VISIT TO HILLSBORO

Rebekahs of Antrim Spent Pleasant Evening

About sixty members of Hand in Hand Rebekah Lodge, No. 29, I. O. O. F., of Antrim, went to Hillsboro on Thursday evening last, on invitation of Hope Rebekah Lodge of that place, to witness their degree staff confer the work.

The rain did not keep very many at home and the full number were present about as soon as the tables were ready for the chicken pie supper, which was served at about seven o'clock. All had their appetites with them, and as the repast was ready at the regular supper hour everyone did justice to the food. Very little disturbance was made during this hour, and in all some hundred and fifty were served. In addition to a most excellent and sumptuous supper, it was served in a prompt and pleasing manner.

The regular meeting was called to order as promptly as conditions would warrant, and a class of eight candidates were instructed in the mysteries of the Rebekah degree. This work was of a high order throughout, the ritualistic and secret work being practically perfect in every particular and the floor work was nicely executed; the tableaux were many and beautiful. Those few visitors who made remarks fittingly complimented for their fine work the officers of the lodge, the members of the degree staff and its director and helpers; and every member of the committees deserved all the nice things that were said concerning their efforts in making the occasion the success it proved to be.

The Antrim visitors had a delightful and profitable evening and seemed loth to leave when the hour arrived for them to depart for their respective homes.

D. A. R. Regular Meeting

Molly Aiken Chapter, D. A. R., held its regular meeting Nov. 4, at Alabama Farm. Mrs. George Sawyer assisted Mrs. Smith in entertaining.

The subject of the meeting was Conservation, and the following program was given: Roll call, Stories of Trees; Paper, Our Feathered Friends, Mrs. Hurlin; Piano Solo, Mrs. Lowell; Paper, Work of the New Hampshire Forestry Association, describing the proposed trail from Mt. Sunapee to Mt. Monadnock, written by Mrs. Alice Colburn, and read by Mrs. Cooley.

The chapter was favored by having our State Regent, Mrs. Lorin Webster, Miss Annie Wallace, National Chairman on the Correct Use of the Flag, and Mrs. Charles C. Goss, State Librarian, as our guests. Mrs. Webster gave a very interesting and inspiring talk on the work of the society. Miss Wallace gave an instructive talk on the use and abuse of the Flag. Mrs. Goss spoke on the needs of the library at Continental Hall.

The chapter committee on conservation reported they had secured thirty-eight annual members at one dollar each. The chapter had earned thirty-two dollars, making sixty dollars for the New Hampshire Forestry Association this year.

The chapter was greatly saddened by the news of the death of one of their members, Mrs. Juliet Aiken White, of Pasadena, Calif., a descendant of Molly Aiken.

Refreshments were served and a delightful social hour followed the program.

New Equipment

The Goodell Company have recently installed some new equipment in their Hardware Department, one machine being an Eddy chucking and turret lathe, and the other a Taylor & Fenn six spindle drill. Both of these machines are modern, up-to-date tools, and while business conditions are not all that could be desired, yet the Company is looking forward to better days ahead, and with the new equipment it will enable them to get a bigger and better production of hardware.

The next in the Citizen's course of entertainments will be on Friday evening of this week, Nov. 11.

A FEW THOUGHTS

Suggested by What is Happening Around

Strange, isn't it, that some brainy fellow hopes to get additional publicity by "hammering" another big fellow's speech. Make a note of the different ones who take a "whack" at the speeches Col. Harvey makes.

The President has proclaimed Armistice Day a holiday, on the advice of Congress. It should be generally observed: Soon there will be a growing demand for the consolidation of Armistice Day and Thanksgiving Day. In some respects the meaning of the two days are alike, yet it may be difficult to bring about the combination.

The efforts of organizations to arouse interest among the women voters in the coming municipal election have been a decided failure, writes a Manchester correspondent. With two meetings advertised and leading officials as speakers, there were only fifteen at the first and half a dozen at the second meeting. The promoters of the plan have given it up in disgust. One thing which has greatly incensed many of the women voters is the fact that they came into citizenship just in time to catch the $5 poll tax, more than twice the amount ever paid here before, with the result that there has been much complaint made.

Governor Brown, in proclamation, asked that the people of the Granite State, in their customary places of worship, on Sunday, November 6, offer special prayers to Almighty God for His blessing upon the Washington conference to limit armaments. And in the same proclamation also asked that on Friday, November 11, 1921, in accordance with the suggestion of the President, the two minutes following the hour of 12 noon, be devoted to prayers for the souls of our heroic dead and petitions that their memory and example may remain potent among us for whatever test of national wisdom, courage and devotion the future may have in store.

The question has been asked, since the threatened railroad strike and the proposed miners' strike, who favors government ownership of public utilities and such like things? Most generally this is the answer, after the experience of the past few years. Here is the way it is put: Everything of this kind should not be owned and controlled by the government, but when agitators attempt in an arbitrary way to tie up some one thing then the Federal government should step in and tell them just how far they can go—and no farther. This power no doubt the government has, and this very thing is what sidetracked the railroad strike. A firm hand at the helm will steer the ship of state aright and keep her off the rocks. Perhaps more of a firm hand is needed now than ever before and the right kind of persuasion will do the work.

The meeting of the delegates in Washington this week for the disarmament conference has caused as much if not more war talk than has heard during war times. It is hard to understand why so much talk when it is admitted by everybody that armaments should be limited and there is every reason to believe that some arrangement of this kind will be the outcome of the world conference. The only question appears to be the extent of the measure. True, this is a great question, but with the country in its present condition it would seem that more talk should be along other lines. Sometimes it happens that the ones doing the talking do not have most influence and consequently accomplish very little else except keep the people stirred up with no good results. Optimism is the ideal! Get the thing under the skin and work the finger tips off if need be to bring about the best that American traditions stand for. The smaller places have to do these things as well as the larger ones, and the sooner we all do it, just so much quicker conditions become improved and the wheels of industry are again running without even slipping a single cog.

STATE-WIDE APPEAL

Help The Children Is The Great Work Now

The campaign recently conducted for the purpose of raising $100,000 with which to build an addition to the New Hampshire Memorial Hospital for Women and Children at Concord did not attain its objective. This campaign, since the hospital cares for patients from all parts of the State, was very appropriately made state wide.

In round figures the total pledges and cash subscriptions amounted to $75,000. The need for $25,000 more is imperative. It will be not only unfortunate but difficult to understand if the object sought by this most worthy institution fails of accomplishment.

Although the general character of this institution and the work it does are known to nearly everyone, a few facts relating thereto may be of interest. First of all, it is not a money making institution; in fact, under the terms of its charter granted by the state, profit making is prohibited. This provision, however, although wise as a matter of precaution, is in practice hardly necessary because the large volume of free work the hospital does for those unable to pay takes care of any possible surplus. Those unable to pay, regardless of race, creed, color or the section of the state from which they come, in obedience to a provision of its founders a quarter of a century ago, receive the same skilled and sympathetic care as those upon whom fortune has graciously smiled, the outstanding object being the relief of human suffering and the saving of human life.

This hospital, the only institution of its kind north of Boston, started with nine beds and cared for 31 patients in the first year of its existence. Increased facilities, through liberal gifts, and legacies from public spirited men and women, made the care of 692 women and children possible during the past year.

An orthopedic department, established two years ago, has made possible many striking cures of apparently hopeless cripples. Little boys and girls who had never taken a step in their lives have been brought to this hospital, have been made well and sound again, and have walked away with hearts filled with gladness and equipped to take hold of the responsibilities of life. Seventy five percent of the children cared for pay less than half the cost of their treatment.

This hospital has also made a splendid record in the care of elderly women in their last illness and those suffering from chronic and incurable ailments.

The active work of the campaign has been brought to a close, but the opportunity to become one of those having a part in furthering this most deserving cause is still open. This is your hospital it will be what you help make it. Contributions may be sent to J. E. Fernald, Concord, N. H., who is treasurer of the fund.

Agreeably Surprised

Rev. Wm. J. B. Cannell was given an agreeable surprise last Friday evening by the Antrim Boy Scouts. Mr. Cannell has been connected with the Scouts for about eight years as Asst. Scoutmaster and later as Scoutmaster. Friday was the last time he expected to meet with the troop and after the regular work, ice cream and cookies mysteriously appeared and were served by the boys. There were also present two members of the Troop Committee, Rev. George Davies and R. C. Goodell. After the refreshments were served Mr. Goodell on behalf of the Scouts presented Mr. Cannell with a five dollar bill which was the boys' way of showing their appreciation of his work with them. After a response by Mr. Cannell, games were played for the remainder of the evening.

The Scout work will be continued under the direction of the Troop Committee until a new Scoutmaster is found.

The Kind of Man The National Commander Is

Hanford MacNider, of Mason City, Iowa, the new national commander of the American Legion, was elected last week at the Legion's annual convention; by acclamation. Following his election he uttered this most patriotic statement: "You know that the strength of the Legion is in the men you represent in your posts at home, not in the national headquarters. There is where the Legion is and there is where we shall try to reach. We must build this Legion of ours so big, so fine, so strong, keep it so clean and straight and American that when we ask for things for the ex-service man, for the disabled man and for those who are financially disabled, our communities will say: 'If the Legion is for it we are for it.' For that service and with a pledge to you of every economy and all measures possible for constructive progress, I stand at your command."

Farm on Bed of Lake.
It seemed impossible to read the heading, "A Cultivated Lake," without wondering whether any of the inhabitants of the lake were cultured, like some oysters. The lake in question is Lake Citralitz in midwestern Europe. The most cultured occupants turned out to be the human beings who sow and harvest on the lake bottom in summer, the waters having departed suddenly through great fissures in the bed of the lake. In the autumn the waters return as rapidly as they went, throwing up cascades of foam as if from blowholes. Presumably the lake is fed in winter by water coming to it underground from a body of water higher in the mountains and, in turn, empties in some lower lying basin.—Christian Science Monitor.

Oysters' Liver Complaint.
Two professors in physics at London university, England, are conducting exhaustive tests on behalf of the Daily Mail, with a view to finding a possible difference between ordinary and Japanese pearls. A Japanese pearl is produced by inserting a seed pearl or oyster into the liver of the oyster.
Mr. Alfred E. Calvert, a fellow of the chemical society, stated recently that the several specimens of Japanese pearls he possesses are identical in weight, color and luster with ordinary pearls, and they are produced by the oyster from the same material and by the same process as the other pearls.

Local Girl in Relief Work

Dr. Geo. H. Sisson, who has recently returned from a visit to Southern Russia and the Near East, tells of meeting Miss Elsie Kimball, formerly of Bennington, N. H., at Alexandropol, where she is helping to care for over 15,000 orphans, the largest number ever gathered together. The children live in huge barracks which were abandoned by the military and turned over to the Near East Relief.

Not only are the children fed and housed, but they are being taught trades and agriculture to fit them for future useful citizenship.

Miss Kimball has given herself heart and soul to the work and is loved by all the children, and held in the highest esteem by her associates.
Before taking up her present duties Miss Kimball was secretary to Colonel Haskell, then director of relief work in the Caucasus.

New Hampshire has always done her full share in providing funds for this great work, and the workers who have gone overseas from this state, like Miss Kimball, have reflected great credit on the state.

Near East Relief is asking the people of New Hampshire for $50,000 this year to care for the suffering little ones in Southern Russia and the Near East.

Mr. Egan is 40 years of age; married; is five feet, ten and a half inches tall; weighs 150 pounds; has dark brown hair; short worn teeth; hazel blue eyes; wore a dark gray suit with service ribbon in coat lapel, and a brown felt hat when last seen.

Equals Twenty Tunnels.
The two enormous masonry-faced steel towers supporting the contemplated bridge connecting Manhattan with Jersey City will each of them be 340 feet high, or 48 feet taller than the Woolworth building.
The upper deck of the bridge, over which will flow all the automobile and motortruck traffic, will accommodate as many moving vehicles as ten two-track tubes such as the pair soon to be built under the Hudson river at Canal street, at a cost of $150,000,000.
The lower deck will carry ten railroad tracks.
The bridge is expected to cost $110,000,000. Tunnels under the river, equivalent to the bridge in traffic capacity, would, it is estimated, cost two and a half times as much. Not fewer than 20 of them would be required.

Swallowed Cigaret Holder.
Loo Va Lee, a Chinese boy of ten, was taken to the Shanghai hospital, a few weeks ago after "swallowing" a cigarette holder 2 1/2 inches long, 3/8 inches in diameter at the wider end and 1/4 inch at the lower end, with a linen band 1/2 inch in diameter. Examination showed that this object had lodged in his windpipe and that all his breathing was being done through it. An effort to get hold of the cigarette holder with forceps and pull it out failed, so the surgeon opened the boy's throat, got hold of the lower end and withdrew it that way.

PAINTS

Bill Smith owned a house of wood, and wished to sell it if he could, but no matter how he'd try, he couldn't find a man to buy. After many months had past, and hopes of sales were going fast, a neighbor met him on the walk and stopped to have a little talk.

"I see your house is still unsold, no doubt because it looks so old. If you will spend a little cash and paint the house from roof to sink, you'll find it looks so very well that it will not be hard to sell."

So Bill he took this good advice, and after painting raised the price, and ere a week had taken fight the house was sold to Bill's delight.

An Appreciation

A brief obituary notice is insufficient for the observance of the passing of the late Harry G. Richardson. Had his wishes been ascertained concerning any public rehearsal of his life or death, he doubtless would have negated the suggestion. But though dead he speaketh so clearly that it is one his memory to express a few thoughts concerning him.

Coming to Antrim a young man of twenty years, he immediately won friends. Every individual and family who knew him courted his friendship. In this no one was disappointed as he at once proved his true worth and genuineness, and never did there a rise in the mind of anyone a shadow or a doubt as to his manliness.

Leaving his birthplace, Winchester, Mass., at the end of his teens he had already gained a high place in the estimation of his school friends. He also won distinction as a student at the Massachusetts Agricultural College and succeeded in securing a prize in his work. He thus brought to Antrim a rich and a rare inheritance of those qualities which go to make up the sterling foundation of true manhood.

Besides being highly esteemed by his neighbors, he proved an efficient and trusty town official. His services as road commissioner were of the highest order and never a word of complaint was heard, when usually there are many to find flaws. With entire satisfaction to his superiors he carried out his work.

In recent years as manager of a large farm in this town, he rendered to his employer that fidelity and efficiency of service and unlighted honesty so that his place will be hard to fill. Among his later neighbors he moved as a charmed actor and his brief residence among them was all the brighter because so quickly passed. More than one shut-in of the community attests to his friendly and delightful Sunday afternoon calls.

His pastor, who had a close intimacy with him, entomized him none too highly in his final address when he ascribed to him the qualities of a prince and the elements of a truly great man. His passing will be missed in many ways and not a few will find a blank in their lives as they recall his geniality and wholeheartedness.

"Friend after friend departs; who hath not lost a friend?
There is no union here of hearts that finds not here an end.
Were this frail world our final rest,
Living or dying none were blest."

Reaches Eighty-five

Boston, Mass., Nov. 5, 1921
Reporter, Antrim, N. H.
Gentlemen:—

I wish to express to your paper and its readers, particularly the citizens of Antrim, the great respect and reverence that I have for that grand old school-gentleman, who on Tuesday, Nov. 8, will pass his 85th milestone, namely Mr. Samuel S. Sawyer.

I have been associated with him for the past few years in a business way, and wish to testify of the great pleasure it has been to do business with him. His character exemplifies righteousness, and his business dealings justice, and in all my relationship with him, I have never heard him speak an unkind word against anyone. We have sold hundreds of farms throughout Hillsboro County, in which the customers have reposed a confidence in Mr. Sawyer's judgment and in his representations, and never have we received a single complaint.

I have thought so many times of what a living example he is, in his mature years, to the younger generation about to start out on their life career, and what it would mean to them in following his example of "Do unto others as you would be done by," for the contributing cause of his long

Prohibition in New Hampshire Proves Success
As a part of a national investigation by NEA Service of prohibition enforcement, governors of the 48 states were asked these questions: Is prohibition enforcement successful in your state? If so, why? If not, why?

Twenty-five governors replied to these questions practically all of them voiced the opinion that prohibition had had good effects, but many of them said that enforcement was not successful.

Here is what Gov. Albert O. Brown of New Hampshire said: "I am glad to be able to say that prohibition is successful in the state of New Hampshire because it has closed all the saloons and some of the jails; has lessened crime and poverty; has made good, industrious citizens out of loafers and drunkards; and has removed temptation from our boys and girls."

Explosives Allotted New Hampshire
Sixty tons of picric acid, the war explosive, have been allotted to New Hampshire for distribution at cost among the farmers of the state. As a result of an agreement signed by Director J. C. Kendall with the United States Department of Agriculture, the New Hampshire College Extension Service will act as the distributing agency.

The agreement will enable all persons wishing to clear land of stumps or stones, or to blast ditches, to obtain blasting material at comparatively slight cost, provided a sufficient number of orders are received to make possible carload lots of 20,000 pounds.

Picric acid is a comparatively safe explosive, says a statement issued on the subject by the extension office. It is more insensitive to shock or friction than are the ordinary commercial explosives. It is, on the other hand, somewhat stronger and quicker acting than the commercial dynamite used for agricultural blasting.

Harvard Honors E. Jaffrey Boy
The $600 freshman scholarship of the New England Federation of Harvard clubs, the most coveted prize available for New England schoolboys entering Harvard, has been awarded to James Roger Shields of East Jaffrey, Shields, whose father is an electrician at East Jaffrey, prepared at Conant High School and at Phillip-Exeter Academy. Although lame in one foot on account of an early attack of infantile paralysis, he earned his way through Exeter and was manager of the senior baseball team.

No Federal Aid May Be Expected
Woodland owners can not look to the government for financial aid in exterminating the dreaded white pine blister rust. This is revealed in a letter received by a Sunapee resident from President Warren G. Harding. The Department of Agriculture will, however, furnish trained experts to direct this work, the President writes. This disease is already appearing in New Hampshire and a tree that is once attacked does not recover. According to an expert, in New York for 100 miles along the Hudson nearly every pine tree is infected.

Asks Special Prayers in New Hampshire
Gov. Brown in a proclamation asked the people of New Hampshire to offer special prayers at their churches for the armament conference in Washington.

"Knowing that New Hampshire fully appreciates the heroic sacrifices and splendid accomplishments of our forces in the recent defense of civilization," he said, "and believing that public sentiment is a unit in favor of all wise measures to secure and preserve the peace of the world, I call upon the people of the state to give public expression to their feelings."

He also requested the people to observe the two minutes of silent prayer at noon on Armistice day, as suggested by President Harding.

Bare Communist Plot
Discovery by the Manchester police of "Red" literature as well as a letter of invitation to labor men to send delegates to a meeting of "Friends of Soviet Russia," on Nov. 27 in the city-owned Battery building on Manchester street, revealed one of the biggest Communist plots in New Hampshire since the memorable nationwide "Red" raids of two years ago. A financial statement of funds secured for the "friends" indicated that the organization has gained a foothold in Newport, Wilton, Milford and Greenville.

Chief of Police M. J. Healy sees in the literature in his possession open defiance of his order forbidding Communist meetings, as well as an effort to interest labor men of Manchester in a huge "Sacco protest meeting."

Tells Effect Of Artificial Light On Hens
Dr. G. F. Hauser of Cornell University addressed 175 members of the New Hampshire Poultry Growers' association gathered in Manchester, New Hampshire for discussion of methods of artificial lighting and their relation to poultry feeding problems explaining the effects of artificial lighting on egg production.

Prof. A. W. Richardson of New Hampshire college was present and gave a short address discussing some of the problems of poultry growers in New Hampshire.

Dr. Hauser said there is nothing sensational about artificial illumination, it is applied management based on known facts. The hen is a native of southern climes where there is a 12-hour day and a 12-hour night, so the hen works quite efficiently on that plan. He stated that the 14-hour day proved by experience to be the best, starting the artificial illumination at 4 o'clock in the morning until daylight and again just before dark and continuing until 6 o'clock. This shows an increase in the value of the product and in increase in the number of eggs per year, by taking off the peak of spring production when the price is low and giving part to fall and part to the end of the year.

New Farm Bureau Organization
Hillsboro County farmers have just finished setting up a new Farm Bureau organization which looks like a 1922 model, in the opinion of extension workers at the State College. Twenty-one communities, representing practically every township in the county, have all decided on their programs of work for the coming year.

The way in which the organization works is as follows: The Farm Bureau members in each community meet and decide what lines of work they will follow out. Some of them decide to concentrate on soil and crop improvement; in fact enough of them have chosen this project to guarantee from 50 to 100 new acres of alfalfa in the county next year, says County Agent B. B. Richardson. Others decide to work for the development of the apple industry. One community has set a goal of 3000 new trees, and another one of 1500. A good deal of poultry work has also been scheduled. At the same time the women members are planning work in crocheting, nutrition and home improvement, which will not only utilize to the utmost the services of their home demonstration agent, Miss Ann F. Beggs, but will mean a good deal of organized effort on the part of the women themselves. In a good many of the towns, boys and girls' clubs are assisting in "putting across" the community program of work.

Brown Invites Marshal Foch
Governor Albert O. Brown, in the name of the citizens of New Hampshire, has telegraphed an invitation to Marshal Ferdinand Foch, commander of the allied armies during the world war and a guest at the national convention of the American Legion at Kansas City, to come to the state during his visit to the United States. The marshal was extended similar invitations some time ago by the chamber of commerce, at Concord, and Mayor Hartford of Portsmouth.

RED CROSS OPENS ITS ANNUAL ROLL CALL FOR MEMBERS

Chapters of New England Continue Unabated Their Activities For Disabled Veterans

With its essential activities in behalf of the disabled veterans of the World War and their families unabated and its peace program firmly established by another year of service, the American Red Cross opens its nation-wide annual Roll Call on Armistice Day, November 11th.

During the two weeks following, through Thanksgiving Day, November 24th, the 3,648 Chapters of the organization in the United States, and their Branches, will ask the more than six million present members to re-enroll and will seek additional members for 1922.

There will be no national appeal for funds to maintain the work, aside from the membership fees, but many of the Chapters will go to their communities for such amounts as are necessary to support their local activities.

Everyone Asked To Join.
The minimum quota of members for the country has been set at eight millions. The combined quota for the 129 Chapters and 1016 Branches in the five New England states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, is 720,000, or 200,000 more than the present New England Division membership.

The purpose of every Red Cross organization in the Roll Call is to give every man and woman in the community the opportunity to help continue the local, the national and the overseas service of this great organization, by becoming a member.

Because of the steady withdrawal of the American Red Cross from overseas, where the work is now largely concentrated on child welfare in the Central European countries, and the increasing importance of the service at home, a readjustment of the division of membership fees has been made.

To Maintain Local Work
Beginning with the present Roll Call, all but fifty cents of each membership fee will be retained by the local Chapter for the support of its work in and for its own community. In other words Chapters will keep fifty cents of every one dollar annual membership, $4.50 of every $5.00 contributing membership, and $9.50 of every $10.00 sustaining membership. The fifty cents that goes to National headquarters helps maintain the child welfare service abroad and hospital work for the disabled former-service men. In some instances the membership fees will not provide for the local activities of a Chapter and it will be necessary to ask for funds in addition to enrolling members.

Plan To Go "Over the Top"
The Red Cross organizations in all parts of New England, are, with very few exceptions well prepared to go before their communities and ask for continued support of the Red Cross, and the prospects are much better this year than last for an enrollment in this section of the country from a little over half a million, back towards the million mark.

The services of the American Red Cross to the sick and disabled of the World War and their families continue on a scale and in a variety of methods unperceived by the public at large, and practically every Chapter in New England is doing its share of this work, which it is estimated, will not reach its height before 1925 and possibly not for two or three years later.

Peace Time Services
In addition to this major obligation the fulfillment of the promise of the American Red Cross to the people, the Chapters and Branches are each carrying on one or more of the established peace time services, which include public health nursing, instruction in home hygiene and care of the sick, preparedness for relief in disaster, nutrition service, health service, volunteer service which includes the production of layettes and garments for children in foreign lands first aid and life saving.

These activities are expressed in one phrase: "The Union of all who Love in the Service of all who Suffer."

"Why Southpaw?"
The word "southpaw," used frequently in the course of references to baseball games, is a bit of slang which has crept into the language during the last few years—a colloquialism which has behind it rather more of a logical pedigree than most slang words can claim.

That the batter may not have to face the rays of the setting sun at any time of the year, a baseball diamond is usually laid out so that the batter's box faces due east. The pitcher, therefore, faces westward, while his right hand is toward the north and his left hand is toward the south. As the majority of pitchers are right-handed, it was only natural that an exception to this rule should be singled out for a certain specific title—and the name "southpaw" was adopted on account of the usual points of the compass in connection with the diamond itself. The eccentricities of Rube Waddell and other "southpaws" have made the name synonymous with "erratic," so far as baseball language is concerned, though there is no medical support for the theory that left-handed persons are more peculiar than those who use their right hands.

Aerial Time Tables.
So important has become commercial aviation in France that there is being published a monthly time table of all the air services operating in France and allied countries. This time table, known as L'Indicateur Aerien, gives such information as the time of departure and arrival, routes, type of plane employed, weight of luggage allowed, rates, and so on. The little publication appears on the first of every month.—Scientific American.

No Case, but Got a Bill.
Angry Man—Here, what do you mean, sending me this bill for $10? Didn't you say that I had no case against the railroad company?
Lawyer—My dear sir, that is what the bill is for—advice.—New York Central Magazine.

Runs Either Way.
"Are you a bull or bear in Wall street?"
"Neither," replied Mr. Dustin Stax. "When I'm on the trail of a sure profit I'm a bloodhound; and when I'm scared, I'm a rabbit."

Uncle Walt's Story
THE DESIRABLE HUSBAND

JEMIMA BINSWANGER was in luck when she captured Tobias Todmarsh," observed the druggist. "Tobe will make a perfect husband, or I miss my guess. He has no bad habits, and he is a moneymaker, without being a tightwad. She will be able to bask in the lap of luxury the rest of her days."

"Of course that ought to make her happy," commented the village patriarch, "but I doubt whether it will. I have heard a lot of people speak of the marriage of these two, and they all take the same view; Tobe is a good citizen and a moneymaker, and consequently he ought to be a first-class husband. Some of the citizens who talk this way are venerable married men, and they ought to know better."

"Of course a woman likes to have plenty of money, and unlimited credit at the stores, but the man isn't properly educated who assumes that she will be satisfied with that. I am not the official forecaster, and I haven't my goosebone with me, but I venture to predict that the marriage will be a dismal failure. Tobias, with all his excellent qualities, is the most close-mouthed man in town, and if he ever had an emotion he probably took it for a chill, and began doting himself with quinine. There's as much sentiment in a concrete hitching post as there is in that man."

"Jemima, on the other hand, fairly slops over with sentiment. She's a languishing sort of girl, who looks upon herself as a vine, and will want her husband to be a sturdy oak, so she can wind herself around him, as it were. She will expect Tobias to tell her, four thousand times a day, how much he loves her; and every time he takes a chair she will climb on his knees and push her topknot into his face, and expect him to assure her in burning language that he simply couldn't live five minutes without her."

"When that sort of a girl gets the right husband, my friends, she is an excellent wife. She would make any sacrifice for him. She wouldn't care a picayune about the size of his bank account. She'd be perfectly willing to live under a bridge with him, and wear a burlap gown, if he'd only keep on telling her that she is the entire solar system where he is concerned. It is a tragic fact that this sort of girl seldom does get the man she ought to have. She should splice up with a half-baked poet, or a hungry artist with long hair, but there is much irony in human lives and destinies, and so she usually marries a man who is strong on mathematics and short on sentiment."

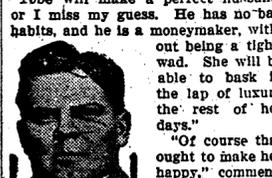

"That's the mistake Jemima is making. Why does she marry such a hard-headed individual as Tobias? Because, like all her kind, she is a dreamer of dreams, and she has given him attributes which don't belong to him. She has framed up a character for him, and it isn't a bit like the real goods. When she has been married a little while she will see that her blueprints and specifications were all wrong, and the disappointment will make an old woman of her, and her temper will become warped and she'll be so disagreeable in every way that her husband will spend most of his time thinking up excuses for staying away from home."

"That's the way with a sentimental girl; if she happens to marry a man who appreciates the poetry of her nature, she is the best thing that ever happened. She looks young when she is seventy years old, and her whole career is one long basket picnic. But if she marries the wrong man, which she does in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, she loses her grip as soon as she finds that her dreams were all moonshine, and then she develops into a shrew."

"Why does Tobias marry Jemima? That's the real problem. He's so clear-sighted in most things he should be able to see that she isn't the wife he needs, but men have blind staggers when they think they are in love."
