MEMORIAL DAY As Observed in Antrim, Very Great Success

MEMORIAL DAY was appropriately observed in Antrim by Ephraim Weston Post, G. A. R., assisted by the W. R. C., the George H. Chandler Camp, S. of V., and Molly Aiken Chapter, D. A. R.

In the morning, the veterans were given special exercises at North Branch by the citizens, after which the usual services were held at the cemetery and at Antrim Centre; also on Meeting House hill. In the afternoon, most of the exercises were at Town hall, the oration being delivered by F. W. Gilbert of Somerville, Mass. Following this was a special service over the water on West St. bridge, in honor of the sailor-soldier dead. Then march was made to Maplewood cemetery to decorate the soldiers' graves, returning to the Soldiers' Monument, where exercises by the Woman's Relief Corps closed the day's program.

The speaker of the afternoon gave a very interesting and instructive address and was attentively listened to by an appreciative audience. The vocal music was of a patriotic nature and nicely rendered.

The Boy Scouts acted as escorts to the G. A. R. during the day. Music was furnished by the Antrim band. Dinner was served by the ladies of the W. R. C. in Grand Army hall.

GOLDEN WEDDING

H. E. Messinger and Wife Married 50 Years

Henry E. Messinger and wife on Monday of this week observed their golden wedding at their home in the neighboring town of Stoddard. As they have lived in Stoddard for about 25 years, they are well known in this vicinity.

Mr. Messinger has served his native town of Stoddard as town clerk for five years and selectmen seven years; has been postmaster for ten years. A member of the Masonic fraternity, a veteran of the Civil war and member of the Grand Army.

Mrs. Messinger was born in Stoddard, her maiden name being Savona Stevens. Is a member and active worker for many years in the W. R. C. They have living two daughters and one son, besides grand-children and one great grand-child.

Mr. and Mrs. Messinger held a public reception to their friends at their home Monday afternoon and evening.

All unconsciously one passes in this great metropolis (New York City) into Italy, and a few minutes later is in Germany, two avenues farther east enters Hungary, takes his luncheon in Russia, his dinner in Bulgaria, has his shoes polished in Greece, spends the early hours of evening in Spain, reaches Portugal at ten o'clock, and has his midnight meal in Chinatown. He has inquired the way a hundred times of Irish policemen. Every fourth face he has met bears the marks of the Hebrew race, and the next morning when he goes to his office in an electric car he observes that among the passengers the vast majority are of foreign birth.—The American Amalgam.

The 44th Commencement of N. H. College will take place at Durham, the week beginning June 7th.

Editorial Pen-Points

That was a very sad accident when the "Empress of Ireland" was rammed by a collier in the gulf of St. Lawrence last week Friday, and nearly a thousand passengers of the ill-fated steamer were drowned.

Jacob A. Riis died Tuesday at his summer home in Barre, Mass. This remarkable man, author and social worker, the 18th child of a Latin teacher, was a native of Denmark, but became a wonderfully helpful American citizen.

The Manchester Union gives the names of New Hampshire's ex-Governors, with their terms of service, as follows:

David H. Goodell, who has just observed his 80th birthday, 1889-1891; John B. Smith, 1893-1895; Frank W. Rollins, 1899-1901; Chester B. Jordan, 1901-1903; Nahum J. Bachelder, 1903-1905; Charles M. Floyd, 1907-1909; Henry B. Quinby, 1909-1911; Robert P. Bass, 1911-1913.

New Modern Dancing

The leading Expert and Instructor in New York City writes: "Dear Sir: I have used Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes, for the past ten years. It is a blessing to all who are compelled to be on their feet. I dance eight or ten hours daily, and find that Allen's Foot-Ease keeps my feet cool, takes the friction from the shoe, prevents corns and sore, aching feet. I recommend it to all my pupils."

(Signed) E. Fletcher Hallamore. Sample Free. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y. adv.

An institute for superintendents, principals, and for teachers of all grades who are interested in somewhat advanced study of the problems of New Hampshire schools, will be held at the State Normal School, Plymouth, August 24-29, inclusive.

ANIMAL COURTSHIPS

Wild Beasts Fall in Love, Marry and Are Divorced.

Four Forms of Marriage in a World Where Bachelors and Spinners Are Very Rare Qualities—Some Facts From Scientists.

Surprising though the statement may seem, it is a fact borne out by the careful study of scientists, that practically every form of marriage contract known to men, from free love to the soul mate theory, can be found in the animal world, says London Tit-Bits. Male animals even have their bachelor clubs, and that wonderful naturalist, Ernest Thompson Seton, has related how little societies of animals are established among deer and antelopes. These societies usually consist of three or four young bucks who range and feed together in perfect friendship. They are quite happy, and never quarrel or fight until some lady intrudes. But once a doe joins the herd, goodby to peace. The brothers fight among themselves, while the doe looks on and enjoys the sport, until one of them drives off the other and goes away with her.

There are four distinct forms of marriage among non-gamous animals. The first closely resembles the trial marriage, and is the type represented by the mouse. The male selects a mate, and is faithful to her as long as she pleases him, and when she no longer charms, he promptly divorces her and finds another mate.

The second type of animal marriage is that which lasts during the breeding season only. Some animals seek their mates again next season, but among rats, rabbits and squirrels the separation is permanent, although among foxes, coyotes and smaller animals, the father, who presumably hates the worries of domestic life, usually stays away until the children have been reared, and then returns.

The third type of animal marriage is that common among wild geese, pigeons and possibly owls. The union lasts through life, and if one of the pair dies the other never seeks a second mate, but mourns disconsolately until death.

The fourth type of marriage is the nearest approach to the ideal married life, and, curiously enough, is found most commonly among wolves. Wolves marry for life, and only the death of one leaves the other free to marry again. Furthermore, there is even a genuine display of chivalry and affection between such animals. It is recorded that two wolves in the London zoo were very jealous of each other, and frequently quarreled. One day, during an unusually furious dispute the male approached the female furiously as if to bite her, but just as he reached her he stopped as if held back by something within him. The female then approached timidly, licked his face, and domestic happiness was once more restored.

Source of Strength.

We do not flatter ourselves that the intellect of our time, judged by the power of individuals, is exceptionally great. No doubt, men of commanding genius are still with us, but they are not more numerous or more original than in former times. What then is the peculiarity that has produced such great results? In my opinion what has been accomplished is due in great part to the spread of higher education, which has evolved an army of competent investigators possessing enthusiasm for research which now, for the first time, is led into useful paths by the few great minds, whose powers thus receive a wider range and become more productive. It is in this that our great strength lies.—Prof. Arthur Schuster in Science.

Get Busy With Road Drag.

There never was a better time than right now to use the road drag. Try to get the neighbors to join you if you can, but if they will not, a couple of days spent improving the road from your farm to town will pay big when the bad weather comes on. Of course, it goes a bit against the grain to make good roads for people who are too lazy to help, but who use them just the same. However, it is better to do that than to suffer the inconvenience and loss of good marketing through bottomless roads.

GRADUATION

In response to many requests that all the members of the Senior Class be heard as well as seen at the Graduation exercises, the program has been modified with that in view.

To do this with a very large class, it will be necessary that a part of the exercises, including presentation of diplomas, be given in the evening.

As sickness has weakened the teaching force at a time when there is a great deal of work to be done, arrangements have been made whereby a portion of the class will be drilled under a competent instructor outside the faculty.

Full program will be given later.

Per order, SCHOOL BOARD.

Flag Day

For many reasons it has been deemed best to hold Flag Day exercises Friday instead of Monday, the day most of the towns will celebrate this event.

The exercises will be held Friday, June 12, at 2.30 p.m., in the town hall, under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Woman's Relief Corps and the Antrim Woman's Club.

The guests of the afternoon will be Ephraim Weston Post, No. 87.

The Boy Scouts will be present in uniform and assist with the program. All the school children of the town are invited to be there, the school committee having most kindly allowed them this hour in which to participate in duly honoring the flag.

A cordial invitation is extended to every one who can to be present and devote the afternoon to patriotism.

The program will appear in the next week's issue.

Antrim Boys Break Even With Bennington

On Memorial Day, in the forenoon, the Antrim base ball team played with the Bennington team on their grounds, and Antrim won by a rather close score.

In the afternoon game, played at Antrim, the Benningtons won by a good margin, in a somewhat loosely played game.

With a little more practice and playing together the Antrim boys will play much better; they are capable of it.

The School Exhibition

Of music will take place in Antrim town hall on Friday evening of this week, June 5, at 8 o'clock. The music will consist of folk songs and folk dances by pupils of High and Grammar schools, under the supervision of Miss Gertrude VanDommele, supervisor of music. This exhibition is for the benefit of the junior class of the High school. For particulars read posters.

The Antrim Woman's Club

Met Monday, June 1, at Maplehurst Inn. Mrs. Hanscom, organizer of the Club, was present and spoke words of praise and encouragement to the members concerning their efforts in civic improvements. The members greatly appreciated Mrs. Hanscom's kind words and helpful suggestions, and will undoubtedly profit by them. Mrs. June Wilson presented the following program:

The annual business meeting will be held June 15, at Maplehurst Inn. A full attendance is desired.

Ongley-Danville

Miss Esther Ongley of this town and Edwin Danville of Goffstown were married at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. G. Bennett VanBuskirk, pastor of the Methodist church, on Saturday, May 30.

Mrs. Danville is the daughter of Fred Ongley and wife of this town and Mr. Danville is engaged in business near Manchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Danville have left town on a short wedding trip—after which they will reside in Goffstown.

FINGERS AND THUMBS

They Got Crossed With a Gouty Hand in Giving a Secret Grip.

By ELIZABETH BENTON.
"So you're the young man that thinks he can act as my secretary, hey?" inquired Mr. Fagan, swinging round in his swivel chair and staring at Blake under a pair of bushy gray eyebrows. "Nine and twenty I've burned down today, but if you think you can manage—shake hands!"

The transition from sternness to gravity was entirely disconcerting to the young college man. It was his first application for a position, and the salary as secretary to the owner of the big chemical works was fifty dollars a week. Blake had flown at high game for a youngster of twenty-five.

He gave Mr. Fagan his hand and felt a peculiar pressure of the fingers, which his own leaped to meet. Then: "I left college last year, sir," he began. "I can—"

"Tut, tut, young man!" replied the eccentric. "Consider yourself engaged. It warms my heart to meet you. No, no explanations. I don't want to know what you are or what you can do. I'm a judge of men and—we're both Irishmen, ain't we?"

"Indeed we are," said Blake enthusiastically. And so he went to work and proved highly efficient. In fact, before the month was out Fagan had become so attached to him that he was constantly requesting his presence at his splendid home on the outskirts of the manufacturing town.

Blake had two troubles about this time. One was his inability to discover how it could be that a man of Fagan's apparent limited education had gone through college. The other was Fagan's daughter, Muriel. It was a case of love at first sight with both the young people. When Blake held Miss Muriel's little hand in his and looked into her eyes he knew that he had met his destiny.

But how could a fifty-dollar a week man, with an uncertain future, aspire to the hand of the daughter of Pittston's wealthiest citizen? If he had known it, Fagan could have been taken by storm during these first two or three weeks. A self-made man, he admired the young collegian immensely and had secretly considered him in the light of Muriel's suitor. But Blake did not know that Fagan's mention had been derived from reading the newspapers he sold in front of the chemical works, before these became his own property. And, as a supposed college man who had deliberately cultivated rough ways and coarse language, Blake looked upon his employer with something of awe.

It was about two months after his introduction to the manufacturer's house that he found himself seated beside Miss Muriel upon the piazza. It was a moonlight night; the view was superb; the noises of the city sounded far away and remote; and Fagan was snoring in his library. The combination proved irresistible. And besides, that hand that hung near his was the prettiest hand that he had ever wanted to take in his. He took it, and, seeing that no dramatic outburst of anger followed, he drew the girl to him and kissed her.

For, after all, that is the way in which it is always done.

"Muriel, dearest," he said, "do you know I have loved you ever since I set eyes on you?"

Muriel blushed so divinely that there was nothing to do but repeat the episode. And when he felt her own soft lips on his he knew that his love was returned in full.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

"The Greatest Kidney Remedy on Earth," says a Grateful Woman

I want to tell you how much good your Swamp-Root did me. About four years ago I suffered from what the doctors called fistula, and for two years of that time, I endured what no tongue could tell. I also had inflammation of the bladder and I tried doctors' medicines without receiving any help. Someone told me about Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. After giving it a thorough trial, I received relief, so kept on using it and today I am a strong and well woman. If I ever feel badly or out of sorts, I take Swamp-Root and it always straightens me out. I honestly believe that this medicine would cure all troubles you recommend it for and it is a pleasure for me to send my testimony and photograph to you. I think Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is one of the greatest medicines on earth.

"But I don't know what your father will say," he said, with the timid fear of lovers. "If he discharges me—will you wait, Muriel?"

"For ever," she whispered. "Besides, I can wait over papa. What is a papa?"

If only she had noticed that his tie was green! But it looked blue in the night; to see its proper color one would have to stand under the electric light. And he had gone straight to Muriel when he found her in the garden.

So it happened that when he stood before his employer and stammered out his story, in the way young men approach wealthy old gentlemen, Fagan's eyes fixed themselves upon Blake's shirt-front and narrowed to needle lines.

"May I ask you why you are wearing a green tie on this day of all days, Mr. Blake?" he demanded, with ominous calm.

"Why," said Blake, hesitating, "you see, today is the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, a day abhorrent to all good Irishmen, and—"

Blake's great grandfather had been hanged for treason in the days of Robert Emmet.

Fagan leaped out of his chair with the agility of a tiger.

"Scoundrell! Scum of Limerick!" he yelled. "To insult a good Belfast man by flaunting the green flag! He shook his fist under his secretary's nose. "I killed a man for less in my young days," he shouted. "Out of my house. You're fired. I'll have your pay sent you—"

"Come, papa, what is all this about?" interposed Muriel's soothing voice. She had come in softly behind her lover to lend him aid if necessary. She had not anticipated such violence.

"He's wearing of the green—and on this day, of all days!" stormed her father. "Molly, I wouldn't have minded so much if it hadn't been for the deceit of the man. But he let me think all along he was a good Orangeman, and now he comes and taunts me to my face, presuming upon his claim to love you. Kick him out for me, Molly, my foot's got the gout in it."

"Father, dear—for my sake listen," pleaded Muriel. "I am sure that Arthur—Mr. Blake can explain everything. Father," she pleaded, "We love each other. Think how you and Mother got married, when you were earning nine dollars a week in a shipping office—you've often told me so."

"But he's a damned rebel, Molly, and—and the infernal impudence of it!"

"Tell him it's all a mistake, Arthur," pleaded Muriel.

"It ain't a mistake, it's just treachery," roared her father. "Nine and twenty good men, fine men, I turned down that morning till he gave me the grip—"

"What grip?" demanded Blake. "The grip of the United Orangemen's Brotherhood," roared the old man. "Didn't I wink at you, and didn't I see it in your face that we understood each other, and didn't I say that was enough between friends and—"

"The grip I gave you," answered Blake, "was that of the Alpha Omega Mu fraternity. I had been told it helped a man to get a position by giving it. I thought you were a college man."

Old Fagan stared at him in stupid wonder. Then: "Give me that grip again," he said, and Blake, all against the fraternity rules, delivered it.

"My fault," he acknowledged. "You got your thumb crossed in the wrong place. It must have been my gouty hand made me imagine—Well, young fellow, maybe I'll let you keep your job."

"And how about Miss Fagan?" inquired the other.

"Muriel? My daughter! I'll see you—I—er—new don't cry, Molly, dear. I guess she goes with the job."

GREENE'S

FIRST FEED

FOR

BABY CHICKS Feed it Dry

INTERMEDIATE CHICK FEED
Is made of the same grains and seeds as our Chick Feed, but is a little larger size and should take the place of Chick Feed after the chicks are four to six weeks old, as they relish a coarser feed and will not waste it. This feed is carefully graded, screened and fanned, just like our Chick Feed.

We would call particular attention to the size of the feed. While it is coarser than the Chick Feed, it is not as coarse as Scratch Feed, and the size is uniform.

GREENE'S GROWING FEED
Is designed to Make Chickens Grow. It is made from choice grains and a large variety of seeds and finely ground and mixed with the proper amount of Perfectly Sweet Meat Scraps, milk and shredded fish. There is never a strong rancid smell to this feed as we use only SWEET SCRAPS, and we advise you to beware of any feeds for chickens that have a rancid smell, for this usually comes from spoiled meat which perhaps contains enough dangerous disease germs to injure the entire flock.

Be sure that your chickens have plenty of pure, sweet, clean water and fine grit.

"Why is Sweden like heaven?" asked the thin boarder coming to the breakfast table.

"I know," came from the little blonde typewriter.

"Well, if you know, push it along. Sweetmeats," said the thin boarder.

"Because—"

"The same old answer."

"No, it's not. I was going to say because it is a foreign country," essayed the little blonde.

"Wrong," came from the thin man.

"Listen: Because nearly all the matches are made there."

In the Village.

The Visitor—They tell me your grandfather is a famous horse trader?

The Native—Yes, granddad knows horses sure enough. He's been swappin' 'em for fifty years. There ain't no trick in th' business that he ain't up to.

The Visitor—I suppose it is a pretty tricky business. He has to be careful, no doubt.

The Native—He's careful, all right. He never trades with ministers.

The Visitor—Doesn't, eh?

The Native—Nopa. Couple o' 'em stung him once.

OF COURSE.

He—Couldn't you look upon me as more than a brother?

She—Well, if you ever marry and have a son, I might become your daughter-in-law.

A Condensed Novel.

Mr. Winn—Well, Callis, how's papa this morning?

Callis (a five-year-old)—Nicely, I thank you.

Mr. Winn—What a polite little fellow you are. Here's a nickel for you.

Callis—Pardon me; but I am not allowed to take it.

Mr. Winn (to himself)—What perfect discipline!

Callis—However, nothing was said which will prevent you from buying some of these cocoanut taffies from the man on the corner!—Puck.

Serious Question.

"Where are you going?"

"To the department of agriculture," replied the city man who had bought a farm. "I want them to settle a dispute between my wife and me about the best way to milk a cow. I think it would be sufficient to tie pillows around the cow's feet, but my wife insists that the only practical way is to give the cow chloroform."

COSTLY ARTICLE OF RAIMENT

Many Reasons Why Astrachan Capes May Only Be in the Wardrobe of the Wealthy.

In making a cloak or cape of fine quality the center of the saddle only is used and a very large number of such strips, perfectly matched in curl and degree of blackness, are stitched together to make a complete garment. The rest of the skins, the legs, sides and other inferior parts, are used for less important purposes, such as linings for gloves, shoes and other articles. In classing the various skins the jet-black ones are considered the best. The gray ones are also used in their natural color, but the fawn-colored skins are generally dyed black and used in Persia, though now a large number of dyed skins are also prepared for export. Prices are so high that even inferior skins fetch good sums from the dealers.

Besides the first cost of the skins as they come from the lambs' backs, several other items go to increase the cost to the wearer. There are, for instance, the expenses of preparing the pelts for transport and the mule freight from Shiraz to Resht, some 60 to 70 days' journey by caravan, a very heavy item. The continually increasing taxes levied by the Persian government for permission to export the skins must not be forgotten in calculation. Every now and then the wily Persian government puts an embargo on skins, the ostensible reason being the ever-increasing price of meat for food, but this is only an excuse, the real object being to squeeze as much money as possible out of the dealers, for bribery plays a very large part in the astrachan trade.—Christian Herald.

NEW YORK A BILLIONAIRE

Value of Parks of the Metropolis Soon May Equal the City's Funded Debt.

William A. Prendergast, comptroller, submitted to the commissioners of the sinking fund a schedule of 5,500 parcels of property owned by the city of New York, aggregating in value $1,300,000,000. This schedule shows that the corporation of the city of New York is the wealthiest in the country, and is the largest holder of real estate within the limits of its jurisdiction.

That the city has been a shrewd or fortunate speculator in city properties is proved by a number of interesting facts of record. For instance, one Peter Stuyvesant and his wife, in 1836, conveyed what is now Stuyvesant Park to the city for $5. The present assessed valuation of the property is $1,860,000. Tompkins Park, now assessed at $3,000,000, was acquired by the city in 1834 for $93,000. Mount Morris Park, now valued at $7,500,000, cost the city less than $28,000. Bowling Green, which was once rented for two pepper corns a year, is now assessed at $1,735,000.

Considering the present extraordinary value of Central Park, some of the adjacent property on Fifth avenue being assessed at $6,000 a front foot, and the constantly increasing value of the 7,500 acres of city parks by reason of the city's growing population, it is not improbable that within a few years the parks alone will offset in value the entire present funded debt of the city.

The only woman nightgownsewer in England, Mrs. Joyson, kept her last watch, the other night at Hale, on the banks of the Mersey. She is known as "the heroine of the Mersey." For twenty years she has lived in the lighthouse, and for four years, since the death of her husband, she has been the official keeper. "My life has not been an unhappy one here," said Mrs. Joyson, "and it is a wrench to go. I am giving up the appointment for the sake of my children, who wish to live at Stockton. The commissioner has tried several times to persuade me to stay. He told me only the other day, 'You are leaving with honor.' When my husband died in the lighthouse, I took up the duty on three months' trial, and have continued till now. I have done duty for three and a half hours before and after high tide, and have to keep the light burning at night time, and the fog bell ringing if necessary. On several occasions I have rung the bell for the whole seven hours. Once we had nearly a fortnight of fog, but I got through it all right."

WOMAN COULD HARDLY STAND

Because of Terrible Backache. Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I suffered from displacement and inflammation, and had such pains in my sides, and terrible backache so that I could hardly stand. I took six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I can do any amount of work, sleep good, eat good, and don't have a bit of trouble. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to every suffering woman."—Mrs. HARRY FISHER, 1642 Juniata Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Another Woman's Case.

Providence, R. I.—"I cannot speak too highly of your Vegetable Compound as it has done wonders for me and I would not be without it. I had a displacement, bearing down, and backache, until I could hardly stand and was thoroughly run down when I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helped me and I am in the best of health at present. I work in a factory all day long besides doing my housework so you can see what it has done for me. I give you permission to publish my name and I speak of your Vegetable Compound to many of my friends."—Mrs. ABRIEL LAWSON, 126 Lippitt St., Providence, R. I.

Danger Signals to Women are what one physician called backache, headache, nervousness, and the blues. In many cases they are symptoms of some female derangement or an inflammatory, ulcerative condition, which may be overcome by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands of American women willingly testify to its virtue.

NERVOUS HEADACHES

Heavy Feeling, as If My Brain Was Pressing Down

Mrs. Hill says: "I cannot tell you how much I have suffered during the past twelve years." Twelve years is a long time for any one to suffer. A great multitude of women in this country know exactly what Mrs. Hill means when she says, "Heavy feeling, as if my brain was pressing down. So nervous I could not get my rest at night. Would have sinking spells and then so weak that I could not do my work." A great many women in the United States will recognize in this description their own experience.

MRS. EFFIE HILL, Blanchester, Clinton Co., Ohio.

Mrs. Hill found a remedy. After taking four bottles of Peruna she gained in strength and flesh and wrote us that she was a well woman again. She says, "I cannot thank you enough for my recovery."

This is no ordinary incident. Twelve years suffering. Four bottles of Peruna. Restored to perfect health. If Peruna can do this for one woman why can it not for another? Is it not worth your attention? Is it not worth trying?

Those who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets.

GOOD

RELOCATING THE OLD ROADS

Average Life of Horses and Automobiles May Be Increased and the Cost of Hauling Reduced.

The average life of horses and automobiles may be increased and the cost of hauling reduced, according to the office of roads, department of agriculture, by relocating many old roads and the more scientific laying out of new ones. The natural tendency in road building is to build a straight road whether it goes over steep grades or hills or not, and pulling over these grades naturally adds to the wear and tear on horses and vehicles. The doctrine of the office of roads is that the longest way around may often be the shortest and most economical way home, and that frequently by building a highway around a hill or grade but little appreciable distance is added and this is more than offset by the reduced strain of hauling.

The chief drawback from the farm owner's point of view is that the laying out of road on this principle of avoiding grades necessitates in some cases running the road through good farm land or orchards of pastures instead of going around the farm line and building the road through old worn out fields and over rocky knolls. This of course must raise a question in the mind of the individual landowner as to whether the cutting up of his property by a road yields him individual advantages and so benefits his community as to offset the use of such land for a road or to overcome the inconvenience of having his land divided. In this connection the office of roads points out that the running of a road and the resulting traffic through a good farm where there are good cattle, horses, sheep, grain, fruit or vegetables has a certain advertising value and in many instances makes the land more valuable. In other cases the importance of such a level road to the community is so great that it will repay those using the road to give the farmer the equivalent in land equally good in place of what he has sacrificed to the common welfare.

At any rate the office of roads is now taking special pains to make clear the economic advantage of avoiding steep grades in their roads, even at some sacrifice of better land. Investigations shows that the laying of such roads over hills has resulted more from the attention to the preservation of farm lines than from scientific attention to the problem of road building. According to the testimony of farmers consulted where a horse might be able to pull 4,000 pounds on a level road it would have difficulty in pulling 3,000 pounds up a steep hill. The size of the load therefore tends to be measured by the grade of the largest hill on the road to market. In a number of cases of actual experiment shows that the relocating of roads around hills has been accomplished either with no addition in road length in some instances, and with the adding of only a few feet to the highway in others. The office knows of no case where a properly relocated road which has cut out grades has led to any question as to its material reduction of hauling costs.

Future Good Roads.

Good roads in the future should be built on the zigzag plan for the avoidance of hills and steep grades, the federal officer of good roads announced in declaring that the lives of horses and automobiles could be lengthened thereby and the cost of hauling reduced materially. The experts contend that the "longest way around often may be the most economical and shortest way home," and decry the national tendency to build straight roads whenever they must risk heavy grades.

"I never like a peacock."
"It's a handsome bird. What have you against it?"
"Well, it's an egotist, for one thing. Its tail is full of I's; and then, again, it's a mean gossip, for its a tale spreader."

An Unfailing Theme.

"Dobbs never talks politics and never talks baseball."
"What does he do for a topic of conversation?"
"Oh, he still has himself."

To guard against malaria it is necessary to drain swamps and clean up other places where malaria-carrying mosquitoes breed, and to prevent typhoid it is necessary to purify water, milk and food supplies in which the typhoid bacillus may be carried, and to improved system of sewage disposal. The screening of houses is advised in the work to prevent both diseases, keeping out mosquitoes to guard against malaria and the germ-carrying house fly to prevent the spread of typhoid. According to health authorities, if every community in the country did everything possible to guard its people against the two diseases, malaria and typhoid, the United States would have an almost perfect system of sanitation and a greatly improved condition of the public health.

Representative O'Shaughnessy of Rhode Island, dropped into the capital post office the other day 58,000 letters addressed to his constituents in Little Rhody. Each letter contained a frank slip which, being returned to the congressman properly addressed, will be good for one package of vegetable and garden seeds furnished by Uncle Sam to the people through their representatives in congress.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy recommends in his letter to the farmers' wives the series of farmers' bulletins issued by the agricultural department, and offers to send them under congressional frank to all who may apply.

One hundred and twenty-five thousand packets is Representative O'Shaughnessy's quota of seeds this year and he expresses the opinion that as a result of his campaign on behalf of the "back to the farm" movement, every seed in every packet will be planted this year in Rhode Island. However successful his seed campaign may be Mr. O'Shaughnessy cannot be elected president of the United States, as according to the congressional directory he was born in Ireland on May 1, 1868.

Senator James P. Clarke of Arkansas enjoys the distinction of being the only member of the senate who has taken the oath of office without being escorted thither by another senator. Usually the sitting state colleague performs the service for the new man.

Mr. Clarke was elected to succeed the late James K. Jones. The struggle was of the character that leaves scars. Senator James H. Berry—dead within the past few weeks—had served for many years with Mr. Jones, and in the campaign between Jones and Clarke was so partial to the former that when Mr. Clarke came into the senate to begin his services he did not ask to allow Mr. Berry to introduce him.

When some one suggested that he accept the escort of some other senator he refused, saying:
"No; if I cannot go down with my colleague, I will not ask any one else to go with me. I will go alone."
And he did.

Miss Emma Jones has completed her labors at the Postoffice and is soon to be employed at Joslin's Clinton store.

The repairs in the town hall are nearing completion and it is expected that within a short time it will be ready for occupancy. The several improvements which have been installed will add a great deal to the appearance of the interior and will give us a hall of which to be proud. The workmen are now engaged on the stage and the scenery.

MEMORIAL DAY

The usual exercises were held here Saturday and fitting tribute was paid the heroes. Rev. R. Bruce of Frankestown delivered an able address, and the school children assisted in the exercises. Music was furnished by the local drum corps. The Auxiliary served dinner to about 100.

An innovation for this town was the scattering of flowers on the Contoocook river in memory of the sailors.

Mrs. Dane has been in feeble health for the past few months, but came down stairs on her birthday, the first time for six months.
