HILLSBORO 2, ANTRIM 1

The Ball Game Saturday Was Closely Contested and Interesting

The fifth in the series of eight games between Antrim and Hillsboro was played here Saturday and Hillsboro won, 2 to 1. The game was close and exciting during the entire nine innings, and several exhibitions of classy fielding and pitching were displayed.

Lynch, of Antrim, and C. Scruton, of Hillsboro, were matched as pitchers and both did good work, particularly Lynch who struck out nine and allowed but five hits. C. Scruton was easily found for seven bingles, two of which were two batters, and he only secured four strike outs.

The visitors scored in the first and Antrim in the second. Until the seventh there were no further runs on either side, although two magnificent throws by M. Cuddihy made an error of judgment and attempted a throw to catch the runner off first. This seemed to be the signal for a series of bone plays, as the ball was thrown around the bases just too late to catch anybody and the visitors scored the winning run.

Cota, of Hillsboro, made several nice catches in the centre field which looked good for at least a single. He is credited with eight put outs during the game.

The umpiring of Harry Whitney was most satisfactory and the crowd present at the game witnessed a contest which was very interesting and, with the exception just noted, it was a fine specimen of the national sport.

Henniker plays here this week Saturday. This is the only game scheduled in Antrim with Henniker.

CUTS PROFITS OF EMPLOYER

Practice of "Sabotage," as Employed by Dissatisfied Workmen, Said to Have Begun in England.

Sabotage, a method of "direct action" advocated by syndicalists and by the Industrial Workers of the World in this country, means, briefly, doing one's work with intentional incompetency. Although the word is of French origin, and the system owes its adoption as an organized method to the action of French laborers, sabotage is said to have been first practiced by English workmen, who called it "Ca' canny," a Scotch phrase meaning "Go slow." It has been described as "striking without leaving the pay roll," the workman who practices sabotage simply turns out bad work, continues to annoy his employer and decrease the value of his employer's output, without actually "going on strike." There are many different kinds of sabotage, from the "open-mouth strike," in which the employee takes pains to inform the public of any adulteration, weakness or dishonesty in his employer's methods, to the actual wrecking of the machinery, which may result in injury and loss of life; of course there are ways of being careless in every industry. Several suggestions have been made as to the origin of the word, which is obviously derived from the French "sabot," but it probably means to go clumsily "as one wearing wooden shoes." The accent is slightly on the first and last syllables, but is nearly even: The first "a" is pronounced as in "at," "o" as in "go," and the second "a" is broad; "g" has the soft French sound of "j." It is interesting to note that the socialist party has gone on record as opposed to sabotage, along with other forms of violence.

COMRADE HOWARD

Enlisted When 12 --- Will Play at the Movies.

In addition to the usual five reels of motion pictures at town hall this week Saturday evening, the management is pleased to inform the public that Harry E. Howard, a veteran of the Civil War, will render a part of the entertainment.

Mr. Howard was a drummer boy through the War and has since played in nearly every state in the Union. Last week he returned from a year's trip to California, British Columbia, and thru all the western states. He returns with new acts and will give the people of Antrim an excellent opportunity to hear the old-time bugle calls, imitation (on the drums) of an express train, a battle, and other specialties.

Many of our people will remember hearing this veteran give entertainments at Grange hall within the past few years and will be delighted at another chance of hearing him.

The veterans of Ephraim Weston Post, G. A. R., are specially invited guests to hear Comrade Howard.

With the usual high-class show of motion pictures and the specialties of Comrade Howard, a genuine treat is in store for all.

Plan to be at town hall, Antrim, Saturday evening of this week. Come early and get a good seat! Show will positively start at EIGHT sharp. adv.

"COON" ADOPTED KITTENS.

A large raccoon, mistaking an open door at the home of William Clayton of Murphy, N. C., for an invitation to walk in and make herself at home, went on an exploring expedition and found a basket of kittens which it adopted, after chasing the mother cat away.

When Clayton returned home he hunted for the kittens, and in feeling under the bed he felt a sharp, stinging sensation. Investigation revealed the raccoon, with the strange brood at its side. Clayton declares the animal can stay as long as it behaves and exerts no evil influence over the kittens.

RARE EXPERIENCE.

"I would like to pay a bill," said the caller.

The doctor looked at him curiously for a moment. "Are you quite sure about that?" he asked.

"Why, of course. Here's the money."

"Thanks. I'll write a receipt for you. Pardon my question. You are the first person who ever told me that he would like to pay a bill."

CARRYING IT OUT.

"Chinamen are as alike as two peas."

"Even to having the same names."

CANDIDATES COME TO SURFACE

The Hot Weather May Have Something to Do With Their Early Advent

Hon. Albert W. Noone of Peterboro has announced himself a candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket; he is generally known throughout the state and will doubtless make a large run for the nomination.

The name of John B. Jameson, Esq., of Antrim and Concord has been favorably mentioned for the high office of governor on the Democratic ticket; he has many friends here who would be pleased to have such an able young man as chief executive of our state, and if he were a candidate it would be a great pleasure for them to vote for him. Antrim and surrounding towns have a reputation for loyalty in this respect.

Hon. R. W. Pillsbury of Manchester has had some experience in running and is now considering the advisability of announcing himself a candidate for the governor nomination on the Republican ticket.

Hon. James French of Moultonboro is being encouraged by his friends to allow his name to be used for governor on the Republican ticket; the place he has enjoyed was the legislature, and watching the "strong box" has been his fort.

Of course it is early yet and many other good names are likely to be brought forward; there always have been lots of candidates and this year will be no exception.

Franklin is having a Merchants' Week, and other cities and also towns have held like occasions for the purpose of stimulating trade. Success is invariably reported as a result. Why wouldn't it prove a good thing for Antrim to have such a week?

Our hay makers are having rather a hard time harvesting their crop this year, even if it is not much more than half a crop; the weather is somewhat catchy.

Tested and Proven

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months Antrim readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. What other remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit?

Mrs. Catherine Cives, 76 N. Spring St., Concord, N. H., says: "I was in bad shape as the result of weak kidneys. I suffered greatly from a heavy ache in my loins, which always got worse after the least exertion. I also suffered from headaches and dizzy spells and I tired easily. Doan's Kidney Pills completely cured me. Others of my family have taken this medicine with good results."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that cured Mrs. Cives. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. adv.

NEWS OF THE GRANITE STATE

Noone Again to Be Candidate for Governor DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION Bill Prepared Which is Satisfactory to Leased Lines, But Has Not Been Accepted by S. & M.—Other News.

Peterborough.—Hon. Albert W. Noone, former councillor and candidate for governor in the last campaign, has just issued a statement in which he announces that he will again be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. In his announcement Mr. Noone says: "Having just returned from a trip into every county, during which I have conferred with voters in each section, I believe I have succeeded in obtaining a comprehensive idea of their sentiments. People in every part of the state have volunteered their support and urged me to become a candidate, saying they have faith in the policies for progress and efficiency which I advocate and believe I am the logical candidate to lead the Democratic ticket."

Concord.—Several conferences have been held between officials of the leased lines and those of the Boston & Maine, and it is now announced that a bill has been prepared which is satisfactory to the leased lines, but has not been accepted by the Boston & Maine. The permissive features are practically the same as the Massachusetts bill, but this goes farther and requires the Boston & Maine to make a stock assessment of $50 a share. This has caused a temporary hitch, but it is expected in case this is agreed to, or something else satisfactory it will be presented to the governor by a committee representing the various interests.

More Correspondents Found. Portsmouth.—What is expected to be the most sensational divorce case ever tried in this state is scheduled for trial in this city August 30. A libel for divorce brought by Mrs. Florence B. Cowles against her husband, Dr. Edward S. Cowles of this city, was followed by a cross libel by the doctor in which he named two prominent gentlemen as co-respondents. Mrs. Cowles has now filed an amended libel in which, in addition to the nurse named in the first libel, she names three more women as co-respondents. She also charges her husband with many acts of gross cruelty. It is stated that several episodes in the doctor's career will get pretty thoroughly aired at the trial.

Salem Fair Grounds are Sold. Exeter.—By a deed which was sent to be recorded Saturday the Rockingham Fair company conveys all its real estate and personal property at Salem to Edward F. Searles of New York. The grantee assumes all indebtedness of the company. The consideration is not stated but revenue stamps to the amount of $125 are affixed to the deed. Mr. Searles will be remembered as the wealthy summer resident of Windham not long since who increased the valuation of the town into the millions, and which caused the recent trouble over the state tax.

Killed on Crossing. Whitefield.—Lee Hanks, aged 40, of this town, was instantly killed on a Boston & Maine crossing five miles from St. Johnsbury early Saturday morning when his team was struck by the Portland & Montreal express. He was returning from Willoughby where he had purchased the team, and it is thought he was asleep when the accident happened. The horse was killed. Mr. Hanks was a farmer and horse trader, and leaves a wife and two children.

Losses Both Legs. Nashua.—While attempting to board a train at Cummings Depot, Me., Friday night, George Brandon, 35, of this city, slipped and the wheels of two cars passed over both legs. He was taken to a hospital at Dover and made as comfortable as possible.

Get an Extra Week of Idleness. Manchester.—The Amoskeag Manufacturing company has given notice that the annual August shut down will begin on Saturday, August 14 and continue until Tuesday, September 7. This is a week longer than usual. The company employs 17,000 operatives.

Veteran Editor Dies. Portsmouth.—Lewis W. Brewster, a veteran editor, printer and historian, died Saturday at the Wentworth Home of cerebral hemorrhage. He was born in this city, June 30, 1830, and entered the printing office of his father when 16 years old. He retired from the printing business in 1903, being then hailed as the pastor of the New Hampshire press. He was a member of the legislature in 1911 and 1912, being the oldest member of the house.

Arson Suspect Taken to State Hospital. Concord.—On July 8 a set of buildings was burned at West Milan and a Mrs. Stone and her child perished in the flames. Later John Walker was brought into court at Berlin charged with arson, and was held in $2000 bonds. Since he has been in custody Walker's actions have been such that a doubt of his sanity has arisen, and he was taken to the state hospital here Friday, where he can be kept under observation. It is said that since his arrest he has tried to commit suicide by beating his head against the walls of his cell.

A Joy Ride and Its Results. Manchester.—Joseph W. Raymond and three companions, one a woman, were out for a joy ride around the midnight hour one night last week, which ended suddenly and disastrously when Raymond drove the machine across the lawn and brought up against the verandah of Clifton B. Hildreth, police inspector. The quartet were at once placed under arrest, but later Raymond's three companions were allowed to go. In police court he received a fine and costs amounting to $2950, and given 30 days in jail additional.

Concord Boy Goes with Harry Thaw. Earl Templeton of this city has been invited to accompany Harry Thaw on his auto trip across the continent when he visits the Panama Exposition. Templeton is but 17 years old, and when Thaw purchased an auto while he was staying at Gorham last summer went up to instruct Thaw how to run it. Thaw conceived a liking for the young man, and he will drive his auto across the continent for him. He left the city for Pittsburgh Friday.

Concord Church Burns. Concord.—The First Methodist church about the time the fire fire Saturday night. People near heard a crash of glass and saw a burst of flame, and the structure was doomed. It is said that some one was seen running away from the church about the time the fire was discovered, and the police think it was incendiary. It was built in 1831, and the loss is $25,000. The pastor is Rev. Horace Blake Williams.

Rather Expensive Milk. Nashua.—Among the victims in police court Friday was Frank Moran, who was charged with trespass and milking a cow on the Lorton farm. He stoutly denied that he ever saw the cow, but a fine of $5 and costs was imposed. Rahma Demore, an aged woman from Lawrence, who has been in the habit of coming here and selling goods from a suit case, was also in court on a charge of peddling without a license. She was fined $50 and costs.

Put Her Baby in Suit Case. Berlin.—Miss Elizabeth A. Ogie, aged 30, of this city, was arrested in Portland Friday. She had put her 3-days-old infant in a suit case, and going to the station bought a ticket for Dover. The infant was found in an unconscious condition, but was revived. A bottle half filled with chloroform was found in the dress suit case with the infant with which she told the police she used to quiet it when it cried.

Pleads Guilty to Entering. Dover.—John Hayes, who claims Boston as his home, was arrested in Portsmouth Friday for the police of this city who wanted him on a charge of breaking and entering the house of James Sunderland. He pleaded guilty, saying he was intoxicated when he committed the robbery, and was held in $400 for the September term.

Had Three Ribs Broken. Epsom.—While helping a fellow workman load some tiling in Concord one day last week a tile slipped and fell, striking Herbert Little of this town on the back, breaking three ribs and inflicting other injuries. The injured man was taken to a local hospital where he is resting as comfortably as could be expected.

Not All Dead Yet. Concord.—An automobile called at a local garage Saturday for a supply of gasoline and lighted a match to see how fast the tank was filling. He was not killed by the consequent explosion, and the fire department saved the garage.

Still Cultivates His Garden. Concord.—Addison S. Martin celebrated his 91st birthday Friday by walking down town and attending to his usual duties. Mr. Martin cultivates a fine garden, and carries his years as lightly as many men 20 years younger.

Distribution of Trout and Salmon Fry. Plymouth.—Commissioner Frank J. Beal states that 5,000,000 trout and salmon fry have been placed in the waters of the state thus far this season, and that 2,000,000 more will be distributed during the month of August.

Daily Thought. Age asks with timidity to be spared intolerable pain; youth, taking fortune by the beard, demands joy like a right.—Stevenson.

WEEK'S NEWS BY TICK AND FLASH

What interests the World Chronicled by Telegraph and Cable. GLANCE AT FOREIGN AFFAIRS Washington Looms Large as a Center of Interest—Legislatures Busy in Many States—The Lights and Shadows of the News.

War Bulletins Before evacuating Windau the Russians applied the torch to the city and harbor works. The greater part of the city was destroyed. A French offensive in Alsace resulted in sharp fighting and a slight advance. Artillery duels occurred in Artois, in the Argonne, between the Meuse and the Moselle, in the neighborhood of Esparges and in the forest of Apremont.

So confident are the Germans that Warsaw, the Polish capital, will fall, that plans have already been made for the Kaiser and Kaiserin to lead the triumphal entry of the Teutonic forces into the great city. The Russian torpedo-boat flotilla in the Black Sea destroyed at one swoop 69 Turkish sailing vessels laden with four near Sebastopol.

Thirty-eight French aviators bombed the station of Conflans, in Carnay, an important junction. Three shells of 155 millimetres each and four of 90 millimetres fell directly on the station. Field Marshal Sir John French reports that after exploding a mine east of Ypres, the British troops occupied 150 yards of the German trenches. Since then the ground won has been consolidated.

Windau, in Courland, was captured by the Germans, who are advancing toward Riga; this movement in the Baltic provinces rendering the Russian lines to the south still more insecure. Austro-Hungarian troops crossed the Bug north of Sokol, and forced a passage of the Volzta river in the Grabovetz district.

German and Russian communications agree that the German forces are at the Windau River, near Goldingen, which is only 80 miles from Riga, the great strategic commercial metropolis of Poland in the Gulf of Rega.

Washington

The final word of the government in the Lutistiana case warns Germany that any further infringement of the right of American citizens will be regarded as "deliberately unfriendly." Jane Addams conferred with President Wilson, giving her views of the war as she learned them in confidential talks she had with many high officials of Europe.

Ira N. Morris, American minister to Sweden, who is home on leave of absence, conferred with Secretary Lansing and President Wilson. Ten thousand dollars in currency arrived at the Treasury Department in Washington to be placed with the "conscience fund." Five government departments have under consideration the report that German submarines have a base off the Maine coast.

President Wilson appointed Joseph W. George of Yazoo City, Miss., United States attorney for southern Mississippi.

French hospitals have asked the American Red Cross for drugs, disinfectants and clothing for nurses and surgeons. German and Austrian prisoners in Siberia have requested clothing and medicine. A million dollar order for heavy motor trucks was received by the Gramm-Bernstein Motor Co. of Lima, Ohio, from a European belligerent, believed to be Russia.

Ira Nelson Morris, American Minister to Sweden, conferred with President Wilson and then left for Chicago where he will undergo an operation before returning to Sweden. Property franchises and all rights of the Wabash Railroad, a $220,000,000 corporation, were sold at auction to the Joint Reorganization Committee of the creditors of the railroad for $18,000,000 in St. Louis.

A contract for a $1,000,000 tanker, with a carrying capacity of 75,000 gallons, was awarded to the Union Iron Works by the Union Oil Co. of San Francisco. An official of the British Admiralty declared that 95 neutral ships have been destroyed by the Germans during the war.

More than 10,000 auto trucks, valued at $22,000,000 have been sent to France and England since the war began. Messages from Vienna state that bank deposits for the first six months of 1915 increased $34,750,000. Profits of American manufacturers on war orders are estimated at $800,000,000 by a Chicago bank.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN CRIED

Suffered Everything Until Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

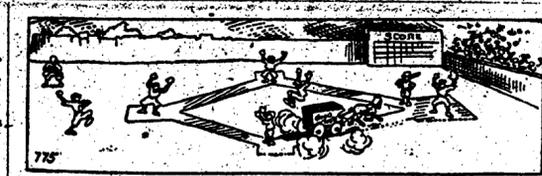

Florence, So. Dakota.—"I used to be very sick every month with bearing down pains and backache, and had headache a good deal of the time and very little appetite. The pains were so bad that I used to sit right down on the floor and cry, because it hurt me so and I could not do any work at those times. An old woman advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I got a bottle. I felt better the next month so I took three more bottles of it and got well so I could work all the time. I hope every woman who suffers like I did will try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. F. W. JANSSEN, Box 8, Alyn, Wash.

GREAT ENTERTAINMENT

A Prominent Citizen Will Stand as Defendant in Breach of Promise Suit.

For some time the entertainment committee of Antrim Board of Trade have been looking for an entertainment that would be refined, instructive, exciting and fun provoking, and at length have found it in the form of one of the great Mock Court Trials which has created such a sensation in very many of the larger cities of the country. Crowded houses and delighted audiences have been the rule wherever they have been given, while the leading newspapers have given them more frequent, extended and favorable reports than any entertainments of a local nature have usually received.

The entertainment will be given under the auspices of the Antrim Board of Trade in the Antrim town hall on Friday evening, August 6, under the personal supervision of its originator, Col. A. V. Newton of Worcester, Mass. It will be assumed that one of our prominent citizens has paid more or less attention to a young and beautiful widow of this town but at length as he has seemed to lose interest in the matter she has brought suit with a view to obtaining damages for her fractured affections. In other words he is charged with breach of promise.

A large number of our well known people will take part in the proceedings and there will be fun without limit. Let all remember the date of the great Mock Court Trial.

EAST ANTRIM

Frank Chester, from Springfield, Mass., is stopping at Riverside Farm. Frank Brockway and wife, from Hillsboro Upper Village, were at Maple View farm Thursday.

Dr. Bugbee, veterinary, of Keene, was at Mt. Campbell farm Thursday on professional duties.

Mr. and Mrs. Rokes are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur of Fairhaven, Mass., were at the Nylanders last week and on their return took home their little boy who has been boarding at the Nylanders.

Miss Lula Young is at the Rokes for a season.

A full house at Mt. View now; thirty there over Sunday.

Morton Dickie is spending his vacation in Whitman, Mass.

Wallace Cooley, of the village, is staying at Mt. View farm.

One of the guests at Mt. View House had an interesting experience last Wednesday. While strolling about Sunnyside Farm, he stepped backwards into a deep hole, which had been concealed by leaves and underbrush, and was extricated with great difficulty by the ladies of the party, who were attracted to the spot by his loud cries for help. Fortunately no bones were broken and except for a slight limping gait the doctor is quite himself again.

Misses Emma and Alice Baeder have returned home after a two months' visit in Massachusetts.

NORTH BRANCH

The service Sunday was conducted by Rev. Stephen Brownell with a good attendance. Sunday school immediately following, in which much interest seems to be manifest.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Caughey had friends from Waltham, Mass., for the week end.

Robert Crosbie is at Bide-a-wee for a few days.

W. H. Toward's nephew, Percy Toward, of Worcester, Mass., is visiting with him for a season.

Harrison Parker is at his home here for a season.

A very enjoyable dance was given at The Hillside Thursday evening, with a good attendance.

Will Smith and nephew, Stanley Daniels, were callers at the Wheelers Sunday.

Abner Wing, Fitchburg, Mass., visited with his father, Benj. B. Wing, a few days last week.

Mrs. Levi Kidder and daughter, Florence, are visiting with her daughter, Mrs. G. F. Lowe.

E. W. Estey had a narrow escape from a serious accident last Saturday. As he was mowing with a pair of horses the bit broke, letting the head stall back on the horse's head. With the aid of A. L. Cunningham, who was near, they succeeded in stopping the horses before much damage was done.

Mrs. Jeanette Falkner and friend, Miss Evelyn Menchin, are at W. H. Linton's for the summer vacation.

W. K. Flint, at the Flint Farm, lost a valuable calf of acute indigestion the past week.

The Towards have recently had electric lights installed in their house.

There was a very enjoyable whist party Saturday evening at Bide a wee cottage, the summer home of Mrs. Hutot. Four tables were played. Refreshments were served and all present enjoyed the evening.

There is a good number of boarders at the Hillside and more coming.

A gathering of North Branch residents met at the home of W. H. Toward Friday evening for the purpose of creating interest in forming a social club. Quite a number responded to invitations, but thinking more should be interested than were present it was voted to postpone the matter for the present. Refreshments were served after which whist was played.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dread disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

About Advertising

It costs money to advertise in a paper of circulation and influence in the community. Every business man who seeks to enlarge his trade, recognizes the fact that advertising is a legitimate expense. It is not the cheapest advertising that pays the best. Sometimes it is the highest priced newspaper that brings the largest net profit to the advertiser.

Barnum's Frankness.
On one occasion Barnum had an elephant engaged in plowing on the sloping hill where it could plainly be seen by the passengers on the New Haven and Hartford railroad, an agricultural innovation that he knew would get notice of some sort in every newspaper in the country.

It was even said that he received letters from farmers far and wide asking how much hay one elephant ate, and if it were more profitable to plow with an elephant than with horses or oxen.

His replies were invariably frank, and were of this purport:
"If you have a large museum in New York, and a great railway company sends trains full of passengers within eyeshot of the performance, it will pay, and pay well; but if you have no such institution, then horses or oxen will prove more economical."

One Way to Lengthen Life

Late in life, when the organs begin to weaken, the hard-working kidneys often take the first. Falling eyesight, stiff, aching joints, rheumatic pains, lame back and distressing urination are often due only to weak kidneys. Prevention is the best cure and at middle age any sign of kidney weakness should have prompt attention. Doan's Kidney Pills have made life more comfortable for thousands of old folks. It is the best recommended special kidney remedy.

A Massachusetts Case

Enoch Anderson, 910 Pleasant St., Fall River, Mass., says: "I was wracked by back and aching joints for years from kidney trouble. I couldn't stoop over and at one time was sick abed for three weeks. I got as weak as a child and lost fifteen pounds in weight. While in this critical condition, I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured me. The trouble never returned and I am today in good health."

The Captain's Wishes

By H. M. EGBERT

(Copyright, 1915, by W. G. Chapman.)

"O don't mind father. He's partly deaf, you know, Elise, and he doesn't take much notice of things. Give us that recitation again."
Captain Paul's daughters were having an afternoon party in the house on the hillside, overlooking the sea. The Captain had retired with a competence ten years before, but it had been heartbreaking work, and half a dozen times he had lost all in shipwrecks and started life again. And his wife had not lived to see the prosperity which at last came to him as the result of a successful whaling adventure.

The Captain sat dreaming on his porch most of the time, staring out at the sea. He did not hear the young people in general, but he had heard Myra's words.
"I guess I'm old and done for," he said to himself, a little bitterly. "Well—I'm glad they won't have to struggle along as Mary and I struggled for years."

He thought of their life in the little seaport cottage, of his months-long absences at sea, of the lonely woman who cared for the home and babies when he was gone, of those homecomings, sometimes with fair prosperity, often with nothing.

The bitterness of life had eaten into his soul when he was a young man. Now, in old age, he had nothing to enjoy in life.

"I wish—" he muttered to himself. And it seemed to him that the smoke from his pipe curled in a curious, hazy wreath that filled the air and obscured his vision.

And out of the wreath emerged a woman's form—a beautiful woman with something in her eyes that he at once soothed and awed him.

"Captain Paul," he fancied he heard the woman say.

"Aye, aye, ma'am!"
"Keep your seat, please. I am no human woman. I am the Smoke Goddess who comes to old men sometimes."

Out of the Wreath Emerged a Woman's Form.

"You shall have any wish you desire. More, you shall have three wishes. Choose."
It seemed so real to the Captain at the time that he at once began wishing.
"Well, ma'am," he said, "I wish that I could be a young man again, thirty years back, and—"
Captain Paul rubbed his eyes. To his amazement he found himself seated upon the porch of a very different house. At first he did not recognize it; then he remembered that it was his cottage on the Rhode Island shore. Something black on his breast attracted his attention. It was his beard, which he had worn long in those days, and it was jet-black in hue.

Instead of a pipe he was smoking a Burmese cheroot.

A tired woman came to the door. "I don't know what we're going to do, Alfred," she wailed, and he recognized his wife Mary. His impulse was to seize her in his arms; but yet it seemed so natural to him to be seated there that he almost forgot she had been dead so many years.

"Bob's worse," she said.
Bob was the baby who had died. The Captain had never forgotten him, but he had been dead so many years that he had placed him in that part of his mind where we store up our bitter-sweet memories that are too painful for thought.

"And the doctor won't come until his bill is paid," the woman wept. She fell upon her knees before him. "Alfred, what are we going to do?" she cried. "I'll have to go and work for Mrs. Symonds, and—put the children in the institution again."

Captain Paul remembered now. He had just returned from an unsuccessful voyage, his partnership in the little boat ended when she sank in the Bay of Bengal. He had been shipped home penniless, and he had gone on a freighter as a common hand the following day.

"When he returned the baby had been dead three months. The Captain was dimly aware that Bob was going to die."
"Mary!" His voice quavered as he put his arms about her. "I'll sail a ship tomorrow. —O God! I wish I had a million dollars."

"The wish had broken spontaneously from his lips, but immediately the scene changed. The wish had referred to no period of his life; consequently the scene in which he found himself was one which he was unable to recognize.

He was seated in the library of a magnificent house in a seaport town. The door opened and he heard girlish laughter in an adjacent room as the butler respectfully placed a box of cigars before him and a tray containing a bottle of gin and seltzer water. The man withdrew, cat-footed. Captain Paul heard the voice of his daughter Myra in the drawing-room.

"Yes," she was saying, "of course papa makes me ashamed of him. If he hadn't made that fortune in the China trade and got his head turned he would have been a very respectable old man for his station. But he's—well, Mrs. Jones-Frothingham says he is insufferable. And so unrepresentable."

"It must be a great trial for you, Myra," murmured his daughter's friend.

"It keeps my heart in my throat every time anybody comes to dine," cooed Myra. "He eats his peas with a knife! And he tucks his napkin into his collar! Isn't it dreadful, dear! And of course the best people in Freeport are not coming to visit us because he behaves like that. I wish he'd die—that's what I wish."

Her voice broke down and she began to sob. "He's a disgrace and a nuisance," she declared. "I wish—I wish—I wish he had never made that million dollars."

"You can't improve his manners, dear," asked Myra's friend.

"Improve a cur's manners!" snuffed Myra, dabbing at her eyes. "He doesn't know what manners mean. And the worst of it, he doesn't know he can't behave. Only the other day he told Mr. Jones-Frothingham that they'd go out together sometime on a—Oh, I can't say the vulgar word, Elsie."

"Tell me, I may have heard it," said Elsie. "One can't help picking up things, you know."

"A bat, Elsie. He meant a drunken amusement of some kind, I know. And he drinks gin instead of whisky, dear! He might as well be a temperance man, which is almost as vulgar."

The captain was at first petrified by hearing his daughter's words, but presently his calm came back to him. That was not Myra. His daughter and he had always been the best of friends and companions, in spite of a little thoughtlessness on her part toward him.

"You can't make me believe that, ma'am," he said to the fairy, who had somehow remained in the vicinity, invisible though she was. "That isn't Myra. It's a dream you're giving me."

"Choose your third wish, then," said the fairy curly.

"In a moment, ma'am," answered Captain Paul.

"Why not now?" asked the fairy.

"Because this is mighty good liquor, ma'am," replied the captain, "and I guess when you take this dream away you'll take the drink away with it."

And, chuckling over the trick which he had played the fairy, in return for her own, the old man slipped his gin highball thoughtfully conscious of a fuming, baffled presence at his side.

"Now, ma'am," he said, when he had finished, "I'm going to make my third wish. But I'm going to think hard before I make it, seeing as it's my last. I'm not going to get tuckered away in a hole for the rest of my days. If I was to wish what's in my mind—mind, I'm only saying it, not wishing it—I'd wish to be a young man of twenty-five, handsome and better educated than any man I've ever seen, with Mary at my side, just married to me, and a house and land and a yacht and an automobile, and nothing to do, and a dozen butlers and servants, and Mr. and Mrs. Jones-Frothingham competing for the honor of filling my pipe with Latakia Grade 1, and a fine cellar of old wine with cobwebs on the bottles, and—and—traced his attention. It was his beard, which he had worn long in those days, and it was jet-black in hue.

"I'm thinking, ma'am," replied the captain. "I wish—I wish—I wish just the thing that is best for me."

Captain Paul opened his eyes and started up. He was seated upon the porch of the little house that still in his hand, though he must have been asleep. In the smoke coils he thought he saw the disintegrating form of the fairy.

"Darn it! If I didn't wish myself home again!" he said thoughtfully.

"Think, then," said the fairy harshly.

"I'm thinking, ma'am," replied the captain. "I wish—I wish—I wish just the thing that is best for me."

ENEMY OF APPLE TREE

Woolly Aphid One of Most Serious of Insect Pests.

New Significance Put Upon Economic Status of Elm Curl by Entomologists of Maine Agricultural Experiment Station.

The discovery that the woolly aphid migrates from elm leaf to apple is a most important one.

For more than 100 years the woolly aphid has had world-wide recognition as one of the most serious insect enemies of young apple trees. Statistics based on observations made at three nurseries containing respectively about 30,000, 45,000, and 300,000 trees, showed that from 20 per cent to 25 per cent of the trees were infested by the woolly aphid. As from twenty to forty million of American-grown apple seedlings are used in this country every year, the significance of so high a percentage of infestation is at once apparent.

It is, therefore, with no slight interest that the entomologists of the Maine agricultural experiment station have been seeking to ascertain a previously unknown point in the life cycle of this pest, and have made the discovery that this cycle includes three generations which are passed in what is known as the "elm-leaf curl." The disfigured and curled leaves of the elm in the spring are everywhere so familiar as the woolly masses on the apple bark, but the elm generations have not previously been known to have any connection with the apple pest, and it has all along borne a distinct name.

But the discovery of the annual migration of a fresh infestation from the elm to the apple and the knowledge that the elm generations are an essential portion of the life cycle of the woolly aphid of the apple, and that this species cannot continue without access to the elm, put a new significance upon the economic status of the elm curl.

PREPARATIONS FOR HAY CROP

To Get Best Quality of Alfalfa It Must Be Got Into Mow or Stack Immediately After Being Cut.

Don't overlook the fact that in order to get the best quality and most marketable alfalfa hay it must be got into the mow or stack as quickly as possible after it is cut.

Give all the machinery in connection with the putting up of this crop a thorough overhauling. Look over the mowing machine; see that everything is ready. See that all the sections are securely riveted on the sickle. Have all the sickles sharpened before you start to work. If the plates on the guards are smooth it will pay to take them off and grind them; a good edge on the guard plates is very essential.

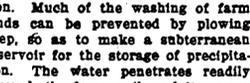

The stacker rope should be given careful attention. A considerable quantity of hay may get wet if the stacker rope gives out after a few loads go up and it is necessary to go to town for a new one. Get all these things in shape in advance, that the work once started can be pushed to the limit.

PREVENT WASHING OF SOILS

Frequent Crops of Clover or Grass Which is Plowed Under, Making Soils Spongy, is Best.

(By E. H. FRANKLIN.)
One of the gravest problems of the farmers of today who are living on hilly lands is how to prevent soil erosion. Much of the washing of farm lands can be prevented by plowing deep, so as to make a subterranean reservoir for the storage of precipitation. The water penetrates readily through the loose soil, and its movement through the underlying soil is very much slower than over the surface.

Frequent crops of clover or grass which are plowed under make the surface soil spongy with humus and retard the washing of the soil. All hilly lands liable to wash should have a cover crop during the winter. A warranty deed will not keep the soil of the careless farmer from washing away.

points and fold back to make a straight line. (Fig. 4). It now opens in a small box. These may be filled with rich soil and placed side by side, thus keeping different varieties of seeds or plants separate. This also saves buying pots, for when transplanted the paper can be torn off and the roots of the plant remain undisturbed.

FENCES MADE VERMIN PROOF

Birds Require Protection From Various Natural Foes as Well as From Human Persecution.

Protection is the prime requisite for increasing the number of birds in any area, and the results of protection are in direct proportion to the amount given. Besides insuring birds against every form of persecution by human kind, we must defend them from various natural foes. The most effective single step is to surround the proposed bird sanctuary with a vermin-proof fence. Such a fence should prevent entrance either by digging or by climbing, but will serve its greatest use if it cannot be climbed, and is therefore cat-proof. It is impracticable to build an impenetrable fence, the next best device is to put guards of sheet metal on all nesting trees and on poles supporting bird houses. This should be done in any case where squirrels or snakes are likely to intrude, as it is usually impracticable to fence out these animals. Tree guards should be six feet or more above ground. Attacks by hawks, owls, crows, jays, or other enemies are best controlled by eliminating the destructive individuals.

STAKE AND PRUNE TOMATOES

Habit of Plant May Be So Altered That Patch Is Scarcely Recognizable—Moisture is Saved.

Are you staking and pruning the tomatoes this year? This is a great scheme, and if you have not tried it, do so on a demonstration scale just for variety's sake.

The tomato plant, in its frantic efforts to reproduce its kind, makes naturally an enormous vine growth with innumerable branches. The result is great green growth, a large litter of little tomatoes, and more shade than is good for best fruit development. Stake a tomato plant and prune it to a single stem, and you change all this; you alter the habit of the plant, so that the tomato patch is scarcely recognizable.

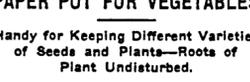

In the first place there are few leaves, only one above each fruit bunch, and this grows so huge that it is never known for a tomato leaf. Then the sun and light reaches every part of the plant and fruit, and the latter hang in clusters and attain larger size than under natural conditions. There are no little tomatoes. There is a considerable economy in space, as the tomato plants stand up straight and slender, and are mostly fruit, and none of the tomatoes have a chance to rot or mildew. Pruning is a quite a job. As a sufficiency of moisture in the soil is what largely controls the fruit yield, the pruning method, by which a much less amount of soil water is consumed than through the more luxuriant green growth of unpruned plants, will be found a great advantage in this respect.

PAPER POT FOR VEGETABLES

Handy for Keeping Different Varieties of Seeds and Plants—Roots of Plant Undisturbed.

Very convenient little pots for vegetable plants may be made from paper flour sacks or any tough paper.

Cut a piece eight inches square and fold through the middle diagonally. (Fig. 1). Fold in right hand corner over to left hand edge, like an envelope. (Fig. 2). Then fold the left hand point over in a corresponding manner. (Fig. 3). Separate the Handy Paper Pots.

Put Mites to Flight. Creolin, or any of the numerous disinfectants made up largely of it, will put mites to flight. To treat the roosts and interior of the hen house with this or a similar disinfectant, take an old shoe brush and fasten it on to a sawed-off broom handle, then apply the liquid with this homemade brush.

Rye as Chick Food. Rye is an excellent chick food, but in summer the chick that is penned will relish lettuce and Swiss chard more than rye. One can sow these thick. Cut in small bits and the chicks will soon clean up the pile of green stuff.

POULTRY FACTS

FREE POULTRY FROM VERMIN

Lousy Chicks or Turkeys Are More Apt to Be Affected With Gapes or Some Other Ailment.

Chicks are growing fast these days and lice are also making rapid growth. The most essential thing at this season is to keep young poultry free from lice. They cannot thrive with vermin sapping their strength, and lousy chicks or turkeys are more likely to be affected with gapes, or some other ailment.

In looking for lice examine the little wings and around the vent. Between the long wing feathers of the little Leghorn chick or young turkey is a favorite hiding place for lice where they sap the life from the little birds until they haven't enough strength to hold up their wings. For head lice on chicks, or the ticks that prey on young turkeys look upon the neck, pushing back the feathers carefully until you reach the top of the head. A little pure lard or sweet oil on the head, neck and wings and around the vent may be used to advantage, but too much will kill the lice and chicks both.

One can make his own insect powder after the following recipe: One pint of gasoline, two-thirds of a pint of crude carbolic acid, stir thoroughly into five pounds of fine road dust, let dry for an hour and put in an airtight receptacle. This powder is death to head and body lice and harmless to chicks and poults. Try to be careful when using any insect powder—see that none gets in their eyes. Dust the mother hen when you turn her out in the morning. If this is done at night the dust gets into the eyes of the chicks and makes them uncomfortable. Some say the powder getting into the eyes will cause blindness.

MILK FOR GROWING CHICKENS

Indiana Station Expert Finds Its Use Quite Valuable in Aiding Digestion of Other Foods.

W. B. Anderson of the Indiana experiment station has carried through two tests to determine the value of skim milk for growing chickens. In the first test two lots of chicks, consisting of ten Plymouth Rocks and ten Houdans, were fed all they would eat of a mixture of crushed corn, bran and ground oats, 2-1-1.

Both lots were also fed cracked bone, cabbage and lettuce, and the amount of these articles consumed is not recorded.

The two lots received the same treatment except that lot 2 was given all the skim milk they would eat in addition to the grain ration.

The test was continued for eight weeks. Lot 1 consumed 179.8 pounds of grain, and the average weekly gain per chick was 2.62 ounces. Lot 2 consumed 217.3 pounds of grain and 90.4 pounds of skim milk, and the average weekly gain per chick was 4.48 ounces.

The conclusion drawn was to the effect that the use of the milk was very profitable, as it aided in the digestion of the other foods, resulting in increased consumption and faster growth.

This test was duplicated during the summer with practically identical results, and we may assume that skim milk, whenever available, is especially valuable for growing chicks.

SHOULD NOT HAVE MOVED

Story of a Man Who Was Making Good, but Roving Fever Got the Best of Him.

On May 4th, 1915, the St. Paul Farmer's Dispatch contained a very interesting account of the experiences of a man from Staples, Minn. Realizing that he was not making much headway, he decided to look up a homestead in Canada. With $250 he and his wife took up a homestead near Outlook, Saskatchewan. After recounting his experiences of a few years, in which they had undergone hardships which were likely to be unavoidable, with a small amount of capital, he continues the story by stating that in the fall after a fair summer's work on his 100 acres cropped, he cleaned up nearly all his debts, having now four good horses, a complete set of farm machinery including two wagons and a "Swell" top buggy and eleven head of cattle. He continues, "However, I was not satisfied. I had been reading of the splendid homesteads that were to be had in Montana. Wheat was cheap and I thought it would get cheaper, so I began to think that homesteading as a moneymaking proposition was better than farming.

I did not stop to consider that wheat was not the only thing; as a matter of fact I had sold pork for 14 cents a pound. Eggs and butter had kept us in groceries and more, we had now four milch cows, two heifers coming in and more growing up. We had a cream separator, and some hogs. We had a quarter section of land that could raise an abundance of small grain, roots and grass for feed, but I could not see all that; I had the 'moving' fever, and decided to sell.

I set the price on the land at $3,000 cash. I could not find anyone with that much money, however, so I came down until I finally sold for $1,400.

We had an auction and sold the personal property. On the sale we got just about enough cash to pay the auctioneer; the rest was all notes.

The horses brought about two-thirds what they were worth. The implements sold for hardly one-third of what they had cost. The cattle brought a good price.

We must make another start. We now have a homestead in Montana, but we find that after moving here and getting settled, what money we had did not go far. We have three horses, about all the implements we need, and a little better buildings than we had on our former place. We have no cattle, though we had to build much fence to keep ranch stock out of our fields. We have about $500 worth of honest debts.

True, we have a half section in place of a quarter, but that is no good to us, as long as we have not the capital with which to work it.

In summarizing it all up I see where I made my mistake. It will take fully five years to get into as good circumstances as we were before we made the change. It is five years lost.

My advice to anyone contemplating a change of location is to think twice before you act, and if your present circumstances are not too bad, 'stay by your bush till you pick it clean.'—Advertisement.

SYNOPSIS.

Hall, Bonistelle, artist-photographer, prepares for the day's work in his studio.

CHAPTER I—Continued.

Hall laughed jeeringly. "Can't he! You don't know Uncle John! He was the most unmitigated bore that ever breathed. Talk about cranks! He never did approve of me—too 'artistic.' And I was fool enough to try to be independent. Result, I have to take photographs for a living. Why, Flodie, he's just as likely to have left me a dime with a hole in it, and let it go at that!"

Flodie sighed in sympathy, and said: "Well, those bills must be paid in any case! And there's just seventy-seven cents in the cash box!"

"Good Lord, is it as bad as that? Well, we'll have to collect a few bills in a hurry." Hall appeared to dismiss the subject.

But Flodie was not to be dismissed. Well she knew his procrastination. "They're all collected, Mr. Bonistelle!" she protested; "every last one! You can trust me to attend to that! And I've had to sit up and beg like a French poodle, too!"

Hall, walking back and forth, seemed not to be listening, but suddenly he turned to his assistant with a queer expression. He walked up to her and put his hand on her shoulder.

"See here, Flodie, have you taken out your salary regularly every week? Now, don't you try to fib!"

Flodie tried to pull away but it was too delicious. "Oh, I don't know," she mumbled. "Not for two or three weeks, perhaps. That's all right." Now it was she who caught hold of his arm.

"But I wanted to tell you something, Mr. Bonistelle—if you wouldn't mind—if you just let me—"

"What?" he demanded suspiciously. "Oh, only—if you'd be willing—really I'd like to, you know—you know I've saved up a little money, Mr. Bonistelle—and, well, it might help you temporarily—till you could—"

Hall threatened her with savage playfulness. "Flodie Fisher," he said determinedly, "if you ever dare to mention such a thing to me again, I'll—I'll discharge you!" He took a turn up and down the room as she waited, watching him. "By jove, it does look as if I'd have to go to work!" Then he turned to her gloomily. "Well, anything else for this afternoon?"

"No," said Flodie, "but you have to develop and print, you know. There's lots of work for you in the dark room. And then, we've got to get ready for that expensive old party."

Hall scratched his head. "Heavens, I'd forgotten all about it!"

"Of course you have, but I haven't; I've attended to everything. Music, caterer—and decorations—furious old nonsense it was, too. I don't see how you can afford it, Mr. Bonistelle. Really I don't!" Flodie was very stern.

"It's business, Flodie—keeps the women curious. Makes 'em talk! Oh, well," Hall tossed it off his mind. "We'll get along somehow. Well, run along, Flo, now; I suppose I've got to get ready to preside at this altar of vanity. Good Lord! How I dread it! Flo, I honestly believe a photographer knows more of the actual truth about women than a doctor or a priest!"

Flodie gave him an indulgent smile. "Mr. Bonistelle, I want to tell you something. All three of them put-together know mighty little!" So saying, she gave him a prim curtsy and retired to the office.

CHAPTER II.

Hall laughed and then stood thoughtful for a few moments, smoking airily, blowing rings. Then he took off his dressing gown, put on his coat, and had turned to his camera when Flodie came back.

"There's a desperate old flirt out there to see you, Mr. Bonistelle—Mr. Doremus."

"Doremus?" Hall searched his memory. "What does he look like—a bill collector?"

"No, he's just a nice old man with a side-whisker effect, trimmed with a gold chain in scallops, and he stares at you over the top of his glasses." Hall sighed. "Well, have him in. I'll settle him!"

Mr. Doremus, grave and precise, looked about for a chair, and sat down deliberately. He searched in the inside pocket of his frock coat as he said pompously: "H'm. I took the first opportunity to communicate with you, Mr. Bonistelle. Unluckily, however, I could not get you on the telephone this morning." Still his hand groped in his pocket, like a dog at a woodchuck's hole.

"No?" Hall remarked impatiently. "I suppose I wasn't up."

Doremus brought forth a long envelope. Solemnly he spoke, looking over the top of the rubber bow: "Mr. Bonistelle, I have the honor of being the attorney for the estate of your uncle, the late John Beasley Bonistelle."

A mental thunderbolt struck the room, and Hall, shocked and frightened, could only gasp: "Er—is there any news about the will, Mr. Doremus? Here, have a cigar!"

Doremus looked up and nodded gravely. "Yes, the will has been found, Mr. Bonistelle, at last!" He tapped the paper in his hand. "It was discovered this morning at eight twenty-seven o'clock. You see I have been prompt, sir."

Hall restrained an overwhelming curiosity. "Where did you find it?" he asked faintly.

"Ah, curious. Most curious. An eccentric man, your uncle, Mr. Bonistelle. It was found in his library. In fact, if you will believe me, between the leaves of his own book—I mean, of course, the one he wrote himself—'Race Suicide and How to Prevent It. I believe it is called. I have not yet had the pleasure of reading it.'"

Mr. Doremus stopped, and gave the young man a steady inspection. "I understand that you will be twenty-eight upon the fourth of May, Mr. Bonistelle. Am I correct?"

"Yes, tomorrow. Why?"

Mr. Doremus solemnly held up his hand. "Wait!" he commanded. "Let me, before I go through the whole document, read this one clause."

Flodie, peeping through the door, was breathlessly listening. Hall was growing white.

"Er—here it is," Mr. Doremus proceeded to read soberly. "The residue of my estate I leave to my beloved nephew, Hall Cutter Bonistelle, on condition that he is married before he reaches the age of twenty-eight years."

"Oh, I knew it! Well, it's all up then—just my luck!"

"If, however, at the beginning of his twenty-eighth birthday he is still unmarried, this residue shall be the property of my beloved cousin, Jonas Hassingbury, as a testimony to our youthful friendship." Mr. Doremus looked up.

Hall was scowling. "Let's see it!" he demanded, and he took the instrument, and read the clause over to himself, while Mr. Doremus' eyes drifted slowly about the apartment. "How much will the residuary legatees receive?" Hall asked weakly.

"I Took the First Opportunity to Communicate With You."

"Oh, upward of four millions, I expect," said Mr. Doremus with unctuousness. "And I lose all that, just because I'm a single man!" Hall dropped, limp and gloomy, into a chair.

Mr. Doremus bowed soberly. "Your uncle held strong views, Mr. Bonistelle. He firmly believed in marriage. He thought it a duty. He maintained high ideals for the future of the race."

"Oh, for heaven's sake!" cried Hall, "I know all about that. Didn't Uncle John talk me to death on the subject? Why didn't he get married himself?"

"An unfortunate love-affair, I understand, prevented his putting his own theories into practice," said Doremus. "I think—mind, I do not say so positively—but it is possible that, had you—knowing, you understand, his peculiar theories—"

"Acted accordingly?" said Hall. "Married on the chance of becoming his heir? Bright idea! But it's too late now. Lord!"

"It is, as you say, too late, practically, I presume," Mr. Doremus remarked, "but, legally, I must remind you that the time has not yet expired. You have until midnight, you understand, in which to qualify for the inheritance. Much has been done in fourteen hours, Mr. Bonistelle."

"Fourteen hours!" Hall repeated. "Why, fourteen days would be little enough time. You can't put a thing like marriage through on a time schedule, you know, can you?"

"I confess I do not know," said Mr. Doremus, rising.

Hall sat in a brown study, regarding his boots, as Mr. Doremus prepared to leave. Flodie, her eyes bright with excitement, slipped back into the office.

Mr. Doremus deposited the paper upon the table. "Well, I shall leave you this copy to inspect at your leisure. You may not be aware that I am a justice of the peace, Mr. Bonistelle. I shall be quite willing to accommodate you, should you find a bride. I think I could perform as creditable a ceremony as any clergyman—at half price!" He chuckled at the idea.

Hall, in no mood for jest, rose and followed him. "Where's Cousin Jonas—Mr. Hassingbury?" he asked. "Lord, he ought to be a happy man, about now!"

Mr. Doremus paused. "I took the first opportunity of telegraphing to Mr. Hassingbury," he said, "informing him of the provisions of J. B. Bonistelle's will. I requested his immediate appearance in town, and I have no doubt that he will arrive here some time during the day."

"Think of that old hypocrite getting all that money!" Hall exclaimed. "Lord it makes me ill—he'll be a thousand times more disgusting than ever, with his religious bosh and his charity talk!"

Mr. Doremus lifted an eloquent finger. "As an executor, you understand I must preserve an attitude of strict impartiality," he admonished. "At the same time, in my private capacity, I confess that I am on the side of youth. Four millions—ah, one could indulge one's youthful dreams!" He shook his head sentimentally. "Si la jeunesse savait, si la vieillesse pouvait!"

Hall watched him, half-amused. "Say, Doremus, you're all right!" Mr. Doremus was looking over his shoulder to get a glimpse of Flodie. Hall had an idea. "I say," he suggested, "why not come around here tonight, and we'll have a wake over my lost inheritance. I'm giving a small party, you know, just a few of my clients, and an actress or two—"

"Well, well! It might remind me of old times," Mr. Doremus offered his hand. "I think I shall come. It may renew my youth. Ah, Mr. Bonistelle, you might not believe it, but I've waited at the stage door myself, in my time!"

"I'll bet you have, old sport! and got away with it, too," said Hall, laughing. "Come along, then, I'll set them on you!"

"But meanwhile, don't forget that I'm a justice of the peace!" Mr. Doremus gave Hall a poke in the ribs, grinned, bowed and went out, with a youthful smile at Flodie as he flourished through the office.

No sooner was the door shut than Hall Bonistelle exploded. "Well, Flodie, it's all up! It's back to the farm for mine! Isn't that just my luck!"

A lively hope had blossomed in Flodie's heart. She was pale and trepid. "I couldn't quite hear," she answered, dissembling; "what was it?"

"Four and a half million dollars gone to the devil just by a fuke—that's all! By jove, it's an outrage!"

Flodie stood twisting her hands nervously. "You don't mean you're going to let that—?" Flodie stopped just in time; her mind had run away with her lips. "Oh, Mr. Bonistelle, I mean you don't mean that mean old Jonas Hassingbury's going to get that money?"

"Yes, confound him! The psalm-singer's holier-than-thou old hypocrite! Four millions, Flodie! Think of it! Good Lord, isn't it ferocious? And if that will had only been found when Uncle John died—but Lord, what's the use of talking. He walked doggedly back into the studio, and gave a vicious swing to his camera."

Flodie Fisher followed him in, then stood looking at him pensively. She spoke slowly, softly, deliberately. "Why don't you go ahead and get the money, Mr. Bonistelle?"

"Get the money? How?"

"Why, get married!" Flodie turned suddenly crimson.

"Why, who in the world would have me?"

Flodie swallowed down a lump in her throat. "Oh," she said, "I'm sure there's some nice girl who'd be so proud to marry you, Mr. Bonistelle!"

"Well, I don't know how I'm to find her—and I've got deuced little time to look. Why, do you realize that I've only got till midnight to do the whole thing in?" He went up to her. "And do you imagine that any woman would want to be married in that way?"

"Oh, when you're in love, it doesn't matter how soon—"

"A hurricane wooing, eh? By jove, I wonder—" He stared at her with a new light in his eyes. "Say, you really think I could get away with it! Why, I never—"

"Oh, you could do anything, Mr. Bonistelle. I'm certain you could!"

"Do you know of any woman who'd have me—that quick?"

Lightning strikes.

The city of Turf is occupied with the task of reorganizing the public lighting on a modern basis, and not less than $400,000 will be employed for this purpose, the work to be carried out from 1914 to 1916. According to the plans, arc lamps will be used in all the main streets and avenues, also the public squares, while smaller streets are to be lighted by incandescent lamps. Flaming arcs in closed globes will be used. About 3,000 lamps of 2,000 candle power each will be installed. In some places incandescent lamps are used, some being of the 5,000 candle power type, and the rest of 100 or 200 candle power. These are much better than the present gas lamps, which give only 50 candle power. Current for the whole system comes from the municipal electric station.—Indianapolis News.

THE ANTI-ETHIOPIAN

Four Universal Characteristics

By REV. E. B. SUTCLIFFE
Assistant Superintendent of Miss. Moody Bible Institute of Chicago

TEXT—For we must needs die, and are as water spilt on the ground, which cannot be gathered up again; neither doth God respect any person: yet doth he devise means, that his banished be not expelled from him.—II Sam. 14:14.

This is part of a woman's plea to King David to have Absalom restored after he had been driving out for his crime against his brother. It speaks of four universal characteristics found in every sinner.

1. A universal need—"We must needs die." From the day of birth to old age each step of the way is a step toward the grave. "It is appointed unto man once to die" has been true of the whole human family. Various schemes and various ways have been tried to disprove this but the grave continues to receive its due. However strong and however great, one universal end awaits us for "we must needs die."

2. A universal condition—"We are as the water spilt on the ground which cannot be gathered up." We were innocent when we were born, but alas, how quickly the innocence was destroyed. We were helpless to retain it. A few days in the forgotten time of our early childhood and then it was as water spilled out. The fresh innocence of the morning quickly died away and we became in deed what we are in nature, sinners. We could not avoid the spilling out as water and we were helpless to gather it up again. Once lost it was lost for good and try as we might to forget and try as we might to turn over the new leaf and begin again, each attempt just tended to show us the helplessness of all effort. All have become guilty, and all are helpless to get rid of that guilt. We are as water spilt which cannot be gathered up again.

3. A universal standing—"neither doth God respect any person." God judges all alike in respect of sin. One may be great in this world and another may be unheard of, but before God they stand on the same platform as sinners. One might be learned and another ignorant but it is in respect to sin that they come before the Lord. One may be a good man and tell the Lord about his fasting and his praying without any recognition of his sinfulness, and he has less favor with God than the poor publican who merely stands and pleads for mercy. They are both sinners there, for there is no respect of persons with him. This would make the case of sinners to be hopeless were it not for the fact that that which is impossible to man is possible to God.

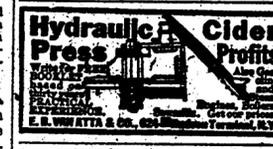

4. A universal opportunity—"He doth devise means that his banished be not expelled from him." When man sinned and automatically put himself away from God, the God he had sinned against immediately set about devising means to have man brought back to him. "God commended his love towards us in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us." It was God who began the work of redemption, not man. The first movement was from God's side. He it was who provided the precious blood of the Lamb of God, the only means for putting away sin, for "without the shedding of blood there is no remission," as the Bible declares from cover to cover. Not only must the sin be put away, but the sinner must be cleansed, and here again we remember the word that "the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin." The justice and the holiness of God are upheld and vindicated by the blood and a way made open for the sinner, the banished one, to be brought back to God. The blood meets every objection of the law and every objection of the devil and admits the one who was banished back to the Father's house. The Lord himself does this that "His banished may be with him." "Go so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son, that whosoever believeth on him might not perish but have everlasting life." The redeemed sinner can now sing of him who "loved and gave himself for me."

God has done all he can to have the banished one back with him and all that remains is for man to accept his terms and come to him without fear. The work is all finished and finished in such a way that God can be just and yet the justifier of him that believes in Jesus. And Christ says: "Him that cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out."

Trust in God. All virtue consists in having a willing heart. God will lead you as if by the hand, if only you do not doubt, and are filled with love for him rather than fear for yourself.—London.

HIS WIFE'S NAME OMITTED

Considerably Depreciated the Value of the Book Containing Speeches of Greatest Talkers.

"Sir," said the sleek-looking agent, approaching the desk of the seeking man and opening one of those folding things—magazines showing styles of binding. "I believe I can interest you in this massive set of books containing the speeches of the world's greatest orators. Seventy volumes, one dollar down and one dollar a month until the price, $680, has been paid. This set of books gives you the most celebrated speeches of the greatest talkers the world has ever known, and—"

"Let me see the index," said the meek man.

The agent handed it to him, and he looked through it carefully and methodically, running his finger along the list of names.

Reaching the end he handed the index back to the agent and said: "It isn't what you claim it is. I happen to know the greatest talker in the world, and you haven't her in the index."

The Great Trouble. Apropos of a seashore divorce, Mayor Riddle of Atlantic City said: "The great trouble is that so many husbands, when they meet an old flame down here on the wind-swept beach, insist on being moths."

They All Do. Jinks—I'm taking it easy now. Blinks—Out of a job? Jinks—No; got a political job.

YOUTH HEADS BIG CONCERN

Youngster of Fourteen in Charge of Corporation Which is Well on Its Feet.

Russel Monbeck, a fourteen-year-old Dayton (O.) boy, is president of the Boys' Box Furniture company, incorporated under the laws of the state. It is a co-operative organization, numbering among its stockholders 23 boys, ranging from ten to seventeen years.

The company operates from 4 to 6 p. m. daily and the company products are chairs, music racks, piano benches, writing desks, flower boxes, bird boxes and other light articles, for which it finds a ready sale.

The profits are divided up at the end of the year on a basis of the number of hours worked by each boy. Last year the 23 stockholders divided nearly $9,000.

The capital stock is one dollar a share. Some of the boys are anxious to buy more stock, but the rules of the company prohibit it.

Young Monbeck has systematized the producing and selling ends of the business.—Cleveland Leader.

Beating the Bakers. "Oh, I am almost tired to death!" said the woman who spends half her time addressing club meetings. "Our political economy club has been in session all day passing resolutions and drawing up petitions demanding a law regulating the price of bread. Only think! Three dollars' worth of flour costs, when baked into bread, $13. It's outrageous. We'll soon all be bankrupt. The bakers must be made to feel the power of the law. You should have been at the meeting."

"I couldn't come, I was too busy," said the calm-faced woman. "Busy on a club day? What on earth at?"

"Baking bread," said the calm-faced woman.—New York Times.

The Female of the Species. "Look, dear, at that bird in yonder tree. How clear his song notes! He's been twittering happily for over an hour."

The husband looked up from his paper, but not at the bird.

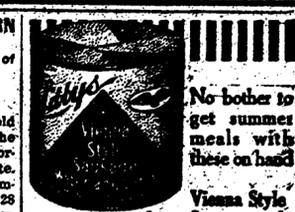

"I wish you'd understand one thing," he said. "When you hear a bird twittering don't make the mistake of referring to it as 'he.' The twitters are invariably the woman birds."

Charity. "I hates dese suspicious guys," said the panhandler.

"What have dey been doin' to you now?" asked his friend.

"A gink gives me a dime dis mornin' to git somethin' to eat, and den he follers me into a restaurant and watches me spend it."

Tired of Him. He—I always pay as I go. She (yawning)—I don't think you'll ever become a bankrupt.—Judge.

The Meter's Record. A representative of the gas department called on a householder and intimated that he was afraid something was wrong with the meter. From the official point of view, of course, meters can only show one fault, and the symptom which had cast suspicion on this meter was that it had registered less during the quarter than in the corresponding part of the previous year. But the lady of the house has a convincing explanation of the decline.

"You see," she said, "my daughter was engaged last winter. She got married in June."

The official, who was evidently a parent himself, was quite satisfied, and the meter left the court without a stain upon its high character.

Mean Disposition. "Before engaging rooms in your house," said the bachelor, "I want to know if there are any families with crying babies staying here."

"I'm afraid there is," replied the landlady; "but we—"

"Well, I was just going to say," continued the other, "that if there are, I want you to put me in the room next to theirs. I want to wake up in the night and hear their trouble, so that I can congratulate myself again that I'm not married."

WHALE MEAT A GOOD FOOD

Being Used for Frankfurters in Denmark, and is Said to Be Highly Nutritious.

Frankfurters made of whale meat are getting to be quite the thing in Denmark, according to Einar Tahricksen, a mechanical engineer of Tonsberg, Norway.

Mr. Tahricksen came to America to study ship building. He was graduated from a school of mechanical engineering in Christiania a year ago, and planned to go to Germany and then to come to the United States to study this particular line of engineering, but the war kept him out of Germany.

"There has been developed in Norway in the last few years a new field of industry in which mechanical engineers are much interested," said Mr. Tahricksen. "This is the designing and manufacture of machinery for cutting up whales. It requires special machinery, of course, and the investigation of the whale in relation to the kind of machinery required for dissecting it developed the comparatively new industry of using whale meat for frankfurters. A big business has grown out of this. Most of the whale meat is sent to Denmark and there made into frankfurters. Whale meat tastes not unlike beef and is very nutritious. I have frequently eaten whale steaks."

Method in His Generosity.

Viscount Mirra, who is better known by his non-de-plume Kwanju, was once commander of the Hiroshima garrison. One day one of his former friends called at his house in the viscount's absence and presented his family with a box of cake. On returning home the viscount was told by his wife about the gift. "Ha, ha!" laughed the general. "It is funny that people become sociable with age. When I was young, he was a rash and obstinate fellow, but at length his mind seems to have become generous." But the general experienced a rude shock when some weeks afterward a bill was handed to him in which the cost of the cake had been added!

Why Italy Loves the Army.

The Italian soldier is not only severely drilled, but he is also expected to perform a good many duties not usually regarded as falling within the requirements of military service. It is considered incumbent on every man wearing the king's uniform to give aid whenever and wherever it may be needed for the protection of life and property, against crime, accident or disaster, and whenever a calamity befalls—such as the recent earthquake—the first move is always to send troops to assist the suffering. This is one reason why Italy regards her army with affection as her protection at home as well as her defender against foreign aggression.

Strenuous Monkey.
The latest addition to the New York Central Park zoo, a monkey named Sally, was placed in the primate house this week, having been taken there for imprisonment, according to Head Keeper Snyder, because of an appetite for alcoholic drinks which made her dangerous to the business of her mistress' husband—operating a beer garden in North Bergen, N. J.

Sally fell into evil ways about a year ago. Since then she has on frequent occasions broken into the bar and retreated herself. The night before Memorial day, when all was ready for the holiday rush, Sally went too far. The preparations of her owner's husband were sadly disarranged and there was a large bill for broken glass. Then the husband put his foot down firmly. Hence the gift to the zoo.

Resents Use of "Tea" as a Verb.
"A writer of fiction in the Saturday Evening Post says that his heroine 'tead' on a certain occasion," the Parsons Sun protests. "That's just like a heroine—to tea. Women in everyday life drink tea or take tea, but it remains for real heroines to 'tead.' They also 'golf' in all likelihood, and 'theater' during the grand opera season. At dinner they probably 'coffee,' while 'bridging' is recognized as the proper occupation for all well-ordered heroines in the afternoon. But given the privilege of teasing and golfing and coffeeing and marmalading and fudging, to be consistent they must also 'soup.' But honest, now, can you imagine any polite novelist having his heroine do such a common thing as 'soup'?"—Kansas City Star.

Women as Soldiers.
A distinguished teacher of physical culture at Harvard has declared that there is no reason why women should not make as good soldiers as men. As a matter of fact, in endurance of pain and hardship the average woman is man's superior, and perhaps there is no physical reason why they would not make as good cannon fodder as men. But upon moral grounds and the considerations of the race perpetuation there are many reasons why this proposed brutalization of woman should be condemned. It is an idea repugnant even to the minds of savages.

Report Monster Meteorite.
A monster meteorite is reported to have fallen into the sea off the Chinese coast recently. Men in a lighthouse, who saw it flash past, said it was luminous and reminded them of a monster electric light globe. The object fell into the sea, and immediately after came a mighty explosion which severely shook a nearby island. The meteorite missed the lighthouse tower by only a few hundred feet.

Willful.

Lamp-Trimmer's Signal.
Aro-lamp trimmers frequently find it difficult to lower the arc lamp on a busy street without danger of having the lamp crashed into by passing vehicles. A man in Minneapolis has devised a signal consisting of a tripod with two white streamers on which red circles are painted. When the lamp trimmer is on the street under the lamp, the streamers are lowered and the circles are visible to any driver.

SAVE YOUR CALVES

Raise Them Without Milk

Why throw away money by knocking them in the head or selling them for a dollar or two at birth when they can be raised or vealed WITHOUT MILK at a fraction of the cost of feeding milk. You profit both ways selling the milk and still have the calves.

The Best Milk Substitute to Use is the most successful milk substitute on the market—the standard of perfection. Thousands of farmers are using it and cannot say enough for it. It is NOT a stock food—it's a complete food that long experience has proved to be right for rearing calves. It contains all the nutrition of milk prepared in the most digestible form and is sold on a money back guarantee to give results.

Ryder's Cream Calf Meal
