much to say regarding the failure of it and its workings, and what a great disappointment it has proven to its friends. They even state that under this law men must now seek office, and that this feature of it is very distasteful to them; also that it takes lots of money, etc. Wouldn't all these reasons make you laugh! We have yet to hear of any from the common people who do not favor the law—they know it is for their interest; and the disappointments are among the few and not the many. How awfully funny that it is distasteful for a politician to hunt for office! Such remarks would almost lead one to believe that under the old law the "office sought the man"—did it? Let those answer who occasionally attended a convention,—and no one else was supposed to know anything about it. As to the cost, it is a safe bet that there are no more dollars spent today in obtaining an election to office than ever, only that it is spent in another way and some one else gets the money; and every year it is made harder and more difficult for an office seeker or "healer" to spend money in politics, except in legitimate ways pure and simple.

The Conference Stage

Many thinking that the tariff act as passed by the Senate last week, is the one to become law, will be interested to read the following from the Boston Globe, thus showing how the "red tape process" has to be worked out:

The passage of the Underwood Tariff act by the Senate by a vote of 44 to 37 brings the bill to the conference stage. The upper branch has made more than 700 changes in the bill as it passed the House. Many of them, however, are unimportant. The vitally important sections of the measure are undisturbed in spirit. If anything, the bill has been made a lower tariff exhibit than when the House approved it.

Now comes the final whipping into shape. Members from each branch will confer, reach an agreement and report recommendations to their respective branches, which in turn presumably will ratify the agreement. A spirit of give and take prevails at such times and the bill as finally agreed upon will be a compromise.

New England manufacturers feel that they have been hard hit by the new act, much harder than those of any other section of the country. If the conferees relent on us a little when they contemplate their task it will immediately improve the industrial outlook of this part of the country and, broadly speaking, of the whole Nation.

It Has "Fetching" Qualities

The Boston Globe of Monday had an editorial under the caption of "The Power of Publicity," and these are some of the statements contained therein:

There is not an enterprising corporation or shrewd business firm that is not now informing the public through the mediums of advertisements what kind of new business each is engaged in and what are the prospects for the future.

The public is intelligent enough to appreciate all publicity based on the truth. The truthful advertiser succeeds all the time, and he is deserving of all the increased patronage he is sure to receive. When there is a lull in business from any cause shrewd men of affairs get busy and advertise.

Why not begin now to talk and plan for a fair here next fall. We are finely located and have a chance for some good races if they are wanted. The Rockingham fair is probably the nearest one to this section now. It is not necessary to have it on a large scale, but a good exhibit of the products of this section.—Hillsboro Messenger.

This strikes us as rather strange that the Messenger editor didn't know we have a Fair, seeing that a large crowd from Hillsboro attended the ANTRIM FAIR; and that the Hillsboro band played here day and evening. We, with about three thousand other people who attended, think the ANTRIM FAIR worth mentioning, to say the least!

"Oh! for one hour of Secretary John Hay!" was the heading to a Boston Herald editorial in one of the recent issues. So say we all of us!

Ithaca Lock Timed at Cornell

CA quick lock and a fast lock are important. Think of the speed of a flying bird—they will not wait for a slow lock or a hang fire to operate. The speed of our lock was scientifically timed at the University of Cornell, and it was found that our hammer fell in 1-625 of a second. It was also found, at the time hammer struck, it was traveling at the rate of 233 inches per second.

The speed increasing speed is sure to increase the life of the trap of kills in the field.

INTERNAL EVIDENCE.

At a certain college it was the custom to have the students write the following pledge at the bottom of their examination papers:

"I hereby certify on my honor that I have neither given nor received aid during this examination."

Soon after handing in his paper a young fellow hurriedly entered the class room and said: "Professor, I forgot to put the pledge on my paper."

"Altogether unnecessary," replied the teacher. "I have just finished looking over your paper and I feel sure you neither gave nor received aid."—Lippincott's.

"Oh, it's good enough perhaps; but the ends of it don't suit me."

"The ends. What's the matter with them?"

"Too near together," said the hungry youth, and the innkeeper took the hint.

"Blimly is about the scariest fellow I ever saw."

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

ORIGIN OF THE SHIP SCREW

Dismantled Bark Was Propelled to Port by Entangled Whale, According to Story.

Johann van den Broeck, who arrived the other day from Java on his way home to Zaandam, Holland, to see his family, said that his grandfather, Cornelius van den Broeck, was the first man to have the idea of screw propellers for steamships instead of side wheels.

"It was in 1838, I have been told," said Mr. van den Broeck at the Waldorf-Astoria, the New York Times says, "that my grandfather commanded a stout old Dutch bark of 900 tons, sailing from Amsterdam to the East Indies. The Groote Marie she was called. In trying to weather the Cape of Good Hope the bark was dismantled, and, like the Flying Dutchman of Vanderdecken, it looked as if the Groote Marie would spend her days to the crack of doom trying to get around to the Indian ocean on her way to Java. One stormy afternoon the bark was suddenly rocked by a crashing blow on her high square wooden stern.

"The captain and his officers, with the crew on deck, rushed and saw that the Groote Marie had been hit by a whale which had stuck fast in the timbers and was slashing the sea with its tail to get free.

"The water began pouring into the after hold and Capt. van den Broeck ordered the after hatch to be taken off to see how much water was coming in. Directly the hatch covers were removed, the enormous head of the whale could be seen in the gloom of the hold, and he started to blow the water out through the open hatch as fast as it poured in, so my grandfather said, and in his struggle to release himself the whale propelled the bark ahead at seven knots an hour into Cape Town harbor."

Mr. van den Broeck added that his grandfather tried to get some of the Dutch merchants in Cape Town to take an interest in patenting a propeller for use on steamers instead of paddle wheels, as the Cunard line then had on the Atlantic, but they shook their heads and said they had little faith in steam and prophesied that canvas would still be the motive power for ships.

When Capt. van den Broeck returned to Amsterdam his brother skippers, who assembled daily in the old cafe in the Prins Hendrik Gracht, laughed at his yarn and said that the captain had taken too much Schiedam one night and dreamed the whale story.

PHILOSOPHY OF THE TATLER

Lots of people act as chief witness at their own prosecution.

When two fascinating people meet they usually hate each other.

Life consists of learning, knowing, teaching, and then forgetting.

SAID IN EARNEST.

Honest poultry dealers make money by fair means and fowl.

When the society ball season ends that of the moth ball begins.

The man who is anxious to buy usually gets the worst of the bargain.

A girl can make a man think she doesn't know anything, erroneously.

But when a man's face is broken it never by any chance breaks into smiles.

After a man has landed a political job he begins to kick because the salary isn't larger.

The young man who professes a willingness to die for a girl before marriage may live to wish that he had.

Your friend will think it is a shame if you make a lot of money b. following the advice he gave you, but which he was afraid to follow himself.

A LITTLE BIT HUMOROUS

Well Drugged.
A doctor was summoned to a police station to examine an unconscious prisoner. The prisoner, very muddy and disheveled, lay on the floor of the cell. The physician bent over and examined him, and then, rising, said, in a loud, stern voice:
"This man's condition is not due to drink. He has been drugged."

A policeman turned pale, and said, in a timid, hesitating voice:
"I'm afraid ye're right, sir. I drugged him, all the way—a matter of a hundred yards or more."

Easily Earned.
"What do you make a week?" asked a magistrate before whom an Italian organ grinder appeared, charging a fellow musician with breaking his instrument.
"Twenty-five dollaire," was the answer.

"What?" exclaimed the magistrate.
"Twenty-five dollars a week for grinding an organ?"
"No, sare; not for grind; for shut up and go away."—Harper's Weekly.

Tough Luck.
Two hard citizens were standing in a secluded spot taking confidentially. One of them suddenly sneaked away while the other stood on guard. Soon the first one was seen to emerge from a window and join his pal.
"Did youse git anything?" whispered the one in waiting.
"Naw, de guy what lives in dere is a lawyer," growled the other.
"Dat's hard luck," said his pal.
"Did youse lose anything?"

NOW THEY DON'T SPEAK.

Miss Caustique—Strange that you don't get married.
Miss Antique—Statistics show that there are not enough men to go around and I'm still very young yet.

Large Order.
He weighs three hundred pounds, Or more, and yet, His little wife, with cooing sounds, Calls him her "Pet."

Disguised.
"Did you dance any at the party, Mamie?"
"No, but I had such a compliment from one of the gentlemen. He told somebody I made such a nice mural decoration."
"And you never knew he was calling you a wallflower?"

Virtue's Reward.
Her Dotting Pa—I thought you'd be more pleased with your commencement gown, when it cost so much money, Marjorie?
Marjorie—Why, papa, I won't get half as much attention as the girl who made her own dress at a cost of $2.50.—Puck.

Shocked.
The Clergyman—I had no idea profanity was so prevalent till I began to drive a car.
His Wife—Do you hear much of it on the road?
The Clergyman—Why, nearly every time I bump into swears frightfully! —Puck.

Respite From Ragtime.
"So the parade was a success?"
"Yes. It was a remarkable performance."

"In what particular?"
"The band played tunes that were appropriate to the occasion."

Queer Terms.
"There is one funny thing about a successful play."
"What is that?"
"When it is a walkover they call it a run."

Pestiferous Creatures.
"I presume you would call sitting on the lawn and picking violets a poetical attitude?"
"Yes, but little red ants are apt to spoil the attitude."

LATE INVENTIONS

A headlight built into the front frame just above the radiator features a new automobile.

Tongs equipped with a spring to insure them holding firmly are a French novelty for handling hot dishes.

A zither which is played by keys instead of the usual pick has been invented by a Massachusetts man.

In addition to the usual springs a new bicycle saddle is supported by two coiled springs within tubes in such a way as to be adjustable.

MUSINGS OF THE CYNIC

Riches have wings, but they won't carry you to heaven.

Some people put everything on their backs to make a front.

The political grafter devotes most of his attention to the plum tree.

It is generally sheer laziness that prompts a man to rest on his laurels.

The people who do exactly as they please are not always the most pleasing.

Some people never borrow trouble so long as they can borrow anything else.

Exclusive Oxford.

The ignorance of the scholar concerning what is going on in the world around him is proverbial. But a story of Thackeray's own telling points to surprising possibilities of the cloistered life at Oxford, at least in the last century.

Thackeray, it seems, was to lecture at Oxford, and, according to custom, had first to get the vice-chancellor's license to do so. This is the conversation that occurred, as the novelist reported it:

Vice-Chancellor—Pray, sir, what can I do for you?

Thackeray—My name is Thackeray. Vice-Chancellor—So I see by this card.

Thackeray—I seek permission to lecture within your precincts.

Vice-Chancellor—Ah! You are a lecturer. What subjects do you undertake, religious or political?

Thackeray—Neither. I am a literary man.

Vice-Chancellor—Have you written anything?

Thackeray—Yes, I am the author of "Vanity Fair."

Vice-Chancellor—I presume a dissembler. Has that anything to do with John Bunyan's book?

Thackeray—Not exactly. I have also written "Pendennis."

Vice-Chancellor—Never heard of these works. But no doubt they are proper books.

Thackeray—I have also contributed to Punch.

Vice-Chancellor—Punch? I have heard of that. Is it not a humorous publication?—London Tit-Bits.

Advocates the Corn Muffin.

A sociologist of practical temper thinks that educational and social reform can be helped greatly by corn muffins. Those who like corn muffins will instantly agree that he is right—whatever form his suggestions may take. It seems that he knows of a school teacher who wrought wonders in the blue grass region of Kentucky by teaching school children how to be clean and their parents how to cook corn muffins. In other words, the inhabitants had to be raised to the corn muffin stage. Will it be so easy to make those who believe themselves above it conform to its Spartan simplicity and unfrenzied palatability? —Springfield Republican.

Allmony is the price imposed by civilization on the errors it encourages.

Comic papers are always knocking the ladies, but it's awful lonesome without them.

A pessimist is a dried codfish who is always trying to give you a pair of frigid feet.

If we could only have burglar alarms when opportunity comes snooping around, wouldn't it be "One pick-ings?"

NOT FUSSY

Frank—She's not a bit fussy.
Harry—No?
Frank—No; she'll even eat corn on the cob when strangers are looking.

POOR BOY

Julia—Jack has a careworn, unhappy look this year that he didn't have last year. He looks as though he had married.
Jane—Yes; I married him.

Results.

"Ruggles," asked his friend Ramage, "didn't you swear off from smoking a few months ago?"

"Yes; on New Year's day."
"Well, do you notice any particular difference?"

"O, yes—I've gained six pounds in weight and lost the friendship of six cigar dealers."

How can the New York Athletic league contend that pie is bad for athletes, when this, the only pie eating nation in the world, has established so many world records?

A dentist in Chicago spins his patients around by whirling device into insensibility. His envious brethren will probably denounce his invention as the work of a crank.

The New York board of aldermen have fixed 20 miles per hour as the speed limit for motor cars in that city. To this we do not see how objection can be made by any reasonable undertaker.

Word from a scientific center says 1913 is going to be a great bug year. Seems bug years always have been with us, notably the many species—potato, water, bed, city gardener, baseball, and others too numerous to mention.

The tragedies of life are numerous, but one of the most poignant is that to be observed in the "girl of thirty-five or thereabouts" sitting in a street car, chewing gum and reading the newspaper filler entitled "Advice to Lovers" or one of Laura Jean's heart throbs.

There is a movement in Buffalo for an ordinance forbidding the beating of rugs or carpets within the city limits. Good idea! There should be an ordinance, also, making it a penal offense for a man who has been eating garlic and drinking alcohol to take a ride in a street car or other public conveyance within a period of 24 hours thereafter.

CAUGHT IN PASSING

BENNINGTON

DEATH OF GEORGE KIMBALL

George Kimball, about 70 years old, died Saturday morning, the cause of death being hardening of the arteries. He had been ailing for quite a while. He leaves a brother, Hon. Fred H. Kimball, one sister, Mrs. Josie Odell, besides other more distant relatives. Funeral was held Tuesday at one o'clock from his late home, Rev. George H. Dunlap officiating.

Mr. Kimball had been a long-time resident of this town, and was one of her most highly respected citizens. For a number of years he was connected with his father in the cutlery business, but for several years past lived a retired life. In manner he was quiet and unassuming, never caring for publicity in any form; a man who was thought much of by all who knew him, and one who was friendly to everybody. Such a man as was Mr. Kimball will be greatly missed in our community, and the memory of his exemplary life will be cherished for a long time to come.

The sympathy of our village is extended to the afflicted family in their bereavement.

Hard to Interest.
"My husband doesn't care for sight seeing."
"Then nothing interested him on your trip?"
"Only the spot where Washington threw a dollar across the Potomac. He spent several hours looking for the dollar, and was quite happy for a while, but even that ended in disappointment at last."

The Messenger Boy.
"Where are you going, senator? You seem busy."
"I am busy. Got to take this package of soil over to the agricultural department to be assayed, then I must send some seeds to one of my constituents, and find some summer boarders for a man who says he voted for me last fall."

Distracting the Mind.
"Why do you suppose it is that a joy ride is considered a sure cure for sorrowful reflections?"
"Chiefly, I imagine, because it is impossible for a person to mope and run an automobile 40 or 50 miles an hour at the same time."

DID YOU EVER?

Esther—Why did you break off your engagement with Fred?
Edna—I began to feel as though I ought to be getting married.

And people when he opened his mouth
Were sorry that he spoke.

Foolish Question.
"Well! Well! Another rich old fellow has fallen in love with a telephone girl's voice."
"Over the wire?"

"Oh, certainly not. It seems that she was making a stump speech at the time and yelling 'Votes for women!'"

Doctors Said he had Dropsy

Some time ago I had an attack of the grippe which finally settled in my kidneys and bladder. I doctored with the doctors and they claimed I had dropsy. I tried other remedies and got no relief from any of them. My condition was such that I was unable to work for about two months and the annoying symptoms caused me a great deal of trouble and pain. I was hardly able to turn over in bed. Seeing one of your Almanacs, I decided to give Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root a trial and after taking several bottles was able to resume my work again. I cannot say too much in praise of your Swamp-Root as the results in my case were truly wonderful.

Yours very truly,
