N. H. SCHOOL LAW

Instructive Address Monday Evening

An address of unusual interest was given at the town hall on Monday evening, under the auspices of Molly Aiken Chapter, D. A. R., when Maro S. Brooks, from the State Department of Education, at Concord, talked on the subject of Education in 1920. About one hundred fifty of our people were present to listen to this instructive talk and felt well repaid for the effort in doing so.

Mrs. Frank Boyd, Regent, was the presiding officer, and the first number on the program was a vocal duet by Frank J. Boyd and Fred C. Thompson; this was followed by a few words of introduction of the speaker of the evening by the presiding officer.

Mr. Brooks took as the basis of his remarks the new School law, giving a bit of its history up to the time of its enactment, and told a few things about the School law New Hampshire formerly had. He dwelt more particularly upon those sections of the new law that would concern us as a town, and showed to his audience by clever argument and apt illustrations how these different phases of the law could be worked out to our advantage. He has the several points of the new law well in hand, particularly that part, "Americanization," which is his special work. The speaker is well qualified for this branch of activity and was able to say things of interest along this line.

The speaker mentioned a number of things that had come to his attention while going about the state; these were spoken of in order that we might see where we could improve our schools and also to instill into any one who might need it the principles of Americanism.

This was one of the good things that our people have been privileged to enjoy, and doubtless this instruction will be greatly appreciated.

The evening's program was closed by a quartet of male voices, comprising F. J. Boyd, F. C. Thompson, H. A. Coolidge and Morris Burnham; and all present singing "America."

NEW EXECUTIVE

Receives Notice From Washington Correspondent

OVERHEAD COSTS

A new member has come into the President's Cabinet, and in assuming his portfolio in the Agricultural Department Mr. Edwin T. Meredith, the Iowa farm paper editor, has expounded some very good philosophy to the effect that "business men must look to the operation of their establishments, no matter in what line they may be engaged, and see that no useless employe is retained; to add to the cost of distributing what the farmer now produces."

Mr. Meredith starts well, and if he continues he may prune down the "useless employes" of the Department of Agriculture, of which he is the head. He is likely, if he investigates, to find that the common talk in Washington that there are 40,000 too many Government clerks in the Capital, is an entirely conservative estimate, and it would be very strange if some of these were not loafing in his Department. Thousands of war workers have become mere parasites upon the Government, and attempts to get rid of them usually result in their transfer from one branch of the public business to another. The "political pull" is working overtime.

Overhead costs in distributing "what the farmer now produces" might likely be cut in the matter of transportation itself, since General W. W. Atterbury, who operated the American railroads in France put his finger on one of the sources of trouble in the Pennsylvania shops, when he told the employes that "prior to our entrance into the war you were on a piece-work basis as well as working on a ten hour day. When the Government took over the railroads, piecework was stopped. The output per man per hour fell 2 percent. The shops were put on an eight hour schedule. This cut the output an additional 15 percent, so

WANTS TO KNOW

"Tax Payer" Needs Some Information Now

Editor Antrim Reporter,

My dear sir:—

Will you let me intrude on your space, time and patience, long enough to ask what has become of the extra money raised by taxation the past year? I presume it will all be made clear in the annual reports soon to be published, but I want to know about it now, as long as possible before school or town meeting; for if we don't know where we are at before that time, how are we going to vote on appropriations intelligently? If you are unable to enlighten me on this matter, possibly a member of the school board or some other of your readers could give me the desired information.

One year ago Antrim's tax rate was $2.00 and a large amount of money was raised and expended in our schools; this year the tax rate is $2.70, and as far as I am able to learn there are no more schools in town, neither are there any more teachers employed. A few dollars more have been added to the teachers' salaries, I am told, yet this is a small sum comparatively and there are teachers now in our schools who are underpaid for the work being done. Yet the past year the new school law compelled our town to raise something like an extra one per cent for schools, in addition to what we had already raised in previous years; and according to my figures nearly one-half of the $2.70 raised was for schools. I feel sure this can be satisfactorily explained and it should be before the annual school meeting, that when our people come to vote they may do so intelligently. The matter of so much money being raised for school purposes is a very important one to a town like ours,—especially so when it is intimated that more money for this purpose is needed.

One other thing which might be taken into consideration when thinking upon this subject is that this year the town's valuation was nearly $29,000 more than it was one year ago. These things should all be figured together and a comprehensive statement be given the voters early. And I earnestly hope someone will prepare a plain and concise statement of the facts in the case, covering the question herein contained, for the columns of the Reporter next week.

TAX PAYER

Fine Coasting

This weather certainly suits the young people. Never within the memory of the oldest inhabitant has there been a better crust. The rain following the snow storm was stopped by a freeze and this resulted in crust strong enough to hold a man. Every vacant lot is visited by youngsters on skis, toboggans, sleds or skates. The crust was just as good to skate upon as real ice and for sleds and toboggans. Oh boy, there was never anything to equal it for real sport.

that the output per man per hour in our shops is but 60 percent of what it was before the war."

This is a concrete case, and it seems to verify the statement that the railroads with immensely increased numbers of employes have not been carrying on a larger volume of business than under the days of privately controlled railroads. Mr. Meredith can do no better work in Washington than to help deflate things in the interests of the farmers. For he knows that the men who till the soil, and who have stuck by their jobs while farm help has been flocking to the city, lured, as a farmer has put it to the Government, by "the promise of short hours, high wages, and the promise of a good time," deserve every consideration that the United States can extend to the basic industry which raised the food for humanity. But Mr. Meredith is apt to be shocked at the number of men in his own Department who are not unlike other Government employes, since they are eager champions of the policy that Mr. Gompers and others have attempted to popularize to the detriment of industry, since "short hours, high wages, and a good time" do not furnish the remedy for the ills and evils in social and industrial life that are crying for a cure.

Chester A. Holt

Died at the Odd Fellows Home, in Concord, on Monday morning of this week, February 9, at five o'clock. The remains were brought to Antrim Tuesday and put into the tomb at Maplewood cemetery, later to be removed and buried in the family lot at North Branch.

Deceased was generally known by the older people of our town, and respected as an industrious and peaceable citizen; he lived here for a number of years in his earlier life, and for a number of years past made his home

Verification of Savings Bank Depositors' Books

To the Depositors of the Hillsborough Bridge Guaranty Savings Bank, of Hillsboro, N. H.

The law of this state provides that, "It shall be the duty of every depositor in any savings bank, and of every share-holder of any building and loan association to present his book for verification with the books of the bank or association when notified so to do, at the times fixed by the bank commissioners."

The bank commissioners have selected the month of February in this year as the time for such verification. I have been appointed to examine the depositors' books and compare them with the books of the bank, with the object of correcting any errors that may exist, and for that reason I shall be at the Hillsborough Bridge Guaranty Savings Bank between the hours of 9 a. m. and 12 m. and 1 p. m. and 3 p. m. each day the bank is open during the above-named period, unless the work is sooner completed.

You are requested to present your deposit book, or to forward the same by mail or otherwise, to me at the bank at as early a day as convenient, if possible during the first two weeks, and so avoid having a personal request sent to you. The book will be immediately returned to you after comparison with your account as kept by the bank.

The Con. Con. Poll

Fred A. Jones, of Lebanon, who was engaged to take a poll of the Republican members of the Constitutional Convention to ascertain their preference for President and Senator has announced that General Leonard Wood and Senator George H. Moses are the favorites of the body.

There were 254 Republicans in the Constitutional Convention and out of that number 148 told Mr. Jones they favored Wood.

Senator Moses had such a walk-away that Mr. Jones does not bother to state the preference of the 21 members who named a favorite other than Senator Moses, who seeks to succeed himself. The number of members participating in the straw vote on senator was 197. Senator Moses had 158.

Washington's Birthday

The program of the Memorial Service to be held Feb. 22, promised for this issue of the Reporter, has not been completed, but will appear next week.

This coming anniversary of the birth of our first president has been chosen as an appropriate Memorial Day to the men who gave their lives for their country during the World War.

All over the United States the Posts of the American Legion will hold services which will conform as nearly as possible to a general program issued from headquarters.

The French Government is showing its gratitude by issuing Honorary Certificates to the nearest of kin of the men on our Honor Roll. Let us show our respect by a large attendance at Antrim town hall, Feb. 22, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Christian Endeavors

Sunday evening at 6 o'clock, at the Presbyterian Church, a union meeting will be held for all those who were members or those who know they ought to be members of our individual young peoples societies of the village. Your help will be found in the Sunday School papers of Feb. 8, 1920. Let us all meet together to sing, talk, and pray for the good of us all.

Dealing With the Un-deported

America consists of Americans and of nothing but Americans. Those who within the past few years, have come to think of America as a vast mixture of languages, races and clashing doctrines, have had the wrong viewpoint. They have been thinking of America as a place and not as an ideal.

Millions of immigrants have crossed the ocean from the Old World. They have reached our shores, but many of them have never reached America. On the other hand, many of our native born are not now and never have been Americans. There is no such thing as an "American Red." There is no such thing as an "American I. W. W."

An American is a man who feels American, thinks American and acts American—no matter where he was born.

America has plenty of room and a warm welcome for those who wish to become Americans, but it cannot spare a single square foot of soil to those who intend to continue un-American and anti-American. Fortunately, we can deport some of the most noxious of these intruders, but these are but a small percentage of the unfit. What about the remainder?

There is but one answer: They must be Americanized.

This, however, is not a task for the Department of Justice, not even for Congress and the various state legislatures; it is a task for the rank and file of American citizens. It is a task of education plus and of influence plus; it is really a task of moral coercion. It is a task for swift and energetic action, wherein American citizens in all their vast numbers must seize opportunities when they exist, and create opportunities when they do not exist, to Americanize all who come within their own circles or else to cast them out of their circles.

It is no time to talk of "broad-minded sympathy" or of "conciliation," where a great question of right and wrong is involved. You cannot "conciliate" evil any more than you can "conciliate" a conflagration.

The THIRTEENTH COMMANDMENT.

RUPERT HUGHES

CHAPTER XVIII.

Daphne scuttered for the subway as a fugitive rabbit to its burrow. But she was not a rabbit and she felt suffocated in the tunnel. She could not endure to be quiet in the presence of so many goggle eyes like aligned buttons. She left the train at the next station and walked rapidly to Fifth avenue, and up it homeward.

She walked rapidly for the comfort of the restlessness, but there was no comfortable destination ahead of her. She found Mrs. Chevis at home with her disconsolate husband. Daphne dared not tell them just yet that she had lost her place. She would tell them when she got another one. For fear that they might ask why she was home so early, she went down to Bayard's apartment.

She wanted to tell Bayard and Lella what had happened. It was safe, she felt sure. Bayard would never attack Gerst. He would be more likely to rail at Daphne for bringing the trouble on herself.

Lella let her in at the door, but she was in a militant humor. She said, "Hello!" grimly and stepped back for Daphne to enter. Daphne found Bayard still aglow with interrupted quarrel. He said, "Hello!" with a dismal countenance.

"What do you suppose that brother of yours orders me to do now?" said Lella, whirling Daphne toward her.

"I can't imagine," said Daphne, incredulous of Bayard's ordering Lella to do anything.

"He wants me to go to Dutilh and put up a poor mouth and humiliate myself."

Bayard snatched Daphne to him and stormed: "She bought the clothes, didn't she, without consulting me? She wouldn't send 'em back as you did yours; she wore 'em out, paraded 'em before other men there in Newport while I was slaving here. And now that Dutilh insists on money that I haven't got, and can't get, she won't even go explain it to him. That's all I ask her—to explain it to him and ask him to be patient so that I won't be sued. I can't stand that. I've had every other calamity but I've never been sued for debt. I ask Lella to go tell him about my hard luck and my fine prospects—play fair with him—and with me. But will she do it? No! She won't do anything for me."

Daphne was swayed by his emotion. She pleaded: "Why don't you, Lella? You have such winning ways. I'll go with you."

Lella hesitated, then answered by taking up her hat and slapping it on her head. She paused, took it off again, and went to her room, unhooking her gown as she went; she knew that in asking favors one should wear one's best appearances.

Bayard grumbled, "How are you getting along at your office?"

Daphne felt unable to intrude her own troubles on his. She shrugged her shoulders. It is a kind of white lie, she shrug.

"Hang on to your job as long as you can, old girl, for you'll have to support us all, I guess. You're the only one of us that can get a job or earn a cent. That's the advantage of being a pretty girl."

Daphne was almost moved to tell him some of the disadvantages of being a pretty girl, but she felt that the time was unfit for exploiting her own woes. She ached for some one to disclose them to, but she withheld them.

Lella came in, arrayed in her very finest. She was smiling in the contentment of beauty at its best. "When you ask credit you've got to look as if you didn't need it," she said.

They found Dutilh in a state of unusual excitement and exhaustion. There were few customers in his place and he left them to the other salespeople. He advanced on Lella and Daphne and gave a hand to each.

"Why, oh why in the name of Paul Petret didn't you come in a week ago? The pirates have taken every decent gown I had. The sewing women are working like mad to reproduce 'em, but there's nothing left to show, except to Pittsburgh and Plattsburg tourists. Where did you get that awful rag you have on?"

"Here," said Lella.

"Oh, of course, I remember. It's beautiful. Sit down. I'm dead. Have a cigarette? Have a cup of tea? Oh, Miss Galvey—tea for three, please. I didn't forget either of you when I was in Paris. I have a streen gown for you, Mrs. Kip, that will break your heart with joy. You'd murder to get it. And as for you, Miss Kip—well, you'll simply be indecently demure in the one I call 'Innocence.'"

Daphne was a trifle shocked, but Lella's eyes filled with tears at the bockery of such talk. She moaned: "I didn't come to buy. I came to apologize and beg for mercy. I owe you a lot of money, and I haven't a cent."

"Who has? What of it? Nobody's paying anybody."

"But I had an urgent letter from your bookkeeper, or somebody."

"Don't mind her. She gets excited. Nobody pays me. You come in and get another gown and you'll catch a millionaire with it."

It was hard for Dutilh to keep his clients clear in his memory.

"But I can't afford it."

Daphne had come home after a morning of rebuffs. She was heart-sore and footsore, in shabby boots that she could not replace. She was called to the telephone, and Duane's voice chanted in her ear with a tone of peculiarly comforting melancholy.

"That you, Miss Kip? This is me, Mr. Duane. Poor Tom Duane. Poor Tom's a cold. I came back to town unexpectedly early. I have something important to say to you. Will you take a little ride with me in my car?"

"Why not?" she said, with a laugh. She was glad that he could not see the tears that gushed across her eyelids.

"Three cheers for you! I'll be there in a jiffy. You couldn't arrange to dine with me, could you? Or could you?"

Again she answered, "Why not?"

Duane's voice rang back: "Tip-top! You've made me happy as a box of pups. I'm half-way there already."

"Show me."

Clay Winburn came in after dinner. His protests against Daphne's project were louder than Bayard's, with the added rancor of jealousy. But he had no substitute to offer.

She forebore to tell him of the Gerst affair. He was deep enough in the mire. He went away a little later and she returned to her cubbyhole with the Chivvises.

Those were black days for all America, suffering under the backfire from the sudden war and from the long fatigue of hard times. There were weeks of dread lest the United States be sucked into the maelstrom at a time when it was least prepared in money, arms, or spirit. Never, perhaps, in human chronicle had so many people looked with such bewildered misery on so many people locked in such multifarious carnage.

At such a time, as in an epoch of plague, there came a desperate need of a respite from woe; soldiers skirted in trenches; war widows danced in gay colors; festivals were held in the name of charity; frivolities and vices were resorted to that good souls might renew themselves for the awful work before them.

It was in such a mood of imperative demand for cheer of some sort that Tom Duane swam back into Daphne's gloomy sky.

Daphne had come home after a morning of rebuffs. She was heart-sore and footsore, in shabby boots that she could not replace. She was called to the telephone, and Duane's voice chanted in her ear with a tone of peculiarly comforting melancholy.

"That you, Miss Kip? This is me, Mr. Duane. Poor Tom Duane. Poor Tom's a cold. I came back to town unexpectedly early. I have something important to say to you. Will you take a little ride with me in my car?"

"Why not?" she said, with a laugh. She was glad that he could not see the tears that gushed across her eyelids.

"Three cheers for you! I'll be there in a jiffy. You couldn't arrange to dine with me, could you? Or could you?"

Again she answered, "Why not?"

Duane's voice rang back: "Tip-top! You've made me happy as a box of pups. I'm half-way there already."

Duane, a little afraid of him and of the gloaming. They emerged above the chain of Croton lakes and ran across the big dam and wound along the shore, crossing iron bridge after iron bridge, till they came to a little roadside inn whose lights had a yellow warmth.

"We're stopping here for dinner, if you don't mind," said Duane.

Daphne was a trifle ill at ease, but she was hungry, too, and the adventure was exhilarating. There were not many people at the tables, and they were of an adventurous cast as well.

When Duane had given his order he asked Daphne if she would join the rest of the diners who had left their chairs to fox-trot. She shook her head and he did not urge her.

But by the time their dinner was served and eaten the nagging, interminable music had played away nearly all her scruples.

When Duane looked at her with an appealing smile, she smiled back, nodded and rose. He leaped to his feet and took her in his arms.

Somehow, it was not mere dancing now. He had told her that he loved her. There was in his embrace an eagerness that was full of deference, but full of delight as well. After all, she was alone with him in a company that seemed not to be very respectable, and was growing less so every hour.

Her feet and all her limbs and every muscle of her revealed in the gambol, ing but expense of money and heard ache and torture.

Suddenly but quietly upon this current of her thoughts a thought of Duane's was launched like a skiff congenial to the tide. He spoke almost as softly as a thought, at first with a quaint shock such as a boat makes, launched.

"How often do you go to church?" he said, whimsically.

"Why—never, I'm afraid," she gasped in surprise.

"You were planning to be married in church?"

"Such funny questions! Yes, of course."

"Why?"

"Oh, it wouldn't be nice not to."

"You don't believe in divorce, then?"

"Oh yes—yes, indeed—if people don't get along together. I think it's wicked for people to live together, if they don't love each other."

"It's love, then, that makes marriage sacred?"

"Yes. Yes, indeed! Of course!"

"Is it all right for two people who are not Christians to live together according to their creeds?"

"How do you mean?"

"Well, the people who lived before there were any Christians—or people who never heard of Christianity—was it all right for them to marry?"

"Of course."

"It's not any one formula, then, that makes marriage all right?"

"Of course not, it's the—the—"

"The love?"

"I think so. It's hard to explain."

"Everything is, isn't it?"

"Terribly."

There was more silence. He took a cigar from his pocket, held it before her for permission. She said, "Please." He struck a match. She glanced at his face in the little limelight of the match. It was very handsome. A pearl of drowsy luster gleamed in the soft folds of his tie. The hands sheltering the match were splendid hands.

She watched the cigar fire glow and fade and the little turbulent smoke veils float into the air and die. One of them formed a wreath, a strange, froil, writhing circlet of blue filaments. It drifted past her and she put her finger into it—her ring-finger by some womanly instinct.

"Now you're married to me," said Duane.

There was a sudden movement of his hands as if to seize upon her. She recoiled a little; his hands did not pursue her. They went back to the steering wheel and clung to it fiercely. She turned from his eyes, but he gazed at her cheek, and she could feel the blood stirring there in a blush.

"If you loved me, would you marry me?" he said.

"I—I love— I'm going to marry— somebody else."

"When?"

"Some day."

"If you're not happy with him, will you leave him?"

"Oh, but I'll be happy with him."

"So many people have said that! You've seen how seldom it worked. If you ceased to love him, or he you, would you leave him?"

"It is a large order. Maybe."

"Wouldn't it be wiser if two people who thought they loved could live together for a while before they married?"

She felt her muscles set as if she would rise and run away from such words. "Mr. Duane! I don't think it's nice even to be talking of such things. Besides, it's growing late."

"It's not so late as it would be if you married a man and found that your marriage was a ghastly mistake."

"Haden't we better start back?"

"Please don't leave me just yet. This is very solemn to me. I've been studying you a long time, trying to get you out of my mind, and only getting you deeper in my heart. I love you."

"I don't believe it."

"I know it."

"Then you oughtn't to tell me."

"Not tell a woman you love her? Not try to save her from wrecking her life and my own?"

"How wrecking my—her life?"

"I believe that if you marry Clay Winburn you'll be unhappy. He can't give you a home. He can't buy you clothes. He can't support you."

"That's not his fault, just now—with the hard times and the war. Please let's go home."

"To my home?"

That insolence was too appalling to answer, or even to gasp at, or protest against. It stung her. He took advantage of her daze to explain, hurriedly:

"You're not going to be one of those silly, old-fashioned idiot girls that a man can't talk to earnestly and frankly, are you now? Of course you're not. You're not one of those poor things whose virtue consists in being insulted every time anyone appeals to their intelligence, are you? No, you're a fine, brave soul, and you want to know the truth about truth, and so do I."

"I'm a decent enough fellow at heart. I want to do the right thing and live squarely as well as the next fellow. I've got a sense of honor, too, of a sort, and I take life pretty seriously."

"I tell you, the world is all turned topsy-turvy the last few years. The old rules don't rule. They never did, but people pretended to believe in 'em. Now we're not so afraid of the truth in science or history or religion or anything. We want to know the truth and live by it."

Lella Felt a Rapturous Desire to Kiss Him and Call Him Names of Gratitude.

He Could Imagine Her Pretty Head.

but her heart and mind and conscience were troubling her till she stopped short at last and said:

"I'm sorry, but I—I'd rather not dance any more—here."

Duane paused in a moment's chagrin. Then he sighed: "All right."

They retreated to their table, and he looked at her sadly, and she sadly at him. Then he seemed to like her even better than before, and he said, with a very tender smile:

"Want to go home?"

"If you don't mind."

When they came out upon the veranda of the hotel the lake was a vast charger of frosted silver among the hills. They stood admiring it for a moment and the music from the hotel seemed to come from another world. He helped her into the car and they whisked away southerly.

He returned to the road along the Hudson, and it was so beautiful in the moonlight that it seemed a pity to hurry through the wonderland at such speed. And what was she going back to that she should be in such haste?

She hinted as much to Duane, and he bettered the suggestion. Not only did he check the speed, but at one wooded cliffside with a vista of peculiar majesty he wheeled out of the road and stopped the car, shut down the chattering engine and turned off the strenuous lights.

They sat utterly content till Duane shook off the blissful stupor. They could not stay here thus forever. They could not stay much longer. It was growing cold and late.

He did not dare to look at Daphne. He did not quite need to. He could imagine her pretty head and the drowsy, adorable eyes, the lips pursed with childish solemnity, the throat stem in the urn contour of her shoulders, the vaselike curves of her young torso. He imagined these from memory, for they now were swaddled in a thick motorcoat. But without turning his head he could see her little hands clasped idly at her knees, the little gloves turned back at the wrist. He thought that he would like to take them in his—he would like to take all of her in his arms, into his heart, into his keeping.

Yet he did not want to marry her. He did not admire marriage in its results as he saw them in other people. Like many another, he cherished wicked ideals because the everyday virtues worked out so imperfectly, so unbecomingly.

Daphne was musing almost as vaguely. On the river a yacht at anchor poised like a swan asleep. She would like to own a yacht. On the opposite side of the river along the road she could see motorcars like inquisitive crickets with gleaming eyes and feelers of light. She would like to own a motor or two.

If she were the wife of as rich a man as this man at her side, how quickly she could help her father and Bayard and the wretched victims of the massacre in Europe and so many people—yes, and even Clay, poor, dear, hopeless, helpless Clay Winburn, to whom she had brought nothing

Governors Confer Over Boundary Line.

A conference over the Vermont-New Hampshire boundary line was held by Gov. Clements of Vermont and Gov. Bartlett, a dispute which is still unsettled. The two governors went over the matter and are trying to have the tangle settled for the best interests of both states.

Gets State Forester Post in New Hampshire.

J. H. Foster of Waterville has been selected to succeed Edward S. Hirst as State forester. Mr. Hirst, who has held the position since 1909, resigned to accept a position at Bellows Falls, Vt. During the war he had charge of a lumber unit abroad. Foster was formerly an instructor in New Hampshire College.

Distribute Grain to Feed Wild Birds.

Fish and Game Warden Hubert K. Reynolds has distributed 400 lbs. of grain in the Dover district. He has covered the woods of East Rochester, Gonic, the Blackwater district, the Dover Point water front, the Newington shore, and the shore on the Great Bay with grain. This grain is for the preservation of the birds in that locality.

One Prisoner Keeps County House Open.

Cooks county officials are enabled to carry out their plans to close the county house of correction because a prisoner is held for the April term of superior court. The correctional institution is one of the largest of its kind in that part of the state. The plan of boarding the prisoner to curtail expenses has been considered.

Everett Knitting Co. Purchases Majority of Stock.

The Littleton Realty company has sold the majority of its stock to the Everett Knitting company of Lebanon which now has control of the factory now occupied by the Sears-Roebuck company. The shoe company now desires to purchase the property and the officials of the two companies are to meet in New York soon to talk over matters.

Gen. Leonard Wood, will be in Nashua to give an address about March 1. He is to appear there probably at the city auditorium, under the auspices of the Nashua lodge of Elks, when he will give an address in the Elks national campaign on Americanism.

The E. F. Tessier grocery store, corner of Elm and West Pearl streets, Nashua, has been sold to the O'Connor syndicate of Boston who will take possession on March 1, with a cut price grocery store. It will be the first of the company in the state.

More Farmers Come To New Hampshire Than Leave State

New Hampshire farms have more than six times as great attraction for residents of other states as have the farms of all the other states for residents of New Hampshire.

That is one of the interesting facts disclosed in a report just issued showing the movements of buyers of 3,688 farms valued at $17,396,400 sold by that agency last year. The total sales in New Hampshire for the year were 245 farms and with the exception of 37 all of these were purchased by men from other states of the Union, Canada and even from across the ocean. The 37 were purchased by men who already lived in New Hampshire.

At the same time only 33 residents of New Hampshire bought farms outside the state. Thus, while more than 85 per cent of the 245 farms sold in the state during the year were bought by men from outside, less than one per cent of the 3,423 farms sold in other states during the same period were bought by residents of New Hampshire.

Twenty-two states and two foreign countries were represented by the 208 men who brought their families to settle on New Hampshire farms during the year. The largest number from any one state came from Massachusetts, which contributed 106.

One of the men who settled on a New Hampshire farm during the year came all the way from Sweden while another came from England. Still another came from Washington state, on the other side of the continent and another from Florida. Other buyers came from Arkansas, Montana, West Virginia and Rhode Island.

Only three New Hampshire men bought farms outside of New England. Two of these settled in New York state and one in New Jersey. Of the other 30 who did not buy in their own state, 15 went to Vermont, ten to Maine, three to Massachusetts and one to Rhode Island and Connecticut.

The striking vamps at two Manchester, N. H., shoe factories returned to work pending adjustment of differences.

Religious Director at Exeter Resigns.

The Rev. F. J. Libby, a graduate of Bowdoin, and since 1912 instructor and director of religious work at the Phillips Exeter Academy, has entered his resignation to take effect at the end of the term, March 30. In April he will sail for Europe, where he has been appointed representative of the American Friends' Service committee to travel among different fields to supervise reconstruction and relief work.

Liquor Raid Made on Webster Home.

As a result of a raid made on Daniel Webster's birthplace, Franklin, owned by the State of New Hampshire, Chester A. Joyce, caretaker, was called to Federal Court on a charge of a violation of the liquor laws. The officers, armed with a liquor search warrant, found only cider, but they seized a contrivance like a chicken brooder, with which the caretaker admitted he made beer for his own use.

Plan Manchester Masonic Temple.

Plans are being developed for the construction of a Masonic Temple, costing about $200,000, to be located at Pine and Concord streets, Manchester. When the architect's plans are completed, they will be turned over to a committee representing all the Masonic lodges of the city for approval.

The temple would have accommodation for 1000 or more Masons. A plot of 10,000 feet of land was bequeathed to the Masons from the estate of John E. Bean, represented by Hallert N. Bond.

U. S. Cutter Ossipee Returns for Repairs.

The United States Coast Guard cutter Ossipee, which left the Portsmouth navy yard while undergoing repairs, to answer to the call of distress of the army transport Powhatan, arrived in Portsmouth in a badly disabled condition as the result of collision with the Canadian steamer Lady Laurier, while engaged in towing the Powhatan into Halifax. The Ossipee remained with the transport, although her bridge was almost carried away and the bow stove in, until the transport was safe in the harbor.

Prohibition in N. H. Effective.

The effects of statewide prohibition in cities that were supposed to be no-license in 1917 is very noticeable. Keene, with a population of 10,068, in its year of no license in 1917 had 120 arrests for drunkenness. In 1919 the number was reduced to 34. Laconia, with approximately the same population, reported 89 arrests for drunkenness in 1917 and reduced the number for the same cause to 16 last year. In speaking of the good effects of state prohibition in New Hampshire, Superintendent Robbins says: "This is a reduction of more than 80 per cent. for all the cities of the state taken together."

Pittsfield Wants Canning Factory.

A movement is under way to locate a canning factory at Pittsfield if sufficient acreage of corn can be guaranteed. It is necessary that 300 acres of corn be guaranteed and already 250 have been promised, with an excellent prospect of securing the required amount. A building for such a factory is the problem, but it is understood that several of our business men will erect a new factory if the industry can be secured with definite promises of being a financial success.

Harry L. Lavensaler was in a serious condition at a Rockland, Me., hospital, following a four mile walk with a partially severed foot. Lavensaler cut his foot while chopping wood in a woodland at his home four miles from Rockland.

Mrs. Gulditta Allaro, the Salem, Mass., woman who threw her two children into the South river, Salem, and then plunged into the river herself in an attempt at suicide, has been committed to the Danvers State Hospital for the insane.

More than 200 employees of the Boston Navy Yard have gone on furlough for the remainder of the month and about as many more will be given furloughs in a few days, as the lack of money makes it impossible to continue work at the yard upon the former scale.

A letter, alleged to have been dropped from the pocket of James F. Welch, Cambridge, Mass., while he was in the act of looting a store in Dorchester, furnished the clew which led to his conviction in the Dorchester Court on a charge of breaking and entering.

Charles C. Perkins of New London, by advancement from senior grand warden, has been elected grand master of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Connecticut. Grand Secretary George A. Kies reported 2562 candidates raised in 1919 and that the present membership is 31,298, divided among 112 lodges.

The Harvard Crimson, the university daily paper, after examining records, finds that there are 26 Harvard men in Congress. The House of Representatives has 20, and the Senate the remaining six. This State leads the list of States with Crimson degree men in Congress.

Navier Proulx, 45, of Haverhill, died from influenza at the Contagious Hospital while the funeral of his wife, Clara Proulx, 35, also a victim of the epidemic, was being held at St. Joseph's Church, leaving eight orphaned children in the hospital suffering from the same disease.

The State of Vermont has formally acknowledged receipts of fees amounting to $52,586 from the probate court, in settlement of the estate of Mrs. Hetty H. B. Green, late of New York and Bellows Falls. This sum is exclusive of $5000 recently paid to the state as an inheritance tax.

The Post Exchange at Fort Greble, R. I., one of the island defenses of Narragansett Bay, was destroyed by fire. The artillerymen at the fort, fighting the flames in a blizzard of high velocity, saved post headquarters, the service club and hospital, notwithstanding a scant supply of water.

Resolutions urging upon Police Commissioner Curtis the need for a women's bureau in connection with the Boston police department, similar to that now conducted in Washington, D. C., for the protection of women and children, were adopted at a meeting under the auspices of a score of Boston and Massachusetts welfare organizations.

After more than 50 years of doubt over the ownership of the land on the North end of Plum Island, off Newburyport, on which the United States Government maintains a lighthouse and a lifesaving station, an agreement between the government and the heirs of Moses Pettigill has been filed in the federal district court whereby 50 acres of land is ceded to the government.

Former Mayor Thomas Thompson of New Bedford, picturesque in politics as the man who campaigned wearing his marble worker's white overalls, died at his home last week after an illness of four years, aged 67. He was a candidate for mayor at six elections and was overwhelmingly elected in 1905 over John McCullough after a bitter campaign. He served but one term.

The Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, editor of Leslie's Weekly and head of the propaganda department of the shipping board during the war, declared at a complimentary dinner given by the Fidelity Trust Company, Boston, to its stockholders that Americans were living in a fool's paradise, "spending money like drunken sailors," and that a day of reckoning could not long be delayed unless there was a turn to a policy of thrift. He said the country had more parasites today than it had had before in a generation.

NEW ENGLAND LIVE STOCK REPORT.

The Bureau of Crop Estimates makes these estimates of Numbers of Live Stock on Farms, and their Average Value per Head, as of January 1 in each year shown.

Horses show a steady decrease in the United States and throughout New England, except in Rhode Island, where they appear about constant. They are giving place more and more to autos, trucks and tractors. In Connecticut, Rhode Island and Vermont, the price is slightly above last year, while in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and the United States there is a small decrease; and in Maine no change.

Milk cows show a small gain in numbers in the United States, Maine and Connecticut; a small decrease in New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts with no change in Rhode Island from last year. The strong demand for dairy cows, especially good ones, has everywhere caused quite noticeable gains in prices. Pure bred and good milkers are generally in good demand; but poor milkers find a slow market in most cases.

Other Neat Cattle have decreased somewhat from last year in the United States, increased slightly in Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut, while remaining about steady in New Hampshire and Vermont. They show a small price decline in the United States and Maine but rather marked gain elsewhere. Short stocks of hay and too many young stock in parts of Maine and in a few other places forced sales at lower prices.

Sheep have decreased from last year slightly in the United States, Vermont and Rhode Island, while gaining considerable numbers in Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Connecticut. Prices have decreased generally except in Massachusetts, where a small increase is noted.

Swine have decreased somewhat in the United States the past year; but throughout New England, except Vermont there is substantial or marked increase in numbers. A considerable surplus is reported from many sections; and the market for local hogs has been rather weak and market prices unsatisfactory to farmers in view of the high grain prices.

The Russell Fire Club, the Boston fire department union, through its board of directors, voted to give up its charter as a union. The action followed the counting of the ballots cast by the members in a recent referendum on the question, the voting being 2 to 1 in favor of abandoning their organized labor affiliations.

Convicted of killing her baby girl by strangulation, Mrs. Laura Goodridge was sentenced to one year in the House of Correction by Judge Shaw in the Superior Criminal Court, Worcester, Mass. According to the police, the woman tied a band around the baby's throat and placed it in a closet.

Successful raids by four eagles on flocks of wild ducks seeking food along the icebound shores of Cumberland and Falmouth were followed by a battle between one of the birds and a small dog in a thickly settled portion of Portland. Eagle and dog fought in the snow for several minutes before the canine succeeded in driving off his assailant.

Judge Murray imposed a sentence of two years on Henry H. Cheney of Dorchester, Mass., for the larceny of $6000 from his employer, Augustus O. Roberts, of 114 State st., Boston, suspending its execution in consideration of Cheney's sick wife and five small children, one of them an 18-month-old baby facing an operation and another only a month old.

As a practical method of meeting the prevailing wave of radicalism and industrial unrest, a bill was submitted to the committee on mercantile affairs by Senator Loring of Beverly, Mass., under the provisions of which employees would be given an opportunity to buy stock in the corporations for which they are working.

The highest minimum wage scale in any occupation in Massachusetts under a decree of the department of labor and industries, became effective last week in the men's clothing and raincoat industry. The decree of the minimum wage board fixes a rate of $15 a week for experienced women of ordinary ability and rates of $10 and $7 a week for inexperienced workers and learners.

Representative Elihu D. Stone of Boston, petitioner, spoke before the judiciary committee in favor of the abolition of capital punishment. His bill permits the punishment for murder to be life imprisonment or imprisonment for any term of years, provided that execution of the death sentence is made imperative for any one who murders while he is under conviction for murder in the first degree. He held that the death penalty "is a relic of crude justice," saying that of over 200 death penalties which formerly existed in England, only that for first degree murder remains.

The East Coast Fisheries Company, Rockland, Me., plans during 1920 to spend $1,400,000, making a total of $2,500,000 for improving its facilities there. It is said that April will see twenty-five steam trawlers in operation, most of them landing their cargoes at Rockland, where over a million pounds daily of fish will be discharged. New construction planned for 1920 includes a $500,000 by-product plant, twelve warehouses with capacity of 100,000,000 pounds of fish, docks for ten steam trawlers at one time and a $100,000 marine railway.

GIRLS! A MASS OF WAVY, GLEAMY BEAUTIFUL HAIR
Let "Danderine" save and glorify your hair

In a few moments you can transform your plain, dull, flat hair. You can have it abundant, soft, glossy and full of life. Just get at any drug or toilet counter a small bottle of "Danderine" for a few cents. Then moisten a soft cloth with the Danderine and draw this through your hair taking one small strand at a time. Instantly, yes, immediately, you have doubled the beauty of your hair. It will be a mass, so soft, lustrous, fluffy and so easy to do up. All dust, dirt and excessive oil is removed.

Let Danderine put more life, color, vigor and brightness in your hair. This stimulating tonic will freshen your scalp, check dandruff and falling hair and help your hair to grow long, thick, strong and beautiful.—Adv.

"WHEN KNIGHTS WERE BOLD"

Days of the Tournament and the Joust Must Have Been Some Pretty Lively "Scraps."

The national sports of Europe were for a long time confined to tournaments and jousts, most of which were participated in by nobility, with the king as spectator.

The tournaments saw companies of from five to a dozen knights ranged against each other in the field, with judges to see that the regularly set rules be observed. The plan of each contestant was to unhorse the other by a blow with a blunt lance received full from in front. A knight thrown by a side blow was considered the victor in that it showed poor horsemanship on the part of the other.

The joust was entirely different from the tournament, being virtually a duel, and usually a fight to death. Knights seeking to fasten themselves to a saddle and thus save themselves from being thrown, were deprived of knighthood. The knight was permitted to wear an outer garment over his armor, thus lending a gay appearance to the contending forces.

Civic Pride.

"But this town has no civic beauty," said the critical visitor. "It doesn't need any," said the satisfied business man. "In my eyes there's nothing more beautiful than miles of factories in operation and hundreds of big smokestacks belching smoke day and night. Why, sir, every time I get a flake of soot on my face or my collar I wear it as a proud badge of prosperity."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

ONLY WAY ASPIRIN SHOULD BE TAKEN

Look for name "Bayer" on tablets and follow directions in package.

The Bayer Company, who introduced Aspirin, tell in their careful directions in each package of genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" that to get the best results one or two glasses of water should be drank after taking tablets. "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" to be genuine must be marked with the safety "Bayer Cross." Then you are getting the world-famous Aspirin, prescribed by physicians for over eighteen years.

Each unbroken "Bayer" package contains proper directions for Colds, Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Neuritis, and for Pain generally. Handy tin boxes of twelve tablets cost but a few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer" packages. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.—Adv.

Mrs. Jessie M. Hall, of Worcester, Mass., Vice President General of the D. A. R., will speak on "Americanization" at the meeting of the Antrim Woman's Club, Tuesday, Feb. 17, at G. A. R. Hall. Molly Aiken Chapter, D. A. R., has been invited to be present.

Morris H. Wood has improved very much from his recent illness and is able now to do his chores and work around his home some, but is unable as yet to do any hard work. In the course of a few weeks he hopes to be fully recovered and able to attend to his farm work and teaming as usual.

The committee from Waverley Lodge having the matter in charge has secured a high class entertainment for May 19. This date is a long ways ahead and is announced this early that none may say they know nothing about it. Let this be a date fixed in your mind and plan to attend. Other particulars later.

The fourth quarterly conference of the Methodist church will be held on Friday evening of this week, at 8 o'clock, in their vestry; District Superintendent T. E. Cramer, of Manchester, will be present to conduct the meeting. It is important that all the official members of the church attend this meeting, and those officers having reports to give should have them ready to read.

Four weeks from today and the annual school and town meetings will have been held, and all the matters for the good of the town thrashed out and settled. It is not expected that all will be satisfied, but as with our form of government the majority rules, it is a fine thing that we can accept whatever is passed out to us, make the best of it, and do our bit to improve the conditions all we can.

The Successful Farmer Raises Bigger Crops

and cuts down costs by investment in labor-saving machinery.

Good prices for the farmers' crops encourage new investment, more production and greater prosperity.

But the success of agriculture depends on the growth of railroads—the modern beasts of burden that haul the crops to the world's markets.

The railroads—like the farms—increase their output and cut down unit costs by the constant investment of new capital.

With fair prices for the work they do, the railroads are able to attract new capital for expanding their facilities.

Rates high enough to yield a fair return will insure railroad growth, and prevent costly traffic congestion, which invariably results in poorer service at higher cost.

National wealth can increase only as our railroads grow.

Poor railroad service is dear at any price. No growing country can long pay the price of inadequate transportation facilities.

PRINCE ALBERT

the national joy smoke

Copyright 1929 by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

Topsy red bags, tidy red tins, handsome pound and half-pound tin holders—and that classy, practical pound crystal glass humidifier with sponge moisture top that keeps the tobacco in such perfect condition.

PUT a pipe in your face that's filled cheerily brimful of Prince Albert, if you're on the trail of smoke peace! For, P. A. will sing you a song of tobacco joy that will make you wish your life job was to see how much of the national joy smoke you could get away with every twenty-four hours!

You can "carry on" with Prince Albert through thick and thin. You'll be after laying down a smoke barrage that'll make the boys think of the old front line in France!

P. A. never tires your taste because it has the quality! And, let it slip into your think-tank that P. A. is made by our exclusive patented process that cuts out bite and parch—assurance that you can hit smoke-record-high-spots seven days out of every week without any comeback but real smoke joy!

FACTORY WORKERS LIKE TO SING

Thousands of Americans Join Huge Song Meets

Boska.—In factories of 13 American cities, 718,367 workers joined in factory "sings" last month, according to figure just compiled by the Music Bureau of the Industrial Y. M. C. A. And in seven of these cities, 19,089 workers but down their tools during working hours to take part in 112 "sings." As the average "sing" takes 15 minutes, the donation by the various companies represent 4,700 working hours—596 working days.

Only since America swung into the Great War with her "singing army," and a singing nation back of it, has the sing-song begun to be recognized at its true value, according to Marshall Bartholomew, head of the Music Bureau. And now the industrial song leaders of the "Y" from Worcester, Mass., to Columbia, Ga., and to Grand Rapids, Mich., are working at top speed to keep up with the demand for more sing-songs.

During the last month 15 of these music directors led singing crowds totalling 137,642 persons—equal to the population of Paterson, N. J., or Dallas, Tex., or Des Moines, Ia.

E. T. Anderson of Waterbury, Conn., might be said to be one of the most strenuous of the "Y" music directors, for he conducted 88 sings on "company time," and four noon-hour gatherings, reaching a total of 18,000 workers. However, in the latter class of meetings, A. A. Vogelsang, of Grand Rapids is in the lead, with a total of 45 sings. F. J. Evans of Long Island City, with 34 similar gatherings, is close behind.

It must not be thought, that these men deal merely with the workers while they are in the shops. The report for November shows that in seven cities 23 quartettes and three trios were organized in the shops. In eight cities 20 shop glee clubs were formed, with a total of 632 members. Seven men's choral societies formed during the month included 160 members.

Instrumental music has grown in favor, too, for during November one director organized two bands with 80 members and two orchestras with 12 members. Seven other music leaders helped to organize 162 men into 12 orchestras.

Having learned that the community likes to do what its workers do, 12 of these music directors in 74 community songs brought out a total of 20,550 persons and three song leaders held 20 song meetings in the public schools of their cities. 4,379 pupils taking part. From their experiences in the shops, four gatherings of foremen, totalling 355 men, invited the "Y" song leader to lead them, too. The music directors of three other cities were invited to lead 1,595 men at all club dinners in singing.

To help keep the song leader busy, in eight cities 55 recreational sings were put on in Y. M. C. A. buildings, 5,743 men taking part, while in eleven cities the song leaders conducted 87 religious song services with 9,876 persons present.

Y.M.C.A. RUNS MODEL BAKERY

Caters to Doughboys on Big Scale in Germany

Coblenz.—Pies, cream puffs, turnovers and miscellaneous cakes by the thousands are now being turned out by the Y. M. C. A. model bakery here. That the Yank soldier on leave has a sweet tooth is shown by a day's production of the bakery.

The output for 24 hours was 11,300 rolls, 49 loaves of bread, 265 miscellaneous cakes, 264 cookies, 2,304 doughnuts, 1,054 turnovers, 695 cream puffs and 200 pies.

The bakery furnishes all the flour product needs for the various canteens and Y hotels in Coblenz and vicinity. Most of the supplies are bought at the United States Sales commissary. American families now residing in Coblenz have found the bakery a great help.

Two weeks sales made at the commissary to the bakery include thirty 100 pound sacks of sugar, 250, 100 pound sacks of flour, 1,920 cans of evaporated milk, 3,036 pounds of oleo, 1,050 pounds of jam, 25 cases of apples.

The Y bakery is in charge of an ex-soldier, who is an experienced baker, and he has a force of 18 men working under him. The building is light and roomy and tiled white throughout. It is equipped with the most modern types of electric and coal burning ovens and electric driver bread mixers.

ROLLING CANTEN REPLACES WATER-BAG IN INDIA.

Iced Drinks on Afghan Border

Gunga Din and his immortal water-bag have been replaced on the North India frontier by the rolling canteen of the Y. M. C. A.

With clouds of dust arising from camel, mule, bullock and motor convey all up and down the Khyber Pass, which has been a battle ground since Rome was a village, with the Mercury petulantly jumping back and forth between 110 and 123 degrees Fahrenheit, iced drinks served by the Red Triangle men were a boon to the British and Indian troops guarding the border against the Afghans in the recent invasion of the mountain tribes across the frontier.

The roads leading through the Pass are surrounded by ridges of hills, quite destitute of vegetation and the heat waves from the bare walls of rock are like blasts from a furnace. At various points along the route "heat stroke stations" were built of mud and brick to provide for cases of heat stroke and at these the "Y" man with his cold drinks was blessed by the thirst-wracked soldiers as much as ever was Gunga Din.

During the summer when the frontier is open the troops in Peshawar and other garrisons are confined to barracks between 7 a. m. and 6 p. m. to minimize the risk of heat stroke, but under war conditions this is impossible. The Red Triangle has established stations from Nowshera or the Indus River to Dacca in Afghan territory.

Now Enjoys Best of Health and Does Her Housework Unaided

"I didn't enjoy one day of good health for more than two years," says Mrs. C. E. Wilder, 742 E. Georgia St., Memphis, Tenn. "At first I had nothing more than backache. Afterwards terrible attacks of pain left me weak and limp. My arms and limbs ached. My feet felt weighted with tons of lead. I couldn't walk without a cane and had to be carried to bed every night. I couldn't do a bit of work and kept my people busy rubbing my aching limbs. Sometimes my whole body became rigid. My feet were swollen twice their normal size. It almost killed me to pass the kidney secretions. I lost 42 pounds and each day felt I had aged a year. I was so nervous the rustle of a paper made me scream. Finally I was advised to use Doan's Kidney Pills and seven boxes made me a well woman. I have enjoyed the best of health for seven years, and have done all my housework without any trouble." ### Shall Chaos or Reconstruction in Europe Follow the Great World War?

NEW, GREAT FORCES AT WORK

Demand for New Order of Things is Universal and Reactionaries Merely Swell the Rising Tide of Discontent.

Article IV.

By FRANK COMERFORD.

The most obvious thing in Europe is the changed attitude of the people, and yet there are many, particularly in the conservative, employing class, who refuse to see. There are none so blind as these. While they close their eyes and minds to the obvious, the change goes on. It is not idle rhetoric to say that new great forces are at work. Of course you cannot see the forces any more than you can see the grass growing, but you can see the effects. You can measure the character of the forces.

Everywhere I found people talking about a new Order. Men separated by hundreds of miles are thinking and talking the same ideas. It startled me to hear the same ideas up in the Balkans that I had heard in France and England. I did not meet any one who was able to give me a clear, complete meaning of the phrase, but it is on the lips of everyone. It has a meaning, and time will produce a plan. The people are forward-looking—they are thinking, waiting for something to happen. They have faith that it will happen and that it will bring great good to the human race. Every one seems confident that some great compensation must and will come out of the siege of suffering through which they have passed. If they were not so earnest, so sane, so determined about it I should have interpreted their enthusiasm as fantasy.

A meaningless minority of reactionaries scorn and scoff at all talk of a new Order. These are the backward-looking men of big business, the stand-patters in politics. They are out of touch with the times; they think the real world is the little circle in which they live. They are the barnacles on big business. They smugly set down all talk of change as bolshevism. Fortunately the real leaders of business are breaking away from this point of view. Progressive, human and open minded, they see and know that unrest is a problem and that it must be solved. They are paying heed to the complaints of the workers. They admit that there is justice back of the complaints. Instead of arguing coercion, they are talking concession. They know a change has come, they want to meet it.

New Order Must Come.

A new Order will come. The one question that is bothering the minds of men who are awake to the change is, will it come through revolution or through evolution. The greatest friend of evolution is the stubborn employer who refuses to see the change, accepts things as they are, and insists upon the use of force as the only cure for unrest.

Money is a gross thing when compared with human life. To mention Europe's financial losses in the same breath with her dead and wounded, seems sordid, but it is an everyday world and in it money has its logical place. Since the war some people are thinking that money has had too important a place in the world. It has been charged with pushing man out of his place, but bills must be paid and Europe needs money. The war cost billions and billions of dollars. Millions of men had to be clad and shod, billions and billions of cartridges and shells, rifles, cannons, airplanes, ships, were made. Europe owes the money. How will she pay it; where will she get it? It is a question that even the wisest and most optimistic of men in Europe hesitate to answer. Some wonder, is there an answer?

Europe has borrowed until her interest charge today is almost as large as her whole cost of governmental administration was a few years ago. I heard Lloyd George say that England faced a yearly interest charge of three hundred million pounds. Another official told me that this interest charge that England must pay each year is nearly one hundred million pounds a year larger than the cost of administration was at the time of the Boer war. Only the other day her interest was due on some loans from the United States and she was forced to default, and our government charged the interest to the principal and passed the day of payment on. In the meantime the pound is going down in value. When I was on the Continent it had reached $4.14. Today it is under $3.87, and steadily going down.

France is in even a worse plight. The banks are loaded with government paper. She has made no provision by taxation to pay her debt. I was told on every hand that any effort to impose a tax would bring on a revolution. It is said that her debt has reached the startling figure of $640 for every man, woman and child in the country. When I left Cherbourg to sail for America a regulation had been put into effect prohibiting any one leaving France from taking money with him, either metal or paper money. In excess of a thousand francs, and on that day you could buy almost nine francs for an American dollar. Can France pay? The figures prove France insolvent. Her officials and her men of prominence say she cannot pay. Her war debt is enormous.

Poverty on Every Side.

Italy is as bankrupt as France. A forced loan temporarily held the lira from losing all of its value. Her war debt threatens the throne.

In the new Balkan countries we find no gold reserve, little but poverty. In Czechoslovakia the government closed the borders for ten days, commanded the people to bring their money to the banks where stamps were put on the bills. When they brought their money they were given 50 per cent of it back and receipts for the balance. In this way the government cut down the volume of paper money 50 per cent. Even after this was done in the city of Prague I bought kronens for less than two cents a piece.

In Poland every kind and species of paper money is in circulation. Her frontiers have not been fixed by the peace table, and the profiteers in money smuggling have dumped the worthless paper of Europe into Poland. In October I was in Warsaw and my recollection is that the mark was worth about two cents in American money. Poland has no metal money. She hasn't a gold reserve. Her struggle to get credit to keep her people from dying by the millions from hunger and cold is pitiful.

Austria is penniless, poverty-stricken. Vienna is a city of ghosts, listless, peopled, human beings. They drag their feet after them. Their heads are bent between their shoulders. The kronen was worth a cent when I was there in September, and even at that price there was practically nothing to buy. Austria in her extremity, her people starving, petitioned the peace table for the privilege of selling her art treasures and heirlooms. The plea was to exchange them for bread and coal. Necessity prompted the plea. The peace table refused the permission, holding that these things of value might be the only collateral out of which the allies could collect the indemnity.

Europe's debt is her crown of thorns, as her dead is her cross. Unrest is her Calvary. A new Order is her hope—her resurrection.

Facing Gigantic Task.

Europe is not dying; she is exhausted, tortured, confused. She is trying to find herself. She is putting all of her remaining strength into the effort. The task before her is stupendous. She must rebuild her house. She must nurse her wounded, care for her cripples. She has counted her losses, inventoried her possessions. The past must bury its dead. Tomorrow is for the living. Today she is planning for the tomorrow. She must repair her house, put it in order. To understand her work, to know her plans, to feel her problem, it is necessary to know her thoughts. Unrest is frightening her. Fear is keeping her from work. It is causing her to worry. With all her soul she is pleading to the rich and powerful to become as little children again, her children. She is telling them that the fate of the family is at stake, that they must make concessions to their more unfortunate brothers. She is trying to make them understand that they are brothers. Many of them have forgotten the relationship. When she urges them to stop wrangling and quarreling she is pleading for their common good, the family welfare. She is warning against the danger of justice too long denied, of unrest too long pent up. She is translating the mutterings and mumbblings of the discontented. She knows the complaint in their hearts, she sympathizes, she understands.

This was Europe as I saw her in her black rage arising from the war. (Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

Greatest American Humorist.

On the 30th of November, in 1835, Samuel Langhorne Clemens (Mark Twain) was born at Florida, Monroe county, Mo. Mark Twain first was a pilot on the Mississippi river. At the age of twenty-seven he began his literary career as city editor of a newspaper, the Enterprise, in Virginia City, Nev. He is the best known of American humorists, and his works have been widely translated. During his life-time Mark Twain lectured a great deal in this country and in Europe. He had a great charm of personality and was beloved by all who knew him. He died at Redding, Conn., April 21, 1910.

Shoemakers' Wax a Liquid.

It is not always possible to draw a very clear line of demarcation between a liquid and a solid. Shoemaker's wax, which is so brittle that the fragmentation obtained when a sheet of it is hit by a bullet resembles that in the case of the very brittle metal antimony, is actually a liquid. To show this place leaden bullets upon a sheet of shoemaker's wax and then support the whole upon corks. At the end of a month the corks will be found floating upon the sheet of wax instead of beneath it and the bullets will be at the bottom as in a liquid.

New York has in building a moving picture theater with a seating capacity of 5,800, which may constitute it the largest of its kind anywhere. Judging by the heavy patronage in other such places, the new house may be filled at the chief performances. The public is seeking professional entertainment as never before.

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

Take a Glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothered You.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.—Adv.

MILLIONS Suffer from Acid-Stomach

Millions of people suffer year after year from ailments affecting practically every part of the body. After dreaming that their ill health can be traced directly to the stomach. Here is the reason: poor digestion means poor nourishment. The different organs and tissues of the body. The blood is impoverished—becomes weak, thin, sluggish. All kinds of ailments spring from such conditions. Biliousness, rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, general weakness, loss of power, nervous energy, headache, insomnia, nervousness, mental depression—even more serious ailments such as catarrh and cancer of the stomach, intestinal ulcers, cirrhosis of the liver, heart trouble—all of these can often be traced directly to acid-stomach.

Keep a sharp lookout for the first symptoms of acid-stomach—indigestion, heartburn, belching, food repeating, that awful painful bloating after eating, and sour, gassy stomach. EATONIC, the wonderful modern remedy for acid-stomach, is guaranteed to bring quick relief from these stomach troubles. Thousands say they never dreamed that anything could bring such speedy relief—and make them feel so much better in every way. Try EATONIC and you, too, will be just as enthusiastic in its praise. Make your life worth living—no aches or pains—no blues or melancholy—no more of that tired, listless feeling. Be well and strong. Get back your physical and mental punch; your vim, vigor and vitality. You will always be weak and ailing as long as you eat them like a bit of candy. Your druggist has EATONIC—50 cents for a big box. Get a box from him today and if you are not satisfied he will refund your money.

Simply Worn Out

How Many Women Are Like This?

Can anything be more wearing for women than the ceaseless round of household duties? Oh! the monotony of it all—work and drudge; no time to be sick; tired, ailing, yet cannot stop. There comes a time when something "snaps" and they find themselves "simply worn out," and to make matters worse, have contracted serious feminine disorder which almost always follows the constant overtaxing of a woman's strength.

Then they should remember that there is no remedy like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—the experience of these two women establishes that fact:

Cedar Rapids, Ia.—"After the birth of my last child I had such painful spells that would unfit me entirely for my household. I suffered for months and the doctor said that my trouble was organic ulcers and I would have to have an operation and let it go for over a year, having my sister do my work for me as I was not able to walk. One day my aunt came to see me and told me about your medicine—said it cured her of the same thing. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and how it had helped me years before and I decided to try it again. I took five bottles of Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and since then I have been a well woman, able to take care of my house and family without any trouble or a day's pain. I am ready and thankful to swear by your medicine any time. I am forty-four years old and haven't had a day's illness of any kind for three years."

—Mrs. E. KOSKIS, 617 Ellis Blvd., Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Sandusky, Ohio.—"After the birth of my baby I had organic trouble. My doctor said it was caused by too heavy lifting and I would have to have an operation. I would not consent to an operation and let it go for over a year, having my sister do my work for me as I was not able to walk. One day my aunt came to see me and told me about your medicine—said it cured her of the same thing. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and how it had helped me years before and I decided to try it again. I took five bottles of Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and they have cured me. Now I do my own housework, washing and ironing and sewing for my family and also do sewing for other people. I still take a bottle of Vegetable Compound every spring for a tonic. I recommend your medicine to others who have troubles similar to mine and you can use my letter if you wish."

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1/2 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any drugstore can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—Adv.

"RESULTS MORE THAN CLAIMED"

So testifies Mr. J. F. ARENDT,
Box 44, Remlap, Texas

PE-RU-NA
THE REMEDY FOR EVERYDAY ILLS

"I have used Pe-ru-na for years in cases of colds and catarrh. The results have been good, in fact, more than you claimed. Have also taken Lacupia and can easily say it is one of the best blood purifiers I have ever used."

Mr. J. F. Arendt

For Catarrh and Catarrhal Conditions

The evidence of one man like Mr. Arendt is more convincing proof to you of the merits of Pe-ru-na than any written words of cure. For fifty years Pe-ru-na has been the standby of the American family for diseases due to catarrhal inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the organs of the body. Thousands, like Mr. Arendt, have proved the effectiveness of Pe-ru-na for coughs, colds, nasal catarrh, stomach, bowel and liver disorders or any disease characterized by a catarrhal condition. If your suffering is the result of a catarrhal disorder try Pe-ru-na. It is a true, tried medicine.

A Little Gossip Now and Then.
"Jermulon tells me that his wife is very angry with you because you did not keep your promise not to tell anybody what she told you about her sister-in-law," says Mr. Pilfickle, reprovingly.

"Well, she has no reason to censure me," asserts Mrs. Pilfickle. "I never confided it to anybody except you."
"That's just it, my dear. I happened to mention it to one or two of the fellows downtown, and they spread it around until it came to Jermulon's ears, and he told his wife about it. I don't see why it is you women have to gossip all the time."—Atlanta Constitution.

The Main Point.
Newt Stodder gave his wife an awful beating "other night," said a resident of Straddle Ridge. "She accidentally knocked a bottle of klicker off the mantelpiece and it busted to splinters on the hearth, and he mighty nigh killed her for it."

"That so?" interestedly returned the acquaintance to whom the incident was being related. "What kind of klicker was it?"

BOSCHEE'S SYRUP.

A cold is probably the most common of all disorders and when neglected is apt to be most dangerous. Statistics show that more than three times as many people died from influenza last year, as were killed in the greatest war the world has ever known. For the last fifty-three years Boschee's Syrup has been used for coughs, bronchitis, colds, throat irritation and especially lung troubles. It gives the patient a good night's rest, free from coughing, with easy expectoration in the morning. Made in America and used in the homes of thousands of families all over the civilized world. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

An Easy Mark Drops in.
"There's a woman up in front who wants to buy a 'gen-u-wine' Persian rug," said the clerk.
"Gen-u-wine," did you say?" replied the dealer in Oriental goods.
"That's the way she pronounced it."
"Ahem! Does she appear to have money?"
"Yes, and she doesn't appear to have had it long."
"Ah! In that case get down some of those rugs we got from our factory in New Jersey the other day. I suspect that what we have in our net is a 'gen-u-wine' fish."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Relaxation.
"You're getting the reputation of being the prize grouch of Crimson Gulch!" exclaimed Three Finger Sam.
"I know it," answered the ex-bar-tender. "The boys don't understand. For years they had me nailed where I had to laugh at their jokes or lose their custom. I'm enjoyin' a long, blissful holiday."

A Cheerful Round.
"Do you go to the Green?" a passenger boarding a trolley car in a New England city asked the conductor.
"Yes," said the conductor smilingly.
"I go to the Green twenty-five times a day, and to two cemeteries, three hospitals and an old ladies' home."

If a man is ruled by his feelings he is apt to travel in a zigzag course.

COAX 'EM

Stop Whipping Bowels into Activity, but take "Cascarets"

Put aside the Salts, Pills, Castor Oil, or Purgative Waters that irritate and lash the bowels into action but which do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage organs, and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach.

Keep your "insides" pure and fresh with Cascarets, which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels which are keeping you half sick, headachy, and miserable.

Cascarets tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken or cause inconvenience. Cascarets cost so little too.—Adv.

OPEN NOSTRILS! END COLD OR CATARRH

How to Get Relief When Head and Nose Are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty. Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffing, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache, no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. Relief is sure.—Adv.

Its Need.
"I am writing a book for chiropractors."
"I hope it has plenty of foot notes."

SWAMP-ROOT FOR KIDNEY AILMENTS

There is only one medicine that really stands out pre-eminent as a medicine for curable ailments of the kidneys, liver and bladder.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root stands the highest for the reason that it has proven to be just the remedy needed in thousands upon thousands of distressing cases. Swamp-Root makes friends quickly because its mild and immediate effect is soon realized in most cases. It is a gentle, healing vegetable compound.

Start treatment at once. Sold at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.
However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

What must have been the excitement in Yuma, Ariz., when on January 4 rain fell there for the first time in forty-five years? Grown men and women, young men and women, boys and girls who had never seen rain gazed in alarm or delight or wonder at an amazing sight; they saw the heavens veiled for the first time and water falling from the gray curtain drawn across their sky of brilliant blue! Probably the little ones were soon barefoot and paddling about in puddles; men and boys throwing off their coats more intimately to feel the delights of a cloud sent shower bath. Mrs. Jacob Smith is improved from her recent illness.

Our sympathy has been with the men breaking roads, and especially the horses as it was such hard footing.

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. Nylander, who left town recently, for their home in New Sweden. They were somewhat delayed on their trip. We wish them success in their new home, and trust they will not forget their old neighbors entirely.

We realize that "it costs a lot" to break our roads, but surely we are not to blame for the snow coming.

Our R. F. D. man was a most welcome one, after his enforced lay off.

WANTED—A capable woman to do general housekeeping in family of three. Inquire at Reporter Office. adv

Mrs. Harry Knight has returned from a two weeks' visit with relatives and friends in Boston and Lowell, Mass.

At the Grange meeting last night, the following program was given: Essay, "Woman's Citizenship," Mae Cashion; Reading, Gera Sheldon; "What shall our young people read?" Grace Taylor.

Mrs. Margaret J. Taylor has been appointed Chairman of the Near East Relief in Bennington. The amount asked for is $137.00. Many of our people have read extracts from letters written by Miss Elsie Kimball, one of our Bennington girls, who has charge of an orphanage of 550 children at Akakalaki in Armenia. We will not fail to support one of our own who is giving her time and strength to help the needy children of the Near East.

Antrim Grange Notes

The first and second degrees will be conferred on a class of six candidates at the meeting February 18. The second degree will be worked by the Ladies' degree team.

At the last Grange meeting February 4, the following program was given: Recitation, Charles N. Robertson; Essay, "Woman's Citizenship," by Mrs. J. Lillian Larabee, followed by a discussion of the subject by members of the Grange; Old Fashioned Spelling Match, conducted by Mrs. Della Sidas, won by C. N. Robertson.

Can't Publish This Week— Haven't the Time

We have articles on the road situation in the east part of the town, and on Child Welfare; and letters from Miss Elsie Kimball, a former Bennington girl, who is in charge of an orphanage of 550 children, at Akakalaki, in Armenia; which we are unable to publish this week, but will print next week.
