MUCH HARD WORK

Was What Put Our Town "Over The Top"

William E. Cram, as chairman of the local Liberty Loan Committee, thinks those of our people who served on the committee with him deserve a whole lot of credit for the work they did in selling the large amount of each loan from the first to the fifth inclusive; they worked faithfully and well, and earnest labors were rewarded with great success.

No one would have thought it possible to sell half what was sold, in the town of Antrim, with no banking facilities whatever, and when it was learned that nearly a quarter of a million dollars were invested in government securities represented in these several loans, it seemed hardly possible to believe, but such is the fact. The several members of the committee are getting the praise they deserve and the people of Antrim who subscribed so liberally and willingly are to be congratulated on their patriotism and thrift; and in addition their act along this line showed sound business judgment.

The figures as compiled for the Reporter are given herewith:

	Amt.	No. subscribers
First Loan	$30,200	121
Second Loan	50,600	214
Third Loan	51,850	258
Fourth Loan	54,270	239
Fifth Loan	38,400	122
Total	$225,320	954

By figuring this out it will be seen that per capita the investment is about $188. And we have no reason to believe that any large sums were withdrawn from savings institutions or that investments were materially changed.

The following letter has been received by The Reporter from the chairman of the Liberty Loan Committee of New England and we feel it should have a place in our columns:

The Victory Loan campaign is over. The Liberty Loan Committee of New England will disband after two years of active work, and pass out of existence. It has been a remarkable committee, in that its personnel has scarcely changed in the entire two years. The same people have worked together, believed in each other, and had faith in the righteousness of the work they were endeavoring to do. Their accomplishments are a matter of history.

Before going out of existence, the Committee desires to thank you heartily for the help you have given in each Loan. Its spontaneity and its genuineness has been of the finest kind. Without the help of the press, no great campaign can succeed, and you have the satisfaction of knowing that in one of the most important of war activities, the financing of the country, you have been of material assistance.

With every good wish, and with an abiding sense of obligation, we are Very truly yours,

Liberty Loan Com. of New England
John K. Allen,
Chairman Publicity Committee

New Insurance Agency

Or rather what was the E. W. Baker agency, will be continued by Charles S. Abbott, who is administrator of Mr. Baker's estate and is settling the estates that Mr. Baker had not completed.

This agency is of long standing, representing a number of well established and substantial companies, and the only new thing about it is the agent, it being a new business for Mr. Abbott. He is well-known by all our people and hopes to be able to serve them in a satisfactory manner.

Card of Thanks

The undersigned desire to tender their thanks to everyone who assisted them during the illness and death of their brother and uncle; to all who remembered him with floral tributes, and to the many who offered their sympathy in various ways, especially to those who had part in the final services.

Herbert K. Bryer and family

BRIEF HISTORIES

Of Antrim's Soldiers Discharged From Service

The Reporter is publishing weekly the facts concerning the enlistment, service and honorable discharge of the boys from Antrim who were in the World War. These facts and figures are given us by our local historian, F. C. Parmenter, who has our thanks for same:

CHARLES H. CLOUGH

Son of Rev. Charles E. and Annie J. Williams Clough; born in Milan, N. H., Oct. 12, 1894. Enlisted in the Aviation Corps, Dec. 15, 1917, and was stationed at Camp Dix, N. J.; was promoted to cook Jan. 25, 1918; crossed to Europe in March, 1918; was in England for a short time, then to France. He was in the 264th Aero Squadron. Was in no actual engagement, but was bombed by the Huns several times. Arrived in the U. S. March 7, 1919, and was honorably discharged at Camp Devens April 3, 1919.

PAUL R. COLBY

Son of Fred H. and Bertha L. Weeks Colby. Born in Hudson, Mass., Mar. 24, 1895. Entered the service in the Merchant Marine May 13, 1918. Made two trips to the West Indies and was released Oct. 31, 1918.

DENNIS WALLACE COOLEY

Son of Dennis W. and Emma J. Langley Cooley; born in Bennington, N. H., March 4, 1887. Entered the service Sept. 5, 1918. Camp Upton, Quartermaster's Dept., 12th Co., 3rd Batt., 152nd Depot Brigade. Honorably discharged Dec. 4, 1918.

DONALD B. CRAM

Son of William E. and Mary A. Blick Cram; born in Antrim, Dec. 8, 1899. Entered the service in the S. A. T. C. Oct. 10, 1918, and was assigned to the Naval Unit at the State College at Durham, N. H. Was released from duty Dec. 12, 1918. His current enlistment expires Oct. 10, 1922.

CARL W. CRAMPTON

Son of Willoughby and Annie E. Brooks Crampton, born in Antrim Jan. 21, 1896. Entered the service May 16, 1918; was at the State College at Durham until July 8, when he was transferred to Camp Devens, in 27th Co., 7th Bat., Depot Brigade. Remained there until honorably discharged Dec. 5, 1918.

MATTHEW N. CUDDIHY

Son of James W. and Joanna Coughlin Cuddihy; born in Antrim Mar. 24, 1892. Entered the service July 25, 1918, Com. H., 74th Inf., 12th Div., Camp Devens. Honorably discharged Jan. 27, 1919.

BERNARD M. DAVIS

Son of Wilfred M. and Nettie I. Stearns Davis. Born in Hancock, N. H., April 17, 1897. Entered the service in the S. A. T. C. Sept. 19, 1918, and was assigned to the Vocational Unit. Was acting Corporal. Honorably discharged Dec. 10, 1918.

(In this list last week the year of birth of Robert T. Barker should have read 1898. Editor.)

Memorial Sunday

The annual Memorial Sunday sermon will be held at the town hall on Sunday afternoon, May 25, at three o'clock; address will be given by Rev. J. D. Cameron, D. D., of the Presbyterian church. A cordial invitation is extended to all young men who have been in the service, to attend in uniform, and join with the veterans of 61-65 in this Memorial Service. The soldiers of the recent World War will be addressed by Rev. John Currie. Special music for the occasion will be rendered by a union choir.

Auction Sale

By Charles H. Dutton, Auctioneer.
A. M. Flagg, being about to remove from Hancock, will sell at public auction, at his residence known as the Asa Woods place, about one mile east of Hancock village on the Bennington road, on Saturday, May 24, at one o'clock in the afternoon, a lot of personal property. For further particulars and list of goods see auction bills.

ORDERS VACATED

U. S. Fuel Administration Gives Out Facts

United States Fuel Administration, Washington, D. C., May 13, 1919.

The United States Fuel Administrator, acting under authority of an Executive Order of the President of the United States, dated August 23, 1917, appointing said Administrator, and of subsequent Executive Orders, and in furtherance of the purpose of said orders and of the Act of Congress therein referred to and approved August 10, 1917.

Hereby Orders and Directs that all rules, regulations or orders heretofore issued or promulgated by or under authority of said United States Fuel Administrator governing licenses engaged in the business of importing, manufacturing, distributing, and transporting crude oil, fuel oil, gas oil, kerosene, gasoline, and natural gas, or regulating the production, sale, distribution, or use thereof, and all amendments and modifications of said rules and regulations and orders be, and the same hereby are, vacated and set aside as of the 15th day of May, 1919.

(Signed) H. A. GARFIELD,
United States Fuel Administrator

The Funeral of J. A. Bryer

Was held from the Presbyterian church on Thursday afternoon last and was well attended by relatives and friends. Rev. J. D. Cameron, pastor, officiated. The singing was by Mrs. Jennie Nims and Miss Gertrude Jameson, who sang "Give Me the Wings of Faith," "The Invisible Land," and "Nearer My God to Thee." Miss Gertrude Proctor, accompanist. The deceased was a member of the Presbyterian church and for a number of years sang in this choir with Mrs. Nims and Miss Jameson. A profusion of beautiful flowers surrounded the casket.

The interment was in Maplewood cemetery, at which place the Odd Fellows ritual was read by members of Waverley Lodge who attended the service in a body, deceased being a charter member of this lodge.

Deceased leaves a brother, Herbert K. Bryer, for a long time a resident of Antrim and now of West Medford, Mass., and who took the best of care of him during his last illness, as he was taken sick while making him a visit; and another brother, Charles Bryer, who resides in Jacksonville, Florida, where had been the home of the deceased for a number of years past. Other relatives are nephews and nieces.

Native of Antrim

Dr. Silas Murray Dinsmoor, a well known physician of Keene for the past 39 years and for 20 years previous a practicing physician in other towns in this state, died at his home, 21 Summer st., in that city, last Wednesday morning, aged nearly 83 years.

He was born in Antrim, June 22, 1836, the son of Silas and Clarissa (Copeland) Dinsmoor. After attending schools and academies at Washington and Marlow he taught for two years at Sullivan. He attended the medical school at the University of Vermont, later going to Columbia Medical college at Washington, D. C., receiving his degree in 1860. He commenced practice at Antrim, his native place, and at East Washington and Franconia he spent 20 years. He went to Keene in 1880, and until recently had been in active practice.

Kitchen Shower

Friday evening last, a kitchen shower was given Miss Vera McClure by the ladies' aid society of the Methodist church, in their social hall. Some sixty-five were present and a most enjoyable evening was passed. The entertainment was a Mother Goose party in charge of Mrs. E. Y. Goodwin, and her entire family did splendidly and showed their good training. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. In addition to Mrs. Goodwin, the committee in charge were Mrs. R. S. Barker, Mrs. C. F. Carter and Mrs. H. W. Eldredge.

ANSON SWETT

For Many Years a Resident of Antrim

Anson Swett, who had lived in Antrim almost continuously since he was twelve years of age, having been born in Windsor February 2, 1845, died at his home on Main street Tuesday morning at about nine o'clock. He had been in failing health for quite a long time, although he was confined to his room less than two weeks. In his last sickness he was tenderly cared for by his daughter, Miss Susie Swett, who has for a number of years kept house for him, and his sister, Mrs. Martha Sawyer; he also had the care of male nurses whose presence was needed at times when his condition was the worst.

Deceased followed the business of farming for many years, but found time to serve his townsmen in various capacities, having served as Selectman two years, member of school board seven years, tax collector two years, and under the Cleveland administration from Dec., 1893, he was postmaster for four years. Following this he conducted an insurance agency, which business he was still in at the time of his death. He was unusually quiet in his manner, an exemplary citizen, and a good neighbor. Held membership in the Presbyterian church and was a constant attendant upon its services. He was also connected with the Masonic fraternity, being a member of Harmony lodge, of Hillsboro.

Besides the daughter and sister above referred to, deceased is survived by one other daughter, Mrs. Ernest Towne, of Somerville, Mass., and a son, Archie M. Swett, the present postmaster of Antrim. The family has the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

The funeral services will be held

Days of Dizziness

Come to Hundreds of Antrim People There are days of dizziness; Spells of headache, languor, back-ache; Sometimes rheumatic pains; Often urinary disorders. Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney ills. Endorsed by residents of this vicinity.

Mrs. Fred Abbott, Jackson St., Hillsboro, N. H., says: "For some time I suffered from dull, nagging backaches and pains across my loins. I had spells of dizziness and headaches and my kidneys caused me a lot of annoyance. I used one box of Doan's Kidney Pills and the backaches left. I don't have any dizzy spells or headaches now and the annoyance from my kidneys has stopped."

SEVEN YEARS LATER Mrs. Abbott said: "Although I haven't had to use Doan's Kidney Pills in several years, I still hold a high opinion of them and recommend them as highly as ever." Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Abbott had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

from the home on Friday afternoon at two o'clock.

NEW ENGLAND NEWS IN TABLOID FORM

Items of Interest From All Sections of Yankee Land

Jean Baptiste Morin of Oldtown, Me., is dead from paralysis, aged 85. His wife died nine years ago. They were the parents of 24 children, of whom 10 are living, five sons and five daughters, all of Oldtown.

A 48-hour working week is now in effect in the shoe factories of Haverhill, Mass. Forty-nine firms belong to this association, but it is expected that the other 40 plants in the city will be operated on the same basis.

Bishop Lawrence, head of the Massachusetts diocese of the Episcopal church, is reported to be resting comfortably at the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, where he recently underwent an operation performed by Dr. Franklin G. Bach of Clarendon street.

Daniel Farnham, 19 years old, pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter in the county court in connection with the killing of Charles Clifford at Essex Junction on April 25. He was sentenced to not less than four nor more than 10 years in the state prison.

An organization to develop shipping at Boston has been formed under the name of the New England Steamship Association with the purpose of obtaining larger shipping board ships and engaging in trade with South America, Europe or in whatever part of the world opportunity offers.

William H. O'Brien, chief of the telephone and telegraph department of the Massachusetts public service commission, has issued a "memorandum" in which he gives Gov. Coolidge credit for bringing about a settlement of the recent strike of the telephone operators in New England.

Mrs. Annie Greenburg, president and treasurer of the A. Greenberg Poultry company of 11 Lewis street, East Boston, where the slaughter house is located was found guilty of the larceny of 156,068 pounds of poultry from the Batchelder & Snyder company, by a jury in the Superior Criminal Court.

H. H. Bond, formerly head of the income tax division, urges the Mass. House Committee on Ways and Means to report favorably upon a bill which would change the taxation law as it applies to levies upon interest received by stock brokers upon money lent their customers in the buying of shares.

"A minimum salary for Methodist ministers of from $1000 to $1200 a year is the plan of the Methodist Centenary," announced Robert M. Pierce, secretary for the life service department of the centenary, at the Boston area headquarters. "Part of the $140,000,000 which is being raised by the Methodist Church will be spent for this purpose," he said.

Julius Latkovich of Cambridge, a law student and formerly employed in the Old South building as an insurance adjuster, was sentenced to a year and a day in the Plymouth jail by Federal Judge Morton for falsifying a questionnaire. He was found guilty by a jury several weeks ago, but because of illness in his family was given time to adjust his affairs before being sentenced.

The Georgetown, Ipswich & Rowley Street Railway, a part of the Bay State Street Railway Company's system, was sold at auction at Salem for $30,000. LL-Gov. Channing H. Cox, representing the Supreme Court as master, conducted the sale on the steps of the court house. I. H. Glidden of Boston, representing the reorganization managers of the Bay State, was the only bidder.

Bankruptcy proceedings were instituted in the federal district court, Boston, against the Annawan Mills, Inc. of Fall River. The petitioning creditors and their claims are the Granite Mills, $38,783; Stevens Manufacturing Co., $24,898; and Wampanoag Mills, $27,534. The petition states that the company has admitted in writing its inability to pay its debts and its willingness to be adjudged a bankrupt.

After he had told the court that he believed in the soviet form of government, that he countenanced the use of force, "only in case it should be necessary," William James Sidis, 21 years of age, was sentenced in the Roxbury, Mass. municipal court to six months in the house of correction for rioting and one year for assault upon a police officer in the May Day radical demonstration in the Roxbury district. Sidis was graduated from Harvard university at the age of 15 and is a son of Dr. Boris Sidis, a psychopathologist.

The Western Massachusetts Episcopal convention in All Saints' Church, Worcester, voted to erect in Holy Trinity Church in Paris, a memorial tablet to Chaplain Walton S. Danks of the 104th Infantry, the first American chaplain killed in war, which he entered from the rectorship of St. John's Episcopal Church in Worcester. The convention appointed as a committee to accept contributions for the memorial, Rev. George S. Southworth, Matthew J. Whittall and Prof. James W. Coombs, all of Worcester.

BOSTON MEN PAY $25,000 FOR CALF

Hugh Bancroft and Oak Farms combine in purchase. Florham Leader, a two-month Guernsey bull calf, was sold at auction in Madison, N. J., for $25,000, said to be a new record price for any animal of its breed. Oak Farms and Hugh Bancroft, both of Massachusetts, combined to make the purchase, paying $10,500 above the previous record price. Florham Leader created a furor when he was led into the auction ring. Within two minutes bidding on him had passed the $10,000 mark. He is a son of Ne Plus Ultra, out of Langwater Nancy, a cow that produced 18,783.5 pounds of milk containing 1,011.66 pounds of butter fat in a year, a record that has been exceeded by only three Guernsey cows, it was announced before the sale. Among prominent bidders at the day's sale was F. Lothrop Ames, Boston.

Forrest, Jr., 3 years old and Oral, 4 years old, children of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Davis, were burned to death in a barn in which they had been playing. The building was in flames when the fire was discovered by two older Davis children, Mr. and Mrs. Davis are employed in mills here and had left Forrest and Oral in charge of an older sister. It is thought they had been playing with matches.

Robert R. Cleland of Springfield, Mass., president of the National Confectioners' association, addressing the 96th annual convention at its opening session predicted that the costs of manufacture would remain high, but that an effort should be made to maintain the present high standard. The effect of national prohibition was formally discussed by members, many believing it will work to the benefit of the candy interests.

Prompt work with the steering wheel no doubt saved the steamship Lake Bledsoe from being ripped open by a derelict in Great Round Shoal channel, near Nantucket. The derelict loomed dead ahead and so close the ship careened perceptibly when they threw the helm hard over and went clear by a hand's breadth. It happened at midnight last Wednesday when Capt. Murley was conning the collier, from "wall's Point, to bring the ranges near correctly.

Frank S. Drown, Mass. State Registrar of Vital Statistics has resigned under protest from that position. An order introduced into the House for an investigation of the Secretary of State's office culminated in Drown's resignation. Subsequent to the entering of the order, Sec. of State Langtry, who asked for the resignation, said that while Drown's method of doing business "was irregular" it was in no sense dishonest and no charge of dishonesty was lodged against him.

A warning against overproduction in the candy field and the launching of a campaign to secure the repeal of the 5 per cent excise tax on candy and the special tax on ice cream and soft drinks, constituted two of the main features of the programme of the convention of the National Confectioners' Association of the United States, which was held in Springfield, Mass. The particular danger of overproduction of candy, according to President R. R. Cleland, lies during the few months intervening before the business is adjusted to a peace basis.

An influenza serum forms the basis of a $10,000 suit filed in the Suffolk Superior Court at Boston by Thelma Crowdes of Boston against Dr. William W. Duckering of 158 Harvard street, Dorchester. In one count she alleges breach of a warranty that the serum he sold her was reasonably fit to inoculate her with and in another count claims he falsely represented to her that the serum was harmless whereas in truth it was poisonous and dangerous and made her very ill. In still another count she says that employing her as nurse he told her she should be inoculated with the serum to prevent her catching influenza.

The Bay State Street Railway Company has put into use a new form of metal ticket good only north of Boston, as substitute on all cars operated in Melrose, Malden, Chelsea and Revere for the 7-cent paper tickets which have been sold in strips of five for 35 cents. The new tokens, which are a little smaller than a dime and look like silver, may be bought only in lots of five for 35 cents or multiples thereof. These tickets have already been put on sale in Gloucester, Haverhill, Lawrence and Lowell and will very shortly be put on sale in Lynn and Salem. The territory north of Boston operated by the Bay State Company has been designated as district 1. Metal tickets have also been put into effect in all cities south of Boston, which has been designated as district 2, but tickets sold north of Boston will not be good for fare south of Boston as the metal tickets are of an entirely different design.

Republican members of the Mass. House, in caucus, voted in favor of the passage of the bill to pay a bounty of $100 to each Massachusetts man, whether an officer or enlisted man, who served in the military or naval forces during the European war. The bill as originally drafted provided that the payment should be made to all but commissioned officers of the Army or Navy. Inasmuch as the Democrats of the House, in a caucus, also voted in favor of the bounty bill, its passage appears to be assured.

NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE NEWS

Holds N. H. Pythians. Ex-Mayor Edw. C. Smith of Manchester will head grand lodge of Pythians of the domain of New Hampshire for the coming year. At the 49th annual convention of the Knights, the former Queen City official was elected grand chancellor. Carrie V. Lunn of West Stewartston was elected to the office of grand chief of Pythian Sisters at their meeting.

Other officers for the coming year were chosen. Grand vice-chancellor elected was Will J. Dearborn of Laconia. Rev. W. A. Loyne of Lawrence, Mass., was again elected grand prelate and others chosen were as follows: grand keeper of records and seal, Charles M. Corson of Dover; grand master of exchequer, John C. McQuilkin of Concord; grand master-at-arms, James E. Young of Rochester; grand inner guard, James A. Fraser of Gorham; grand outer guard, Herbert L. Grinnell of Derry.

The 50th anniversary of the grand lodge will be most fittingly observed with a golden jubilee at Laconia in October, 1920.

The next annual convention of the grand lodge—the 50th—will take place at Keene the second Tuesday in May, 1919.

N. H. Institutions Benefit Under Will of New York Man

Institutions in Massachusetts and New Hampshire are beneficiaries under the will, filed in New York, of Charles H. Tenney of Methuen, Mass., and New York who died there in April.

Bequests include $50,000 each to Lawrence General Hospital, Lawrence, Mass.; New Hampshire conference seminary and female college, Tilton, N. H., and Boston university; and $10,000 each to Orthodox Congregational church society, Methodist Episcopal church, Baptist society and Universalist church of Methuen; and First Methodist, Pleasant st., Methodist, Congregational and Baptist churches of Salem, N. H., where the decedent had a farm, and North Episcopal church of North Salem, N. H. Children and grandchildren share the greater part of the estate, estimated worth several million dollars.

Arrange To Make Oat Tests About State

Co-operative tests with oats in selected sections of the state have been arranged this spring by the New Hampshire agricultural experiment station, with a view to determining the comparative yields and adaptability of eight different varieties. The tests, which have been arranged by F. W. Taylor, station agronomist and dean of the agricultural division of the State college, through the county farm bureaus, will be made at the farms of Fred Smalley, Walpole; St. Paul's school, Concord; Webster estate, Holderness, and W. E. Bullard, Lancaster, as well as at the New Hampshire college farm. They will thus cover representative sections and soils of the state, including the northern part, the Connecticut valley, the Merrimack valley, the central part and the southern part.

Y. M. C. A. Convention held at Durham

On the invitation of President Hetzel of New Hampshire State college, a county Y. M. C. A. convention for Strafford county was held at Library hall, Durham. Burt R. Cooper, Gilman Campbell, Roland Spaulding, and C. G. Jenness of Rochester, W. S. Lougee, Frank Dawson and Mr. Huse of Milton, W. W. Finley, W. D. F. Hayden and William Allen of Dover, M. Russell and F. K. Wentworth of Somersworth, Pres. R. D. Hetzel, Prof. Charles Simmers and Prof. E. R. Groves of Durham were the present Mr. E. P. Conlon and L. B. Hawes were present from the state office of the Y. M. C. A. of Concord.

Gotch Coming Again

The great success of the recent wrestling match held in Dover under the management of Mike Kerns and Ray Anton has induced the management to make arrangements for the second appearance of Frank Gotch of Boston. The wrestling fans are desirous for a finish match between this pair, having their bout begin early enough in the evening so that this result can be obtained. An effort is being made to have the bout take place in the old armory in the basement of the city building.

Drops Over Dam, but Swims Ashore

Henry Morneau was swept over the concrete dam of the Jackson Mills in the Nashua River when the engine of his motorboat stalled, but took the 20-foot drop without injury, swimming ashore after he had come up between the two-foot curtain of water and the dam.

State K. C.'s Elect

The state council of the Knights of Columbus of New Hampshire held its annual convention at the K. of C. hall, corner Main and Mason sts., Berlin.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: State deputy, John H. Houffman, Berlin; state secretary, Peter Desautels, Berlin; state treasurer, Walter Harkins, Laconia; state warden, John H. Fitzgerald, Keene, and state advocate, J. Joseph Doherty, Concord.

Price List of Home-Canned Goods.

The value of different kinds of home-canned products of a high grade is shown in a price list compiled by the home demonstration department of the New Hampshire college extension service. The list is based on the experience of women who canned for sale, on records of boys' and girls' clubs members, and on the prevailing prices of last year.

It is suggested that those who wish to place orders for standard home-canned products do so through their county home demonstration agents. Those who have gardens may find people to can their products for them with a charge for time and fuel. Already a number of women in the state are doing custom canning of this sort.

The price list is as follows, the first figure being the price of a pint can the second the price of a quart can: Apples, with syrup, 25c; 40c; apples, sliced, 18c, 30c; asparagus tips, 40c, 60c; beans, shell, 30c, 50c; beans, string, 30c, 50c; beets, small 15c, 45c; blackberries, 30c, 50c; 25c, 35c; currants, red, 30c, 55c; 35c; cherries, pitted, 40c, 75c; whole, 30c, 50c; corn, 35c, 65c; orabapples, 30c, 35c; currants, red, 30c, 55c; gooseberries, 30c, 50c; greens, 35c, 45c; parsnips, 18c, 25c; peaches, whole, 35c, 60c; peaches, halved, 45c, 70c; pears, 30c, 55c; peums, 40c, 70c; pineapples, 30c, 50c; plums, 30c, 55c; pumpkins 20c, 35c; quince, 25c, 40c; raspberries, red, 40c, 70c; rhubarb, 18c, 25c; squash, 20c, 35c; strawberries, cultivated, 40c, 75c; strawberries, wild, 50c, 95c; succotash, 30c, 55c; tomatoes, whole, 25c, 45c.

Deputy Now Seeks Divorce from Wife

Hudson is much interested in a suit which Deputy Fish and Game Commissioner John Wentworth of that town has entered for divorce against his wife, who was Jessie G. Gilbert of that town. He alleges cruelty. Deputy Wentworth is the son of former commissioner Nathaniel Wentworth, widely known throughout the state to all fish and game lovers. Mrs. Wentworth is at the family home in Hudson, but Deputy Wentworth has been in the town but little the last six months.

To Organize Academy of Science.

Plans have been completed for organizing an association to be known as the New Hampshire Academy of Science. The purpose of the Academy is to advance the cause of science to bring about a closer cooperation between its members, to encourage a close union between science and industry, to bring about a wider appreciation of scientific work and to promote pleasant acquaintance among the members. The first meeting of the proposed organization will be held at Concord Saturday, May 24th at 1.30 p. m.

Bequests to Harvard and Museum.

The will of Hervey E. Wetzel of Boston, lieutenant in the American Red Cross, who died on Oct. 14, 1918, was filed at Exeter for copy in the session of probate court of Rockingham county and gives $100,000 to the Museum of Fine Arts of Boston to be expended on the purchase of important works of art, and also $100,000 to Harvard university, also to be expended for the purchase of the works of art.

At Hanover, N. H., several changes in the Dartmouth faculty were recently announced by the administration. Dr. Malcolm Keir, a former member of the faculty of the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, was elected professor of economics, and resignations were accepted from Professor Frank H. Dixon of the economics department and Clifford P. Clark, assistant professor of classical languages.

Corporations Must Make Returns.

Secretary of State Edwin C. Bean has mailed to the corporations of the state, blanks upon which they may make their official return stating the name under which the corporation is doing business in accordance with the act passed at the recent session of the legislature requiring that the trade name of every corporation doing business in the state be filed with the secretary of state.

Grant Clerks Half Holiday.

The movement recently started for a half holiday each week for people who labor in Franklin stores promises to bear fruit, a number of proprietors having signed an agreement to close their stores at 12:30 o'clock each Wednesday afternoon from May 14 to Sept. 24.

Army Blankets Found in Woods.

Boys who were out mayflowering discovered a bundle of 400 army blankets covered with tarred paper and hidden in the woods near Portsmouth. The blankets are claimed to be the property of the United States government and were stored at Atlantic Heights.

Will Investigate Hampton Railway

The citizens of Hampton at their special adjourned town meeting regarding the purchasing of the Exeter, Hampton and Amesbury street railway, voted to empower the selectmen to appoint a committee of five citizens to investigate the matter and report at subsequent meeting to be held on Sept. 8. It was left with the committee to ascertain the lowest possible figures that the road could be purchased for.

HUNGARY REDS' POWER WANING

Told Smuts They Were Willing to Get Out, But Asked Allied Occupation

WANT SOME SOLUTION

Some Members of Soviet Friendly to America—Order Being Kept and Executions Are Only for Murder and Robbery.

Vienna.—(By the Associated Press) —Bolshevism is waning, the Germans will sign the peace treaty, and delegates from the Hungarian communist government should be permitted to go to Paris, Alexis Bolgar, the representative here of the Hungarian communist government, declared among other things in a statement to the correspondent.

"All we ask," he said, "is for the allies to find some solution for our unfortunate country. When Gen. Smuts was in Budapest as representative of the peace conference we told him we were ready to get out, but we would not be responsible for disorders and bloodshed unless the allies occupied the city, particularly American or British troops rather than the Roumanians.

"If such a thing, as self-government is permitted then the Red republic represents Hungary. I do not see why the allies cannot treat with the soviet unofficially, at least, and also consult, perhaps, with former President Karolyi and with men like Apponyi and Andrassy, all of whom took part in the former governments. The allies should not take seriously the view that the new government is a self-constituted affair and is made up of men unrepresentative of Hungary and also without special prominence or political experience. There are a number of such self-constituted governments for Hungary living in hotels in Vienna.

"Speaking strictly in my official capacity, I ask only that delegates of the Soviet in Budapest be requested to come to Paris. It can be said for the Soviet that it is doing the best it can and also is keeping order. It is not true that there have been any political executions by us. The only executions have been for crimes like murder or robbery.

"In the light of events, it was perhaps unwise for us to nationalize property on so large a scale, we might have gone more slowly, but if reforms like ours are carried out in 20 years' time, instead of three months, they are accepted as reasonable by all classes.

Bolgar, like many others connected with the Budapest soviet, is friendly to America and wishes that he was an American. He said he felt that it was in the United States that the most sane resolutions of the problems of poverty would be worked out. He expressed the opinion that President Wilson was not being treated fairly by the allies nor with proper consideration.

He said he understood that it had been suggested in American quarters that all Hungarian parties, including the Soviet, send representatives for a meeting in Switzerland to form a new government for Hungary.

BRAZIL NOT AGAINST TRANSFER OF DEBTS.

Newspaper's Canvas Shows She Would Like U. S. as Creditor.

Rio Janeiro.—Official circles believe that the transfer of Brazilian debts held by the allied powers, to the United States, would be an honorable transaction for Brazil and not inimical to its credit, according to A. Noite, which has canvassed opinion on the subject.

Senhor Hontelero, president of the financial committee of the Senate, interviewed by A. Noite, was also of the same opinion. He added: "A creditor such as the United States, whose financial position is undeniable, is likely to extend greater facilities if our financial situation should some day become precarious, which is not probable. Besides, the political past of the United States does not lead us to believe that it is capable of any action contrary to our interests and political autonomy.

"It is true that the United States desires to enter into closer relations with Brazil, especially at the present time, when she is able to place large quantities of American products and invest great sums in Brazil.

"Thus, it is a question of a commercial transaction between the interested parties, in which we are not concerned. We must remain tranquil."

JAMAICA APPLIES LITERACY TEST.

Kingston, Jamaica.—A law prohibiting the landing here of aliens who cannot pass literacy tests or are undesirable has been passed by the legislative council. The penalty for landing here under these conditions is a fine of $1000 and deportation. The master of a steamship from which the immigrant lands also is liable to a fine of $500.

Make This Test For Acid-Stomach

There are millions of people who suffer almost daily from the horrors of an acid-stomach—indigestion; sour, gassy, stomach; distressing heartburn; sickening food-repeating; painful bloating and that miserable, puffed up, lumpy feeling after eating. Many of these people have tried treatment after treatment; medicine after medicine; others have gone to doctors and stomach specialists and some to hospitals, but in spite of all of their efforts they have obtained no lasting relief or a permanent cure.

what acid-mouth does to the teeth—how it eats right through the hard enamel and causes them to decay. Think then of the havoc that must be caused by excess acid in the stomach!

Even if you are not suffering any immediate stomach pains, but are not feeling just as fit and fine as you should, you should by all means make this test: Go to your drug store at once and get a big box of EATONIC. It is in the form of pleasant-tasting tablets—you eat them like a bit of candy. EATONIC is prepared for just one purpose—correcting acid-stomach by driving out the excess acid. EATONIC literally absorbs the excess acid. It brings instant relief from the pains of indigestion, heartburn, belching, sour, gassy stomach, bloating, etc. It makes the stomach pure, sweet, cool and comfortable, puts it in a normal, healthy condition, so that your food is properly digested. You need every bit of strength you can possibly get out of the food you eat—and EATONIC helps you get it.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Peace Terms for Austria Are Prepared by the Allied Delegates at Paris.

GERMANS STILL PROTESTING

Ebert and Scheidemann Insist Treaty Must Not Be Signed, and Allies Get Ready for Further Action—Kolchak Plans to Crush Soviet Armies.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

The allied peace delegates at Paris were occupied last week mainly in preparing to hand out to Austria what is coming to her, and in listening to the wails, official and unofficial, of the Germans over the treaty that awaits their signature.

Austria's delegates, headed by Chancellor Karl Renner, were received and housed at St. Germain. They were treated with a good deal more cordiality than were the German delegates at Versailles, and were given quarters in pleasant villas that overlook the Seine valley and Paris, with no high fences or sentries to restrict their movements. In return, the Austrians appeared in good humor and hopeful of lenient treatment, and seemed to appreciate the good nature displayed by the cosmopolitan crowd of journalists and others that met them. Chancellor Renner spoke in German but explained that this was because he was unable to speak French, his courtesy in this contrasting with the behavior of Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau at Versailles. In responding to the greetings of the allies' representatives he said: "I hope I may go away with as joyful a heart as I bring." Other members of the delegation intimated, none too strongly, that they would not be able to sign the treaty unless it provided for the union of German Bohemia and German Tyrol with Germany. It is assumed they will accept the pact even if that annexation is not permitted.

In some ways the treaty with Austria, it is said, will be like that with Germany. Austria is to lose her entire navy, according to the reports, and there is little doubt that when her new boundaries are delimited she will find that her southern frontier is pushed back so far that Italy will have not only the Trentino and Trieste, but also all the strategic passes and heights in the Alps which the Italians say are necessary to their future security. This is in accordance with the secret treaty of London. In the matter of reparation Austria of course will be required to pay certain sums, but these will be small in comparison with those demanded from the Germans. The clauses concerning waterways are much like those in the German treaty. The breaking up of the Austro-Hungarian empire has resulted in reducing Austria to a rather small fourth rate power without direct access to the sea, and it is the aim of at least some of the allied nations to keep her in that condition. By herself she is comparatively harmless; united with Germany, she would help largely to make up a paton that might again threaten the peace of the world.

Von Brockdorff-Rantzau and his colleagues on the German delegation, together with their numerous experts, have been as busy as bees formulating objections to the German treaty. Several of these were transmitted to the allies last week and most of them were rather summarily answered, and dismissed. These formal objections were considered mere preliminary skirmishes, and meanwhile the Germans were preparing elaborate counter-proposals. These, it is said, would contain two dominant diplomatic features—an exaltation of the league of nations idea, and a vigorous demand that there be a "pure application" of Wilson's fourteen points. The latter is designed to win favor in America and to create a breach between the

AMERICANS AND THEIR ALLIES.

A strong play also will be made to secure the sympathy of Socialists all over the world for what the Hun leaders call the German Socialist state.

One of the most seriously taken of the German objections was to the treaty terms concerning labor reforms, and with it was sent a draft of an international agreement on labor law. To this the allies replied at length, showing that the treaty fully covered all the points raised and that its provisions were more satisfactory than those in the German proposition, wherefore the allied and associated governments are "of the opinion that their decisions give satisfaction to the anxiety which the German delegate professes for social justice and insure the realization of reforms which the working classes have more than ever a right to expect after the cruel trial to which the world has been subjected during the last five years."

Yet another German note dealt with the economic aspect of the peace terms, declaring that if enforced they would bring death to "many millions of people in Germany, all the more quickly as the nation's health is already broken by the blockade."

While these diplomatic exchanges were going on, President Ebert, Chancellor Scheidemann and others were inflaming the German people with violent denunciations of the treaty and declarations that Germany never would submit to it. All of them harped on the alleged abandonment of the fourteen points by the allies, and President Wilson was bitterly attacked as a traitor to mankind and a weakling who has betrayed the trust that had been reposed in him by the people of Germany. President Ebert told his applauding hearers that he feared an outbreak of "psychic furor-tenorism" within a few days and that the wrath of the soul of the people when it reached the boiling point would know no bounds as a result of the deep disappointment and anger born of fury and just indignation.

The position taken by the government heads is supported by all factions except the independent Socialists—Hansen's crowd—who, while declaring the treaty oppressive, advise that it be signed. This may be explained by the probability that if the treaty is signed the present government will be forced to give way to one made up of independent Socialists.

The protests of the Germans against the pact and their harping on the fourteen points also were endorsed by a convention of Socialists in Paris and by the Women's International Conference for Permanent Peace, in session at Zurich. The resolution adopted by the women was proposed by Mrs. Philip Snowden of England and seconded by Miss Jeannette Rankin, former member of congress from Montana.

Despite protests, denunciations and wailing, it was still the opinion of the well-informed in Paris that the Germans would sign the treaty before the expiration of the period of grace allowed them. The possibility that they would persist in their refusal, however, has been simply provided for and the plans of the allies in that contingency are complete. Marshal Foch already has been sent to the Rhineland by the council of four to take such military action as may be necessary and the council also has made its plans for the immediate re-imposition of the blockade on Germany. "At Coblenz General Pershing said the American army of occupation was ready to do its part, whatever that might be.

Another thing that occupied the attention of the allied foreign minister was arrangement for maintaining order in Schleswig after the Germans evacuate that territory. Probably all the allied naval force, in which the United States, Great Britain and France will join, will be stationed at Flensburg and several battalions of infantry landed to police the country.

Negotiations between the Italian delegation and the other allies over the settlement of the Adriatic dispute were still in progress when this was written. "In progress," however, may be misleading, for they did not seem to be getting ahead much. The Italians were said to be yielding as to some of the clauses of the London treaty, but President Wilson, according to reports, was as adamant in regard to Flume. Anyhow, the plan to internationalize that port for several years had not proved acceptable. The Italians have landed large military forces at Sebenico and Zara, ports on the Dalmatian coast between Fiume and Spalato. Appeals are made by the Italians to America not to assume the role of an oppressor of "millions of Italians desiring to reunite with their mother country," and at the same time America and all things American are being reviled throughout Italy.

Premier Paderewski, returning from Paris to Warsaw, was greeted first by an attempt on his life by two bolsheviks and then by a mammoth demonstration by his fellow countrymen, who are grateful for his efforts at the peace conference. The Poles are highly pleased by the placing of the free city of Danzig under their control instead of that of Germany, though they wanted to be granted the port outright. The Silesian boundary settlement also suits them, but not the Silesians, who are said to be planning an armed revolt against annexation to Poland and asking aid from Germany. The Poles and the Ukrainians are said to have agreed to quit fighting each other, though later reports told of a defeat of the former by the latter in the vicinity of Lemberg.

In eastern Russia Admiral Kolchak, head of the Omsk government, is making plans for a grand advance designed to establish communication with the Archangel forces on the north and those of General Denekine on the south and to effectually crush the soviet armies. As a starter he has captured Samara, an important city. He says he will move in the direction of Moscow and that the capture of that bolshevik capital will be his chief aim. What he asks from the allies is armament, munitions, material and clothing. After his final victory, he declares, a national assembly will be called to which he will hand over his authority. The bolsheviks have met further defeats at the hands of Petlura's Ukrainians, and revolts against their rule have broken out in the governments of Kiev, Tchernigov and Poltava.

Tchitcherine, bolshevik foreign minister, has announced that the bolsheviks will not consent to stop hostilities as a condition of the provisioning of Russia by neutrals, and the anti-bolshevik leaders declare that this plan, proposed by Doctor Nansen, is no solution of the Russian question.

China is still holding out on the peace treaty because of the Shantung clause, and her delegates recently received warnings from the people of that territory that they would sign the pact at the peril of their lives.

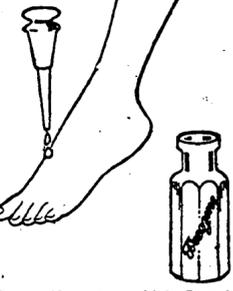

Roumania also has joined those nations that have a grievance. Her delegates threaten to bolt the peace conference unless the decision of the council of ten to divide Banat between Roumania and Serbia is modified. Roumania's record since the outbreak of the war has not been such as to entitle her to the special consideration of any nation or group of nations.

The plans for the trial and punishment of the former kaiser are not going smoothly. They contemplate the assumption of the role of complainant by some one of the allied nations, and it was presumed Belgium would so act. But Belgium, perhaps because it is a kingdom, declines, and no other has yet volunteered. Holland has not decided to surrender William for trial, the Dutch government contending that at present the question concerns only Germany and the entente.

One of the most impressive ceremonies incident to the war was the reception by the British of the remains of Edith Cavell, the nurse the Germans murdered in Belgium, and the public funeral services in Westminster abbey. High officials and representatives of foreign governments attended, as well as a great throng of citizens, and the streets around the abbey were filled with an immense throng of those who sought to do reverent homage to the brave woman.

MERELY PIECE OF FOOLING

Course Taken by Germany Resembles Closely Neat Trick That is Credited to Sheridan.

"The Germans, by fooling us with German bolshevism, hoped to escape the payment of war indemnities," said a congressman.

"It reminds me of a story about Sheridan, the spendthrift playwright.

"Gunter, the confectioner, left his statement with Sheridan one morning, and a few hours later Hanson, the ironmonger, called.

"Hanson was very pressing on the subject of his account. He harangued and he harangued. Sheridan broke, as usual, paced the floor in despair.

"But suddenly an idea struck the spendthrift and he said: 'You'd know Gunter?'

"One of the safest men in London," Hanson replied.

"Then you will be satisfied if I give you his bill for the amount?"

"Certainly."

"Sheridan thereupon handed the ironmonger Gunter's neatly folded account, snatched up his hat and rushed forth."

Suffered for Years

Miserable From Kidney Trouble. Doan's Made Mr. Barnett Strong and Well.

"I suffered untold agony with my kidneys for years," says John Barnett, 30 Virginia Place, Buffalo, N. Y. "Sometimes I felt that I would burn up with fever, but every now and then would have a severe chill. Often my clothes were wringing wet with perspiration. The kidney secretions were unnatural in color and odor and burned terribly. At night my shoes were so tight on my feet that I could hardly get them off and my hands swelled so I couldn't hold a teacup. My back! Oh, how it ached! I walked with two canes and was all beat over like an aged man. When the terrible pains shot through my kidneys, my cases would give way and many times I had to be lifted to my feet by people on the street. I didn't care whether I lived or died, I was so miserable. I finally used Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured me of all kidney trouble. Doan's made me strong and well. Sworn to before me, A. A. Southern California Rivers. To the "tenderfoot" a Southern California river is a joke. Few who see the Los Angeles river during the greater part of the year, when scores of teams are busy hauling gravel from the river bed, to take its place in skyscrapers, can be induced to believe that sometimes this river is a rushing, swirling, roaring torrent. Such it was, not many years ago in February, when over seven inches of rain fell within 48 hours. In 1894, and again in 1899, the river was in a rampage, in the former year several persons being drowned. Then there is the Rio Colorado, a placid enough stream during most of the year, but in flood time a devouring monster, that never has been, and probably never will be, entirely controlled by man.

LOOKED LIKE LABOR WASTED

Board's Visit Over, Small Boy Couldn't See Further Necessity for So Much Soap and Water.

He was a new little boy at the orphanage and was much impressed by all the scrubbing and cleaning he saw done there, more so because he had come from a home in which disorder and dirt had held sway. He could not understand it; more than that, it irritated him, and when he got the job of scrubbing the dining-room steps he was almost ready to leave.

But just then came a new excitement to the home. The board was coming to make its annual tour of inspection, and the cleaning was doubled.

"Get ready for the board," was the home watchword, it seemed, and he, being very human, decided to stay until that big event was over.

The day of visiting came and passed. The next morning the new youngster sought the matron. "Now that them boards has been here, I don't see no use of scrubbing them steps so often—do you?" he asked.

Eddy & White Mountain REFRIGERATORS

THAT WILL STAND LONG HARD SERVICE

It takes something besides an attractive outside to make a satisfactory refrigerator. The walls must be strong and the proper space allowed, the lining must be right, the covers and doors must be properly built and well fitted; if just one of these particulars is neglected it will result in waste of ice and spoiled food.

Our refrigerators are no experiments, as both makes have stood the test of time.

Patience Ceases to be a Virtue

Almost three months have passed since the town voted to restore the street lights from South Antrim to Antrim Centre.

What is the matter with the Electric Light Co.? It does seem as if we should be enlightened as to what they intend to do. Under the old management these lights would have been restored in twenty-four hours. We need these lights and are justified in protesting against this delay.

Another thing the taxpayers have a right to complain of and that is the bad condition of the roads, especially the road from Clinton Village to North Branch. Not a stroke of work has been done on this road this spring.

The longer the water is allowed to run down the middle of the road the more money it will take to repair the road. It is the Road Agent's first duty to see to the roads before doing outside job work.

It is not right to allow our roads to get in such a bad condition through neglect so that the town will have to spend two dollars for what one dollar would do under proper management and at the proper time. Nor do we like to go bumping over these bad roads for weeks waiting the convenience of the Road Agent.

No man should accept the position of Road Agent unless he can give his time and attention to the work when it is needed to be done.

SHE KNEW THE GREAT STORY

Girl Lacked Gift of Narrative, but Was Able to Tell All About Chateau Thierry.

As we crawled up a railroad track in the vicinity of Chateau Thierry (this was in October)—a railroad track which seemed the only new and complete object in sight—the Y. M. C. A. girl, who had been sitting in the corner of the compartment resisting all advances at conversation, volunteered a remark.

"Our division took it," she said. It turned out that she had gone in with her canteen just behind the division, during that fight wherein America made good. She lacked the narrative talent, that girl, but she came out at intervals with flashes like this:

"When our boys came up the stragglers said to them: 'You can't stay in there!' And our boys said: 'We'll not only stay there, but we're going forward!' When the stragglers saw that, they formed, too, and went back with them."

Or this, as we drew into sight of a road bordered by blackened ruins: "There's where our divisions came into sight, singing, 'The Yanks Are Coming!'"—Will Irwin in the Saturday Evening Post.

WOMEN LEARNING MESSAGE.

Germantown Y. W. C. A. Trains Women for Reconstruction Work Among Soldiers.

Educational courses to prepare women as aides in the rehabilitation of wounded soldiers have been opened at the Germantown, Pa., Young Women's Christian Association.

A reconstruction message course lectures in anatomy, physiology, muscle work and remedial movement massage, theory and practice, electrotherapy and hydrotherapy are given by doctors and nurses, who also supervise practical work at the Y. W. C. A. and at hospitals. The courses are recognized by the Surgeon General.

Similar courses have also been opened in the New York City Central Branch Y. W. C. A., where a specialty is made of brush-making with a view to training women as teachers for reconstruction hospitals.

SUGGESTED THOUGHTS.

Germany said: "Americans are extravagant; they can't save." Americans have not only proved that they can save, but the saving habit has become fixed. Watch them buy War Savings stamps!

"Straight lines have come to stay." Straight lines are in vogue in other things than dress. The straight line to independence is investment in War Savings stamps.

"Great hearts that gave and counted not their youth, but gloriously fought. And died that Freedom shall not die." Shall we hesitate to invest our small savings in Thrift and War Savings stamps to maintain that for which they gave all.

"Hard work is the only remedy for present ills." True, but of what avail is hard work if the money received therefor is squandered? Why not buy War Savings stamps, and thus combat both present and future ills.

"Spring models are becoming more numerous every day." Even the 1919 War Savings stamps appear in new design and color.

"Remain patriotic and put an end to old-time conditions." To show your patriotism and up-to-dateness buy War Savings stamps.

The man who really "knows it all" usually has a goodly collection of Thrift and War Savings stamps.

Having won for ourselves and others the right to "pursue life, liberty and happiness," we must pay for its maintenance. Do your share by buying War Savings stamps.

HOSTESS HOUSE FAMILY REUNION

How It Happened to Entertain Only A. E. F. Mother Who Visited Army of Occupation.

BIG CORPORAL DUTIFUL SON.

No Knightly Courtiers Ever Acted With More Gallantry to Lady Fair Than Did He and His Doughboy Pals to This Little White Haired Woman Dressed Exquisitely in Black.

By GRACE GOULDER,
(With the American Y. W. C. A. Overseas.)
Coblentz, Germany,
March 28 (By Mail.)

It happened right here in Coblentz. A big corporal came into the Y. W. C. A. Hostess House and asked for the director, Miss Ruth Woodsmall, who comes from Colorado Springs, Colo. "Could my mother stay here?" he began at once, trying his best to cover his excitement. "Your mother?" gasped Miss Woodsmall. "How did your mother ever get here?" "Well, she isn't here yet, but if she comes will you keep her?" "Of course I will, but—" She didn't finish, for the boy had smashed his cap back on his head and was out of the door on a run. The corporal's visit remained a mystery for two days. Then one evening just at dusk a little white haired woman dressed exquisitely in black appeared in the sitting room of the Hostess House, and the corporal was hovering behind her, trying to be beside her and back of her and in front of her all at once. He was carrying her coat—a big fur one. With them were three doughboys, pals of the corporal. They tried to keep in the background, but their eyes were glued on her face. Everyone in the sitting room sat at attention. There are no English speaking men or women out of uniform in the Third Army area. Yet here was a woman in civilian clothes. Mothers are unheard of in the army. But this was a mother, everyone knew. After awhile someone found out about this mother.

Mad Been Interned During War. She and her husband, who were born in Germany, but had been naturalized, lived in San Francisco. Before the war they left for Weisbaden, Germany, that their invalid daughter might have treatment at this famous health resort.

They brought their other children with them. One was Walter, a small boy, and the other was Ralph, now Corporal Stepp of the American Army. When the war was declared they sent Ralph back to America, because he was of military age, and they did not want him to fight for the Kaiser. Then America entered the war. Mrs. Stepp—Mrs. Anna Stepp she is—told this part of the story: "Until a month ago I hadn't heard from Ralph for two years and a half—even before America got in the war mail was held up. I didn't know whether he was in the army or not—but I was sure he was, because—well, because he is an American." Here she stopped a minute to smile up at him.

"After awhile we heard from some friends that he was in the army—and that he had come over here. That was all I ever knew. It's nearly five years since I have seen him!" "Of course it was awfully hard—I couldn't get word to him and he couldn't to me. My husband used to tell me it wouldn't help Ralph any for me to cry. I tried not to—before the rest of them anyway. My daughter got worse steadily—she is no better. We couldn't get the proper food for her after awhile. And she hated to see me worried about Ralph, so I used to try to keep up before them.

"Last January my husband came to Coblentz about his citizen papers. An American soldier in Ralph's company who was in the office heard his name and asked him if he had any relation to Ralph. He didn't tell him Ralph was in Coblentz, but went after Ralph. He didn't tell Ralph his father was here. When they met they couldn't believe their eyes.

"Ever since then I have been trying to see Ralph. He couldn't come to Weisbaden because it was out of the American area, and I couldn't get through until today—more than two months."

They asked her if her Ralph had changed much in all that time. "Oh, yes—very much. But do you know, I think it is because all that long time when I didn't know where he was or how he was—I got in the habit of thinking of him as he was when he was a baby—I kept seeing him as a baby and remembering the way he felt when he was little. Isn't that queer?" And now look at him!"

And the corporal tried not to see the adoration in her eyes. "Five years is a long time to wait to see your boy," she murmured, and kept her eyes on him. Again she had forgotten the people around her. The corporal cleared his throat. "This is why I ask if you could keep my mother, Miss Woodsmall. I didn't want her to come unless she had a good place to stay. Ah, e-e-r—thanks awfully."

And that is the story of how the Hostess House happened to entertain the only known A. E. F. mother who has visited the Army of Occupation.

A SURE FOUNDATION

In memory of the boys who have "gone west" in glory, buy Thrift and War Savings Stamps and keep Liberty securely upon her pedestal.

SERVICE IN THE HOME

What is the Actual Cost of Each Servant?

How many American housewives understand the actual cost of a maid? In engaging a household helper the average woman figures only on what the maid asks as wages. The food she eats, the light she uses, the dishes she breaks and the material she wastes are not considered. It would be difficult to figure such items correctly, but the amount is considerable, because a maid does not have the interest of ownership to make things go as far as possible. The extra man about the place is also worthy of consideration as an item of expense.

A housewife who is trying to economize by doing her own work should, at present prices, reckon at least $5 per week for the items mentioned. Should she save $5 in wages, it will be equivalent to $10 weekly.

Many a woman is thus saving for a future need, education for the children, to own a home, or some other worthy object. Of course she invests in War Savings Stamps, but does she realize that from her savings as her own home worker she could buy two stamps where now she buys one?

She may wish to teach her little daughter thrift, as well as household duties. In that case, why not pay her a small wage for washing dishes, dusting, etc. She could also teach the child to invest a portion of the sum in Thrift Stamps, and thus bring down the proverbial two birds, teaching usefulness and thrift.

MERCHANTS ENCOURAGE WISE SPENDING

Home Sewing Provided For.

Dry goods merchants in every part of the country report radical changes in their customers' buying habits, due to war experience. People seek sound values in clothes. There is no disposition to be parsimonious, or shabby, but women are judging garments by wearing quality. They no longer purchase short-life gowns or fabrics for the sake of showy appearance. Thrift has brought in a new fashion era—quiet models which will be in style several seasons instead of the one-season "fashion."

The merchants are cutting down wasteful methods in their stores, and eliminating superfluous service, unwise credits, unprofitable deliveries and other happy-go-lucky, hit-or-miss extravagances for which the public had to pay.

Another interesting development is the sale of materials for home sewing. One store seeks to interest schoolgirls in making their own dresses. Prizes are offered for well-made garments; sewing instruction is given in the store; suggestions are made for the purchase of material, trimmings and patterns.

Some stores make up bundles containing all the requisites for a given garment—the fabric and all findings needed. Money saved by this sort of wise spending can be safely invested in War Savings and Thrift Stamps.

Deny Yourself a few Luxuries a Day—Buy Thrift or War Savings Stamps as regularly as you have been buying Cigars, Soda and Candy. The result will be satisfying and gratifying!

WHY BUY WAR SAVINGS STAMPS?

By Jennie Glover Brown.

Because: For many years we fooled ourselves. That things could perfect be. Only when they were trademarked. As time went on the climax came. When War of diabolic type Was Made In Germany!

Man wants but little here below, Nor wants that little long. But Wilhelm tried to get the earth, And Wilhelm got in wrong; For we bought bonds and Savings Stamps.

That Uncle Sam might send The food and ammunition that Would hasten the war's end.

We Hooverized and Storrowized For our dear country's sake, But we would not be Kaiserized! We had too much at stake. 'Twas not the time to reason why! We knew such things must be To speed the movement that would kill The Germ in Germany!

The food we save, the bonds we buy, And stamps, for many a post, Are paying toward the baroque. On which said Bill will roost! That's why we buy the Savings Stamps. And we will buy until A League of Nations shall decide To free this world of Bill!

FRAMING A BUDGET

A Help to Wise Spending Rather Than to Parsimony.

Mr. J. H. Puelicher, State Director of War Savings for Wisconsin, has prepared a budget for incomes from $900 a year upward, which has been pronounced practicable. The budget provides 40 per cent for food, clothing 13 per cent, shelter 18 per cent, fuel and light 7 per cent, sundries, including savings, 22 per cent. He considers the following a fair example: Food $350, clothing $117, shelter $163, light and fuel $68.80, recreation $36, church and charities $24, insurance $48, carfare $31.50, savings $26, miscellaneous, including literature, $27.

For a $3000 income the proportions suggested are: Food $720, clothing $360, shelter $330, light and fuel $114, recreation $108, church and charities $72, insurance $95, carfare $31.50, savings $750, miscellaneous, including literature and physician, $150, help in house $350. Some items are too low for eastern conditions, notably housing and carfare, while others might be reduced.

To save is imperative. Some people are born thrifty, some achieve thrift, but most of us have thrift thrust upon us by high prices and restricted incomes. To all the budget is the universal help, and as a safe investment for small savings, War Savings Stamps should be the first consideration after the necessities.

THRIFTOGRAMS

Money Invested in War Savings Stamps is never idle.

By putting your money into War Savings Stamps you will be helping yourself.

If you provide against the "rainy day" by buying War Savings Stamps, there will be no "rainy day."

You can compound your interest and further assist your Government by investing your Liberty Bond coupons in War Savings Stamps.

West Philadelphia, Pa. — "During the thirty years I have been married, I have been in bad health and had several attacks of nervous prostration until it seemed as if the organs in my whole body were worn out. I was finally persuaded by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made a well woman of me. I can now do all my household and advise all ailing women to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I will guarantee they will derive great benefit from it." — Mrs. FRANK FITZGERALD, 25 N. 41st Street, West Philadelphia, Pa.

There are thousands of women everywhere in Mrs. Fitzgerald's condition, suffering from nervousness, headache, and other symptoms of functional derangement. It was a grateful spirit for health restored which led her to write this letter so that other women may benefit from her experience and find health as she has done.

The letters constantly being published from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

NOT QUITE TO HIS TASTE
Hunter Liked Bear, All Right, but That Particular One Was Not Done Enough.

Blunkins once joined a bear-hunting expedition. During the hunt, as he was resting by the side of a rock and talking with another hunter he began swanking heavily.

"If there's anything I do on it's bear, a slice of bear steak nicely done is just perfect," he said.

"Well," said his companion looking up, "I'm langed if there isn't a bear now!"

The man who "doted on bear" looked up, saw an immense grizzly on the top of the rock, gave a yell and leaped into the woods and disappeared. His companion soon overtook him and said to the fugitive as he came up:

"I thought you liked bear?"

"Well, I do," said the runaway; "but that one wasn't done enough!" — London Tit-Bits.

GOODBY, WOMEN'S TROUBLES

The tortures and discomforts of weak, lame and aching back, swollen feet and limbs, weakness, dizziness, nausea, as a rule have their origin in kidney trouble, not "female complaints." These general symptoms of kidney and bladder disease are well known—so is the remedy.

Next time you feel a twinge of pain in the back or are troubled with headache, indigestion, insomnia, irritation in the bladder or pain in the loins and lower abdomen, you will find quick and sure relief in GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. This old and tried remedy for kidney trouble and allied derangements has stood the test for hundreds of years. It does the work. Pains and troubles vanish and new life and health will come as you continue their use. When completely restored to your usual vigor, continue taking a capsule or two daily.

GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules are imported from the laboratories at Haarlem, Holland. Do not accept a substitute. In sealed boxes, three sizes.—Adv.

Build Nests Like an Oven.
Do you know how the oven bird got its name? Well, it was because its nest built among the leaves or pine needles on the ground is arched of pine an oven-like appearance, says the American Forestry association, Washington, which is encouraging bird conservation through bird-house building contests among school children and is conducting a national campaign. You do not see the oven bird sitting on the topmost twig of a tree like some other members of the feathered tribe, but he sticks close to the ground, mounting to the lower branches of a tree only to sing or to scold an intruder. The song of the oven bird somewhat resembles the word "teacher."

CHAPTER X.

A Party and—My Fourth Peril?
It was a rainy Sunday. In the middle of the afternoon Uncle Peabody and I had set out in our spring buggy with the family umbrella—a faded but sacred implement, always carefully dried, after using, and hung in the clothes press. We were drenched to the skin in spite of the umbrella. It was still raining when we arrived at the familiar door in Ashery lane. Uncle Peabody wouldn't stop.

He hurried away. We pioneers rarely stopped or even turned out for the weather.

"Come in," said the voice of the schoolmaster at the door. "There's good weather under this roof."

He saw my plight as I entered. "I'm like a shaggy dog that's been in swimming," I said.

"Upon my word, boy, we're in luck," remarked the schoolmaster. I looked up at him.

"Michael Henry's clothes—sure, they're just the thing for you!" I followed him upstairs, wondering how it had happened that Michael Henry had clothes.

He took me into his room and brought some handsome, soft clothes out of a press with shirt, socks and boots to match.

"There, my liddle buck," said he, "put them on."

"These will soon dry on me," I said. "Put them on—ye laggard!" Michael Henry told me to give them to you. It's the birthday night of little Ruth, my boy. There's a big cake with candles and chicken pie and jellied cookies and all the like of 'at. Put them on. A wet boy at the feast would dampen the whole proceedings."

I put them on and with a great sense of relief and comfort. They were an admirable fit—too perfect, for an accident, although at the time I thought only of their grandeur as I stood surveying myself in the looking-glass. They were of blue cloth and I saw that they went well with my blond hair and light skin. I was putting on my collar and necktie when Mr. Hackett returned.

We went below and the table was very grand with its great frosted cake and its candles, in shiny brass sticks, and its jellies and preserves with the gleam of polished pewter among them. Mrs. Hackett and all the children, save Ruth, were waiting for us in the dining room.

"Now sit down here, all of ye, with Michael Henry," said the schoolmaster. "The little lady will be impatient. I'll go and get her and God help us to make her remember the day."

errand. The two statesmen were in broadcloth and white linen and beaver hats. They stopped as I approached them.

"Well, partner, we shall be leaving in an hour or so," said Mr. Wright as he gave me his hand. "You may look for me here soon after the close of the session. Take care of yourself and go often to see Mrs. Wright and obey your captain and remember me to your aunt and uncle."

"See that you keep coming, my good boy," said the president as he gave me his hand, with playful reference, no doubt, to Mr. Wright's remark that I was a coming man.

"Bart, I've some wheat to be thrashed in the barn on the back lot," said the senator as I was leaving them. "You can do it Saturdays, if you care to, at a shilling an hour. Stack the straw out of doors until you've finished, then put it back in the bay. Winnow the wheat carefully and sack it and bring it down to the granary and I'll settle with you when I return."

I remembered that a number of men who worked in Grimshaw's sawmill were passing as he spoke.

"Yes, sir," I answered, much elated by the prospect of earning money. The examination of Amos was set down for Monday and the people of the village were stirred and shaken by wildest rumors regarding the evidence to be adduced. Every day men and women stopped me in the street to ask what I knew of the murder. I followed the advice of Bishop Perkins and kept my knowledge to myself.

Saturday came, and when the chores were done I went alone to the grain barn in the back lot of the senator's farm with flail and measure and broom and fork and shovel and sacks and my luncheon, in a puchant, with all of which Mrs. Wright had provided me. It was a lonely place with woods on three sides of the field and a road on the other. I kept laying down beds of wheat on the barn floor and beating them out with the flail until the sun was well over the roof, when I sat down to eat my luncheon. Then I swept up the grain and winnowed out the chaff and filled one of my sacks. That done, I covered the floor again and the thump of the flail ceased my loneliness until in the middle of the afternoon two of my schoolmates came and asked me to go swimming with them. The river was not forty rods away and a good trail led to the swimming hole. It was a warm, bright day and I was hot and thirsty. The thought of cool waters and friendly companionship was too much for me. I went with them and stayed with them longer than I intended. I remember saying as I dressed that I should have to work late and go without my supper in order to finish my stint.

It was almost dark when I was putting the last sack of wheat into my cart, in the gloomy barn and getting ready to go.

A rustling in the straw where I stood stopped me suddenly. I heard stealthy footsteps in the darkness. I stood my ground and demanded: "Who's there?"

I saw a form approaching in the gloom with feet as noiseless as a cat's.

I Had Time to Raise My Flail and Bring It Down Upon the Head of the Leader.

I took a step backward and, seeing that it was a woman, stopped.

who fell as I had seen a beef fall under the ax. Another man stopped beyond the reach of my flail and, after a second's hesitation, turned and ran away in the darkness.

I could hear or see no other motion in the field. I turned and ran on down the slope toward the village. In a moment I saw someone coming out of the maple grove at the field's end, just ahead, with a lantern.

Then I heard the voice of the schoolmaster saying: "Is it you, my lad?"

"Yes," I answered, as I came up to him and Mary, in a condition of breathless excitement.

I told them of the curious adventure I had had.

"Come quick," said the schoolmaster. "Let's go back and find the man in the stubble."

I remembered that I had struck the path in my flight just before stopping to swing the flail. The man must have fallen very near it. Soon we found where he had been lying and drops of fresh blood on the stubble.

"Hush," said the schoolmaster. We listened and heard a wagon rattling at a wild pace down the road toward the river.

"There he goes," said Mr. Hackett. "His companions have carried him away. Ye'd be riding in that wagon now, yerself, my brave lad, if ye hadn't 'a' made a lucky hit with the flail—God bless ye!"

"What would they 'a' done with me?" I asked.

"Oh, I reckon they'd 'a' took ye off, lad, and kep' ye for a year or so until Amos was out of 'a' danger," said Mr. Hackett. "Maybe they'd drowned ye in the river down there an' left yer clothes on the bank to make it look like an honest drowning. The devil knows what they'd 'a' done with ye, liddle buck. We'll have to keep an eye on ye now, every day until the trial is over—sure we will. Come, we'll go up to the barn and see if Kate is there."

Just then we heard the receding wagon go rattling over the bridge on Little river. Mary shuddered with fright. The schoolmaster reassured us by saying:

himself and cleared his throat and assumed an air of alertness and said it was a fine morning, which it was not, the sky being overcast and the air dark and chilly. Mr. Hackett removed his greatcoat and threw it on the stoop saying:

"Deacon, you lay there. From now on I'm constable and ready for any act that may be necessary to maintain the law. I can be as severe as Napoleon Bonaparte and as cunning as Satan, if I have to be."

While I was milking the deacon sat on a bucket in the doorway of the stable and snored until I had finished. He awoke when I loosed the cow and the constable went back to the pasture with me, yawning with his hand over his mouth much of the way. The deacon leaned his elbow on the top of the pen and snored again, lightly, while I milked the feed for the pigs.

Mr. Hackett met us at the kitchen door, where Deacon Blinks said to him: "If you'll look after the boy today I'll go home and get a little rest."

"God bless yer soul, ye had a busy night," said the schoolmaster with a smile.

He added as he went into the house: "I never knew a man to rest with more energy and persistence. It was a perfect flood of rest. It kept me awake until long after midnight."

CHAPTER XI.

The Spirit of Michael Henry and Others.

At the examination of Amos Grimshaw my knowledge was committed to the records and ceased to be a source of danger to me. Grimshaw came to the village that day. On my way to the courtroom I saw him walking slowly, with bent head as I had seen him before, followed by old Kate. She carried her staff in her left hand while the forefinger of her right hand was pointing him out. Silent as a ghost and as unheeded—one would say—she followed his steps.

I observed that old Kate sat on a front seat with her hand to her ear and Grimshaw beside his lawyer at a big table and that when she looked at him her lips moved in a strange unuttered whisper of her spirit. Her face filled with joy as one damning detail after another came out in the evidence.

The facts heretofore alleged, and others, were proved, for the tracks left the shoes of Amos. The young man was held and presently indicted. The time of his trial was not determined.

I wrote a good hand those days and the leading merchant of the village engaged me to post his books every Saturday at ten cents an hour. Thenceforward until Christmas I gave my free days to that task. I estimated the sum that I should earn and planned to divide it in equal parts and proudly present it to my aunt and uncle on Christmas day.

One Saturday while I was at work on the big ledger of the merchant I ran upon this item:

October 3.—S. Wright—To one suit of clothes for Michael Henry, measured by S. Robinson $14.00
Shirts to match ..... 1.00
Total $15.00

I knew then the history of the suit of clothes which I had worn since that rainy October night, for I remembered that Sam Robinson, the tailor, had measured me at our house and made up the cloth of Aunt Deel's wearing.

I observed, also, that numerous articles—a load of wood, two sacks of flour, three pairs of boots, one coat, ten pounds of salt pork and four bushels of potatoes—all for "Michael Henry"—had been charged to Silas Wright.

So by the merest chance I learned that the invisible "Michael Henry" was the almoner of the modest statesman and really the spirit of Silas Wright feeding the hungry and clothing the naked and warming the cold house, in the absence of its owner. It was the heart of Wright joined to that of the schoolmaster, which sat in the green chair.

I fear that my work suffered a moment's interruption, for just then I began to know the great heart of the senator. Its warmth was in the clothing that covered my back, its delicacy in the ignorance of those who had shared its benefactions.

He stood amid the blaze and splendor of his magnificent mansion, and in his hand he held the portrait of a beautiful woman. His face was pale and haggard, and his lips moved convulsively.

What was this mystery? Was this the picture of his departed wife? No. Was it the portrait of his dead but dearly remembered daughter? No. What, then, was the cause of his haggard face? Was it not the same portrait that two minutes ago had fallen from its nail, and raised a lump as big as a hen's egg on his head? It was.

Grow Wheat in Western Canada One Crop Often Pays for the Land

Western Canada offers the greatest advantages to home seekers. Large profits are assured. You can buy on easy payment terms.

Fertile Land at $15 to $30 per Acre—land similar to that which through many years has averaged from 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Hundreds of cases are on record where in Western Canada a single crop has paid the cost of land and production. The Governments of the Dominion and Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta want the farmer to prosper, and extend every possible encouragement and help to Grain Growing and Stock Raising.

Though Western Canada offers land at such low figures, the high prices of grain, cattle, sheep and hogs will remain.

Loans for the purchase of stock may be had at low interest; there are good shipping facilities; best of markets; free schools; churches; splendid climate; low taxation (none on improvements).

FAMOUS PEACE TREATIES

By H. IRVING KING

(Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

TREATY OF BASLE, 1795.

The Treaty That Brought Recognition to France After Her Revolution.

The fall of Robespierre in 1794 introduced a more moderate and conciliatory spirit into the councils of republican France, while at the same time the victorious campaigns of the French armies cooled the ardor with which the hostile princes who surrounded the young republic had been prosecuting the war. The smaller German princes were especially desirous of bringing such a ruinous war to an end. At a diet of the empire it was declared that Germany had no intention of interfering with the domestic affairs of France and negotiations looking to a satisfactory peace should be begun. Before this France had, since the revolution and the execution of the king, been an outlaw among European nations. In Italy the grand duke of Tuscany was already negotiating with France for a peace, being the first of the European rulers to recognize the French republic. Austria and England, however, declared that the war must go on. But Austria had almost ceased fighting and the emperor retired to Vienna in discouragement. The republican armies held Belgium and the left bank of the Rhine and had even made conquests beyond that river.

Opened Strongholds to French Forces.

The prince of Orange fled to England and the Dutch opened their strongholds to the French forces. Savoy and Nice were in the hands of France, and the Austrians in Piedmont were held in check by Bonaparte—whose military genius was now beginning to be universally recognized and who had been promoted to be a brigadier general.

Spain, which had suffered many reverses, many of her cities being in French hands, was only kept in the coalition by the desire of the king to safeguard the children of Louis XVI and the pressure of the British. Prussia was already negotiating with France. In the spring of 1795 Hardenberg, on the part of Prussia and Barthélemy, an experienced French diplomat, on the part of the republic, concluded at Basle, Switzerland, a treaty which was approved by the committee of public safety, of which Cambaceres was the head. The Jacobins objecting, Cambaceres said: "Do you wish perpetual war? If so, I can tell the people they are ruined by too many demagogues. We shall trace the natural limits of the republic, make sure of the rivers which, after watering several of our departments, flow to the sea; set limits to the countries now occupied by our arms."

The treaty was signed between Prussia and France at Basle on April 5, 1795. By this treaty the Rhine was made the eastern boundary of France until peace was concluded with the empire and a line of demarcation fixed the neutrality of northern Germany, for which Prussia was to be responsible. By a secret article it was agreed that if, at the conclusion of a general peace with the empire, France retained the left bank of the Rhine Prussia should receive a territorial indemnity for its possessions there, the same to be taken from Austria or some other handy nation, and France would see that she got it.

Treaty With Holland.

In May a treaty was concluded with Holland by which Dutch Flanders, Maastricht, Venloo and Flushing received French garrisons. Holland paid an indemnity and gave up half her land and sea forces to France. On July 22 a treaty with Spain was signed at Basle, by which all conquests in that country were abandoned, but Santo Domingo ceded to France. The little dauphin was dead in his prison, but the princess royal it was arranged to exchange for certain French officers. At first France demanded that Spain give her back Louisiana, but that claim was abandoned. A retrocession was forced five years later, however.

Prussia, Spain, the republics of Genoa and Venice, Holland, Switzerland, Turkey, Sweden, Denmark, the Hanseatic towns and Tuscany now followed the example of the United States in entering into peaceful relations with the French republic.

PEACE OF TILSIT, 1807.

Napoleon, the Conqueror, Cut Up Europe to Suit His Needs.

The treaty of Tilsit signaled the defeat of the fourth coalition against France, which consisted of Russia, Prussia, Austria, England and Sweden. Napoleon had won the battles of Jena, Auerstadt, Eylau and Friedland; all continental Europe was at his feet; he dictated the terms of peace. The Russian army had been thrown back over the river Niemen in the northeast corner of Prussia. Napoleon went to the town of Tilsit on that river and opened negotiations with Emperor Alexander. The king of Prussia, whose domains were entirely in the grasp of the conqueror, came to Tilsit but was allowed no part in the negotiations.

In a stately pavilion erected on a gorgeously decorated raft anchored in the middle of the river Alexander and Napoleon met on June 25 and began the drafting of a treaty between Russia and France which was signed by the two emperors on July 7. Russia was given practically a free hand in Turkey, allowed to seize, if she could, the Danubian principalities, and, in case Turkey did not assent to the peace, to have all of Turkey in Europe except Constantinople and Roumelia. The two emperors also discussed the fate of Prussia. Frederick William begged the czar to make the best terms he could for him.

What His Reason Disapproved.
Napoleon said to Alexander: "What- ever I grant to Prussia I grant at your intercession," adding that in that matter his "heart caused him to seal what his reason disapproved."

The best terms Czar Alexander could get for his friend the Prussian king, were these: All the lands that Prussia had stolen in the partition of Poland in 1793 and 1795 were taken from her and erected into the Grand Duchy of Warsaw, an independent Polish state. Prussia ceded to Napoleon all her territory west of the Elbe, most of which was added to the new kingdom of Westphalia, which was constructed for Napoleon's brother, Jerome. A small portion of Prussian territory was given to Russia and a small portion to Saxony. King Frederick William was allowed to retain only Old Prussia, Pomerania, Brandenburg and Silesia. And even the latter province had "a string to it," for the king of Saxony, to whom the grand duchy of Warsaw was assigned, was to keep open a military road across Silesia. Prussia was reduced to half her former territory and deprived of her most important towns; for Danzig became a free city and Magdeburg went to Jerome Bonaparte. Prussia was obliged to close her ports against British commerce. A war indemnity of a large amount for those days was imposed on the Prussian nation, and she was allowed to keep a standing army of no more than 42,000 men. She was reduced to a second-rate power.

Frederick William sent for his wife, Queen Louise, in the hope that her wit and beauty might induce Napoleon to recede somewhat from these hard terms. But she was unsuccessful and on July 9 the treaty between Prussia and France was signed.

Hard as the conditions imposed on Prussia were Napoleon had been too lenient; for he left the bandit nation still in existence, the Hohenzollerns still on the throne, the germs of woes unutterable to future generations. Afterwards, at St. Helena, Napoleon bitterly regretted that "his heart had sealed what his reason disapproved."

Regretted Great Haste.
"I was in too great a hurry at Tilsit," said he. "I should have remained a year on the Niemen and in Prussia and then devoured Prussia. I should have deposed Frederick William and issued a proclamation declaring that the house of Hohenzollern had ceased to reign."

Says Lord Rosebery: "It is strange indeed to observe how leniently, as if by a foreboding, he hated Prussia."

Not strange at all, for his keen mind saw more clearly than at Tilsit the danger to the world of Prussianism under the lead of the robber barons of Zollern.

Prussia immediately after the treaty of Tilsit began to circumvent the conditions with regard to her army by instituting short terms of enlistment so arranged as to amount to universal military service, and to prepare the way for her future aggrandizement. One hundred and seven years from the time she seemed utterly crushed she attempted world empire—and nearly "got away with it."

By the treaty of Tilsit Czar Alexander agreed that if England did not assent to the peace he should declare war against her. If Sweden objected he was to send an army into that country.

In Praise of the Arab Steed.

This polyphonic prose about the Arab horse is raked up by George Jeannison, in the Manchester Guardian: "Allah made the horse before man, and Allah said: 'I have called this horse; I have created the Arab; I have bestowed upon thee the color kounmitte, I have attached good fortune to the hair that falls between thy eyes. Thou shalt be the lord of all other animals. Men shall follow thee wheresoever thou goest. Good for pursuit as for flight, thou shalt fly without wings. Upon thy back shall riches repose, and through thy means shall wealth come.' And he signed the horse with the ghora in the middle of the forehead—the white star of glory and of good fortune."

Mastering Worry.

The person who knows no worry is a fortunate individual (if such a human being possibly exists), but worry as well as its first cousins, nerves, can be mastered if we sensibly take each day as it comes, smiling at its problems, and forgetting all about that "doubtful future" which some folks declare is full of woes.

WHY DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND SWAMP-ROOT

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine.

It is a physician's prescription. Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder do the work nature intended they should do.

Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is sold by all druggists on its merit and it should help you. No other kidney medicine has so many friends.

Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper—Adv.

How Tunnel Workers Are Warned.

A tunnel of the Metropolitan railway in London, which much of the time is filled with smoke or steam, has been equipped for its 2,300 feet of length with an iron tube for giving notice of the approach of trains. The tubes to be agitated so as to produce a noise, by means of treadles, and being so arranged that it can be out of service when no men are at work in the tunnel. It was found that horns or gongs could be heard not over 700 feet in a clear atmosphere and a much shorter distance when the atmosphere was filled with smoke or steam. A galvanized iron tube, of about three-quarters inch, internal diameter, is hung along the side of the tunnel at the height of a man's head, and as trains approach or enter the tunnel this pipe is caused to vibrate in such a way that it can be heard through its length.

CONSTANT PAIN AFTER EATING

The Tortures of Dyspepsia Corrected by "Fruit-a-lives"

St. MARTIN'S
"For two years, I suffered tortures from Severe Dyspepsia. I had constant pains after eating; pains down the sides and back; and horrible bitter stuff often came up in my mouth. I tried doctors, but they did not help me. But as soon as I started taking 'Fruit-a-lives' (or Fruit Liver Tablets) I began to improve and this medicine, made of fruit juices, relieved me when everything else failed."

Indemnity for Influenza Cases to Men in Service

Under a bill introduced by Senator Moses, Republican, of New Hampshire, the victims of the influenza epidemic who died in cantonments last fall before they could avail themselves of the privilege of war insurance, will receive indemnity for their families in the sum of $5,000. Senator Moses says that many of the drafted boys who were called and put under army regulations were exposed to the epidemic at a time of year when the change from domestic to camp life made them especially susceptible to the ravages of influenza, and it is through no fault of their own that they were unable to avail themselves of the insurance privilege before they were stricken. A narrow, and as the Senator believes, an unjustified construction of the law has hitherto prevented the families of the boys from receiving the benefits of the insurance as the law clearly intended, and his bill will remedy this condition.

The Moses bill also provides that beneficiaries under all policies of War Risk Insurance may have the option common to other life insurance policies of receiving the sum due either in monthly payments as now made or in a full lump sum.

A very pretty wedding was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Cady, Monday afternoon, May 12, when their youngest daughter, Bertha, was united in marriage to Claude Raymond Hudson, by the Rev. Henry A. Coolidge. Only the immediate family and a few invited friends were present. After the ceremony a reception was held and refreshments served. Then the couple left for White River Junction, where Mr. Hudson is located at the present time.

Autos Leave Road

Two automobile accidents occurred on the Bennington-Antrim road the early part of this week, but aside from considerable damage to one car nothing serious resulted. Both accidents happened in exactly the same place: a very short distance from the boundary line on the west side of the road; the cars overturned into the water which, being high, had overflowed the banks of the small brook.

On Sunday afternoon the Ford car that left the road was owned and driven by George Cote of Hillsboro, the cause of the accident being the breaking of the wishbone, as we are told. With assistance this car was put into the road again and, after temporary repairing was driven to Hillsboro. No injury was sustained by the occupants of the car.

Monday afternoon, Mrs. Carl Haas was driving her new Ford on this road and in turning out for a truck her car left the road and overturned in the water; it struck in such a way as to do considerable damage to the casing under the engine and to the top. Two other women and a child were in the car and the child received slight injuries. The car will need some attention and repairs before it will be running again.
