School Exhibition of Music

The annual school exhibition of music was held last Friday evening in the Antrim town hall and well attended. Proceeds for the benefit of the Junior class of the High school.

The program included folk songs and dances in costume from the Danish, Swedish, Bohemian, Scotch, Irish and Welsh, together with many of the favorite melodies from several different countries.

Pupils of the Antrim High and Grammar schools filled the various parts. Miss Gertrude VanDommele, supervisor of music, had the presentation in charge. Forrest Appleton was the accompanist.

Fire Alarm

An alarm of fire called out a portion of the department Saturday afternoon, to a forest fire near the old William Stacy place in North Branch, about four miles from the village. The fire had spread over Windsor mountain and was gaining such headway that it was thought necessary to summon help from here. Within a short time after the firemen arrived flames were under control. Considerable wood and timber were burned. It is said to have started from a brush fire.

Hot Weather Tonic

And health builder. Are you run down, nervous, tired? Is everything you do an effort? You are not lazy, you are sick! Your stomach, liver, kidneys and whole system need a tonic. A tonic and health builder to drive out the waste matter, build you up and renew your strength. Nothing better than Electric Bitters. Start today. Mrs. James Duncao, Haynesville, Me., writes: "Completely cured me after several doctors gave me up." 50c and $1.00. at your druggist.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve for cuts.

Encampment Confers Degree

About 25 members of Mt. Crooked Encampment, I. O. O. F., were in Hillsboro Monday night as guests of North Star Encampment, and the degree team from Mt. Crooked conferred the R. P. degree on a class of eight candidates of North Star. William W. Brown of this town was in charge. Ice cream and cake were served after the meeting.

New Modern Dancing

The leading Expert and Instructor in New York City writes: "Dear Sir: I have used Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes, for the past ten years. It is a blessing to all who are compelled to be on their feet. I dance eight or ten hours daily, and find that Allen's Foot-Ease keeps my feet cool, takes the friction from the shoe, prevents corns and sore, aching feet. I recommend it to all my pupils."

(Signed) E. Fletcher Hallamore. Sample Free. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y. adv.

Robert Jameson, from Yonkers, N. Y., was with his family here for over Sunday.

Dog Tax Notice

I desire to notify all owners of dogs that the tax MUST be paid on or before June 20.

L. L. Lovern, Dog Constable.

ANTRIM'S FLAG DAY

Will be an Unusual Occasion in Our Town--Special Exercises

DON'T forget the Flag Day exercises to be held Friday, June 12, in the town hall, at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Everyone is invited. If you have any copies of the following songs, please bring them:

Star Spangled Banner
Rally 'Round the Flag
Marching Through Georgia
Battle Hymn of the Republic
America

The program will consist in part of a drill and Flag Salute by the Boy Scouts, recitations and exercises by the young people of the town, all bearing on the topic of the day: "The Flag."

The four prize essays will be read. The judges are Rev. F. A. Arbuckle, Rev. W. J. B. Cannell and Rev. G. B. VanBuskirk.

There will also be short addresses. Warren W. Merrill, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, will preside.

The above notice was handed us by the committee having this matter in charge, and we feel it is worthy the prominent position given it; also, we feel a few words added to it would not be out of place. The idea originated in the Woman's Club where a committee was appointed to carry forward the idea, work out the details and present something worth while. From the program, it is certain the patriotic education of our young people will be improved a bit by these exercises. This is as it should be; the boys and girls if properly instructed in patriotism and loyalty, will grow up to be better men and women. All of a child's education cannot be gotten in a school-room, or from books, and it's absolutely necessary that teacher and parent work together in this matter; they must also have every possible help from the school board and superintendent. When all are working to accomplish this end, and not striving to impress upon people their individual importance, then much good is accomplished and the rising generation is greatly benefited thereby.

We happen to know that this committee did not receive the assistance they should in their endeavors to teach patriotism in this particular way; yet it should be said that the school board showed them great courtesy and assisted them in carrying out their program.

It is safe to say that after this program has been given, and the people realize just a bit what can be done by a little effort and some outside help, to have our young people take a special interest in an occasion like Flag Day, that not a person will be found who did not favor the project from the start; and everyone will want to be included among its well wishers. This is the usual outcome of such endeavors, so let not the committee feel discouraged for another time possibly assistance as well as encouragement might be theirs in great abundance.

Challenge Not Accepted

Hon. Rosecrans W. Pillsbury, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor at the September primaries, issued a challenge for a series of twenty joint debates with Hon. Rolland H. Spaulding, who is likewise a candidate for governor. In an open letter, Mr. Spaulding very courteously refuses to go before the people in this manner, preferring rather to select his own way of introducing himself to the people of the state. Mr. Pillsbury will doubtless let the people hear from him along some other line, also.

Their Fiftieth Anniversary

A reception will be given Mr. and Mrs. Hiram W. Muzzey, in honor of the 50th anniversary of their marriage, Monday evening, June 15, at eight o'clock, at the Methodist vestry, to which all friends are cordially invited.

IN FAVOR OF TOWN

Suit of Brown Against Town of Antrim Tried in Superior Court

THE suit of Josephine M. Brown against the town of Antrim was tried in the Superior court at Manchester, before Judge Chamberlin and jury, on last Thursday and Friday; quite a number of Antrim people attending as witnesses and spectators. This was an action brought to recover $5,000.00 for injury the plaintiff alleged that she had sustained August 1, 1911, by going into the ditch beside the Pond Road while riding in a carriage, in consequence of there being no railing. The selectmen, in behalf of the town, maintained that there was no obligation on the part of the town to have a railing at such a place and that to put up railings at similar places throughout the town would be a great burden on the taxpayers, and that the town was not negligent in not having a railing there and claiming also that the plaintiff's present physical disabilities are not resultant from that accident. After a day spent by the jury visiting the place of accident and two days in court hearing the evidence and arguments, the case was submitted to the jury which brought in a verdict Friday afternoon for the defendant in favor of the town. Kirk D. Pierce and Ralph G. Smith of Hillsboro were the lawyers for the plaintiff while James F. Brennan of Peterboro represented the town.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

By Waverley Lodge of Odd Fellows at Their Hall Sunday Last

THE annual Odd Fellows Memorial service was observed on Sunday by Waverley lodge, with Hand in Hand Rebekah lodge as invited guests. Rev. E. B. Young, pastor of the Methodist church at Henniker, delivered the address. Music was furnished by a double quartet of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs. The graves of deceased brothers and sisters of the order were decorated in the morning. Committee in charge from the subordinate lodge was H. Burr Eldredge, Chas. F. Butterfield, George Cheney; from the Rebekahs: Mrs. Anna Eaton Carter, Ethel F. Ellinwood, Mrs. Ethel Davis.

The service was simple, appropriate and nice. The address by Rev. Young was a very fitting one, well worded and rendered in a most pleasing manner; it was highly spoken of by the large number of members present.

Baccalaureate Service

The annual sermon before the graduating class of the Antrim High School will be delivered next Sunday, the 14th, at 7 o'clock in the evening, at the Presbyterian church. The following is the order of service:

- Gloria Patri—Congregation
- Processional—Antrim High School
- Hymn—Congregation
- Prayer—Rev. W. J. B. Cannell
- Scripture Reading—Rev. Charles Jones
- Music
- Invocation—Rev. F. A. Arbuckle
- Sermon—Rev. G. B. VanBuskirk
- Music
- Benediction—Rev. F. A. Arbuckle
- Recessional—Antrim High School
- Doxology—Congregation

Methodist Church

Next Sunday being designated as "Flag Day," the morning services at the Methodist church will be specially in keeping with Flag Day observance, the special consideration being upon the subject of loyalty. All who do not go elsewhere to church are asked to worship with us.

Pastor.

The Onlooker

He trained a goose to multiply and add up and subtract;
He taught a spotted pig to wait—it was a funny act;
He coaxed a billy goat to jump through hoops which were aflame,
He taught a chipmunk how to choose the letters of its name,
But he could never learn to cease to use his toothpick where
And when such action gave offense—else he did not care.

He trained a dog to walk a rope and taught a cat to pray,
He said himself this took hard work which lasted many a day;
He hitched an alligator up and made him pull a cart,
His perseverance was immense, his teaching was an art,
But he could never train himself, somehow, to save his life,
To quit endeavoring to scoop his food up with his knife.

He trained a mouse to dance a jig, he educated fleas;
He had a carriage which was drawn by harnessed bumble bees;
He taught a turkey gobbler how to balance on his head,
And trained a duck to flatten out pretending to be dead,
But he could never train himself—or else he never tried—
To speak good English and to put vulgarity aside.

His Mistake.
"Oh, if I were only a man!" she exclaimed.
He waited a moment for her to continue, and then asked:
"Well, if you were a man what would you do?"
"I should do something to make people notice that I was on earth, instead of wasting my time as you do yours."
"Oh, I thought you were going to say you would quit worrying about that dark fuzz on your lip."

A Failure.
"No, I feel that my life has been a failure."
"Don't say that. You have managed to accumulate a respectable fortune without sacrificing your character, and that, it seems to me, is a good deal of a triumph."
"I know; but I can't amount to anything. Nobody has ever asked me to furnish a testimonial of any kind to be used in a magazine advertisement."

All Disown Him.
The candidate soon takes his cue
And promptly comes across.
The fashion nowadays is to Repudiate the boss.

Proper Regulation.
Mrs. Smith (to chemist)—I wish to buy a thermometer to regulate the heat of the room.
Chemist—What kind will you have madam?
Mrs. S.—Oh, it does not matter, as you set it at 68, as the doctor said that would be the proper heat for a normal Mountain.

EVERYBODY'S FRIEND

The Smile That Never Comes Off Is Always a Great Asset.

MILDRED CAROLINE GOODRIDGE.

Sidney Ware started out in the business world with one sole asset. It was a smile. It was true that he possessed a pair of especially bright, merry eyes to abet the effects of a laughing remark or a cheerful greeting, and the general expression of his face was frank and friendly. Even in his dull and depressed moments, however, Sidney maintained that inevitable never-say-die-somewhere-the-sun-is shining east of countenance, against the deuce-any-care-everything-is-going-wrong scowl of the slipshod pessimistic clerk who disgruntled everybody he came in contact with.

Sidney smiled his way through the shipping room of the big merchandise house of Angell & Co., and left its foreman disconsolate when there came an office promotion. Inside of a week he had even the icy, stately chief stenographer in a tolerant mood, and the typewriters were all in love with him. Two years later some one had to fill the place of an old veteran who sold visiting country trade. Within two months Mr. Angell came to Sidney, who had secured that position.

"See here, Ware," he observed, "facts are facts, and you have doubled the transient trade. How do you do it?"

Sidney smiled in a modest, deprecating way, and tried to sidetrack the burden of compliment by telling a clean humorous story that set the usually majestic millionaire shaking with laughter.

"You are too good a man for a second grade position," decided Mr. Angell. "Report for a managerial place tomorrow, Ware."

"It makes me sick!" observed Claude Griffiths, head salesman, a twelvemonth later—"that eternal grin of young Ware. Why, I say—it's un-dignified. It isn't business; it's—it's—" "It's caught Miss Della Angell, just as it has the whole of us," chirped winsome Nettie Darling, typewriter, who overheard Griffiths. "Sidney is everybody's friend and tries to be, and you're 'Old Glooms' and that's why Miss Angell joined the golf club just to meet a genuine smiling young man once in a while."

Tied Hand and Foot.

"Oh, she did, eh?" snarled the jealous rival. "Well, I'll bet old Angell doesn't know it. Why, he'd know the upstart in a second. If he ever even suspected that Ware was making eyes at his only child and heiress."

It was dangerous pleasure sensible, thoughtful Sidney Ware realized, the court he could not help paying to the sweetest girl he ever met. Still he could not resist the attraction. It seemed as if their souls mingled when he was with Della Angell. He was earnest, wholesome-hearted, happy-spirited, she unostentatious, lovely and genuine. They were like two ingenious children playing in a beautiful garden, for everything in the world was fresh and radiant to their unspoiled natures.

Sidney never knew how much Della was to him until she went away to visit some friends at quite a distance. He kept on smiling, but there was a vague longing in his heart that took some of the rare glitter from perfect contentment. In a business way everything was going more than well with this fortunate young man. Mr. Angell had come to him one morning, as he sat in his office, with a bulky envelope in his hand.

"See here, Ware," he said, "I've just received a new audit of the books for the year and some system suggestions."

George W. Under Arrest.

The arrest of a man in New York the other day for throwing refuse about the streets revealed once more the historic name of George Washington on the police station blotter, the Sun of that city states. Like his illustrious namesake, the arrested man could not tell a lie and owned his guilt.

It has been estimated by many who have made a special study of genealogy and descent, as well as the spread and change of names, that there are in the world now 100,000 males whose baptismal name is George Washington.

And of those whose sole name is George Washington, it is again estimated that at least 5,000 carry along the inspired cognomen wherever they go.

Of direct descendants, of course, the Father of His Country had none. Negroes by hundreds were named for him by slave masters before the Civil war. Since then the name has been a favorite with those blacks who had to choose a family appellation because of not being certain about their pedigree.

The Importance of Batting.

The Hittites many pennants won in days of long ago. They often walked in Babylon and beat out Jericho.

There is a lesson here for you. If in defeat you sit, Rise up be like the Hittites, who laid stress upon the Hit.

Makes It Embarrassing.

"Why were you so anxious to get away from that man?"

"He's a Socialist."

"I know, but he's a very decent sort. Nothing at all dangerous about him."

"Oh, yes, but I always hate to have to argue with a man who seems to know all about everything."

The Last Word.

"You know that you simple ran after me until you got me to promise to be your wife," she said in a taunting manner.

"Well," he replied, "I didn't have to run very fast to overtake you."

"I was wearing a hobble skirt at the time," she defiantly retorted.

Trying to Save His Life.

"I've decided to buy either an automobile or a motor boat. Which would you advise me to get?"

"If you live near the water get an automobile. If you are located far from the water get a motor-boat, by all means."

A Deduction.

"Would you let people play poker for money in your house, Mrs. Gads-worth?"

"Why not? Where's the harm in a friendly little game?"

"Oh, then, you're still ahead, are you?"

Still Believe In Witchcraft. Witchcraft and sorcery are abroad again in the old-world Franconia, where seventeenth century homesteads harbor still so many medieval survivals. A musician named Scherbel, of the little village of Posseck, Upper Franconia, recently demanded judicial protection against his fellow-villagers, who accused him of being a master of witchcraft, in league with the powers of darkness, and finally caused him to be feared and boycotted throughout the district. Bailiff Ellmer was put in the dock, and was obliged to admit that when Scherbel touched his arm he promptly spat and bade "the old witch master" keep clear of him. At a meeting in the village inn Ellmer had told the villagers how Scherbel had bewitched his pigs so that they died and his hens so that they would not lay eggs. And how Scherbel's wife "bewitched" the butter so that it went sour. The whole village kept out of Scherbel's way to avoid the "evil eye." Scherbel said that life in Posseck would be impossible if this continued. The court fined Ellmer 25, and informed the villagers of Posseck that they were "bigger fools than their own cattle."

Wallpaper Centuries Old.

The use of wallpaper apparently commenced in the sixteenth century, for a piece of wallpaper of the Tudor period, which has been acquired by the Victoria and Albert museum, London, England, is supposed to be the earliest in existences. A newspaper representative was informed at the museum that in order to secure the paper part of the wall had to be taken with it, and several men were needed to move the exhibit. Evidently a black design was printed from a woodcut on a white surface, for there is no rich coloring. "Honi soit qui mal y pense" appears in the center of the design, with a black and white border-pattern. The Chinese have used wallpapers for centuries, but the modern system of paper-hanging only came into general use in Europe in the beginning of the nineteenth century—after the paper-making machine was brought into practical use.

EVERYBODY'S FRIEND

and costs averages from our side. I want to go over them quietly and leisurely at home. Come up to the house to dinner at six—no formality, mind you. It's pretty lonesome there, and I'll value your counsel and enjoy your company, and you can stay all night."

Sidney was immensely pleased at the invitation. While on his way at 5:30 that evening a man rushed past him as he stood waiting for a long freight train to pass. He carried a satchel and was constantly glancing apprehensively behind him. Suddenly, as if fear-inspired, the stranger ran at the moving train and swung up the iron ladder of a freight car.

In getting a safe hold the satchel slipped from his grasp. The man made a movement as if to descend after it. Then a glance around seemed to impel him to the other alternative. A policeman fitted into view, disappeared, and Sidney, after waiting for a minute or two, picked up the satchel.

If there had been a flagman in sight Sidney would have left the satchel in his possession with an explanation. As it was, he was due at the Angell home, so he concluded to take the satchel along with him and leave it at the depot on a chance that the owner might apply for it there in the morning.

He placed the satchel unobtrusively in a corner of the reception hall as he was shown into the house by a servant. Then it dropped entirely from his mind. A fine meal and the most genial guest possible put Mr. Angell in his brightest mood. Magnate and manager discussed some business, but not much. Sidney's inexhaustible fund of drollery and that infectious smile of his gave Mr. Angell the pleasantest evening he had spent for a long time, according to his own spontaneous declaration.

When Sidney was shown up to his room, to his surprise he found the troublesome satchel on a chair. The servant evidently had supposed it to be an adjunct of his all-night visit.

"I wonder what's in it?" mused Sidney. "Is it locked? No, I declare!" He stared hard as the satchel came open. And no wonder! Such a conglomeration of bright, neat, odd tools came into view, and so unusual and unique in their shape that he could scarcely guess their purpose.

"A burglar's kit," burst forth Sidney.

There was no doubt of that. There was a silk and steel ladder, drills, picklocks, fuses, a deadly looking box that might hold nitroglycerin. Sidney fancied that its owner, seen by a policeman who recognized him, had left with due dispatch via the freight route.

Sidney put out the lights and sat at the open window of the dressing room of the suite to think of Della. He must have fallen asleep unawares. A glint of light in the outer apartment awakened him. Sidney saw two men, one holding a dark lantern, its rays focussed down upon the open satchel.

"One of our kind," spoke one of the men.

"Say," broke in the other vehemently, "I know who those tools belong to—Dark Derry. He's here, or coming here, and it's his job."

"What about the booty downstairs?" "Hands off—I won't interfere with a king's jail."

The two men left the room. A minute later Sidney saw them make off across the lawn. He went downstairs.

Tied hand and foot, with a gag in his mouth, lay Mr. Angell on a sofa. A safe stood open, and spread out on a green cloth beside it was jewelry, money, bonds.

"Another ten minutes and I would have choked to death," declared the magnate when released, after Sidney had explained matters. "If they had come back for that plunder I would have been $20,000 the loser. You're a bright fellow, Ware."

Sidney only smiled. He was so bright that, with papa's full blessing, he wedded winsome Della a year later. He smiled then, in love with all the world, but particularly with the happy, lovely bride he had won.

Charles White has been in Boston for a few days on a business trip.

Alfred Myers is in Shelburne Falls, Mass., where he has secured employment.

Mrs. G. Ed. Hutchinson is in Lowell and Fitchburg, Mass., visiting relatives for a season.

Miss Mae Hulett, from Greenfield, was the guest of her parents, G. N. Hulett and wife, over Sunday.

Miss Mildred Cram, from Northfield, Mass., is at her home here with her parents, William Cram and wife, having completed her studies at Northfield.

The "Alabama Troubadors" presented a first class entertainment in their line at the town hall last Thursday night to a rather small audience. They were worthy of a larger patronage.

Ceilings white washed in the old fashioned way, or whitened in the best possible manner by an expert. Send post card or make arrangements in any other way with W. H. Atwood, Antrim.

The members of Harmony lodge, A. F. and A. M., of Hillsboro, have accepted an invitation from Rev. F. Albert Arbuckle, pastor of the Presbyterian church here, to be present at a special service Sunday afternoon, June 28, in the Presbyterian church. All Masons in this section have a special invitation to attend.

Charles Peaslee has returned from the Massachusetts Homeopathic hospital, in Boston, where he has been receiving treatment for cataracts on his eyes. Mr. Peaslee is improving as the result of the treatment, but will have to return to the hospital within a few weeks for further attention. Dr. W. R. Musson accompanied him to Boston and returned with him.

EAST ANTRIM

More arrivals at the Mt. View House; reminds one that the busy season is fast approaching.

The Richardsons are entertaining their father and mother from Winchester, Mass.

Miss Ethel Nylander is with her parents for the summer from her work at Wellesley college.

Mrs. Bartrain, of Manchester, is stopping with the Nylanders.

M. S. French and family motored to Peterboro and took dinner at the Nay farm on Sunday.

C. D. White went to Boston Saturday, for a few days' business trip.

Quite a good sum of money was realized from the supper which was served by the sewing circle at Mrs. Harvey's home last Thursday. A social time followed the supper which both old and young enjoyed. Although it rained during the day as night came on it cleared away and a good attendance was present, some coming from Hillsboro.

Always Lead to Better Health

Serious sicknesses start in disorders of the stomach, liver and kidneys. The best corrective and preventive is Dr. King's New Life Pills. They purify the blood—prevent constipation, keep liver, kidney and bowels in healthy condition. Give you better health by ridding the system of fermenting and gassy foods. Effective and mild. 25c at your druggist. Bucklen's Arnica Salve for all hurts.

NORTH BRANCH

The Flint family are here now for the balance of the season. Mr. Flint remembered the G. A. R. on Memorial Day as usual with hot coffee and other refreshments, with a box of cigars, and something more substantial in an envelope. His generosity never grows less on occasions like this.

Mrs. Hunt is having a tennis court laid out at her neat little home.

Boarders have commenced to arrive at Hillsboro, and we hope Mr. and Mrs. Barrett will be over-run with them this season. They are nicely fixed for a full house.

Last Saturday at a little after noon a huge black cloud of smoke was seen coming up like a volcano over Windsor mountain; it looked as though the Sarah-Martha lot, operated by Carroll & Son, of Warner, was on fire. It proved to be a brush fire which was put out in a few hours. An alarm of fire in North Branch is not a welcome sound; we are afraid of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker have returned to Winchester, Mass., Miss Parker and aunt will remain for quite a while.

SIBERIAN REFORMS

Russia Introduces More Merciful Penal System.

Criminals Will No Longer Be Sent to Colony but Will Be Imprisoned Near Scene of Their Crime and Usefully Employed.

The world moves in Russia, perhaps not at as rapid a gait as in more favored lands, but still it moves. Russia may not be gaining the civic-political level of other great European nations by "gigantic strides," but it is taking long steps forward. Recently its government has instituted prison reforms, which, when in full operation, will deprive the term "exiled to Siberia" of its currency. When Russia has completed the great system of modern, up-to-date prisons which it is now planning, criminals will no longer be sent to Siberia. They will be imprisoned near the scene of their crime and will be usefully employed either at some trade or calling or on public works while serving their sentences. In a word, their condition will be similar to that of convicts in most European prisons. The British system has been chosen as Russia's model, and as Britain more than half a century ago gave up dumping criminals into Australia, so Russia in 1913 determined not to penalize Siberia with swarms of murderers, robbers and the small fry of lawlessness.

In coming to the conclusion that "Criminal exile" to Siberia no longer pays Russia has been assisted by the criminal exiles themselves. The Russian criminal code is the reverse of Draconic. Only treason felony is punishable with death. For murder and other felonies "criminal exile" to Siberia has been the commonest form of punishment. The theory of the law has been that when the sentence of the "criminal exile" in Siberia had expired he would settle down on the tract of land awarded him. Russia dreamed that the convicts in Siberia would follow the example of those sent to Australia, and become in time a thriving population. The practise was different. The convicts took the land and then took "French leave." The return to Russia was not difficult, and in so vast an area it was easy for the refugees to secure concealment and sympathy. Russia never used the death penalty to deter escape from "criminal exile," thereby refusing to take a leaf from the British book.

The failure of the Russian experiment has been complete. Siberia has made great progress, but not by the "criminal exile" system. The "political exiles," men and women of superior character and ability, have developed Siberia to the point of prosperity it has attained. They would have accomplished much more had there been no "criminal exiles" to bother them by their vice and their general shiftlessness. Today "exile to Siberia" is no longer inflicted on political offenders. Those who think aloud thoughts the government condemns are sent to undergo cooling incarceration in Russia. The czar's government still possesses a power similar to that the Bourbons in old times exercised by "lettres de cachet." Its "executive decree" is sufficient to consign a political offender to prison, without trial and without appeal. So long as this relic of barbarism survives the Russian code will be viciously unlike the codes of European nations, but the progress of prison reform gives ground for hope for progress in individual freedom.

The abolition of "criminal exile" to Siberia ought to send more sunshine into the lives of the Siberians. Siberia, though but sparsely populated for its area, is by no means "a great lone land." It has a population of between 8,000,000 and 9,000,000, and at least one of its cities has passed the 100,000 mark, with others pressing it close. The schoolmaster if not exactly abroad in Russia, is becoming active. There are in the public schools of Siberia not far from 300,000 children, almost as many as are found in the schools of Russian Poland. Railroads have opened up Siberia, its products reach European marts, notably its butter, which commands ready sale. Altogether there is a boom on in Siberia, and its progress will be accelerated by the removal of the stigma which has given a region not unfair in itself a black mark in the political geography of the world.

The jurors filed into the jury-box, and after all the 12 seats were filled there still remained one juror standing outside.
"If the court please," said the clerk, "they have made a mistake and sent us 13 jurors instead of 12. What do you want with this extra one?"
"What is your name?" asked the judge of the extra man.
"Joseph A. Brainerd," he replied.

"Mr. Clerk," said the judge, "take this man back to the jury commissioners and tell them we don't need him as we already have here 13 men without brains."—The Green Bag.

Cheers Replace Grog.
For years it has been the traditional custom of the czar of Russia to drink the health of the troops after reviews and parades. Emperor Nicholas has just intimated to the minister of war that this custom is now abrogated, but that the commander of the troops is authorized to propose cheers for the czar and other members of the imperial family.

"I understand your daughter is going to marry a title."
"Yes," replied Mr. Cumrox.
"You seem rather gloomy about it."

HOW WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cleveland, Ohio—"My left side pained me so for several years that I expected to have to undergo an operation, but the first bottle I took of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of the pains in my side and I continued its use until I became regular and free from pains. I had asked several doctors if there was anything I could take to help me and they said there was nothing that they knew of. I am thankful for such a good medicine and will always give it the highest praise."
—Mrs. C. H. GRIFFITH, 7305 Madison Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

Hanover, Pa.—"I suffered from female trouble and the pains were so bad at times that I could not sit down. The doctor advised a severe operation but my husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I experienced great relief in a short time. Now I feel like a new person and can do a hard day's work and not mind it. What joy and happiness it is to be well once more. I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Compound."
—Mrs. ADA WILT, 196 Stock St., Hanover, Pa.

YOU CANT EAT APPETITE POOR

Multitudes of people lose their appetite. Simply don't care for anything to eat. The dinner bell has no interest to them. They loathe their breakfast. They may nibble a little of this and a little of that, but they do not care for it.

Lunch has lost all of its charms, although they try to eat something. Dinner about the same. There is something positively wrong, of course, but no disease that can be named. Just out of sorts. That is all.

It is in this kind of a condition that Peruna acts very beneficially. After using Peruna, interest in food is revived. Beginning with a teaspoonful of Peruna before each meal will generally quickly improve the appetite and help the digestion.

Thousands of people can testify to this. Liberated from a slavery that is almost unbearable. The slavery of having no interest in life. All used up. Yet one does not know exactly why. Take Peruna before each meal. Sides will get blue again. Fields will look green once more and life will be pleasant. You will feel that you are good for something and the world is a good place to live in. Peruna will do it. Not as an artificial stimulant. Simply a tonic that restores appetite in a natural way.

Those who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets.

HEAD OF ENGLAND'S GREAT PUBLIC SCHOOL

Eton, Harrow and Winchester are three schools of which all Englishmen are proud. One need not have been educated at one of them to feel the thrill which these names recall. To many Eton has a magic all its own. As one mounts to Upper school one reads upon the walls name after name of boys who have made history. And in that stately room in which the senior boys do congregate one notes not only names but reflections in painting and statuary of boys who became great men, who were to live to carve their names not merely in wood but in their country's story—Pitt and Fox, Fielding and Shelley not the least. This beautiful room, designed by Sir Christopher Wren, contains the busts of many of the old boys. We see the desk of a famous head master, Dr. Keate, whose name survives in Keate's Lane. Through Upper school we pass to the head master's room, and the morbid will note the flogging block.

Before entering Upper school we shall have visited Lower school, devoted to the training of the younger boys. Here also the first thing which meets the eye is another flogging block, destined for service when these same younger boys are unduly troublesome.

Eton college was founded by Henry VI in 1440, and his statue today ornaments the quadrangle which faces the chapel. That chapel was also founded by the king and was intended to be larger than, as it is in some respects a counterpart of, King's college, Cambridge. The chapel was finished in 1482, and meantime the college buildings were growing up beside it. One doorway bears date 1517, and, indeed, in Henry VIII's day much was added to the school; about this time Provost Lupton added a chapel and a beautiful tower. It was in this Henry's reign that we find the first literary schoolmaster, Nicholas Udall, who wrote the earliest English comedy, "Ralph Roister Doister."

GEORGIA'S NEW REPRESENTATIVE IN SENATE

To fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Bacon, chairman of the foreign relations committee of the senate, Governor Slaton of Georgia has named W. S. West of Valdosta, a close personal and political friend.

The new senator is sixty-five years old and while at one time a practicing lawyer, the greater part of his life has been devoted to the lumber business. He is reputed to be worth several millions. He has figured in state politics for many years, has been several times a member of the legislature and is an ex-president of the state senate. His alignment has been with the faction opposed to Senator Hoke Smith. West has been Governor Slaton's friend for a long time and is also very close to Clark Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, who might have had the senatorship, according to Governor Slaton's own statement, had he not declined the honor.

West's home is in extreme southern Georgia, close to the Florida line. His appointment will please that section of the state, which complains that it has been ignored in Georgia politics. West will hold office until his successor is elected in November of this year. He will in all likelihood be a candidate for the senate in the primaries next summer.

WOMAN WHO CLEANED PANAMA CANAL ZONE

It is predicted in Washington that "the woman who cleaned up the canal zone" will receive certain special honors from Uncle Sam.

Of course, Colonel Gorgas, one of the world's eminent sanitarians, was the man who presided over the important work of cleaning up Panama, and for his distinguished services becomes surgeon general of the United States army, but it is conceded that a woman did a most important work in intimately touch the lives and welfare of men, women and children.

She is secretary of the welfare department of the National Civic Federation. This department is composed of 300 employers throughout the United States.

In 1907, when many discontented laborers were leaving the canal, Miss Beeks made a careful survey to determine what could be done to better the general living conditions of the twenty-five thousand-odd employes. Her report was contained in 28,000 words, covering 101 details. What she revealed and the recommendations she made justified the statement made here, just before her departure, that she had "one of the most important commissions ever awarded to a woman by the government."

MIGHT HAVE HELPED.

Speaking in a Washington club the other night of overcoming difficulties, Congressman John M. Nelson of Wisconsin told of the happy thought of Little Gladys.

Some time ago, according to the congressman, Little Gladys sat watching her mother ironing some white frocks. The day was very warm and mother was rather weary.

"Mamma," finally asked the youngster, "isn't it awfully hard to iron?"

"Yes, dear," answered the tired parent, with a gentle sigh, "sometimes it is very hard."

For a moment the little girl was very thoughtful, and then came a ray of sunshine that rippled over her pretty features.

"Oh, mamma," she enthusiastically exclaimed, "wouldn't it have been fine if you had married a Chinese?"—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

Explained.

A Belfast tradesman stepped into a barber's shop the other day, and while he was being shaved the barber was wondering if this was a new customer.

"Have you ever been here for a shave before?" asked the barber.

"Yes, once," was the reply.

"But I do not remember your face, sir."

"Well, I daresay you don't," said the customer. "Ye see, it's a healed up noo."—The Shamrock.

Unusual.

The Struggling Lawyer (pompously)—Anything unusual happen while I was out?
Office Boy (after some thought)—Yes! There wasn't any debt collectors called.—Happy Hours.

Boys Allowed Latitude.

The degree of care a boy of fourteen is required to use to avoid an accident is passed on by the New York court of appeals in Jacobs vs. H. J. Koehler company, in which the court says he is required to use only the degree of care and caution common to boys of that age and not such a degree of diligence in avoiding danger as is expected of an adult under the same circumstances.

Spider Went A-Fishing.

This is not a nature fake story or a fisherman's yarn; it is an authenticated account of actual facts, reported by a minister in South Africa to London Nature. He relates how he caught a large spider whose outstretched legs covered a space about three inches in diameter. He took this spider home and placed it near his aquarium, in which he had a number of small fish. What was his surprise shortly to find that Mr. Spider was sitting up on his hind legs on the edge of the aquarium, complacently holding a little fish four times his own weight in his paws and munching away at it with great gusto. The spider continued to eat till nothing was left of the fish but the backbone.

The minister then made it a point to watch the spider and his patience was rewarded by seeing him later in the very act of fishing. The insect spread his legs out over the water in a sprawling position and waited for his prey.

Wednesday evening of next week, June 17, is the date set for the 18th annual concert and ball of the Home Benefit association. Music will be furnished by the Consolidated orchestra of seven pieces. A meat supper will be served. Further particulars on posters.

Cures Skin Troubles

"I could scratch myself to pieces" is often heard from sufferers of Eczema, Tetter, Itch and similar skin eruptions. Don't scratch, stop the itching at once with Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment. Its first application starts healing; the red, rough, itching skin is soothed by the healing and cooling medicines. Mrs. C. A. Einfeldt, Rock Island, Ill., after using Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment, writes: "This is the first time in nine years I have been free from the dreadful ailment. Guaranteed. 50c at your druggist."
