TOWN IMPROVEMENTS

Public Scales and Shed on Town Hall Lot

Ground was broken on Tuesday morning on the vacant lot at the rear of the town hall block for the installation of the new set of town scales, which have already arrived. After a certain amount of excavation has been done and the foundation part of the scales put in position, the platform will be placed on a higher level than the surrounding ground which will be properly graded up.

The driveway on either side of the town building will be graded and made wider where conditions will permit, the idea being to make the grade and roadway just as easy as possible for large loads and large trucks are sure to use these scales. These are ten ton scales and the platform will be long enough to accommodate the wheel base of long vehicles.

Locating these scales in this particular place will make it necessary to keep the driveway around the town buildings always in good condition and thus be an improvement to the town property.

Between the new town scales and the stream will be erected the new shed voted for at the March meeting. This will house the road rollers, road machines and town tools, and be a well built shed of matched boards and painted.

The Selectmen have in mind that all this work, at the rear of the town block, so near the street, and in full view of the residents and passers by on the opposite side of the stream, must be well done, present a good appearance, and when completed be an improvement to the property. They will see to it that everything is carried out as near as may be as the people of the town desire. The town has a good board of Selectmen and they can be relied upon to do their very best in this respect as well as along every other line.

EASTER OBSERVED

Special Attention to Day Given in Churches

Easter was observed at the churches on Sunday by specially prepared sermons from the pastors and special music by the choirs. Committees in charge of decorations had the churches well provided with potted plants in full bloom, cut flowers and Easter lilies, the same being tastefully arranged and presenting a most beautiful appearance.

A large audience witnessed the Easter concert at the Presbyterian church last Sunday morning. The committee in charge were Mrs. Drew, Mrs. Temple and Miss Barrett. The program this committee arranged and carried through successfully reflected much credit on themselves, and the children taking part. The songs and recitations were of a high order, very appropriate, and greatly enjoyed by the audience.

A full choir rendered Easter songs, which added much to the success of the program. Dr. Cameron made a short address on the words "And they found," Luke 24:2, emphasizing what the women found viz: an open sepulchre, an empty sepulchre, and a living Christ.

A collection was taken for a Presbyterian college and hospital in Siam and many responded liberally.

The Baptist Sunday School gave an Easter concert on Sunday morning. The exercises by the children were well rendered. Special music was provided by an augmented choir. The offering for the New England Baptist Hospital amounted to over $30.00. Flowering geraniums were distributed to the junior members of the Sunday School, including those on the Cradle Roll, and to the shut-in members of the parish.

There were no concert exercises at the Methodist church, but the choir and a quartet rendered appropriate music. The pastor gave a specially prepared Easter sermon. A feature of the service was the publicly expressed desire of a class of young ladies to begin and continue the Christian life.

Deschenes-Proctor

Cards are out announcing the marriage on Monday of this week, of Miss Ethel J. Proctor, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Proctor, to Homer J. Deschenes, of East Jaffrey. Mrs. Deschenes has made her home in Antrim since 1914, but for the past three years has been a teacher in the public school at East Jaffrey. Mr. Deschenes is employed in Goodnow Bros. store in the same town. The couple are now enjoying a brief honeymoon trip in Massachusetts, after which they will make their home at East Jaffrey.

A FEW THOUGHTS

Suggested by What Is Happening Around

"Did you hear the wild geese going over on Sunday evening about 7.30 o'clock, and can you tell which way they were flying?"

It will be the year 1932 before Easter will come again as early in the year as it did this spring. And 1940 before it falls on an earlier date than last Sunday.

Beginning Monday, it is said that 100 percent production schedules will be put into effect in practically every automobile plant in Detroit. This certainly has the right sound and shows that the trend of industry is upward.

The daylight regulation in Massachusetts, which is to govern the running of trains on the Boston & Maine railroad, becomes operative April 24. The mixup may not be as bad this year, for after having to endure it one season it may come easier the second year.

The legislature has decided to allow the Sunday law to remain unchanged. The blue law provisions, whatever they may mean, will stay on the books. We have been unable to decide in our own minds just why a change was desired. Some say 'twas because of a desire to legalize the open Sunday. Now will someone tell us what these offenders care about the law anyway; they do exactly as they wish, and seem to know that the law will not be enforced. A law is of no use unless it is made to be operative.

The New York Central Railroad has announced a 10 percent reduction for round trip tickets, with time limit, effective between May 15 and June 1, up to Sept. 30, to all points in its territory. Restoration of the "home-seekers" rates for colonists bound for points west of Chicago also was announced. These rates were abolished during the war.

This sounds better than the proposed 10 percent increase in fares by the B. & M. railroad, when this proposition is being vigorously opposed by men prominently identified with the industrial life of the state. They say it would be an injustice to business interests and a certain means of retarding progress.

Nicaragua, we are told, wants to quit the League of Nations because the $4000 a month that membership costs her is more than she can pay, and she already owes the League $48,000.

When dues in a beneficiary order are high the benefits are correspondingly large, but in this case: just what are the benefits anyway? No doubt the by-laws state, but perhaps they conflict with the constitution, and if so they need revising. We await the committee's report.

We quote that Patrick Henry said, "It is natural for man to indulge in the illusions of hope." Without doubt everybody that travels the road between our village and Hillsboro is in hopes that the piece of road which was closed up from public travel last year will be finished at an early date, so that the travel will not be obliged to go on the back road. It looks as if it might be a long summer's job; it needs a working boss on the job. Benjamin Franklin said, "He who by the plow would thrive must himself either hold or drive."

SCHOOL MEETING

Important Matters to be Considered April 4th

The postponed Antrim School Meeting will be called to order on Monday next, at two o'clock in the afternoon, April 4. This is a very important meeting and should be attended by all our voters, both male and female. The matters to be considered are all vital to the best interests of our schools and need the thoughtful consideration and action of our people. Let everybody who possibly can so arrange to be present at this adjourned meeting of the school district.

Learn a Trade!

The time is coming again pretty soon when the man with a good trade will be ace high and twice as happy as the silk stockinged guy who has been living high in the past few years on the wave of prosperity and doing nothing much to add to either the production of the world or the good of humanity in general. And what trade is better than the printing trade today? It is cleaner than most trades, as healthful, as dependable all the year round—and it affords every man or boy in it a good education by which he is fitted to enjoy life on the highest plane or occupy higher positions that may come to him. The world is full of examples of printers who have become successful newspaper men and then men of great wealth afterward.

Americanism

By LEONARD WOOD

It was in making education not only common to all, but in some sense compulsory on all, that the destiny of the free republic of America was practically settled.—James Russell Lowell: "New England Two Centuries Ago."

IGNORANCE is the enemy of democracy. Without our schools we might as well shut up our government and give it over either to anarchy or to despotism. It has been held by some persons that education breeds anarchy. Sound education does not. Anarchical ideas find their place in the brains of the ignorant. There are few men who have been students of government conditions and who have become anarchists. Others who preach direct action against democratic government are those whose brains are abnormal through whatever cause. They have not taken to heart the lessons of history.

Americanization means education. The unknowing and the unthinking must be taught to know and to think. In almost every case they will think right and act right. A school board properly conducted is a board of health. The fathers know education's service to the cause of liberty. The schoolhouse and the statehouse of democracy were builded together.

With the safety of a nation depending upon education there are still those among us who seem to believe that the teacher is not worthy of a proper hire. There are men and women today into whose hands are entrusted the teaching of American children whose pay is less than the daily wage of the unskilled laborer.

On this subject of the pay of school teachers there are Americans who need Americanization. It is good to know that finally the people are waking up to the truth in the case. The wrangling, however, has been a slow process and no one can tell how soon peace is to come again. It is Americanism which makes men and women seek the teaching profession for a livelihood. It should be Americanism's duty to see to it that the unselfish ones are rewarded properly for their unselfishness. The teachers are building the character of the citizens of tomorrow.

Superheated Steam

Two decades ago few would have admitted the possibility of permanently regularly producing steam at temperatures of from 550 degrees to 650 degrees Fahrenheit within the restricted area of the ordinary locomotive boiler. Now thousands of locomotives use this superheated steam, and its use is increasing.

By heating steam 180 degrees Fahrenheit above the saturation temperature "hot steam" is produced. With this increase of temperature the steam is dried and the volume is increased. But the increase of volume is less important than the suppression of all condensation in the cylinders. If the superheat is sufficiently high, hot steam being a bad conductor it also reduces loss by cooling in the cylinders from 25 to 80 per cent, according to type and structure of the engine.

Joseph Heritage has returned from a few weeks' visit with his family in Canada.

Mrs. Frank E. Wheeler has been entertaining her mother, Mrs. Gammon, from Proctorsville, Vermont.

Miss Rose Wilkinson, from Windchendon, Mass., spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Wilkinson.

The carload of horses which Fred L. Proctor had shipped from Canada last week arrived on Saturday and they are a fine looking lot. There are nineteen of them.

John Davies, a student at Montpelier, Vt. academy, is spending a short vacation at the Methodist parsonage with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. George Davies.

The second degree will be conferred on a class of candidates by Waverley Lodge of Odd Fellows on Saturday evening of this week, and at the close of the work refreshments will be served.

Miss Lillian Fletcher, who has been stopping for a number of weeks in the family of D. D. Goodell, has completed her labors there, as Mrs. Goodell has sufficiently recovered to be able to do her own work.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Elliott were in Boston a portion of last week, and attended the 20th annual convention of the New England Coal Dealers' Association and the banquet, which was held at the American House, at which were about 600 members and guests.

Everett Blair, who was injured in January while coasting down the Poor hill, has so far recovered from the broken leg as to walk up street with the use of a cane. He is pretty lame, but is gaining all the time. His young friends are pleased to have him with them again, and to say he is pleased to be among them is putting it mildly.

The road at the junction of Aiken and Depot streets is being repaired—a much needed improvement. It has been in such a condition for some time as to carry the water after a hard rain over the cross walk and down Goodell hill. It is the hope of the selectmen, road agent and the public generally that the trouble in this respect will now be at an end.

The needed improvement of a sidewalk on West street, from Main street to the bridge by the blacksmith shop is being built, which necessitates the changing of the road bed a bit. It will be remembered that an appropriation was made for this piece of new construction work at the March meeting. This has always been a wet place and bad for pedestrians, and now it is hoped the walk will be just the thing needed, and the side draining will doubtless do the street a great deal of good.

NEW HAMPSHIRE LEGISLATURE

The legislature got in a busy three days last week, and the curtain went up Tuesday morning on a house containing more than the usual number of members for the opening day of the week, and many spectators awaited the events of the day with interest.

Two Sunday bills were killed by the committee and another, which would have permitted amateur sports and a certain class of entertainments on the Lord's Day, came in with a divided report, that of the majority being inexpedient to legislate. There was an animated discussion of the subject of the proposed Sunday law, which was framed practically on the plan reported by the committee selected by Governor Bartlett to investigate the subject. The house refused to accept the report of the minority of the committee by a vote of 243 to 69, the Sunday bill went into the scrap heap and the laws now in force will remain unchanged for the next two years.

Representative George A. Blanchard of Moultonboro introduced a resolution limiting the state tax for the ensuing year to $1,700,000, and for next year to $1,500,000. It was adopted by the house, and the committee on appropriations will have to govern itself accordingly.

The house passed a good number of bills Tuesday afternoon, the most important being an act to regulate and limit the investments of savings banks; and act relating to business corporations; relating to public utilities; an act in relation to water power; an act to incorporate the Exma and Hanover Central telephone company; an act for the appointment of representatives in the House of Representatives, and a joint resolution appropriating $5,000 for repairs and improvements upon the buildings and grounds of the New Hampshire Veterans' Association at Wiers.

The chiropractor bill, which was made a special order for Wednesday at 11:01 drew the largest attendance of the session so great was the interest in the matter. The gallery was crowded and a large number of ladies were given seats upon the floor through the courtesy of members. A large number of committee reports occupied the time of the house 'until past the noon hour, and it was decided to defer the debate of the bill until after recess.

The measure came in with a divided report of 8 to 7; the majority in favor of allowing chiropractors to practice in the state and license its practitioners, while the minority was inexpedient to legislate. The debate for more than an hour was earnest and at times verging on the caustic, and then the previous question was moved. The motion to substitute the minority report was lost by a vote of 52 to 233, and then the bill was passed under a suspension of the rules by a most vociferous "yea" vote. In order to clinch the matter a motion was made by one of the friends of the measure to reconsider and this was voted down almost unanimously. The bill now goes to the Senate.

The list of measures passed Wednesday afternoon was a short one, the principal being an act to provide for the recording of sales of real estate for taxes; an act in relation to the expenditure of funds in connection with the construction and maintenance of highways, and an act relating to the payment of salaries of county officers of Hillsboro county.

The principal diversion of the House Thursday morning was a discussion of the salary bill which lasted for a couple of hours. Representative Challis of Manchester made a long speech against several of the pay provisions of the bill. In starting he made several amendments, but at the conclusion of his address he withdrew these and moved the recommittal of the bill to the committee. This was refused. The bill went over into next week when it will come up for further consideration.

The House passed the referendum bill for the city of Manchester, which provides for a referendum next fall on the present form of government, although a strong effort was made to lay it on the table.

A concurrent resolution was passed by the house that each registrar of deeds and register of probate shall keep a full and accurate record of all fees and payments of any kind, as well as all expenses paid by him for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, and on or before August 1, 1922, report the same to the secretary of state for the information of the next general court.

Among the bills passed was an act for the protection of deer; an act in amendment of the Public Status relating to school boards; an act amending the laws of 1917 relating to the militia; and an act to revise and codify the school laws of the state.

The committee on appropriations killed six house joint resolutions for the construction of highways in the northern part of the state. Speaker Jones urged the importance of reporting all business in the hands of committees the present week, and it looked from the response as if the legislature might adjourn during the first full week in April.

"Does your wife object to your playing golf?"
"No, we've made a compromise."
"That so?"
"Yep. She's perfectly willing to have me play the game, but she insists on my not talking about it after I get home."

The sixth annual Paper Makers' Concert and Ball will be given in the town hall on the evening of April 8. Arrangements are fast being completed for this occasion. Watch for posters.

We are informed that the Monadnock Paper Mills, through its president, Arthur J. Pierce, has purchased the local water privilege of the Antrim-Bennington Electric Light & Power Company, and will use it in connection with its other water power on the stream. We do not understand that this deal has anything whatever to do with the lighting franchise of the former owners. This will give the mill people an additional privilege which they can use to advantage and which they have seen the need of. This sale does not in the least cripple the light and power company in furnishing light and power as before, for an arrangement will be effected which will make their service just as efficient as it has ever been and possibly more so.

Red Cross Is Calling On Women To Mobilize In Nation-wide Sewing Circle

Announces Plans For Great Production Campaign To Help Clothe Destitute Childhood of Central European Countries

Three Little Warsaw Waifs

They have never known anything but lack; always cold and always hungry. The mute story of their suffering is read in their faces. The fact that these three children are but a tiny portion of the hundreds of thousands whose position is no better and often worse has resulted in plans by the American Red Cross for mobilizing its workers to make garments for the destitute childhood of Central Europe.

The American Red Cross is calling upon the women of this country, particularly the hundreds of thousands who served in its Chapter and Branch workrooms during the days of the World War, to mobilize again in a nation-wide sewing circle for the greatest production campaign since before the Armistice.

The purpose of the campaign, the plans for which were announced this week, is to provide 2,000,000 garments and 250,000 layettes for a portion of the hundreds of thousands of children and babies in countries of Central Europe who are clad only in meager rags and even in newspapers. The conditions, according to authentic information from Red Cross workers overseas and representatives of other relief organizations, are truly appalling.

New England's Share

The production of the garments and layettes asked for will supplement the two principal relief efforts in progress in Europe today, the feeding program of the European Relief Council of which Herbert Hoover is the Chairman, and the medical welfare work conducted by the American Red Cross and now rapidly being concentrated in its Child Welfare Units. The plans to clothe the children are held to be absolutely essential to the benefits of these two operations are to be fully realized.

On the basis of the Red Cross war-time quotas, the national total of 2,000,000 garments for girls and boys up to 14 years old and the 250,000 layettes for babies would mean a quota for the New England Division for the calendar year 1921 of 70,000 garments and 21,000 layettes.

The announcement of this great production effort, decided upon because of the desperate plight of the little ones overseas, was made for the New England Division of the National organization by Arthur G. Rotch, Division manager, in a letter sent this week to each of the 116 Chapters and 115 Branches of the Red Cross in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Mr. Rotch outlined the most important features of the carefully considered plans in his letter, which follows:

"Two million garments for children—

"Two hundred and fifty thousand layettes—

"To be made, for the most part, from used wearing apparel, of every description, remnants and odds and ends, bed clothing, portieres, curtains—anything that ingenuity can convert into a garment—

"This is the national quota for the greatest Red Cross production campaign since the days of the World War, which has just been announced to me by Mr. W. Frank Parsons, Vice-Chairman of the Central Committee.

"The garments and layettes are to help clothe some of the millions of children and babies in Central Europe who are living practically naked. The two million garments will barely suffice to cover a half a million children; an infinitely larger number can be used before the children are even decently clothed.

"Must Meet The Emergency

"The situation of the children overseas is literally appalling, according to authentic information gathered by the Red Cross and other relief organizations and we consider this one of the most essential tasks we have undertaken. We feel we must not fail to meet the emergency. Through you the American Red Cross now calls upon the women who served in our workrooms during the war and all other women interested in saving the children to mobilize in a nation-wide sewing circle to produce the required garments.

"On the basis of war-time Red Cross allotments the quota for this Division for the calendar year 1921 would be 70,000 garments and 21,000 layettes.

"The details of the campaign of most immediate importance to you are:

Supplements Hoover Work

1. The clothing will be used for the children reached by the personnel of the Child Welfare Units now established or to be established by the American Red Cross. The feeding program of the European Relief Council, of which Mr. Herbert Hoover is the Chairman, and the medical welfare service of the Red Cross are the chief phases of the effort being made today for the salvation of Europe's children. The plans to provide clothing supplement these two activities and are held absolutely essential to the full benefits of the two operations are to be realized.

2. The garments and layettes are to be made for the most part, not from new purchased materials, but from used articles of clothing to be collected, cleaned, if necessary, ripped to pieces and remade. Salvage and conservation thus become a part of it.

3. The layettes will be distributed largely by American Red Cross nurses who have general supervision of maternity cases.

4. The garments will be apportioned by countries in order of greatest need as follows: Poland, Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, the Balkan States, the Balkan States.

5. A Chapter may select the country to which it prefers its product to be sent and the Chapter preference will be carried out so far as transportation facilities permit.

6. The work will be under the Volunteer Service and it is essential that organizations that have not already done so immediately appoint a Chairman of Volunteer Service.

7. The production work divides itself clearly into several phases: 1. Collection of material. 2. Preparation of stock collected—sorting, cleaning and, if necessary, dyeing. Children's clothing received in good condition can be forwarded without making over. 3. Securing patterns cutting and inspection. 4. Sewing. 5. Packing and shipping.

8. No special make or design is required, but Red Cross instructions and patterns will prove of value.

9. The various kinds of garments needed are: For children one to five years old, dresses, petticoats, undershirts, nightgowns; for girls five to 14 years old, dresses, chemises, petticoats, bloomers, nightgowns; for boys five to 14 years old, blouse suits, undershirts, winter undershirts, nightshirts.

"A quota for each Chapter and complete instructions will be sent you shortly by Miss Lavinia H. Newell, Director of Volunteer Service. Any inquiries in regard to this production work should be addressed to her."

NO CLOTHES FOR BABY; MOTHER SCANTILY CLAD

Red Cross Commissioner Found Them in Their Cave Home

"Close by the side of the road was a mound of earth with a small opening at one side. I knew that some human being, perhaps a family, called it home, because that kind of homes are familiar sights in Poland," said Robert E. Olds American Red Cross Commissioner to Europe.

"I stooped and went in through the narrow opening. Inside was a woman scantily clothed and seated in the ashes left from the last fire was a little child without one bit of clothing on his body. And the ashes were barely warm.

"The woman stood up and apologized for their condition—there are only enough garments to cover two of us," she said. "And my other son has gone out to gather wood for another fire."

It is needless to add that that family received a supply of clothing as soon as Mr. Olds got to the nearest Red Cross station but what of the others? Unless American women make 2,000,000 articles of clothing there won't be enough to go around among Europe's children. Red Cross chapter women are now asked to engage in this huge task.

"The suffering of these poor kids simply gets under my skin," was the way George Robertson, former automobile racing driver and winner of the Vanderbilt Cup, who is now chief of transportation for the European Commission of the American Red Cross, summed up his feelings upon returning to Paris from a trip to Vienna.

This means the lifting of the embargo against motor trucks carrying more than three tons gross weight.

Collection of Old Almanacs Probably one of the best collections of old almanacs in existence in Keene if not in the state is in the possession of M. E. Daniels, a local druggist. Most of those which he owns and prizes very highly were printed before 1800. The year of the oldest one in his possession is 1764, being the oldest he is able to secure.

Oldest Newspaper Mayor Chamberlain of Concord has received a copy of an Oakland, Cal., paper, which states that the oldest newspaper in the country is on exhibition in the city museum there and is called the "Concord N. H. Mirror." The issue was printed Jan. 2, 1794. It is a four page paper, the news being placed under the head "Intelligence." Concord at that time was spelled "Concord," and New Hampshire was spelled "New-hampshire."

Woman Sues Parents Who Opposed Marriage Mrs. Katherine Zebnick testified before a jury in the superior court, Manchester, in her suit to recover $20,000 from her parents, Antoni and Mary Rozmus, for impaired health, alleged to be the result of their treatment of her in efforts to dissuade her from receiving the attentions of the man who is now her husband. Photographs were introduced to show changes in her physical condition. Mrs. Zebnick was awarded $10,750 by the jury.

Fake Officers Get Booze Haul That Chas. Degrossellers of Nashua was held up by fake prohibition officers and separated from whisky and wine valued at $25, was brought out in court at Montreal, Canada. The rum runners were met with revolvers, the road was blocked and light flashed on them in a daring theft of the liquor supply.

Robbed by Ingrate An armed posse set out from Franklin to search for a man who robbed, bound and gagged Mrs. Stella Holly, 35 years old in her farmhouse near there the other day, after she had fed him and allowed him to rest in her kitchen. Mrs. Holly was alone in the house with her 3-year-old son. The man posed as a detective and insisted on paying Mrs. Holly for his dinner. When she brought her purse, containing $200 from an adjoining room to change the bill, he offered in payment, the man struck her on the head and tied her to a bedpost.

Praise 'Ring in Prosperity' by Gov. A. O. Brown The current issue of the Insurance Press, co-operating with several leading trade journals in other fields, has gathered exclusive and valuable opinions on the business outlook from the most prominent men in the country and features the message of Gov. Albert O. Brown of this state, characteristically brief and to the point. "Ring in Prosperity," on the first page.

Gov. Brown Names Manchester Fin. Com. Gov. Brown has named Manchester's new finance commission, as provided by a recent act of the legislature which took the power away from the aldermanic finance committee and invested a state appointed commission instead. The new commission, includes Halbert N. Bond, real estate broker, Frank H. Emerson, president of the George P. Crafts Shoe Company, and J. Edward Bernier, publisher of the French daily newspaper. L'Evening National Commissioner Bond was named chairman.

Senators Fare Well in Committee Assignments

The two New Hampshire senators, Moses and Keyes, fared well in the assignments to the standing committees of the Senate made by the committee on committees. Senator Moses will be chairman of the committee on printing and a member of the foreign relations committee, the postoffice and post roads committee and the rules committee, all of them important assignments. Senator Keyes has been assigned to the committees on agriculture, immigration, naval affairs and public buildings and grounds.

Made Study of Many Charters Many inquiries are being received at the office of the New Hampshire Marketing Association, Inc., at 98 North Main Street, Concord, from persons anxious to learn how the marketing plans have been worked out. The by-laws committee made an exhaustive study of other charters in an effort to combine in the constitution and working arrangements of the New Hampshire association all the desirable features of existing co-operative associations in other states, and this fact accounts for the unusual display of interest in the Granite State's infant enterprise. Scores of requests have come in from farmers asking the association to market their produce.

No Booze Escapes X-Ray Eye of Claremont Police Chief White and his officers are determined that the Volstead Act will not be violated in Claremont and seem to have an X-Ray eye for seeing what suit cases and hand bags contain. Officer Edmond's, while on duty in Ward 7, saw a man get off the electric car with a suit case. He at once surmised what was in it. He gave chase up Elm St. onto Spring. The man discovered he was being followed and when the officer started to get him, he evidently thought his freedom was better than the moonshine and dropped the suit case and fled. The officer lost track of his man and other officers were called, but could not find him. The suit case contained two syrup cans filled with nine quarts of moonshine whiskey.

Derides Report of Anti-Tobacco Drive New Hampshire men may continue to puff away at a good cigar, enjoy their after dinner pipeful of weed and smoke cigarettes, so far as the Women's Christian Temperance Union of this state is concerned. The announcement coming from Chicago and accredited to Miss Anna A. Gordon, national president of the union, in which it was said that a campaign would be inaugurated April 3 against tobacco and for a strict Sunday observance was characterized by Mrs. Charline Abbott, president of the state branch, as "malicious propaganda presumably intended to lower the prestige of the organization."

Maine Supports N. H. Forest Plan. The Maine legislature has passed a joint resolution favoring the establishment and maintenance by the United States government of a Forest Experiment station in the White Mountain National Forest in New Hampshire. It has been transmitted to the Senate and House of Representatives in Congress and to the members from Maine.

Comment on Cider Situation in N.H. In commenting upon Federal Prohibition Director George H. White's review of the cider situation in New Hampshire, a recent editorial in one of the largest farm papers published says: "It appears the day is not far distant when New Hampshire farmers (and probably those in other states as well) will find it difficult to turn inferior apples into cider. Federal Director White in reviewing the case stated that the 300 mills in this state were capable of turning out 250,000 casks of cider which produce

LEWIS A. KNIGHT

Lewis A. Knight passed away his home in this village on Friday March 25. Mr. Knight was born Marlow, this state, Sept. 29, 1838, son of Nathaniel and Zippora Knight, and was the last of a large family. Deceased came to Bennington in 1862 and married Martha Elizabeth Hart on the 26th of April, 1864. They resided here from 1864 until he died in 1910, when they moved to the village. Two sons were born to them, Harry (who passed away two years ago this month), and Fred A., who is a merchant here. The widow, Martha E. Knight, survives him.

Mr. Knight was a charter member of the Grange, and has been an Odd Fellow for twenty five years. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon, Mr. Osborne, pastor of the Congregational church, conducted the services; a male quartet of Odd Fellows rendered "Rock of Ages" and "Let the Lower Lights be Burning." The Odd Fellows burial service was also used. Both Odd Fellows and Grangers attended in a body.

Mr. Knight was known as a genial, hospitable and kindly neighbor and friend, and his heart was loyal. Mr. Knight had held the Boston Post gold headed cane for about a year. The interment was in Sannyside cemetery, with a brief committal service.

Most of the sick people in the village are gaining.

Fred Newton is working for Alvarez Brooks, at Hancock.

Travelers report the roads in very bad condition this Spring.

It is expected the Post one will now be passed along to Levi Colby.

A week ago Mrs. Seaver's class remembered the sick with a box of goodies, which were greatly appreciated.

Mrs. Abbie French, who has been living at Fred Eaton's for some time, is reported as very ill, at Greenfield, where she went to visit.

Mrs. Etta Spaulding, of Lowell, Mass., Morris Knight, of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Royce, of Marlow, and Mr. Newell, of Hancock, were here for the funeral of Lewis Knight.

By courtesy of the B. & M., which has extended to him a pass, our veteran station agent, Cyrus Philbrick, is enjoying a trip to Florida. Mr. Philbrick has been in the employ of the Boston & Maine railroad since November 3, 1872.

On the evening of March 26 the Grangers gave John Robertson, Jr., a surprise party at the Grange hall, it being his 21st birthday. The men presented him with a twenty dollar gold piece, and the women furnished the refreshments, which were just as good as gold.

The Easter service at the Congregational church was exceptionally well attended; the sermon was well worth listening to, and the choir gave an anthem which was greatly enjoyed. Why cannot we have this attendance and this choir all the time? The flowers were passed along by the children to the sick.

beers equal to half a million casks of beer containing as much alcohol as 25,000 casks of whisky. "If this country is to be really a prohibition nation, many farmers will have to change their custom of putting down a few barrels of 'sweet' cider ostensibly for 'vinegar,' but which in days past has been consumed in the alcoholic state that precedes the acetic fermentation."

Sheriff Has Sixteen Prisoners; Expects More

With the rapid increase in the official family of Sheriff George A. Wooster the past few weeks, the matter of closing the Merrimack County jail seems to be out of the question. At the present time there are 16 prisoners in the jail while less than two months ago, Sheriff Wooster had only one boarder. If the crime wave which seems to have hit Concord continues, the sheriff is of the opinion that they will have to build an addition to the jail instead of closing it.

GAY OLD MEN

"SAM JAGWAY was trying to be funny, this morning," related the horse doctor. "He saw some boys turning hand springs, and undertook to show them how the trick used to be done in the halcyon days, and the doctor says he wrenched his back so he'll be in bed for several days."

"Disasters of that sort usually happen to the graybeard who tries to demonstrate that he isn't any older than he was forty years ago," commented the village patriarch. "I'm always being tempted to do some idiotic thing, and have to suppress such impulses with a mallet fist. It's all the outcome of vanity. A man hates to admit that he's a back number. He wants to assure the plain people that, notwithstanding his gray whiskers and stringhalted legs, he's a four-horse team with a dog under the wagon, when it comes to athletic skill."

"In my younger days, if I do say it myself. I was a star performer in the ordinary knock-down-and-drag-out form of combat, but I never was worth shucks at boxing. Nobody knows that better than I do. Why, then, did I inform Fretsinger that I would be glad to spar a few rounds with him? It surely was vanity and nothing else. I had an idea that, while he might have plenty of the fancy stuff on hand, I might land one of my old-time haymakers; in which case I felt sure the town would soon be ringing with the story of an old man's prowess."

"So I took off my long flimsy sweater coat, and my vest, and stood up for battle. If anybody tells you, my friends, that Fretsinger doesn't know how to wield his hands, you may regard the story as a rookback. I never saw fists so numerous as on that occasion. I couldn't see anything else for a while, and they landed on me in many unexpected places, and I don't remember a time when I was so embarrassed."

"Fretsinger explained afterward that he merely tapped me gently because I was a venerable man, old enough to be his grandfather. In that case I never want to become involved in an argument with him when he is in earnest. I had a black eye for a week after this recital, and my nose has never satisfied me since. Every time I came downtown, I had to explain to a thousand people that I blackened my eye while splitting kindling, or that I dropped a sad-iron on it. There is nothing more humiliating than a black eye, and I made up my mind that I'd try to realize my advanced age thereafter, and behave myself like a grave and reverend man."

"But no sooner had my eye recovered than I was in trouble again. I saw some young men wrestling, and paused to point out that they didn't know the rudiments of the game. I assured them that in my younger days I was a holy terror, and I didn't think that my hand had lost its cunning. It would afford me genuine happiness, I said, to show them how wrestling was done in the palmy days of Muldoon and Whistler."

"So I removed my coat and vest and went into executive session with a husky young man who had no respect for gray hairs. I am not sure about what followed, but I think he must have thrown me over his head. Anyhow, I made a great dent in the earth with my person, and I was so sore for two weeks that I had to take myself around in a wheelbarrow. Of course, I am determined to make no more bad breaks of the kind, but I haven't much confidence in myself, and tomorrow you may see me climbing a tree half a mile high, to show some boys how to rob birds' nests."

Primitive peoples have an uncanny instinct for naming things accurately. Centuries after the natives had named a hill outside the city of Durango, Mexico, "The Devil's Finger Tip," scientists came along and solemnly announced that it was formed of hematite, and had apparently been jabbed up through the earth's surface from molten masses far below.

This iron hill rises for 700 feet sheer above the surrounding plain, and is said to contain 600,000,000 tons of high-grade ore rated at 70 per cent in iron content. In a report made just before the World War a British expert said that the iron in the hill is worth $5,000,000,000, or would be if so located as to assure protection in the operation of the property.

Put in another way, Mercado mountain, for the hill is so named after the Spanish explorer who was the first white man to see it, contains iron which, if marketed today, would bring more money than the entire sun represented by all of the gold and silver taken out of Mexico between 1603 and 1803, when the exploitation of Mexican mines was at its peak.

True Trachoma Easily Transmitted. At a recent meeting of the American Medical Association Dr. John McMullin, surgeon, U. S. Public Health Service, started a lively debate in the section on preventive medicine by reading a paper in which he asserted that much of the so-called trachoma which afflicted the eyes of American children is not trachoma and not contagious.

The original cause of this inflammation of the eyelids is unknown, but it is known with certainty that it is transmitted with ease from one eye to another. There is another type, called folliculitis, which is not contagious and can easily be cured, while the true trachoma necessitates a slight surgical operation and careful treatment; and, even with this, it is by no means certain that it is ever permanently cured.

Paderevski's Descent in Life. Jo Davidson, the sculptor, who recently returned to the United States after many months in Europe, where many great men posed for him, relates the following passage between Clemenceau and Paderevski, which, Davidson says, occurred in his presence: "Clemenceau is a gruff old sort of fellow," Davidson relates. "He was receiving Ignace Paderevski. "Are you Paderevski, the great pianist?" he asked. "Yes," replied the artist, bowing. "And you have just been elected premier of Poland?" "Again Paderevski bowed and answered in the affirmative. "Clemenceau looked at him a moment and then shook his head sadly, saying: 'My God, what a come down!'"

Old Papal Palace Restored. Up to now the famous castle is unfurnished and there is nothing within the building to remind one of the splendor of the fourteenth century.
