The Reporter Enters on a New Year of Its Life

With this issue of The Reporter, a new year is begun and thirty-eight consecutive years are closed with not an interruption of a single week's issue so far as we are able to learn. Each week the happenings of the town and this vicinity have been faithfully recorded, the changes being noted, and everything of any importance has received proper notice. Continually matters of local interest needing editorial comment have been touched upon. Altogether The Reporter feels it has constantly filled the place in the community life that a good and clean local newspaper should fill. It has done its best and here we leave the past, with just an additional word of thanks to our subscribers and advertising patrons for their valuable assistance.

What the future has in store for The Reporter it is impossible to tell; the only thing that we can say is that whatever happens The Reporter may be depended upon to do its part. It will always be found on the side of the best there is in the town, ready at all times to assist in every way that appears to be for the town's interest and the best interest of her people. Working along these lines, and with all who want to make Antrim a better town, the mission of The Reporter—your paper—is outlined for the coming year, and other years to come. Only by the continued cooperation of people and publisher can the best be obtained, and it is our hope that a larger place of usefulness will be ours as well as yours to enjoy in the coming year within the town which every one of its residents loves.

A FEW THOUGHTS

Suggested by What Is Happening Around

After having thoroughly investigated Polyclinic government hospital, in the heart of New York City, and found it "not conducive to the convalescence of tubercular war veterans," the American Legion of New York has announced its intention of buying a hospital site in the Adirondack Mountains, where the ex-service patients may be treated properly. The sanitarium will be supported by private individuals who have already pledged themselves.

No reinstatements of government insurance can be made after Dec. 31, according to word received at national headquarters of the American Legion. All ex-service men can reinstate their government insurance except those who have a disability not traceable to service. The yearly renewable term insurance may be reinstated by the payment of two monthly premiums. The applicant must state that he is in good health and provide a report of full medical examination substantiating that statement.

A statement was sent to our office one day last week from the New York Central railroad at Grand Central Terminal, New York, containing the information that the savings afforded to patrons and shippers of that one railroad by the repeal of the transportation taxes imposed by the Revenue Act of 1921 would amount to approximately $12,000,000 on the basis of taxes collected by the N. Y. Central for the Government during the year 1920. This is fine, and really sounds good to the tax payer, for it looks like a saving of that much to him. Upon second thought, however, he concludes that Uncle Sam must have the money and if it is not raised in the manner above referred to, some other means will be resorted to; and in the final analysis the common people will have this large amount to pay. If you don't pay for it when you travel on the train or ship goods by freight, you will pay it some other way. There is no possible way of getting rid of it.

Occasionally someone makes the remark that it is too bad to have so much money tied up in a public library and in books, and the public receive so little return on the investment. This is a fact and we wish everybody felt this same way about it, for then something different would be done. Less than one day a week to have an excellent library like ours open is surely a very short time. We are not saying the town can afford to keep it open more; for the money appropriated this is the best that can be done.

What a nice thing it would be if someone who could afford it would set aside or give to the town a certain sum of money, the interest of which could be used in this way. It may be thought that this is a strange idea and no one would ever do it, yet not a single person in town expected the late James A. Tuttle would donate to the town a library. His was a handsome act; now let someone make it possible to get the most out of what we already have. Maybe someone has already made provision for this and we'll hear about it later—we hope they have, and no better gift could be bestowed upon the town and her people than one of this kind.

Entertainment by The Antrim Woman's Club

"Sally Lunn" will be given in the town hall on Friday evening, December 16, under the auspices of the Antrim Woman's Club. The club desires to have this entertainment well advertised and perhaps the one thing that will help do it is the statement that all the men's parts are taken by women, and 'twould probably make you laugh some if you knew whose clothes some of the cast will wear on this occasion. Anyway you should all attend and see for yourself. There will be no guessing contest regarding this matter, but you can think what you like. Let everybody come and enjoy a good thing and help the Woman's Club replenish their treasury. Never mind what you pay—'twill be worth the price; for the cast is made up of some good actresses.

CORRECT USE OF FLAG

Lessons Compiled By National Chairman, D. A. R.

The Flag contains thirteen stripes—alternate red and white, representing the thirteen original states. The blue with the stars is the Union. It should be two-fifths the length of the flag, cross seven stripes and rest on the eighth which is white. There is a star for every state, the present number being forty-eight. This form of flag was fixed by Act of Congress April 4, 1818. In October, 1912, President Taft established the proportions of the flag, its length being one and nine-tenths times its width. The colors of the flag are red, representing valor; white, representing hope, purity and truth; blue, representing loyalty, sincerity and justice; and its stars, high aspirations and Federal union.

When the flag is hung with the stripes in a vertical position (so that it can be viewed from one side only) the union should be in the upper right corner, as one faces it. When hung so that the stripes are in a horizontal position the union should be in the upper left corner. If the flag is hung right side out it will always come that way.

With Other Flags
In parades the Stars and Stripes should have the place of honor—in front or at the right.

In Decoration
When crossed with the flag of any other nation or of an organization the Stars and Stripes should be at the right (the onlooker's right as he faces the flags.)

Exterior Use
When the flag is hung across the street the blue field should be to the north in streets running east and west and east in streets running north and south.

The flag should never be placed below a person sitting.

It should never be used as a covering for a table, desk or box.

It should never touch the ground.
As an altar covering the field should be at the right as one faces the altar, and nothing should be placed upon the flag except the Bible.

On Memorial Day the flag should be displayed at half staff from sunrise until noon, and at the peak from noon until sunset.

In raising the flag to half staff it should always be run to the peak and lowered one breadth of the flag. In retiring it, it should first be run back to the peak and then lowered. It should never be allowed to touch the ground.

Discontinued Use
Never use paper napkins, sofa pillows, candies or handkerchiefs having the flag as decorations.

Not Much Deer Luck

Our hunters the past week have been somewhat "out of luck" so far as getting deer is concerned. We are able, however, to report the following successful ones:

Francis Whittemore
Joseph Carlton, of Wilton, and two others were at their camp at Loveren's Mills and got two fairly good ones.

LONG TIME RESIDENT

Of Antrim Passes Away At Her Home

The death of Mrs. Lilla C. Cochrane occurred at her late residence on Concord street, Dec. 7, at 9.45 p. m. She was the daughter of William C. and Harriet (Crombie) Cochrane, of New Boston. Mrs. Cochrane was born Aug. 31, 1835, thus reaching the ripe age of eighty-six years, three months and seven days. In the year 1857 she went to Davenport, Ia., as a teacher, remaining in the Middle West about three and one half years; a part of this time she spent in Rock Island as a teacher. In her chosen profession she was eminently successful and much sought after.

She returned to her native state in 1861, and on June 14, 1864 she married Rev. Warren R. Cochrane, D. D. She came to Antrim in 1868 with her husband, who was pastor of the Presbyterian church, and since that time she has been a resident of the town, living at Antrim Center until 1893, when she moved with the family into her late home on Concord street. Her end came through gradually failing health for more than a year, due to old age in connection with a succession of light shocks, which affected the use of the muscles of throat and limbs.

Mrs. Cochrane was of a home loving disposition and centered her interests in her home and for the good of her family. She was called "the queen of the home" by the speaker at her funeral service, who said he had been royally entertained many times by her. The adherents of the church and the young people of former days all testify to her cheerful and entertaining manner in the home. Her artistic ability was manifested in many ways, especially in design and construction of things pertaining to her home, all of which were kept in perfect order and made the home attractive to all who came under her roof. Her musical talents were above the ordinary and the rare sweetness and range of her voice were noted by many.

She is survived by one son, Hayward, and a sister, Mrs. Annie C. Moore of Goffstown.

The funeral services were held in the Presbyterian church Saturday at 1.30 p. m. and were conducted by her pastor, Rev. J. D. Cameron, D. D., assisted by the Rev. J. H. Hoffman of East Jaffrey, an old time associate of her husband and family. Mr. Hoffman spoke from an intimate knowledge of the deceased, and in a eulogistic manner. A special feature of the service were poems, one of which was read by her pastor, and written by her late daughter, Miss Sosie Emma Cochrane, entitled: "To Mother," written for her 60th birthday, Aug. 31, 1895. Another, by Dr. Cochrane, was read by Mr. Hoffman: "Sorrow Links in the Chain of Love." Three selections, "There is a land mine eye hath seen," "Rest for the Weary," and "Asleep in Jesus," were feelingly rendered by Mrs. Jennie J. Nims and Miss Gertrude Jameson. The floral display was rich and tastefully arranged.

The bearers were Samuel Thompson, Ira P. Hutchinson, Wm. C. Hills and C. P. Downes.

Interment was in Maplewood cemetery.

Bill Smith owned a house of wood, and wished to sell it if he could, but no matter how he'd try, he couldn't find a man to buy. After many months had past, and hopes of sales were going fast, a neighbor met him on the walk and stopped to have a little talk.

"I see your house is still unsold, no doubt because it looks so old. If you will spend a little cash and paint the house from roof to sash, you'll find it looks so very well that it will not be hard to sell."

So Bill he took this good advice, and after painting raised the price, and ere a week had taken flight the house was sold to Bill's delight.

Duffy Case Date Set For January
The case of Julia Mullan Duffy against Thomas Mott Osborne, former commandant of the Portsmouth Naval prison, in which she charges that gentleman with alienation of her husband's affections, will be heard in the United States court at Concord on Jan. 13.

The case involves William Duffy, a much married man, who was the right hand man of the former Sing Sing head when he was in charge of the naval prison at this navy yard. Duffy is now located in Brooklyn, N. Y., with wife, No. 2, who was Miss Healey of Manchester. When the case was heard in the lower courts Duffy alleged that he was married to Miss Mullan while under the influence of liquor.

Poultry Growers' Association Meets
Leroy Jones of Storrs, Conn., professor of poultry at the Connecticut Agricultural college, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the New Hampshire Poultry Growers' association in Concord, the meeting being held in conjunction with the poultry show of the Merrimack County Poultry association.

"Sorting, Culling and Picking Out Breeders," was the subject discussed by Mr. Jones and which was enjoyed by a large audience. Blackboard illustrations were used in connection with the talk and poultry demonstrations were also made by Mr. Jones.

It was voted by the association to have the secretary of the state association secure all information available on the matter of shipping coops and egg cases and see if some arrangement could not be made with the farmers' exchange to buy these articles for the poultrymen.

Bans Salaries of U. S. Judges
Resolutions have been passed by the Concord Central Labor union against an increase in salaries for federal judges and also the proposed plan to increase the number of justices, copies of which resolution have been forwarded to the New Hampshire congressional delegation.

In the opinion of the labor union the federal justices should not receive an increase until such time as the salaries of the working man are increased to within 50 per cent of what justices are now receiving.

Steel Barrels
If the statements of the makers are well founded, it is probable that steel barrels will eventually take the place of wooden ones. The steel barrel is composed of staves of that material locked together by an ingenious device; the hoops and heads are also of steel. It is claimed that the steel barrel is more durable and more compact than the wooden one. As it is said to be lighter and cheaper, it has already had favor in various quarters. About 300,000,000 barrels are needed annually in normal times, to supply the demand in the United States. Flour mills use about 80,000,000, the sugar industry 40,000,000, and the cement industry 75,000,000.—Christian Science Monitor.

Breaks Cheek Bone

John E. Loveren was unfortunate in falling and striking his face on the end of a board, breaking the cheek bone and causing him to suffer considerable pain for a few days. He was descending the stairs in the barn and the second stair from the bottom was split and coming apart caused him to fall with the above result.

When a son begins to "cut up," his allowance should be cut down.

Another Push!

Don't get excited; it won't hurt much. In this state, beginning December 15 and continuing till January 15, the American Legion is making an extra effort to have every ex-service man become a member of his local Post, and if not every one, to come as near that number as is possible.

In Antrim, the William M. Myers Post has a membership of 57, being about 100 percent of the Antrim men. The territory covered by this Post includes Bennington, Hancock and Stoddard, in addition to Antrim. There are probably a few ex-service men within this territory, not members of the local Post, and probably not affiliated with any other Post, who would make most desirable members and with whom the present membership would greatly like to associate in this manner. It would prove a great incentive to the present membership to be joined by these other comrades, and the strength of union would be a valuable asset.

This is our appeal to all ex-service men to join the local American Legion Post; your help is needed, and by joining hands with your fellows in this respect you will become stronger yourself as well as your Post, and numbers count when it comes to doing things. We hope to hear good results from this, another push!

Card of Thanks

The students of the Antrim High School wish to extend their cordial thanks to Col. Richard C. Goodell for his generous gift in supplying them with tickets to the entertainment given last Friday evening by Mr. Hutchins.

Unfair Flag of Irish Free State

The first Irish Free State flag to be unfurled in New Hampshire since the announcement of the settlement of the Irish problem, was unfurled by Maj. James F. Brennan in his office at Peterboro.

St. Anselm's High Enters Prep. Ranks

St. Anselm's College high school of Manchester will class itself with preparatory instead of high school football elevens next fall, the athletic authorities at the school announce. In pursuance of this policy, the 1922 team will meet a number of Catholic prep schools in Massachusetts.

New Hampshire Is Lead

In both the bond drive and the Irish relief drive New Hampshire led every state in the country and with the remarkable distinction each time of reporting the fund in cash with an expense charge of less than one per cent in the bond drive and one and seven-tenths per cent in the relief drive.

May Mean Lay-Off

The industrial department at the Portsmouth navy yard has received word from the bureau of engineering at Washington that the allotment of funds under their appropriation for January, will be ten per cent less than for December. The amount of money will be $3,400, which is a big cut over what it was a year ago. This is in line with the retrenchment program being carried out by the navy department, and a number of men will have to be laid off as a result.

Vet Shoemaker Dies in Exeter

George W. Gadd one of Exeter's well known citizens and a veteran of the Civil War, was found dead at his home where he had lived alone for many years.

He was the last of the old time hand shoemakers, for many years doing a business in his shop on Tan Lane, opposite the old academy building, and during his life time had made shoes for Robert Lincoln, son of President Lincoln, when he was a student at the academy before the Civil war, and also for Charlemagne Tower, former United States ambassador to Germany, when he also was a student at the academy.

No Move to Enter J. Stewart Case

It having been reported that John H. O'Brien of Harbor avenue, Nashua, a brother of the late John K. Stewart who was known in Nashua years ago as Terence O'Brien, had asked for letters of administration in the estate of the testator, leads to a disclaimer by David and Catherine O'Brien, who state that they have not heard of such a movement recently by any member of the family.

John K. Stewart died some five years ago worth, it is said, $7,000,000, and recently a suit was brought by Mrs. Robert B. Honeyman, a daughter, to obtain complete control of the estate. Stewart made his money in the manufacture of speedometers.

Property Was Left to Masons

As a preliminary proceeding in the contesting of the will of the late Geo. W. Merrill of Dover, by his half sister, Mrs. Melissa E. Gould of Newburyport, Mass., who was left the small bequest of $100 by Mr. Merrill in his death-bed will, executed on the day of his death, Nov. 26, 1920, the will was entered at the regular session of the probate court for Strafford county to be proved in solemn form.

It is understood that the estate is valued at about $12,000. The entire property with the exception of the bequest to Mrs. Gould and the gift of a $500 diamond ring and other personal effects to local friends, was left to Moses Paul lodge of Masons.

Settlement in Fitchburg Case

The Fitchburg case, tried before Judge William H. Sawyer and a jury for 16 days, ended abruptly when after a two-hour conference, the counsel stated that an agreement had been reached. The jury was immediately dismissed. Both sides refused to make public the conditions of the agreement.

The action was brought by Earl H. Fitchburg of Concord against the Grand Trunk railroad, Edson J.

Chamberlain, former president of the Grand Trunk, Sir Alfred Smithers of London, chairman of the Grand Trunk Board of Directors and Edward H. Smith, president of the Central Vermont railroad to recover $300,000 for alleged conspiracy, which Fitchburg stated ruined his railroad career and prevented him from securing employment in the line of work for which he had fitted himself.

Daniel A. Rugg Dies in Sullivan

Daniel Arthur Rugg, the only resident of Sullivan ever elected to the state senate, died at his home in East Sullivan at the age of 85 years. He had been a prosperous farmer there for more than 50 years. He is survived by one son.

Mr. Rugg was born in Sullivan in 1836 and was educated in the schools of the town. He served the town as moderator and selectman for a number of years and was elected to the state legislature in 1885-87. In 1894-91 he was a member of the senate.

On the night of December 16, the members of the state guard in Portsmouth will don their uniforms for the last time as members of the organized defense of the state. At a meeting of the officers of the local organization it was planned that the muster out should occur on that evening at the state armory, when the discharges of the members will be handed out in form.

Moses Attacks Dyes Embargo

In a short speech in the U. S. Senate Senator Moses raked the chemical foundation fore and aft and gave smashing blows to what he described as "insidious propaganda." TOIL AND TROUBLE

"I MUST admit that life in the sylvan solitudes has its drawbacks in the winter time," confessed the wild man of the woods. "There are times when I think with pensive longing of the heating stove we had in our vine-covered cottage in town, and wish I were seated by it.

"And then come painful recollections which not only reconcile me to my cave in the woods but convince me that I am the most fortunate of men. The thing we call comfort is a delusion. The more modern a house is, the greater nuisance it becomes. The poet says, 'In happy homes we see the light of firesides gleaming warm and bright,' and the description is alluring; but have you ever been responsible for one of those fireplaces gleaming warm and bright? If so, you know it costs more than it's worth.

"My wife was an admirable woman in every respect, and I never weary of extolling her splendid qualities of heart and mind, but she was a crank on neatness. Our house always was like a new pin. She wouldn't stand for anything that looked like disorder, and this characteristic of hers caused me much misery.

"We had an old-fashioned heating stove which burned big chunks of wood, and it might have been possible to be comfortable by it in wintry weather, had my wife been of a more liberal mind. When it became apparent to the most casual observer that bad weather was coming, I wanted to bring in enough wood to last until the elements took in their sign. My plan was to have a large box behind the stove, and fill it with wood. But my beloved Arabella said she'd be everlastingly keelhauled and kerfummixed before she'd have an old woodbox in the sitting room. She exhausted her energy and intellect, she said, making our sitting room a credit to the family, and she wasn't going to have any old boxes kicking around.

"Neither would she permit me to pile a reserve supply of wood in the kitchen. She argued that the kitchen should be as orderly and neat as the parlor, and there was no more striking evidence of bad housekeeping than piles of wood here and there.

"You may ask why I didn't put my foot down and assert myself as head of the family, but when a man has been married a few years he gets tired of putting his foot down, since it never accomplishes anything. He is willing to make any sacrifice for the sake of balmy peace.

"The result of my wife's attitude on this question was that I had to be always drilling out to the woodshed for fuel, and there's nothing more disgusting than leaving a warm sitting room on such an errand. Before leaving the house I had to put on my overshoes, so I wouldn't bring in any snow when I returned. Having secured my armload of wood, I had to lay it down on the back porch while I took off my overshoes, and then gather it up again and carry it into the house.

"This done, my estimable wife would follow my track to the back door, with her hands in the air, in a gesture of despair, saying I had left a trail of bark and silvers and other refuse, and if I had the first instincts of a gentleman I'd clean up the mess I had made. Having the second as well as the first instincts of a gentleman, I got the broom and dustpan and removed the debris. It was the same way when I carried out the ashes. I never could carry out ashes without dropping samples on the floor, and then I'd have to get down on my marrowbones and clean up, and by the time I seated myself by the stove to rest, the fire would be low again, and I'd have to scoot into the howling tempest once more. It was this sort of thing that drove me, a homeless wanderer, from the busy haunts."

The Soul of Gallantry

"I'm so sorry," said the beautiful motorist, who had knocked down a pedestrian.

"Madam," replied her victim, as he made a sweeping bow, "I can't say that it's a pleasure to be struck by an automobile, but when the driver happens to be such a fair creature as you, I find that my vocabulary of oaths is reduced to a simple 'Tut, tut.'"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Advantages

Peter Lower was digging away at the weeds in his potato patch. "Makes it much harder to have the weeds so thick, don't it?" remarked Lem Beebe, leaning over the fence.

"None, easier," declared Pete; "you don't have to walk so far to the next weed."—Everybody's Magazine.
