INTERESTING LETTER

Former Resident Relates a Singular Incident

The letter printed below, which relates an interesting and amusing incident of the marriage of Artemas Brown and Rhoda Robinson long ago, was written by Mrs. William W. Story, of Grafton Center, N. H., a lady who must have reached or passed four score years of age. She was also the writer of the letter printed in a recent issue of The Reporter, telling of "Aunt Letty Gregg" and her pleasant memories of various Antrimites. Mrs. Story is a younger sister of Rev. W. R. Cochrane, D. D., who was for so long the honored minister of the Presbyterian church of Antrim, through whose painstaking work so much of the early history of our town has been made accessible to us all.

In this connection it may not be out of place for me to remind Antrim readers of The Reporter of the great value to the town of having a well conducted weekly newspaper in the town. In trying to do the work entrusted to me I have not yet reached the period of our town history that has been covered by The Reporter, but I expect to come to it presently; and I am very sure that when I do I shall find much valuable material in reference to many things. Such a newspaper should have generous support all the time, not merely in number of subscribers, but in news items contributed. I remember hearing the editor of a good local newspaper say to one of the reporters for his paper that he wished him to report all the local happenings that he knew anything about. If a baby woke up in the night, or a cat sneezed, report it! If I do not go quite so far as that in my present piece, I will say this at least, that any of the older residents of the town who can follow Mrs. Story's example and send in interesting stories, which they can vouch for, of life and experience in Antrim, they will be doing a good work. Here is Mrs. Story's letter:

The day before the wedding Rhoda's father brought the load of household goods—wheel, reel, beds and bedding, table linen and what not—and for a joke said: "I will lend these things, so that when the sheriff comes they cannot be taken for debt." Now Artemas was the soul of thrift, and his pride was to owe no man a dollar. A dun would seem to him an everlasting disgrace. So the joke set hard. His anger grew. The sun went down on his wrath. Next morning the feast was prepared; the guests arrived at the Robinson house but the groom did not appear; so the prospective father-in-law started out for him and found him in his field reaping his wheat. "Why," said he, "the house is full of folks, and you not there!" (The reaper was too busy to hear.) "The turkeys are most done." (No attention.) "Mr. Whiton has come." (No attention.) "Rhoda is crying." The sickle dropped and Artemas, unmindful of the wedding suit, stalked across lots to his beloved Rhoda, dropped his old hat somewhere and stood up with her as he was, she in her wedding finery, to be married. How the turkey tasted I know not, but Artemas was called a loving husband and father.

Now it may not be true that a surgical operation is always necessary in order to get a joke into a Scotchman's head, but it certainly is true that the man who can crack a joke so that it will stay cracked, and not be masquerading around as an insult or as historical truth, is a very capable joker. And we can't help feeling that Artemas ought to have been given a good licking.

S. G. Hastings,
Town Historian.

Appointment Should Be Made

The following statement is issued by Collector of Internal Revenue John H. Field, District of New Hampshire: "To save themselves time and trouble and in many cases unnecessary expenditures, taxpayers having business with the income tax unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue at Washington and desiring conference with officials in connection therewith, are advised to ask for such conference in advance.

A number of taxpayers and their representatives appear at the income tax unit without appointment, and

A FEW THOUGHTS

Suggested by What Is Happening Around

Secretaries, dieticians, and technicians who served with American forces have been declared ineligible to membership in the American Legion by the national organization.

The oldest and youngest veteran of the World War are members of the same American Legion post in Washington, D. C.—W. N. Williams who saw active duty at 80, and S. F. Tillman, who enlisted at 14.

The American Federation of Labor favors the adjusted compensation bill for ex-soldiers, Daniel J. Tobin, treasurer of the Federation, has informed the American Legion. But it does not favor a sales tax as a means of raising the money.

The unusual milk situation which is disturbing the farmers in this section is becoming more and more serious. It was hoped that a compromise would be affected by now or before, but both sides appear to be "sitting tight." This is too bad; the parties concerned are losing money—and they cannot afford to. Possibly very soon the entire situation will clarify itself and things will again be running smoothly.

New England will get a specific appropriation for fighting the white pine blister rust, as the budget bureau recommended to congress favorable action on the Keyes bill for $75,000 to be used in eastern states, a separate appropriation being made for the rest of the country. This bill has been in charge of our own Senator Henry W. Keyes, and he is to be congratulated on its success.

Gov. Albert O. Brown has requested the Mayors of cities and Selectmen of towns within the New Hampshire area infested by the white pine blister rust to send representatives to Concord next Friday for a conference to be held in the general committee room at the State House.

The editor of the Reporter repeatedly receives anonymous communications for the newspaper columns. This fact has been mentioned before and we now speak of it again. Such effusions will not be published. They are invariably written by someone with a chip on the shoulder and slamming somebody very likely without just cause,—which often counts for the writer withholding his name. This is a cowardly thing to do, and there is no reason whatsoever why the local paper should be made a clearing house for such attacks. All communications tending to better the town and its people are gladly welcomed and earnestly solicited, but such stuff as we above refer to can find no place in our columns. Sometimes these articles are passed in to correspondents to be forwarded with their weekly news letter. This is taking an unfair advantage of one who regrets to say what he or she thinks regarding the matter. We hope the Reporter has made itself clear in this regard and that we will not have to speak of it again.

ask immediate hearings. Frequently the conference cannot be held at once for the reason that the papers and information relating to the case must be assembled or the proper official may be otherwise engaged. The result is a delay of a day or two, and added cost to the taxpayer in the way of hotel bills, etc.

Requests for conference should be addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C., together with a statement of all the facts in connection with the cases, and the purpose for which it is desired. The taxpayer will be informed by letter or telegram of the date appointed for the conference.

FEBRUARY MEETING

Molly Aiken Chapter Holds D. A. R. Gathering

The February meeting of Molly Aiken Chapter was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Wheeler, who was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Henry MacClarence.

The afternoon was given to the subject of the Near East. Mrs. Carter gave a very instructive paper on "What is the Near East Relief." Mrs. S. G. Hastings read several letters from Miss Elsie Kimball, formerly of Bennington, our near neighbor. Miss Kimball's descriptions of her work, personal experiences and narrow escapes were most interesting and vividly given. A reading, "Why Who is Who," was given by Mrs. Carl Robinson, and a piano solo by Mrs. Muzzey. Refreshments were served and a social hour followed.

The next meeting of the chapter will be held in the Baptist vestry Saturday, March 4, instead of Friday, and will be Children's Day.

Cora B. Hunt, Sec.

Mrs. Emily A. Roach

Wife of Frank F. Roach, passed on to the higher life at her home on Pleasant street on Monday of this week, aged 72 years. She had been in failing health for a long time and for a number of weeks suffered much pain, being a very sick woman.

Deceased was born Emily A. Clapp in Taunton, Mass., coming here from Hillsboro more than fifty years ago, marrying Mr. Roach in January, 1877, and has since made her home here.

She was a good woman in all that it means and was respected and honored by all who knew her. Was a charter member of Hand in Hand Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F., its fourth Noble Grand, and always one of the trustees; also a member of Molly Aiken Chapter, D. A. R. Was a member of the local Methodist church. In these different interests she was a faithful worker, and her presence was regular as long as her health would permit. She will be missed by her associates. Her life companion whom she now leaves alone has been bereft of a true wife and real home maker; he has the sympathy of all in his affliction. One sister, Mrs. Elmer P. Nichols, resides in Manchester.

The funeral services will be held from the home on Thursday at one o'clock; Rev. George Davies, her pastor, will officiate. Members of the Rebekahs and D. A. R. have been invited to attend in a body, but they have no part in the service. Interment in the family lot in Maplewood cemetery.

Edwards-Maxwell

The marriage of Ellerton H. Edwards of Bennington and Miss Susan A. Maxwell took place Monday evening at the Presbyterian Manse, Rev. J. D. Cameron officiating. The double ring service was used and the couple was unattended. The contracting parties are both well known in this vicinity. Mr. Edwards, by profession is a paper maker at the Monadnock Paper Mills in Bennington, and Miss Maxwell has been popular among the younger circle in Antrim. She is a graduate of the Antrim High School. She has also been a successful teacher for the past few years, teaching in Hillsboro and more recently in West Rmidge. Mr. Edwards is also a graduate of Antrim High School. A host of friends of both bride and groom follow them with best wishes.

Fell and Broke Arm

Arthur Hawkins fell on the ice and broke his arm one day recently and was taken by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hawkins, to Concord for the necessary surgical attention. This was the same arm that the young man had the bullet enter in an accidental "didn't know it was loaded" a few weeks ago; splintered bones were the cause of an easy break. Reports say the patient is getting along all right.

The American Legion has set October 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20 as the dates for its fourth national convention to be held in New Orleans. The city will raise $150,000 for entertainment.

"WHEN THE HOME LAND CALLS"

The Senior Play Successfully Given by Members of the Antrim High School

The annual school play was given on Friday evening last at the town hall, and was witnessed by a full house, many being present from out of town. The play the Seniors of the Antrim High put on this year was "When the Home Land Calls," a war drama in two acts. The cast was entirely made up from members of the High School, the two leading parts being taken by members of the graduating class, Misses Evelyn Parker and Jennie Craigie:

Barbara Benton, an American girl who does her bit—Evelyn Parker
Christine Hunter, a spy—Jennie Craigie

Red Cross enthusiasts
Celia—Edith Barrett
Kate—Marion Holt
Peggy—Anna McIntyre
Edith—Frances Cutter
Glady—Arlene Cleveland
Herman Von Eltz, Pro-German in thought and action—Lester Davies
Karl Von Eltz, his younger brother—Nelson Kidder
Capt. Ward, of the U. S. Army—Lester Putnam
Lieut. Roberts, of the U. S. Army—

Roger Boreham
The play was not a long one, yet all were loud in their praise of the several parts taken; all had their lines well memorized and not one word of fault could be found in any way. Much credit is due the instructors for their painstaking efforts in the preparation of the several parts. Sleeper's Orchestra, of Hillsboro, furnished music for the entertainment and for the chaperoned dance after the play.

As a result of the evening's entertainment and dance, the seniors add to their treasury nearly a hundred dollars.

The junior class sold home made candy and cleared up about fifteen dollars.

Birthday Surprise

Mrs. George W. Hunt gave a birthday surprise party to Mr. Hunt on Monday evening, at their pleasant home on Summer street. Some twenty-five invited friends were present to assist in celebrating the occasion. Games were played and a general good time was enjoyed by all. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and coffee were served.

Trackless Trolley Abroad.
 From a German periodical, Elektrotechnische und Maschinenbau, we learn that electrically-driven buses connect Vienna with a suburb a short distance away. These trackless trolleys run on pneumatic tires and are fed from a double trolley line on which rolls a small contact-making carriage, connected with a flexible cable to the car. The length of this cable can be varied, as its end is wound around a take-up drum. Approaching cars have to stop when passing each other, exchanging their cables and proceed again. The cars are driven by two motors, built into the rear wheels. They are multipolar, slow-speed, direct current 550-volt motors, transmitting their power directly without any gears. The buses accommodate 24 passengers, but can carry as many as 40.—Scientific American.

Something to Fall Back On.
 Little Owen lived near a southern Indiana town where a hub factory had just been built. The new industry had just caused a great deal of discussion among his elders as to increased property values, sale of timber and opportunities for employment. Owen one day went across the sunny fields and up a hill to the old farmhouse where his great-grandfather was spending the summer afternoon on the wide porch. A short time afterward an aunt, listening to the conversation between the two, heard the following:
 "Owen, what are you going to do when you're a man?"
 "Well, I guess I'll be a preacher or maybe a teacher. When I'm not preaching or teaching I guess I'll work at the hub factory."

Roadless Russia.
 Russia is almost a roadless land. It is inconceivable to the foreign visitor who has ever left the beaten track of the railways in Russia how a great empire can have subsisted so long and so successfully without even a pretense at roads. The secret lies in the fact that for five or six months in the year nature herself provides roads over the greater part of Russia—admirable smooth, glossy roadways over hard-worn snow. The traffic is further cheapened over these roads by the substitution of a sledge runner for the wheel and axle. This brings the cost of land carriage as near the cheapness of water-borne freight as possible, and it is the principal reason why Russia in the Twentieth century is still a roadless land.

WHAT PERSHING THINKS

The appropriations of the five great powers for military and naval purposes in the year 1920 alone reached a total of $18,442,251,101, a sum only about $2,000,000,000 more than the total for the whole fourteen years before the war.

It all comes down to this so far as you are concerned:

Every morning when you go to work, or when you stay at home sick on a working day, or even if you are out of a job, it has been arranged for you to pay your fair share out of what you earn or should earn, of over $5,000,000 a day for the support of the army and navy. That is the estimate for the fiscal year 1922—over $5,000,000 a day. I have General Pershing's word for it. You will have to pay it. Five million dollars every working day is a pile of money to spend for insurance against attack. And of course that is not all the cost. What is the big idea? What do you think about it? You will have to pay the bill. Do you think about it at all? General Pershing does. This is what he thinks:

"As we consider the causes of the World war and comprehend its horrors, every thinking man and woman must feel that measures should be taken to prevent another such calamity. One step in that direction would be to reduce expenditures for armament. Our own estimates for naval and military purposes contemplate an appropriation for the fiscal year 1922 of over $5,000,000 for every working day in the year. It is a gloomy prospect that the nations plan expenditures greater than ever before in peacetimes.

"It would appear that recent experiences should be enough to convince everybody of the danger of a renewal of this competition. But one nation cannot reduce armaments unless all do. It is time that enlightened people everywhere should undertake to reach some rational agreement which would not only relieve the world of its heavy financial burden but which in itself would go far toward the prevention of war. We are not a warlike people. We do not wish to expand at the expense of any other nation, and we have no designs on anybody. If other people feel the same toward us and toward each other it seems unreasonable that they should be unwilling to consent in principle to some limitation of armaments, to be carried out when other nations succeed in establishing stable governments and are willing to recognize the wisdom of such a course. Otherwise, may we not seriously ask ourselves whether civilization is a failure, and whether we are to regard war as an unavoidable scourge that mankind must suffer?

"There are other considerations which should prompt us to make every effort to bring about a curtailment of these expenditures throughout the world, particularly in the war-worn countries of Europe. The people of Europe have always been our best customers and are largely dependent upon us for certain necessities. We must look to them to buy the products of our farms, mines and factories. The prosperity of our people depends in no small measure upon the uninterrupted flow of commodities abroad. We have stocks of cotton, wheat and other products greatly in excess of our own requirements, which the people of Europe sorely need but which we cannot sell and they cannot buy because their fiscal systems have broken down, their currencies have depreciated, and their purchasing power is exhausted.

"The first step to take in the rehabilitation of the finances of all these countries is to reduce the cost of government so that expenses will not exceed the incomes. Expenditures must be lowered everywhere if financial stability is to be restored and if the nations are ever to pay their debts. Until stability is restored none can have prosperity that comes from a free and uninterrupted flow of products from one country to another. But this cannot be done if huge sums continue, to be appropriated for the maintenance of large armies and large navies.

"The safety of humanity in the future, indeed the peace, the happiness and the prosperity of the race—all appeal alike for an early consideration of the question of limited armaments."

Broadly speaking, it is the man who profits, and not the simple average man who endures, who is behind all this movement for ever increasing armament. If you doubt this, just go out in your own neighborhood and ask men who were actually in the war, who saw service in the line, whether they want any more of it.

Scientific Query.

When we read about monkey stars getting salaries of $1,000 a week in the movies we wonder whether evolution is what it has been cracked up to be.

MANY ADULTS TOY WRECKERS

Fathers, Mothers, and Uncles, All Too Fond of Trifling With the Children's Playthings.

Fathers and uncles have always made it a practice to play with little Willie's mechanical toys at Christmas time until they were broken, frequently permitting Willie to look on helplessly while a group of adults manipulated the toys all Christmas day...

But what happened to little Willie was as nothing to the wrongs practiced by mothers who have purchased walking dolls for their little girls. A little girl whose family had been making entirely unsuccessful efforts to conceal the anti-Yuletide presence in the home of a walking doll came out with the whole history of the case one evening...

"Are you going to show her the walking doll?" she asked wistfully, indicating a dinner guest as the "her" in question.

Father and mother looked at each other aghast. Theoretically the little girl was not supposed to know there was a walking doll in the house until Santa Claus introduced them...

"But the little girl had reached the end of her endurance. Desperately she turned to the guest:

"They play with it every night after I go to bed," she wailed.

His next favorite is of the old Welsh farmer who walked many miles in Gleded, where Lloyd George lives...

"While You Wait"

"Repairs while you wait" may be explained in more ways than one, according to a Jeffersonville business man, who had discovered a meaning he had not thought of at first. He took a pair of shoes to a shop that advertised "something different in repairing," and promised the job "while you wait." The business man said he did not wish to wait but would call later. It was not until the third visit that he got the shoes. He was engaged to become sarcastic but checked himself, looked thoughtfully at the man and remarked to himself, as the light broke: "Well, I waited."—Indianapolis News.

The defendant was acquitted and the judge laid it down that 'When a man kisses a woman against her will she is fully entitled to bite his nose if she so chooses.'"—Milwaukee Sentinel.

LONDON FOG BACK ON JOB

Citizen of Big City Secretly Proud of What Visitors Universally Denominate a Nuisance.

The "London particular," the blinding, choking, solid, yellow fog; the Londoner's pride and the visitor's despair, has come back into its own. London's fog is not the soft, moist, gray mist that hangs over an American city in wet weather...

Whatever the real "London particular" character, it is a real fog; and when it comes trains stop or slow to a nervous crawl and street traffic is all but halted.

The London fog comes with the autumn and early winter, when fires are lighted in 2,000,000 fireplaces and the smoke is unable to penetrate the clouds. For several years there had not been much fog; last year there was almost none. This year it is back, and the Londoner, cursing it when it makes him an hour late for work, secretly hugs it to his breast—he couldn't help it if he wanted to—and glouts over it as part of his heritage.

Stars in Daylight

It has been recently found that photographs of stars down to the sixth magnitude (degree of brightness) can be taken in broad daylight so that astronomical photographs need no longer be confined to night. The discovery follows from Rayleigh's finding that the color of the sky is caused by the diffusion of light by the atmosphere, and that quantity of light dispersed is different in the case of different colors.

Deserved That Deer

Frank Pettigill of Sauborn, N. H., while hunting alone wounded a big buck deer. The buck turned and ran; Pettigill was out of ammunition so he dropped his gun and gave chase, as he saw that the deer was badly wounded. He overtook the animal in a mountain brook, got a strangle hold on its neck and the pair went to the mat. The buck managed with its feet to tear Pettigill's trousers completely off, but finally succumbed to Pettigill's blows. Then, trousersless, in the 15 above zero air, Pettigill ran two miles to his home, donned dry clothes and returned for his prize.—Boston Globe.

DENUDED TURKEY "CAME TO"

Chloroformed Bird, Minus Feathers, Very Much Alive When the Anesthetist Had Worn Off.

One of New Jersey's most conservative towns is consumed with mirth and the objects of said mirth are a young, kind-hearted bride and bridegroom. The bridegroom, it appears, took a chance on a turkey that was being raffled off in his New York office and a few days later was notified that he had won the pouponous bird. Highly delighted, he gave his address and ordered the prize sent out to his New Jersey home.

In the course of time the bird arrived at its destination, and arrived, much to the surprise of the bride and bridegroom, in a wire crate very much alive, remarks the New York Sun. As their experience in executing birds was nil and the bride "couldn't bear to have its pretty head chopped off," they decided to chloroform it. Consequently, the next night, when the bridegroom got home from the office, the anesthetist was administered on a lovely lace handkerchief, and then the bird was plucked and put into the ice box. About 9 o'clock that night the peace and quiet around the library lamp were disturbed by strange noises in the kitchen.

Hand in hand the newlyweds bravely descended upon the kitchen expecting to find the ever-looked-for bird. But no burglar was to be seen. Escaping the noise in the direction of the ice box the brave young bridegroom swung open the doors and out stepped a very naked turkey. After a few rounds of the kitchen with considerable flapping of wings he began picking up the crumbs on the floor. The bride and bridegroom looked at each other in horror and fled from the kitchen. An hour or so later the services of a neighbor were called upon and this time the turkey was anesthetized with an ax.

SEEKS BEST WOMAN WORKER

Labor Newspaper of Rio de Janeiro Succeeds in Going the "Beauty Contest" One Better.

The "beauty contest" is one more better by the Intransigente, a labor paper of Rio de Janeiro, which has started a contest to ascertain the best "manual or intellectual laborer of Brazil."

Simultaneous with the opening of a beauty contest by another paper at Rio, the Intransigente announced it would give a valuable prize to a woman or girl securing the largest number of votes for being the most skilled woman in any line of work.

The lists published by the Intransigente of the contestants and their standing include the names of stenographers, actresses, seamstresses, women in all branches of government work, laundry workers, telephone operators, shop girls and numerous others.

Contrary to expectations, however, do not head the list of contestants the top place being occupied by S. S. Horinha Bailey, a seamstress, who has a total of more than 1,000 votes to her credit, says the New York Sun.

Show Aero Development

A remarkable collection of pictures, which will be more highly prized as years go by, is the series of American aeronautical photographs which ex-Major Ernest Jones, army air service, has gathered during his fifteen years in this work. They cover the development of aeronautics, particularly aviation, from 1893 to 1917. The 1,500 photographs visualize the successive steps made by the Wright brothers, Curtiss, Thomas, Wittenman and other pioneers in this country. Some of these are the only pictures in existence of certain machines and events. "It is probable," says United States Air Service, "that this is the most complete collection of air photographs in America."
