BRIEF HISTORIES

Of Antrim's Men and Women Who Served in War

Many of our boys who enlisted in the World War, from Antrim, have been honorably discharged from the different branches of the service to which they were attached, and the local historian, Fred C. Parmenter, has kindly given us the facts concerning their enlistment, service and discharge, and the Reporter will publish the same, the first installment appearing this week.

CHARLES H. ABBOTT
Son of John G. and Clara M. Hurlin Abbott; born in Antrim, Mar. 1, 1889. Commissioned 2nd Lieut. July 25, 1918; stationed at the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, N. Y. City. Honorably discharged Dec. 21, 1918.

ROBERT T. BARKER
Son of Robert S. and Alice B. Thompson Barker; born in Milton, N. H., Aug. 23, 1918. Entered the service Oct. 23, 1918; was in the Naval Radio service; stationed for a short time at the Naval Training Station at Hingham, Mass., then at the Radio School at the Naval Training Station, Newport, R. I. Released from active duty Mar. 8, 1919. His current enlistment expires July 21, 1922.

LAWRENCE K. BLACK
Son of Frank K. and Dora Trimm Black; born in Reading, Mass., Oct. 15, 1894. Entered the service Aug. 15, 1918; was sent to Dartmouth College, and was placed in the Signal Corps of the infantry; he was Bugler of E. Co. Honorably discharged Dec. 12, 1918.

BYRON G. BUTTERFIELD
Son of Charles F. and Annie I. Goodwin Butterfield; born in Antrim Nov. 22, 1894. Entered the service at Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass., in the 303rd Heavy Field Artillery; was promoted to Sergeant Nov. 1, 1917; at tended the 3rd Officers Training Camp at Devens, and sailed for France Apr. 16, 1918. Attended the Saumur Artillery School at Saumur, France; was made 2nd Lieut. Field Artillery June 1, 1918. Aug. 1, went to Camp DeBouge and was assigned to the Field Artillery. Sept. 1, went to the Front. Took part in the St. Mihiel offensive Sept. 12 and 13; was in the Meuse-Argonne offensive from Sept. 26 to Nov. 11. Sailed from Brest Mar. 4; arrived in New York Mar. 13, 1919. Honorably discharged at Camp Devens April 1, 1919.

PHILIP H. BUTTERFIELD
Son of Charles F. and Annie I. Goodwin Butterfield; born in Antrim May 8, 1899. Entered the service in the Coast Artillery May 31, 1918, at Fort Slocum; from there he went to Fort Greble, R. I., in June; he was also at Fort Adams for a short time, then to Camp Merret. He was promoted to Corporal Aug. 29, 1918. Crossed to France in October, 1918; returned to the U. S. in January, 1919. Honorably discharged from Battery F, 43d Regt., C. A. C., Jan. 23, 1919.

Great Centenary Drive Will Be in Force Next Week

The great centenary drive of the Methodist Episcopal Church for $105,000,000 to provide for the World Emergency in the work of reconstruction, both in our own country and abroad, will be launched next Sunday, May 18 and continue through May 25.

At the suggestion of Sec. Glass, this drive was postponed, that it might not interfere with the Victory Loan drive, and we trust it may have right of way during this week.

The Antrim church will conduct the drive in harmony with the plan as to date and method.

Our quota has been received and includes all previous askings known as benevolences. It is large but can easily be met if everyone will do his share.

Let us make it possible for God to bless and prosper us, and to answer our prayers because we honor Him with our words, our substance and our lives.

NEW WAR TAXES

Must Be Paid by the Consumers

All our people do not yet realize to what extent the goods they purchase at the stores are taxed, but of course as time goes on they will be brought face to face with the matter very many times. The merchant has imposed upon him quite a task in keeping a record of all sales, and turning into the Federal treasury every so often a certain sum of money that has been added to the price of goods, which must be paid by the consumer—he is the fellow who always pays the bills in the end. This is one of the several reasons why the average working man is unable to even buy a government bond of the smallest denomination; and is only able to buy thrift stamps and war savings stamps. Yet he is patriotic just the same—is no slacker—and does his whole duty as far as his ability allows.

The Reporter has been asked to look over a druggist's publication which contained a tax-list of the many articles of every day use coming under the Excise Tax provisions of the new law.

Practically all toilet preparations and all proprietary medical preparations are subject to a tax of one cent for each 25 cents or fraction thereof of the amount paid for same when sold by the dealer. In the soda fountain end one cent will be collected for each 10 cents or fraction thereof of the amount paid. Mineral waters and numerous articles frequently handled by drug stores come under the new law; 10 percent is added on athletic goods, and all other lines of goods have a varying tax.

The above refers particularly to one line of trade, but every other line is touched up to the same tune with practically a like tax. It is not the American way to pay this tax with a groch. We all know the big reason why our Uncle Samuel must have the money and he must get it from every available source; what our people are most particular about is to pay off the bill soon as possible and get rid of this unpleasant part of the business. Our boys of the U. S. A. had no desire to fight, but when they had to they were "over the top" in an instant with a desire to finish the job with a rush. This same spirit is ours now—"go to it" with all possible speed and be done with this part of our program without waste of time! This waste of time business, of which there appears to be too much, is what gets on the nerves of the average American.

Paige-Richardson

In Saturday's Manchester Union was the following item of news, which will interest our readers, and we publish it entire. Howard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Paige, of this town, and has many friends here who wish him happiness and prosperity in his new relations:

Miss Mabel E. Richardson of Peterboro, and Howard Paige of Antrim, were united in marriage last Thursday at Concord, by Rev. George F. Patterson, a former Unitarian minister of Peterboro. The bride is a clerk at the office of the American Guernsey Cattle club, and the groom has just returned from overseas, where he has been for the past year and a half. Mr. and Mrs. Paige will reside in Peterboro.

Victory Loan Results

In the drive for the Victory Liberty Loan in Antrim the goal was reached and the committee were very successful in their efforts, securing subscriptions to an amount of fifty percent more than the town's quota. This is considered an extra good showing on the final loan. Antrim went more than 50 percent over her quota on the fourth liberty loan. The exact amount secured on the Victory Loan was $38,400.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children
In Use For Over 30 Years

Always bears the Signature of

"Let's Go!"

That was the cry of the hero doughboys of the Yankee Division as they went over the top.

That is their cry today, as they prepare for the Salvation Army's Home Service Fund Campaign in New England for $2,280,000 which begins on May 19 and extends through to May 26.

YD men in every section of New England, with memory of what the Salvation Army lassies did for them in France, are organizing for the $2,280,000 drive—many, indeed, have already completed organization. In Boston, for instance, they are thoroughly organized with Brigadier-General Charles H. Cole chairman of a committee which includes Brigadier-General John H. Sherburne and several colonels of the YD Division—Bunnell, Goodwin, Logan, Keville. The same is true of scores of other cities and towns of New England.

And behind the YD men, ready to fight to a finish for the success of the Salvation Army campaign, are the members of the YD auxiliaries in each of the six New England states. Then, behind all these, are every known business and industry.

Always it has been the work of the Salvation Army to help the unfortunate—man, woman or child. Thousands have been saved by its missionaries—the brave lassies and men who have never yet been found wanting. With the campaign carried through successfully, say those directing the activities of the organization in New England, the great humanitarian purposes may be carried on so long as there may be need for them.

"A man may be down, but he's never out," is the Salvation Army's motto, and to make it good for ever the present campaign was instituted.

The members of Ephraim Weston Post, G. A. R., wish the Reporter to extend an invitation to all soldier boys to join with them in the Memorial Sunday service and also participate with them in the Memorial Day exercises. This is an excellent way for the younger boys to help the older boys in a most impressive service and their assistance will be greatly appreciated.

Donley-Bailey

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the Baptist church parlors, on Thursday evening, after the regular prayer meeting, when one of the members of the Pathfinder Girls, Miss Bertha Bailey, was married to D. Frank Donley, of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

While the Bridal Chorus, from Lohengrin, was being played by Mrs. Fred Thompson, ten Pathfinder Girls, dressed in their white ceremonial costumes and carrying lighted candles, marched in and formed an aisle through which the bridal party passed. The ceremony was performed under an arch over which was suspended a large floral bell. The officiating clergyman was Rev. D. P. Gaines, of the First Baptist church, Keene.

The Pathfinder Girls in attendance were the Misses Wilma Allen, Mildred Wallace, Hazel Locke, Dorothy Robertson, Frances Cutter, Anna McIntyre, Eris Curtis, Rose and Marion Wilkinson, and Mrs. W. J. B. Cannell, their Mother Companion.

The bride was becomingly dressed in silk muslin and wore a veil. The groom, who has recently been discharged from the service, was in uniform.

Following the ceremony a reception was held and ice cream and cake were served.

Mrs. Donley, who has spent the last two years in Antrim, is a member of the Antrim Baptist church. She has made many friends while here and carries the best wishes of all to her new home in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, for which place Mr. and Mrs. Donley left Friday morning. The Pathfinder Girls were at the station and gave them a rousing sendoff with an abundant shower of confetti.

Woman's Club Meeting

The annual business meeting of the Antrim Woman's Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Proctor Tuesday, May 20, at 3 o'clock. Every member is urged to be present at this meeting, especially charter members, as it is important.

"GEE, BOYS, AN AMERICAN WOMAN!"

How Officers of Rainbow Division Found "Y" Worker with 26th, in Deserted French Town Under Fire

It was in the little town of La Ferte which is the last stop before you arrive at Chateau-Thierry; and the second battle of the Marne was in progress. Over in Belleau Woods the Marines of the 2nd Division were fighting savagely; while in and about La Ferte was a large portion of the 26th, resting up from heavy work in the Toul sector.

One afternoon a French plane was noticed circling high over the town. About bedtime the same plane returned and to the terrible dismay of the townspeople it dropped a BOMB! The plane had been captured by the Germans and was being used by them to locate the hospital, railroad head, and other important landmarks.

So terrified was the local population by the bombardment which followed that they could not get out of the town quick enough. In a few hours every house was deserted.

Twenty-four hours later the peeling tempest of shells ceased and some remnants of the Rainbow Division entered the place and occupied it. Four officers looking for a comparatively whole house to make regimental headquarters came across one of which the lower part was an old dark little wineshop. Up the stairs they tramped to the living rooms. They opened a door. Out of the bed came a weak but cheery voice:

"Hello, boys, I am sorry I cannot get up to welcome you. But I am going to be better now. And if you should come back in an hour I will have some hot coffee for you."

"GEE!" said one of the officers to his comrades as he closed the door, "AN AMERICAN WOMAN!"

If the officers had had presence of mind to look about the room before they retired they would have seen hanging on a hook the dark green coat with the blue collar of a Red Triangle canteen worker. The woman was Mrs. Louise W. Fleming of Wollaston, Mass., who was one of over 50 "Y" secretaries attached to the Yankee Division. The "Y" canteen in La Ferte, her first assignment, had run short of supplies, and to be useful Mrs. Fleming had been working night and day in the hospitals only a few kilometers back of the front lines until she had to take to her bed from exhaustion. Thus of the entire population of La Ferte she had been the only one unable to scuttle when the bombardment opened. And through those hideous lonely hours she had consoled.

Mrs. Fleming returned home a few weeks before the YD began salting home. She had been with her division, close to the front lines, all through the heavy bloody work of 1918. Shortly after General Edwards' arrival in Boston one of his first official acts was the rendering to Mrs. Fleming of his military citation. She and Miss Alice Carey of Manchester, Conn., private secretary to Dr. Hasselgrave of the same town, who was Divisional Secretary of the "Y" with the 26th, were the only women workers to be thus honored by the General.

"While we were at Verdun in October," relates Mrs. Fleming, "we were shelled every hour of the day and night for six weeks. Miss Carey was the only other woman with me. The shells fell around our hut as near as the width of a city street. The boys would come in with their gas-masks on.

"For a couple of weeks we were the only people in Verdun—men or women—who slept above ground. We were living in a cunning little house that stood up alone among widespread ruins. There were no windows left, of course, and hardly a wall remaining. The cathedral, the Bishop's palace, the town hall,—everything was razed but this one little house. How it escaped after four years of bombardment was an unsolvable mystery.

"Somehow we could not make up our minds to leave the little houses there seemed to be a holy spell surrounding it,—and go down in the 'citadel' which was 40 feet under ground and which smelled something like the subway, although it was as well ventilated as possible. We preferred taking a chance and having the fresh air.

"But finally the Colonel got after us and told us we would have to leave Verdun if we didn't change to safer quarters. When the boys heard of that they raised walls of protest and appeal. And we had to succumb. Some of the officers led the way to a dugout, and one of them warned us, 'You had better hug the walls as you

Twice Proven

If you suffer backache, sleepless nights, tired, dull days and distressing urinary disorders, don't experiment. Read this twice-told testimony. It's convincing evidence from this locality doubly proven.

Fred A. Clement, retired farmer, 102 Grove St., Peterboro, N. H., says: "Lameness and soreness across the small of my back troubled me a great deal. It hurt me to straighten up after stooping and when I lifted anything, sharp pains caught me. My kidneys acted irregularly, the secretions were highly colored and contained sediment. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and in a few days, the backache disappeared and my kidneys acted regularly."

OVER SEVEN YEARS LATER Mr. Clement said: "I use Doan's Kidney Pills when I feel in need of a kidney medicine and they always help me."

60c, at all dealers. Foeter-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

The others laughed, and one of them remarked: "It's come to a pretty pass when an American girl has nothing to hug but a wall."

Since the boats bringing in the heroes of the YD have stirred the blood of old Boston, Mrs. Fleming has volunteered for duty at Commonwealth Pier behind the "Y" counter where she feels so much to home. Her engagements at the Pier were a continuous and enthusiastic series of reunions with her old pals. During the week of the parade Mrs. Fleming lived at Camp Devens, mingling with the boys and continuing her devoted service.

NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE NEWS

Will Strive for Championship.
Word comes from Durham that the contest among the boys and girls of each county for the garden championship this year promises to be the largest yet conducted by the Boys and Girls' club organization of the New Hampshire college extension service. Already over 500 young people have enrolled in the project, and more memberships are coming in daily.

"We are coming to learn that a boy can have a good time with a hoe as well as with a baseball bat," says L. A. Carlisle, state club leader, "although I don't mean to disparage the latter. It takes both to make a well-rounded boy. Having a garden isn't drudgery if properly taught."

The garden contest is open to all boys and girls who will conform to the standard club requirements, which may be obtained on application to the county club leader at the local state farm bureau office. The boys and girls are required to plan, plant, cultivate and harvest their own gardens; but in any community where five or more will form a garden club, they will receive personal instructions and visits from the club leader, with whom they are expected to keep in close touch. Mr. Carlisle hopes to have all the garden club organizations completed by May 15.

Special clubs are also being formed at this time in the potato, sweet corn, field corn, poultry, canning, sewing and pig projects.

Plan to Reach Delinquents.

A special assembly of the trustees of Golden Rule farms was held in the Journal-Transcript building at Franklin Falls. The problem of the delinquent children of the state was more seriously considered than ever before. Conditions in Massachusetts, New Hampshire and other parts of the country have so deeply impressed the board of managers that encouraging consideration was given to the proposition of opening these attractive rural homesteads to moderately guilty lads as a trial of the theory that change of environment will change the characters of these young offenders against the law. It was voted to mortgage the property for $2,500 to tide the farms over till the collector, Mrs. Webster, could secure subscriptions to meet current bills. Rev. Mr. Stillings, pastor of the Congregational church of Franklin, was chosen clerk to fill the vacancy made by the death of Eldert Hodges who has acted in this capacity for the past six years.

Memorial Day Exercises.

Veterans of George F. Sweatt post, G. A. R., of Franklin, are making arrangements for the customary observance of Memorial Day. Although definite plans have not yet been made it is expected the order of exercises will be like those of the last few years. It is expected the soldiers from the late war will be prominent in this year's observance. The active members of the George F. Sweatt post who are arranging the program includes Comrades Reuben Morrill, Jacob B. Tuttle, Jacob E. Dole and a few others. The W. R. C. is also assisting. Rev. A. M. Dunstan of Tilton was secured some time ago to deliver the Memorial day address.

Electricity Want 5 Cent Fare.

The Keene Electric Railway company is selling 100 ride tickets for $3.50 vice commission of New Hampshire for permission to make a uniform price on fare tickets sold by the company, i. e., twenty-five rides for $1. Under the present plan the company is selling 100 rides for $2.50 and 10 rides for forty cents, while under the new plan the only kind sold will be 25 for $1. The single rides are to remain as before, namely five cents. The company established a zone system over the route recently which was found to be a better system than to increase the fare.

Robbing Railroad Stations.

The Boston and Maine railroad stations at Breakfast Hill and North Hampton were recently visited by burglars. While the thieves did considerable work at both places to gain an entrance they got little in return for their trouble. At Breakfast Hill the telephone money box and gum machine were broken and about 60 cents secured. A sum less than a dollar was obtained at the North Hampton station. Although the midnight visitors obtained but little money at both places, they did considerable damage by breaking doors to gain entrance to the ticket offices.

Paper Mills Curtail Production.

Franklin paper mills are on a five days a week schedule because of a lack of orders, it being the first time for a long period the industry has had to curtail its production.

Workman Instantly Killed.

Edward M. Berry, aged 62 years, was almost instantly killed when working in a pump house at the Atlantic Corp. shipyard, Portsmouth. According to other workmen, he leaned over to pick up a small dog when the bottom of his sweater caught in the clutch of a fly wheel. He was whirled around several times before the engine was stopped. His skull was fractured and the bones of his legs and arms and body broken. The unfortunate man leaves a widow and one son.

Episcopal Diocesan Convention.

The proposed amendment to the constitution of the Episcopal diocesan convention, allowing women to sit in the body, caused considerable discussion at the meeting of the convention in the Memorial parish house, Concord, but was finally lost, the clergy voting 18 to 3 and the laity 21 to 2, against allowing the amendment.

It was voted, however, to appoint a commission to investigate and report on the expediency of establishing a House of Women as a separate organization to meet at the time of the convention. This commission will be composed of two clergymen, two laymen and two women.

An interesting report read at the convention was that of Rev. G. R. Hazard of Manchester concerning the cost of maintaining churches as compared with the number of candidates presented for confirmation showing that it varied from $67 in one church to $347 in others in the state, while in Boston the cost was as high as $1102.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Standing committee, Rev. Lucius Waterman, Hanover; Rev. W. Stanley Emery, Concord; Rev. Samuel S. Drury, Concord; Robert J. Peaslee, Manchester; Edward K. Woodworth, Concord; E. W. Eaton, Nashua.

Treasurer, Henry W. Stevens, Concord. Deputies to the general convention to be held in Detroit in October, Rev. C. LeV. Brine, Portsmouth; Rev. A. M. Dunstan, Tilton; Rev. William P. Niles, Nashua; Rev. Lucius Waterman, Hanover; Dr. George Cook, Harry H. Dudley, Charles S. Knox, Edward K. Woodworth, Concord.

Board of managers of diocesan missions, Rev. G. R. Hazard, Manchester, Harry H. Dudley, Concord. Secretary, Rev. W. E. Soule, Rochester.

It was voted to hold the next meeting in Nashua, May 18, 1920.

Appointed Commissioner of Education.

State Superintendent of Schools Ernest W. Butterfield was named as the commissioner of education under the new educational law by the state board of education at its meeting in the rooms of the state committee on Americanization.

On the recommendation of Commissioner Butterfield, Deputies Harriett L. Huntress, George H. Whitecher and James N. Pringle of the now existing state department of public instruction were named as deputy commissioners. The new deputy commissioner provided under the new law whilst duties shall be to work principally in abolishing illiteracy and promoting Americanization will be Maro S. Brooks of Exeter. Mr. Brooks will assume his duties on July 1.

Purchases Old Farm.

Milford and Amherst people were pleased to learn that Principal Alfred E. Stearns of Phillips-Andover academy, Andover, Mass., has just purchased of Raymond Stimson, the old colonial house and farm known as the "George Edgar Hartshorn" place. Mr. Stearns has had plans made for remodeling the house and already has engaged men to do the work. He will occupy it as a summer home.

The place is on the cross road running from the Hartshorn mill to Amherst village, at the foot of Christian hill and is in Amherst, though nearer Milford than Amherst village.

Wool Sorters Work 48 Hours.

The wool sorters at the Hillsborough mills, Wilton, were granted their demand by the company, of 48 hours a week and a raise in pay. This goes into operation at once. The rest of the mill is working 50 hours a week. The wool sorters will work nine hours a day and three on Saturday. The 50 hours for the rest of the mill was given the help without request or demand.

Park Conveyed to Concord.

Final papers were passed at Concord conveying the property known as Ballard park and owned by George L. Hancock to the city of Concord. The property is on Penacook lake and the sale was negotiated some time ago by the Concord Water board for $6,000.

Will Continue Work Gardens.

Laconia will continue the municipal war gardens this season on the same basis as heretofore. The supervision of the gardens will be in charge of City Clerk Earl Flanders and garden plots will be staked out at Opechee park, the O'Shea estate and elsewhere.

Observe 100th Anniversary.

The 100th anniversary of American Odd Fellowship was observed last week by the Winnipiseogee lodge, I. O. O. F., and the Esther Rebekah lodge, at the Folsom Opera House, Laconia.

At Grange hall, Milford, a meeting of farmers and owners of dairy herds was called by E. B. Hall, and was addressed by County Agent Carl A. Smith of Manchester. Mr. Brown of the N. H. Experiment station and others. The purpose was to take preliminary steps for forming a cow testing association. The sentiment should be a co-operative association which should be organized in Milford for the purpose of having dairy yield tested regularly and an effort made to improve the quality of the herds.

The commission plans to move the names of those veterans now on the lists up to their proper places, at the head.

Donaleros, the beautiful estate of the late John L. Sullivan for years heavyweight prize-fighter, at West Abington, Mass., has been sold to George H. Hatch, of Hull, for $3500. The farm of 75 acres, with the beautiful remodelled Irish manse, was sold after a special license to dispose of the property had been issued by Judge L. E. Chamberlain of the probate court.

A rousing welcome was given by Montpelier, (Vt.) citizens to upwards of 200 soldiers and sailors from that city who have seen service. Captain Dove E. McMath of F Company, 101st Ammunition Train, 26th Division, marched at the head of the column and with him were 100 YD boys. The celebration consisted of a parade, banquet in Armory Hall, a ball and mardis gras in the evening. Among the guests were United States Senator William P. Dillingham and justices of the Supreme Court.

Guy Potter Benton has resigned as President of the University of Vermont, to take effect on July 1. The resignation was a surprise to members of the faculty, trustees, students and alumni of the institution. President Benton, who in April was made educational director of the Army of Occupation in Germany, mailed the resignation because of his appointment to that position.

The annual report of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts shows a net deficit of $29,652.40 in the operating expenses for the year 1918. President Morris Gray in the report recommends the adoption of a policy of broader service, and calls upon the public for wider support, "that the greatest possible value may accrue to the public from the priceless collections on exhibition."

New Hampshire people are evidently finding substitutes for liquor in these prohibition times. Ernest B. Walker, who conducts a grocery store at Manchester, was arrested. It was found that he had sold 326 bottles of Jamaica ginger in eight days. The largest day's business was ninety-nine bottles in one day. An appeal was taken to the September term of the Superior Court.

Mayor Peters of Boston has announced that owing to unexpected revenue from liquor license, amounting to $177,000, he had decided to grant the police and firemen their demand of $200 increase in pay per man. Until now the mayor has felt that he could not approve an increase of more than $100. He also announced increases in pay for his executive staff totalling $3575.

Although high enough already to cause a municipal inquiry, rents are going higher. During the next four months Boston will see a general advance in rent rates. This is the Boston real estate dealers and owners answer to Mayor Peters' manifesto against rent-profitting property owners, who are charged with using the present shortage in apartments and tenements as an opportunity to extort exorbitant rents.

The joint convention of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts and the Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce went on record as opposed to government ownership or operation of the railroads, following their conferences at the Copley-Plaza, Boston. In regard to labor differences they urged legislation providing for the settlement by arbitration of disputes relating to wages and conditions of employment and declared that service should not be interrupted or jeopardized by strikes. They favored relying on the interstate Commerce Commission to regulate all interstate rates and recommended that each State should have the power to regulate its own commutation passenger rates. A regional railroad system also advocated.

Haco, the famous parrot owned by Miss M. Louise Jackson of Cambridge, Mass., court stenographer, has laid another egg without outside influences, this egg being champion of all, for it is four inches in circumference. Just a year ago she laid four eggs. For 21 years the bird has been in solitary captivity, away from its kind. Lizzie, parrot of Norumbega Park, last year laid two eggs while in a five-year period of captivity. The park offered a reward of $500 for any parrot that had a bigger record. Miss Jackson claimed the reward on behalf of Haco. She has recently brought a suit to recover this reward. Miss Jackson says that for the last few days Haco has been indolent, sleeping most of the time, tucking her head under her wing and shifting from one foot to the other. Some time later she found her strutting around the floor, squawking "Goodmorning!" and there in the cage was an immense egg of a delicate pinkish tint.

Boston's famous frigate the Constitution, fondly known as "Old Ironsides" is going to remain in Boston, and furthermore she is likely to be transferred to a snug berth in the Charles River basin, where she may be viewed to better advantage than at her present quarters at the Charlestown Navy Yard. Word to this effect was received in Boston from Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt. A short time ago it was announced that the Constitution, the Constellation and the Hartford, all famous ships of the United States navy's earlier days, were to be removed to Washington for safe keeping. Immediately a protest was started by the Old Ironsides' Association and other historical organizations. Mr. Roosevelt announced in reply that while the two other ships would probably be removed to Washington, the Constitution would be allowed to remain, but that Congress would be asked for an appropriation to take better care of her. He suggested that the famous ship be moved to the river basin and set in a concrete base, in such manner that she would appear to be afloat.

Owners of small lens grinding plants declare they will be forced out of business by the price reductions announced by the American Optical Company of Southbridge, Mass. A few places are already closed. George Reno of the Dupont-Lochhart Lens Company declares the class of lenses controlled by the American Optical Company are not included in the reductions. Denial is made by Albert B. Wells that the company made its reduction in an effort to eliminate competitors.

Six of the German Mission to Peace Conference Return to Berlin

PRESIDENT WILSON ACTIVE

Drawing Up Replies to Foo—Latest Letters Refer to Prisoners—Deal With Labor Legislation.

Paris. (By the Associated Press)—The German delegation at Versailles, in notes transmitted to M. Clemenceau as president of the peace conference, proposes changes in the clauses of the peace treaty covering labor problems and asks that prisoners of war be returned immediately after the signing of the preliminaries. The note suggests the holding of a joint labor convention at Versailles for consideration of the points raised. Satisfaction is expressed with the labor clauses in general, but it pointed out that they cover principles already in force in Germany and that they do not go far enough.

The Germans suggest that the labor agreement be considered at the proposed conference along the lines of the conclusions of the labor conference of July, 1917. The note relating to prisoners criticizes the clause dealing with the return of prisoners of war, and asks that they be returned immediately after the signing of preliminaries and that adequate supplies of food and clothing be guaranteed them. It is considered in peace conference circles that the treaty as it stands provides amply for this point.

The notes have not been considered by the Council of Four, but will be taken up tomorrow. The replies which the Council of Four sent to the preceding German notes, were drawn up, according to the Temps, with the personal and particularly active collaboration of President Wilson.

INDIGNATION SWEEPS GERMANY.

Berlin. (By the Associated Press)—The protest that came from various quarters in Germany over the peace terms as they were reported before the official terms became known are as nothing in comparison with the wave of remonstrance—angry, bitter, disappointed in tone—that is sweeping over Germany now that the treaty has been presented. States, municipalities, districts, organizations of various sorts, business men's and women's clubs and the political parties, through their spokesmen are vying with each other in finding words to express scorn for and condemnation of the document.

For, perhaps, the first time in history, all the German parties are united in opinion, each of them assailing the terms Germany is asked to sign; even the body of the Independent Socialists party does not agree with its organ Die Freiheit that Germany should sign the peace on terms presented. The newspapers are utterly swamped with protests, being able to print but a fraction of them. They are urged to this, for instance, by the Tageblatt, which says the unfriendly attitude toward the treaty, taken by the Socialists of other countries, will not be of assistance, because they are in the minority in their countries and the Germans must protest for themselves. The government, likewise, is being overwhelmed with telegrams which it is utterly unable to answer save by public announcement of its gratitude.

In the criticisms President Wilson is only mildly assailed here and there, since word has gone to the press from official quarters that he is not to be taken to task. The assertions upon which stress are laid are that the proposed peace lacks all elements of justice and conforms in no way to the President's 14 points, while indignation is expressed over terms characterized as unbearable and as spelling slavery for the German people. Some of the protestants declare they are deeply moved and outraged by the provisions of the treaty, while others express deep contempt for what they call a "brutal peace offer."

DANES DO NOT WANT SOUTHERN SCHLESWIG.

Copenhagen.—The clause in the peace treaty with Germany providing for a plebiscite in southern Schleswig is causing much excitement in Denmark. Dissatisfaction is reflected in the newspapers which declare the population of the district is composed of Germans whom Denmark does not desire, as their presence within the country would lead to a future racial conflict. The political committee of the Reichstag after conferring with the government has telegraphed the Danish minister in Paris, that the government and the Rigsdag insist in this connection on the enforcement of the principle of nationality.

NORWAY WANTS TO HAVE GERMAN PAY.

London.—A wireless dispatch from Christiania says that the foreign minister has sent a request to the peace conference at Paris seeking an indemnity from Germany for Norwegian vessels sunk by Germany during the war.

American Graves Overseas

AMERICAN GRAVES AT BELLEAU WOOD

Our Heroic Dead Are Resting In Peace Today In Seven European Countries

By LLOYD ALLEN, Special Staff Correspondent.

DARK—America's dead—seventy thousand in all—are being well cared for here in Europe by a section of the American expeditionary force detailed to collect the bodies and place them in military cemeteries.

Don't imagine for one minute that this big undertaking is a task that was neglected while the war was in progress; that the Americans who fell in battle were not interred on the battlefields. Some few cases have been noted where bodies were found unburied weeks after the fighting stopped; but these cases are so few that they cannot be taken into consideration.

What is being done by the American expeditionary force now in the way of caring for the dead is the second chapter. The bodies are being disinterred from battlefield graves and carried to military cemeteries where the mounds are arranged row on row in even ranks, that in death they may be as they were in life—shoulder to shoulder. Above each grave a cross is placed. On the cross is nailed a zinc identification tag, giving the name and regiment. Around each cemetery a substantial fence is erected. Above each mound is a small replica of the Stars and Stripes.

What chapter three of the story will be remains to be seen. Congress will probably authorize the return of all bodies requested by the man's family. Yet even if such a ruling is put into effect, thousands of American graves will remain in Europe for the reason that many families will prefer—as did the Roosevelt family—to allow their dead to remain here for their final sleep.

In Seven Countries. And they are resting in peace today in seven European countries: England, Scotland, Ireland, Germany, Russia, Italy, Luxembourg, but mainly in France near the sectors where the American boys did their valiant and telling work in flushing up the German army.

England has two American cemeteries: one at Liverpool with 624 graves, and the other at Malden Hill, Winchester, with 522 graves.

In Scotland there are 600 graves, mostly of victims of the Tuscania disaster.

Ireland has 30 graves, and there are graves in Italy, Russia, Luxembourg, and a small American cemetery at Coblenz, where a large detachment of the American army of occupation is stationed in Germany proper.

It is the "Graves Registration Service" that has charge of classification of the American dead in Europe. More than 4,000 soldiers were assigned to duty in this service, which is a branch of the quartermaster's corps. They not only take up the dead in the battle zones, but have searched all of France to find the few bodies that escaped notice and were left unburied during the days of actual warfare. From frozen dugouts, from ruined houses shattered by shell fire, and thousands of isolated spots the bodies were recovered. France, in the war zone, was literally combed and combed again in order that none be left.

Through the Argonne forest, for example, the worst fighting of the final weeks of war took place in thickets. Every square kilometer in the Argonne has been covered by the searching parties.

France as a whole has been divided into 12 areas through which the "Graves Registration Service" works. There are three advanced sections and nine other areas, which include base and intermediate sections and the district of Paris.

TYPICAL GERMAN GRAVE

Wearing gas masks, the workers dig up old graves as a matter of duty. And in a great many instances they do much more than their duty.

Consider, for instance, what was done with a cemetery of more than one thousand bodies at Paisy on the Aisne. Every army order had been faithfully and carefully carried out. The workers had made a thorough search of the surrounding country. They had identified and buried the thousand bodies. The graves were marked off in regulation plots of 208, with a cross over each. Gravel paths were laid out through the cemetery, according to regulations of the G. R. S. Technically the job was finished in workmanlike style. But the soldiers wanted to do something more. And they did.

They searched through many piles of scrapped metals at a salvage dump and collected iron rails. They begged or borrowed cement, and then they built a reinforced concrete wall around the cemetery. Then they made a trip to a timber patch nearby, found the tallest and straightest tree, cut it down, stripped it of branches, painted it white, and planted it in the middle of the little cemetery for a flagpole. Flowers were planted around the base of the pole. And Old Glory was swung into the breeze.

Bodies to Come Home. It was officially announced in the midst of the war that "the final disposition of bodies will be considered and executed as an entire project at such time, probably after the conclusion of peace, as the vastness and difficulty of this almost inconceivable task may make possible."

There was another announcement, that "return of bodies to the United States will be made in due time except in cases where a specific request to the contrary is made."

Excellent centralization of this graves registration work is a feature of the system. An efficient filing system, card index style, has been installed. Maps have been made showing the location of each graveyard. These records are being kept at Tours. They give the location of a grave with exactitude.

At Aisne is located the largest of the American battlefield cemeteries, with more than 1,100 graves. The next cemeteries, in order of size, are Nantillois, Vauhecourt, Fismes, and Froidols. In the rear line areas the cemeteries are located at Merignac, Bordeaux, Lambelle, Brest, Suresnes, St. Nazaire, Isroudon, Beaume, Allery, Commercy, Contrexeville, Bazailles and Le Mans.

Headquarters of the graves registration service at Tours is kept informed by wire of the progress of the work. As fast as the bodies are moved the information is posted on the centralized records.

While the army waited to hear from the war department and congress regarding final disposition of the dead, no bodies were returned to America, it was announced officially here.

The idea should not get about that the graves registration service was working solely at finding unburied bodies left on the field and in the trenches after the rapid advances of the allied armies during the autumn of 1918. Virtually all of the battlefield dead were given burial within a very short time after the engagement, unless, perchance, it was physically impossible to perform the last rites because the body happened to be in a No Man's land, raked by machine gun or rifle fire. These first graves were made as carefully as circumstances permitted. Even in the Argonne, amid underbrush and deep thickets, the graves were made by careful squads that put over each mound the regulation cross and identity tag.

German Graves Undisturbed. Here in the Argonne sector the German graves are thick. It is difficult to tell, while journeying through the region, whether a cross is meant to mark an allied mound, or the grave of an enemy soldier.

In all France the most elaborate military graveyards are in the St. Mihiel salient, near the town of St. Mihiel, where the German dead lie buried beneath costly gravestones resembling monuments in a modern city cemetery. Evidently the Germans believed they were to hold these lands forever.

Many of the German graves are marked with large headstones. On these stones are typical cemetery figures, such as Grief, pictured as a weeping woman.

Beaded wreaths, entwined artificial flowers, decorate most of the headstones; untarnished by wind, rain or snow. Where appropriate, there is a replica of the Iron Cross, in black. Possibly half of the graves are so marked.

Every respect is given these cemeteries by the allied army of occupation. No wreath is touched, and no headstone marred, which in itself furnishes comparison of allied and German methods—since the Germans, in many sections of occupied France made a systematic campaign of dishonoring French cemeteries by tearing down gravestones and actually destroying the graves themselves.

It will be many a day before all of the American bodies have been moved from the roadsides and fields of France to the selected burial grounds. It is a certainty the French will always revere these spots where American bodies are interred, which are monuments to the American sacrifice that made France's future safe from Boche domination.

The day has not yet arrived when American visitors can visit the American cemeteries. But it is to be expected, unless congress orders every body removed to America, that thousands will visit these spots where rest in peace the American soldiers who made the supreme sacrifice for their country.

Our Experiences. "There is no bad weather," says Ruskin, "only different kinds of good weather—each good for the purpose for which it was sent." The same is true of all life's experiences. The disappointment, the struggle, the success, the waiting, the hope and the grief, each is good for the purpose that brought it.

PEACE TERMS FOR GERMANY MADE PUBLIC

Treaty Makes Berlin Responsible for All Losses Caused to Allies.

FIRST PAYMENT 5 BILLION

Pact Provides Return of Alsace-Lorraine; Internationalization of Saar Basin and Danzig; Territorial Changes for Belgium, Denmark and East Prussia; Upper Silesia to Poland; Free Must Agree to Trial of Ex-Kaiser and Approve League.

New York, May 8.—An official summary of the peace treaty delivered to the German delegates at Versailles by representatives of the associated powers was made public here by the committee on public information. It follows:

Paris, May 8.—The treaty of peace between the 27 allied and associated powers on the one hand and Germany on the other was handed to the German plenipotentiaries at Versailles. 80,000 Words in Pact.

It is the longest treaty ever drawn. It totals about 80,000 words, divided into 15 main sections, and represents the combined product of over 1,000 experts working continually through a series of commissions for the three and a half months since January 18, the treaty printed in parallel pages of English and French, which are recognized as having equal validity.

Does Not Deal With Foe's Allies. It does not deal with questions affecting Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey except in so far as binding Germany to accept any agreement reached with those former allies.

Following the preamble and deposition of powers comes the covenant of the league of nations as the first section of the treaty.

The frontiers of Germany in Europe are defined in the second section; European political classes given in the third; European political classes in the fourth. Next are the military, naval and air terms, as the fifth section, followed by a section on prisoners of war and military graves, and a seventh on responsibilities. Reparations, financial terms and economic terms are covered in sections eight to ten. Then comes the aeronautic sections, ports, waterways and railways section, the labor covenant, the section on guarantees and the final clauses.

Restores Alsace-Lorraine.

Germany, by the terms of the treaty, restores Alsace-Lorraine to France, accepts the internationalization of the Saar basin temporarily and of Danzig permanently, agrees to territorial changes toward Belgium and Denmark and in east Prussia cedes most of upper Silesia to Poland, and renounces all territorial and political rights outside Europe as to her own or allies' territories, and especially to Morocco, Egypt, Siam, Liberia and Stantung. She also recognizes the total independence of German-Austria, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

Must Pay for Damages.

Germany accepts full responsibility for all damages caused to allied and associated governments and nationals, agrees specifically to reimburse all civilian damages beginning with an initial payment of 20,000,000,000 marks ($5,000,000,000), subsequent payments to be secured by bonds to be issued at the discretion of the reparation commission. Germany is to pay shipping damage on a ton-for-ton basis by cession of a large part of her merchant, coasting and river fleets and by new construction; and to devote her economic resources to the rebuilding of devastated regions.

She agrees to return to the 14 most-favored nations tariffs, without discrimination of sort; to allow allies and associated nationals freedom of transit through.

Must Agree to Trial of Kaiser.

She agrees to accept highly detailed provisions as to prewar debts, unfair competition, internationalization of roads and rivers, and other economic and financial clauses.

She also agrees to the trial of the ex-kaiser by an international high court for a supreme offense against international morality and of other nationals for violation of the laws and customs of war, Holland to be asked to extradite the former, and Germany being responsible for delivering the latter.

Must Accept League.

The league of nations is accepted by the allied and associated powers as operative and by Germany in principle, but without membership. Similarly, an international labor body is brought into being with a permanent office and an annual convention. A great number of commissions for different purposes are created, some under the league of nations, some to execute the peace treaty. Among the former is the commission to govern the Saar basin till a plebiscite is held 15 years hence, the high commissioner of Danzig, which is created into a free city under the league, and various commissions for plebiscites in Malmody, Schleswig and east Prussia. Among those to carry out the peace treaty are

WHAT GERMANY MUST DO TO GAIN PEACE

Restoration of Alsace-Lorraine.

Temporary internationalization of Saar coal basin.

Permanent internationalization of Danzig.

Territorial changes toward Belgium and Denmark.

Cedes Silesia to Poland.

Removes all territorial and political rights outside Europe.

Renounces "especially" her rights in Morocco, Egypt and Siam.

Freedom of transit through her territories.

Highly detailed provisions as to prewar debts.

Provisions as to unfair competition, internationalization of roads and rivers and other economic and financial subjects.

Agrees to trial of the ex-kaiser by an international high court for a supreme offense against international morality and customs of war.

Holland to be asked to extradite the former kaiser and Germany to be responsible for delivering the latter.

Accepts league of nations in principle, but without membership.

Germany recognizes total independence of German-Austria, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

German army reduced to 100,000 men, including officers.

Conscription within German territories abolished.

All German forts for 50 kilometers east of the Rhine razed.

All importation, exportation and nearly all production of war materials stopped.

Germany accepts any agreement reached with its former allies.

Allied occupation of parts of Germany to continue until reparation is made.

Any German violation of conditions pertaining to the Rhine zone constitutes an act of war.

German navy reduced to six battleships, six light cruisers and 12 torpedo boats, with no submarines.

German navy personnel to consist of not over 15,000.

the reparations, military, naval, air, financial and economic commissions, the international high court and military tribunals to fix responsibilities, and a series of bodies for the control of international rivers.

Certain problems are left for solution between the allied and associated powers, notably details of the disposition of the German fleet and cables, the former German colonies and the values paid in reparation. Certain other problems, such as the laws of the air and the opium, arms and liquor traffic are either agreed to in detail or set for early international action.

Army Cut to 100,000.

Her army is reduced to 100,000 men, including officers; conscription within her territories is abolished; all forts forty kilometers east of the Rhine razed, and all importation, exportation and nearly all production of war material stopped. Allied occupations of parts of Germany will continue till reparation is made, but will be reduced at the end of three five-year periods if Germany is fulfilling her obligations. Any violation by Germany of the conditions as to the zone 50 kilometers east of the Rhine will be regarded as an act of war.

Navy to Six Battleships.

The German navy is reduced to six battleships, six light cruisers and 12 torpedo boats, without submarines, and a personnel of not over 15,000. All other vessels must be surrendered or destroyed. Germany is forbidden to build forts controlling the Baltic, must demolish Helgoland, open the Kiel canal to all nations and surrender her 14 submarine cables. She may have no military or naval air forces except 100 unarmed seaplanes until October 1 to detect mines, and may manufacture aviation material for six months.

Agreement of Allies Stated.

It states that: Bearing in mind that on the request of the then imperial German government an armistice was granted on November 11, 1918, by the five allied and associated powers in order that a treaty of peace might be concluded with her, and whereas the allied and associated powers being equally desirous that the war in which they were successfully involved directly or indirectly and which originated in the declaration of war by Austria-Hungary on July 28, 1914, and against France on August 3, 1914, and in the invasion of Belgium, should be replaced by a firm, just and durable peace, the plenipotentiaries (having communicated their full powers found in good and due form) have agreed as follows:

From the coming into force of the present treaty the state of war will terminate. From the moment and subject to the provisions of this treaty of official relations with Germany, and with each of the German states, will be resumed by the allied and associated powers.

Section 1. League of Nations. The covenant of the league of nations constitutes section 1 of the peace treaty, which places upon the league many specific duties in addition to its general duties.

Rely On Cuticura For Skin Troubles

When a man begins to discuss matrimony with a widow the result is usually a tie.

WHEN BUYING ASPIRIN ALWAYS SAY "BAYER"

Ask for "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" in a Bayer package—marked with "Bayer Cross."

Don't buy Aspirin tablets in a pill box. Insist on getting the Bayer package with the safety "Bayer Cross" on both package and on tablets. No other way!

You must say "Bayer." Never ask for merely Aspirin tablets. The name "Bayer" means you are getting the genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin," proven safe by millions of people.

Beware of counterfeits! Only recently a Brooklyn manufacturer was sent to the penitentiary for flooding the country with talcum powder tablets, which he claimed to be Aspirin.

Danger in Abbreviation. Even the school nurse has her fun. In a talk before the central philanthropic council the other day, Miss Helen R. Stewart of the board of health told of one little boy who, after he had been examined by the nurse, went to the teacher in tears, complaining that the nurse called him names.

When the teacher expressed her surprise, the boy sought to prove his case by handing her the card the nurse had given to him as her record of the examination.

"Look at that!" he cried.

"Poor nut," read the card.

"Poor nutrition," explained the teacher, finally sending the child away with a better opinion of the nurse.—Dallas News.

Von Tirpitz a Pauper. The Tribune de Geneve is informed that Grand Admiral von Tirpitz is staying at Wildegg, Switzerland, as the guest of Lieut.-Colonel Wille, son of the former commander-in-chief of the Swiss army.

Tirpitz has lost all his fortune. His son is a clerk in a bank at Zurich, and his daughter is a governess in a Zurich family.

To avoid paying the German war tax of 1913 Tirpitz invested his money in Italian securities, with the result that he is now penniless. What a patriot!

Information Needs Confirmation. "Old Dorsey Dudgeon prides himself on knowing where the conflagration is as soon as he hears the fire-bell ring," related the landlord of the Rutina tavern.

"By the time half a dozen whangs have changed he has scurried into a garment or two and is out on his front porch, hollering to the people running by just where he knows the fire is."

"He should be of considerable assistance to the volunteer firemen and others in sending them in the proper direction," commented the interested guest.

"Eh-yah! He would be if he didn't nine times out of ten know it wrong." Kansas City Star.

Glossing Over the Facts. "Pa, what is a euphemism?" "I'll have to explain that by giving you an example, son."

"Yes, pa."

"The dictionary says a euphemism is a figure of speech by which a word or phrase more agreeable or less offensive is substituted for one more accurately expressive of what is meant," as in the case of the society reporter who states that a widow who has been married three or four times is "led to the altar" by a wealthy old codger who never had the slightest notion of getting married until he faced the newspaper.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

"There's a Reason"

POSSIBLY A REASON

"While I was in Tumlinville yesterday," related Gap Johnson of Rumous Ridge, "they were trying in the courthouse a passe' of fellers from down on Fiddle Creek for cutting a curious caper. 'Peared like one of 'em, named Yawkey, or Snoddy, or something that-a-way, got a quart of bone-dry whisky and went visiting at another feller's house. Four or five other fellers happened in, and I judge they all got drunk in a gen'ral way. Tennyrate, after a spell the rest of 'em hopped onto Yawkey, or Snoddy, or whoever he was, and pounded him right sharply, and set him on a hot stove and held him there till they had branded him to suit 'em."

"Great guns!" ejaculated a neighbor. "What did they do all that for?"

"I don't know presizely, being as I had a horse swap on hand while the anecdote was being told to me. But, anyhow, it was something about the rest of 'em not being able to agree with Mr. Yawkey's views on the league of nations."

"Why, Elsie, dear," soothed mother. "why do you cry about having little brother christened?" "Because (boo-hoo) he is such a little thing to have a bottle of milk busted over his head."

THAT WILL STAND LONG HARD SERVICE

It takes something besides an attractive outside to make a satisfactory refrigerator. The walls must be strong and the proper space allowed, the lining must be right, the covers and doors must be properly built and well fitted; if just one of these particulars is neglected it will result in waste of ice and spoiled food.

Our refrigerators are no experiments, as both makes have stood the test of time.

"UN-CHRISTIAN, UN-AMERICAN"

E. F. Albee, President of Keith Circuit, Bars Slurs on "Y" Work in His Theatres

Vaudeville performers in the Keith theatres have received orders from Edward F. Albee, president of the E. F. Keith circuit, prohibiting them from any slurring reference to the work of the Y. M. C. A. overseas.

"Un-American, un-Christianlike and a blot upon the intelligence and upon our gratitude for what the organization has done," is the way in which Mr. Albee stigmatizes criticism of the Y. M. C. A. in a letter addressed by him to A. G. Knebel, associate general secretary of the "Y" War Work Council.

He bases the statements in his letter upon information obtained by himself and the employes of his theatres throughout the country in conversation with thousands of soldiers. Mr. Albee declares that he personally knows "of the high esteem in which the theatrical profession holds the Y. M. C. A. and all kindred institutions that have done so much from the beginning of the war in the foreign countries.

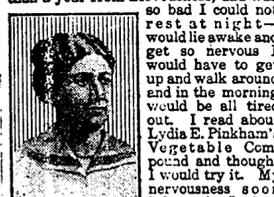

He speaks also of the assistance that actors and artists have so freely rendered and are still rendering, to the Association, saying: "The Theatrical people, as a whole, have done splendid work, especially the artists, from the beginning of the war, and are still doing it, being active in entertaining the soldiers in the hospitals, at the cantonments, benefits of all kinds given for the relief and aid societies for our homecoming troops."

"The Young Men's Christian Association's devotion, energy and self-sacrifice," Mr. Albee continues, "has been so glorious and of such magnitude that one cannot believe that anyone would consciously criticize its great work, or refer to it in any way excepting in the most laudatory terms. I have read some wonderful letters from artists abroad connected with the

WOMAN'S NERVES MADE STRONG

By Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound.

Winona, Minn.—"I suffered for more than a year from nervousness, and was so bad I could not rest at night—would lie awake and get so nervous I would have to get up and walk around in the morning would be all tired out. I read about Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound and thought I would try it. My nervousness soon left me. I sleep well and feel fine in the morning and able to do my work. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound to make weak nerves strong."—Mrs. ALBERT SULTZE, 603 Olmstead St., Winona, Minn.

How often do we hear the expression among women, "I am so nervous, I cannot sleep," or "It seems as though I should fly." Such women should profit by Mrs. Sultze's experience and give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial.

For forty years it has been overcoming such serious conditions as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, dizziness, and nervous prostration of women, and is now considered the standard remedy for such ailments.

Young Men's Christian Assn. who have been entertaining soldiers, who deny that there is any condition existing in the workings of that organization which is not of the most liberal and humanitarian kind.

"Praise has been given to the workers of the Y. M. C. A. without stint, and to blame this great organization for the short-comings of a few, would be un-American, un-Christianlike and a blot upon the intelligence and upon our gratitude for what the organization has done. I might talk with hundreds of soldiers, I might say, through my employes, we have talked with thousands of them, who visit our theaters each week, especially the wounded, to whom we give an entertainment one morning of each week, and we have not, up to the present time, heard one adverse criticism. On the contrary, there has been nothing but unstinted praise for the self-sacrifice and the heroic deeds performed as stretcher bearers and other dangerous volunteer work by those who went abroad in the service of the Young Men's Christian Association."

TELLS STORY OF "IMMORTAL 26TH"

Y. M. C. A. Issues Book of Interesting Facts

"The Immortal Yankee Division" is the name of a combined divisional history, directory and book of statistics of the 26th which the Northeastern department of the Y. M. C. A. headquarters in the Little building, is distributing with its compliments. The book was compiled with the official cognizance of Maj.-Gen. Edwards, whose picture forms the frontispiece, and Maj. Hyatt, his aide, assisted in preparation of the material, which is official. A feature is "26 reasons why the YD will be remembered forever." A chronological table of "where the division has been" contains a condensed history of the organization. The vital statistics include the successive periods spent by the unit in the front lines, prisoners and material captured, the total casualties suffered, distance gained on different fronts and sectors occupied.

A table shows the identity of the various regiments, battalions, trains, companies, batteries, troops and detachments, with local organizations of various state services. There are also a list of battles, the present strength and the citations awarded the division and its subordinate organizations. The front cover bears the words: "The Immortal 26th," with YD insignia, and the back cover announces that one's discharge papers are good for three months' membership in his home town "Y."

Correspondence by the Ton

Paris, February.—Some idea of the number of letters American soldiers write home may be gained from the fact that a single item passed by the Y. M. C. A. Purchasing Department in one month was for 100,000,000 let-terheads, and 100,000,000 envelopes which are expected to last the soldiers three months.

BASEBALL WON THE WAR

At Least, "Cap" Huston Thinks American Diamond Helped Fit Doughboy for Greater Game

Wellington epigrammat that Waterloo was won on the football fields of Eton. Now Lieut. Col. Tillinghast L'Honnedeou Huston, known by the fans as "Cap" Huston, half-owner of the New York American League "Yankees" hastens to the sporting page with the wisdom that Chateau Thierry and other American victories of recent date were fought to a glorious finish on the Polo Grounds, not to mention Fenway Park.

"There is no question," he continued, "that the physical and mental condition of the American troops was the deciding factor in the war, and that our boys were able to throw into the balance the fighting power which broke the deadlock, sent the Hun reeling back and ultimately brought about their complete defeat. And the reason that the Americans, many of them but hastily trained, were able to make such a splendid showing was because of their athletic bringing up—their physical fitness, their ability to think quickly and to act individually in emergencies. And these qualities they acquired on the ball lots, the gridiron and other fields upon which brains, muscle and brawn were put to the test.

"In a way, before we went over, we realized what American sports, particularly baseball, had done for the youth of the United States. Today we appreciate fully that it supplied most of our fighters with the physical asset which enabled them to do those things which caused the German military machine to gasp in amazement from the outset. The American army heads and the directors of the Y. M. C. A. and other agencies which operated for the welfare of the men in the camps here and abroad thoroughly appreciated the value of outdoor games, boxing and general athletic stunts, and from the moment the men began their military training, athletics was made a part of the regular routine. In two ways, in particular the Y. M. C. A. was of inestimable assistance to our fighting forces, and games, boxing and general athletic equipment in such abundance that practically all of the men in camps, leave areas and even close to the lines could indulge in sports and pastimes and in furnishing movies, vaudeville and other entertainment, all of which was thoroughly appreciated."

CATHOLIC PRIEST AND "Y"

Praises Canteen Service at Front

Disagreeing with some remarks of the "Brooklyn Eagle" regarding the Y. M. C. A. canteen overseas, Father Fell wrote the following letter to co-worker in France, Mr. W. C. Gordon, of Aburndale, Mass., who was Y. M. C. A. secretary with the 107 Engineers, Yankee Division.

Mr. Willford C. Gordon, Y. M. C. A. Secretary

My dear Mr. Gordon,
My attention having been called to the enclosed clipping, I believe it only fair that, I put it on record, thru you, the experience of a Chaplain who in civil life never had anything to do with the Y. M. C. A. You may use the following testimony in any way you may see fit.

As a priest I have been opposed to the religious activities of the Y. M. C. A. most of my life but my experience in the front line trenches where the Y. M. C. A. Canteen workers were under fire with the men, altho it does not alter my attitude towards their attempts at religious work, makes it my duty to bear witness to the fact that their canteens were in operation wherever the men of our Division went, and we saw very active front line service. When the men were at the front and at times had no money with them, I have known the Y. M. C. A. to distribute gratis cigarettes that were intended for sale.

Summing the situation up as I saw it, the Y. M. C. A. never did anything better than its canteen work at the front.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) HORACE FELL,
Chaplain,
Quartermaster Corps,

"Y" Workers "Over There"

Five months after the signing of the armistice the Young Men's Christian Association has 8,350 workers overseas, according to an official statement just issued by the National War Work Council of the association. The figure shows an increase of 726 workers since last November, indicating that the Y. M. C. A. has strengthened its forces, despite the loss of troops to America, to meet the greater need for its work that came with the end of the fighting.

Their Home "Over There"

One of the more permanent Y. M. C. A. buildings serving the troops stationed in the neighborhood. Moving pictures, concerts, religious services, games, boxing bouts, materials for writing letters home, books, magazines, in short all the pleasant and restful features the boy was used to in his home town, are provided here. Thus was the galling monotony of leisure hours in a foreign land dispelled.

A TALE of the NORTH COUNTRY in the TIME of SILAS WRIGHT

By IRVING BACHELLER Author of Eben Holden, D'ri and I, Darrel of the Blessed Isles, Keeping Up With Lizzie, Etc., Etc.

Copyright by Irving Bacheller

UNCLE PEABODY SPURNS BRIBE OFFERED BY GRIMSHAW TO SEAL BART'S LIPS.

Synopsis.—Barton Baynes, an orphan, goes to live with his uncle, Peabody Baynes, and his Aunt Deel on a farm on Ratteroad, in a neighborhood called Lickitysplit, about the year 1826. He meets Sally Dunkelberg, about his own age, but socially of a class above the Bayneses, and is fascinated by her pretty face and fine clothes. Barton also meets Roving Kate, known in the neighborhood as the "Silent Woman." Amos Grimshaw, a young son of the richest man in the township, is a visitor at the Baynes home and Roving Kate tells the boys' fortunes, predicting a bright future for Barton and death on the gallows for Amos. Barton meets Silas Wright, Jr., a man prominent in public affairs, who evinces much interest in the boy. Barton learns of the power of money when Mr. Grimshaw threatens to take the Baynes farm unless a note which he holds is paid. Now in his sixteenth year, Barton, on his way to the post office at Canton, meets a stranger and they ride together. They encounter a highwayman, who shoots and kills the stranger. Barton's horse throws him and runs away. As the murderer bends over the stranger Barton throws a stone, which he observes wounds the thief, who makes off at once. A few weeks later Bart leaves home to enter Michael Hackett's school at Canton. Amos Grimshaw is arrested, charged with the murder which Bart witnessed.

To my utter surprise he resumed his talk with me as the young man went away.

"You see all ways are north when you put this lodestone near the needle," he went on. "If it is to tell you the truth you must keep the lodestone away from the needle. It's that way, too, with the compass of your soul, partner. There the lodestone is selfishness, and with its help you can make any direction look right to you and soon—you're lost."

He bound the last bundle and then we walked together toward the house, the senator carrying his sickle.

"I shall introduce you to the president," he said as we neared our destination. "Then perhaps you had better leave us."

I could not remember that I had ever been "introduced" to anybody. I knew that people put their wits on exhibition and often flung down a "snag" by way of demonstrating their fitness for the honor, when they were introduced in books. I remember asking rather timidly:

"What shall I say when—when you introduce me?"

"Oh, say anything you want to say," he answered with a look of amusement.

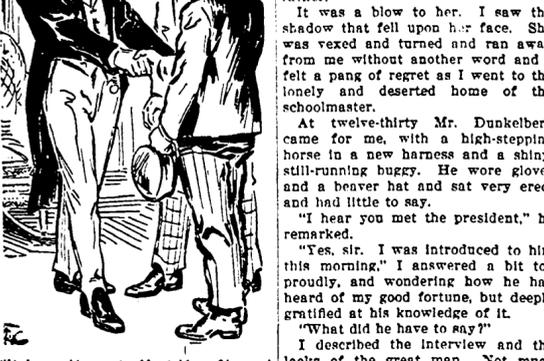

"I'm kind o' scared," I said.

"You needn't be—he was once a poor boy just like you."

"Just like me?" I repeated thoughtfully, for while I had heard a good deal of that kind of thing in our home, it had not, somehow, got under my jacket, as they used to say.

"Just like you—cowhide and all—the son of a small freeholder in Kinderhook on the Hudson," he went on. "But he was well fed in brain and body and kept his heart clean. So of course he grew and is still growing. That's a curious thing about men and women, Bart. If they are in good ground and properly cared for they never stop growing—never!—and that's a pretty full word—isn't it?"

We had come in sight of the house. I lagged behind a little when I saw the great man sitting on the small piazza with Mrs. Wright. I see vividly.

"It is an Honor to Meet You, Sir, and Thank You For the Right to Vote—When I am Old Enough."

idly, as I write, the full figure, the ruddy, kindly face, the large nose, the gray eyes, the thick halo of silvered hair extending from his collar to the bald top of his head. He rose and said in a deep voice:

"He sows ill luck who hinders the reaper."

Mr. Wright hung his sickle on a small tree in the dooryard and answered:

"The plowman has overtaken the reaper, Mr. President. I bid you welcome to my humble home."

my life—yes! We been lookin' up the road for an hour—eyes! You come right into the house this minute—both o' you."

The table was spread with the things I enjoyed most—big, brown biscuits and a great comb of honey surrounded with its nectar and a pitcher of milk and a plate of cheese and some jerked meat and an apple pie.

"Set right down an' eat—I just want to see ye eat—aye I do!"

Mr. Grimshaw came soon after we had finished our luncheon. He hitched his horse at the post and came in.

"Good day," he said, once and for all, as he came in at the open door. "Baynes, I want to have a talk with you and the boy. Tell me what you know about that murder."

"Wal, I had some business over to Plattsburg," my uncle began. "While I was there I thought I'd go and see Amos. So I drove out to Beekman's farm. They told me that Amos had left there after workin' four days. They gave him fourteen shillins an' he was goin' to take the stage in the mornin'." He left some time in the night an' took Beekman's rifle with him, so they said. There was a piece o' wood broke out o' the stock o' the rifle. That was the kind o' gun that was used in the murder."

It surprised me that my uncle knew all this. He had said nothing to me of his journey or its result.

"How do you know?" snapped Mr. Grimshaw.

"This boy see it plain. It was a gun with a piece o' wood broke out o' the stock."

"Is that so?" was the brusque demand of the money lender as he turned to me.

"Yes, sir," I answered.

"The boy lies," he snapped, and turning to my uncle added: "Yer mad 'cause I'm tryin' to make ye pay yer honest debts—ain't ye now?"

Uncle Peabody, keeping his temper, shook his head and calmly said: "No, I ain't anything ag'in' you or Amos, but it's got to be so that a man can travel the roads o' this town without gettin' his head blowed off."

Mr. Dunkelberg turned to me and asked:

"Are you sure that the stock of the gun you saw was broken?"

"Yes, sir—and I'm almost sure it was Amos that ran away with it."

"Why?"

"I picked up a stone and threw it at him and it grazed the left side of his face, and the other night I saw the scar it made."

My aunt and uncle and Mr. Dunkelberg moved with astonishment as I spoke of the scar. Mr. Grimshaw, with keen eyes fixed upon me, gave a little grunt of incredulity.

"Huh!—Liar!" he muttered.

"I am not a liar," I declared with indignation, whereupon my aunt angrily stirred the fire in the stove and Uncle Peabody put his hand on my arm and said:

"Hush, Bart! Keep your temper, son."

"If you tell these things you may be the means of sending an innocent boy to his death," Mr. Dunkelberg said to me. "I wouldn't be too sure about 'em if I were you. It's so easy to be mistaken. You couldn't be sure in the dusk that the stone really hit him, could you?"

I answered: "Yes, sir—I saw the stone hit and I saw him put his hand on the place while he was running. I guess it hurt him some."

"Look a' here, Baynes," Mr. Grimshaw began in that familiar scolding tone of his. "I know what you want an' we might jest as well git right down to business first as last. You keep this boy still an' I'll give ye five years' interest."

Aunt Deel gave a gasp and quickly covered her mouth with her hand. Uncle Peabody changed color as he rose from his chair with a strange look on his face. He swung his big right hand in the air as he said:

"By the eternal jumpin'—"

He stopped, pulled down the left sleeve of his fannel shirt and walked to the water pail and drank out of the dipper.

"Say, Mr. Grimshaw, I'm awful sorry for ye," said my uncle as he returned to his chair. "but I've always learnt this boy to tell the truth an' the bull truth. I know the danger I'm in. We're gettin' old. It'll be hard to start over ag'in an' you can ruin us if ye want to an' I'm as scared o' ye as a mouse in a cat's paw, but this boy has got to tell the truth right out plain. I couldn't muzzle him. If I tried—he's too much of a man. If you're scared o' the truth you mus' know that Amos is guilty."

Mr. Grimshaw shook his head with anger and beat the floor with the end of his cane.

"Nobody knows anything o' the kind, Baynes," said Mr. Dunkelberg. "Of course Amos never thought o' killing anybody. He's a harmless kind of a boy. I know him well and so do you. Under the circumstances Mr. Grimshaw is afraid that Bart's story will make it difficult for Amos to prove his innocence."

Uncle Peabody shook his head with a look of firmness.

Again Grimshaw laughed between his teeth as he looked at my uncle. In his view every man had his price.

"I see that I'm the mouse an' you're the cat," he resumed, as that curious laugh rattled in his throat. "Look a' here, Baynes, I'll tell ye what I'll do. I'll cancel the bull mortgage."

Again Uncle Peabody rose from his chair with a look in his face which I have never forgotten. How his voice rang out!

"No, sir!" he shouted so loudly that we all jumped to our feet and Aunt Deel covered her face with her apron and began to cry. It was like the explosion of a blast. Then the fragments began falling with a loud crash:

"NO, SIR! YE CAN'T BUY THE NAIL ON MY LITTLE FINGER OR HIS WITH ALL YER MONEY—D—N YOU!"

It was like the shout of Israel from the top of the mountains. Shep bounced into the house with hair on end and the chickens cackled and the old rooster clapped his wings and crowed with all the power of his lungs. Every member of that little group stood stock still and breathless.

"No, Sir! Ye Can't Buy the Nail on My Little Finger or His With All Yer Money—Damn You!"

I trembled with a fear I could not have defined. Mr. Grimshaw shuffled out of the door, his cane rapping the floor as if his arm had been stricken with palsy in a moment.

Mr. Dunkelberg turned to my aunt, his face scarlet, and muttered an apology for the disturbance and followed the money lender.

"Come on, Bart," Uncle Peabody called cheerfully, as he walked toward the barnyard. "Let's go an' git in them but'ants."

He paid no attention to our visitors—neither did my aunt, who followed us. The two men talked together a moment, unheeded their horses, got into their buggies and drove away.

"Wal, I'm surprised at Mr. Horace Dunkelberg tryin' to come it over us like that—aye! I be," said Aunt Deel.

"Wal, I ain't," said Uncle Peabody. "O! Grimshaw has got him under his thumb—that's what's the matter. You'll find he's up to his ears in debt to Grimshaw—prob'ly."

As we followed him toward the house, he pushing the wheelbarrow loaded with sacks of nuts, he added:

"At last Grimshaw has found something that he can't buy an' he's awful surprised. Too bad he didn't learn that lesson long ago."

He stopped his wheelbarrow by the steps and we sat down together on the edge of the stoop as he added:

"I got mad—they kep' pickin' on me so—I'm sorry, but I couldn't help it. We'll start up ag'in somehwere if we have to. There's a good many days' work in me yet."

As we carried the bags to the attic room I thought of the lodestone and the compass and knew that Mr. Wright had foreseen what was likely to happen.

When we came down Uncle Peabody said to me:

"I feel sorry, awful sorry, for that boy."

We spent a silent afternoon gathering apples. After supper we played old sledge and my uncle had hard work to keep us in good countenance. We went to bed early and I lay long, hearing the autumn wind in the popple leaves and thinking of that great thing which had grown strong within us, little by little, in the candle light.

Bart encounters a new peril as a result of his knowledge regarding the crime of which Amos Grimshaw is accused. How Bart escaped from the danger that menaced him is told in the next installment.

Could Not Resist His Appeal.
"No, Mr. Smith," she said, gently but firmly. "I can never be your wife." Then he struggled to his feet and said in broken tones:

"Are all my hopes to be thus dashed to pieces? Am I never to be known as the husband of the beautiful Mrs. Smith?"

This was too much for the girl, and she succumbed.

Much of mother's popularity with her children is due to the fact that she is willing to wait on them.

He Knew Them.
"I told you," said the merchant, "to mark this box 'Handle with care.' What's this gibberish you've scrawled on it?"

"That," replied the college graduate, "is the Latin for 'Handle with care.'"

"Huh! How do you expect a bag-gyman to understand that?"

"He won't, and therefore he won't get mad and smash the box."—Boston Transcript.

THE MOST DANGEROUS OF ALL DISEASES

No organs of the human body are so important to health and long life as the kidneys. When they slow up and commence to lag in their duties, look out! Danger is in sight.

Find out what the trouble is—without delay. Whenever you feel nervous, weak, dizzy, suffer from sleeplessness, or have pains in the back, wake up at once. Your kidneys need help. These are signs to warn you that your kidneys are not performing their functions properly. They are only half doing their work and are allowing impurities to accumulate and be converted into uric acid and other poisons, which are causing you distress and will destroy you unless they are driven from your system.

1878--ANNIVERSARY WEEK--1919

Forty-one years ago Mr. H. H. Barber, the founder of this business, took for his business motto the sentiment: "A Satisfied Customer Is a Store's Best Advertisement." Through all those forty-one years his steady aim was to have the public coming to his store so served that each one should be "A Satisfied Customer," and that he succeeded in that aim was amply proven by the steady growth of his business. The year 1900 found Mr. Barber so cramped for space that he removed to our present location and the store became known far and near as the H. H. Barber Department Store, and as such continued to satisfy old customers and to win many new ones. A little more than a year ago Mr. Barber incorporated the business, since when it has been known as the H. H. Barber Co. And although we no longer have his personal presence and influence to aid and advise us, we shall always endeavor to carry out as well as we can his well-known aims and business policy, and make our motto now as always in the past: "A Satisfied Customer Is a Store's Best Advertisement." Thus we have Three Anniversaries in One Event: Our Forty-first, Our Nineteenth, Our First.

We Are As Full of Deadly Poisons As A Germ Laboratory.

AUTO-INTOXICATION OR SELF-POISONING

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Absolutely Prevents This Dangerous Condition.

The chief cause of poor health is our neglect of the bowels. Waste matter, instead of passing from the lower intestine regularly every day, is allowed to remain there, generating poisons which are absorbed by the blood.

In other words, a person who is habitually constipated, is poisoning himself. We know now that Auto-intoxication, due to non-action of the bowels, is directly responsible for serious Kidney and Bladder Troubles; that it upsets the Stomach, causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Sleeplessness; that Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Pain In The Back, are relieved as soon as the bowels become regular; and that Pimples, Rashes, Eczema and other Skin Affections disappear when "Fruit-a-tives" are taken to correct Constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives" (or Fruit Liver Tablets) will protect you against Auto-intoxication.

Mrs. Mary J. Foote

Mrs. Mary J. Foote, widow of the late Samuel Foote, of this place, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. N. Shaw, May 7, at East Sullivan. She has been sick for about two months. Saturday, May 8, she had a slight shock and passed away Wednesday morning, May 7. She was ever ready with a helping hand and was loved by all who knew her. She was born in Warner, Oct. 28, 1844. Since her husband died, eight years ago, she has made her home with her oldest and youngest daughters. They came to this place 26 years ago. She leaves besides the oldest daughter, with whom she died, two others: Mrs. Clara Bell O'Rourke, of Boston, and Mrs. Almira Foote Kilian, of this town, with whom she lived half of the time. There were beautiful floral offerings: pillow from Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Kilian and son, with the word Mother; spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Haas and family; spray of pinks, Miss Myrtle Nash; spray of pinks, Miss Collins; two large sprays of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Shaw; spray of roses, Mr. and Mrs. Michael O'Rourke. Interment was in Evergreen cemetery.
