FROM WASHINGTON The Reporter's Correspondent Writes Encouragingly

DEAD, AGAIN!
The surgeons of the Senate who laid the Peace Treaty to sleep will do well to turn those lines of Othello that read:

Iago—"What, are thou hurt, lieutenant?"
Cassius—"Ay, past all surgery."

Back on November 19, 1919, the surgeons of the Senate pronounced their patient dead. But the pulmonologists were used and there were signs of returning life; however, the "nullifying changes" proved a positive barrier against restoring the treaty to a normal condition. The result has been that after another month and a day of Senate arguments, the stretcher has finally carried the lifeless child of Versailles to its parent at the White House.

What will follow next is rather problematical; but in Washington the ether of space which Sir Oliver Lodge says is the most solid of all substances has been fairly choked with promises of Democrats and Republicans alike, to tell the people of the country why the "other fellows" are to blame. Thus, the people themselves are likely to become as expert as are the Senators upon the complex difficulties involved in the problems of bringing peace out of war.

INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE RE- PORTS

The strike habit which grew into a fad a few months ago, has almost passed with the closing days of the Winter season, and the spirit in industry no longer is revolving itself about pugnacious doctrines that look to the brutal methods of strikes for settling controversies between employers and wage-earners. Early last Fall, President Wilson summoned some of the leading employers and leading union labor officials, including Judge Gray of the Steel Corporation, and Mr. Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, and asked them to submit a plan to insure peace among the people employed in the industrial world. After a few sessions the conference broke up, for the old, old reason that oil and water never mix.

Then came the second Industrial Conference which has worked out and submitted to the President an entirely plausible plan, which Herbert Hoover, vice-Chairman of the Conference, says is founded upon "a policy of get-together for joint settlement of industrial disputes, based upon American experience and designed to meet American conditions." Compulsory arbitration, except in a limited form as applied to public utilities, has been abandoned as un-American and unworkable as proved in the cases of Australia, New Zealand and Canada. Collective bargaining is adopted in the report as a policy.

Everybody is familiar with the old saying that the proof of the pudding is in the eating, and the Industrial Conference has had the rare intelligence that many other public commissions have lacked, to find out what the plans are that have been tried in individual instances which have proved successful.

The report lays particular importance upon the necessity of settling disputes at their source, and in all negotiations there is a full recognition of "employee representation."

REHABILITATING THE RAIL- ROADS

Now that the railroads must be run as "going concerns" and find a way to finance their own operations before September 1, the public interest naturally is concerned in the question as to how much it will be obliged to pay in increased passenger and freight charges to meet the new conditions.

Under the new railroad legislation the Interstate Commerce Commission is directed to make railroad rates that will yield a minimum of 5 1/2 percent on the aggregate value of the railroads. The great advance in the cost of operation, chiefly for wages, during the 26 months of Government control, has reduced the railroad net income to about 2 1/2 percent, or half the minimum under the new law.

Railroad traffic experts estimate that, to provide revenues sufficient to take care of the billion-dollar wage advances already granted, an increase in freight rates of approximately 5 percent will be required.

MOLLY AIKEN CHAPTER Take as Subject Historic Places of Interest in Massachusetts

Molly Aiken Chapter, D. A. R., held its regular meeting April 2, at the home of Mrs. Leo Lowell. Mrs. Hawkins assisting as hostess. The program was as follows: Roll Call; Historic Places in Massachusetts; Song, Landing of the Pilgrims, Mrs. Peaslee and Mrs. Wheeler; Paper, Massachusetts, written by Mrs. Nichols and read by Mrs. Carter; Reading, Famous Rooftrees of Massachusetts, Mrs. Peaslee.

A very interesting letter from Mrs. Grace Burnham Anderson was read by the regent, Mrs. Boyd.

The Chapter voted to give five dollars to the Berry School for Mountain children, Mt. Berry, Ga.

Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Announce Engagement

Maro S. Brooks, Deputy Commissioner of Education, and Mrs. Brooks, of Concord, announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Wilder, to Bancroft Beatley, of Hanover.

Miss Brooks is a Junior at Smith College, where she is a member of the French Club and Glee Club. She is also active in dramatics and crew.

Mr. Beatley is the son of Mrs. Clara Bancroft Beatley and of the late James A. Beatley, of Boston. He was graduated from Harvard in the Class of 1915, and received his Master's degree in Education in 1916. During the war he served as a First Lieutenant of Coast Artillery. Mr. Beatley is headmaster of the Hanover High School and instructor in the Department of Education in Dartmouth College.

Town Memorial Committee

The Memorial Committee appointed by the Selectmen, met Saturday evening, at which time they organized as follows: Henry A. Hurlin, Chairman, Chas. W. Prentiss, Secretary.

It is the intention of this committee to meet every other Wednesday evening at 7.30 in the Selectmen's room, commencing April 14, at which time they will gladly listen to any ideas or suggestions which the public may choose to make relative to the matter in charge. It is hoped that many will avail themselves of this opportunity for cooperative action.

Sweep Your Walk

From an Exchange

Get out your strong and trusty broom And sweep the sand away Don't say you'll wait a little while But do it now—today.

'Twill make your sidewalks better look And make the walking good And you won't take sand in the house As otherwise you would.

All winter you have shovelled snow So now you shouldn't balk Just get your strong and trusty broom And sweep off your sidewalk.

PRODUCTION COST AND LIVING COSTS

In the last eight months of Government railroad operation new wage demands kept on accumulating. While the leaders of some of the more conservative unions, notably Warren S. Stone of the locomotive engineers, L. E. Sheppard of the conductors and W. G. Lee of the trainmen, believed that further large wage increases would only increase production costs and living costs, and urged a waiting policy, the radical labor leaders, especially in the shop crafts, were insistent on further wage advances. The result was that the conservatives, for self-protection, had to follow along with the radicals, and make proportionate demands.

That the billion dollar wage demands will eventually come before the new Labor Board, on which the public is represented, is considered a certainty. It is not believed here that a conference committee made up only of employers and employees would have the courage to agree to increase the railroad payroll by any large amount, on the supposition that the Interstate Commerce Commission would under the law be at once obliged to pass the cost on to the public through increase in rates.

A FEW THOUGHTS Suggested by What is Taking Place Around

People go to shows to be entertained but they don't expect the entertainment to come from the seats just behind them.

Traffic officers are inquiring whether the small chap who hustles around the streets on roller skates of eight wheels is as much a driver of a vehicle as a bicycle rider on two wheels or an automobilist on four.

Following out the proverb that one extreme follows another, it may be that next winter will be a mild one—but it is safe to lay in a good supply of coal at any time you can get it, if the price keeps down where you can reach it.

Now it is said the President thinks himself strong enough to kick the Turk out of Constantinople. This would be a bout between the "Sick Man of Europe" and the sick man of the White House, would it not?
—Camden (N. J.) Post-Telegram.

It seems good, as well as being very unusual at this season of the year, to learn of anything being reduced in price. But here is something we saw in the Boston Globe of Saturday last:

The Leominster Ice Company today announced that the price of ice at retail on credit will be reduced from 70 to 60 cents per 100 pounds and from 60 to 55 cents by the paid-in-advance coupon system. The reduced prices are effective immediately.

But listen! This is what will be done in Nashua:

It was announced today that the price of ice this summer would be advanced from 45 to 50 cents per hundred.

In New Hampshire where the ice crop is or ought to be plentiful and much cheaper to harvest than in the old Bay State, an advance in price is demanded; yet we are getting it cheaper at that!

Come to New Hampshire!

HEADACHE
Often Caused by Acid-Stomach

Yes, indeed, more often than you think.
Because ACID-STOMACH, acting with indigestion, heartburn, belching, food-repetition, flatulence, gas, if not checked, will eventually affect every vital organ of the body.
Severe, blinding, splitting headaches are, therefore, of frequent occurrence as a result of this upset condition.

Take EATONIC. It quickly banishes acid-stomach with its sour blast, pain and gas.
It aids digestion—helps the stomach get full strength from every mouthful of food you eat. Millions of people are miserable, weak, sick and ailing because of ACID-STOMACH. Poisons, created by partly digested food charged with acid, are absorbed into the blood and distributed throughout the entire system. This often causes rheumatism, dizziness, cirrhosis of the liver, heart trouble, blood and even cancer of the stomach. It robs its victims of their health, undermines the strength of the most vigorous.

If you want to get back your physical and mental strength—be full of vim and vigor—enjoy life to the hilt—enjoy your set rid of your acid-stomach.

THE NEWCOMES

By WILLIAM M. THACKERAY

Condensation by Charles K. Bolton,
Librarian of the Boston Athenaeum

William Makepeace Thackeray, son of a civil servant in India, was born July 18, 1811, in Calcutta. He died Dec. 24, 1862, in London, where most of his life was spent. From 1840 on his wife was insane, so there lived in his heart, as in that of the other great humorist of his time, Dickens, constant sorrow.

Thackeray began in school days rather to absorb life than to attain it in scholarship. He delighted even then to reproduce it in comic verse and caricature. At Cambridge, in Welton, in Paris art schools and London law school, he went gaily on his way, indolent in study but eager in friendship, ardent in life.

At twenty-one he owned and managed a London newspaper, at twenty-two he was penniless, after scattering a comfortable fortune. But he had bought experience invaluable to the young journalist, priceless to the novelist.

Thackeray's astonishing versatility was early realized. He wrote to illustrate Dickens' novels; he wrote travel sketches, stories, ballads and burlesques.

"Barry Lyndon," his first notable novel, was the history of a rascal; but, in the most fascinating of feminine rascals, Becky Sharp, Thackeray first brilliantly showed himself master of the creation of living character ("Vanity Fair," 1848-49), "Pendennis" (1849-50), was, like Dickens' "David Copperfield," in essence autobiographical. The need of money drove Thackeray reluctantly to the lecture field. His course on Eighteenth Century Humors, popular in England and America (1851), prepared the ground for "Emmond" (1852), his unsurpassed historical novel, "The Newcomes" (1854), "The Virginians" (1859), and the unfinished "Dennis Duval" complete the list of his best novels.

COL. THOMAS NEWCOME, the hero of Argom, and of Bhart-pour, had loved the beautiful Leonore de Blois, but having incurred the wrath of his stepmother, he fled to India to carve out his career. There he had married the widow, Mrs. Casey, and a few years later sent their son Clive to England. He regaled the ladies of the regiment with Clive's letters; sporting young men would give or take odds that the colonel would mention Clive's name once before five minutes, or three times in ten minutes. But those who laughed at Clive's father laughed very kindly.

At last the happy time came for which the colonel had been longing, and he took leave of his regiment. In England he had in his family circle two half brothers, Sir Brian, who had married Lady Ann, daughter of the Earl of Kew, and Hobson Newcome.

One morning at breakfast while Sir Brian champed his dry toast, Barnes, the son, said to his sister Ethel: "My uncle, the colonel of sepoy, and his amiable son have been paying a visit to Newcome."

"You are always sneering about our uncle," broke in Ethel, "and saying unkind things about Clive. Our uncle is a dear, good, kind man, and I love him."

At Hobson Newcome's and elsewhere the family party often assembled, the colonel, his friend Mr. Binnie and Binnie's sister, Mrs. Mackenzie with her daughter Rosey, Sir Brian and Lady Ann, and Clive who had become a painter. From one of these parties Clive and I, his friend Arthur Pendennis, walked with the usual Havana to light us home. "I can't help thinking," said the astute Clive, "that they fancied I was in love with Ethel. Now, I suppose, they think I am engaged to Rosey. She is as good a little creature as can be, and never out of temper, though I fancy Mrs. Mackenzie tries her."

Time passed and our Mr. Clive went to Baden, where he found old Lady Kew with her granddaughter Ethel. "You have no taste for pictures, only for painters, I suppose," said Lady Kew one day to Ethel.

"I was not looking at the picture," said Ethel, "but at the little green ticket in the corner. I think, grand-mamma," she said, "we young ladies in the world ought to have little green tickets pinned on our backs, with 'sold' written on them."

Barnes Newcome, too, was at Baden, for he was to marry pretty little Lady Clara Pulleyn, free at last from that undesirable Jack Belsize, Lord Highgate's son. Lady Kew had plans which Clive's growing regard for his cousin Ethel put in jeopardy.

"My good young man, I think it is time you were off," Lady Kew said to Clive with great good humor. "I have been to see that poor little creature to whom Captain Belsize behaved so cruelly. She does not care a fig for him—not one fig. She is engaged, as you know, to my grandson Barnes; in all respects a most eligible union; and Ethel's engagement to my grand-son, Lord Kew, has long been settled. When we saw you in London we heard that you too were engaged to a young lady in your own rank of life—Miss Mackenzie."

Clive's departure led to more flirtations by Ethel than old Lady Kew could countenance, but Ethel had found out how undesirable a man Lord Kew was and broke the engagement so dear to her grandmother's heart.

When Clive heard that the engage-ment was over between Kew and Ethel he set out in haste for London. I was installed as confidant, and to me Clive said: "Mrs. Mackenzie bothers me so I hardly know where to turn, and poor little Rosey is made to write me a note about something twice a day. Oh Pen! I'm up another tree now!"

Clive met his cousin Ethel at a party or two in the ensuing weeks of the season, and at one of their meetings Ethel told him that her grandmother would not receive him. It was then that Clive thought Ethel worldly, al-though much of her attitude was due to the keen and unrelenting Lady Kew. The colonel and James Binnie during all this time put their two fond heads together, and Mrs. Mackenzie flattered both of them and Clive as well.

Meanwhile the Lady Clara was not happy with her Barnes. All the life and spirit had been crushed out of the girl, consigned to cruel usage, loneli-ness and to bitter recollections of the past. Jack Belsize, now Lord High-gate, could stand the strain no longer and took Lady Clara away from her bullying but cowardly husband. The elopement of Clara opened Ethel's eyes to the misery of loveless marriages, and the mamma of her new love, the Marquis of Farintosh, already dis-tressed over the unpleasant notoriety of the proposed Newcome alliance, re-ceived a letter from Ethel which set her son free.

Ethel then turned to the lonely, motherless children of her brother Barnes, and found comfort in devoting herself to them. Clive married his Rosey, and his father determined to become a member of parliament in place of Sir Barnes. One night the colonel returning from his electioneer-ing, met Clive, candle in hand. As each saw the other's face, it was so very sad and worn and pale, that Colonel Newcome with quite the tenderness of old days, cried "God bless me, my boy, how ill you look! Come and warm yourself, Clivy!"

"I have seen a ghost, father," Clive said, "the ghost of my youth, father, the ghost of my happiness, and the best days of my life. I saw Ethel to-day?"

"Nay, my boy, you mustn't talk to me so. You have the dearest little wife at home, a dear little wife and child."

"You had a wife; but that doesn't prevent other—other thoughts. Do you know you never spoke twice in your life about my mother? You didn't care for her?"

"I—I did my duty by her," inter-posed the colonel.

"I know, but your heart was with the other. So is mine. It's fatal, it runs in the family, father."

The shares of the Bundelcund Bank-ing company, in which the colonel had made his fortune, now declined steady-ly, and at last the crash came, wiping out all the colonel's money and with it all Rosey's fortune. The impover-ish-ed Newcomes settled down first at Boulogne, and then in London, the colonel weary, feeble, white haired, Mrs. Mackenzie a perfect termanant, Rosey pale and ailing, and little Tom-mey, the baby, a comfort and a care to the hard-worked Clive.

The colonel, no longer able to live under the same roof with Mrs. Mackenzie, found a home with the Grey Friars and here I saw him.

When the colonel's misfortunes were at their worst, Ethel, in reading an old book, found a letter from the colonel's stepfather between the covers. It was a memorandum of a proposed bequest to Clive. Ethel at once determined to carry out this intended bequest, and so she and I hastened to Clive's home; but not even good news could soften Mrs. Mackenzie's evil temper. That was a sad and wretched night, in which Mrs. Mackenzie stormed until the poor delicate Rosey fell into the fever to which she owed her death. We soon repaired to the Grey Friars where we found that the colonel was in his last illness. He talked loudly, he gave the word of command, spoke Hindustanee as if to his men. Then he spoke words in French rapidly, seizing a hand that was near him, and crying, "tousjours, toujours!" Ethel and Clive and the nurse were in the room with him. The old man talked on rapidly for awhile; then again he would sigh and be still; once more I heard him say, hurriedly, "Take care of him when I'm in India;" and then with a heart-rending voice he called for the love of his youth "Leonore, Leonore!" The patient's voice sank into faint murmurs; only a moan now and then announced that he was not asleep.

At the usual evening hour the chapel bell began to toll, and Thomas Newcome's hands outside the bed feebly beat a time. And just as the last bell struck a peculiar sweet smile shone over his face, and he lifted up his head a little, and quickly said, "Ad-summ," and fell back. It was the word we used at school, when names were called; and lo, he whose heart was as that of a little child, had answered to his name, and stood in the presence of the Master.

FARM POULTRY

ROOST WILL DESTROY MITES
Plan Outlined for Completely Clean-ing Poultry House of All Thirsty Blood-Suckers.

One successful way to rid poultry houses of mites is to use a roosting pole that will harbor them during the day, so that it can be soaked with hot water to destroy them. The roost shown provides a place on the under-side where they may hide. It consists of a lath held under the roost with small nails to make the hiding place inviting for them. You simply lift the roost from the holders, slightly loosen the pieces of lath, and pour boiling water between the lath and the roosts. This will kill all vermin and destroy any eggs that may be there. The roosts will quickly dry if the water is hot.

In this way a poultry house can be completely cleared of all blood-suckers.

A Hiding Place is Provided for Ver-min in This Poultry Roost to Catch Them During the Day.

The iron ends are colder than the wood, and the vermin will not crawl over them.

Mites do not attack fowl in the day-time, and it is difficult to discover their presence. Body lice remain on the fowl all the time, and they may be exterminated in the following way: Hang the fowl head downward in a barrel and rub a small amount of flouride of soda well into the feathers for half the length of the fowl. This is a harm-less powder and it can be used on chicks as well.—George W. Smith, in Popular Science Monthly.

PREMIUM FOR GRADED EGGS
Fact is Due to Strict Grading Prac-ticed by Shippers of Far West, Say Specialists.

Eggs from the Pacific coast in large amounts were first shipped across the continent to the New York city market two years ago. Now they are bringing a premium of from 1 to 2 cents, ac-cording to market quotations.

That this is due to the strict grading practiced by the shippers of the far West is the belief of men in the bu-reau of markets, United States depart-ment of agriculture. The reputation for careful grading which the Western-ers have attained in other products shipped East has spread to include eggs.

PTOMAINE POISONING CAUSES
Decaying Flesh When Eaten by Hens Is Harmful—Dispose of Carcasses of Dead Fowls.

Carcasses of dead fowls if not prop-erly disposed of will decay rapidly in hot weather. The by-products of pu-trifying bacteria, accumulating rapid-ly, attack the digestive systems of any chicks which are rash enough to eat their unfortunate brothers. When enough of the decaying flesh is eaten by the birds, ptomaine poisoning re-sults.

FEED SUPPLY FOR CHICKENS
Grow Oats, Vetch and Rape for Sum-mer Use—Cabbage and Mangel Beets Good for Winter.

Green feed is excellent for poultry and can be substituted for a consid-erable amount of the grain ration. Grow oats, vetch and rape for sum-mer use; cabbage and mangel beets for winter. Store cabbage and beets in a dry room or bury in a pit and cover with straw and earth.

POULTRY NOTES

- Feed a dry mash.
- Keep house and yard clean.
- Provide roosts and dropping boards.
- Provide a nest for each four or five hens.
- Make the house dry and free from drafts, but allow for ventilation.
- Keep hens free from lice and the house free from mites.
- Kill and eat the hens in the summer and fall as they begin to molt and cease to lay.
- A clean cellar, two-thirds below ground surface, makes a good place to set the incubator.

HARDLY PAID FOR EXERTION FOUND HIS OCCUPATION GONE

Small Sum Collected From Burglar Didn't Recompense John for His Disturbed Repose.

The clock struck the hour of three. The wife rose on one elbow and lis-tened. Then she nudged her side part-ner.

"John," she whispered, "there's a burglar downstairs."

"The deuce there is," exclaimed John, jumping out of bed. "I'll show him."

He crept downstairs. There was the sound of a crash, a revolver shot and the sullen thud of men engaged in mortal combat. Then a window smashed and all was still. The terri-fied wife turned on the light and hur-ried into the hall.

"John!" she called timorously.

"All right, my dear," called John. "I found him. All he had was sixty cents."

Father's Amendment.
"And what do you propose to do now, William?" asked the father of the son who has just come home after graduation at college.

"Oh," yawned the optimistic young man, "I think I'll go over to New York and look for a position at five thou-sand per—you understand? At five thousand per."

"Oh, yes," said the old man. "I un-derstand. You mean at five thousand perhaps."—Pathfinder.

SICK WOMEN HEAR ME

You Can Be Free from Pain as I Am, if You Do as I Did.

Harrington, Me.—"I suffered with backache, pain through my hips and such a bearing down feeling that I could not stand on my feet. I also had other distressing symptoms. At times I had to give up work. I tried a number of remedies but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did me more good than anything else. I am regular, do not suffer the pains I used to, keep house and do all my work. I recommend your medicine to all who suffer as I did and you may use my letter as you like."

There are many women who suffer as Mrs. Mitchell did and who are being benefited by this great medicine every day. It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains no narcotics or harmful drugs. It is made from extracts of roots and herbs and is a safe remedy for women. If you need special advice write Lydia E. Pinkham, Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE NEWS

Early and very incomplete returns from the Marne Memorial week campaign for the fund for America's Gift to France indicate a large over-subscription in this state.

The No. 1 schoolhouse, which was situated on the road leading from Deerfield to Raymond, was destroyed by fire with all its furniture and books. The loss is estimated at $1500.

The storehouse of the Somersworth Foundry Company, Salmon Falls, was destroyed by fire of unknown origin, causing a loss estimated at $75,000. Close to 1,000 ranges were included in the contents of the building.

The Public Service commission announces that the Nashua street railway is placing in effect upon its lines a cash fare of 10 cents a passenger for each fare zone. The use of the seven-cent metal token per zone is being continued.

The high water has washed away the bridge over the Salmon Falls river on the cross roads between Salmon Falls road and Berwick, Me. The I. Dana Hodgdon bridge, which spans a portion of the intervalle in Rochester, has suffered the same fate. A portion of the dam at Locke's Mills was also washed away.

The sign board which was erected in front of the state house during the early part of the war at the request of the Food administration is to be removed having been sold to the Batchelder Posters Advertising company. The proceeds of the sale amounted to $25 and will be donated to the Concord Charity Organization society.

Surfman patrolling Hampton beach in front of the Seaview Hotel discovered the headless body of a woman in the water. Both hands and feet were also missing and the body so badly decomposed that it was impossible to determine whether it was that of a young or elderly person. The body had apparently been in the water for a long time. It was unclothed.

Approve Large Issue of Notes. Announcement is made that the Public Service commission has approved the $7,000,000 issue of notes for the purpose of meeting the purchase of equipment allocated to the Boston & Maine railroad by the United States railroad administration. The equipment consists of 500 box cars, 1,500 gondola cars and 20 heavy locomotives.

Is Killed By Being Hit By Engine Frederick N. Thurber, 60, of Swansea, while walking the railroad track from West Swansea to his home, was struck in the back by a local freight. Thurber, who was stone deaf was put in a box car but died on the way to Keene, where he was being taken to the hospital. It was Mr. Thurber's custom to walk the track to and from his work. A widow and four children survive.

Child Makes Long Hike Eight year old William Brooks of Kittery established something of a hiking record when he wandered away from home and walked to Hampton and returned to Portsmouth again being found by Police Officer Robert Anderson on the steps of the Whipple school at 2 A. M. and turned over to his parents, who, with many neighbors, had made a thorough search for him around home.

Youth Gets Reward for Returning Money Ernest Carpenter, an employee at the Concord depot newsstand, is a proud possessor of a brand new ten dollar bill which he received as a reward for returning a lost wallet containing $97. to its owner. Young Carpenter noticed the pocketbook lying on the outside of the paper counter. He picked it up and after examining its contents reported his find to Manager Frank T. Powell. A letter in the purse addressed to the Railroad Y. M. C. A. resulted in locating the owner, J. H. Evans, a railroad fireman who was stopping there. Mr. Evans presented the lad with the reward and praised him for his honesty.

STATE FARMERS BUY CREAMERIES

Big Enterprise Undertaken Whereby Producers Acquire Big Chain

Recent action by farmers who are patrons of the Plymouth creamery company to purchase its $250,000 series of plants and operate them on a co-operative basis is one of the biggest enterprises undertaken by the milk producers of northern New Hampshire, and is expected to be followed, if successful, by other alliances on a similar plan.

W. J. Davies of Boston, owner of the Plymouth creamery company, will sell his entire business to the farmers for its physical value, asking nothing for the good will. The trade is largely wholesale, which is very satisfactory to the purchasers. An appointed committee made a thorough canvass of the districts covered by the Plymouth line of creameries, and ascertained the sentiment of the farmers in regard to assuming the ownership of the company of which they were patrons. When this sentiment was found favorable, a well worked out plan of financing the deal was proposed and adopted to make the men who have been selling milk to the creameries own the entire line in five years.

An initial bank loan added to by subscriptions from the various prospective owners will make up the $300,000 for the original payment to Davies, and for money to carry on the business for the first few years. The company pays annually to the farmers for milk over $1,250,000. A yearly deduction of one fifth of the sum of the $300,000 loan is to be made from the $1,250,000 by a rebate from each farmer of approximately five per cent of the money paid to him. The cash returned in this way to the company will be credited to each farmer by "certificates of indebtedness" issued yearly and bearing six per cent interest. Thus in five years, the total of the rebates to the company will be sufficient to pay the original loans of $300,000, $125,000 to the banks and $175,000 to the farmers.

New Hampshire's 16 To Stay At LaSalle

Republican National Committeeman Fred W. Estabrook has completed arrangements for housing the New Hampshire delegation to the convention in Chicago next June having made reservations at the LaSalle hotel for the eight delegates and same number of alternates who will make up the official party. It is expected that about 10 persons will accompany the delegation and provision will be made to accommodate the visitors at the same hotel where the delegation is quartered.

State Hospital Buys White Farm

Announcement is made of the purchase of the White farm on Clinton street, Concord, by the New Hampshire State hospital, the transaction involving some $10,000. The farm is one of the old land marks in Concord and consists of 100 acres of land which will be used for farming purposes by the state hospital.

Allow Electric Cos. to Raise their Rates

Some time ago electric light and power companies in the Concord district filed application to the public service commission asking permission to increase their rates. After consideration the commission has decided to allow the rates to be increased and the companies have agreed to make improvements along different lines. The companies granted the privilege are as follows: Sunapee Electric Light and Power company, Antrim-Burnington Electric Light and Power company, Cotoocook Electric Light company and the Newport Electric Light company.

Fined For Allowing Dogs To Chase Deer

James A. Colby of Manchester, was fined $20 and costs of $4.70 by Judge Perkins in police court for allowing two hunting dogs which he owns to run game in the woods on their own hook. One of the animals is a southern hound bitch, the other a mongrel, and the two make an efficient deer killing team, according to Game Warden Ralph E. Hall of Manchester and Peter Smith of Concord. It is estimated by the officers that the pair of dogs have slain at least half a dozen deer this winter. One fresh carcass was found only recently and is in the possession of the wardens now. Mr. Colby runs a piggery near Goff's Falls, and it is alleged that his pork has occupied his attention to the exclusion of his dogs, with the result that a considerable amount of venison has been spoiled. The light fine was imposed after the defendant's agreement had been given to plead guilty and be more careful of the dogs in the future.

New Officials For Golden Rule Farms

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Demin, superintendent and matron at the Golden Rule Farm homes are to succeed Superintendent and Mrs. Hutchinson, who will leave the institution on May 1. The new officials have been engaged in institutional work in Massachusetts for the past few years and they come here highly recommended. The trustees of the farms are planning to extensively expand the institution and increase its usefulness to the state. The farms furnish a home for the mildly delinquent boys.

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be dependent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Adv.

CO-OPERATION!

Thirty Protestant Denominations are to make a joint appeal to the American people, April 25 to May 2.

They are to ask for $336,777,572.

It is expected that $175,000,000 will be paid in cash this year.

This money is not to be used for the running expenses of the individual churches, but for the greater things to which the Church has set her hand.

FOR INSTANCE—$80,000,000 is to be spent in this country for Educational purposes alone. Protestantism has some splendid Academies and Colleges. Why not make them adequate to the demands of the time?

AGAIN—$107,000,000 is to be used for work in other lands. A lot of money! Sure! And yet, only a drop in the bucket compared with the needs of the great world outside. This also is important to keep in mind. We must Christianize the other folks or they will swamp our civilization and heathenize us.

What answer will Antrim make to the Appeal?

We responded splendidly to the many Patriotic demands that were made upon us. Here is a call that is both Patriotic and Religious.

A WORLD REBUILT

By the Golden Rule
not by the rule of Gold

THIRTY denominations of the Church are uniting in a simultaneous campaign in the week of April 25th-May 2nd.

They are uniting because the task before the Church is too great for any one denomination; because there must be no duplication of effort; no waste.

These churches know that the world needs many things; but it needs Faith most of all.

They know that there can be no final solution of our economic problems that is not a spiritual solution, based on the teachings of Jesus Christ and His Golden Rule.

They have had the courage to survey the whole task, and to ask for a budget large enough to sustain (1) the work abroad, (2) the work at home including the church's part in the huge task of Americanization, (3) the colleges and (4) hospitals supported by the Churches, (5) the religious training of the young, and to provide (6) a living wage for the Church's ministers.

The budget is large in the aggregate; yet if each person who loves America would increase his contribution by only a few dollars the whole amount would be easily subscribed.

We face the task of rebuilding the world. Let the cornerstone be a strong and vital church in every American community; and the measuring rod by which the builders build must be the Golden Rule.

Resolutions of Respect

Adopted by Waverly Lodge, No. 59, I. O. O. F., on death of Brother Morris E. Nay

Whereas, the allwise and supreme ruler of the universe has deemed it best to remove from our number one of our most valued and helpful members; and

Whereas, the loss that we as a Lodge are called upon to bear is heavy, and one who had made a place for himself in our activities has been suddenly called away, therefore

Resolved, that in submitting to the inevitable we acknowledge our belief that what He does is for the best, and that we will try to learn the lesson that it teaches.

Resolved, that we all endeavor to live the principles of Odd Fellowship, as we believe our departed brother tried to do.

Resolved, that these resolutions be placed upon the records of our Lodge, that a copy be sent to the bereaved family, and that they be published in the Antrim Reporter.

At the Baptist Church next Sunday morning, Rev. Wm. J. B. Cannell will take as his topic: Facing the Giants.

On Easter Sunday the Baptist Church was very nicely decorated with cut flowers and potted plants. A choir of ladies rendered special music. There was a good audience, despite the stormy weather.

At the Easter concert in the evening, the children did well with their exercises. A feature of the program was several selections on Mrs. E. C. Goodell's Edison Grafonola. The "Hallelujah Chorus" was especially fine.

Easter at the Methodist church was observed at the morning service by the pastor administering the communion, after a brief talk appropriate to the occasion.

In place of the regular Sunday school session the children gave an Easter concert which was quite largely attended and nicely given.

SOCIALISTS PUT OUT BY BIG VOTE

Ousted Assemblymen Say They Will Run for Election Again.

BILLS TO OUTLAW PARTY.

Bar Socialist Ballots Until They Stand For Americanism—Vote to Expel Three Assemblymen Was 116 to 28—Other Two 104 to 40.

Albany, N. Y.—The state assembly cast out from its membership the five Socialist assemblymen from New York, who stand convicted of disloyalty as members of a traitorous party. The votes on ousting were: Louis Waldman, 115 to 28; August Claessens and Charles Solomon, 116 to 28, and Samuel Orr and Samuel De Witt, 104 to 40. Speaker Sweet and his associates then took up the question of how to keep the radicals out of the legislature. Hardly had the vote been officially recorded when work was begun on the preparation of bills that will carry out the recommendations of the Judiciary Committee to outlaw the Socialist party. These measures will declare that the Socialist party's constitution is in conflict with the Constitution of the state and that the party must come within the law or suffer denial of position in this state.

One measure will declare, it is understood, that any party whose membership includes aliens, minors and dues paying members cannot function under the Constitution of New York.

Another will prescribe that loyalty to the state transcends loyalty to a party functioning under state charter and that the oath of office cannot be made subservient to the pledge given to dues paying members of a party; also it will forbid industrial action, recognized by Socialism as one of its powerful weapons.

Further, it is expected that New York will take the lead in demanding a new loyalty pledge from Socialists in this country, as an aftermath of the war, by insisting that the party renounce all allegiance to the Internationale of Moscow, the recognized fountain head of Bolshevism.

It will require that the party openly announce that it has abandoned its insidious propaganda against the government and definitely commit itself to the principle of accomplishing any reforms it seeks solely through political action.

At the conclusion of 22 hours of sensational proceedings the ballots on sentencing the five Socialists were cast at 10 o'clock in the morning while the weary assemblymen lolled deep in their chairs. The big vote stunned the Socialists, who had hoped almost to the last minute that they might be heard in their own defense. Nothing dramatic or imposing marked the significant moment in political history.

The Socialists were expelled individually because in the belief of the house they were unfit "to have and to hold their seats." The majority report recommending expulsion asked also that the Socialist party be outlawed in this state. There was nothing in the vote dealing with the treatment of the party as an entity, although Orr and De Witt were unseated solely because of their loyalty to Socialism.

Only Waldman of the accused five was present when the vote was cast. The others had remained until long after daylight, but interest in their own fate gave way finally to exhaustion.

Party lines went to pieces, as was expected. Eleven Republicans and seventeen Democrats voted against the ousting of Waldman, Claessens and Solomon. Twenty Republicans and as many Democrats voted against ousting Orr and De Witt. Miss Margaret L. Smith of New York voted to expel the five "as a matter of conscientious duty," and Miss Elizabeth Van R. Gillette of Schenectady favored their retention.

Twenty-seven ex-service men voted to expel all five; seven to reseat and four to oust three and reseat two.

HIGH PRICE SPREE ENDING.

Reckless Buying Almost Over, Federal Reserve Officials Think.

Washington.—Nation wide reports from Federal Reserve Bank officials disclose their opinion that the post-war era of "extravagance and reckless buying" is nearing an end. WILSON TO RETURN TREATY TO SENATE President Will Veto Peace Resolution if Passed by Congress. Battle Expected in Senate.

Washington.—Another tug of war over the Versailles peace treaty and the League of Nations covenant awaits the United States senate after the pending peace resolution is acted upon by Congress.

President Wilson will veto the resolution, if passed, it was learned on what should be adequate authority. More than that, he will probably return the peace treaty then, or within a very few days after the veto, to the senate. The positive statement was made that he would not send it back in advance of the action of Congress on the peace resolution.

His veto message will, it is believed, contain the first comment by the President on the treaty since it was sent to the White House from the senate. This would afford him an opportunity to emphasize to the country the futility of the present efforts of Republican Congressmen to set a precedent by declaring peace, and point out the unsettled world and domestic conditions due to the senate's failure to ratify the treaty.

The President's decision to veto the peace resolution is regarded as a "call" to what has been styled a Republican bluff, or effort to throw upon him the responsibility for continuing a state of war.

Acceptance of the resolution would be a positive menace to the country, in the opinion of the President and his friends. The Democrats think it would involve this country with the Allies, besides serving no good end in the matter of securing suitable guarantees from Germany. They point out that she might refuse to pay for the upkeep of American troops on the Rhine after the adoption of the resolution and that this country would have no way of collecting the money.

The political nature of the peace resolution was further emphasized when plans were made to permit of no amendments being offered on the floor of the house. A special rule to make the resolution in order and to limit debate to seven hours has been prepared and will be considered by the Rules Committee.

WORLD NEWS IN CONDENSED FORM

RESOLUTION TO END STATE OF WAR

Avoids Declaring Peace With Germany So as to Meet Constitutional Objections.

PUT BEFORE THE HOUSE.

Authorizes President to Declare an Economic Boycott Unless Germany Accepts Within 45 Days—Must Waive All Treaty Rights.

Washington.—Republican members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee agreed on the proposed resolution to declare the war with Germany at an end, and it was introduced in the house by Chairman Porter.

The resolution does not declare a state of peace, but that the state of war with Germany is at an end.

Text of the Resolution.

Following is the text of the resolution:

"Whereas, the President of the United States in the performance of his constitutional duty to give to Congress information of the state of the Union has advised Congress that the war with the imperial German government has ended;

"Resolved, by the senate and the House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the state of war declared to exist between the imperial German government and the people of the United States by a joint resolution of Congress, approved April 6, 1917, is hereby declared at an end.

"Section 2.—That in the interpretation of any provision relating to the date of the termination of the present war, or of the present or existing emergency in any acts of Congress, joint resolutions or proclamations of the President containing provisions contingent upon the date of the termination of the war, or of the present or existing emergency, the date when this resolution becomes effective shall be construed and treated as the date of the termination of the war, or of the present or existing emergency, notwithstanding any provision in any act of Congress or joint resolution providing any other mode of determination of the date of the termination of the war, or of the present or existing emergency.

"Section 3.—That, with a view to securing reciprocal trade with the German government and its nationals, and for this purpose, it is hereby provided that unless within 45 days from the date when this resolution becomes effective the German government shall duly notify the President of the United States that it has declared a termination of the war with the United States and that it waives and renounces on behalf of itself and its nationals any claim, demand, right or benefit against the United States, or its nationals, that it or they would not have the right to assert had the United States ratified the treaty of Versailles, the President of the United States shall have the power, and it shall be his duty, to proclaim the fact that the German government has not given the notification hereinbefore mentioned and thereupon and until the President shall have proclaimed the receipt of such notification, commercial intercourse between the United States and Germany and the making of loans or credits, and the furnishing of financial assistance or supplies to the German government or the inhabitants of Germany, directly or indirectly, by the government or the inhabitants of the United States, shall, except with the license of the President, be prohibited.

"Section 4.—That whoever shall willfully violate the foregoing prohibition, whenever the same shall be in force, shall upon conviction be fined not more than $10,000, or if a natural person, imprisoned for not more than two years, or both; and the officer, director or agent of any corporation who knowingly participates in such violation shall be punished by a like fine, imprisonment, or both, and any property, funds, securities, papers or other articles or documents, or any vessel, together with her tackle, apparel, furniture and equipment, concerned in such violation, shall be forfeited to the United States.

"Section 5.—That nothing herein contained shall be construed as a waiver by the United States of its rights, privileges, indemnities, reparations or advantages to which the United States has become entitled under the terms of the armistice signed November 11, 1918, or which were acquired by or are in the possession of the United States by reason of its participation in the war or otherwise; and all fines, forfeitures, penalties and seizures imposed or made by the United States are hereby ratified, confirmed and maintained."

NO DRYS NEED APPLY.

Baltimore Brokers Will Not Do Business With Prohibitionists.

Baltimore.—Marshall Winchester & Co., prominent bankers of this city, came out in an advertisement in which they solicit orders for stocks and bonds, "except from prohibitionists." Winchester was asked if he would explain or qualify his statement. He has been active in the fight against prohibition, but it is the first time he has taken the stand that he will not solicit the business of prohibitionists.

GROVER C. BERGDOLL.

Millionaire Draft Dodger Serving Five Year Term.

Bergdoll has been found guilty by a general court martial on the charge of desertion and sentenced to serve five years at hard labor at Governor's Island. General Robert Lee Bullard, commander of the Department of the East, reviewed the findings of the court. He designated Castle William, overlooking the upper New York bay, as the place in which sentence would be served. He has been entered in the records of Castle William as the first millionaire to occupy quarters in the brown stone structure since it was erected in 1811.

DELAWARE HOUSE REJECTS SUFFRAGE

Hopes of National Victory by Winning Thirty-sixth State Swept Away.

Dover, Del.—The ratification resolution to make Delaware the thirty-sixth and last State needed to write the woman suffrage amendment into the Constitution of the United States went down to defeat in the House of Representatives by a vote of 22 to 8, but before the result was announced three members changed their votes to place themselves in a parliamentary position to move for reconsideration and one member who was not down as voting asked to be recorded in the negative. This made the official vote 26 yeas to 6 nays. Eighteen affirmative votes were necessary to pass the resolution.

In a parliamentary sense, according to the rules of the Legislature, the suffrage question is not dead for the special session, but legislative leaders generally conceded that affirmative action in both Houses is a foreign hope.

An identical ratification resolution is still in the Senate, where Suffragists claim a majority of one. It was disclosed that the suffragists had fifteen votes in line for the resolution if they could have mustered three more, but as they could not get the required pledges those conditionally for suffrage voted with the anti's.

After the vote was announced there was great cheering among the men and women opponents of ratification. Anti-suffrage members were surrounded by enthusiastic women, who showered them with congratulations and red roses, while suffragists, wearing the yellow daffodil, walked sadly from the chamber, some of them in tears.

Governor Townsend said: "I think suffrage is thoroughly beaten, and I am sorry, for some Republican representatives have brought a stain upon the integrity of the Republican Party."

Irish March on Capitol.
Washington.—Bearing banners urging freedom for Ireland a dozen women attempted a demonstration before Congress.

LATEST EVENTS AT WASHINGTON

A reduction of $705,660,000 in the national debt was accomplished during March, the treasury reported. The debt now stands at $24,698,000,000. Legislation giving a bonus to each American soldier who served in the recent World War is unavoidable, according to leaders in both branches of Congress.

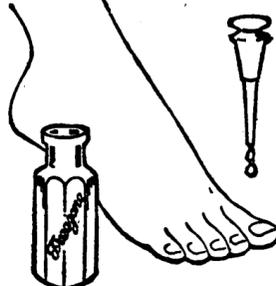

House conferees on the Post Office bill receded from their opposition to the senate amendment providing for a transcontinental experimental mail airplane service between New York and San Francisco. The appropriation was reduced to $1,250,000.

By a vote of 12 to 6 the House Foreign Affairs Committee reported with slight modification the resolution declaring war with Germany at an end. All the Democratic members present opposed the resolution, except Representative Huddleston of Alabama, who voted "present."

The bi-partisan board which has been considering the $1,000,000,000 wage increase demanded by the railway employees reached a deadlock and abruptly broke off its sessions. The railway executives upon the board insisted that the matter must be passed on to the Labor Board.

Shall Chaos or Reconstruction in Europe Follow the Great World War?

MEN TURNING TO BOLSHEVISM

Something Profoundly Disquieting in the Constant Repetition of Word Which Seems to Convey Such a Sinister Meaning.

Article XII

By FRANK COMERFORD.

I met a young American major just back from the French front. I had known him for many years. Before the United States entered the war he was one of the many impatient at our delay. He believed that it was our duty to join the fight when the ruthless submarine campaign torpedoed the Lusitania, sending to cold, wet graves American women and children. I distinctly remember his face as he read the headlines in the papers telling of the murderous slaughter of Americans on the high seas. Now when he greeted me he startled me with his first words, "The war is over. I'm a bolshevik." I did not know what the word meant, yet it carried to my mind an impression, and while the impression was hazy, it was clear at least in one particular. It sounded like the confession of a crime.

He had always been of a quiet, conservative type. Before the war one would have judged him to be a pacifist; he was even-tempered, mild of manner, and I still think that before August, 1914, he was a pacifist in head and heart. It was only the call of a just cause, the fight for an ideal which he believed, that had made him a soldier. In this respect he was typical of 90 per cent of his countrymen.

I had spoken to him the day he enlisted, for he was one of those who volunteered, who might have waited for conscription and claimed a just exemption. He was in the beginning of his married life, with two very young children. By profession he was an engineer. Going to war meant leaving a wife and two babies, leaving a job that promised advancement. I recall his enthusiasm, the intensity of his patriotism, his quiet disregard of the danger to himself. I am sure that there was little hate in his morale. He saw a danger to the world. The honor of his country had been offended against. He was an American, one of those upon whom the duty fell, so he went.

He a bolshevik! Why? I was confounded, confused. The only meaning I gave to his remark was that he was an anarchist. The word "bolshevik" sounded red to me. It flared of the torch, photographed disorder, lawlessness—it registered blood, violence, assassination, force, hate, insanity. I wondered how this nine-lettered word had become the vehicle for so many sensations that disturbed peace of mind and sounded alarm.

Where had the word come from and what company had it kept that so fouled its soul? What did it really mean—had it a definite meaning? Was it a bug like the "flu" germ? Had it come among nations to destroy them and to the hearts of men to silence the heavenly message, "Peace on earth, good will to men." Would it run around the world as a scourge? Was it a postscript to the bloody war lesson, prophesying more anguish and tears than four years' fighting had brought? Would the world, coming out of the war bent, now be broken? Or was it a meaningless myth? Was the word a bogie, a bad joke, a nightmare pressing heavily on a tired, nervous world's head?

Seeking Word's Real Meaning. Or was the meaning that men had read into the word a lie? Was bolshevism the message of a new Messiah being cried down by the money-changers of our time in the same way their ancestors had silenced the word from the Mount and destroyed the Message Bearer with the lash and the cross?

In every mind was the thought and from every tongue fell the word. Russia had given the world a word. It had encircled the globe. Everywhere people were speaking the word—it found lodgment in every brain, a living place in every language. Its use had become universal. The old, the young, rich and poor, the learned, the uneducated, the serious, the simple, the toiler, the artist, the poet, and the peddler, the thinker and the thinker, held the thought and spoke the word. Men, women and children spoke the word, read the word, and felt the thought it carried.

To the nine hundred and ninety-nine it was a word of ill-omen, a word of terror and fear. To the one in a thousand it was a word of hope, a light for the feet of a stumbling world, and the nine hundred and ninety-nine said that some of these people called bolsheviks were dreamers of a strange dream, that twisted idealism had made them mad, that the majority of those who profess faith in bolshevism were sick with a strange, social fever, that they were mischief-makers, ne'er-do-wells, criminals, that they sought to burn the world.

I made up my mind that I would learn the real meaning of the word. The dictionary definition threw no light on its meaning. I came to the conclusion that to learn what bolshevism is I might with wisdom adopt the scientific method used by the doctor of medicine in arriving at a diagnosis. The doctor examines and gathers the symptoms, the meaning of the disease. He then determines what diseases might produce these symptoms. By a process of elimination he discards one possibility after another until at last there is but one disease left, one thing that the symptoms can mean.

I discovered at the outset that most of us have the habit of using terms loosely. Seldom do we give time or thought to the exact, real meaning of things. The meaning of bolshevism is too important to the world not to try to understand it. There is a difference between having the acquaintance of a word and knowing; the former is a mere introduction, the latter an intimacy.

Since the war, when the fastidious diner wearily orders his consommé and the waiter brings it a bit tardily or cold, he thinks to himself, or if courageous enough to speak his mind, he calls the cook a bolshevik. He has found a word to express his irritation. It serves his profane feelings and at the same time saves his smug respectability.

See Bolshevism Everywhere. Once the maid asking for an afternoon off provoked a knowing smile. Her mistress granted the request, charged it up to a possible romance and generally suspected the policeman on the beat. Since the war it is different. The maid is looked upon with suspicion. Her motives are questioned. The request is considered a symptom of the new terrible disease, bolshevism. The mistress thinks to herself: The maid doesn't want to work any more; she is down with the epidemic.

The office boy, working the reliable excuse that his grandmother has died again, to get an afternoon off to go to the ball game, is trying to shirk work, in the opinion of his employer, who formerly, when such an application was made from the same source, chuckled as he granted it, while his memory took him back to his own boyhood days when he used the grandmother yarn to answer the call of the ball field.

Many captains of industry see the symptoms of the new dread in every movement and thought of the workers. The demand for living conditions, and decent wages are grudgingly received by minds soured with the thought that it is bolshevism.

The hirers of child labor, looking hatefully at legislation designed to end child slavery, call the leaders of child life conservation bolsheviks. When doctors and public-spirited men and women insist that an irreparable injury is being done the nation in allowing women to work for a period in excess of the hours they are able to work without menacing their motherhood, the profiteers from woman labor cry out: "You are invading the right of private contract; you are mad with bolshevism."

Every Sort of Definition. The wag with the wit of a barber defined bolshevism as a wild idea surrounded by whiskers. The saloon-keeper, bowled over by prohibition, screams "bolshevism." The anti-slavery leaders come back with the answer, "Your 'personal liberty' cry is only a camouflage for bolshevism."

If anyone disagrees with you, don't grant him the right to an opinion, don't reason with him—just call him a bolshevik. The word has become an epithet, a popular invective, a slur, an insult, an outlet for contempt, continually and hate. Its parenthetical influences our definition of it. Most of us see the Russians with the eyes of the caricaturists, who for so many years have portrayed the Russian as the moujik with high boots, disheveled hair, wild whiskers, the face of an assassin, the body of a terrorist in action, the suggestion of a long dagger smeared with hot blood, under his greatcoat.

If a doctor, making an examination of all of the patients in a hospital, discovered they all had certain symptoms in common, such as temperature, weakness and pain, and because of these findings should diagnose the sickness of all of the patients as pneumonia, the doctor would be regarded a lunatic, yet there are men in the world today who are as foolish as such a doctor would be. They call every symptom of unrest, without regard to its history, bolshevism.

Roumania's Oil Wells. Many of the Roumanian oil wells are not in working order, which is chiefly due to the military measures taken by the allies at the time of the German advance in Roumania. Although Gen. Falkenhayn's experts devoted particular attention to the reconstruction of the dismantled wells, their work was crowned with limited success, and it will take a long period of systematic work to raise the Roumanian oil fields again to their pre-war importance. The Roumanian government is reported to have lately concluded a convention with the Austrian government whereby they are to supply the Austrians with petroleum and other material of primary necessity in exchange for industrial products.

Have Evidence Against Germans. Evidence of German crimes is furnished by M. Delannoy, librarian of Louvain; Henri Davignon, secretary of the Belgian commission of inquiry; Paul Lambotte, director of the art galleries of Belgium, and M. Lamy, secretary of the French academy. The latter, it was said, has made a most telling indictment of those who were responsible for acts of savagery.

From a floating cake of ice to a warm bed in the Springfield, Mass. zoo was the change which one day brought to a deer now at Forest Park. The animal was marooned on a piece of ice in the Connecticut River. When the ice reached the dam at Holyoke it drifted near the shore and the deer leaped to the bank. It ran through the streets and jumped into a canal, where it was rescued.

Women will go to primaries in Vermont next month and will attempt to vote notwithstanding Governor Clement's refusal to call a special ratification session of the legislature, according to an announcement from the state suffragists' association headquarters in Burlington. If they are refused the ballot the association will appeal to the supreme court in the hope of obtaining a decision before the presidential election next November. The suffragists contend that the bill giving women the right to vote for presidential electors which was passed in the legislature of 1919 but vetoed by the governor, is a law. Governor Clement vetoed this bill on the ground that it was virtually an amendment to the state constitution, which can be amended only by a referendum vote.

The muzzle of a 10-inch army gun, projecting over a flat car, upon which it was being taken from the proving ground to Sea Girt, N. J., to the Watertown, Mass. arsenal, tore away 11 iron pillars supporting a Providence railroad bridge and practically wrecked the structure.

The New England division of the American Red Cross and the Boston school of social work have completed the ninth course in community service, in which 36 students have been enrolled.

A Voice From Sioux City, Iowa, says

PE-RU-NA

Worth Its Weight In Gold

You cannot mistake the words of Mr. W. W. Northrup, of 904 Fourth Street, Sioux City, Iowa. He is enthusiastic about his present health and the merits of PE-RU-NA and wants everyone to know it. Here is a recent letter from him:

"PE-RU-NA is worth its weight in gold and does some. I used to think it only a woman's remedy but have changed my mind. I had a cough, especially in the morning. After using half a bottle of PE-RU-NA was much better. I would cough up chunks of phlegm and mucus, my eyes itched and bothered me. Judging from the symptoms given in your literature it was catarrh. My stomach is in much better condition since using your medicine."

"Use this testimonial, if you wish. Don't hesitate to advertise the merits of PE-RU-NA." (Signed) W. W. NORTHRUP.

There are thousands just like Mr. Northrup, skeptical at first but convinced by a trial of PE-RU-NA. DON'T BE AN UNBELIEVER. If your trouble is of a catarrhal nature, try PE-RU-NA, then tell your friends. It is fine after an attack of grip or Spanish flu.

Sold Everywhere Tablets or Liquid FOR CATARRH AND CATARRHAL CONDITIONS

Where? Less than an hour from New York there is a little New Jersey town where a church congregation has plunged very deeply into modern religious thought and tendencies. Just how deeply any one driving by their little white wooden building can tell from the sign hanging by its door: "Where do you spend Sunday? Around the fire?" "Where will you spend eternity? Surrounded by fire."

LOOK AT ASPIRIN If the name "Bayer" is on tablets, you can get relief without fear.

When the Bayer Company introduced Aspirin over eighteen years ago, physicians soon proved it a marvelous help in relieving Rheumatism, Colds, Headache, Neuralgia, Earache, Toothache, Lumbago, Neuritis, Aching Joints, and Pain in general. To get this same genuine, world-famous Aspirin, you must ask for "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin," marked with the "Bayer Cross." You will find safe and proper directions in every unbroken package. Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost only a few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer" packages. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monocetacidester of Salicylic acid.—Adv.

Balked His Desire. A gentleman and his wife were admiring some college buildings erected by wealthy alumni. Presently they came to a noble hall, over the main entrance of which was a tablet reading, "Erected by John C. Black, as a memorial to his beloved wife." "Oh," he said with a sigh, "that is what I should like to do for my college." And for the life of him he couldn't understand why his wife suddenly became cold to him.

Varied Climes, Varied Habits. Natives of hot climates who spend much time in the water rarely use soap except for a shave or shampoo. The Esquimaux is a reckless bather during the ashing season, when he is forced to wade to disentangle his nets, but his wife and family think handling wet nets absolves them from further bathing rites.

Stunned. "If labor persists in its arrogance," said the town man, "the time will come when the hired man who does a full and honest day's work will be denounced as a traitor by his class." "The hired man who does—good gosh!—what?" astoundedly yelled Farmer Bentover.—Kansas City Star.

United States' Many Wars. The United States regular army has engaged in more than a hundred wars or military campaigns; about ninety tribes of them being with Indian tribes.—Independent, New York.

Too many men wait until they have been done to a turn before turning over a new leaf.

Men flatter merely to protect themselves from women who flirt.

Rare Sugar Found in Honey. Investigation of certain stores of crystallized honey found in various places in Pennsylvania where the bees had died from starvation led to the discovery of a quantity of rare sugar, known as melezitose, which has been extracted and purified and placed at the disposal of the bureau of chemistry. The weekly news letter of the department of agriculture says that melezitose is one of the rarest sugars. Minute quantities of it have been available to men of science for many years, but the supply has never been sufficient to permit of extensive experimentation. Now the United States department has several kilograms.

BILIOUS!

Quick! Get Liver and Bowels Right with "Cascarets"

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin, and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and sluggish bowels, which cause the stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments, forming acids, gases, and poisons. Cascarets tonight will give your bilious liver and constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. Cascarets never sicken or inconvenience you like nasty Calomel, Salts, Oil, or gripping Pills. They work while you sleep.—Adv.

More Than One. That morning the teacher had been forced to thrash two very troublesome boys, and the memory of the happening was still fresh in the other children's minds that afternoon. She took up her history to give the assignment on the Civil War, which the class was studying. "This afternoon," she said, "we shall take the hammering campaign."

Every one was amused when she said it but she, herself, led in the laugh when a tiny fellow ejaculated: "My, I thought we had that hammering campaign this morning!"

Then It Happened. "I wonder if you could?" mused the rummy, as he poured a little wood alcohol into his seltzer.

"You wonder if I could what?" demanded the barkeep, as he yanked a gun out of the drawer behind the bar.

"Why, I wonder if you could call a love letter a writ of attachment?" replied the rummy as he headed for the door.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Wood Alcohol Always Injurious. Wood alcohol may cause blindness not only when taken as a beverage but by absorption through the skin, in the case of the use of such articles as hair tonics containing the poison. It may also produce the same effect by way of lungs when inhaled from varnishes, etc.

Mrs. Edwards Disappears

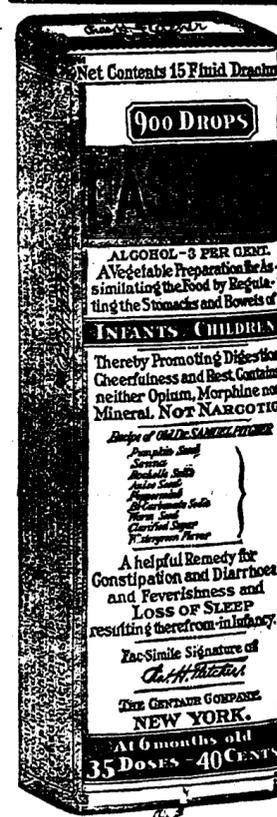

On Thursday morning last this community was greatly startled to learn that Mrs. George Edwards had left her home at about five o'clock that morning and no one knew where she had gone. She quietly slipped away while the members of the family were resting and it was some little time—less than a half hour however—before they realized she had gone. Right away they were all out, hoping to find her; others soon joined the family in the search, but all efforts were fruitless.

For a number of weeks past Mrs. Edwards' health had been somewhat impaired and the family had noticed that her mind was weakening, yet she retained her interest and love for her husband and several children to a remarkable degree, and was constantly doing those things which were so much appreciated. Special attention was given the patient and close watch was kept, always with the thought in mind that she must not know of this constant watch. The family is a very devoted one and it was this affection that made it next to impossible for them to take any steps towards removing her from home for the purpose of receiving special treatment.

Every day since searching parties have been scouring the woods and watching the river, and up to the hour of this writing—Tuesday afternoon—nothing has been learned that would give the least possible clue to whether Mrs. Edwards wandered away into the woods and suffered from exposure, for she was very thinly clad, or whether, not knowing what she was doing walked into the river.

This sad case has called forth the sympathy of every one who knows the family and willing hands were ready to render all necessary aid. Nothing has been left undone that would assist in any way in the search.

Miss Mildred Gage was a Nashua visitor Saturday.

Mrs. A. M. Foote visited in Townsend, Mass., last week.

Eugene Muzzey, Sr., was in Peterboro one day the past week.

Charles Hopkins, from Tilton Seminary, is spending his vacation with his parents.

Several Grangers from this town attended the Pomona meeting in Hudson last week.

Miss Isabel Robertson spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Robertson

A flock of geese were seen flying north a few days ago. This is a good sign of warmer weather.

George Shedd, from Roxbury, Mass., spent several days of this week with his sister, Mrs. J. T. Robertson.

John Reavley, of Gloucester, Mass., spent a few days at the Tall Pine Camp on Lake George. It is expected there will be a larger number of girls in camp this summer.

During the school vacation the walls and ceilings of the school rooms had a coat of paint. The blackboards were newly sanded, and the rooms are very attractive and cheerful looking.

The K. N. S. basket ball team, on which Miss Robertson plays guard, went to Plymouth Friday and played the P. N. S. team that evening. The Plymouth team plays the return game at Keene next Tuesday.

"And There Wasn't the Slightest Smell from Dead Rats"

Writes John Simpkins, farmer of Annandale, N. J. "Rats were costing me hundreds yearly; tried dogs, ferrets, poison, could not get rid of them. Bought $1.00 pkg. of RAT-SNAP (5 cakes). Used half, not a live rat since. Dead ones aplenty. I like RAT-SNAP because after killing rats it dries them up—leaves no smell." Three sizes, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold and guaranteed by Cram's store.
