JULY FOURTH

Fittingly Celebrated in Antrim

Antrim's Fourth of July observance was complete in every way; even the crowd completely filled the town hall where the celebration was held. The arrangements were under the auspices of the local Public Safety Committee and the exercises were held on the evening of the Fourth, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The following was the program as carried out, under the direction of Robert W. Jameson, chairman of the above committee, who presided during the evening:

Prayer, Rev. W. J. B. Cannell; Reading of President Wilson's Message; Singing by the audience, The Star Spangled Banner; Reading of the Declaration of Independence, Archie M. Swett; Renewal of Allegiance to the Flag, by the audience; Mammy Moon, Camp Fire Girls; Address, Hon. Clarence E. Carr; Singing by the audience, Keep the Home Fires Burning; Tableau—Spirit of 1918, Pathfinder and Camp Fire Girls and Boy Scouts; Hoover Chorus—Battle Cry of "Feed 'em," Pathfinder Girls; Singing by the audience, There's a Long, Long Trail; Tableau—Be Prepared; Singing by the audience, America; Benediction, Rev. R. S. Barker.

The singing was led by the Union Choir, under the direction of Ralph G. Winslow.

The audience was invited to remain for a social half hour after the completion of the program; this was a very pleasing number and its sociability was greatly enjoyed by all.

The patriotic address of the evening by the Hon. Clarence E. Carr, of Andover, this state, who is a member of the New Hampshire Public Safety committee, was listened to with much interest by all present. He is an enthusiastic speaker, with his heart in the cause, and says things worth saying. His remarks were encored repeatedly and received the close attention they deserved.

A Narrow Escape

An accident took place on July Fourth at the entrance of the covered bridge, on the Antrim end, when two autos figured in the mixup. A Ford car driven by a Hancock man was coming through the bridge at a reasonable speed; a Buick car being driven slowly by a Warner man was about to enter the bridge, and thinking he did not have room to pass between the Ford and side of bridge, preferred to strike the bridge rather than the Ford, which he did. His right front wheel was wedged between a large stone and the upright timbers of the bridge. Aside from some damage to his car which was repaired the following day, no one was injured in any way though quite badly frightened. All of which goes to furnish convincing evidence that great care must be exercised at both ends of this bridge when going in either direction; it is a very dangerous place for autos and teams as well, to say nothing of pedestrians of whom there are quite a number all the time.

Former Pastor To Preach Here Next Sunday

Rev. F. A. Arbuckle has recently been commissioned as Army Chaplain and will soon go to France.

He will preach at the First Presbyterian Church on Sunday, July 14. In the evening a union service will be held, at which it is hoped he will give us some interesting information on camp life. His family also will accompany him, as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Goodwin.

Red Cross Notice

Up to this time no yarn has been received for sweaters or stockings this month. When a supply arrives notice will be posted on the bulletin board on the Town Hall. Knitters please watch for the notice.

ARMY CHAPLAIN

Tells Why We Are In the War

Rev. Lyman Rollins, chaplain of the 101st Infantry, who is in this country trying to obtain more chaplains for the American Army in France, has some very pertinent things to say which will serve to open the eyes of many of the American people. Here are a few of his statements, and they coincide very closely with the thoughts of a great many, whether they have put their thoughts into words or not:

It is a disgrace to the Christian church that this war could have come about, for if every man had been doing his duty toward God there would have been no war. Says that the war was directly due to the people of Germany and the Allied Countries, including the United States, having forgotten God, a gross materialistic system having been palmed off on the world in place of Christianity during the last 40 years, manifested in Germany by militarism and "in this country by a desire for money and pursuit of pleasure. Also says that God is purging the world of selfishness and bringing about a spirit of brotherhood by means of this war. The church was becoming worldly, but the war is driving the soldiers and the people at home back to God in great numbers and now affords an opportunity for the church such as it has never had before and never will have again. He urges the great need of more chaplains to meet the spiritual needs of the soldiers at the front; and says the boys are generally religious—the old selfishness so common at home has given way to constant thought of others.

Chaplain Rollins says that he has it straight from Gen. Pershing that there will be no letting down of the moral standard that has so far existed in the service; and along this line speaks with much earnestness, and the pride of our people is touched when reading what he says.

Information from Local Board Number Two

Local Board No. 2 for Hillsborough County has examined 26 men of the class of 1918; has accepted 18; has accepted one in addition after remedial surgical treatment; has accepted for limited service 3, rejected 2 and referred 2 to the Medical Advisory Board.

This indicates that a much larger proportion of the class of 1918 are physically fit for service than was true of the class of 1917.

Local Board No. 2 for Hillsborough County is struggling with the problem of filling the quota of 95 men to be called to service July 25. Seventy-eight men have been called, some of whom should have been deferred for agriculture and other reasons. The Board has examined every questionnaire in its possession to increase the number of men in class one, and by this process has accepted and called six, in addition to the 78.

Many registrants, subjects of Great Britain and subject to the Canadian draft have expressed a preference for service in the U. S. army, but to date none of them have volunteered for immediate service. It looks like these men were to lose their opportunity for service in the U. S. army by their delay.

The number of men found to volunteer will determine what further calls it will be necessary to make on men who have been deferred for agriculture and whom the Local Board is exhausting every effort to save from present call. The Local Board is making careful investigation of men deferred for agriculture, and a considerable number of men have been found slacking on the job, and the District Board has been requested to allow their call for immediate service.

C. S. Emerson, Chairman.

A FEW MORE

Suggestions in Using Service Flag

Members of the Household

a. When flown from a home a husband, son, father, or brother may properly be represented on a service flag, even though he did not actually leave from that household directly to go into the service, but in case of any more distant relatives they should actually be members of the household where the flag is displayed and have left for the service directly from such household. Domestic employees, roomers, or boarders should not be represented.

b. When flown by a club or other society only those who are actually members, active or honorary, of such club or society should be represented. Stars should not be placed thereon for husbands, sons, fathers, or brothers, or other relatives of members merely because of such relationship.

c. When flown by a business concern it should represent only members of the firm and employees going directly to the service from such place of business, with some continuous relation existing and where there is an expectation of return to the employment. Since the stars should represent only those who are an integral part of the business or organization which flies the flag, the service flag of a building should not contain stars to represent tenants who have gone into the service from such building any more than the service flag of a mercantile concern should represent its customers, or a professional concern its clients, or a hotel its guests.

Schools and Colleges

a. Schools and colleges may properly represent trustees, members of the faculty, graduates, and undergraduates.

b. Organization flags—There is some sentiment in favor of distinguishing flags representing members of a family from those representing members of organizations by limiting the individual stars to the family flags, the organizations to use a single star with a numeral to indicate the number who have gone and to represent individually, by silver and gold stars, only those who are invalided, wounded, or killed. This would enable anyone clearly to determine in any doubtful case whether the persons represented are members of the family or employees; and, in cases where there are a large number would show more distinctly how many have gone from such organizations.

Draper contained several public bequests including the following: To the First Baptist church of Sanbornton, $1,000 in trust; the town of Sanbornton, $1,000, as a trust fund for the poor; city of Franklin cemetery trust funds, $2,000. Day Nursery Plan.

The manufacturers of Keene are planning and investigating the matter of a day nursery, whereby mothers of young children may leave them during the day while they are employed in the factories. Some of the manufacturers of the city have made investigations of day nurseries in other places and it is believed that one will be instituted in Keene before long. It is the plan to have the nursery in charge of a competent nurse and assistants. It is believed that more than 100 women in the city would take advantage of the day nursery plan and secure employment in various factories, thus relieving somewhat the labor problem. There is to be a canvass of the names of people who desire the day nursery and if enough women desire one, the manufacturers in the city will establish it and probably assist in maintaining it.

Notable Launching at Portsmouth.

New Hampshire nobly responded to General Pershing's appeal to "build a bridge of boats to carry our troops across the Atlantic." Accompanied by Fourth of July din, by thousands of automobile horns and steamer whistles, and in the presence of a crowd estimated at 10,000 people three wooden ships for Emergency Fleet Corporation were launched at Newington, Portsmouth, within the space of two hours. The event was without precedent in the history of shipbuilding on the Atlantic Coast. It had added significance from the fact that this first launching from a New Hampshire shipyard within the memory of men still living restores the ancient prestige of the Granite State which is indicated by its official state seal.

Old Hotel Out of Business.

A. J. Mearney who has conducted the Central Hotel at Franklin for about three years has closed the business and moved the furnishings from the house. The Central hotel formerly the Kennedy hotel had been doing business nearly 40 years. Young's hotel which had been a leading commercial hotel of the city for many years, has closed its dining room but is providing lodging accommodations to travellers. The Webster, located on Main street is the only house in the city providing hotel accommodations as of old.

Will Assist the Farmers.

In the next few weeks many of the factories in Keene will be shut down for the summer vacation and to allow time for the inspection of the factory boilers. Agent F. N. Darling of the Cheshire county farm bureau has secured a list of the farmers who desire help during the haying season and a large number of men will work a part of their vacation on farms, assisting the farmers in harvesting their abundant hay crops.

Formerly Congregational Church.
The new Park theatre, the handsomely refitted old First Congregational church at Nashua, was formally opened last week as a moving picture and vaudeville house with E. S. McQuesten as manager. Much money has been spent by the stock company of local men who own it and it was lit up for the opening with the most gorgeous varicolored lights ever seen in the city.

Still Strong and Active.
F. B. McAfee, the widely known baggage expressman of Nashua has reached 70 years of age. He celebrated the event hustling heavier trunks than most men of any age in the city would hesitate to tackle.

Hurt by Kick From Cow.
Frank J. French, about 60 years old, a prominent farmer of Tilton, was seriously injured by the kick of a cow in his barn. The animal's hoof struck him fair in the mouth, and he was taken to the Laconia hospital, badly hurt.

New Hampshire Income Tax.
Taxes on incomes and excess profits in New Hampshire for the fiscal year ending last June 30, totalled $21,924,593.

Celebrate Golden Anniversary.
Ex-Mayor and Mrs. John S. Tilton of Portsmouth observed the 50th anniversary of their marriage at the home of their son, Bertram M. Tilton, at the Intervene, Kittery on the Fourth. Mr. Tilton was born in Chester, April 12, 1845. In 1879 and 1880 he was a member of the common council and later served two years in the board of aldermen. In 1882 he was elected mayor and was instrumental in having the Portsmouth street railroad built.

Mr. Tilton is a member of Damon lodge, K. of P.; St. Andrew's lodge, A. F. and A. M.; New Hampshire lodge, I. O. O. F. He married Miss Abigail Bonin and their family consists of three sons, Bertram M., Frank and John S., Jr., and one daughter, Mrs. Ralph H. Jordan.

Farmers' Meeting Planned.

At a meeting of the advisory board of the state department of agriculture, held in Commissioner Andrew L. Felker's office at the State House, Concord, it was voted to co-operate with New Hampshire college officials and other farm organizations in a big summer farmers' meeting at Durham in August. The board will co-operate also with the promoters of the dairy meeting in Mechanics' Building, Boston, next December. The dairy meeting will emphasize the value of milk products as food and demonstrations of the manufacture of these products will be given including the scientific making of cheese, condensed milk and other milk products.

Large Turnout at Portsmouth.

The celebration of the Fourth at Portsmouth included a patriotic parade in the afternoon. The line of procession was composed of the Greek and Italian women College club, girls from the Morley Button Manufacturing company and from the navy yard, yeowomen, nurses, Red Cross unit, Camp Fire girls, Patriotic league and Camp Beauregard, Boy Scouts, teachers, Grafton club and girls from the Gale Shoe company.

Wool Pool Proposed.

The officers of the Cheshire county farm bureau are trying to interest the farmers in that section who raise sheep to pool their wool in order to obtain the top notch prices which buyers about the country are paying. It is the plan to have the wool inspected at some central point and then let the buyers make their bids and sell to the highest bidder. It is reported that this plan has been tried out in other sections and has proved successful.

This is the American hospital ship Comfort which the war department intended to send across the Atlantic without protection to test the behavior of the Germans. Since the sinking of the Canadian hospital ship Llanover Castle the plan has been held up and may be abandoned.

NEWS REVIEW OF THE PAST WEEK

Most Glorious Independence Day in History of the United States Celebrated.

HUNDRED VESSELS LAUNCHED

President Wilson Declares There Can Be No Compromise With the Foe—Secretary Baker's Heartening Statement—Confusing State of Affairs in Russia.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

With more than a million Americans in France fighting for the freedom of the world; with more than another million Americans in training for the same great contest; with the submarine menace finally overcome, the "bridge across the Atlantic" completed and its maintenance assured by the tremendous amount of shipbuilding accomplished and underway; with quantity and quality production of airplanes and artillery announced; with huge crops in prospect, and finally with the nation solidly behind the government in its plans for the prosecution of the war to a victorious finish, the people of the United States very properly made the celebration of the Fourth of July the greatest celebration in the history of the country. No task so great and glorious ever before confronted them, no more lofty idealism ever inspired them to perform the task, never was their confidence in their power so absolute.

With reason, too, was the national holiday celebrated by the allies of America, and especially gratifying was the fact that the day was made a national holiday by many of the Latin-American republics for that indicates that the unreasonable jealousy and fear of the United States some of them have entertained is passing away.

Though last Thursday was not so noisy as the old-time Fourth, there was one most glorious noise that, figuratively speaking, must have been distinctly heard in Berlin and Vienna. That was the "grand splash" when about one hundred vessels were launched at the various shipyards of the country. Between sunrise and sunset approximately half a million tons of dead weight shipping was added to the fleets that are defeating the submarine pirates, carrying our armies to France and transporting the food and munitions for them and our allies. This greatest ship launching in all history was the most significant feature of the day's celebrations.

In the fiscal year just ended 1,622 new ships were numbered by the bureau of navigation, their gross tonnage being 1,430,793. This was a record output and one-half of it was completed in the last four months. In the new fiscal year this record will be eclipsed, for many new shipyards are just getting started. The loyalty and devotion of the shipyard workers were justly recognized by the government officials from the president down, and by the people, and the praise for their efforts is shared by the railroad workers, without whose devoted co-operation the achievements of the vessel builders would not have been possible.

Beautifully dovetailing in with all this was the announcement by Senator Swanson, chairman of the naval affairs committee, that with the co-operation of the American destroyers the allied naval forces have destroyed 65 per cent of the submarines sent out by Germany, and that they are now destroying the U-boats faster than they can be replaced.

Secretary of War Baker's detailed statement to the house committee on military affairs was made just in time to give added zest to the celebration of the Fourth. He said the American army now consisted of 160,400 officers and 2,010,000 enlisted men and that on July 1 practically a million of them were in France; that the death rate for disease among all troops in the United States was only 3.16 per thousand; that the number of combat planes delivered to June 8 was 258, the production for the week ending on that day being 80; that 5,315 training planes had been delivered to June 8, more than 2,000 Liberty engines, and 37,500 machine guns for use on airplanes. Between the declaration of war and June 1 more than 1,800,000 rifles were produced and delivered and equip a division every three days. Mr. Baker told many other encouraging facts, and enlarged on the wonderful work of the American engineers who enlarged port facilities and built railroads in France for the landing and movement of American troops.

If the central powers would know the unwavering determination of the people of the allied nations, they have but to read President Wilson's Independence Day address at the tomb of Washington, in which it was voiced most eloquently. "There can be but one issue," declared the president. "The settlement must be final. There can be no compromise. No halfway decision would be tolerable. No halfway decision is conceivable." He thus put our great objects in a single sentence: "What we seek is the reign of law, based upon the consent of the governed and sustained by the organized opinion of mankind." In less formal language, the Huns must be whipped to a frazzle, for until they are their rulers will not accept such a peace as the allies will grant, and the people of Germany and Austria, with too few exceptions, are like sheep.

In the absence of any great military operations on the French and Italian fronts last week attention was largely directed toward Russia. What shall be done to aid that distracted country is a problem still unsolved, and it is made more difficult by the lack of reliable information as to what is going on there. The reports of the downfall of the bolsheviks and the re-establishment of the monarchy with Grand Duke Nicholas as czar, which came through the always unreliable German sources of news, were given little credit, but it appears to be the truth that Grand Duke Michael is co-operating with the Czecho-Slovak forces in Siberia and that they are establishing their rule in that country. The Ukrainian telegraph bureau at Kiev says Michael has been proclaimed czar and is marching toward Moscow.

Washington received official reports confirming the news that the Czecho-Slovaks had whipped the bolsheviks in a bloody battle at Vladivostok and taken over the administration of that port. It may be they will form the nucleus for the gathering of the elements that have revolted against the bolsheviks and before long be recognized by the allies as a stable government and given aid. It is now admitted in Germany that the German and Austro-Hungarian war prisoners in Russia are fighting on the side of the bolsheviks.

Up in the province of Archangel, which extends across northern Russia in Europe, there is new trouble brewing. At Kola and along the railroad southward from that port are great stores of war supplies now guarded by American and allied marines and blue-jackets, and moving toward that region is a large force of Germans and Finns. Submarines already are reported to be in the White sea. It may be the allies will find it necessary to send troops up there. Delegates from the Murman and White sea coasts already have asked them for protection.

The Swedish press says the kaiser has ordered the Finnish diet to introduce monarchical rule without delay, threatening that if it does not comply Germany will set up a military dictatorship.

Having discovered extensive movements of troops and materials behind the German lines in the Chateau Thierry region, indicating a coming attack, the Americans stationed there took the initiative and, in the most important operation they had thus far undertaken by themselves, they captured the village of Vaux and the Bois de la Roche, advancing their lines on a front of several kilometers and occupying strong strategic positions. Previous to the attack the American artillery utterly demolished Vaux, and the assault which followed was equally efficient and complete. The enemy lost heavily in killed and wounded and several hundred prisoners and considerable material were taken. All next day the new American positions were subjected to heavy bombardment and then the Huns made a fierce counter-attack, but did not regain a foot of the ground they had lost. The American machine guns and artillery mowed down the enemy in heaps, and our losses were comparatively slight. A complete American army corps of 220,000 men under command of Gen. Hunter Liggett now holds the Chateau Thierry sector.

The French started off the week with an important advance between Soissons and Chateau Thierry, capturing a commanding ridge and other points that the Germans had organized as the jumping off place for their next attack. The British moved their line forward northwest of Albert, but after several counter-attacks they were compelled to withdraw to their former positions.

On Independence day the Australians, assisted by some Americans, took the town of Hamel and neighboring woods, and the French cut through the enemy lines near Attreches.

Observers at the front believe the Germans were about ready to launch another great blow, perhaps the greatest of all, despite their terrific losses since the beginning of the offensive on March 21, estimated at 800,000. The opposing forces there are now nearly or quite equalized by those losses and the arrival of more Americans, and the allied commanders and troops have not the least doubt of the solidity of their lines of defense.

The Italians continued their brilliant work last week, and the Austrians suffered accordingly. The latter were gathering their forces for new attacks in the mountain region, but General Diaz struck them first, and in a fierce battle won the formidable heights of Monte del Rosso, Monte di Val Bella and the Col di Chelo. These mountains on the northern edge of the Asiago plateau and just west of the Brenta river, are of great strategic importance. Their capture put the Italians in the strongest possible position to meet the expected offensive, in which German troops were expected to take part. The Italians also kept up a continuous series of attacks on the enemy along the Piave, and on Wednesday they forced their way forward across the partly flooded ground near the mouth of the river.

A characteristic piece of German brutality was the torpedoing of the Canadian hospital ship Llanover Castle off the Irish coast. About 200 lives were lost, including medical corps men and nursing sisters. The commander of the submarine questioned officers of the steamship concerning American flying officers whom he mistakenly supposed to be on board. Berlin sought to evade responsibility for this new outrage by asserting that the ship was sunk by a British mine. It may be that the sinking of the Llanover Castle will cause our war department to abandon its plan to send the hospital ship Comfort across without convoy or any attempt to avoid the enemy. It is difficult to see how Secretary Baker can find any excuse for trusting to the decency and humanity of the Huns, for they have repeatedly proved that they are wholly lacking in those qualities.

Holland has again aroused the United States and Great Britain, this time by making an agreement to sell 30,000 tons of potatoes to Germany in exchange for the right to purchase 30,000 tons of German coal. In Washington and London it was more than intimated that unless Holland canceled this agreement the breadstuffs promised the Dutch from America will not be provided.

The sultan of Turkey died on July 3 but this is unimportant for he was but the tool of the Young Turk party.

The Housewife and the War

(Special Information Service, United States Department of Agriculture.)
CAN—ALL WHO CAN CAN!

This Ordinary Wash Boiler, With a Wooden False Bottom, is Good Enough for Successful Home Canning.

MAKING SUCCESS AS HOME CANNER

Department of Agriculture Reduces Essential Principles to Simple Terms.

FULL INFORMATION ON WORK

Small Children, Grandfathers and Grandmothers May Be Efficient Soldiers in Service of Nation by Assisting.

Anybody who can do good housework and who will make a serious effort to master some essential details can be a successful home canner.

Of course, good sense and more than ordinary care must be exercised, and certain definitely demonstrated principles must be adhered to.

It is not necessary to discuss those principles here. The United States department of agriculture has reduced them to simple terms and printed them in plain language. Full printed information on canning may be had from the department of agriculture by any who care to ask for it—both general information and specific information on particular fruits and vegetables. In addition to that, the department of agriculture has an army of home demonstrators, experts in canning, who are anxious to give practical, first-hand instruction, and one of whom is within reach of practically every housewife in the United States.

Operation and Equipment.

The operation is simple. Means of instruction are adequate and easily available. The equipment is neither expensive nor hard to find. An ordinary wash boiler with some strips of board at the bottom is as good a canning boiler as can be found. There is no equipment required in canning beyond the ordinary articles to be found in the average household.

The things that must not be so readily dismissed is the duty of everybody to see to it that all fruits and vegetables not required for immediate use shall be canned and carried over into the winter, to increase the food supply of a world that, for some time to come, cannot be very far from the verge of hunger.

There is, as everybody knows, a shortage of available labor for food production. All people cannot do all the kinds of labor that are necessary to produce food. But here is an opportunity for those who cannot plant and plow, harvest and gather into the garner—an opportunity to make available large quantities of as good food as there is in the world.

Housewife as Director.

Probably the housewife, in most cases, will have to be the director of the canning operations. But, in most cases, she will not have to do all, or even the greater part, of the labor. In most of the processes of canning, boys and girls—even comparatively small boys and girls—can be efficient helpers. Old persons—grandmothers who have ceased to be active heads of houses and grandfathers who have long since retired from business—can do excellent work in helping along the canning operations—can render as real and as efficient service to the nation as their stalwart sons who are growing food crops or making munitions of war or building ships.

Club in Every Home.

There might very well be a canning club in every house. In a few cases, of course, the club must consist just of the husband and the wife. But, in the great majority of cases there will be a large membership—some boys and girls, a grandmother or a grandfather, or both. And it could be made a mighty interesting organization, because, in the first place, it would be a military organization fighting for the freedom of the world. Think of it! Mother as the general in command, directing a campaign against the kaiser, and all the other members of the family constituting units in the army, each with a particular and important duty. A thousand times you have wished that you could have fought beside grandpa when he was a soldier in a great war. Here is the chance. Three generations fighting shoulder to shoulder on the right side of the greatest war the world has ever seen!

MORE CANNED GOODS

First Step—Get jars and tops, clean them, and have them ready for use.

Second Step—Have new rubber rings ready to put the seal on your canned products.

Third Step—Conveniently arrange canning outfit and other equipment.

A determination to save food and help your country, coupled with a plentiful supply of fresh vegetables and fruits, if carefully managed by safe and sanitary methods, will give results that are successful and satisfying.

Bulletins containing directions for canning, preserving, jelly making, drying and other conserving methods will be sent free on request to the United States department of agriculture, Washington.

Practical Cannergrams.

Get down to cases—cases of home-canned products.

Sterilized, sealed, saved—the three "S's" of home canning.

S. O. S.—Sterilize on stove—another way of saying "boil those jars of fruits and vegetables so they will keep perfectly."

The useful life of a preserving jar—filled in summer, ready by fall, emptied in winter—hungry to save more food next spring and summer.

A wooden false bottom in a home-canning outfit is a raft that keeps lots of perishable food from being lost.

An all-round good thing for the nation—a rubber ring on a preserving jar.

A fourth floor apartment is a fine place to produce a canned garden.

Persons of every level should can, the family in the top flat as well as the dweller in the bungalow.

You don't need even a foot of earth to raise a canned garden—in fact the less dirt the better in home canning.

The colors of those jars of canned and preserved products put a service emblem in your kitchen.

Brighten the corner in that kitchen closet—with canned beans, fruits, berries.

Jesus Only

By REV. EDMUND F. COOK, D.D.,
Director Missionary Center, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—Be it known unto you all... that by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, even by him doth this man stand here before you whole... Neither is there salvation in any other, for there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved.—Acts 4:12

Peter boldly avouches the lame man to be healed by the name of Jesus and that by the same Jesus only we must be eternally saved.

Jesus Christ is indeed the only great teacher who, exemplifying the perfect qualities of sinless manhood, claimed authority to forgive sin and power to save men from sin, and saving them to keep them whole. Men of all ages and nations have stood in need of him. It has ever been the duty and responsibility of the church to make Christ known as the one and only Savior of men. Never has there been, however, a call so urgent as that which now comes to the church to present to the young men of America Jesus of Nazareth, the Christ of God, in all the matchless splendor of his manhood and in all the fullness of his saving grace. Never has there been a time when this salvation in Christ meant so much to our young men, never a time when it meant so much to the nation, and to the world. We have come upon the supreme test of character and manhood in the great battles of Europe. The crucial hour surely is at hand. Only the clear, strong, enduring, overmastering manhood of the allied armies can win in this mighty struggle. Who is able to impart this strength, but Christ only.

Never has there been a day when the moral power and physical strength of American manhood was so in demand and never a time when it was so imperiled. Our young men are gathered by the thousands and hundred thousands into the training camps, and are sent week after week into the battle-lines in France, removed from the home restraints to which they have been accustomed, and subjected in a new and trying way to manifold temptations. In spite of government efforts to protect them, and in spite of the devoted and heroic endeavors of the Christian forces of the army and the Y. M. C. A. to reach and to save them, the dram shop and the brothel, the boot-legger and the harlot, are seeking to reap a harvest which, from the standpoint of our country's need, is priceless. Legislation cannot change the hearts of men. Christ only can furnish the saving grace, the moral fortitude and the heroic courage that can take our young men safely through the mazes of temptation which must surround them from the beginning to the end of their experience in modern warfare in a world of sin.

The following story by a nurse in France is illustrative of the ruin wrought when the viperous grip of vice falls upon our sturdy lads: "One morning a nurse whose name you have seen in the papers went with me to a special clinic, and on our way back we passed a great building used for a hospital. "I can stand anything in this war but that," she said. "Why, what is there here worse than in other hospitals? Could anything be worse than we had at Verdun and Ypres? "Yes! yes! these are the boys who can fight for their country, but can't fight for themselves," she answered. "No wound received at the front is so frightful as the wounds of these men. Out there the wounds are awful and ghastly, but when they are washed and dressed, the boys look sweet and clean and wholesome. If they die, they die with honor; but these boys here suffer from diseases worse than leprosy. If they die, they die in loathsome horror. If they live, they are a curse to those who love them. These are the spoils of the brotherhood of the harlot."

"A few weeks later I was sent to that very hospital. It was all different. In other hospitals the soldiers like to have the nurses near them. We remind them of their mothers, sisters and sweethearts, and they are a little proud of their wounds. But in that one they are ashamed of their lives and disease and do not want a good woman near. They are morose and despondent. The blackest despair is in their eyes and hearts."

Oh how sorely these boys needed Christ in the fresh, sweet days of early manhood. If every manly power had been brought under captivity to Him, how different might have been the outcome of this testing time. Our thousands of fresh, clean lads gathering weekly in the great cantonments and pouring daily into the battle line in France must have a chance to know the Man of Galilee, that manliest of men, who is able to save them from sin and able wile to keep them whole.

15,000 POUNDS MEAT A MINUTE GOING TO ALLIES

One Hog Out of Every Four Being Sent Abroad.

Shipments of meat have been going to the allies for some time at the rate of 15,000 pounds a minute. As the shipments are kept up during a ten hour day they amount to 9,000,000 pounds daily. The meat goes to soldiers in the United States and the allies and to the civilian population of all the countries at war with Germany.

—Chicago Tribune, June 5, 1918

These statements were made by a prominent representative of the United States Food Administration.

No industry in the country has played a more important part in helping to win the war than the American livestock and meat-packing industry.

Swift & Company alone has been forwarding over 500 car loads of meat and meat products per week for overseas shipment.

Window Shades

Which run smoothly and stay put

Price is not the only thing to consider in purchasing shades. We offer you shades on rolls just as good as you used to get years ago when you paid twenty five cents for the roll alone, but you do not pay us any such amount; just a few cents above the price of the ordinary buys shades on rolls which will last as long as you live and will run smoothly every day.

We fit shades to your windows

If you need any considerable quantity and live within a reasonable distance we come and take the measures, fit the shades and hang in place. It saves you a lot of annoyance and if shades are not entirely satisfactory you know who is to blame and we put them right, but the shades in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred do give entire satisfaction.

U. S. N. DECK PAINT

for porches, floors and walls
DRIES HARD OVERNIGHT

There's no danger of spoiling clothes with wet paint if the chairs, swings, or other articles are coated with U. S. N. Deck Paint. Under ordinary conditions it dries hard in twelve hours and remains so. Weather conditions do not affect it, so it never becomes soft and sticky. It can also be repeatedly scrubbed with hot water and soap without injuring its surface.

Thousands of chairs on the steel pier at Atlantic City, N. J., are painted with U. S. N. Deck Paint because no other paint has been found that will stand the wear and tear as well.

Many beautiful shades to select from.

Ford cars are important servants everywhere. They help the family enjoy life, bring the pleasures and advantages of the town within reach of the farmer and give practical service every day in country and town. They require a minimum of attention; any one can run the Ford and care for it, but it is better to have repairs and replacements taken care of by those who are familiar with the work and have the tools, the genuine materials, and skilled men to do the work promptly. We pledge Ford owners the reliable Ford service with real Ford parts and standard Ford prices.

SEEKS TO LIMIT CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Committee on Public Safety Notifies Merchants Custom of Giving Presents Should be Discouraged This Year—Sawdown Leads State in Army and Navy.

Concord.—The State Committee on Public Safety has just sent to the merchants and manufacturers of New Hampshire a letter informing them that the Council of National Defense and the Advisory Commission at Washington believe that Christmas giving this year which involves the purchase of gifts should be discouraged. This is a much more radical recommendation than that made last year when it was urged that only useful gifts be given. The Council of National Defense feels this year that Christmas giving should be discouraged to relieve the present heavy burden placed upon labor transportation and other resources of the nation and as being in harmony with the previous announcement of the Council urging thrift and economy.

The Committee on Public Safety believes that although these principles involve far reaching modifications in Christmas customs they can be accomplished without impairing the essential value of Christmas as an institution.

WATCHING MANCHESTER STRIKE

The Committee on Public Safety has been in conference with John S. B. Davis State Commissioner of Labor regarding the strike in the Amoskeag and Stark Mills at Manchester. The Committee went over the situation very carefully and considers the matter one of extreme seriousness. The Committee hopes for a satisfactory settlement of the matters under dispute and is awaiting developments.

NEW APPROPRIATIONS MADE.

The Committee on Public Safety has made appropriations for the continued work of the Public Service Reserve and the Committee on Americanization. The Public Service Reserve under the direction of Clarence E. Carr of Andover is engaged in enrolling men for non-military war service of all sorts. It has already enrolled 1700 men for the shipbuilding yards.

The Committee on Americanization headed by General Frank S. Streeter of Concord has before it a very important program relating to the education of the non-English-speaking population of the state. The Committee's aim is to find some method of extending the use of English among these people and the imparting to them of a knowledge of American customs and ideals.

THURBER SUCCEEDS CARTER.

Lester F. Thurber of Nashua, Treasurer of the Second National Bank of that city, has been appointed a member of the Executive Committee of the State Committee on Public Safety to succeed Winthrop L. Carter of Nashua who recently resigned to take a place on the Federal Shipping Board in Philadelphia.

SANDOWN IN LEAD.

Prof. R. W. Husband, Secretary of the State Committee on Public Safety, has just compiled statistics showing the percentage of the population of New Hampshire now in the military and naval service. Prof. Husband finds that there are now enrolled in the military and naval service between 2 1/2 and 3% of the total population of the State. The town of Sandown leads all the rest with a total of 6% of its population in service. Among the cities, Keene leads with between 4 and 5%; Berlin, Portsmouth and Concord next with between 3 and 4%.

SERVICE FLAG RULES.

Local historians have just received from the Secretary of the Committee on Public Safety rules governing the use of the Service Flag and its stars. All New Hampshire citizens who have service flags, or who propose to have service flags and to display them, should consult the historian in their town on this matter.

MORE HONOR FAMILIES.

Several new New Hampshire honor families, that is, families who have three or more members in the military or naval service, are announced this week:
Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Kirk, Warren, have three sons in the service.
Mr. Lydia Jackson, Littleton, has three sons in the service.
Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall, Hinsdale, have three sons in the service.
Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Metcalf, Hinsdale, have two sons and one daughter.
Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Greene, Greenville, have three sons in the service.
Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hart, Deerfield, have three sons in the service.
Mrs. George Trotter, Groveton, has four sons in the service.

BREAKERS OF FOOD RULES PENALIZED

Seven Charged With Violations Reprimanded or Forced to Close Their Places of Business—Conserve Beef by Eating Pork—Wheat Reserve Needed Now.

Concord.—Seven men charged with violations of the Food Administration's regulations recently appeared before the Federal Food Administrator here for a hearing and were given various penalties from reprimands to enforced closing of their establishments.

T. T. Kosciuski, a baker, 486 Chestnut street, Manchester, was charged with having failed to use the proper amount of substitutes in his baking. He was reprimanded and ordered to use 1000 pounds additional substitutes for each of the next three months. He was also ordered to display a sign in his window from July 8 to July 22 stating that he has been penalized for violating the Food Administration's regulations and that he will not offend again.

The J. E. Pabis Baking Co., of Portsmouth was charged with having on hand an overstock of flour. It developed that their purchase of flour had been unavoidable and in this case the only penalty was to place the flour this concern holds, more than a thirty days' supply, at the disposal of the Food Administration.

Miciele Bianchi, a baker of 35 Deer street, Portsmouth, was charged with the improper use of substitutes. He was ordered to close his bakery for one day, July 8, and to display a sign in his window explaining that the store is closed because of his violating the Food Administration's regulations and that he has pledged himself not to violate these rules in the future.

H. Black, a baker of Newton avenue, Portsmouth, was charged with improper use of substitutes. Extenuating circumstances made the Food Administrator feel that this case should be dismissed with a reprimand. Mr. Black promised to follow the regulations strictly in the future.

The Cavaretta Bakery of Portsmouth was charged with the improper use of substitutes. The case was identical with that of Mr. Black's and the proprietor of the establishment was dismissed with a reprimand, upon his promise to follow the regulations carefully in the future.

Arthur Freeman, a baker of Portsmouth, charged with having failed to use the proper amount of substitutes was ordered to close his bakery for three days, beginning July 8 and to display the customary sign in the window.

H. A. Yeaton & Son of Portsmouth, wholesale flour and feed dealers, were charged with selling to unlicensed bakers, contrary to Food Administration regulations. Extenuating circumstances led the Administrator to dismiss this case with a reprimand, upon the promise of Mr. Yeaton to carefully follow the regulations in the future.

PORK AND BEEF ADJUSTMENT.

Developments in the world meat situation make additional conservation of beef in the United States necessary, but our increased supply of pork this summer permits a relatively free use of hog products. It will therefore be a direct service to our armies and the Allies if Americans will substitute in some degree fresh pork, bacon, ham and sausage for beef products.

The U. S. Food Administration now asks householders under no circumstances to buy more than 1-1/4 pounds of clear beef weekly or 1-1/2 pounds with the bone, for each person in the household. This program is expected to hold good until September 15 and the co-operation of the public is earnestly requested.

BUILD UP WHEAT RESERVE.

Our new wheat crop must be regarded as an important factor in maintaining the strength and morale of the armies and people in Allied Europe. Such an achievement can be accomplished only by regarding the coming crop of wheat as a means for building up a reserve practical and efficient in its possibilities. No mere assets of domestic convenience can equal the importance of an adequate reserve.

CAN THE SURPLUS.

The Food Administration officials in Washington are sending out word to the householders all over the United States to dry and can and preserve everything possible and store these up in every available container. If you have a surplus of products or can put up a surplus of fruits and vegetables, share your surplus with others. Such sharing of food stuff is not only neighborly and human but is true conservation, as it helps in the solution of the food and transportation problem. Home canned and preserved goods cannot be purchased or accepted as gifts for the Army and Navy. Every can put up at home, however, releases an additional quantity for export.

Hot Weather Poisons Hit The Stomach First

How to Keep Your Stomach Strong, Cool and Sweet

Hot weather always starts those quick chemical changes which produce poisons in meats, fish, fruits, vegetables, milk and food products. Such summer poisons in foods not only make well stomachs sick but develop with dangerous rapidity in sensitive, sick or ailing stomachs and bowels.

These poisons not only generate gases and fluids which cause that bloated, lumpy feeling, heartburn, sour stomach, belching, acidity, but endless other stomach and bowel miseries. A sure, safe, quick acting relief has been found which absorbs and neutralizes these poisons, too much acid and harmful gases. EATONIO Tablets, one or two taken after every meal, will keep your stomach sweet. You will have a good appetite to eat what you like, when you want it and be free from all these bad effects liable to come after a hearty meal in summer.

EATONIO Tablets are hot weather protectors for the stomach. They guard against the germs that lurk in the things you eat and drink. They rebuild tissues, soothe, promote digestion by aiding proper action of the stomach functions and insure speedy relief from indigestion and all stomach diseases.

EATONIO is good to eat like candy. People from all over send grateful testimonials. Tens of thousands are obtaining relief with EATONIO every day but the best evidence is to let your own stomach tell you the truth. Go to your druggist and get a big box of EATONIO. Tell him you want it for the prevention and sure relief of stomach and bowel disorders produced by hot weather poisons. Then if EATONIO fails to satisfy you—return it to your druggist, whom you know and can trust. He will cheerfully refund your money. If your druggist doesn't keep EATONIO—drop us a word. It will be delivered to your address and you can then pay for it. Address, E. L. Kramer, Pres., 303 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Dummy Airplanes.

Aviators from training camps throughout the country are completing their education in aerial gunnery at the finishing school near Lake Charles, La. The targets are reproductions of a German "taube" airplane placed on the surface of the lake and with a black cross painted thereon to represent the enemy pilot, the principal mark for the gunners.

HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES IF YOUR BACK ACHES

Do you feel tired and "worn-out"? Are you nervous and irritable? Don't sleep well at night? Have a "dragged out" unneeded feeling when you get up in the morning? Dizzy spells? Bilious? Bad taste in the mouth, backache, pain or soreness in the loins, and abdomen? Severe distress when urinating, bloody, cloudy urine or sediment? All these indicate gravel or stone in the bladder, or that the poisonous microbes, which are always in your system, have attacked your kidneys.

You should use GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules immediately. The oil soaks gently into the walls and lining of the kidneys, and the little poisonous animal germs, which are causing the inflammation, are immediately attacked and chased out of your system without inconvenience or pain.

Don't ignore the "little pains and aches," especially backaches. They may be little now but there is no telling how soon a dangerous or fatal disease of which they are the forerunners may show itself. Go after the cause of that backache at once, or you may find yourself in the grip of an incurable disease.

Do not delay a minute. Go to your druggist and insist on his supplying you with a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. In 24 hours you will feel renewed health and vigor. After you have cured yourself, continue to take one or two Capsules each day so as to keep in first-class condition, and ward off the danger of future attacks. Money refunded if they do not help you. Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand, and thus be sure of getting the genuine.—Adv.

Comfort and Entertainment for Soldiers

Theaters, Libraries, Hostess Houses and Club Rooms Meet Need of Men in Camp

LIBERTY THEATER, CAMP TAYLOR, LOUISVILLE, KY.

NAVY Y.M.C.A. BUILDING AT PHILADELPHIA

The war and navy departments' commissions on training camp activities were created at the beginning of the war to supply our young men everywhere in training with the normalities of life. Raymond B. Fosdick, chairman of these twin commissions, wished to accomplish this by creating as little new machinery as possible. Therefore, the Young Men's Christian association, the Knights of Columbus, the Jewish Welfare board, the American Library association and all such already existing organizations were called upon to lend their cooperation. The Young Women's Christian association came into the camps later with that unique institution, the Hostess House. This house was designed primarily to take care of women visitors to the camps and furnish a place of meeting between them and the men.

The commissions were determined to cover the whole ground in furnishing amusement, recreation and educational facilities for the soldiers and sailors. Wherever there seemed to be a gap that no existing agency was particularly prepared to fill the commission supplied the need direct, meeting the problem of a place to go to and be entertained in the evenings. The post exchange, or soldier's co-operative stores, were similarly started in the 16 National army camps, and furnish a place where the men may spend their money. Everything is on sale there from a shoe shine to a pink valentine and from an ice cream soda to a song book of the kind that the men use when they gather together by the thousands for mass singing.

Club life in the camps is furnished through the Y. M. C. A. and the K. of C., and in a few camps the Jewish Welfare buildings. Men may read, write, loaf and smoke, listen to music and write letters home in these buildings. Also, in the auditorium of each building, entertainments of all sorts or held. Camp talent muscades, athletic stunts, and imported entertainment programs all take place here, in addition to those given in the larger Y. M. C. A. auditorium in each camp, and in the Liberty theaters. The Hostess House furnishes the home life of the camp and has come to be popular with the men in the evenings all during the week. With the library to furnish him with plenty of good reading matter, and a quiet place to read in; with the post exchange playing the role of country store or corner drug store not only in supplying his needs, but in furnishing a place to meet his friends and swap stories—the men's needs are pretty thoroughly taken care of.

Thirty-six library buildings have already been completed in the military camps of the country, and others are under way. These buildings are made possible by a special grant from the Carnegie corporation of $320,000 and other funds.

The type of building chosen is new in the library world. They are wooden structures of rather plain design similar to the usual type of buildings found in modern camps. Most of the buildings in the cantonments are 120 by 40 feet, while those in smaller camps are 93 by 40 feet. Special attention has been given to adequate facilities for heating, ventilation and light, and many features are now being added to make these quiet, restful buildings more attractive and inviting than would be expected in the usual camp equipment. Some of the buildings have spacious open fireplaces built into inviting nooks. Others have closed porches, and all are equipped with fire extinguishers, drinking fountains and running water.

The interior is one large reading room, with two bedrooms located at one end for housing the library staff. Trained librarians are in charge of each building. All of the shelves are open for inspection and contain from 10,000 to 20,000 volumes. Each building has a comfortable seating capacity for about 200 readers. In the library building is housed the main supply of books for the camp, and from it branches are maintained in the barracks, the mess halls, hospitals, Y. M. C. A. and K. of C. buildings.

Each of the sixteen National army camps has been provided by the commissions on training camp activities with a Liberty theater building, having seating capacity of 3,000 and a stage accommodating the scenery for "Broadway" productions. These buildings are furnished with real footlights, dressing rooms and scenery for any ordinary production. There is also an orchestra pit where regimental bands play at every performance.

Nine theaters of a smaller type have been completed in the National Guard camps and others are in course of construction. The entire sixteen of these will have these buildings when the plan is completed. The approximate size of the larger cantonment theaters is 179 by 120 feet, with a seating capacity of from 2,500 to 3,000. The stages in those theaters are 60 by 32 feet and the floor of the house 132 by 120 feet. The National Guard camps' theaters have a seating capacity of 1,000; the building is 60 by 120 feet and the stage 22 by 40 feet. The house floors are approximately 90 by 60 feet.

Each theater has five entrances and fifteen exits, and is so constructed as to be easily emptied in case of fire. Much of the work of constructing these theaters has been carried on by the many electricians, scene painters and other expert mechanics who were discovered in the camps. Chautauqua tents are used for "shows" in the smaller camps, where regular dramatic productions, vaudeville and movies are provided by the government for the men.

The Hostess House is a large brown, bungalow-like building set near the entrance to the camp, and stands out distinctly against the background of unpainted army buildings.

Of the $5,000,000 Y. W. C. A. war fund, $1,350,000 was appropriated as an initial fund in starting the Hostess House work. Seventy of these buildings are already in operation. Some of the larger cantonments have two, or even three where the number of negro troops makes one seem advisable for colored women. Women architects have had the entire charge of the plans for the Hostess Houses. While these houses vary somewhat in size and detail, according to the demands of the situation, in general structure and style they are similar. The utmost degree of attractiveness in keeping with camp life has been attained both inside and outside of these buildings. Each one has a large chimney in the middle of the living room, a rest room for women, out of which opens a fully-equipped nursery; and the back of the building houses a cafeteria, where attractive meals are served. The buildings are electric lighted and steam heated, as are also the sun parlors which usually extend across two sides of the house. The second floor of the larger buildings contains not only the bedrooms of the resident hostesses and staffs, but emergency sleeping quarters for women stranded in camp.

The Y. M. C. A. has been on the ground from the first. Before the camps were entirely completed they had their headquarters established in tents and were present with a welcome to the incoming recruits. They dispensed information and good cheer. In fact, one of their representatives accompanied each of the incoming troop trains, going from car to car, addressing the men informally, telling them what the Y. M. C. A. stood for in camp and preparing them for the sort of thing that would greet them at camp. The Y. M. C. A. operates 178 army and navy stations at present. At the largest of these there are 14 buildings with a large force of secretaries and other officials.

The new standard service or so-called type "E" Y. M. C. A. building is an interesting architectural achievement. It is the last word in utility, compactness, economy of space, material and money efficiency and adaptability to a multitude of dissimilar uses. The problem was to find buildings that would be "all things to all men" in the cantonments. The demand was for some sort of structure that would simultaneously be home, club, church, schoolhouse and entertainment center for the men in the ranks, a place where the whole varied army Y. M. C. A. program could be going on at one time without any phase seriously interfering with other phases of the work; where there would be facilities for the movies, the lectures, or the religious talks, and where at the same time the man who wanted to write home, buy a stamp or a money order, wrap up a package, borrow a book or a magazine, play a game of checkers or chess, enjoy a chat with his chum or a heart-to-heart talk with the secretary could do so.

The type "E" building—with its modification, the type "F" building in use in National Guard camps—is the solution of the problem. Only a visit to one of these great camp centers, however, can give an adequate idea of how admirably it fulfills its purpose. The six-story Y. M. C. A.

Looking Through a Tunnel. The little streaks of the world you see when you are looking through the length of a tunnel is always beautiful by contrast. No matter if it is only a stretch of track with a few scrubby trees and an arch of blue sky above it, you, looking from the blackness of the tunnel, think it a picture worthy an artist's brush. To the sick good health seems happiness enough, and those who are in trouble ask nothing better than a mind free from care. But sensible people do not need to be deprived of life's blessings in order to appreciate them.

A Sane Outlook.

Exaggerated outpourings of our physical ills and troubles lead most certainly to their verification. Our minds respond to sensational stimuli (if we allow it to be retailed to us) until we also are vitiated. Exaggerating the faults or the merits of children give them an unduly distorted idea of their importance. The reading of sensational fiction unites us for a proper appreciation of standard literature; and exaggeration of architecture and house furnishings places us unmistakably in the ranks of the newly arrived.

Knitting was at one time a favorite pastime among male farm workers in Wales. Fifty years ago shepherd boys in Cardiganshire were supplied with sufficient wool to provide themselves with two pairs of stockings. Sixpence per pair was paid for stockings in excess of this number.

Testing Inventions. Inventions of a war nature must have prompt government attention. Therefore the United States government is setting apart an "inventions section" for immediate and thorough investigation of all devices of a mechanical, electrical or chemical nature submitted for test, sale or inspection. People who wish inventions considered should apply data: Name and object of invention, any claim for superiority or novelty, and results obtained by actual experiment, whether the invention is patented, whether remuneration is expected, whether the invention has been before any other agency, whether the writer is owner or agent. Drawings and descriptions should accompany. Communications should be addressed to Inventions Section, General Staff, Army War College, Washington.

AN AMERICAN SOLDIER WHO WENT

ARTHUR GUY EMPEY

MACHINE GUNNER, SERVING IN FRANCE

WRITTEN BY ARTHUR GUY EMPEY

EMPEY IS MEMBER OF FIRING SQUAD WHICH CARRIES OUT DEATH SENTENCE.

Synopsis.—Fired by the sinking of the Lusitania, with the loss of American lives, Arthur Guy Empey, an American living in Jersey City, goes to England and enlists as a private in the British army. After a short experience as a recruiting officer in London, he is sent to training quarters in France, where he first hears the sound of big guns and makes the acquaintance of "cooties." After a brief period of training Empey's company is sent into the front-line trenches, where he takes his first turn on the fire step while the bullets whiz overhead. Empey learns, as comrade falls, that death lurks always in the trenches. Chaplain distinguishes himself by rescuing wounded men under hot fire. With pick and shovel Empey has experience as a trench digger in No Man's Land. Exciting experience of listening post detail. Exciting work on observation post duty. Back in rest billets Empey writes and stages a successful play. Once more in the front trenches, Empey goes "over the top" in a successful but costly attack on the German lines. Soon afterwards Empey and his comrades repulse a determined gas attack launched by the Germans.

I shouted to the driver to stop, and in his nervousness he put on the brakes. We nearly pitched back head-first. But the applying of those brakes saved our lives. The next instant there was a blinding flash and a deafening report. All that I remember is that I was flying through the air, and wondering if I would land in a soft spot. Then the lights went out.

When I came to, Atwell was pouring water on my head out of his bottle. On the other side of the road the corporal was sitting, rubbing a lump on his forehead with his left hand, while his right arm was bound up in a blood-soaked bandage. He was moaning very loudly. I had an awful headache and the skin on the left side of my face was full of gravel and the blood was trickling from my nose.

But that ambulance was turned over in the ditch and was perforated with holes from fragments of the shell. One of the front wheels was slowly revolving, so I could not have been "out" for a long period.

The shells were still screaming overhead, but the battery had raised its fire and they were bursting in a little wood about half a mile from us.

Atwell spoke up. "I wish that officer hadn't wished us the best 'o' luck." Then he commenced swearing. I couldn't help laughing, though my head was nigh to bursting.

Slowly rising to my feet I felt myself all over to make sure that there were no broken bones. But outside of a few bruises and scratches I was all right. The corporal was still moaning, but more from shock than pain. A shell splinter had gone through the flesh of his right forearm. Atwell and I, from our first-aid pouches, put a tourniquet on his arm to stop the bleeding and then gathered up our equipment.

We realized that we were in a dangerous spot. At any minute a shell might drop on the road and finish us off. The village we had left was not very far, so we told the corporal he had better go back to it and get his arm dressed, and then report the fact of the destruction of the ambulance to the military police. He was well able to walk, so he set off in the direction of the village, while Atwell and I continued our way on foot.

Without further mishap we arrived at our destination, and reported to brigade headquarters for rations and billets.

That night we slept in the battalion sergeant-major's dugout. The next morning I went to a first-aid post and had the gravel picked out of my face. The instructions we received from division headquarters read that we were out to catch spies, patrol trenches, search German dead, reconnoiter in No Man's Land, and take part in trench raids and prevent the robbing of the dead.

I had a pass which would allow me to go anywhere at any time in the sector of the line held by our division. It gave me authority to stop and search ambulances, motor lorries, wagons and even officers and soldiers, whenever my suspicions deemed it necessary. Atwell and I were allowed to work together or singly—it was left to our judgment. We decided to team up.

Atwell was a good companion and very entertaining. He had an utter contempt for danger, but was not foolhardy. At swearing he was a wonder. A cavalry regiment would have been proud of him. Though born in England, he had spent several years in New York. He was about six feet one, and as strong as an ox.

We took up our quarters in a large dugout of the royal engineers, and mapped out our future actions. This dugout was on the edge of a large cemetery, and several times at night in returning to it, we got many a fall stumbling over the graves of English, French and Germans. Atwell on these occasions never indulged in swearing, though at any other time, at the least stumble, he would turn the air blue. A certain section of our trenches was held by the Royal Irish rifles. For several days a very strong rumor went the rounds that a German spy was in our midst. This spy was supposed to be dressed in the uniform of a British staff officer. Several stories had been told about an officer wearing a red band around his cap, who patrolled the front-line and communication trenches asking suspicious questions as to location of batteries, machine-gun emplacements, and trench mortars. If a shell dropped in a battery, on a machine gun or even near a dugout, this spy was blamed.

The rumor gained such strength that an order was issued for all troops to immediately place under arrest anyone answering to the description of the spy.

Atwell and I were on the qui vive. We constantly patrolled the trenches at night, and even in the day, but the spy always eluded us.

One day while in a communication trench, we were horrified to see our brigadier general, Old Pepper, being brought down by a big private of the Royal Irish rifles. The general was walking in front, and the private with fixed bayonet was following in the rear.

We saluted as the general passed us. The Irishman had a broad grin on his face and we could scarcely believe our eyes—the general was under arrest. After passing a few feet beyond us, the general turned, and said in a wrathful voice to Atwell:

"Tell this d—n fool who I am. He's arrested me as a spy."

Atwell was speechless. The sentry butted in with:

"None of that rassin' out 'o' you. Back to headquarters you goes, Mr. Fritz. Open that face 'o' yours again, an' I'll dent in your napper with the butt 'o' me rifle."

The general's face was a sight to behold. He was fairly boiling over with rage, but he shut up.

Atwell tried to get in front of the sentry to explain to him that it really was the general he had under arrest, but the sentry threatened to run his bayonet through him, and would have done it, too. So Atwell stepped aside, and remained silent. I was nearly bursting with suppressed laughter. One word, and I would have exploded. It is not exactly diplomatic to laugh at your general in such a predicament.

The sentry and his prisoner arrived at brigade headquarters with disastrous results to the sentry.

The joke was that the general had personally issued the order for the spy's arrest. It was a habit of the general to walk through the trenches on rounds of inspection, unattended by any of his staff. The Irishman, being new in the regiment, had never seen the general before, so when he came across him alone in a communication trench, he promptly put him under arrest. Brigadier generals wear a red band around their caps.

Next day we passed the Irishman tied to the wheel of a limber, the beginning of his sentence of twenty-one days, field punishment No. 1. Never before have I seen such a woebegone expression on a man's face.

For several days, Atwell and I made ourselves scarce around brigade headquarters. We did not want to meet the general.

The spy was never caught.

CHAPTER XXIV.

The Firing Squad.

A few days later I had orders to report back to divisional headquarters, about thirty kilos behind the line. I reported to the A. P. M. (assistant provost marshal). He told me to report to billet No. 78 for quarters and rations.

It was about eight o'clock at night and I was tired and soon fell asleep in the straw of the billet. It was a miserable night outside, cold, and a drizzly rain was falling.

About two in the morning I was awakened by some one shaking me by the shoulder. Opening my eyes, I saw a regimental sergeant major bending over me. He had a lighted lantern in his right hand. I started to ask him what was the matter, when he put his finger to his lips for silence and whispered:

"Get on your equipment, and without any noise, come with me."

This greatly mystified me, but I obeyed his order.

Outside of the billet, I asked him what was up, but he shut me up with: "Don't ask questions, it's against orders. I don't know myself."

It was raining like the mischief. We splashed along a muddy road for about fifteen minutes, finally stopping at the entrance of what must have been an old barn. In the darkness, I could hear pigs grunting, as if they had just been disturbed. In front of the door stood an officer in a mack (mackintosh). The R. S. M. went up to him, whispered something, and then left. This officer called to me, asked my name, number and regiment, at the same time, in the light of a lantern he was holding, making a notation in a little book.

When he had finished writing, he whispered:

"Go into that billet and wait orders, and no talking. Understand?"

I stumbled into the barn and sat on the floor in the darkness. I could see no one, but could hear men breathing and moving; they seemed nervous and restless. I know I was.

During my wait, three other men entered. Then the officer poked his head in the door and ordered:

"Fall in, outside the billet, in single rank."

We fell in, standing at ease. Then he commanded:

"Squad—'Shun! Number!"

There were twelve of us.

"Right—Turn! Left—Wheel! Quick—March!" And away we went. The rain was trickling down my back and I was shivering from the cold.

With the officer leading, we must have marched over an hour, plowing through the mud and occasionally stumbling into a shell hole in the road, when suddenly the officer made a left wheel, and we found ourselves in a sort of enclosed courtyard.

The dawn was breaking and the rain had ceased.

In front of us were four stacks of rifles, three to a stack.

The officer brought us to attention and gave the order to uplift arms. We each took a rifle. Giving us "Stand at ease," in a nervous and shaky voice, he informed:

"Men, you are here on a very solemn duty. You have been selected as a firing squad for the execution of a soldier, who, having been found guilty of a grievous crime against king and country, has been regularly and duly tried and sentenced to be shot at 3:28 a. m. this date. This sentence has been approved by the reviewing authority and ordered carried out. It is our duty to carry on with the sentence of the court.

"There are twelve rifles, one of which contains a blank cartridge, the other eleven containing ball cartridges. Every man is expected to do his duty and fire to kill. Take your orders from me. Squad—'Shun!'"

We came to attention. Then he left. My heart was of lead and my knees shook.

Empey, in the next installment, tells the gripping story of a "coward," whose streak of yellow turned white.

Inculcating the Spirit. It was holiday week, but a mother and child had managed somehow to get a whole seat on the car. Suddenly the little girl slid off the seat, and facing her mother, cried out, with anguish in her childish voice: "Oh mother, I forgot to get anything for teacher."

"Well, what 'o' it?" the mother answered tartly. "She didn't get nuthin' for you," and she sat the child down hard on the seat, partly to keep the woman in the aisle from taking any privileges, and partly, perhaps, to impress on the child the Christmas spirit—as she saw it.

Still on the Job. The old-fashioned door-knocker seems to have gone out of style," remarked the Observer of Events and Things, "but, don't make any mistake, opportunity is still on the job."

HOME TOWN HELPS

IDEAS FOR HOME BUILDERS

Thorough Planning Before Construction is Begun Means Satisfaction When Home is Completed.

Few persons in planning the location of a house take into consideration the necessity of having the rooms so placed as to make them as comfortable as possible. Little heed is paid as to which way the lot should face and on which side of the house certain rooms should be placed. Careful attention to what are considered for the most part as immaterial points in building location and design is very important and results in satisfaction after the house is built.

The lot should face either the south or west and whatever else is done the house must suit the grounds on which it is built. The dining room is a great factor, worthy of consideration, and it should be so planned as to leave south or east exposure. If so located it will be warmed by the morning sun and at other times will be sheltered from the hot sun. The living room of library should have south or west exposures. The hall in many instances may be made into a combination reception room and front hallway. In this way the living room or library is given more privacy.

Kitchens should be well lighted and ventilated, while bedrooms are much more comfortable when they are of ample size and have windows of sufficient size to provide light and air. Bathrooms should be featured by their cleanliness and lack of ornate trimmings. Open-work plumbing, thus exposing to view the pipes and giving an opportunity to clean them, should be a feature of these rooms.

Cellars are factors also needing attention. One with a cement floor in a house with a good foundation and guarded against waters from heavy storms should be sought, and this can be obtained by careful planning as to details.

THREE THINGS TO CONSIDER

Vital Points Must Be Studied Before Work of Remodeling House is Put Under Way.

In the problem of remodeling a country house three elements are vital in determining the plans: the site, the surroundings and the amount of money to be expended. The extent of the plot of ground, if restricted to a small area with little likelihood of future increase by accession, will be an important factor in deciding the general changes of the house, as some types of building require more space, further distance from the road and other essentials to bring out their best lines.

A country house should harmonize with its surroundings in design, color and materials. A house standing out boldly on the top of a hill and visible for miles should differ essentially in appearance from one nesting in among the trees at the edge of the woods, from a house on the banks of a lake or from a villa set back from the village street. Every natural advantage from the standpoint of health, view, light and convenience should be utilized; every disadvantage neutralized. The amount of money to be expended is a factor determining the extent and manner in which the other two vital elements may be best met and mastered.

Home Beautifying.

The principles of proper planting are not hard to master. The shrubs should be massed into corners and borders, and a selection made differing in height so that all of them can be seen and intermingling in effect, with their bloom coming at different seasons, so that they are always interesting. You can easily choose this gradation from the lists referred to. One often sees an elegant house that lacks the final touch to change it into a "home." Landscape planting is the frame of the picture; the artistic setting; that final touch that changes your house to a home. As a background or frame to the picture which is to be created shrubs or trees are indispensable, the idea being to have the surroundings harmonize so that the impression will be comfortable and homelike.

Consider Needs of Trees.

Two strong points must be urged in the planting of trees in either street or garden, but more especially in street trees. One of these is the matter of improving methods of watering. In all plantings on streets a tile, pipe or box should be placed so that water may be applied not less than three feet below the surface. A more important matter is that of adequate width in parkways. In some soils drainage is also necessary or good results will not be had.

Paris Sets Good Example.

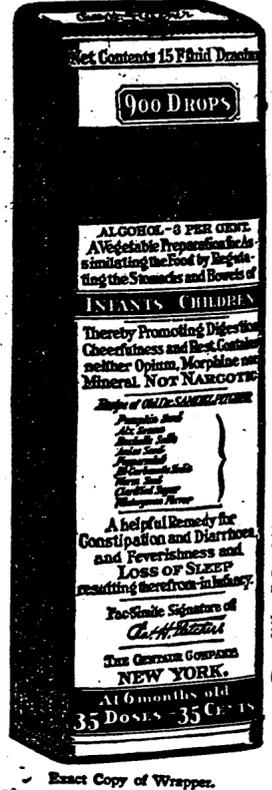

Paris contains 86,000 street trees and these constitute the city's chief claim to beauty. In spite of this being their most glorious possession the trees are maintained at considerable expense, for the soil of Paris is very poor. Yet how lamely do we plant and control, where the best trees nearly care for themselves throughout the year.

A Great Responsibility.

THE responsibility attached to the preparing of a remedy for infants and children is undoubtedly greater than that imposed upon the manufacturer of remedies for adults whose system is sufficiently strong to counteract, for a time at least, any injurious drug. It is well to observe that Castoria is prepared today, as it has been for the past 40 years, under the personal supervision of Mr. Chas. H. Fletcher.

What have makers of imitations and substitutes at stake? What are their responsibilities? To whom are they answerable? They spring up today, scatter their nefarious wares broadcast, and disappear tomorrow.

Could each mother see the painstaking care with which the prescription for Fletcher's Castoria is prepared: could they read the innumerable testimonials from grateful mothers, they would never listen to the subtle pleadings and false arguments of those who would offer an imitation of, or substitute for, the tried and true Fletcher's Castoria.

Fletcher's CASTORIA

Extracts from Letters by Grateful Parents to Chas. H. Fletcher.

G. J. English, of Springfield, Mass., says: "It was your Castoria that saved my child."
Mrs. Mary McGinnis, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "We have given our baby your Castoria ever since she was born, and we recommend it to all mothers."
N. E. Calmes, of Marion, Ky., says: "You have the best medicine in the world, as I have given your Castoria to my babies from first to last."
Mrs. Albert Ugusky, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., says: "As I have had your Castoria in use for nearly three years, I am pleased to say it is just as represented. My children are both well and happy—thanks to Castoria."
R. P. Stockton, of New Orleans, La., says: "We began giving your Castoria to our baby when he was eight days old and have kept it up ever since, never having had to give any other medicine."
Mrs. Dolph Hornbuckle, of Colorado Springs, Colo., says: "We commenced giving your Castoria to our baby when she was four weeks old. She is now seven months and weighs 19 1/2 pounds. Everyone remarks: 'What a healthy looking baby.' We give Castoria credit for it."
