"DAYLIGHT SAVING"

Plan Not Generally Adopted Throughout Town

The daylight saving or wasting plan is in operation but partially in Antrim at the present time, and naturally is making an unsatisfactory condition of things. Those who desire this plan seem to think it strange that others cannot do things just as they want them to, while others have an idea that they know something of their own desires and wishes along this line, and have rights that should be respected. A plan of this kind will work out pretty well if all go into it, but when only partially in operation is not much of a success. When some of the shops and some of the stores are an hour ahead of some others on both ends of the day, and the schools are running on standard time, and the housewives are all mixed up in getting two sets of meals two or three times a day, to say nothing of keeping up with the change of times on the railroad, arrival and departure of mails, and "many other articles too numerous to mention," it certainly gets on one's nerves, exceeded only by the H. C.
L., shortage of sugar, rising prices of gasoline, and numerous other troublesome and perplexing problems. This is really a time when everything possible should be done to make conditions as easy to bear as possible and not work additional and needless hardships on anybody.

Give the Boys Support

In all towns and cities something is done to promote sports and it is this force that brings out the best physically in our young men and makes them loyal to their home town if supported in a wholehearted way by the people.

In our town of Antrim we cannot,
at present, provide many of these features for our young men, but we can support the National game of Base Ball.

The Antrim Athletic Association is formed for the purpose of bringing our young men together in friendly rivalry and so long as they conduct themselves as gentlemen, they are one of us and should have our support.

This summer sports take to the open and we trust and feel sure that our Antrim representatives will do honor to themselves and to our town on the diamond.

Make each and every member of the Association feel that he has our backing with a good fellow slap on the shoulder of "Good Luck to you old chap." A Citizen

The regular annual meeting of the Antrim Athletic Association was held last Wednesday evening, at which time the following officers for the season were elected:

President—H. W. Johnson
Manager—Ross Roberts
Treasurer—C. A. Bates
Secretary—C. W. Prentiss
Directors—Leo Mulhall, Byron But-

some good teams to try the mettle of our boys. We trust the public will help by attending the entertainment,

Adjourned Precinct Meeting at Town Hall, at 7.30

Wednesday evening of this week
(May 5) there is an adjourned meeting of the Precinct.

At that time the subject of sewers for Antrim will be talked over. The voters will recall that an extensive survey was made by an engineering firm about eight years ago for such system as seemed best at that time for Antrim to adopt.

At the meeting tonight this plan
and others suggested by the State Board of Health will be talked over.

This question is one in which every citizen and property owner in the Precinct should be interested.

It was thought best to have this meeting in the Town Hall so that all might attend and give expression of their opinions.

AN OBSERVING CITIZEN

Contributes News Items For Reporter Readers

The road north of Mr. Clarendon's place is in a bad condition for travel—dangerous; most of the road is good for travel, but there are many boggy places.

In 1777 it was voted in the town
"that the inhabitants shall work at highway at a rate of half a dollar a day and find what tools the surveyor will order them to bring."

In the year 1778 the value of the dollar of the year before had advanced from $1.00 to $3.50.

Last Saturday there were, stuck in the mud south of the river bridge, two big truckloads of furniture; after a time they got out, and soon three autos and the Standard Oil car were all in the mud together. The oil car did not get out until Monday.

May 1, a bad day for autos!

For ten years or more there has been talk of improving the road through the east part of the town to Hillsboro line. For the past three years or more Mr. Munhall has kept the road in the best condition he could for the money allowed him. Now the road wants a general rebuilding; can we have it?

For 75 years the democrats were in the majority in town, electing the representatives, selectmen, etc. In 1855
the "Know Nothings" at the election, in March, carried the town. On the first ballot for representative no choice—ballot even—second ballot Lemuel N. Pattie. "Know Nothing" candidate for representative, was declared elected by one majority.

Last week Wednesday a large motor truck loaded with household furniture, from Boston, for Deering Center, got stuck in the mud on the cross road north of Miss Eva Thompson's house.
Henry George with his horses got them out of the mire about 10.30 Thursday
a. m. They had been stuck 30 hours.
Before they had gone a mile they were stuck again. At last accounts four horses were moving them toward Deering Center. Going the cross road was wrong.

Richardson-Moore

A quiet but neatly arranged home wedding was solemnized Wednesday evening at eight o'clock, when Charles W. Richardson and Mrs. Bessie F.
Moore, of Antrim, were married at the former's residence, on Depot street.

The contracting parties were attended by John Gray, of Lowell, Mass., as groomsmen, and Mrs. Alice Roderick, of Lowell, Mass., as bridesmaid.
The bride held a bridal bouquet of white carnations and the bridesmaid carried a bouquet of pink orchids.

The Rev. J. D. Cameron, D. D., was the officiating clergyman, who used an impressive single ring service. The ceremony was performed under an arch of evergreen.

Besides the assisting couple, there were present Mr. and Mrs. George W.
Edes and son, Charles, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Flagg and daughter, Regina.

The wedding cakes were presented by the Lowell friends. After refreshments were served the guests departed, leaving many good wishes and congratulations with the bride and groom.

Many gifts, handsome and costly, including a sum of money, were received by the newlyweds.

A Business Candidate

By means of advertisements in the weekly papers, including one in another column of the Reporter Councilor Windsor H. Goodnow is keeping his name before the people as a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. Councillor Goodnow's candidacy is meeting with hearty support, says Ashley G. Hazeltine, over whose name the advertisement appears.

"Starting with the whole of Cheshire County behind him," says Mr.
Hazeltine, "Councillor Goodnow has large sections of Sullivan and Hillsboro counties, including Nashua, besides growing strength among the rank and file of all sections of the states. As a business man heading thirteen successful stores, he knows the value of newspaper advertising, and that business experience of his,
and his close connection with state affairs as councillor is what is helping to gain support for his candidacy."

A FEW THOUGHTS

Suggested by What is Taking Place Around

We read in a recent copy of a daily paper which comes to our desk regularly, a somewhat lengthy editorial, under the caption "Attention, Young Republicans!" This article went on to address the young Republicans who are voting this ticket because of family habit, and asking others whose fathers are Republicans and who will cast their first vote this fall, "Why, as young men, should you feel constrained to vote the Republican ticket merely because that happens to be the political faith of your fathers?" Of course a whole lot was said concerning the leaders of the party not allowing the younger men to be recognized and some other bunk stuff, but not a word was said offering anything better in any other party. In the light of present day politics we rather suspect these young men have had an opportunity, especially the returned soldier boys, to make up their minds where they are at, and probably respect their fathers and the politics of their fathers as much as the politics which they have been compelled to run up against on every hand during the past few years. When reading such an article it is hard to keep out of one's mind such old sayings as "People who live in glass houses," etc., and many others that might be mentioned.

Many of the papers are talking the same kind of stuff that the Reporter gave its readers last week, regarding the raising of vegetables the present season. The need is great; let everybody arrange to have as large a garden as possible and raise such vegetables as may be canned for winter use—it is a great help in a family. And every farmer should be encouraged to plant largely and raise a good quanti-

"Here is another letter that makes me happy," says Peterson, of Buffalo. "One who would rather have than a thousand dollars."

"Money isn't everything in this world. There is many a big hearted, rich man who would give all he has on earth to be able to produce a remedy with such mighty healing power as Peterson's Ointment, to sell at all druggists for 25 cents a large box."

Dear Sir:—
"I was an untold sufferer from old running sores and ulcers. I had tried most everything without any relief from pain. A friend told me of your wonderful ointment and the first box took away the pain that had not left me before in years, and after using just nine dollars' worth of the salve I am cured. The ulcer was 9 inches by 6 1/2 inches, is all healed and I can walk. Never, never will I be without Peterson's again."

"You may use this to recommend your ointment, if you wish. I cannot say enough to praise it." Yours truly, Mrs. Albert Southcott, Medina, N. Y. Mail orders filled by Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.

CONDENSED CLASSICS

THE SCARLET LETTER

By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE
Condensation by George S. Barton
Winchester, Mass.

Nathaniel Hawthorne, American writer, was born in Salem, Mass., July 4, 1804. His earliest boyhood days were spent in Salem, but when he was 14 years old the family moved to Maine. Here the young lad continued the solitary walks of which he was so fond, but in the wilderness, instead of the narrow streets of Salem. Even at this early date he had acquired a taste for writing, and carried a little blank book in which he jotted down his notes.

After a year in Maine, Hawthorne returned to Salem to prepare for college. He amused himself by publishing a manuscript periodical, and at times speculated upon the profession he would follow in the future.

For some years Hawthorne lived in Concord, Mass., in the old Manse, and wrote "Mosses from an Old Manse," "Twice Told Tales" and "Grandfather's Chair." He joined the Brook Farm colony at West Roxbury, but found that the conditions there suited neither his taste nor his temperament, and he remained but one year.

While serving as surveyor of customs at Salem he found among some old papers a large letter "A" embroidered on red cloth, and speculating upon the origin and history of the letter, his imagination was so stirred, that upon his retirement from office he wrote "The Scarlet Letter."

Some other stories of Hawthorne are "The Blithedale Romance," "The Wonder Book," "The Snow Image," "The Artist's Story" and "The Dolliver Romance" were left unfinished at the author's death. He died at Plymouth, N. H., on the 19th of May, 1864, and five days later was buried at Sleepy Hollow, a beautiful cemetery at Concord where he used to walk under the pines when living at the old Manse. Over his grave is a simple stone, inscribed with the single word, "Hawthorne."

ONE summer morning over two centuries ago the grass plot before the jail in Prison Lane was occupied by many of the inhabitants of Boston. The door opened and the town beadle appeared followed by a young woman carrying a baby about three months old. On the breast of her gown, in red cloth, appeared the letter A, and it was that scarlet letter which drew all eyes toward her.

The place appointed for her punishment was not far from the prison door, and in spite of the agony of her heart, Hester Prynne passed with almost a serene deportment to the scaffold where the pillory was set up, and under the weight of a thousand unrelenting eyes the unhappy prisoner sustained herself as best a woman might.

A small, intelligent appearing man, on the outskirts of the crowd attracted Hester's attention, and he in his turned eye till, seeing that she seemed to recognize him, he laid his finger on his lips.

Then, speaking to a townsman he said, "I pray you, good sir who is this woman, and wherefore is she set up to public shame?"

"You must needs be a stranger, friend," said the townsman, "else you would have heard of Mistress Hester Prynne. She hath raised a scandal in godly Master Dimmesdale's church. The penalty thereof is death, but the magistracy in their mercy, have doomed her to stand a space of three hours on the platform of the pillory, and for the remainder of her life to wear a mark of shame in her bosom."

"A wise sentence!" remarked the stranger. "It irks me, nevertheless, that the partner of her iniquity should not at least stand by her side. But he will be known—he will be known!"

Rev. Mr. Dimmesdale, a young minister of high native gifts, who had already wide eminence in his profession, was urged to exhort Hester to repentance and confession. Addressing her, he advised that she name her fellow sinner even if he had to step from a high position to stand beside her, for it was better so than to hide a guilty heart through life.

Hester shook her head, keeping her place upon the pedestal of shame with an air of weary indifference.

That night her child writhed in convulsions, and a physician, Mr. Roger Chillingworth, none other than the stranger Hester had noticed in the crowd, was called. Having eased the baby's pain he turned and said: "Hester, I ask not wherefore thou hast fallen into the pit. It was my folly and thy weakness. What had I—a man of thought—to do with youth and beauty like thine? I might have known that in my long absence this would happen."

"I have greatly wronged thee," murmured Hester.

"We have wronged each other," he answered. "But I shall seek this man whose name thou wilt not reveal, and sooner or later he must be mine. I shall contrive nothing against his life. Let him live. One thing, thou that wast my wife, I ask. Thou hast kept his name secret. Keep likewise, mine. Let thy husband be to the world as one already dead, and breathe not the secret above all to the man thou wottest of."

"I will keep thy secret as I have his."

Freed from prison Hester did not flee, but established herself in a small cottage just outside the town, incurring no risk of want for she possessed the art of needlework which provided food for herself and child. She had named the little one "Pearl," as being of great price, and little Pearl grew up a lovely child. People wished to take her away and the matter was discussed in the mother's presence by Governor Bellingham and his guests—Rev. John Wilson, Rev. Mr. Dimmesdale, and Dr. Chillingworth.

"God gave me the child!" cried Hester, and turning to the young clergyman, Mr. Dimmesdale, she exclaimed, "Speak thou for me. Thou wast my pastor. Thou knowest what is in my heart and what are a mother's rights, and how much the stronger they are when that mother has but her child and the scarlet letter! I will not loose the child! Look to it!"

"There is truth in what she says," began the minister. "There is a quality of awful sacredness between this mother and this child. It is good for this poor sinful woman that she hath an infant confided to her care—to be trained by her to righteousness. Let us leave them as providence hath seen fit to place them!"

"You speak, my friend, with a strange earnestness," said Roger Chillingworth, smiling at him.

"He hath adduced such arguments that we will leave the matter as it stands," said the governor. The affair being so satisfactorily concluded, Hester and Pearl departed.

Rev. Mr. Dimmesdale's health failing he consulted Dr. Chillingworth. Taking him as a patient, the doctor decided to know the man's innermost nature before trying to heal him. Arrangements were made for the two men to lodge together so that he might be constantly under the doctor's observation.

As Doctor Chillingworth proceeded with his investigation, begun as he imagined with the integrity of a judge desirous only of truth, a terrible fascination seized him and insisted that he do its bidding. He now dug into the poor clergyman's heart, like a miner seeking gold; and Mr. Dimmesdale grew to look at him with an unaccountable horror.

Often Mr. Dimmesdale tried to speak the truth of his past from the pulpit but had cheated himself by confessing his sinfulness in general terms. Once, indulging in the mockery of repentance, he mounted the scaffold where Hester had stood. There was no danger of discovery for everyone was asleep. Even so he was surprised by Hester and Pearl, returning from a death bed in the town, and presently by Roger Chillingworth.

"Who is that man?" gasped Mr. Dimmesdale, in terror. "I shiver at him, Hester. Canst thou do nothing for me? I have a nameless horror of the man."

Remembering her promise, Hester was silent.

"Worthy sir," said the doctor, advancing to the platform, "pious Master Dimmesdale! Can this be you? Come, good sir, I pray you, let me lead you home! You should study less, or these night-whimsies will grow upon you."

Hester now resolved to do what she could for the victim whom she saw in her former husband's grip. One day she met the old doctor in the woods seeking herbs and implored him to be merciful, saying that she must now reveal the secret of their former relationship no matter what befell.

A week later Hester awaited the clergyman in the forest and told him about Roger Chillingworth and their relationship, bidding him hope for a new life beyond the sea in some rural village.

"Thou shalt not go alone," she whispered.

Arthur Dimmesdale attained the proudest eminence a New England clergyman could reach. He had preached the election sermon on the holiday celebrating the election of a new governor.

Hester had taken berth to England, and on the holiday the shipmaster informed her that Roger Chillingworth had booked passage on the same vessel; saying nothing, she turned and stood by the pillory with Pearl.

The minister, surrounded by leading townsmen, halted at the scaffold and calling Hester and Pearl to him mounted the scaffold steps. Telling Hester he was a dying man and must hasten to assume his shame, he turned to the market-place and spoke with a voice that all could hear.

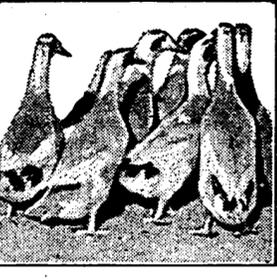

"People of New England! At last, at last I stand where seven years since I should have stood. Lo, the scarlet letter which Hester wears! Ye have all shuddered at it! But there stood one in the midst of you, at whose brand of sin ye have not shuddered."

POULTRY FACTS

PRODUCTION OF DUCKS' EGGS

Demand at Good Prices is Limited Except Around Easter—Indian Runner is Favored.

The demand for ducks' eggs at a good price is limited and not nearly as general as the demand for hens' eggs. The quality of the Southern and Western duck eggs on the average market was poor until people began to keep Indian Runner ducks and to build up a trade in first-class eggs. A good demand for ducks' eggs exists about Easter time at prices usually several cents a dozen higher than for hens' eggs. Most buyers make no quotations for ducks' eggs except early in the spring. Since three ducks' eggs weigh about the same as four hens' eggs, ducks are not as profitable for the production of market eggs as fowls, unless a higher price is secured for the ducks' eggs.

Indian Runner Ducklings.

A trade is gradually being established in some markets for fancy nearby ducks' eggs, which bring higher prices than hens' eggs, and the demand seems to be increasing. Pure white eggs are preferred and usually bring the highest price. These eggs should be marketed frequently, as they depreciate in quality more rapidly than hens' eggs, especially during hot weather. The market for eggs should be carefully investigated by those who intend to raise breeds of the egg-laying type of ducks, such as the Indian Runner, especially for the production of eggs, say poultry specialists of the United States department of agriculture.

PROVIDE FOWLS CLEAN FEED

Carelessness on Part of Poultryman in Cleaning Utensils Will Cause Much Trouble.

Fowls that are fed grain are pretty sure to receive pure feed, as all one has to watch is to make sure the grains are sweet and clean, and not moldy or decayed. However, it is seldom advisable to make grain the sole ration of the poultry.

Soft feeds (or mash) will have to be fed to some extent and troughs must be used for this kind of feed. Where the residue is left to sour, the fowls will show the effects in time. Fermented feeds do not appear to be readily digested by poultry and may also spread disease germs.

Carelessness in the matter of cleaning the troughs has brought disaster to many a poultryman. The same thing is true of the drinking vessels. It requires only a little effort to have the feeding and watering vessels always clean, and it certainly is the thing to do.

PLENTY OF RANGE ESSENTIAL

Discouraging Results Have Come From Attempting to Raise Turkeys Under Confinement.

Given plenty of range, turkeys will rustle for grasshoppers and other insects, green vegetation, weed and grass seed, waste grain, waste nuts, and convert them into delicious meat at a minimum expense. Plenty of range is essential to success in turkey raising, and usually the discouraging results have come from attempts to raise the fowls under close confinement.

POULTRY NOTES

Be sure chicks do not become crowded.

Ship or deliver eggs twice or three times weekly.

Market white-shelled and brown-shelled eggs in separate packages.

Overgrown fowls are no better in any particular than those of normal size.

Cull the flock so as to eliminate the early molter and other unprofitable producers.

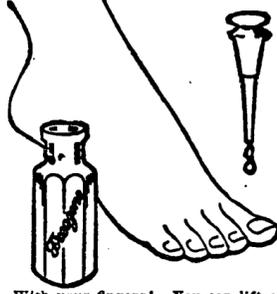

The important thing in getting started in turkey raising is to be careful to get healthy stock.

Uniform poultry products command the best prices. Pure-bred fowls produce uniform products.

When selling eggs to the country merchant or cash buyer, insist that the transaction be on a quality basis.

Lift off Corns!

Doesn't hurt a bit and Freezone costs only a few cents.

With your fingers! You can lift off any hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the hard skin calluses from bottom of feet.

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon the corn or callous. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callous right off, root and all, without one bit of pain or soreness. Truly! No humbug!—Adv.

WATER WITH ASPIRIN

Bayer Company, who introduced Aspirin in 1900, give proper directions.

The Bayer Company, who introduced Aspirin, tell in their careful directions in each package of genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" that to get best results one or two glasses of water should be drunk after taking tablets.

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" to be genuine must be marked with the safety "Bayer Cross." Then you are getting the genuine, world-famous Aspirin, prescribed by physicians for over eighteen years.

Each unbroken "Bayer" package contains proper directions for Colds, Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Neuritis, and Pain generally.

Handy tin boxes of twelve tablets cost but a few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer" packages. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacturing of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.—Adv.

LIFE WAS A MISERY TO HER

Says this Woman Until Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Carrollton, Ky.—"I suffered almost two years with female weakness. I could not walk any distance, ride or take any exercise at all without resting. If I swept the floor or did any kind of work it would bring my sickness on. I was weak and languid, had no energy, and life was a misery to me. I was under the care of a good physician for several months and tried other remedies. I had read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking twelve bottles I found myself much improved and I took six more. I have never had any more trouble in that respect since. I have done all kinds of work and at present am an attendant at a state hospital and am feeling fine. I have recommended your Vegetable Compound to dozens of my friends and shall always recommend it."—LILLIAN TEAR, 224 S. 6th St., Carrollton, Ky.

If you have any symptom about which you would like to know write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for helpful advice given free of charge.

Views of the Stars.

People in the southern hemisphere see different stars, but there are some constellations which are visible at different times of the year in both hemispheres. If the earth's axis kept always perpendicular to the plane of its orbit none of the northern constellations would ever be seen in the southern hemisphere, but as the axis inclines first one way and then the other, some of both sets can be seen at different times.

Eyes of Plants.

Of course we know that trees have circulation, not of blood but of sap, that goes upward in the spring and downward in the autumn. It has been demonstrated also that plants have eyes, certain epidermal cells being really convex lenses filled with clear sap that brings the light rays to a focus somewhere within the cells. These little lenses are able to form images just as the eyes of insects do.

Frantic With Pain

A Physical Wreck From Kidney Trouble, But DOAN'S Made Her Well.

"Kidney trouble made a complete wreck of me," says Mrs. Wm. Harvey, 621 N. Eighth St., Grants Pass, Ore. "I was so dependent and miserable it seemed I had nothing left to live for. Death would have been a welcome relief. For six months I was in bed and never expected to leave it alive. I was too weak to move without the help of my nurse and so nervous I screamed when she touched me. My back and head hurt like a throbbing toothache. I had awful dizzy spells, my eyesight failed, my hands and feet felt dead. I was pained all over. The kidney secretions looked like thick, black coffee and burned terribly. They almost stopped passing and then my feet bloated like bags of water. I was frantic with pain, and thought I would lose my reason. I had lost all faith in medicine and tried Doan's Kidney Pills only because a dear friend asked me. Right from the start I began to feel better. Doan's cured me."

Ask Better Train Service in State
The latest phase of the daylight saving predicament in the state came out at the meeting of the governor and council and a plan for the betterment of the train service was settled upon. State Libraries Are Seeking Funds
A hearing of the Public Library commission was held in Concord before Governor Bartlett and his council, with five library commissioners of the state in attendance. President is Unable to Consider Overalls Overalls are no fit subject to be brought before President Wilson at present, according to a letter received by Atty. W. S. Nevins of Manchester who telegraphed to the President requesting his indorsement of the denim clubs campaign against high clothing prices.

The note from the White House follows:
"My dear Mr. Nevins:
Replying to your telegram of April 20th, I regret that it is not possible to meet your wishes. Unfortunately under orders of the President's physician we are bringing to his attention just now only matters of the most pressing nature. I am confident that you will understand."

Sheep Raisers Assemble to Better Situation
The people interested in sheep raising from all parts of the state gathered to attend the meeting arranged by the State bureau of markets in the interests of better marketing of lamb, sheep and wool. W. E. Doble, federal bureau of markets, Washington, D. C., addressed the men present on competitive wool grades, established by the federal department of agriculture.

Of interest in his talk was the classification of wool for standard grades which were obtained only after 1,500 samples of wool from different parts of the country had been secured and examined. The services of six experts were necessary for half a year before conclusions were reached and seven standard grades secured. The cooperation of the federal bureau with the states is bringing about the standardization.

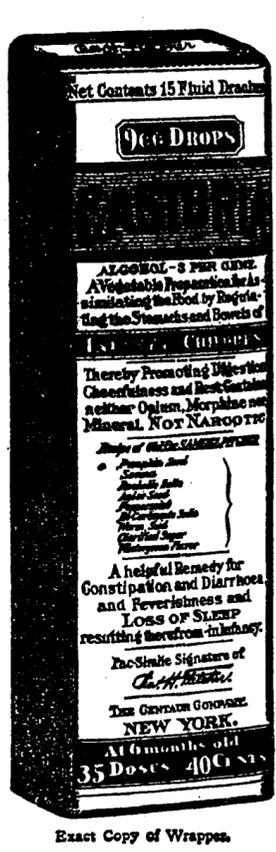

It was the apparent desire of those present to pool the New Hampshire clip in order to secure the largest quantity of wool for the purpose of assembling and grading. This will result in attracting the attention of the buyers who would bid on the entire clip, the result of which would be a better price to the farmers.

There has been a tremendous decline in sheep raising in New Hampshire during the past ten years. In 1900, it was estimated there were 52,755 sheep in the state and in 1919 the number dwindled down to 20,692. In 1890, New Hampshire had 130,364 sheep and since that time the number has decreased very rapidly.

Baby Specialists.

THAT there are Physicians who specialize on Infant ailments you know. All Physicians understand Infant troubles: all Physicians treat them. It is his profession, his duty, to know human ills from the Stork to the Great Beyond. But in serious cases he calls in the Specialist. Why? He knows as every Mother knows, or ought to know, that Baby is just a baby, needing special treatment, special remedies. Can a Mother be less thoughtful? Can a Mother try to relieve Baby with a remedy that she would use for herself? Ask yourself; and answer honestly! Always remember that Baby is just a baby. And remembering this you will remember that Fletcher's Castoria is made especially for Infants and Children.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

The False and the True.
Advertising by the use of large space, the expenditure of huge sums of money have placed on the market, have put in your home, perhaps, many articles that today have been discarded, as you will readily admit. Do you recall anything that has more modestly appealed to the public than has Fletcher's Castoria: modest in all its claims, pleading at all times—and truthfully—for our babies? The big splash, the misleading claims may win for a time, but the honest truth-telling advertiser is like the old story of the tortoise that beat the hare. Mothers everywhere, and their daughters, now mothers, speak frankly, glowingly, enthusiastically in praise of Fletcher's Castoria. Speak of it lovingly as a friend that has brought comfort, cheer and smiles to their little-ones. There are substitutes and imitations as there are for the diamond, for anything of value. One might almost say that that which is not copied has no value. So you have had the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and a copy of the genuine wrapper kept constantly before you that you may guard against the false and the untrue. MOTHERS SHOULD READ THE BOOKLET THAT IS AROUND EVERY BOTTLE OF FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

France Establishes 30 as Bachelor Age.
The time honored question of the ages at which a man becomes a bachelor and a woman a spinster is about to be settled by France. The finance committee of the chamber of deputies intends to fix 30 years as the age at which an unmarried man in France becomes liable to the bachelor tax of ten per cent. It is expected that this tax will become effective on June 1. The impending decision was said to have hastened many marriages during the Easter holidays.

We lay your linoleum, rug border or carpet, hang shades, set up range, start oil stove, leave all things ready for immediate use.

QUALITY—We still maintain the old standards, the extremely difficult now when so many factories are lowering their quality. In nearly every line we can show you as good and in some cases better than before the war. The best only is just as true as ever with us.

ASSORTMENT—We are having great difficulties to secure comprehensive varieties in many lines, but you would little suspect it as you look thru our store as we continue to specially feature medium priced goods which are just as well made as the higher priced but within reach of your purse. Everything to furnish a house.

PRICE is our last but still a most important consideration and by a long look ahead we have continued to be able to offer you prices approximating those of a few years ago, and we are very glad to have your closest inspection and comparison. Everything is marked in plain figures so you can wander thru any department and see for yourself what the price of any article is, and you are assured that you pay exactly the same as everybody else.

TIME PAYMENTS are provided if you so desire, while we do a very large strictly cash business; we also accommodate you with partial payment plan if you desire, making a slight advance over the cash price, which you know all about when you buy as it is indicated on each price tag.

This is your store—use it as you like. We are here to serve you.

BRITISH CHEER SAN REMO WORK

Lloyd George Says "Treason" at Home Failed to Wreck Allied Comradship.

EMPHASIZES GERMAN CHAOS.

France Told Annexation Policy Would Not Be Sactioned—Allies Know German Cannot Pay, But Wish Her to Realize Obligation.

London.—Premier Lloyd George speaking in the House of Commons on the subject of the recent allied conference at San Remo, said that before the conference there had been some misunderstandings, serious enough in themselves, but made grave by deliberate fomenting on the part of very reckless persons.

"But," continued the Premier, "I am glad to say that the sky is once more clear. So far as I can see everyone is satisfied at what happened at San Remo."

The Premier declared the conference had been the most remarkable one in every respect held since the armistice. There never had been such a conference as regarded satisfaction with the agreement by all the parties concerned or the happiness which had been able to bring about, he said. The conference, declared the Premier, dispelled all suspicion that the treaty of Versailles was not to be enforced.

Mr. Lloyd George said there had been no difference of opinion between the allies as to the enforcement of the treaty. A misunderstanding arose, he declared, over the question as to who should put down the disturbance in the Ruhr, which threatened the peace not only of Germany, but of Europe. The French thought it ought to be suppressed by the allies, the Premier asserted, but all the others believed it should be left to the Germans. This difference had been settled, Mr. Lloyd George said, and the Germans informed that the moment the German troops in the Ruhr were reduced to the proportions fixed by the allies last August, the French troops would be withdrawn from Frankfurt and Darmstadt.

The Premier asserted that the misunderstanding of France concerning Great Britain's intentions regarding revision of the treaty had been removed. He said he had made it clear that Great Britain did not desire revision of the treaty, which must be made the basis of policy of the allies, and that Great Britain would act with France in its enforcement.

Great Britain had also made it clear, Mr. Lloyd George continued, that she would not sanction any policy of annexation by France in Germany. It was impossible, he declared, to have another Alsace-Lorraine. Such a policy, the Premier asserted, had been advocated by some powerful personages and journalists in France.

"I need hardly assure the House," Mr. Lloyd George said, "that Mr. Miller and his associates readily and sincerely gave assurance that the vast majority of the people of France were just as much opposed to a policy of that kind as the people of Great Britain. I attach enormous importance to that."

Another misunderstanding that had been removed, the Premier went on, was that on the part of the French, who no doubt thought Great Britain did not mean to enforce the treaty with regard to reparation and disarmament. There was no difference of opinion on disarmament, Mr. Lloyd George said, but when it came to ordering disarmament there was no one in Germany who seemed to have the power to enforce the decree, and that was one of the greatest difficulties the allies had to face.

Turning again to the question of disarmament of Germany, Mr. Lloyd George said he had heard from the British officer in charge of the destruction of weapons that the Germans had faithfully given an account of all their guns. "Regarding rifles," the Premier added, "very great difficulty is being experienced. The men have not given them up, and that is a danger not only to the peace of Europe but to the internal peace of Germany."

NEED MORE GOLD COIN.

Director Baker Wants $80,000 to Run Mint Day and Night.

Washington.—The stock of gold coin in the treasury has been depleted to such an extent that immediate resumption of gold coinage has become imperative. Congress was informed by Raymond T. Baker, director of the mint.

He asked for an immediate appropriation of $80,000 so the Philadelphia mint might operate 24 hours a day instead of eight.

MORE PAPER NEXT YEAR.

Senate Is Told Production Will Be Increased 300,000 Tons.

Washington.—Print paper production will be increased by 300,000 tons next year, according to a statement made before the senate committee investigating the paper shortage.

He said that publishers are seriously considering raising prices to 3 cents a copy in many cities, and that if they continue present universal efforts to reduce consumption there should be a marked effect by fall.

PEACE RESOLUTION IS FILED IN SENATE

Move by Senator Knox Would Terminate War With Both Germany and Austria.

Washington.—A joint resolution proposing repeal of resolutions by congress declaring a state of war with Germany and Austria-Hungary was reported out by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee by a strict party vote.

Introduced by Senator Knox, Republican, of Pennsylvania, as a substitute for the Republican resolution recently passed by the House, the measure was formally presented to the senate by Senator Lodge, the Republican leader, with the announcement by Senator Knox that he would open debate on it.

Leaders of both parties predicted several weeks of discussion, with little prospect of action until near the time set for recess for the national conventions. In some quarters the opinion was expressed that President Wilson, in the midst of the debate, might return the treaty of Versailles to the senate.

Virtually solid Democratic opposition to the substitute was predicted by leaders of the party. Senator McCumber, Republican member of the Foreign Relations Committee, who did not attend the meeting, said he and probably other Republicans would oppose it.

Straight-out repeal of the war resolution is the principal object of the Knox substitute which would require the President to establish friendly diplomatic and commercial relations with Germany and with "the governments and people of Austria and Hungary." Like the House resolution, it would reserve all American rights under the treaty of Versailles and provide for repeal of war legislation and war powers of the President. It would hold German property until all American war claims were satisfied, but does not include the House provision for acceptance of the resolution's terms by Germany within forty-five days under penalty of a commercial embargo.

A formal report only on the resolution was filed by Senator Lodge and Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, administration leader in the treaty fight, decided to submit no minority report, but to present the opposition's arguments during debate.

INSURANCE BONUS BILL IS APPROVED

Paid-Up Policies for War Veterans Virtually Agreed Upon by House Committee.

MAKES GRANT $1.75 A DAY.

Cash Bonus $1.25 A Day—Average Veteran Would Receive $1,857 in Cash or Insurance After Twenty Years—Retain Sales Tax.

Washington.—Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee virtually decided to include in the soldier relief legislation program a plan of paid-up insurance, its value to increase annually by compound interest, and on which loans could be obtained from any post office.

With this addition, ex-service men might elect any one of the five following plans included in the Republican program: A cash bonus of $1.25 a day for each day of service; aid in buying farmland, to be reclaimed by the government; aid in buying city homes; aid in their education, or the insurance. To popularize the last four plans the Republicans propose to allow $1.75 a day for each day of service, instead of the $1.25 cash bonus, as the basis for computing farm and home aid, loans and the amount of financial aid each man might receive in the form of educational training.

The insurance plan, as such, was said by committeemen to be a "misnomer," but they declared it was the "most attractive" of any of the five plans. The average period of service for World War veterans was 400 days, they said, explaining that under the insurance plan the average veteran could receive a paidup insurance policy of $1,857, payable to him in cash at the end of twenty years, or immediately to his heirs in event of death.

The loan value of the insurance denoted in the legislation as "adjusted service certificates" would not accrue until the end of the third year the plan had been in force, and at that time an ex-service man, with a record of 400 days' service, would be entitled to a loan of $551. This would be the cash value of his "certificate" at that time at 5 per cent interest, compounded annually.

Similarly, the veteran of 100 days would be entitled to paidup, twenty-year endowment insurance of $464, with a cash surrender or loan value of $137 in three years; the 200-day veteran to insurance of $928, with a loan value of $275; the 300-day veteran to insurance of $1,392, with a loan value of $413, and the 500-day veteran to insurance of $2,321, with a loan value of $699.

This plan, if universally adopted, would cost the government far more than the cash bonus of $1.25 a day, committeemen said. Estimating that 3,500,000 ex-service persons will be affected by the bill, committeemen declared that the ultimate cost of the insurance plan, if adopted by all, would be approximately $6,000,000,000. The cash bonus, it was estimated, would cost $1,807,000,000 if accepted by all.

Determined on Sales Tax.

Washington.—Further steps in the battle on the Bonus bill were taken behind the scenes instead of upon the house floor. A hurried call was sent out for a meeting of the majority members of the Ways and Means Committee, at which the situation was discussed. Following the conference the Republicans announced that the sales tax would not be taken out of the bill. The plan had not been changed, it was said, and the bill in its present form would be laid before the Republican caucus Friday evening.

"Knowing that they are beaten, my belief is that they will now try to report in a bonus bill separate from a revenue measure and rush it through with a grand hurrah over their desire to help the soldiers," said Mr. Johnson. "Then Congress will be tied up for fifteen years in a wrangle over the way to raise the money. A bonus bill will be on the statute books but there will be no money to pay the bonuses."

LIBERTY BONDS FOR TAXES.

Bill to Stabilize Values Authorizes $200 Payment in Any Year.

Washington.—A bill to stabilize market values of Liberty bonds was introduced by Representative Ackerman of New Jersey.

It provides that Liberty bonds at par value shall be accepted as part payment for income and excess profits taxes. Not more than $200 shall be accepted in any one year, and the amount shall not cover more than 25 per cent of the total due.

LONDON CROWDS ATTACK PRO-IRISH

Assault Procession of Sympathizers With Hunger Strikers at Wormwood Scrubs.

London.—Exciting scenes occurred outside Wormwood Scrubs Prison and mounted police were compelled to clear a way through one of the biggest demonstrations London has ever witnessed.

Men and women were injured in the process and first aid had to be given to many persons as they lay stretched out on the ground.

For a time the appearance was that of a mimic battlefield, and stones, sticks and bits of concrete were hurled about, while fists were freely used.

The trouble was the outcome of another Sinn Fein demonstration in sympathy with the hunger-striking prisoners. A huge hostile crowd had gathered, and when the procession of pro-Irish demonstrators arrived on the scene a series of scurrillages began with much throwing of missiles, the Sinn Feiners retaliating with sticks.

Dublin.—The Rush police barracks, ten miles from Dublin, was attacked by an armed band. This is the first incident of the kind so near the capital.

Available information shows that the Sergeant in charge of the barracks received fatal injuries and other policemen were wounded, while the roof of the barracks was blown off.

Liverpool.—An attempt by the Irish section of the dock workers to carry out their threat to hold up traffic if the hunger-striking prisoners were not released from the Wormwood Scrubs Prison has failed.

More than 80 per cent of the men returned to work, and there were plenty of substitutes for the Irishmen who did cease work.

The Lor Mayor of Liverpool, Burton W. Ellis, communicated to a deputation from the Irish Self-Determination League a telegram he received from Edward Shortt, Secretary for Home Affairs, with regard to the treatment of Irish prisoners in the Wormwood Scrubs Jail.

Belfast.—Sixty hunger-strikers were transferred from the Belfast jail to destroyers for conveyance to England.

It is believed they will be lodged in the Wormwood Scrubs Prison.

A rather remarkable thing happened when on last Jan. 16 the setter dog of Morris Crocker, a resident of Osterville, Mass., disappeared and did not return until 23 days later. The dog's front legs had been half frozen away. After an investigation by Mr. Crocker it was discovered that the animal had been caught in a fox trap, in which it had remained during its absence from home. Mr. Crocker insists that the dog, which had been very fat, could not have possibly survived unless throughout the 23 days it lived entirely on its surplus flesh.

Article XVI.

By FRANK COMERFORD.

The history of Russia begins with a legend. Nestor of Kiev, an old monkish chronicler, tells the story. Kiev is the mother of Russian cities. In the ninth century Slavs and Finns lived in a tribal state in the forest region near Lake Ilmen, between Lake Ladoga and the upper waters of the Dnieper river. Bands of military adventurers from the land of Rus, which is supposed to have been a part of Sweden, exacted tribute from the tribes. In the year 859 the tribes threw off the yoke of the Norsemen and drove them out of the country. It was Russia's first revolution, so the old chronicler relates, and it was successful. Freed from the tyranny of the tribute takers the tribes began to quarrel among themselves. Their land was large and fertile, but civil war destroyed order. Then as now, order was the first essential to peace and happiness. It is told that after three years of tribal war they confessed their inability to manage their own affairs and they sent a mission to Rus to invite their old masters to come and rule over them.

According to the legend, three brothers, princes of Rus, Rurik, Sineus and Trnvor, accepted the call and founded a dynasty, from which many of the Russian princes of the present day claim descent.

While much discussion has been provoked as to the identity of the warriors from the land of Rus, the founders of the Russian empire, it is generally believed that they were the hardy Norsemen, who in the ninth century roamed through various countries of Europe. These roving bands invaded and conquered territory and lived as the dominant military caste until they were gradually absorbed by the native population.

Novgorod First Capital.
Prince Rurik built his capital on the banks of the River Volkhov, which with Lake Ilmen formed part of the great waterway connecting the Baltic and Black seas. By this route, the tall, blonde Norsemen, who composed the famous Varangian bodyguard of the Byzantine emperors, traveled from Scandinavia to Constantinople. Russia's first capital was Novgorod.

These new rulers from the land of Rus brought with them the spirit of adventure of the Norsemen. They were not contented to rule the tribes who had invited them. They set out to conquer the surrounding country in all directions, and before two hundred years had passed they had invaded Byzantine territory, established themselves at Kiev, threatened Constantinople with a fleet, secured as a consort for Vladimir I, one of their princes, a sister of the Byzantine emperor, adopted Christianity for themselves and their subjects, learned to hold in check the nomadic hordes of the steppe, and formed matrimonial alliances with the reigning families of Poland, Hungary, Norway and France. They became a great power in eastern Europe.

They had great appetite for conquest, but they lacked the power to organize the territory they conquered. The political future of the new state was destroyed when the princes of the Rurik dynasty divided the state into a number of independent principalities. For a time these were weakly and loosely held together by the patriarchal authority of the senior member of the family, the grand prince, who ruled in Kiev. Family quarrels became frequent. These princes were strong men. They wanted power. They strove to enlarge their territories at the expense of their rivals. The traditional authority of the grand prince declined. Yaroslav the Great was the last of the grand princes. With his death in 1054, family feuds multiplied and disintegration set in. During the next 170 years, from 1054 to 1224, Russia was split into over sixty principalities. Disputes over the question of succession led to eighty-three civil wars.

Ruined by Internal Struggle.
During these interminable struggles of rival princes, Kiev, which had been so long the residence of the grand prince, was repeatedly taken by storm, and ruthlessly pillaged. Finally the whole valley of the Dnieper fell a prey to the marching tribes of the steppe. Thereupon Russian colonization and political influence retreated northward, and from that time the continuous stream of Russian history is to be sought in the land where the Vikings first settled, and in the adjoining basin of the upper Volga. Here new principalities were founded, some of them, having a grand prince, who no longer professed allegiance to Kiev. Thus appeared the grand princes of Suzdal, of Tver, of Ryazan and of Moscow—all irreconcilable rivals with little or no feelings of blood relationship. The more ambitious and powerful among them aspired not to succeed, but to subdue the others and take possession of their territory, and the armed retainers, who were wont formerly to wander about as free lances, gave up their roving mode of life, settled down permanently, became landed proprietors and sought to share as boyars the prince's authority.

The greatest of these principalities was Novgorod. Since the days when Rurik had first chosen it as his headquarters the little capital on the Volkhov had grown into a great commercial city and brought under subjection a vast expanse of territory, stretching from the shores of the Baltic to the Ural mountains. Unlike the other Russian principalities it had a democratic, rather than a monarchical form of government. The republic of Novgorod was the first and only flicker of freedom in the long night of Russia, and it glowed but for a short moment.

Novgorod had a prince, but he was engaged by formal contract. He was merely the commander of the troops. All the political power remained in the hands of the civil officials. They had a popular assembly which was called together in the market place as occasion required, by the tolling of the great bell. The maxim of the state was: "If the prince is bad, into the mud with him."
In Moscow a different state of affairs obtained. There the supreme law was the will and whim of an autocrat. Democratic Novgorod and autocratic Moscow became bitter rivals. The future of Russia was in balance. The question was light or darkness, day or night, freedom or slavery for the future Russians. Had Novgorod won out in the thirteenth century we might not have the problem of bolshevism in Russia today. But it was to be otherwise, and with the success of Moscow, autocracy was enthroned. The Russian night came on.

Tatar Invasion.
Then came the Tatar yoke. The "Golden Horde" conquered Russia. The conquerors built their capital at Sarai on the lower Volga. The Mongols pillaged and robbed. Tax gatherers kept the people's backs bent in toil. The first trail to Siberia was blazed, the cruel road that was to play such an important part in the horrors of Russian history. Oddy enough the first wayfarers who journeyed on this road were Russian autocrats, the degenerate and corrupt descendants of Rurik. The grand khan, the chief of the Mongol empire, lived with the "Great Horde" in the valley of the Amur in Siberia. Russian princes were puppets in the eyes of this autocrat of autocrats. He commanded them to appear before him. Before making the perilous trip the prince made his last will and testament and gave direction for the guidance of his children. Few ever came back. The road to Siberia then, as later, was a journey into the shadow of death. Some died on the trip, others found execution the reception at its end. The few who returned escaped the wrath of the great khan by sycophancy and bribery.

The princes of Moscow were the most willing and pliant tools of the great khan. They outraged and robbed their own subjects to satisfy the Mongol court. Moscow grew strong under the Mongol empire. The betrayal of the Russians was the price. This is the taint in the blood of the czardom of Muscovy; out of this line the czars came. When the Russian princes became strong enough they turned on the Mongol empire. It was weakening. At the battle of Kulikovo, 1350, the Mongol yoke was broken.

Three czars, Ivan III, known as the Great, his son Basil, and his grandson Ivan IV, called Ivan the Terrible, whose united reigns cover a period of one hundred and twenty-two years, 1462 to 1584, forged and fixed the shackles on the people of Russia, shackles which clanked until the execution of the last Romanoff, Nicholas. It was Ivan III who snuffed out the last spark of liberty in Russia, the democracy of Novgorod. Ivan IV finished the job; popular assemblies were abolished, freedom of conscience was killed. The complete doom of the Russian people began.

TO BUILD WORKERS' HOMES
Belgium Allocates 100,000,000 Francs to Be Handled as Long-Term Loans.

The Belgian government has decided to allocate 100,000,000 francs in 1920 for building workmen's houses. This money will be lent to the local authorities or approved building societies at 2 per cent for twenty years, at the end of which time a new agreement will be entered into.

The conditions are that no loan may exceed half the cost of the building or a maximum of 6,000 francs and the rent charged must not amount to more than 4 per cent of the total cost of building.

It is officially calculated that the cost of building in the devastated areas will be about 10,000 francs to a house. A garden city of 100 houses in Roulers was begun September 21 and is to be finished in 120 working days.

Predicts Soviets for World.
A soviet wireless message received from Moscow flashed New Year's greetings to the world. The message after celebrating 1919 as a year of victory for the soviets, says: "In 1920 we shall attain a victorious end of civil war. Siberia, the Ukraine, the Don region and the Caucasus desire soviets. There also will be soviets at Berlin, Washington, Paris and London. Soviet authority will be supreme throughout the world."

Refuge

TEXT—The Lord shall fight for you and ye shall hold your peace.—Ex. 14:14

Protected from judgment by the blood of the lamb the people of Israel were on their way to leave the land of Egypt. Being pursued by Pharaoh and his army, they found their road led them between impassable mountains until before them rolled the waters of the Red sea. It looked as though certain capture and return to bondage would be their lot. But Moses, to comfort and encourage them, speaks, saying: "Stand still and see the salvation of the Lord—the Lord shall fight for you and ye shall hold your peace."

For the Christian today, Egypt and Pharaoh stand for the world and its god, Satan. These do not give up victims without a struggle, and all who have ever started to leave the world and be separate unto the Lord have found the need for just such a deliverer as the text speaks of.

A realization of the sufficiency of the Lord brings a calmness and a quiet into the soul of one pressed on every hand by Satan and his hosts, which nothing else can give. There is nothing too hard for him for he is the Almighty One. As easy for him to open the Red sea as to make it what it was. As easy for him to remove the mountains with a word as to make the mountains and the sea do as he wished with them. Pharaoh and his army were no more to him than a few feeble insects upon the face of the earth. As easy for him to overcome one as the other. Whatever the obstacle or whatever the might and power of the opposition makes little difference to him; he is the Almighty.

It may be asked how it is that so many of the Lord's people are overcome and brought back to the world in bondage again? Because they have not learned to "stand still" and allow him to fight for them. We are forever mistrusting the Lord. Fearful lest he forget us; we must be up and doing in order to deliver ourselves. Because of the legal tendency of our natures we adopt the world's motto and think that "the Lord helps those who help themselves." But the text says, "The Lord shall fight for you and ye shall hold your peace." Oh, that we might learn to "stand still" and allow him to fight for us; turning the discouraging and losing battle into a glorious victory for him and the path of deliverance for ourselves! In these days when there seems to be such increase in the power and subtlety of Satan, and when there seems such danger of the Christian being drawn back into the world, there is all the more need for us to meditate upon the sufficiency of our God.

Added confidence and peace come to us as we think of the relationship we sustain to him. Just as Israel in that far off day was his special people so we are today—perhaps closer than Israel was, for we are in a peculiar sense his children. When he fights for us he fights for his own. His love spurs him on to stand between us and all our enemies. Over and over in the Word he reminds us of his everlasting love. He says, "A mother may forget her sucking child, yet will I not forget thee." "I have loved you with an everlasting love," he tells his people.

Who has not heard of a mother's love urging her to go on fighting for her own until the limits of human endurance were reached and passed; but it is conceivable that a mother should forget her child. It is inconceivable that he should forget one of his own, however feeble that one should be, even as the sucking child.

What a refuge from danger we have in him. Under his wings there is perfect security and safety. When the hawk approaches the mother hen puts herself between it and her brood. To touch the chickens there must be first the overcoming of the mother hen. The Psalmist sings in his time of danger, "Under his wings will I abide." Oh, my troubled Christian friend, let this word get into your consciousness and rest in its sweetness—the Lord shall fight for you and ye shall hold your peace.

Satan is expert in arranging circumstances before the believer which seem almost to force that one back into the world for relief. There appears no more hope of overcoming than appeared to Israel, hemmed in on that road before the Red sea. But the sea did open and Israel did go through dry shod and Pharaoh was overcome and his power broken. Let this encourage and hearten the tried soul of the believer. That circumstance that seems to force you to compromise or yield to the world would be nothing in Jesus' hands. Let him fight for you while you hold your peace. Stand still (and that is about all we can do anyway) and he will come in with all his sufficiency and we will see the salvation of the Lord.

Mrs. Toddles Sadly Misunderstood the Note Sent to Her Hubby From the Library.
When a member desires a book that is not in a certain library, he files his application for the volume, which the librarian reserves for him on its return, notifying him that the book awaits his pleasure.
Now, it happened that one of the members applied for, but could not get at the time, a copy of a novel entitled "The Girl He Left Behind Him." In course of time a postcard arrived from the library, and as the member's wife is of a suspicious nature that postcard caused trouble, for it read:
"Mr. Toddles is informed that the girl he left behind him is now in the library, and will be kept for him till next Tuesday morning."—Pearson's Weekly.

"I want to know," she demanded with a tall-tale blush as she handed the clerk a pink communication addressed to her lover, "how long it will be before I get an answer to this letter."
"That depends," he answered; "if he's in jail they will let him write once a month only; if he's dead broke he'll have to wait till he can earn the price of a stamp, and I have no data upon which to base an opinion of his earning capacities. If he's ill in bed he may not care to dictate disinterested third party, and if it's small-pox they won't let him write at all; ditto, if he's dead. Then, again, if he's got a new girl—"

Remember the C. E. meeting in chapel at 7.30 on Thursday evening. This is the consecration meeting; come and answer to your name at the roll call. Topic: "How to Show Sympathy." Matt. 25: 34-40.

At the Congregational church last Sunday morning we were given an old fashioned expository sermon on the book of Jonah, which was intensely interesting. Mr. Osborne, the speaker, comes from the Gordon Inter-Church Institute and expects to be here again next Sunday.

The S. of V. Auxiliary held a May party on Monday evening after the regular meeting. This was only one of the merry parties held, there having been a "covered dish" party, and two "bring-something" parties. Next meeting it will be something more for a social time.

The Hillsboro County Pomona Grange met here yesterday. The topic for discussion was: Is the so-called Day-light Saving Law a detriment to the farmer, and if so, why? The program included a vocal solo, by Mrs. Henry Wilson; instrumental music, Mrs. Dana Weston; essay, Miss Mae Cashion; reading, Miss Grace Taylor; recitation, Mrs. Guy Keeser; and a discussion of the Milk Situation in New Hampshire.

The body of Mrs. George Edwards was recovered on Monday morning, after having been in the river since April 1st. It was noticed floating near the surface of the water by Fred Thompson as he drove through the covered bridge, it being near that spot going with the current down stream. Help was at once summoned and the body removed. It is a source of satisfaction to recover the body and know that her sufferings after leaving home was of very short duration.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from her late home, Rev. Henry A. Coolidge officiating. Mrs. H. W. Wilson and Mrs. J. D. Weston gave musical selections. The remains were taken this Wednesday morning to Milton, Mass., for interment.

George E. Hunt, of Bondville, Vt., is the guest of relatives and friends in town for a season.

Mrs. Charles Taylor and son, Ronald, have returned to their home for the summer, after spending the winter with Mr. Taylor in New York.

All who want to attend a good entertainment and at same time encourage the playing of base ball, should attend the attraction at Antrim town hall on Friday evening of this week. Read adv. on 4th page today.

Charles Harrison died on Thursday last at the home of his mother, Mrs. Henry Harrison, after a lingering illness of a number of months. His age was 86 years. Charles was known by all the younger people of this section, and for a long time he worked in the Goodell shops at Antrim and Bennington; he had a sunny disposition and was popular with his associates. He leaves besides a widowed mother, one brother and two sisters to mourn the loss. Services were held on Saturday.

Major Arthur J. Pierce and Mrs. Pierce are having a fine trip through the countries of Europe that they are visiting and the letters they write home to relatives and friends are most interesting. They expect to return home the middle or last of the present month.

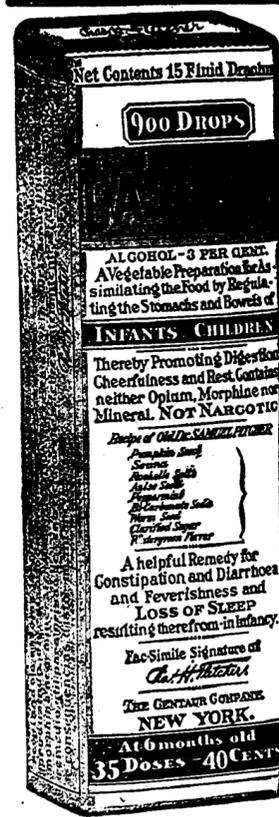

A letter which Major Pierce recently wrote to John E. Loveren, of Antrim, was most interesting to its recipient, and portions of the contents which were shown us will interest our readers, especially those who had relatives and friends overseas during the World War. Major Pierce and his wife have visited the many battlefields and places of interest connected with them; also saw the place where the big Bertha was stationed when it bombarded Paris sixty miles away. The big gun is not there now but the foundation of masonry, etc., is still in place. Other equally interesting places were visited. Perhaps none more so than the American cemetery in France, at Belleau Wood, Chateau Thierry, of which a photo was sent to Mr. Loveren, showing the layout of the grounds and the crosses marking the graves of the boys who made the supreme sacrifice. Each cross is painted white and has on it the name, clearly marked, of the boy whose remains are interred there, his regiment and company. The walks are nicely laid out and covered with small pebbles from the seashore. Three or four caretakers are there all the time and the place is a most beautiful one for location, and is kept in perfect condition always. On this photo Major Pierce marked the exact location of the resting place of Ralph Loveren, and had flowers sent out from the city to be placed on the grave.

It is a great source of comfort to relatives to know that such tender care is being taken of the final resting place of our boys who didn't come back. It was fine in Major and Mrs. Pierce to so thoughtfully visit this place and write relatives concerning it.
