GEORGE O. JOSLIN'S NEW STORE AT CLINTON

The Former Dunham Store, Remodeled and Much Improved, Now Opened to the Public---Well Stocked Country Store

WHEN the Clinton Store was closed several months ago, the patrons and all who lived in that section of the town expressed regret that a store should be closed which accommodated so large a number of our towns people. It was glad news for these people when later it was learned that George O. Joslin, the proprietor of a large general merchandise store in Bennington, had purchased the store and all the real estate connected therewith, and after alterations and repairs were made would open it to the public with a fresh new stock of groceries and general merchandise.

With the opening of early spring the improvements were begun and with as much rapidity as possible went forward till a very short time ago when they were completed and the store was opened for business. The interior of the former store has been all changed over, partitions removed and the general lay-out is now much different and more convenient. Store-rooms were built to connect the store with the shed and barn; these are roomy, light and airy, and are needful in the large business that Mr. Joslin intends to do in this location.

The patronizing public have every reason to be thankful that Mr. Joslin has opened this store; he is a man well known by almost every person in town, having been in business for a long term of years in the adjoining town of Bennington. All who have done business with him know of his integrity and ability, and know also that he will carry the stock and goods his customers want and here they will be sure of the best at living prices.

The up-stairs has been used for a tenement since the building was erected new a few years ago and will be continued as such; Archie M. Swett is a clerk and occupies the tenement. Oscar Starrett, a nephew of Mr. Joslin, and a young man of experience and ability in the grocery business, has charge of this store. These two young men will serve their trade well, always give their patrons every attention, and will ever do their best to satisfy the wishes of every customer.

FLAG DAY EXERCISES

At Town Hall, Last Friday Afternoon, a Complete Success

APPROPRIATE Flag Day exercises were held on Friday afternoon last in the town hall, under the auspices of the Antrim Woman's Club, working with them were the Woman's Relief Corps and Molly Aiken Chapter, D. A. R.

The program included singing of patriotic songs by the audience, invocation by Rev. W. J. B. Cannell, recitations by Misses Amy Butterfield and Kate Brooks, reading by Miss Vera McClure, flag exercise by ten girls, flag exercise by Antrim Centre school, presentation of prizes by Rev. F. A. Arbuckle, reading of prize essays, and benediction by Rev. G. B. VanBuskirk. Troop 1 of the Antrim Boy Scouts had a special part on the program, consisting of a drill and salute to the flag.

A. C. Jordan of West Roxbury, Mass., a veteran of the Civil war, member of Edward W. Kinsley Post of Boston, holding the office of sergeant, was present and spoke entertainingly of his experiences in the service. He presented the school children with special buttons in commemoration of the occasion.

Four cash prizes were offered by the three societies for the best essays on flag day and its observance, written by school children; these were awarded to Misses Amy Butterfield and Bertha Merrill, Bernard and Everett Davis. The judges were the three pastors of the village churches.

Warren W. Merrill, chairman of the board of selectmen, presided. The exercises were held Friday instead of Monday, in order to give the school children an opportunity of assisting in the observance, and under instruction of the school board the last school hour of the afternoon the teachers and pupils attended the exercises.

The committees in charge have every reason to feel well repaid for their efforts, as it was a most successful and very timely event.

John B. Jameson, Esq., one of Antrim's honored young men, has resigned the position of chairman of the Democratic state committee after eight years of faithful service. Interference with his business affairs is given as his reason for retiring from further active service in this office.

"The marriage service," says Dr. Anna Shaw, "has outlived its usefulness." Very little does Miss Shaw know of marriage first-hand.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON

Given Before the Graduating Class of the Antrim High School Sunday Last

THE annual baccalaureate address was given on Sunday evening last before the graduating class of the Antrim High school, at the Presbyterian church; the address was delivered by Rev. G. Bennett VanBuskirk, pastor of the Methodist church, who took for his topic "Making Good," and for his text words found in Daniel 11:32, "but the people that do know their God shall be strong and do exploits." This address was full of good thoughts throughout and the special closing words to the members of the class were words of advice worthy of consideration. The three other pastors of the town churches assisted in the service.

The class marshal was Philip Butterfield. The church was neatly decorated for the occasion.

The graduating exercises will be held in town hall on Friday of this week, afternoon and evening, program of which appears on this page.

NERO, THE AVENGER

How Circus Lion Inflicted Just Retribution on a Cruel Trainer.

By SIGISMUND B. TAILER.
Nero had not been quite the same for several weeks. Signor Bianco, his trainer, had perceived nothing amiss. Because his eyes had lost their keenness and his brain had grown sodden and bewildered. Nero obeyed as quickly as ever, but when he sprang, at the word of command, upon his pedestal, there was a slight quivering of his sides, a lashing of his tail, which would have told Bianco a story—once. But Bianco was mad with drink and jealousy of his young wife, Minetta.

Every trainer knows that the old story of Daniel and the lions is true. The lion fears a good man more than anything in the world. But let the trainer drink or give way to any base impulse and his power is gone.

As for Majolica and Betty, they were mere kittens of creatures, hardly larger than well-grown Newfoundland. And Parsifal, the tiger, was old and toothless. Nero carried off the honors in Bianco's menagerie, and Nero was so magnificent a Nubian specimen that he would have made any show respectable.

Minetta had noticed it. So had Giuseppe. The girl had told Giuseppe, and the apprentice had warned Bianco. Bianco had laughed and sneered and cut Nero across the face with his heavy training whip. Nero retreated, growling and licking his paw; he longed to sink their needle-like points into Bianco's white flesh.

The truth was that Bianco had been beating his wife. Minetta was only nineteen and they had been married two years. Bianco was forty-five. He had found Minetta starving on her arrival from Italy to marry Giuseppe, who came from her village, and to whom she had been pledged ever since they were children.

Minetta had missed Giuseppe, for Bianco, having seen her photograph, had cunningly contrived to send Giuseppe astray. He trailed her for three days until her money was exhausted. Then he made himself known to her at her boarding house, just as she was in the act of being turned into the street.

"Giuseppe has another girl," he told her. "I am Signor Bianco. No, I do not know where Giuseppe is now. Marry me and I will hang diamonds round your neck."

Poor little Minetta, helpless and hopeless, fell an easy victim to Bianco. It must be admitted, though, that he was deeply infatuated with her girlish beauty. So they were married and lived happily three months. And then—Giuseppe came back.

Bianco had taken advantage of the raw youth's ignorance to have him shanghaied aboard a Chesapeake steamer. He had thought the life would kill him; instead of which he had grown strong. He came back to find Bianco married to Minetta.

"Pooh, that is nothing!" Bianco said airily. "I thought you had run away. It was for your sake I married her. Listen, Giuseppe, I want an assistant again. Stay with me and I will give you ten dollars weekly."

This seemed a fortune to Giuseppe. And he would have worked for nothing to be within sight of his beloved Minetta. He felt dimly that the day might arrive when he could help her.

Bianco had laughed quietly at his triumph. He felt sure that his cunning act, showing Minetta how he despised her former sweetheart, would make her despise him too. But Minetta did not despise Giuseppe.

Bianco, watching them, saw that

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Muzzey Celebrate

Monday marked the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram W. Muzzey. During the day they received several congratulatory letters and post cards, and friends and neighbors called to extend their best wishes.

A public reception was given them by their friends at Woodbury Memorial Methodist church, in the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Muzzey were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Jane Muzzey Bass, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Muzzey, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Dresser, Rev. and Mrs. G. B. VanBuskirk.

Rev. G. Bennett VanBuskirk, pastor of the Methodist church, presented Mr. and Mrs. Muzzey with a purse of money. Ex-Gov. D. H. Goodell, president and treasurer of the Goodell Co., responded in behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Muzzey. Refreshments were served. Mrs. H. W. Eldredge and Mrs. D. W. Cooley were the servers, and young ladies of the society were waitresses.

A musical program was given consisting of piano solos and duets, and a vocal solo by Rev. F. A. Arbuckle.

Hiram W. Muzzey is a native of Hillsboro, where he was born Oct. 18, 1838. After a few years he removed to Illinois, where was residing when the Civil war was declared. He was a member of the Springfield (Ills.) Glee Club, and assisted in the lively campaign which was waged for the election of Lincoln as President. This Glee Club went up and down the state of Illinois singing patriotic selections favoring Lincoln.

When the call for volunteers was issued Mr. Muzzey at once enlisted and was in the first regiment to march to the front. After his enlistment expired he returned to Antrim, but soon re-enlisted in the 18th New Hampshire Volunteers. He was granted a few days furlough, and returned here where he was married to Miss Emma M. Holdaway, of Staunton, Ills. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Morey of Bennington.

Mr. Muzzey served throughout the war, and received an honorable discharge. For nearly 50 years he has been in the employ of the Goodell Co., and still works each day at his trade. He is a member of Harmony lodge, A. F. and A. M. of Hillsboro, where he joined in 1867, and is one of the oldest Masons in town.

He is a charter member of the Ephraim Weston Post, G. A. R., serving two terms as Commander, and has filled several other offices. At present he is Senior Vice Commander.

Mrs. Emma Holdaway Muzzey is prominent in the Woman's Relief Corps, where she has for many years served faithfully and filled many offices and committee appointments. She also has a membership in the Jolly Club. One daughter, Miss Ethel Muzzey, is a teacher in the schools of Milton, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Muzzey enjoy good health, and have the respect and esteem of a host of friends and acquaintances. They have resided in Antrim for about half a century, during which they have endeared themselves to the people by countless acts of kindness, and all unite in wishing them continued happiness and prosperity.

Obituary

The funeral of Mrs. C. A. Whitaker, of Hancock, was held from the Congregational church, of which she was a member, May 22d, at 1 o'clock p.m., Rev. F. Pearson, pastor of the church officiating. Funeral director, J. E. Hadley. Bearers were James O. Buswell, G. W. Hayward, A. H. Kimball and Geo. W. Goodhue. Musical selections, "Lead Kindly Light" and "Abide with Me" were tenderly rendered by Mrs. Putnam and Mrs. Otis. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, completely banking and covering the casket, mutely testifying to the worth of the departed who was, during her long life of unassuming thoughtfulness and service to others, highly esteemed by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance or intimate association. She was laid at rest in the family lot by the side of her late husband.

Besides her four children, Mason T. and Edwin C. Whitaker of Hancock, Emilie L. Henderson of Pittsfield and Hattie J. Martyn of Keene, she leaves three grandchildren and two brothers, John D. Shedd of Fairfax Vt, and Henry A. Shedd of Worcester, Mass., to mourn her loss. Her age was 76 years, 2 months and 2 days.

Chimneys Inspected

If anyone has a chimney which is in need of inspecting and repairing before next winter, it wouldn't make us mad if you saw us at once about it. Sizemore & Cuddihy, Abbott's block, Antrim.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Sent for circulars, free.

This Kidney Remedy a Great Healer

For a number of years I was troubled with my kidneys, condition so serious that part of the time I was unable to work. Tried several remedies, also different physicians without relief. A sample of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root was left at my house. I commenced to take it and continued it until I had taken several bottles and am now cured. Am sixty-two years of age and able to work every day. I attribute my cure to the use of your Swamp-Root.

My wife also was cured by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. Symptoms were very serious, including hemorrhages, great pain and distress. I commenced giving her Swamp-Root and it was just as healing in her case. We can heartily recommend your Swamp-Root to all kidney sufferers.

Very truly yours,

Nero, the Avenger

the old love was only dormant. He knew that, though she would not have dared let herself acknowledge it, Minetta still loved Giuseppe. He dared not send him away, for he wanted to have him in his sight constantly.

He had tried in various ways to kill him. Once he teased Nero and sent Giuseppe into his cage. But Nero only crouched down at his feet. Another time he rubbed Giuseppe's clothes with catnip. Giuseppe smelled nothing and wondered why the big cats fawned around him and rubbed against him. But here, too, he escaped disaster.

Then Bianco began to beat Minetta and accused her openly of loving Giuseppe. When she denied this indignantly he struck her in the face. Giuseppe saw the bruise.

"You have hurt yourself, Minetta!" he exclaimed. "What have you done? Did you fall?"

"Yes, I fell downstairs," sobbed Minetta, shamefacedly. If she had been a little older she might not have been so frightened. But Bianco was all in the world to her; bad as the man was, she loved him because she had given herself to him.

Bianco watched her all the time. Giuseppe began to notice it. First he was indignant and thought of taxing Bianco with it. Then he waited, as is the Italian nature. No good, he knew, ever came out of evil.

Bianco drank constantly. Nero knew it. Nero was watching him as quietly as he watched Giuseppe. The climax was very near when Giuseppe saw Bianco strike Minetta through the open door of their tent.

He had been counting the receipts, but now he dropped these and, drawing his knife, rushed forward. But Bianco had gone into the lion house before he arrived. Bianco was training a new lion. Giuseppe must wait. Then he turned back, to see Minetta, scarlet, with a white weal across her face, waiting for him.

"I saw him—" stammered Giuseppe. "Yes, I saw you, too," she answered. "When he struck me this time, Giuseppe, I knew that I loved him no longer. He is a—"

"He is a devil!" shouted the young man, fingering his blade. "Minetta!"

They looked at one another and fell into each other's arms. They knew now that their two years had been fruitless; they would always love one another.

"Giuseppe, you must go," Minetta sobbed at length. "Go now, before sin come upon us."

Giuseppe fought the hardest battle of his life that moment. At last he conquered; raising Minetta's hand to his lips he walked slowly back to the collection box. He would leave that afternoon; he would never see Minetta again.

Minetta went into the lion house presently. Bianco, who seemed particularly amiable, called her into the cage. She was not loath to go; she was a better trainer than he.

Bianco caught his wife by the arm. "Minetta—dear Minetta," he said, smiling like a devil; "I saw what happened five minutes ago. Kneel down, Minetta, and pray."

Minetta knelt down and prayed, because she was docile and it seemed the only thing that she could do.

Bianco stepped toward Nero and cut him savagely across the loins. The cat leaped from his pedestal and crouched, snarling, in a corner. Bianco stepped back toward the half-open door. He took his eyes from Nero. He knew that he could reach the door and close it on his wife before Nero could spring.

He leaped for the door, tripped, and stumbled. He had fallen upon Minetta's whip, which she had cast aside. He strove wildly to rise. He saw a great shape darken the daylight over him.

It was Minetta's scream that called Giuseppe from the collection box. When he arrived he saw her beating with her little fists on Nero's face, while the lion blinked and snarled over the body of Bianco.

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT

INCREASED VALUE OF LANDS

Advance is Due Essentially to Decreased Cost of Hauling Different Farm Products to Market.

It is a matter of common observation that, when any community has passed from a condition dominated by bad roads to a condition which is characterized by good roads, land values in that community advance. It is plain that no system of good roads can directly improve the soil fertility or the quality of farms. It is equally true that good roads can and do directly improve the site value, or the value which accrues to the farm by virtue of its situation with respect to markets, schools, and towns, and the accessibility of these.

In dealing with this matter of increased farm values from a strictly economic standpoint, it has been pointed out and it is worth remembering, that where farms have advanced in value the advance is due essentially to decreased hauling costs. The advance in farm values, in other words, measures partly the increased value of the farm as a plant for the business of farming. That increment of value which is due to those things that are described as social advantages or improved social conditions has no numerical measure.

When his road is improved the landowner appreciates the improvement and frequently sets an increased value upon his land. It is difficult, however, to analyze the entire increment of value which follows good roads. There is no doubt that the cost of good roads is met by some form of taxation, which, in many instances, causes the land owners to add to the selling price of their land that amount which they estimate the good road has cost them in taxes.

This process is more distinctly observed in city property transfers, where direct assessments for sewers, sidewalks, and pavements are invariably added to the original cost of the property. The important point that is becoming more and more understood by land owners is that good roads require a considerable investment of capital, and furthermore that such an investment is a paying one. Here are a few instances of actual conditions which have been observed in various parts of the country.

In Lee county, Virginia, a farmer owned 100 acres between Ben Hur and Jonesville, which he offered to sell for $1,800. Two or three years ago this road was improved, and although that farmer fought the improvement, he has since refused $3,000 for his farm. Along this same road a tract of 183 acres was supposed to have been sold for $6,000. The purchaser refused the contract and the owner threatened to sue him. After the road improvement, and without any improvements upon the land the same farm was sold to the original purchaser for $9,000.

In Jackson county, Alabama, the people voted a bond issue of $250,000, for road improvement and improved 24 per cent of the roads. The 1900 census gave the value of all farm lands in Jackson county as $4.90 per acre. The selling price at that time was from $6 to $15 per acre. The last census gives the value of Jackson county farm lands as $9.79, and the selling price is now from $15 to $25 per acre.

The price of farm land, like that of any other commodity, is ruled by the relation between supply and demand. When the price of farm land advances it measures a readjustment between the supply and the demand. This readjustment, in some cases, is sharp and immediate. One distinct item of increased values is becoming more evident from year to year; that is, immigration into the rural districts where road conditions are favorable especially is this true with regard to owners of automobiles. There are repeated instances of this kind in New England and those states which have been active in improving their roads.

HE WAS QUITE COMFORTABLE

Prisoner, Who Had Just Become Accustomed to Every Luxury Not Pleasured When Granted Pardon.

"I have great news," said the chaplain to the warden. "Prisoner 1177, in the condemned cells, has been granted a pardon. He should be told of it at once, but it should be done gently. Joy might kill him. Will you call him or shall I?"

"I'd better do it," said the warden. "I know him better than you do."

So the warden told prisoner 1177. He broke it gently, but there was a shock.

"A pardon?" screamed the convict. "A pardon? Oh, surely this is some cruel jest! I cannot believe it! What—a pardon for me, just as I have become accustomed to every luxury? Women send me flowers, philanthropists send me books, the guard lets me have tobacco, nobody makes me work. For once in my miserable life I am happy and comfortable—don't say I am pardoned. Oh, it would kill me! Have mercy!"

But it was true. The law is inexorable. This poor wretch was obliged to leave the comforts of his cell and face the cold and cruel world again. There is no mercy in the law. And yet they call this a Christian nation! —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Exclusiveness Explained.

"The Declaration of Independence states that all men are born free and equal, I believe."

"Something of the sort."

"Then why do you hold yourself above other folks?"

"My dear man, I'm descended from one of its signers."

It is erroneous to think that the great leaders of the financial world persist in their labors merely for the sake of acquiring money. Rather, they have got themselves into the game of active life, and they do not know how to exist outside of it.

Once there was a man who thought Russell Sage ought to stop work. He spoke to him about it. "Why get together any more money, Mr. Sage? You can't eat; you can't drink it. What good will it do you?"

"Ever play marbles?" Uncle Russell asked.

"Yes, when I was a boy."

"Couldn't eat 'em, could you? Couldn't drink 'em, could you? No use to you, were they? What did you play marbles for?"

Envid Omnipotence.

Freddy was 5 years of age. He had attended Sunday school for but a short time, and with childish curiosity asked questions. One day his father took him to the ball game, and little Freddy, his eyes shining brightly, asked: "Can God do anything, pop?" "Yes, my son," replied his father. Freddy was quiet for awhile. Then said: "If God was playing ball he would never get out, would he?"

Wife—What's this—a new box of cigars? Didn't you swear off smoking?

Hub—Certainly! That's why I bought this box; I'd be crazy for a cigar if there wasn't one in the house.

"I don't like the policy of your paper," protested the reader. "You should have more convictions."

"Oh, no," protested the editor of the yellow newspaper. "What we are after are more acquittals."

Useless Trouble.

"My son, learn early to acquire and constantly practise the habit of independent thinking."

"What good is all that trouble when you get married?"

MRS. WINN'S ADVICE TO WOMEN

Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and be Restored to Health.

Kansas City, Mo.—"The doctors told me I would never be a mother. Every month the pains were so bad that I could not bear my weight on one foot. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and had not finished the first bottle when I felt greatly relieved and took it until it made me sound and well, and I now have two fine baby girls. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly for what it has done for me. I always speak a word in favor of your medicine to other women who suffer when I have an opportunity." —Mrs. H. T. WINN, 1225 Freemont Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

Read What Another Woman says:

Cumming, Ga.—"I tell some suffering woman every day of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it has done for me. I could not eat or sleep, had a bad stomach and was in misery all the time. I could not do my housework or walk any distance without suffering great pain. I tried doctors' medicines and different patent medicines but failed to get relief. My husband brought home your Vegetable Compound and in two weeks I could eat anything, could sleep like a healthy baby, and walk a long distance without feeling tired. I can highly recommend your Vegetable Compound to women who suffer as I did, and you are at liberty to use this letter." —Mrs. CHARLIE BAGLEY, R. 3, Cumming, Ga.

TO DESTROY FLIES

Maggot Trap Possible Solution of the Fly Problem.

United States Department of Agriculture Makes Successful Experiments That Should Be of Interest to Health Officers.

Washington.—A trap to destroy the maggots of the typhoid or housefly before they develop into winged insects is a possible solution of the fly problem and one that should interest health officers, sanitarians and others who might make use of it on manure heaps where this common pest breeds. The department of agriculture's scientists in their preliminary experiments with such a trap have succeeded in destroying from 70 to 99 per cent of the maggots in a pile of manure. This method of attack differs from those which have been generally used. Fly poisons have been made to tempt the appetite of the adult fly, or fly-tight receptacles have been used to keep the adult female from laying her eggs in manure. The newer method is based on the knowledge of certain habits of the undeveloped fly maggot.

The maggots of the typhoid fly, it has been discovered, have a habit of migrating from their breeding places into drier portions of the manure heap. This seems a distinct move on their part to permit the adult fly to issue from the refuse in the easiest and quickest manner. The efficiency of the new trap is based on the regularity of this deep-seated habit.

A large galvanized iron pan, measuring five by three feet, with sides four inches high, was made. In this stood a container on legs eight inches high. This container measured four by two by two feet. The sides and bottom were of heavy wire, one-fourth-inch mesh, supported by a light wooden framework. Twelve cubic feet of manure well infested with eggs and larvae were placed in this container and sprinkled with water. Water was also poured into the pan below to the depth of about one inch. Surrounding and covering both pan and container was a fly-tight inclosure made of a large cage, six by six by six feet. This prevented further infestation of the manure, and an arrangement of traps at the top of the cage made it possible to capture and keep a record of any flies that might emerge. At the time for the emergence of flies the sides of the cage were darkened with black cloth in order to drive the flies into the traps at the top. Each day the maggots were collected from the pan and counted, and each day the manure in the container was sprinkled thoroughly with water and the pan was washed out and again partly filled with water to drown the larvae which fell into it.

The experiments of the department's entomologists showed that from 98 to 99 per cent of all the maggots in the manure pile were destroyed, if the manure was kept moist. From comparatively dry manure about seventy per cent were destroyed.

These experiments, as yet, have been tried only on a comparatively small scale. The question immediately arises whether the trap which appears so successful on a small scale can be adapted to the handling of manure in a practical way on a large scale. Every consideration points to the probability that it can and that it will afford "an additional weapon of great value." However, the final verdict as to the value of the maggot trap must wait upon the solution of certain practical problems. To point out some of these here is to suggest lines for further investigation.

(1) In the first place, there must be determined what form, size and construction of trap will give the best results. The answer to this will depend largely on the particular conditions obtaining at any given stable, such as the amount of manure produced daily, the arrangements for drainage, etc. It will also depend on the answer to the following problems:

(2) How deeply may manure be heaped in a trap without interfering with the migration? It will probably be found that the depth will make little difference, provided that the manure is kept moist, and provided that avenues of escape are afforded at the sides as well as at the bottom.

(3) How long must manure be kept in a maggot trap before it is entirely free from larvae? This is a very important question from a practical standpoint, and one will find scant suggestion as to the answer in the literature on the life history and habits. The housefly breeds preferably in horse manure, but it has never been determined just how long a given lot of manure continues to be an attractive place for egg laying, nor for how long a period fly larvae will continue to appear in it. It is obvious that the maggot trap would not be practical if the infestation of the manure were daily renewed for a long time. Under ordinary conditions the drying of the surface of a heap of manure probably limits the period of egg laying to the first day or two of exposure. But in a maggot trap the manure must be kept wet in order to insure the greatest amount of migration. Would not such a moist surface be daily reinfested and maggots continue to appear in the manure as long as any fermentation were in progress? As a matter of fact, the period of infestation appears to be rather short, and even under the most favorable conditions maggots will rarely be found in a given lot of manure after ten or 12 days' exposure. In support of this claim some experimental data may be given here.

(4) The disposal of the maggots is another practical consideration. If the larvae were allowed to drop to the ground they would burrow into it to pupate there and nothing would be gained. It would be necessary to have some sort of vessel, e. g., a concrete basin, beneath the trap. This should have vertical sides and contain an inch or more of a weak disinfectant or of water covered with a film of kerosene oil. If such a basin were connected with a sewer or cesspool the maggots collecting in it could be flushed out each week without the necessity of handling them in any way and without any offensive decomposition.

That the maggot trap possesses certain advantages is obvious and ought to lead to many attempts to develop it along practical lines. Cheapness would be one of its strong points. Practically the only cost would be the initial one for the construction of the trap and of a basin or receptacle for catching and disposing of the maggots. Very little additional time or labor would be required in operating it. The sprinkling of the manure would be a very small part of the daily routine of removing the manure from the stables. Proper arrangements for the disposal of the maggots would require only a few minutes' attention at long intervals.

WARNS AGAINST FIRE.

Post cards cautioning forest users in the Appalachian region against setting fires in the woods have recently been sent by the federal forest service to residents in the vicinity of the forest areas which have been purchased by the government.

These post cards state that burning of the woods does not improve the grazing, and does not exterminate poisonous insects or animals. On the other hand, the cards say such burning injures the grazing value of the land by killing off the better grasses, by decreasing the fertility of the soil and by increasing the possible damage to the ground, and its covering of vegetation, from frost, sun, wind and rain. Furthermore, they state that burning injures the timber, impairs its merchantability, and lowers its selling price; that it increases insect damage by weakening the vitality of the trees and affording an entrance for insects through fire scars; and, in addition, that it kills out the young trees which are just getting started.

For the reasons enumerated, it is announced that no grazing will be allowed on the government lands which have been recently burnt, the rule being enforced in order to give the range a chance to recuperate from the effects of the burning. The effect of this prohibition will be to close certain areas against grazing; therefore, fires set through a mistaken notion that they will improve grazing will curtail the forage resources.

The cards further ask co-operation of all forest users in the prevention and control of forest fires.

A Tender Question.

"Do you think you could get his shoes?" asked the anti to a suffragist when they were speaking of a certain official.

"Why not?" was the reply.
"Oh, I don't know that you can't; he wears No. 9's, I believe."

His Pleasure.

"I suppose your husband gets a great deal of pleasure out of his garden."

"Yes, indeed. He goes out every evening and finds fault with what the hired gardener has done during the day."

All Off.

"My dear, a burglar fired a revolver at a Boston man and the bullet struck a button, thus saving his life."

"Well, what of it?"
"Only this. A man could shoot at me with a shotgun and never hit a button."

By Way of Demonstration.

"So you are going to adopt the fashion of wearing colored wigs?"
"No," replied Mrs. Leedwell. "I shall give a party at which they are worn, merely for the sake of demonstrating that they are too absurd to become fashionable."

Don Hercules!

For Service.

Here is a chance to breed to one of the Best Percheron Stallions in New England.

Don Hercules, No. 71855, is 4 years old, sound, good disposition, handsome as a picture, weighs 1600 lbs., is bred way up in the purple; 8 red crosses on Sire's side and 11 red crosses on Dam's side. Register papers and pedigree can be seen at stable.

We have been very careful in selecting this Stallion to get one of the best that could be bought, regardless of cost. Breed your good Mares and raise some horses that will sell from three to five hundred dollars each; the country is short of this kind of horses and there is always a market for them.

The regular service fee for this kind of Stallion is $25, but to advertise Don Hercules and make it an object for every farmer to raise a nice pair of horses, we will make the fee $15 to warrant, $5 payable at time of service, balance when Mare proves in foal. All Mares disposed of are considered in foal, and fee is payable at once. All Mares bred at owner's risk; Colts held for fee. Stable board $2 per week. Visitors welcome!

Also have a French Coach Stallion for service.

Call us on the phone to make arrangements for breeding, as it might save waiting.
