GOOD GAME OF BALL

The Antrim - Greenfield Game Saturday Last of the Right Sort

Greenfield shut out Antrim Saturday at Greenfield, 1 to 0, in a very good game. For seven innings neither side scored, although Greenfield had a splendid chance in the 5th with three men on bases and no one out. Colby was in a bad hole, but tightened up and struck out the next three men. It looked like an extra inning game until the 8th when with two out Burnham won first on an error, advanced to second on Wade's hit and scored the only run of the game on Martin's single. The score:

ANSWER COMMUNICATION

Two Replies to the Last Week's Article Signed by "Voter"

Editor of The Reporter:

Dear Sir:—The article in last week's Reporter concerning a second term for our representative interested me, and as a reply was solicited I feel at liberty to give my reasons for believing as I do.

We have heard quite a good deal about "time honored custom" and I wish to assure the citizens of Antrim that I believe in "time honored customs," when they are based on good logic and sound business principles. Let us investigate some of these customs and see just how consistent we are.

Some years ago we elected Morris Nay town clerk and have re-elected him every year since, and I claim Mr. Nay has improved in efficiency. Our elections pass off quickly and smoothly, largely on account of Mr. Nay's good work. During my entire residence in Antrim William E. Cram has served the town as moderator. I can see that he also has improved with the years of service until amended amendments have no terrors for him. We are glad to retain the services of Geo. P. Little as treasurer, even though he be a "wicked democrat." We don't care to have more than one new man on our board of Selectmen, the others we elect and re-elect. We re-elect our county officers to a very large extent. All the above is "time honored custom" and good horse sense as well.

So much about our administrative officials; now just a few words about our legislative officers. Jacob H. Gallinger has served in the U. S. Senate since 1891; received the best vote at his last election that he ever got. The Senator's long term of service has made him proficient in helping to enact beneficial legislation. We elected Congressman Currier as long as his health permitted, and the same thing has been done by many others in the past years.

Now if it is a logical thing, and in the interest of good government to elect and re-elect these gentlemen, why is it not a logical thing to re-elect a representative to the General Court?

I was glad when Mr. Abbott by request, allowed himself to become a candidate for a second term, and I shall vote for him for the same reason that he has had just this much more experience than any of the other candidates for the nomination and not because of any unfriendly feeling for any of the other candidates.

Yours truly,
Fred A. Dunlap.

Antrim, N. H., Aug. 21, 1916.

Mr. Editor:—As it is well known that a second term for a representative is something I have advocated for ten or twelve years, I feel it my duty to reply to the letter in last week's Reporter.

Mrs. Samuel S. Sawyer

Passed away this Wednesday morning at one o'clock at her home on Main street, after an illness which confined her to her bed but a short time although she had been in failing health for several months. The cause of death was uraemia; her age was 78 years.

Mrs. Sawyer was born Mary Day and came here from Peterboro when she married Mr. Sawyer 55 years ago and has always made her home here, spending most of her life at North Branch. She was a pleasant and agreeable woman and will be greatly missed in the home where she was an ideal wife and mother. The children are W. H. Sawyer, M. D., Mrs. W. B. Fearing, Dorchester, Mass., Mrs. A. E. Shaw, South Boston, and Harry G. Sawyer, Mattapan, Mass.; these with Mr. Sawyer feel their loss keenly and have the sympathy of the entire town in their affliction.

Funeral services will be held at the Presbyterian church on Friday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Putnam are entertaining a niece, from New Boston, for a few days.

from "A Voter." It is for the same reason that we hire a good workman for a second job or keep a servant with us year after year. Because of their experience in our methods of doing our work. It is for the same reason that we elect for the town clerk, treasurer, moderator, selectmen, supervisors and other town officers the same men year after year.

Because they are our servants and represent us in the business of the town and their previous experience enables them to do better work for us. It is an unquestionable fact that other things being equal, the more experience a man has the better he can do his work. We all recognize the fact that we should have good men for all of these offices and I consider it an honor to be elected to any of them.

The most important officer Antrim has to elect is a representative. He not only helps to make the laws that govern Antrim's people, but laws that govern the whole state.

I have talked with scores of representatives and they are unanimous in saying that it takes practically one session to learn the ways of the legislature. If a man is to have much influence there he must begin early in the session and begin right. To know how to do this he must have legislative experience.

All of the cities and large towns and many of the smaller towns recognize this fact and elect their representative for a second term. Such a man attracts favorable attention to himself and to the town he represents. I say that Antrim should be among this number.

In the 1913 legislature there were 402 members in the house, 97 of whom were men of previous legislative experience. In 1915 there were 408 members, 105 of whom had been there before.

So you see, Mr. Voter, it isn't an uncommon custom.

In 1912 Peterboro sent a democrat to the legislature for the first time in sixty years, owing to a split in the republican party. He proved to be a good man and in 1914 they sent him again and he made a still better showing. This year he is a candidate for a third term and I haven't any doubt he will be elected on account of his experience, notwithstanding the town is straight republican.

In Hillsboro both republican candidates were in the last legislature and one of them in 1913.

The only objection I have heard to a second term is that the honor should be passed around. If we adopt that policy it will take fifty years to go around, if no new aspirants spring up, for I know of twenty-five men who aspire to the office and think themselves just as entitled to the office as any of the present candidates.

Yours respectfully,
C. F. Butterfield.

Imposed Fine and Costs

Harry L. Whitney and Cecil A. George, of Hillsboro, were brought before E. W. Baker, Esq., on the 22nd inst., by Geo. P. Wellington of Jaffrey, Fish and Game Warden, for having in their possession a wire trap for taking fish, said wire trap not complying with the Statutes. They were each ordered to pay a fine of $20 and costs amounting to $6.90. Doubtless fishermen will hereafter keep better posted on these laws.

Car Was Stolen and Probably Been Found

Guy Hulett and father, G. N. Hulett, are at home from a recent trip to Lowell, Mass. While attending a performance at one of the theatres there, the former's auto was stolen and thus far no trace of the lost car has been found. The machine was standing in front of the theatre, together with nearly twenty others. When the Hulett's were ready to return home they discovered the loss, and at once notified the police. The car was a 1915 Ford runabout.

This morning's Globe gave an account of the car being found.

Don't Experiment

You Will Make No Mistake If You Follow This Advice

Never neglect your kidneys. If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are frequently symptoms of kidney trouble and a remedy which is recommended for the kidneys should be taken in time.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a good remedy to use. It has acted effectively in many cases in this vicinity.

Can Antrim residents demand further proof than the following testimonial?

Mrs. W. H. Jordan, 328 Pearl St., Keene, N. H., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills for a good many years and the benefit they have given me prompts me to give this endorsement. They have given me prompt relief from backache."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Jordan had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. adv

TO-NIGHT!

Mary Pickford the Star in "Hearts Adrift"

By request of several Antrim people the film classic "Hearts Adrift" will be shown at the town hall this Wednesday evening.

This photoplay compares favorably with "The Island of Regeneration," shown here some time ago. It is a tragedy of the sea, softened by Mary Pickford's sweet portrayal.

All lovers of "Little Mary" should plan to attend tonight's entertainment. 15c and 10c. adv.

Contradictory Argument

It is strange indeed that Democratic editors can't see that the very language of their assertions regarding revived business conditions is sufficient contradiction of the line of reasoning they pursue. For instance, the New York World says that "if the prosperity of the United States is temporary, it is the biggest thing of its kind that the world has ever seen." Of course, and it is due to the biggest war the world has ever seen. No Democratic editor or speaker can use this "biggest ever" expression without forcing every reader and hearer to the thought that it is coincident with a foreign war—that is the "biggest ever." If the war is temporary, then its results in this country must be temporary. If it is to be a permanent war, then we can rely upon it to maintain a sort of protection against foreign importations into our markets and to provide us a fairly steady market for our products. Our "biggest ever" export trade will end when the "biggest ever" war ends.—Exchange

Will Sloan's Liniment Relieve Pain?

Try it and see— one application will prove more than a column of claims. James S. Ferguson, Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "I have had wonderful relief since I used Sloan's Liniment on my knees." To think after all these years of pain one application gave me relief. Many thanks for what your remedy has done for me." Don't keep on suffering, apply Sloan's Liniment where your pain is and notice how quick you get relief. Penetrates without rubbing. Buy at any drug store. 25c. adv.

NEWS OF THE GRANITE STATE State of New Hampshire Will Receive $80,000 FOR BENEFIT OF THE BLIND Boys Steal Priests' Valuables—Canaan's 150th Anniversary—Copy for Ballots Goes to the Printer.

Concord—The compromise between the heirs of John Nesmith of Lowell and the state of New Hampshire was approved Saturday by Judge Crosby of the supreme court at Boston, and as a result the state will receive $80,000 for the aid, support, maintenance and education of indigent blind. Mr. Nesmith set aside $80,000 and certain real estate in Lowell, the income to be paid his widow and children, and at their death to the state of New Hampshire. Mrs. Nesmith died two years ago and as a result of this arrangement the children will receive the value of the real estate when sold after deducting the share coming to this state.

The Priest Suddenly Found He Was Mistaken. Milford—About half past two one morning last week an officer came across three boys walking along the street and he decided to investigate. They asserted they were on the way to Keene to visit relatives, but he took them to the station house where an investigation revealed the fact that they were in possession of a miscellaneous stock of valuables, including a bank book bearing the name of Father Mitchell of Hollis. He was roused from his slumbers and stated that he was in charge of three boys from the training school at Chelmsford, but they were safe in bed. Half an hour later a somewhat excited priest called up and said he was mistaken, that the boys were not in bed, but had skipped with a lot of his valuables. He appeared during the forenoon and took charge of the boys and his valuables. The former are now back in the training school and will get no more vacations.

Canaan Will Celebrate the 150th Anniversary. Canaan—The 150th anniversary of the settlement of this town will be celebrated by appropriate exercises on Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 26 to 29. Saturday evening there will be bonfires on Mt. Cardigan and the Pinnacle with torchlight procession and red fire in the village. On Sunday there will be services at the Old North church. Monday forenoon will be an automobile parade with speaking exercises in the afternoon and an old timers ball in costume in a big tent in the evening. Tuesday forenoon there will be a civic parade with floats, speaking in the afternoon and a big minstrel show with 50 performers in the big tent in the evening. There will be band concerts and other forms of amusement interspersed. A reunion of the alumni of the old Canaan Union Academy is advertised to take place in the academy building at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Copy for Ballots Goes to the Printer. Concord—The copy for the ballots for the primary next month has been sent to the printer. The Progressive ballots, of which 11,300 will be printed, are entirely blank, not a candidate having filed. If any one wishes to vote for a progressive the name must be written in. Under the law the secretary of state is required to send out 75 ballots for each 50 votes cast for governor at the last election. Under this ruling there will be 77,625 Republican ballots and 53,475 Democratic ballots. The Republican ballots will be printed on rose tinted paper, the Democrats will have canary paper and the Progressive ballots will be printed on Nile green paper.

Safety First. Franklin—At a conference Saturday between Mayor Beaton and the local head of the Salvation army it was decided to suspend the sessions of the Salvation Army Sunday school, beginning Sunday. Several children from the locality where there are cases of infantile paralysis attend the Army Sunday school.

Charged With Assault on Aged Man. Exeter—Warren Perkins of Seabrook was in Municipal court here Friday charged with assault on Daniel Boyd, 74 years old. It appears that they had a quarrel over a boundary line and Boyd was knocked down. Perkins was fined $5 and costs and appealed to the October term of superior court.

Farmers on Tour of Inspection. Keene—About 500 farmers with their wives and guests from Sullivan and Cheshire county went on a tour of inspection through Cheshire county Thursday. Many of the model farms in the county were visited and the Sullivan county Farmers' association were guests of the Cheshire county association. There was a banquet at the city hall Thursday evening attended by over 600, at which Gov. Spaulding was among the list of speakers.

Autos Crash at Hampton Beach. Hampton Beach—One girl killed, another seriously injured, and five other persons more or less hurt resulted from a head on collision between two automobiles here Saturday. Walter Goss of Northampton was driving Dr. Henry Thompson of Hampton on an emergency call, and in attempting to pass by another auto met a machine containing a party of four from Boston. Miss Mae F. McNeil of Chelsea was injured so that she died soon after reaching the hospital and Miss Ethel Farwell of Cambridge had her skull fractured. The injured were rushed to hospitals at Exeter and Newburyport, but some of them were able to leave in a short time. The matter will be investigated and it is expected that arrests will follow.

Cat Catches Big Snake. Candia—As Mrs. William Sanborn was sitting on the piazza of her home one afternoon recently she saw one of their cats coming across the field apparently with a heavy burden. As one of the cats occasionally brings in a rabbit she called her husband, as the cat drew nearer it proved to be a black snake. Whenever the snake would attempt to coil about its captor a smart pressure of the jaws would cause it to straighten out. Mr. Sanborn got a hoe and despatched the reptile, which measured four feet and three inches in length. There is a large stone heap some distance from the house and it is supposed the cat made the capture there.

Mountain Tops to be Illuminated. Bretton Woods—Members of the Appalachian club who are engineering the proceedings, have selected the dates from Saturday, Sept. 2 to Monday, Sept. 4, from which will be selected a night for the illumination of the peaks of Mt. Washington and the Presidential range. It is expected that with this latitude a fair night can be selected. The summits will be illuminated with red fire which will last for half an hour, and following this will be a grand display of fireworks on the summit of Mt. Washington. The illumination is expected to be visible from Manchester and points even further south.

Barn and Contents Burned. Lebanon—A large barn and out-buildings owned by Miss Minnie White, and located about two miles from this village, were burned to the ground Thursday night, together with 50 tons of hay, 3 hogs, 30 hens and a quantity of farming tools. The buildings were valued at $3000 and partially covered by insurance. The fire department was compelled to draw water from a long distance and could make but a slight effect on the flames.

Long Vacation by Nashua Mills. Nashua—The Nashua and Jackson companies have announced that the shut down at noon Saturday will continue until Sept. 5. The original time was from Sept. 1 to 5, and it is understood that this extension is on account of the agitation for an increase in wages. It is expected that a large number of employees will leave town, and if they can find other situations, will not return. This is expected to relieve the situation somewhat.

Milford Has a New Fire Alarm. Milford—The town has just installed a new fire alarm system with an eight-inch whistle mounted on the cupola of the town house. The whistle is operated by compressed air from two steel tanks under 115 pounds pressure. The system cost $2000, and an old timers ball in costume is plainly heard in the adjoining towns, telephones being kept busy informing anxious subscribers what all the noise was about.

Burglars Get $1000 at Weirs. Weirs—Burglars broke into the Boston & Maine railroad station here early Saturday morning, and blowing the safe realized about $650. From the safe of the station restaurant they took $400, and escaped without leaving any clue. They also entered the post office, but as the postmaster had taken most of the funds to his home overnight they only got some small change and a few stamps.

Whist Party in the Church for the Church. Derry—A whist party conducted for the benefit of the new Catholic church was held in the auditorium of that edifice one evening last week and was attended by upwards of 400 persons. Nearly 100 tables were in play, and it was a most enjoyable occasion.

Usefulness Better Than Display. "Speakin' of de uplift," said Uncle Eben, "an elevator dat keeps runnin' reg'lar 'thout makin' no fuss does a heap more service dan a skyrocket."

World's Wheat Crop Falls off 25 Per Cent. Rome—The International institute of Agriculture in its latest report says that, with harvesting virtually completed in most European countries, the indications are that the world's wheat supply for 1918 will be almost 25 per cent, less than last year. It is pointed out, however, that 1915 was a banner year, and that the new crop will be nearly up to the average yield between 1900 and 1913. The gathering in of crops on a large scale is now limited to North America, Great Britain, Russia and Scandinavia.

BRITISH LOSE TWO CRUISERS In Fight With Big German High Sea Squadron LATTER LOSE TWO U-BOATS Admiralty in London Announces Sinking of Nottingham and Falmouth by Teuton Submarines.

London—The German high sea fleet has again appeared in the North Sea and in a clash between German submarines and British scout ships two British light cruisers have been sent to the bottom. London reports that one of the submarines was also destroyed and that another was rammed and possibly sunk.

This is the first appearance in the North sea of strong German naval forces since the battle of Jutland, on May 31. The first news that the Germans had left the shelter of their mine fields and fortified bases was brought to Holland by trawlers, who reported sighting a German squadron of 15 warships, including large cruisers. This fleet was accompanied by two Zeppelins, and was steering northwest in the region of Whitebank.

The two British vessels lost were the Nottingham, 3400 tons, and the Falmouth, 5250 tons. The crews of both the ships were saved, with the exception of 39 men. The Germans also claim to have sunk a British destroyer and damaged a battleship, but this is denied by the British admiralty. According to the British admiralty, the German fleet avoided an engagement with the main British forces and returned to port when its scouts reported the approach of strong British squadrons.

The following is the British admiralty version of the brush in the North sea: "Reports from our lookout squadrons and other units showed that there was considerable activity on the part of the enemy in the North sea Saturday, the 19th.

"The German high sea fleet came out, but learning from their scouts that the British forces were in considerable strength, the enemy avoided an engagement and returned to port.

"In searching for the enemy we lost two cruisers by submarine attacks—H. M. S. Nottingham, Capt. C. B. Miller, and H. M. S. Falmouth, Capt. John Edwards.

"All the officers of the former were saved, but 38 of the crew are missing. All the officers and men of the Falmouth were saved, but one leading stoker, Norman Fry, died of injuries.

"An enemy submarine was destroyed and another was rammed and possibly sunk.

The Nottingham was 430 feet long and carried nine 6-inch guns, four 3-pounders and two torpedo tubes. She was designed to make about 25 knots an hour.

The Falmouth was 450 feet long and carried eight 6-inch guns, four 3-pounders and two torpedo tubes. In her trial trips she made slightly over 27 knots an hour.

Berlin (by wireless to Sayville), Aug. 20—The admiralty announced today that a German submarine yesterday sunk a small cruiser and a destroyer near the British east coast and damaged another small cruiser and a battleship.

The statement follows: "A German submarine off the British east coast on Aug. 19 destroyed a small cruiser and destroyer of the enemy. Another small cruiser and a battleship were struck by torpedoes and damaged."

May Adjourn Congress Sept. 1. Washington—Adjournment of Congress now waits only on the passage of the emergency revenue bill, re-passage of the army appropriation bill with amendments to meet President Wilson's veto, completion of the general deficiency appropriation measure, and final action on a few conference reports, including the government shipping bill.

Senate leaders who have grown optimistic over the rapid progress of legislation within the last few days say they would be ready to adjourn next Saturday if the House could be prevailed upon to accept the amended revenue bill without a fight. This does not seem likely, however, and because of some discussion that may arise over general appropriations. Congress probably will not be ready for the adjournment gavel before Sept. 1 or 2.

MAKING the FARM PAY

By PROF. P. G. HOLDEN, Former Dean of the Iowa Agricultural College.

Excellent Seed Corn.

PREPARING SOIL FOR CORN

There are no "ironclad" rules which may be followed blindly for the growing of corn any more than in other farm work.

There is no one best method suited to all sections or to the different soils of a section nor even to the different fields of the same farm. Frequently two very different methods may give equally good results.

"Have good ground, do the work on time, and do it thoroughly," should be the motto of every corn grower.

Nothing can make up for poor ground. Too many are trying to raise corn on old "worn-out" ground that has produced corn, oats and wheat for years. I met a man at an institute in Illinois who said in all seriousness that he was satisfied the seasons were less favorable for growing corn than they used to be as he could get no such crops as he used to raise. Inquiry developed that he had grown corn for 17 years in succession on the same piece of ground. No wonder the "seasons were becoming less favorable."

Let us remember that it was but a few years ago that the farms of the corn belt were broken from the virgin soil, and that because we have been able to crop the ground continuously in the past, is no assurance that we may continue to do so in the future with

2. Unless the ground is disked early in the spring there is a loss of moisture and a consequent "firing" of the corn during the latter part of July and August, especially in dry seasons.

3. The fall plowing does not give as good an opportunity to spread manure during the late summer and through the winter.

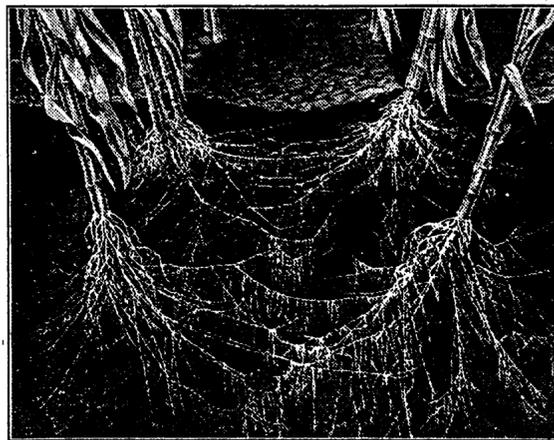

The soils department of the Iowa State college has conducted many experiments with fall and spring plowing in different parts of Iowa, and in every case the yield of corn was greater on the fall plowing than on the spring plowing.

The mistake is commonly made of leaving the fall-plowed ground without disking until time to plant. The ground has become packed by snow and rain and should be disked or harrowed as soon as the oat seeding is over. This will conserve the moisture and lessen the firing of the corn in August, so common to fall plowing.

Ground that is very rolling and likely to wash should not be plowed in the fall.

Late Planting Bad.

One of the most serious losses to the corn crop every year is due to late planting. Experiments show that late-planted corn seldom yields as much as that planted earlier, and the quality is inferior. The ground becomes hard and out of condition, the weeds have profit. The fact is that the time is near at hand when we must give greater attention to the fertility of our soil. What is needed is more clover, better use of barnyard manure and less of the continuous cropping with corn, oats and wheat.

Fall Plowing for Corn.

There is a difference of opinion regarding the merits of fall and spring plowing for corn. Among the advantages of fall plowing are the following:

1. The work is done at the slackest time of the year, when both men and teams would otherwise be idle.
2. Having the ground already plowed in the spring gives us time to better prepare the ground, and, what is of equal importance, to get our corn in on time.
3. A better prepared and a warmer seed bed, and consequently a better stand of corn.
4. Less danger from insect enemies, especially in the case of sod ground.
5. Weeds are prevented from seeding and the seeds already in the ground will mostly germinate and be killed by the fall freezes before they have seeded.

Some disadvantages of fall plowing are:

1. Occasional losses from blowing and washing on rolling ground.

drawn upon the moisture and available plant food, the crop comes to the dry spell in a more critical stage, the proportion of barren stalks is greater and it matures more slowly, contains more water and is much more likely to be caught by the frost.

Every year thousands of farmers lose heavily from late planting. Many of these are good farmers, but are unexpectedly delayed with the spring work, by a combination of bad weather, sick horses and scarcity of help. It is generally advisable to plow stubble ground early in the fall.

First, because the weeds which have been started will be prevented from seeding, and the weed seeds will be brought near to the surface, where they will germinate and be killed by the frost before they have seeded in the fall; and second, there is more spare time for the work.

Late fall plowing is best for soil because:

1. It gives us the benefit of late summer pasture.
2. It is the best possible place to spread the barnyard manure during August and September, as there is the least danger of washing or leaching.
3. The ground can be much better prepared and with less work than when plowed in the spring.
4. There is less danger from damage by cutworms and other insect enemies.

Spring Plowing Abused. We often abuse our spring plowing by turning the earth up to the sun and dried winds to bake and dry out, depending upon a shower to mellow the ground before planting time.

With spring plowing it is a good rule never to leave the field at noon or might without harrowing the newly plowed ground. In my estimation no ground can be properly prepared, giving a good seed bed for corn, without the use of the disk.

Depth to Plow. What is known as deep plowing is not advisable in the corn belt.

There is seldom any advantage in plowing more than six inches deep. On heavy soils the bad effects of too deep plowing are often apparent for several years.

Too Deep Planting. Too deep planting is especially bad when the seed is weak or the spring is cold and backward. When the ground is not well prepared or is very mellow, there is danger of putting the seed down four or five inches when two inches would be better.

Dry, Mealy Surface Bed. On the other hand, there is no more serious mistake than shallow planting in lumpy, dry soil. The moisture is not sufficient for rapid germination, much of it scours or rots, and the remainder comes up unevenly, with a large per cent of sickly plants. This condition is most frequently found where the spring plowing is not followed by the harrow the same day or where the disk was not used in preparing the seed bed and especially when these two conditions are accompanied by a dry, cold May.

Cultivation. Cultivation should be level and frequent when the corn is small. It may be deep at first, but it must be shallow later.

Many assume that there is nothing more to do after the corn is planted for two weeks, or until it is up and large enough for the first cultivation. There are others who believe in harrowing and even in cultivation before the corn is up, but on account of the pressure of work neglect it. Where ground is left two weeks and often longer it becomes foul with weeds, which take up the moisture and plant food and also make it difficult to work the corn. The ground becomes packed by the rains and baked by the sun until it is hard and dry.

It is especially important in the case of corn that it should not become stunted when young; as it never fully recovers even under the most favorable conditions.

The time to kill weeds is before they come up and before they have deprived the corn of moisture and nourishment. Where it is possible to do so it is a good plan to cultivate the corn once before it comes up, following the cultivator with the harrow.

This practice of cultivating the field before the corn is up following the planter marks as a guide, is a good one, and especially on old and badly worn ground or heavy clay ground and land that has become foul.

It is a common practice with some to harrow corn after it is up, but I prefer to cultivate and harrow as described above, especially on cornstalk ground. Even on stubble ground the harrow does considerable damage to the young corn.

It is a very common mistake to cultivate shallow when the corn is small and "lay it by" with a deep cultivation. The reverse will be more profitable. There is little danger to the roots from deep cultivation the first time and there is great advantage going deep enough to secure a good mulch.

OPEN AIR WORK

By REV. HOWARD W. POPE, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—Go ye... preach the Gospel to every creature.—Mark 16:15.

With the coming of summer church audiences begin to dwindle, and streets and parks begin to swarm with people. Nature spreads her carpet of green, and the air is soft and balmy. The birds sing, the flowers bloom and everything seems to say: "Come out and enjoy life with us." Why should we try to resist this pleading and insist on holding all our religious services indoors simply because we always have done it?

Many a church would double its audience by holding an occasional service out of doors, under the trees or in some adjacent park. If chairs can be provided, so much the better. If not, let the people sit on the grass as they did when Jesus preached. If the church has no convenient place for outdoor meetings, hold an open air service on the porch before the evening meeting. Have plenty of good singing with two or three-minute addresses sandwiched between, and in a little while the children will gather, the passers will stop, the carriages will drive up and you will have a large company of people, many of whom would never think of entering a church. If you have never tried it, begin this season.

Every church ought to have a band of open air workers to hold meetings regularly all summer, at such points as may seem most strategic. Some churches gain from fifty to a hundred new members each year by their open-air work in the summer. And even if they did not add a single convert, they would be well repaid for the effort in the benefit obtained by the workers. Then too it affords an outlet for the zeal and faith and energy of the church.

Open-air workers should be carefully trained, for no work requires more tact and wisdom, and holy boldness. The following suggestions are taken from a book written by a very dear friend of mine, Henry B. Gibbud. The book is called, "Under the Blue Canopy of Heaven," and can be had for 50 cents of Mrs. E. B. Gibbud, Springfield, Mass.

Permit.—In towns and cities it is necessary to obtain a permit for street services. Have someone of influence apply for the permit. A politician is better for this work than a preacher.

Place of meeting.—Go where the people are. It may be a noisy place, but you have the people. If you want quiet, go to the cemetery.

Select a place where you have a building at your back. It will act as a sounding board, throwing out the voice. If possible arrange the meeting so that you may also have a building in front of you. It is very hard to speak in the open air, and a building in front of you to throw the voice back will make it much easier.

Talk with the wind always and never against it.

Select a place where the audience will be comfortable. Give them the shade even if you have to stand in the sun.

Have bright, new, catchy songs. The audience as a rule do not join in the singing, so that there is less need of familiar hymns.

Speakers.—Let them stand on a chair, or box or platform. Then your voice sounds out and over the crowd. All can see you, and you can see them. If any disturbance occurs, such as dog fight, always give out a hymn. The song will put a new thought into the dog's mind and often break up the fight.

Preach the Word.—This old world is hungry for the plain Gospel made fresh and vivid by actual experience. Use plenty of illustrations but see that you have something to illustrate. Nothing grips an audience or holds attention like the simple Gospel story told out of a warm heart.

We do not have the Bible in sight, nor generally read from it for the following reason; Catholics will be prejudiced at once, and will not come up. We quote from it and refer to it but do not keep it in sight.

Call for decision at the close of the service, or invite into a church if another service is to follow. Let each worker select someone for personal effort when the meeting closes.

By offering to give away Gospel cards or "Little Preachers" at the close of the service you can often hold the entire crowd to the very end. Show them the cards and read some of the titles, such as "The Workingman's Trust. Are you in it?" "The Three Cheers of Jesus." "Four Things Which One Ought to Know." "The Unanswerable Question." "Coffin Nails." "Morbus Sabbaticus, or Sunday Sickness." "Get Right With God." "God Wants the Boys." "Only Three Steps Into the Christian Life."

Its death to me to be at enmity; I hate it, and desire all good men's love.—Shakespeare.

Pilin Sugar Cookies. One cupful of sugar, one-half cupful shortening (butter is the nicest, but you can use beef drippings with part butter), one egg, one-half cupful sweet milk, one teaspoonful cream of tartar and one-half teaspoonful soda, a little salt and any flavoring you prefer. I use nutmeg and ginger. Flour to mix very soft. Roll one-fourth inch thick, sprinkle sugar over top, roll across once to make sugar stick. I cut them square with a knife and lift them on the cookie sheet with the knife. Bake in a quick oven. If you like them crisp roll thinner.

Succotash. Put on a beef shank or other soup meat in cold water soon after breakfast and simmer slowly for two or three hours, adding more water if needed. Then add a pint of white beans, which have been soaked over night, and a small piece of salt pork if liked. Continue to simmer, and about half an hour before dinner add a can of corn, two tablespoonsful of sugar and a small piece of butter. Let boil up and serve.

Good Tea. To make good tea, scald the teapot and to a pint of boiling water add two teaspoonfuls of tea, cover tightly and set away from fire four minutes; then strain.

Cocoanut Cups. One-half cupful cocoanut, one cupful sugar, one cupful milk, one egg, one tablespoonful butter, one tablespoonful vanilla, two cupfuls flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Beat well. Fill greased cups half full and steam one hour. To be eaten with whipped cream.

EATING PAPER IS NOT HARD How Fanny Murray Outdid Feat of Von der Goltz, the German

It is with a mitigated commiseration that one reads the story of how Von der Goltz, the German spy, finding himself recognized in Petrograd, "spent some hours eating two parcels of incriminating papers which he dare not burn in the grate."

As a feat of mastication, says the London Observer, Von der Goltz by no means holds the record. Paper is easily reduced to a pulp and swallowed (the ink acting as an appetizer), and the only difficulty in this case was the quantity. Leather is another matter, but apart from meals of hard-pressed explorers there are authenticated instances of meals of the kind.

What may be described as a paper meal de luxe was that of the famous Fanny Murray mentioned by Horace Walpole: "I liked her spirit in an instance I heard of 't'other night. She was complaining of want of money. Sir Richard Atkins immediately gave her a £20 note. She said: 'D— your £20! What does it signify?' clapped it between two pieces of bread and butter and ate it."

Indeed it Does. "Telephones are great time savers, aren't they?" "Well, that depends upon who calls you up."

Cupid is a good shot, but he bags some poor game.

"Stored Up Energy"

Everybody needs it—stored for emergency in a well-developed, well-preserved, well-nourished body and brain.

Grape-Nuts food stands preeminent as a builder of this kind of energy. It is made of the entire nutriment of whole wheat and barley, two of the richest sources of food strength.

Grape-Nuts also includes the vital mineral elements of the grain, so much emphasized in these days of investigation of real food values.

Crisp, ready to eat, easy to digest, wonderfully nourishing and delicious.

This Overland is the world's most powerful low-priced car.

It has a 31 1/2 horsepower en bloc motor that is a perfect marvel for speed, power and endurance.

By increasing the bore of the motor from 3 1/2 to 3 3/4" we are able to offer a power plant which at 1950 R. P. M. develops full 31 1/2 horsepower.

Tests under every condition in all parts of the country demonstrate that it easily develops better than fifty miles per hour on the road.

Speed of course varies under different conditions, but in practically every instance it has been getting fifty miles an hour and with ease.

We have scores of telegrams showing that twenty to twenty-five miles per gallon of gasoline is not unusual.

The performance of this car is almost beyond belief.

Take any other low-priced car on the market. Pit it against this new Overland. Compare them for sheer speed, for abundance of power, for riding comfort and economy, and you'll find this car will back anything else clean off the boards.

That's a strong statement, but a fact nevertheless.

Try it yourself and see. Here are more important facts.

It has four-inch tires which are more than generous for a car of this size.

Not only has it a large and roomy body, but it has an attractive, up-to-date streamline body.

It has the latest and most improved system of ignition.

It has the cantilever springs—the easiest riding springs in the world.

What's more, it's complete. Not a thing to buy. You get the finest Auto-Lite electric starting and lighting system, magnetic speedometer, one-man top, demountable rims and practically every accessory found on the highest priced cars.

It only goes to prove how big production can cut cost and save you money. First come, first served. Place your order now.

Euchred!

by GEORGE MUNSON

(Copyright, 1914, by W. G. Chapman.)

When Dorothy Carteret, the only child of Colonel Carteret, of South Point, admitted that she was in love with young Williams, of the Title Insurance company, her father was furious. He glared speechlessly at Tom for a few moments.

"My daughter is destined to marry a man of her own station in life, sir," he stammered presently. "That's all I have to say to you, Dorothy. I forbid you to speak to this young man again. Take your hat off my desk, sir!"

Tommy Williams threw back his shoulders. "Whatever my position, sir, my grandfather was a Stevens," he said proudly. "And the Stevens were quite as highly esteemed as the Carterets in South Point, even if your grandfather did win all my grandfather's money at poker."

"You—you are telling an untruth, sir!" shouted Colonel Carteret, red in the face. "It is a hideous slander. It was euchre, sir. Good-morning!"

Colonel Carteret owned almost the whole village and the land for miles around. He was "land poor." Everyone knew that the Carterets had barely enough for the necessities of life. Jim Banks, the Title Insurance president, could have bought them out many times over. But the colonel held his head pretty high, and Tom was simply an outsider when it came to the matter of a husband for Dorothy.

Tom went away feeling pretty blue. As he confided to his mother: "If Carteret's grandfather hadn't been a poker or euchre shark and fleeced my grandfather, all this property would have been mine, and Dorothy would have been working for Banks, probably as his stenographer."

"Tom, Colonel Carteret was the soul of honor," replied his mother. "I remember seeing him when I was a little girl. Although there was naturally a restraint between our families after your grandfather's unfortunate gambling experiment, old Mr. Williams would never allow a word to be spoken against his former friend."

"Well, that honors grandfather, not old Carteret," said Tom, huffily. A despairing note from Dorothy arrived the next morning at the hands of a negro boy, sworn to secrecy. She wrote that she dared not see Tom again as long as her father was alive; but she would always love him, and some day perhaps, if he had been true to her, he should have his reward. The note was blotted with tears.

Tom squared his shoulders and went on working for the insurance company. Tom was Jim Banks' secretary, and earning a decent salary. Those who got an inkling of the affair admitted that the colonel had not acted fairly. It was known that Dorothy was pale and had lost interest in affairs. But her father was as obstinate as she.

"I'm mighty sorry, Tom," said general Jim Banks one afternoon, when he felt in an expansive mood. "She's a gem, that girl is. And now I come to think of it, I seem to remember there was something funny about that property of Carteret's. Suppose you look through those tin boxes of papers that we got from the old land office after the war."

"The deeds, sir?" "Deeds, I suppose, but they haven't legal force any more. You see, the commissioners went through all land titles in 1871 and drew up fresh deeds, invalidating these. No, they're just curiosities. But there was something, if my memory isn't playing me a trick."

Tom spent the afternoon rummaging through the faded yellow papers. It was at the bottom of the last box that he found the deed.

"Hum!" said Banks, running his eye over it. "Yes, came to the Williams family through the Chief Algonquins. Price a pound of beads—brass; one hoghead of tobacco; a dozen rifles; powder horns—yes, quite regular. Here's your grandfather's transfer. Hello! What's this?"

Attached to the deed was a paper written in faded ink. Tom and Jim Banks looked at it with increasing astonishment. "My dear old friend," it read. "Of course I am not going to take your property. Keep it and let's call the affair over. Ever yours, Theophilus Carteret."

They looked at each other and Tom drew in a deep breath. "Then it's mine!" he said. "All the property."

"I'm afraid not," answered Banks. "Your grandfather was evidently too proud to accept it back. And a simple offer has, of course, no validity in law."

"But it is mine morally!" "Morally be hanged. No, you haven't even a moral right after all these years!"

"Lend me that deed, Mr. Banks," said Tom, with war in his eyes. "Take it, my boy. What are you going to do? Turn Carteret out in the cold?"

Tom smiled, put on his hat, and went over to the Carteret place. From her window above Dorothy looked down in wonder and awe. A minute later, as he stood before the colonel, Tom heard the faint swish of her skirts in the passage outside.

"Well, sir?" demanded Colonel Carteret. "Read that," said Tom, placing the document beneath his nose.

The colonel read it and he turned redder than before. He looked up, and his voice had the growl of a savage—such a growl as might have been emitted by Algonquins.

"It's an infamous forgery, sir. And, even if it isn't, where is the proof that your grandfather accepted my grandfather's generous, manly offer?"

The door opened and Dorothy came in. "Tom!" she cried. "You are not quarrelling with father?"

"No, dear," said Tom. "Colonel Carteret," he went on, "I admit that this document has no legal validity. But it shows that if your grandfather was generous, my own was no less generous. You can no longer talk about our different stations in life. Morally, I am the owner of this place, and you are—you are secretary to Mr. Banks."

The colonel was beyond speech. He glared as if his eyes would pop out of his head. And just then Dorothy's feminine intuition struck the psychological moment. She ran to her father and put her arms about his neck. "We love each other, father," she whispered.

Slowly the frown faded off the colonel's face. He sighed. Then he got up and held out his hand. "You've won," he said. "I guess you're the winner in this game. My grandfather always said your grandfather knew how to make the most of his—"

"Poker hand, sir?" asked Tom with a smile. "Confound you, no! Euchre, sir! Euchre!"

SNAKES THAT DIE TWICE

Reptiles Frozen Stiff Are Resuscitated by Use of Hot Water by Crafty Dealer.

A naturalist tells how, in the thicket of a mountainside, he once saw a man kill a rattlesnake. He beat the life out of it with a club, and continued the pounding until it was mangled beyond recognition. When the naturalist remonstrated, the man said: "You can't kill a rattlesnake too dead."

On one occasion a boat bound for the United States from Rio de Janeiro touched at Pernambuco, where the mate drove a bargain with a snake dealer for a half-dozen reptiles of various sizes.

The mate had them in a cage on deck, and charged a sailor with the duty of washing it out with sea water every evening. All went well as long as the weather was mild, but on the night before the gulf stream was crossed the sailor felt a quantity of water in the cage and, about thirty hours from port, a biting gale struck the ship.

All hands were busy with the storm, and the snakes were forgotten. When the mate thought of them and went back to look after their condition he found them frozen stiff, and apparently as dead as the proverbial door-nail.

The dealer from whom the mate had bought them came on board the following day. He professed great disappointment over the loss of the intended purchase, but offered to take the snakes away as a kindness to the mate. He gathered them in his arms like so much firewood and carried them home. But a rival dealer afterward told the officer that plenty of warm water had resuscitated the snakes and that they had been sold to various museums not a bit worse for their "death" by freezing.

Edison's Health Rules.

I'm playing chess with nature. I eat three meals a day. That's habit, and nothing else, but I eat a quarter of what the average man does. I know it, because I see it at my own table. Man is not perfect yet, and you can't take alcohol away from him all at once. Beer has 4 per cent alcohol. Cut down the percentage to 2 or 1 1/2, then to 1 per cent. Cut out whisky and strong drinks at once. The theory is this: Every man's stomach is about the same size. Beer with 2 per cent alcohol will never make the average man drunk, because he can't get enough into his stomach. Cut down the alcohol until he can get merry, but not ugly. Of tobacco, I would as soon see a man with a revolver as a boy with a cigarette. I'd have a law against them for anyone under twenty-one."

CANADA THISTLE PEST

Prickly Plant Is Found in Almost Every Part of Country.

No Other Weed Has Ever Received So Much Unfavorable Attention. —Roots, Rather Than Tops, Must Be Destroyed.

In the states north of the Ohio River, probably no plant bears such a bad reputation as does the so-called Canada thistle. This marvellously prickly plant abounds in grain fields, pastures, and meadows throughout the central West, and is locally common in the northeastern states. It is found in parts of West Virginia, Kentucky, and Missouri, and of late years has been increasingly troublesome in the grain-growing sections of the Northwest. Canada thistle, or simply "thistle," has been condemned in the laws of 25 states, and at least one hundred local communities, no other three plants together having received so much unfavorable attention. Certainly no plant is more generally and heartily disliked, unless it be the sand bur of the southern coastal plain.

The cause of the remarkable vitality of Canada thistle and the point that distinguishes it from other prickly plants that are commonly mistaken for it is the long cordlike perennial root. This root penetrates the soil at a depth of eight to fifteen inches, or more, and gives rise at frequent intervals to leafy shoots. Thus it will often be found that an entire patch of thistles is attached to one root, and is in reality but one plant. The root is exceedingly hardy, and can live over winter or through a prolonged drought in a dormant condition. Pieces of the root that are broken off by a plow or cultivator and carried to other places will await a warm, moist period, and then begin to send up leafy shoots, thus establishing a new patch forthwith. If the leafy stems are cut down, others will be sent up to take their place, and this process may be repeated from two to eight times before the root becomes exhausted.

The point that must be kept in mind in fighting Canada thistles is that it is the roots, rather than the tops, that must be killed. Simply cutting off the tops a few times has much the same effect as pruning an apple tree. But if the tops are cut off deep and frequently, the root must eventually suffocate through lack of leaves.

BETTER PRICES FOR PRODUCE

Bringing About Improved Methods and Closer Attention to Scientific Growing of Crops.

Better prices for farm products are bringing about better methods and closer attention to the scientific growing and handling of crops and soils, according to A. N. Brown, editor of Fruit Belt, who declares that the first and fundamental step is to know soils and to know what elements of fertility should be supplied to aid growing crops. If care be not taken to keep the soil supplied by the addition of manures and fertilizers, the yields become smaller each year, but when the soils are managed properly the fertility is maintained and productive-ness is increased.

BREEDING FOWLS ARE CHEAP

Possible to Purchase Birds Now for Half What They Will Cost Next Fall or Winter.

Many breeders are giving special value on their breeding birds at this time of year and if you are in need of a good cock bird, a hen or two or a pen for breeding next year or for exhibition this fall or winter you are overlooking a good bet if you do not buy now. The same quality along in December will cost you double.

SYSTEM OF FEEDING CALVES

Animals Should Not Be Fed Together Any More Than Bunch of Pigs—Fix Individual Stalls.

Skim milk calves ought not to be fed together, any more than a bunch of hoggish pigs, for some of the calves soon learn to gulp down their share of the feed, then crowd others away from theirs. Individual stalls or booths form the only correct system of feeding the skim milk calves, so that each one will be assured of its portion.

CULL ALL DEFORMED FOWLS

When They Reach Marketable Size Fatten and Sell Them—Keep Them Free From Vermin.

Handle the chicks, and market deformed birds as soon as they are of market size. Crooked backs, hip joints of unequal height, crooked toes, long beaks, combs with side springs, duck feet, off-colored eyes and a pronounced tendency to off-colored feathers cannot readily be detected without handling the birds. It is well to sew a band of red flannel, or mark with colored paint the legs of birds destined for the early market. A dab of paint on the wing bow is also good. Let these birds run with the others till about the size needed, and then pen and fatten. Many a sale can be made at the door if the chicks are cooped and ready. Keep them free from lice and growing every day, but get rid of them quickly.

DESTRUCTIVE TO THE SWINE

Scours in Pigs More Feared Than Outbreak of Cholera by Prominent Nebraska Hog Breeder.

Scours in pigs is declared by one of Nebraska's prominent hog raisers to be more destructive to the swine industry of the state than hog cholera. The causes are overfeeding, change in feed, decayed feed, lack of exercise, or dirty water. Sometimes filth in pens and bedding is an additional cause when it is taken into the pig's system from the sow's udder or from the navel. The college of agriculture says that the correction of these conditions is the first measure to be adopted, and that in case scouring has started, the sow's feed should be cut down to a small amount of oats or bran. When the trouble is corrected, the ration should be increased gradually.

CONTROL OF CABBAGE WORMS

Mixture of Air-Slaked Lime or Wood Ashes and Powdered Arsenate of Lead is Favored.

Dust a mixture of one or two parts of air-slaked lime or sifted wood ashes and one part dry powdered arsenate of lead through a cheesecloth bag or apply with a blower. Apply while plants are wet with the dew, after each hard rain or once every week or ten days during the season of attack. Paris green can be used with 15 times its bulk of lime or ashes. A week or two before using the cabbage quit applying the poison, as a precaution against getting any appreciable amount of the poison in the portion of the cabbage eaten as human food. Practically all of the poison is removed in stripping the outer leaves. No one need be afraid to use this treatment.

OREGON HOG-BREEDING CRATE

Device Shown in Illustration Can Be Made With Little Cost by Man Handy With Tools.

Effective mating of swine, especially where young sows are mated with old and heavy boars, is a point too often overlooked in hog raising. The Oregon breeding crate shown here can be made with little cost by anyone handy with hammer and saw. The crate should be well made of strong material, however, as it is necessary to restrain the sow, hold her in an accessible position, and take away all danger of injury to the boar through slipping.—Farming Business.

FEEDING OF MOLTING FOWLS

Material Adaptable for Eggs Will Also Make Feathers—Some Oily Food is Necessary.

The feed of molting hens should not differ greatly from that of laying hens. Both eggs and feathers are rich in nitrogen, so a food adaptable for eggs will also make feathers. However, the latter are richer in oil than eggs are, and some food of oily nature should be added to this ration to supply this want.

It has been conclusively proved that a liberal amount of sunflower, flaxseed or oil meal to the ration makes hens molt faster and leaves them in a stronger condition and with more vitality.

FAULTY SYSTEM OF FARMING

Cows Would Conserve Fertility of Soil and Convert Feed Into Food Products for Market.

One of the faults of our system of farming is that there are too few cows on farms. More cows would save the wealth (soil fertility) that we already have and would convert our feed and pasture crops into food products for home use or for sale. Who ever heard of a dairyman or a farmer with several cows forced to mortgage his crops for supplies?

WHITE DIARRHEA IN CHICKS

Trouble is Caused by Bacteria—Sour Milk Has Discouraging Effect on Disease.

It has been determined that the white diarrhea in chicks is caused by bacteria, and if thoroughly done, disinfecting is a preventive—with one exception: Investigations by authoritative sources have developed the fact that bacteria has been found in the ovaries of hens and in the yolks of the eggs. In this event there is no help so long as the same stock is kept.

There is no positively known cure. Sour milk has been found to have a discouraging effect on the disease, if given to the chick from the first. Burning litter, spraying the poultry surroundings with a strong disinfectant and waging war generally, just as you would if it were some parasite that you could see, is about all that can be done.

The disease is the worst where chickens are raised in large numbers.

GEESE ARE GREAT FORAGERS

Improved Breeds Are Not Much Disposed to Wander and Therefore Are Easily Cared For.

Geese are great foragers and will wander for miles in search of food. This is particularly true of the common kind, but the improved breeds are not as much disposed to wander and for that reason are more easily cared for.

The three principal breeds of geese are the Toulouse, China and Embden. The Toulouse is a very large, gray goose, and reaches maturity when about two and a half years old. When fat they weigh about 25 pounds and sometimes an old bird will reach 32 pounds.

Toulouse geese seldom rise from the ground, and are, therefore, easily kept within bounds. A fence that will turn cattle or sheep will confine them and they are at home wherever there is plenty of pasture and good water to drink. They do not require water to swim in. The pasture need not be first-class, as they will eat with apparent relish a coarse grass and weeds that cattle will not touch.

POPULAR FOWLS FOR EATING

Taste of Nice, Juicy Piece of Capon Will Induce Farmer to Caponize Most of Cockerels.

Cockerels are good and dandy eating; but did you ever put your teeth into a nice, juicy piece of capon? If you haven't, you've something to live for. And when you've once tasted capon, you'll be mighty apt to caponize most of your cockerels. When this is done, then we'll have less infertile eggs.

TREATMENT FOR SCALY LEGS

Disease is Caused by Presence of a Mite Not Distinguishable by the Naked Eye.

Scaly legs, a disease which is caused by the presence of a mite that is not distinguishable by the naked eye, may be cured by first washing the legs of the birds affected with soap and warm water and after they are dry applying kerosene. A couple of days later cottonseed oil or vaseline should be applied.

INFERTILE EGGS KEEP LONG

Males in Chicken Flock Are Useful Only During the Breeding Season—Fertile Egg Soon Spoils.

Males in the flock are useful only to fertilize eggs and the only fertile eggs required are those used for hatching purposes. An infertile egg will keep for weeks and months under conditions that would spoil a fertile egg in a very few hours.

Infantile Paralysis Germ. In a lengthy report to physicians, the Rockefeller Institute announces the discovery of a germ in the brain and spinal cord of monkeys inoculated with infantile paralysis. The organism is said to be very minute, the difficulties attending its artificial cultivation and identification being so great that the discovery is as yet of little value for the purpose of early diagnosis of suspected cases. Monkeys inoculated with the micro-organism, developed a disease corresponding to infantile paralysis in human beings. From these experiments it was determined that the mucous membranes of the nose and throat of persons not sick with the disease may become contaminated with the virus and that without falling ill themselves they may become carriers of the disease. It was found, in monkeys, that the virus could be discovered six months after inoculation, and that drying and mixing with dust did not destroy it.

Precocity. "Mercy!" exclaimed Mrs. Diggs. "The baby is chewing on your pocket edition of Epictetus."

"Indeed," replied Professor Diggs with a proud and happy look. "Let the child alone. It is seldom that a mere infant shows such a pronounced taste for the classics."

DROPPING OF MIDDLE NAMES

A Two-Ply Title Found to Be More Convenient Socially, Morally and Financially.

This is the day of the two-cylinder name, which fact has been proved by cognomen connoisseurs who have looked over every name at Harvard and inspected the persons to whom the names belong. They learned that some extremely nice persons have no middle names at all, and seem to get on rather well without them.

It is assumed that the ever-growing trend toward efficiency is to be blamed for the dropping of oversized names, for it has long been understood that a person with a two-ply title need not be especially embarrassed about it. In the course of a wealthy man's life it means the writing of about 10,000-000 useless words if he uses his middle name on checks and indorsements, and these things have got to be considered.

The Porcelain club at Harvard, the most exclusive organization of its kind in the country, proves this year the falling value of middle names. There are fifteen members this year, and but five of them are burdened with excessive nomenclature.

Of course, George Washington and Abraham Lincoln had no middle names, but this evidence is considered as nothing at Harvard compared with the fact that Theodore Roosevelt hasn't. That one fact is almost enough to wreck the complicated title system at the university.

WHY WOMEN WRITE LETTERS

To Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co.

Women who are well often ask "Are the letters which the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. are continually publishing, genuine?" "Are they truthful?" "Why do women write such letters?"

In answer we say that never have we published a fictitious letter or name. Never, knowingly, have we published an untruthful letter, or one without the full and written consent of the woman who wrote it.

The reason that thousands of women from all parts of the country write such grateful letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives, once burdened with pain and suffering.

It has relieved women from some of the worst forms of female ills, from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, nervousness, weakness, stomach troubles and from the blues.

It is impossible for any woman who is well and who has never suffered to realize how these poor, suffering women feel when restored to health; their keen desire to help other women who are suffering as they did.

THE REPORTER'S CORRESPONDENT WRITES ANOTHER LETTER

Camp Spaulding, Concord, N. H., August 21, 1916.

Editor The Reporter, Antrim, N. H.,

Dear Sir:

This last week has been somewhat of a busy one here for the boys in khaki. During the last week we have had our cotton suits issued to us, making it more agreeable during the marches. On Wednesday of last week the boys took a hike to Manchester which was a good test. They made the trip of twenty miles in about five hours of actual marching time, starting at 4.30 a. m. and arriving and pitching shelter tents before one o'clock p. m.

The dinner which followed was appreciated by each and every one, leaving no waste behind. About 3 o'clock the boys were entertained by a ball game between the Manchester police and Camp Spaulding nine, which was won by the police. On the following morning they left Manchester around 7 o'clock and arrived home, Camp Spaulding, about 7 in the evening with some tired and a few sore feet which were taken care of after a hearty meal prepared by the cooks.

Monday forenoon Troop A had a new experience sprung on them which was good training. They had the field rations issued to them, which consisted of one good sized potato, a meat ball, one spoonful of coffee and then told to go and cook it or go without—the former was done. The boys all relished their own cooking.

The prospects of moving are very good as we are now fully equipped.

There are now several dog mascots waiting to go to the border which give the boys considerable amusement.

Yours truly,
H. E. Paige.
