Keep Your Family in Comfort Next Winter

If you can't send them to Florida for the winter, do the next best thing and install a Round Oak Pipeless Furnace that will circulate the balmy air of the South throughout the house all winter.

This furnace provides a genial warmth that is healthfully humidified, and sends it coursing through all rooms, using a minimum amount of any fuel.

ROUND OAK PIPELESS FURNACE

The scarcity of high-grade heating equipment, that the building boom has caused, makes immediate ordering a precaution against higher prices and delayed installation.
Drop in and talk it over at once.

REPUBLICAN VICTORY ASSURED

Returns at This Time Announce Big Triumph For Senator Harding

Thus it appears the League of Nations is not approved by the people generally of the United States. In this matter New Hampshire and New England were not alone in their way of thinking. The public believe there is a better and safer way of keeping us out of war and securing permanent peace. The Republican party will now have an opportunity to make good along this as well as every other line, and we expect to see it done.

New Hampshire is safely Republican in her Governor, U. S. Senator, Congressmen and many other officers. Senator Moses came through with flying colors, notwithstanding a bitter fight against him. It is gratifying to know that his worth and service to the state are appreciated.

In Antrim everything went Republican and the vote was probably the largest ever polled in town. Less than a hundred who didn't vote and the most of those were either out of town or for some good reason could not get to the polls.

It wouldn't make a bit of difference which way the election went on Tuesday, some would be pleased and others would be disappointed—only how it went would make a difference which class of men and women would smile. The country would be safe anyway, for the makeup of our big United States is such that an election cannot make or break the industrial system and change things a whole lot. The supply and demand figures in the matter to such an extent that below the rippling of the surface waters which may be affected apparently the current in the stream runs very smoothly and continues to run on and on till its purpose is accomplished.

We might go into details and say a whole lot about certain things that led up to the result in this election but of what avail? An unusual situation confronts us at this time—very much different than that which has followed any other presidential election for a long term of years, yet in a comparatively short space of time things must necessarily adjust themselves, and while we will not have normal times at present, the reconstruction period is moving on apace and in due time our country and its business will again be running along quite smoothly—let us hope.

The biennial election meeting was called to order by the Moderator, William E. Cram, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, and after the reading of the warrant, Rev. George Davies offered prayer.

Voting under Articles 1 and 2 was begun and continued until four o'clock. Counting was at once in order and the election board stayed with the job until it was finished; at nine o'clock the result was made public. The vote in detail appears elsewhere.

Article 1—To bring in your votes for Presidential Electors, for United States Senator, for Governor, for Representative in Congress from District No. 2, for Councillor from District No. 4, for Senator from District No. 9, for Sheriff, for County Solicitor, for County Treasurer, for Register of Probate, for Register of Deeds, for Three County Commissioners, for Representative to the General Court, for Three Supervisors of the Check List, and for Moderator.

Article 2—To vote upon the several Proposed Amendments to the Constitution.

The seven proposed Amendments to the Constitution was voted upon by about one-half of the voters, and upon all except the sixth there was a large yes vote.

Article 3—To receive and act upon the Report of the Committee appointed by vote of the Town at the March meeting, on Memorial Tablet and some other Memorial for Antrim ex-service men and women.

On vote of the meeting, at 1.30 in the afternoon the above article was taken up for action.

Henry A. Hurlin, for the committee, read the report. After consideration of the matter, the report was accepted by vote and the recommendations adopted, the vote for and against being very light. This report carried with it an appropriation of $5000 for the erection of a suitable granite monument with bronze tablets. (This report was quite lengthy and for lack of time to put it in type this week it will appear in our columns next week).

The same committee was elected to carry forward the work.

Article 4—To receive and act upon the Report of the Committee appointed by vote of the Town at the March meeting, on the cost and possible sales of a new Town History.

Richard C. Goodell reported for this committee, asking for more time, which was granted.

The following is the result of the vote in Antrim:

ARMISTICE DAY

Proclamation Issued by Governor Bartlett

Two years ago, on the eleventh of November, a cessation of the most stupendous war in the world's history brought joy to the millions of its people in Europe and America. The nation which had waged hostilities against the forces of civilization with a ferocity unsurpassed in the annals of warfare acknowledged defeat and laid down its arms before the armies of liberty. The part which our country played in that glorious event is inevitably recalled as the anniversary of the armistice comes around. It is fitting and proper that the self sacrifice and devotion of our brave defenders of liberty should be recognized on that day.

Therefore, as Governor of the State of New Hampshire, I, John H. Bartlett, urge upon all our citizens to hold this day in sacred remembrance. Let the flag of our country for which our blood and treasure was expended without stint, be displayed prominently on Armistice Day, November 11, 1920. Let appropriate exercises be held wherever practicable, to pay tribute to those who served so nobly in the Great War, to the end that it may not be said that their honorable sacrifices are unrewarded and forgotten, and that this spirit may be inculcated in those who are to carry on the torch of liberty which they kept burning in the world's darkest hours.

John H. Bartlett,
Governor.

LYCEUM COURSE

The First Antrim Entertainment is Next Week

It is surprising to some to learn what a delightful, well-rounded program can be produced by two people. If you have any doubts hear the Briarcliff Girls when they appear on the Lyceum course, at Antrim town hall, next Wednesday evening, Nov. 10. This is their second year together. Last season they made a tremendous hit in some of the largest cities of New England, New York and Pennsylvania.

The Briarcliff Girls are finished products. They have ability, intelligence and experience. They are attractive, vivacious, and are sincere in a desire to give their best to every audience.

Miss Winifred Caverly is a girl of many talents. She is an excellent reader, a finished pianist, and possesses a good singing voice. Her specialty on the program is the presentation of clever pianologues.

Miss Helen Habel is not only a good contralto but a violinist as well. Their numbers are delightfully new; their whole performance a carefully worked out program, which should prove very acceptable.

Card of Thanks

I take this opportunity to thank the committee, the very efficient waitresses, also Mr. Downes and Mr. Prentiss as ushers, and Mrs. Robert Jameson for the entertainment she gave, making the Harvest Supper a great success, socially and financially.

We also thank those who solicited for giving so generously that we were able to feed over 300, clearing $155.
Mrs. S. S. Sawyer,
Chairman of Com.

American Legion to Observe Armistice Day

Armistice night will be fittingly observed in Antrim when the local Post of The American Legion will hold its first annual concert and ball. The Post has decided to take this way of observing the day and if possible to reimburse the treasury of the Legion. Music will be furnished by Reynolds Orchestra, of Brockton, Mass., which is highly recommended for concert and dance music. Tickets for the concert will be sold separately for those people who do not care to dance, so let everybody come and enjoy himself. Watch for posters and don't forget the date.

FROM WASHINGTON

The Reporter's Correspondent Writes Again

A cabinet officer who made a hit with the nation's bankers at the Washington convention, was Secretary of Agriculture Meredith, who emphasized the fact that "the farmer must secure his cost of production plus a reasonable profit." He described agriculture as the basic interest of America, and declared that individual bankers in every community must use their strongest endeavors to promote the welfare of the farmers. Mr. Meredith told of the constructive work done by the Department in preventing wheat rust, checking the cattle tick, the boll weevil, and other pests. He denounced the false economy of Congress which put several divisions of the Department of Agriculture practically out of business, while $250,000 was voted for "free seeds" for Congressional distribution. The Secretary said that he was sorry that he could not say that "free seeds" are "good seeds." He explained that at the close of the season the Department of Agriculture purchases the "left-overs" from the big seed houses of the country. These institutions will not guarantee the seeds sold to the Government, which in turn are distributed throughout the country. A good many people have believed that the Government seeds have special merit, and think that they come from experimental farms and places that insure their quality. The head of the Agricultural Department dispels this illusion. He describes the free distribution of seeds as a custom unworthy of being continued, and as a piece of wanton waste of public money.

Sunday Law

The first hearing of the Governor's Committee, appointed to consider changing the existing Sunday laws in New Hampshire will be held at the State House in Concord at 11 o'clock on Tuesday, November 9. The Committee has selected this day and hour with the hope that a goodly number of interested persons in our state can be present. The subject of Sunday Observance and the possibility of changing our existing laws is one which merits most earnest attention by all who have the welfare of our state at heart.

W. R. C. Inspection

Ephraim Weston Woman's Relief Corps, No. 85, met at their rooms Nov. 2 and entertained Mrs. Jennie M. Stevens as Inspector of the Corps. Four new members were added by initiation. Ice cream and cake were served, and a social hour enjoyed.
Mrs. Ida B. Robb, Press Cor.

Don't Wait

Take Advantage of a Citizen's Experience

When the back begins to ache,
Don't wait until backache becomes chronic;
'Till kidney troubles develop;
'Till urinary troubles destroy night's rest.

Profit by a Concord citizen's experience.

Mrs. I. A. Taylor, 37 High St., Concord, says: "I hurt my back which affected my kidneys. I had pains and a dull, steady ache just over my hips and through my kidneys. My kidneys acted very irregularly. I had known of Doan's Kidney Pills for a long time, so I used some. They surely stopped the trouble and it has been five years since I have had any occasion to take a kidney medicine."

Harvest Supper a Grand Success

The Mission Circle of the Presbyterian church carried through their annual Harvest Supper last Wednesday evening. To say it was a success is putting it mildly. The ladies of the Circle showed excellent judgment when they chose as manager Mrs. S. S. Sawyer. She has had considerable experience in the management of such suppers and simply put in operation her knowledge of such things. She was ably supported by an efficient force in the kitchen and a remarkably able group of waiters, who were accurate in many compliments from visitors and town people for their promptness and courtesy.

The exact number of people served was not kept, but a considerable number above three hundred enjoyed the superior food and service.

After the supper an entertainment was enjoyed in the town hall, consisting of moving pictures. The subject of the picture was "The Corsican Brothers." The scenes depicted were those of Corsican and Parisian life. The benedicta so frequently mentioned in literature was visualized and a splendid idea of the life and customs of the Island of Corsica was exhibited. Parisian life, with all its gaiety was brought out.

The exhibit of fruit and vegetables was in charge of W. L. Lawrence, who with his usual skill in display made the table worth while.

Attractive fancy work and candy tables were also very busy places during the evening.

A splendid spirit of cordiality prevailed throughout the evening and visitors and strangers frequently commented on the reception accorded them. The whole evening's program reflected much credit on those who had charge of the affair.

This year we have three Thanksgiving days in November—Wednesday, Nov. 3, Thursday, Nov. 11, and Thursday, Nov. 25. Truly the Americans are a grateful people.

Americanism
By LEONARD WOOD

I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty or give me death! —Patrick Henry: Speech before the Virginia convention March, 1775.

EVERY American schoolboy knows this speech of Patrick Henry. In recent years serious speakers have avoided it as a text and rarely have used it as a quotation. Why? Simply because it is so well known and has been repeated so many times in the years past for public platforms that the thought has been it is worn threadbare. There even have been those who have looked upon it as a bit of "spray-catchment" and therefore not to be used in what they call dignified discourse.

The men who look upon this utterance of Patrick Henry in this way lose sight of the spirit of the times and the immediate spirit of the occasion which induced its utterance. It was a ringing and a daring speech and it meant Americanism at a time when only the fearless were thinking of Americanism in all that the word implies.

Freedom, equality of men before the law, those inalienable rights of mankind, which the Declaration of Independence only one year after Henry spoke in Virginia, made as plain as John Hancock's signature so that all men might read.

Patrick Henry in this speech said that he did not know what course others might take. There were then men who feared to follow the path which led to independence, and there were other men who did not believe that liberty with equality could be attained, or if attained could be maintained. The doubting ones drew lessons from the past and predicted like happenings in the future. America has given the answer to the doubters in this country.

There is but one course that men may take if they would insure the preservation of those institutions which were in Patrick Henry's mind when he demanded liberty and made death preferable if it were to be denied. Americans born here or born elsewhere have liberty in their hands to keep or to throw away. Americanization has but one object, the teaching of that kind of citizenship which holds liberty priceless.

Thread in Manchuria.
Almost all of the $2,000,000 worth of cotton thread imported annually into Manchuria comes from Japan, partly because Japanese manufacturers have the advantage over possible competitors of government encouragement and support, and partly because there has been little competition from those sufficiently interested in this market to study its requirements as have the Japanese, says the New York Times.

Goods were placed with merchants on consignment until they became known, were extensively advertised, and are now sold on liberal credit basis, so that American manufacturers entering the market will not only have to compete on a quality basis, but should adopt similar methods of pushing their goods.

Twins of Ninety-Five.
Living in the Scotch village of Inverkip are twins, James and William Ford, ninety-five years old. Neither of them has had a day's illness, and James has never been a single night out of the house in which he was born.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Poor and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice A. Poor gave a Halloween party at the former's home on Saturday evening last, to about thirty-five of their friends. A very pleasant time was enjoyed by all present. The hosts had made great preparations for the party in the way of decorations and the effect all over the house was very pleasing. Games were indulged in and everybody had a fine time. Refreshments of different kinds were served.

We made mention of the fact in these columns a few weeks ago that a committee from Waverley Lodge of Odd Fellows was appointed to consider the advisability of inviting members of Bethesda Lodge of South Boston to visit Antrim, probably in November. It has been decided that the visitation will not be this month. The same committee is retained and other committees will be appointed as needed to make the necessary arrangements to stage this show in May or June of the coming year.

The Ford Sedan is high-class in appearance and appointments. The seats are restful, and deeply upholstered with cloth of high quality. Large doors give convenient entrance on either side; plate glass windows make it a closed car for inclement weather, and give fresh air when open. With high quality in appearance and equipment there is the simple and safe control in driving. A woman's car—a family car for every day in the year.

Crying For Bread

New East Relief Workers Distributing Bread to Newly Arrived Armenian Refugees in Constantinople.

The Constantinople district of the Near East Relief is wonderfully organized. All the bakeries which formerly supplied the Turkish army, under German management, have been taken over by the Near East Relief, and 20,000 loaves of bread are baked and distributed daily. Placed side by side, these loaves would make a line 280 miles long, for the five months that the Near East Relief has operated its consolidated bakeries in Constantinople, alone.

The Near East Relief, with offices in every state, is asking for funds to go on with this work.

Harem Victim Tells Story

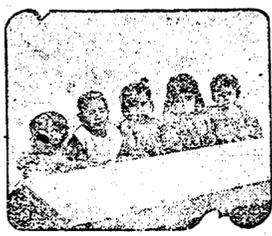

Stolen from her home on the night before her wedding and imprisoned for five years in a Turkish harem, Aghavni Millian, a beautiful nineteen-year-old Armenian girl from Bitlis, has at last been discovered by her lover and through the assistance of the Near East Relief forcibly taken from her master and brought to one of the American Rescue Homes in Constantinople. Here she will stay until arrangements can be made for her marriage and her return to her old home.

"My story—it is like hundreds of others," Aghavni said simply. "I was stolen from my home on the night that the massacres first began in Bitlis. It was the night before I was to have been married. I was just folding my wedding veil away when the Turkish soldiers broke into the house. They carried me off. — They took me

WAITING FOR US TO SET THE TABLE

A table twenty-four miles long is plainly an extension table and that is just the length that would seat all of the orphans now being fed by the Near East Relief. This table is set in sections all over the hills of Asia Minor, Syria, Armenia and in Northern Persia. It is not in one piece. The Turks, who still keep the Armenians in a state of terror, do not allow it.

But there the table is, seated on both sides with orphans—Syrian and

The Table is Now 24 Miles Long.

Assyrian, Greek and Armenian, Jew and Christian—all rescued from the four of the Turk and under the care of American men and women.

Most of the children are cared for in 220 American supported orphanages. The first ceremony in receiving these starved, almost naked children, is to clean them up. They are not only emaciated, but dirty with sores and vermin—60 hospitals and over 6,000 beds are kept full of the little sufferers.

But the children keep changing. Last year they were all thin and pitiful; now it is the newcomers who are thin. The orphans who have been from six months to a year in American care are well fed and well clothed.

Best of all for a new Near East which surely must come out of all this distress, every child old enough is being taught a trade which will make him self supporting.

They are a thrifty lot, these little parentless exiles. From their scant store of bread they always carry a portion in a small bag about their necks—they fear the day of another killing, another drive into the desert.

They horde the shoes sent from America until snow flies—they remember their barefoot pain in the snows last spring.

They cling to their new found friends. Every day other little waifs find a place in the orphanages and are told of the generous people of the United States. Soon the entrances will be crowded with children frozen out from their temporary summer quarters.

Then the table of the Near East Relief must be extended—many, many new leaves will be needed, and America is asked to set the table.

AGHAVNI MILLIAN.

up to Constantinople to the house of the man"— She stopped and put one hand over her eyes, a hand that bore the tell-tale tattoo of her Turkish master.

"But what does my story matter?" she exclaimed. "I am only one of so many. It is my people and their future that matters. Somehow we must rebuild our nation and show to the Turks who tried to beat out our life and to the whole world that, despite what we have suffered, Armenia is still unconquerable."

Aghavni Millian is, as she says, only one of many. It is estimated that one hundred thousand girls are still held captive in Turkish harems. The Near East Relief, America's official agent in Armenia, is making this work of rescue one of the most important features of its program, and it is to them and the support they receive from the American people that Aghavni's unfortunate sisters, still captive, must look for their release.

Armenian Refugees Line Up for Food.

As cold weather sets in refugees are pouring into Near East Relief centers. This group is fed daily in the former Russian barracks at Alexandropol, one of the safest cities in the Caucasus.

that go down through generations

WE are frankly proud of this store's reputation as Headquarters for time-pieces.

We have literally timed the community. Our watches are ticking merrily away in homes everywhere. And what is more important still, these watches have kept correct time. They have been something more than looks.

It is just as well to keep in mind that the purchase of a watch should be made with the greatest possible care. Watches are bought not for one lifetime but for many. A time-piece should be handed down from one generation to another—from father to son—indisputably. And a good watch will give its service uncompromisingly.

We have in stock all standard makes and all in all types and designs from the highly specialized railroad time-piece to the delicate mechanical wrist watch for my lady of fashion.

NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE NEWS

Richard Gaudette shot a fine specimen of "bob cat" in Stratham. The animal was a large one, measuring several feet from tip to tip, and weighing twelve pounds.

Christian Endeavorers from all over the state gathered in Portsmouth Friday last for a three day's session in the Loyalty Convention of the New Hampshire C. E. union.

The 27th annual convention of the New Hampshire Advent Christian Sunday School union was held in Concord, in connection with the Advent Christian conference which held a three days' meeting in that city.

After two months of patient waiting the Dover police succeeded in landing a sedan automobile in which Christ Collins of Haverhill, Mass., is alleged to have been bringing Jamaica ginger to Dover and supplying various booze peddlers.

Howard Burbank and Frank Bailey, both of Hooksett, escaped death when the automobile in which they were riding plunged through the iron railing of the bridge into Suncook River, a distance of 85 feet. Both young men crawled out of the water and up the bank. Soon after they were given medical treatment by a physician for minor bruises.

Through the honesty of Edward Georges and his son Arthur Georges, Keene, automobile dealers, Mr. and Mrs. Pauline Sanford, Me., recovered $12,000 in money and securities. The money was in a lady's hand bag. The Georges picked up while on a road to Hanover recently. Mr. Georges received a new automobile robe as a reward.

Mott J. Bartlett, fish and game commissioner, in a public statement urges hunters to exercise great care in the woods, that the declaration of a closed season in New Hampshire for the prevention of forest fires may not be necessary as has been the case in Massachusetts. Wardens are directed to use every precaution to prevent and control fires, and are asked to seek the co-operation of every gunner met in the campaign of fire prevention and control.

The League of Women Voters is the clearing house for women of all parties where they could temporarily forget party connections, and remembering the things that bind all women together, work for the accomplishment in their program. The appropriation for the prevention of disease, etc., among various was $4,000,000, the children's bureau at Washington was struggling along on a pittance of $400,000. The League functions entirely apart from political parties, as it was a civic, not a political organization, and would work primarily to supplement the work of the parties.

The meeting of the New Hampshire Horticultural association and the New Hampshire Beekeepers' association had a large delegation in attendance at Exeter. An apple naming contest conducted by Elmer B. Parker of Wilton, and an apple judging contest in charge of Prof. George F. Potter of the New Hampshire college was one of the features.

The following officers of the New Hampshire Horticultural society were chosen: President, Stanley K. Lovell of Goffstown; vice president, J. T. Harvey of Pittsfield; secretary-treasurer, James A. Tufts, Jr., of Exeter; executive committee, Elmer B. Parker of Wilton, Walter B. Farmer of Hampton Falls, and Prof. George F. Potter of New Hampshire college.

Holds Annual Meeting The New Hampshire League of Women Voters held its annual meeting in Manchester.

Lowell Trip Chrestos Nonnis, 49, who arrived in Nashua from Yabhis City, Wash., to visit his brother-in-law, T. Vephus, 33 Ash St., lost $2,000 in the "strong box game" to two strangers, after the three men had a ride to Lowell in an automobile.

Revised Sabbath Law Hearing Set The first hearing of the Governor's committee, appointed to consider changing the existing Sunday laws in New Hampshire will be held at the State House in Concord at 11 o'clock on Tuesday, Nov. 9. The committee has selected this day and hour with the hope that a goodly number of interested persons in our state can be present. "The subject of Sunday observance and the possibility of changing our existing laws is one which merits most earnest attention by all who have the welfare of our state at heart," the chairman says in announcing the hearing.

Suspicious-Looking Liquid Sampled by Skeptical Marshal City Marshal Manchester of Franklin visited Lawndale and gathered a sample of H liquid that was being manufactured there. The head of the house he visited said that it was a cough medicine that was being concocted for the children of the family. The marshal took along the sample and sent it to State Chemist Howard of Concord for analysis with a view to learning whether or not it contained alcohol.

Held for Safe-Breaking City Marshal W. H. Philbrick of Keene, has received word that Wilbur Adshade, formerly of that city, is at the Worcester County jail in Massachusetts awaiting trial on a charge of safe-breaking at Westboro, Mass., recently. The officers asked Marshal Philbrick to forward Adshade's record in New Hampshire. Adshade was arrested in 1917 in Keene on a charge of assault with intent to kill Fred Hall. Following a long jury trial he was found guilty and sent to state's prison for a term of from 2-1/2 to 4 years. He was paroled at the end of his minimum sentence.

Land Bought by State The purchase of a large tract of land at Ponomah, just east of Milford, by the state of New Hampshire, is announced. It is land lying along the Nashua road, the Southside Boulevard.

It is understood that the state forestry department will have control of the land and will use it as an experimental tract in raising white pine. The flat, rather sandy land between Milford and South Merrimack, seems well adapted to pine forestation, but in past years the railroad, hunters, berry pickers and campers have caused so many fires there that few trees have reached maturity.

Searching for Wet Goods find Dry-goods Dover police, in their search of the tenement house at 13 and 15 Portland St., for wet goods, were rewarded by finding over 1,000 pairs of cloth claimed to have been stolen from the Pacific Mills, James S. Sargent, pleaded nolo and a fine of $55 and costs was imposed.

Eugenie Adamopoulos, who arraigned, pleaded guilty to the stealing of 585 yards of cloth, valued at $187.75. She said that the cloth did not belong to her but to her uncle who has left for Greece. This case was continued for hearing and the respondent furnished bonds in the sum of $200.

State School Raises Only Medium Crops A recommendation will be made to the incoming legislature in the estimates of the State Industrial School appropriation, for the erection of a one story cement cattle barn, the expense of which is fixed at $20,000, to replace the wooden building destroyed by fire on August 1st last. It will be devoted to cattle exclusively, the horses owned by the state being kept apart.

The past year has been on the whole a successful season on the farm. Like all other farms the state lost heavily on potatoes, through rot. 2,000 bushels, 500 were lost by rotting. By frost holding off late the institution has had sweet corn for its population of 200 people until within two weeks. The farm has turned out a fine crop of tomatoes, beets, carrots, turnips, musk melons, and water melons, and will harvest 4,000 heads of cabbages. Not over 50 barrels of apples were picked while the institution could easily consume 200 barrels.

There was a heavy loss of hay from the fire, and while an attempt was made to supply it by cutting late grass in Hooksett, the hay supply for the winter will be short. Forty head of Holsteins are now being fed. The fire destroyed the institution's silo, so that silo corn has been curing in the fields and fed to the cattle. The crop of field corn is large.

Contemplate Egg Laying Contest in Cheshire County The starting of an egg laying contest in Cheshire county is contemplated by the Cheshire County Farm bureau. The contest is similar to those being conducted in other sections and will probably start on Nov. 15 and end on April 30. There will be two classes with prizes awarded in each class. The farm bureau will have entry blanks and will also furnish blanks on which each individual shall keep an accurate record during the contest.

It will be a non-essential contest, the birds being allowed to remain in the owner's pen and will wear a lead band and kept in a pen by themselves. The birds in the contest should be hatched prior to May 1. The person who enters the contest with one or more pens of birds is to keep an accurate account of the amount of feed consumed and the number of eggs produced. Entries are to be accepted in two classes, farm contestants with pens of 25 pullets or pens and town contestants with pens of 10 pullets or hens. The contest for the purpose of inspiring interest in the raising of better stock, to show the advantages of systematic feeding, proper sanitation, to acquire better knowledge in poultry management and to demonstrate it a profitable farm enterprise. Monthly reports of the contest are to be published in the Farm Bureau bulletin.

Amoskeag Woolen Department Closed All goods in process of running through the worsted departments on the Amoskeag corporation, Manchester, are finished and the department is shut down. The last operatives to complete the work which has been under way for some time were those of the inspecting room. It has been understood that just as soon as goods passing through were finished the worsted department would not run longer until further notice. No time is set for a resumption of work in this department.

JOURNAL PRINTED BY INDIANS Cherokee Once Had a Newspaper That May Be Said to Have Become a Power.

The Cherokee Indians, when still occupying what now is the state of Georgia, published a newspaper in their native tongue in 1828. One of their tribe, Sequoyah by name, in 1823 designed 86 characters that were to represent the Cherokee language in print. The national committee and council of the tribe meeting at New Echota, the capital of their nation, in 1826, voted a fund to buy type, a press and the necessary equipment. The paper was known as the Cherokee Phoenix. Half of it was printed in Cherokee and half in English. Hundreds of full-blood Indians who otherwise would have remained illiterate all their lives, were thus enabled to read after mastering the alphabet. These Indians became subscribers of the paper, as did members of neighboring states, and the paper became a power.

The Phoenix was known in Europe, and among other famous papers that, asked to be placed on the exchange list was the London Times. The paper was in operation for about five years, and was harassed when the movement having for its object the removal of the Cherokee Indians westward was at its height. It suspended publication when the Georgia state legislature forbade a white man to live among the Cherokees.

The honor of becoming the first Indian editor fell to Elias Boudinot, a native-born citizen of the nation. The Phoenix was known in Europe, and among other famous papers that, asked to be placed on the exchange list was the London Times. The paper was in operation for about five years, and was harassed when the movement having for its object the removal of the Cherokee Indians westward was at its height. It suspended publication when the Georgia state legislature forbade a white man to live among the Cherokees.

DRAW ON AFRICAN FORESTS Plan on Foot to Increase World's Supply of Wood From That Source Going Forward.

A reinforcement for the world demand for lumber is preparing in British East Africa, where there are between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 acres of woodland to draw upon, and a new industry, very infantile at present, is expected to grow so rapidly that the government is now considering plans to improve the harbor facilities for exporting the forests. The best wood is suitable for wheel makers and wagon builders and the making of wood block paving, railway sleepers, bridges, ox yokes, and ax, pick and tool handles. It also makes good flooring and lining boards. The builder, however, must needs be of a patient disposition if he postpones building until these British East African woods are available. Meantime there are new sounds in some of the African forests, the rhythm of the woodsman's ax, the buzz of the sawmill, and the puffing of under-sized locomotives on the narrow gauge tracks that are penetrating from the main line of railway into the woodlands. And many a workman, no doubt, will some day work with tools whose handles grew in an African forest.

Must Have Been in Movie Show. A recent night in an eastern city two policemen saw a man swinging a woman back and forth from the fourth story window of a building while she kept up a continuous screaming. They rushed upstairs and into the room, saved the woman and arrested the man. But, they noticed that his eyes were closed. At police headquarters a doctor who examined him said the man was suffering from nightmare and was not aware of what he was doing. If we lived in that family it wouldn't be necessary to close the windows at night, they would be nailed down tight all the time.—Capper's Weekly.

BEAVERS DO MUCH MISCHIEF Property Owners in the Adirondacks Are Uneasy Over the Situation They Have Created.

Because the limited intelligence of the beaver goes no further than its own immediate purposes, owners of property in the Adirondacks are wishing that the beaver was less industrious and seriously wondering what is to be done to stop the increasing number of these willing workers from decreasing the value and beauty of this famous region. The forest rangers of the conservation commission, says a writer in the Albany Journal, last summer estimated the undesirable results that had followed the building of nearly 600 beaver dams, and found that an area of about 8,881 acres had been flooded, and something like $51,000 worth of good merchantable standing timber was being destroyed. Considering that the number of beavers, now estimated at about 18,000 is believed to be increasing about 3,000 a year, the damage bids fair to become a serious problem. Not only do they destroy valuable timber, but they are steadily changing the character of the Adirondack scenery along the water courses and altering the shore line of the lakes; yet the region without any beavers at all would not be the Adirondacks as nature made it and as those who now go there to enjoy its beauty like to find it. Time was when the beavers seemed likely to vanish, and the state took them under its protection; now the danger seems to be that they are so well protected that they will eventually "come back" in numbers out of proportion to the normal population of beavers when the Adirondacks were subject to the conditions of life in a wild country.

Indian Pilgrimage. Fifty thousand Indians from all parts of Mexico recently completed their week of homage to their patron saint, the Virgin of Guadalupe, and their pilgrimage to the shrine of the Virgin.

JOKE ON BOTH "CHAPPIES" Some Particulars About Their English Raiment With Which They Were Not Acquainted.

It isn't exactly their swell brand of golf that entitles them to be so decidedly English in their apparel, but they've a "fawncy" for the English raiment just the same. "How do you like my English cap, old chap?" one of them asked. "It's a turtle, old dear, but it isn't quite so English as mine," the other said. "Oh, mine is, quite." "No, not nearly." And so they compared caps. But when they looked at the names of the makers it was discovered by the "decidedly English" follower that his cap had been made in New York. The other bore a London label—and, of course, you understand, old chap, it was quite a "lawf." And the funny feature of it all is that the New York cap was made to appeal to the English trade, while the London cap was designed to catch the fancy of the Yank.

Muscle Not Properly Applied. Every day evidence appears that the American male is physically more powerful than his ancestors. The burglars who entered an apartment on Central Park West carried off not merely the little valuables, but also a safe weighing 400 pounds. Two thieves who operated in a restaurant in business hours abandoned the old school method of snatching the money from the till and took the cash register intact. Not a week passes but some warehouse reports the theft of a dozen barrels of whisky each of which weighs at least 350 pounds. School playgrounds, the baseball fields and the gymnasiums seem to have done wonders for the biceps of our youth in certain lines. But why is it, when an effort is made to divert some of this magnificent strength to commonplace work, that an apparent disintegration of muscle ensues?—New York Sun.

Aerial Postal in India. An issue of Shipping and Engineering announces that the Bombay-Karachi aerial postal service is now in operation, using three-passenger De Havilland machines, carrying 1,000 pounds of mail and other baggage. Mails are delivered in Karachi on the day of their arrival in Bombay, and outward mails are dispatched on the day steamers are due to leave.

The local election went strongly Republican for all offices. Arthur F. Bell was elected Representative, being unopposed.

Mrs. Bernice Haas, Mrs. Helen Duncklee and Mrs. Hattie Wilson all carried over loads to the Division Fair at Hillsboro on Friday afternoon.

Miss Doris Wilson was a one act play under way for the benefit of the S. of V. Auxiliary. It is expected it will be given the 19th of this month.

The building which the Emerson Co. purchased of George King is nearly completed, and the machinery from the Kimball shop is being moved in.

It seems good to have the trains back on standard time. The thought was passed along in one of the C. E. meetings not long ago that everything was in a turmoil, with the exception of the stars and flowers—let us hope there is a better time coming.

Times will be busy in Bennington this winter as the Paper Mill has arranged contract for the building of a large store house which will have a capacity to store the contents of a hundred carloads. It will be three stories high and one hundred feet square, will be fireproof throughout, being built of brick and concrete. The building will be erected by the Aberthaw Construction Co., of Boston, who built their concrete coal trestle.
