ERTEL-FLURI

Pretty Church Wedding at Bennington

Miss Mary Elizabeth Fluri, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fluri, of Wallace street, was united in marriage to Mr. Francis B. Ertel, of Reading, Pa., on Tuesday morning, August 1, at nine o'clock, at St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Bennington. The nuptial mass was said by Rev. Father Ledy, of Hillsboro.

The bride wore a handsome dress of white tulle with veil, and carried white roses. Her bridesmaid was her sister, Miss Annie Fluri, who wore a white tulle dress and carried white roses. The best man was John Coogan, of Northampton, Mass.

A wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony at Bennington. Later the happy couple departed on a honeymoon trip to New Jersey and Pennsylvania in the bride's sedan, which was a gift from the groom. The many gifts testify to the regard of their hosts of friends.

Mr. Ertel is a native of Reading, Pa., but has lived for some years in Northampton, Mass., where the bride has also been living, with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Kasimir Haeffell, former residents of Antrim.

The newly wedded couple will go to housekeeping immediately on their return to Northampton from their honeymoon.

Among the guests present from out of town were: Miss Julia Ertel, sister of the groom; Miss Mary Siegfried, Anthony Siegfried, Mr. and Mrs. Leo S. Ertel, Samuel Monasmit and Daniel Schleifenhimer, all of Reading, Pa. They were accompanied back to their home by Miss Annie Fluri, who will later return with Mr. and Mrs. Ertel.

Bentley School Moved to New Quarters

The Bentley School of Accounting and Finance will move this month into its new home, a large building at 915-921 Boylston Street, Boston, which has been remodeled to meet the growing requirements of the institution.

This latest step in the growth of the Bentley School calls attention to the fact that this institution has now become the largest professional school of collegiate grade in the world devoted exclusively to the training of accountants. Its remarkably rapid growth is a tribute to the judgement of Harry C. Bentley, C. P. A., that there was need of a school restricted to the teaching of accounting.

One of the characteristics of the school, and which has been an important factor in the success of the institution, is the intimate relationship between Mr. Bentley and his students.

The school offers both day and evening courses, and appeals more particularly to men who desire to specialize in accounting.

The exceptionally high standards maintained by the school, and the success that has been attained by the graduates, have contributed much in establishing the reputation that the school has of being the leading professional school of the kind.

Auxiliary Lawn Fete

Antrim started another rally in the sixth: Raleigh got a hit over the second baseman's head, Harlow hit a double to left but the ball hit a stone wall and bounced back to the fielder, enabling him to catch Raleigh at third. Harlow was caught off his base a minute later, and A. Thornton ended the inning by popping out to the pitcher.

Both teams played good ball throughout and the game was in doubt until the sixth, when Henniker scored three runs by bunting a triple, a double and a single.

Antrim will play the Peterboro team here this coming Saturday.

MRS. HAZEL L. CUDDIHY

Antrim Young Lady Passes from This Life

Mrs. Hazel Belle Locke, wife of Matthew N. Cuddihy, passed away early Friday morning, Aug. 4, at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Mahoney in Clinton Village, where she had been ill for a week, following an operation for appendicitis.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Cuddihy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Locke, on the Clinton road. Rev. Ralph H. Tibbells of the Baptist church, of which Mrs. Cuddihy was a member, was the officiating clergyman. The Pathfinder Girls, of which she was also a member, sang two selections, one "Saved by Grace" being her favorite hymn. The bearers were relatives: Leroy H. Locke of Deering, Howard Mann, Richard and Andrew Cuddihy of Antrim. The body was laid at rest in Maplewood Cemetery, and the many beautiful flowers covering the grave are a mute testimony to the loving esteem in which she was held.

The sudden passing of Mrs. Cuddihy is peculiarly sad, as she was only eighteen years old; had been a wife not quite a year, as she was married Aug. 18, 1921, and leaves a baby boy, Marvin, only eleven weeks old, besides her husband.

She was born March 17, 1904, in Deering, coming to Antrim with her parents in 1914. She attended the village schools, graduating in June, 1921, from the High School.

Among other relatives left to mourn her early passing are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Locke, her sister, Vera M. Locke, who was at the summer school at Keene, and two brothers, Ray A. and Kenneth W. Locke, who reside at home.

Cannot Examine C. O. D. Shipments

Packages mailed C. O. D. cannot be opened or the goods examined by the party to receive them before payment has been made, according to the rules of the postoffice department that have been in vogue since the C. O. D. department was organized.

Every day a patron of the city office complains that the man at the window has refused to allow an inspection of the goods before payment is made, although they purchased the goods with the express understanding that they should have the privilege of inspection before accepting the shipment, they complain.

Many have declared that they will not accept clothing until they have tried on the suit, or whatever article it happens to be, and have ascertained its merits.

For this reason the department is put to much inconvenience as the packages have to be held and the senders notified to send the required postage to have the goods returned to them.

Window clerks are instructed, the postoffice explained, not to receive for C. O. D. delivery any package addressed with a tag or labelled in any way with the directions that "the goods may be examined before payment." This is against the rules of the departments. Business houses that so advertise are falsely representing the privileges of the buyers. Goods addressed in this way will not be accepted for delivery.

A FEW THOUGHTS

Suggested by What Is Happening Around

Thunder showers have been numerous the past week or two, and in fact about all the season, and have been pretty hard in many places.

It is presumed to be good financing for the state of New Hampshire to be a million dollars ahead at this season of the year; which causes many to think that too much money is being raised by taxation. But if the necessary repairs were made on the highways of the state, to say nothing of the improvements of trunk lines already begun, there would be very little of this surplus remaining in the treasury. We suppose in this case it works much the same as with individuals. A man may earn good wages or have a handsome income, and if he never spends a cent on the upkeep of himself or his property, there is no reason why he should not save a lot of money, but when the repairs have to be made then it takes very much more than if they were made a little at a time.

A. A. A. Ball Game

The Antrim ball team lost to Henniker last Saturday, on the latter's grounds, 7-1. The relative difference between the two teams was not as great, however, as the score indicates. The teams made nine hits apiece; Antrim made three errors, while Henniker played faultless ball behind Angwin, their pitcher. J. Thornton led the batting, getting three hits out of four times up.

Antrim's only run was scored in the first inning when J. Thornton, the first man up, singled over second and was advanced to second when Cramp-ton beat out an attempted sacrifice. Newell hit to short, forcing Thornton at third, Mulhall hit a liner over the shortstop's head and Cramp-ton scored from second. Raleigh then followed with a scratch hit to second, but was left on base.

A lawn fete will be held on the afternoon and evening of Friday, Aug. 18, at the residence of Dr. Tibbells, under the auspices of American Legion Auxiliary to the Wm. M. Myers Post No. 50.

An outstanding feature of the fete will be a Japanese Tea Garden with real Japanese waitresses. There will be tables of food, ice cream, candy, lemonade, fancy articles, and a Mystery Table. Come and let the gypsy tell your fortune.

A band concert will be held in the evening, together with the sale. Come and make this The Biggest Event of the year. Everyone is cordially invited. Remember the date!

Vaccination

The orders of the State Board of Health are that all children shall be vaccinated before admittance to the fall term of school. This is a reminder to the parents whose children have not been vaccinated that it would be for the interest of the children to have this done now and not wait until just before school opens.

OPPOSED CREAM IN COFFEE

Frenchman, a Century Ago, Ascribed All Sorts of Human Ills to the Custom.Armand Thibault de Bernand, illustrating a century ago in the Biblio-theque Mazarine, Paris, opposed with zeal the then comparatively new custom of adding milk or cream to black coffee. The latter, in the author's language, was "consoling, joyful and I had nearly said, spiritual!" in its effects. But let ever so small a quantity of milk or cream be added and the result upon the human economy, was most disastrous.Since the dawn of this vicious custom pneumonia and consumption in the cities had increased one-half and rural communities formerly immune were now beginning to show cases of these ailments.According to Le Progres Medical, which obtained the above information from a new popular review, La Connaissance, de Bernand claimed that many eminent physicians shared his opinion. He seems to have had an obsession that all mixtures of fluids were injurious and extended his proscription of milk addition to tea, chocolate and spirits. Sustained by this preconceived notion, he was able to publish a long diatribe in 1838, in which he accuses cafe au lait of causing almost every derangement known to medicine. But, rapid as he sounds, he was fatuous enough to admit that perhaps 10 per cent of the people might be tough enough to drink cafe au lait without disastrous results.—New York

BUILDING UP BUFFALO HERDS

Department of Agriculture Has Had Gratifying Success With This Part of Its Work.Forty-six new buffalo calves are reported on three of the four game preserves maintained by the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture for the special protection of buffalo. On the national bison range, in Montana, there are 417 buffalo, including 28 calves born this spring. Fifteen calves are reported at the Wind Cave preserve, in South Dakota, and 8 at Niobrara, Neb.The department has been very fortunate in maintaining the herds established at these three points and at Sully Hill, North Dakota. There are relatively few large buffalo herds now scattered over the country, and the biological survey has made special efforts to provide suitable ranges and protection for what threatened a few years ago to become an extinct species of native American animal.Interesting Powder Horn Map.
A map engraved on an old powder horn may lead to the location of the sites of several Cherokee Indian towns in western North Carolina, according to the Bureau of American Ethnology at Washington.The powder horn is a loan from Hugh Kirk, Newtownards, County Down, Ireland, and dates from about 1750 when the English were beginning to open up the Cherokee region. It belonged to James Grant, member of a company of British soldiers stationed near Charlottesville and near Fort Loudon and Fort Prince George in the Cherokee country about the time that these forts were besieged.The horn is elaborately engraved with the royal arms of Great Britain and the map showing the ancient town of Ucassee and other towns in the region in which the soldier saw service.Perpetual Motion Discredited.
It seems hardly credible, but up to the year 1772, there was no scientist in all Europe who knew enough to categorically deny that there was such a thing as perpetual motion.It remained for Sir Isaac Newton and the French scientist, De La Hire, to demonstrate beyond doubt the impossibility of attaining it.Quite a little time passed before the scientific world in general was willing to accept the Newtonian theory, but finally the French Academy of Science at Paris, in 1775, publicly declared that perpetual motion was an impossibility and thereby branded all those who still insisted upon experimenting with it as charlatans.—

Are needed by everybody. Sometimes when most needed the last one has been used. If YOUR engraved plate is at THE REPORTER office—where a great many people leave them for safe keeping—it might be well to order a new lot of cards before you are all out. If you have never used engraved cards, wouldn't it be a good idea to call at THE REPORTER office and see samples? They are not expensive,—more of a necessity than a luxury.

WHIP-POOR-WILL

By ADDIE GRAVES

The last dainty piece of linen had been finished and carefully laid on the bed in the front room. The dressmak-er's threads, rags and patterns and spools had been cleaned away, and the nervous wracking, planning, fitting and hustling were over, releasing the tension of wearying weeks of confining toll. Rose had closed the door and gone down to the piazza for a breath of fresh air.

"What a relief," she sighed; "it will be so nice to have a few days of rest.
All the other girls have been in a jungle of confusion up to the last minute. I think I will go over and call on Will's mother. It's fine to have a congenial mother-in-law—and Pa Parker as he already calls himself—is such a dear. It's like having two sweet hearts, as it so happens."

Rose walked slowly up the maple-shaded road until she came to a little white cottage behind some locust trees in full bloom. It was nearly dark, with a bay moon just disappearing behind Peaked Hill. How perfect everything was on a June evening, and what a lucky girl she was to be marrying the best boy that ever lived. As she turned up the path, bordered by a bed of perennials backed by shrubs and two small fir balsams, she thought she heard his voice. Glancing through an opening, she unmistakably saw Will's form—and a female figure with a hat on, tightly veiled. His voice continued:

"You are graceful enough to please an artist—and your poise is perfect.
We will fool them all—the nineties!
You're a darling!"

His head was very near now, while he carefully buttoned her sweater.
"I'll see you again in the morning, honey; don't be afraid of the dark." Rose did not stop to hear more, but fled in her silent-soled sneakers down the now lonely road. A lone whippoorwill screamed from some nearby bush:

"Whip-poor-will! Whip-poor-will!
Whip-poor-will!"

"How absurd! Ridicule heaped upon insult! Imagine ME whipping Will!
He can never be anything to me hereafter—and I am not the breach-of-promise kind of a girl! What a fool I have been to think a boy who has known me all his life could be in love with me! Of course he needed some new personality to interest him! I am like a sister."

Rose ended her exclamations by deciding to take the nine o'clock train to the next town to visit her sister.
While dressing Rose penned a short note to drop in the post office as she passed it on the way to the train. It was very simple:

"I have discovered that you prefer someone else. Goodbye. ROSE."

Will was packing his camera when the postman arrived. He was surprised to see his address in Rose's handwriting, for he had supposed she was at home but had not been up because she was busy and tired. After reading the note he pondered with wrinkled brow.

"Rose was as happy as usual just before supper; what COULD she have imagined so soon after?"

At last his face registered the solution of the problem. His mouth widened from its tight pucker. A convulsing laugh ended in a roll on the lawn. Quickly gathering himself up, he hurried into the house, put a picture into an envelope with a note as short as Rose's.

"Dear Rose: Come home on the 8
p. m. and be introduced to your rival.
"Yours,
"WILL."

The eight o'clock train brought a very disconcerted young lady to Mapellid. Will met her at the station and tried to make the affair as little embarrassing as possible. They stopped to speak to Rose's mother, who was much astonished at her quick return. As the couple continued up the road to Will's home Mrs. Moore remarked to herself:

"I didn't suppose they were so infatuated they couldn't stay apart two days! I don't believe they will ever quarrel."

Will told Rose from the path to the spot where she had viewed her terrible revelation of the night before.
The graceful young lady was there—as tightly veiled as then. Will tipped his hat with great dignity.

"Allow me to introduce my charming scarecrow. Isn't she the peachiest one you ever saw? She's gotten up over mother's dress form. She has certainly fooled all the ninnies crows, robins and woodchucks; they let my peas, beans, corn and cherries alone.
But I played you a terrible trick, sweetheart; what can you do to punish me?"

Suddenly a cry came from a maple cove by that made Will and Rose jump into each other's arms.

"Whip-poor-will! Whip-poor-will!
Whip-poor-will!"

They both laughed and the whippoorwill flew away.

Order of Odd Fellows.
The Order of Odd Fellows, a social and benevolent society, was founded in London, England, in 1745. The Independent Order of Odd Fellows (Manchester unity) was founded in Manchester in 1813, and is one of the oldest of friendly organizations in the United Kingdom, its membership in 1920 numbering 1,077,588, and its total capital almost $90,000,000. It has branches in the United States, Canada and other parts of the world. The United Order of Odd Fellows and the National Independent order are similar friendly societies, really in effect members of the same fraternity.

"Funny how a guy makes up his mind to sell," remarked Slim, the company clerk, to a bunch of his buddies in the bunkhouse.

"What made you decide to take the big plunge?" asked a buddy.

"It was this way," explained Slim.
"I had a little squabble with the girl, and I told her I was going to join the marines. Just to make it sound as if I meant business I wrote a letter to the nearest recruiting station, and before sealing the letter up I let her read it."

"Did she say anything?" asked the buddy.

"Not a word. So I went out and posted the letter. A little later I gets the answer back, saying I could enlist for two, three or four years, and I shows it to the girl. There you are," says I. "If you don't treat me different from now on, I'll go straight out and enlist for two years."

"Two years," says she. "Two years!
Ah, don't be a piker, Slim, why don't you make it four?"

"Come to think of it," concluded Slim, "I don't think that Jane was as bushy about me as I calculated."—

CALLS FOR NERVE AND SKILL

Hunters of the Sword-Fish Find Their Prey Altogether "Worthy of Their Steel."

Sword-fish schooners are the fastest fishing-boats under sail in the world.
They have to be, for the sword-fish is a fast mover. He is a fighter, too.
Often has he charged a ship and driven his "sword" through her stout planking. When a school of sword-fish is sighted, the spearman goes forward to the end of the bowsprit and gets into the "pulpit," an iron fitting at the end of the spar, where he stands to drive his lance into a fish. The line attached to the spear rushes out of the tub in which it is coiled, and the fish makes off, doubling his speed in a vain effort to escape.

A good-sized fish will often fetch as much as $40; but it is a hard life, and it needs fine seamanship in the chase amid the huge seas of the Atlantic when bad weather prevails.

The sword-fish is widely distributed in the ocean, but is most common off the North American coast. Its average length is 7 feet, but some are 12 feet or 15 feet. The "sword" is used to sear its prey, such as cod, tunny and mackerel, and even to attack whales.

The Belle-Pacifist.

"E. G. Wells is known in Europe as a bello-pacifist, and truly his recent peace articles have stirred up a lot of bitterness and strife."

The speaker was Stephen Lauzanne, the French publicist. He went on:
"Wells reminds me of the cantankerous individual who was about to be married. When he came to the church on the wedding morning he warned the minister beforehand that he didn't want any fuss."

"He consented, however, to station himself in due form at the flower-decked altar, but as the minister proceeded with the ritual he got more and more impatient. Finally, when he was asked if he, Henry, did take this woman, Jane, to be his lawful wedded wife and so on, he gave a snort before the question was half through, and then turned to the congregation and said in a loud, jeering voice:

"Well, I guess I came here with that intention!"

They Never Did.

My most embarrassing moment occurred while dramatizing a Christmas play. I had the part of the mother of a large family presiding at the feast on Christmas day. It fell to me to carve the goose. Having rehearsed this part, I was anticipating no difficulty, so I started bravely out on the breast bone. Gently and slowly it slipped out of my grasp. I tried again with the same effect. As the titters from the audience increased, I became slightly confused.

At this opportune moment the father, sitting opposite, uttered his next lines, which were: "Did you ever see such a goose?"

With that the audience began to roar, and I gave it up in ignominious defeat.—Exchange.

Plugging Out.

A Kentucky man seems to have found a relative of the city girl who thought it must be cold work harvesting the winter wheat.

The young woman of whom the Kentuckian tells is a native of Cincinnati, and was lately talking with him about tobacco and tobacco-raising.

"I should like ever so much to see a tobacco field," she said, "especially when it is just plugging out."—Wayside Tales.

Broadened Observation.

"A statesman has to be a profound student."

"No doubt about it," replied Senator Sorghum. "Time was when a good campaigner could get by if he kept his eye on the map of his own state. Now you've got to be an expert in the geography of the world."

World's Largest Reservoir.

In about two years London's reservoir at Littleton will be the largest artificial reservoir in the world. It will hold water to supply London for a month, or 6,500,000,000 gallons. Its surface will cover 800 acres.

Since the town has taken over the water works the springs which are the source of supply have had an exceptionally thorough cleaning out, under the direction of Superintendent Messer.

It is reported the Goodell Shop has been sold to the Monadnock Paper Mills, primarily for control of the water power. We understand there is to be no immediate closing down or moving of the works from here.

Among those present for the ordination Aug. 1 were: Mrs. Mary Butler Jameson, Mrs. Paige and Dr. J.
D. Cameron, of Antrim; Mrs. Felch, of Milford; Mrs. Webster, of Reed's Ferry; and Mrs. Hartley, of Lowell, Mass.

Tuesday, Aug. 1, was a busy day in town: there was a wedding of Antrim young people at the Catholic church, the ordination at the Congregational church, and between three and four in the afternoon an aeroplane passed over the village, going north, which of course caused a good deal of excitement among the boys and girls.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Messer motored to Boston for the week end. All care were held up in Nashua and had to show their papers; eighty five were sent to the police station but only ten were held. Then near Lowell they ran into a cow, but no great damage was done; there was an exchange of compliments and everybody was on the way again.

One day last week a man who is visiting the Westons at Lake George, started blueberrying and lost his way; as it got to be evening they became anxious about him and the village was telephoned for aid in the search. Several young men responded immediately, made up a searching party, and the man was found by them about 11 o'clock. He was near the old Jeff Shea place and all right, but was unable to find his way home alone.

It may not have been called to everyone's attention that S. D. Gordon, who is summing at Rindge, is this week, Aug. 6 to 11, giving a series of twilight talks at 6.30 p. m., on the green in front of the old Congregational church there. The topic for Wednesday, Aug. 9, is: "Can we have communication with our loved dead?" Thursday, Aug. 10: "What is the sane poised truth about Jesus' personal return?" Friday, Aug. 11:
"Is there another chance after death?"

Mr. Gordon is best known as the author of "Quiet Talks," a series of little books on personal religion. Translations have been published in some 28 languages, although he spoke for nine weeks in New York City, seven weeks in Philadelphia, six weeks in Washington, five weeks in Baltimore, and at Atlantic City two summers of nine weeks each. Mr.
Gordon is not an evangelist but simply talks and writes. He is a layman.

Ordination of Pastor

The ordination of Earl Clement Osborne on Tuesday last was an occasion which will long be happily remembered by all present. Rev. E. W. Eldridge of Peterboro acted as moderator, and John Knight of Amherst as scribe. The morning session was mostly business of the nature of such an occasion. Mr. Osborne's "Declaration of Faith" was a deeply interesting address, which called forth many commendations from the visiting clergy. The afternoon session was opened with prayer by Rev. T.
B. Cowan of Deering. Rev. Mr.
Hoffman of East Jaffrey read the scripture. Rev. Edwin H. Byington, D. D., President of Gordon Bible College of Boston, delivered the ordination sermon, his text being Eccles. 8: 17; theme, Pursuit of the Impossible.
Rev. Herbert L. McCann of Hillsboro made the ordination prayer, Rev.
Frank Pearson of Hancock gave the right hand of fellowship, Rev. Dr.
Dumm of Derry gave the charge to the pastor. Closing remarks were made by Rev. E. W. Eldridge of Peterboro, and the closing prayer by Rev. J. Carl Plummer of Greenfield.
There was an anthem by a special choir, with solos by Mrs. H. W. Wilson and Miss Mildred Foote. Rev.
E. C. Osborne pronounced the benediction.

About Advertising

It costs money to advertise in a paper of circulation and influence in the community. Every business man who seeks to enlarge his trade, recognizes the fact that advertising is a legitimate expense it is not the cheapest advertising that pays the best. Sometimes it is the highest priced newspaper that brings the largest net profit to the advertiser.

NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE NEWS

Capital Grange Old Home Night
The Capital Grange, P. O. H., held its annual "Old Home Night" at the Parish house, Concord, Aug. 11. L. F. Feltner, state commissioner of agriculture, and also state secretary of the Old Home Week association, gave the principal address of the evening.

Association Will Inspect Port
At the suggestion of Senator Frisbee, members of the Atlantic Deep-sea Waterways association will spend Sept. 11 in Portsmouth inspecting the port on their way to Portland, Me., where they hold a convention during the three days following.

Hold Annual Field Day
The old historic Daniel Webster birthplace near Franklin was the scene of an auspicious gathering when the Merrimack County Farm Bureau held its annual field day. All previous meetings of the county bureau were eclipsed in the matter of size and in the quality of the entertainment provided.

Retired Naval Officer Suicide
Lieut. William L. Hill, U. S. N., retired, for many years a resident of Portsmouth, committed suicide at the navy yard. Worry over ill health is believed to have been the cause. Lieutenant Hill was aboard the U. S. S. Brooklyn with Rear Admiral Schley at the battle of Santiago in the war with Spain.

The Manchester public market was formally opened last Saturday. Farmers desiring to dispose of their vegetables are required to apply to the city clerk for a stall. A charge of 25 cents is made. During the remainder of the season farmers will be permitted to sell their garden truck on Wednesdays and Saturdays. They may arrive on the scene as early as they desire.

Children Enjoy Outing
Three hundred children who have enjoyed the playgrounds this summer were given a picnic at Wallis Sands by Portsmouth merchants and citizens. Forty-eight automobiles and trucks were needed to transport the youngsters to the beach. A program of sports was carried out and at noon a chowder with all the fixings was served.

Thieves Rob Home
More than $500 worth of jewelry was taken from a bureau drawer in the room where Mr. and Mrs. James Cameron were sleeping in their home on the Troy road in Marlboro. They were not awakened and the theft was not discovered until they saw the drawer open when they awoke. They recently moved there from Hyde Park.

Gov. Gilman's Portrait
The portrait of Gov. John Taylor Gilman which has hung for many years in the State House corridors, Concord, has been taken down temporarily to allow a copy to be made by Miss Lillian Whitaker of New York, for presentation to Phillips Exeter academy, which Governor Gilman served as the first president of the board of trustees. Governor Gilman was a veteran of the Revolutionary war and had a fine record as a member of Congress. He served the state as its governor from 1794 to 1805 and again in 1813, 1814 and 1815.

Will Meet August 17
The New Hampshire Poultry Growers' Association will hold its annual meeting in connection with Farmers' and Home-Makers' Week at New Hampshire College on August 17. In addition to a business meeting, to which all interested poultry growers are invited, there will be an important public meeting on that date. Recent developments in the white diarrhea testing work will be discussed by Prof. A. W. Richardson of the State College, and there will be an address by David Warner of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station on "How to Build up a High-Producing Flock from Mongrels."

Will Exhibit Wool Products
Final preparations have been made by the New Hampshire Co-Operative Marketing association to put on exhibit, at all of the leading fairs in the state this fall, the wool products that are marketed through their association by James C. Farmer, in conjunction with the wool committee composed of W. F. Robbins of West Rindge, Stephen Weeks of Gilmanton, Arthur Davis of Plymouth, and Professor McNutt of New Hampshire State college. The exhibit will be arranged with a live sheep on a pedestal with woolen goods and wool surrounding it. Mr. Farmer has drawn up a set of rules and regulations pertaining to the grading and inspecting of apples which will be sent first to the apple committee for its approval and then will be sent to all of the apple growers in the state.

Veterans' 46th Annual Camp
An elaborate program has been prepared for the encampment at Camp Lewis W. Aldrich, The Weirs, for the week Aug. 21 to 26, inclusive. It will be the 46th annual encampment of the New Hampshire Veterans Association, the fourth annual convention of the department of New Hampshire Women's Auxiliary, L. L. Thursday will be Governor's and American Legion day, and the most extensive program ever attempted at the camp. The position will be the order of the day.

May Extend to Beaches
It is rumored that at no distant day there will either be a branch line of the Boston and Maine going down from the main line to take in Hampton and Salisbury Beaches or the main line itself will be altered to take in the territory.

Chief of Forest Service to Speak Word that Col. W. B. Greeley, chief of the Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture, had accepted an invitation to be the principal speaker at a special forestry meeting at Durham in August, has been received at the State College. The meeting, which will be held on the evening of Aug. 15, will be the first special session on forestry in connection with the annual Farmers' and Home-Makers' Week program, and has been arranged in co-operation with the State Department of Forestry, the Society of the Protection of New Hampshire Forests and the Forestry Department of New Hampshire College.

Nurses' Conference at Keene Nurses' Conference was conducted at the Wheelock School, Keene, with the following speakers: Ethel Johnson, R. N., Lancaster; Miss Annie Peterson, R. N., Nashua; Ruth Stiles, R. N., Wolfeboro; Mrs. Anna Clow, R. N., Sanbornville. Dr. Arthur Wallace of the Nashua board of education, gave an address on "Practical Suggestions for Developing the School Health Program," and Health Officer Howard A. Streeter of Manchester also gave an address. The afternoon was devoted to a demonstration of examination of school children and a field day and picnic with the summer school students at Wilson's Recreation grounds.

Must Leave Trees on Pine Lands Cut Beginning September 1, a law becomes effective in this state, according to the announcement of State Forester John H. Foster, to encourage the reproduction of pine on cut-over pine lands through the leaving of seed trees and to require the filling with the state forester of a statement of intention to operate any pine lot before cutting begins. The law requires that in every timber lot where pine represents 75 per cent or more of the growth of merchantable timber, one pine tree shall be left standing for seeding. Failure to comply with this law and failure to notify the state forester before the timber is cut, are both punishable by fines.

The purpose of the seed tree law, says Mr. Foster, is not arbitrary interference with private operations but to improve the conditions of cut pine lands from this time on in New Hampshire.

$146,000 Still Available
About $146,000 is still available from the appropriation made to pay the "gratuity" or bonus which was voted by the Legislature of 1919 to the men and women of New Hampshire who served in the army, navy, marine corps or as army nurses in the World War. A total of 19,254 claims have been paid and they are still being presented, so that it is very possible that the entire amount may be called for. In order to recoup the treasury a special poll tax $2 per head for five years was voted, and as this applies equally to women under the constitutional amendment granting them the suffrage, the amount is likely to be repaid with a surplus. New Hampshire was the first state in the union to vote a "recognition" in money, the amount being first placed at $30, which was increased to $140 at the special session following. With the appropriation went a provision for a state medal and a certificate of service. A few over 13,500 of the medals have been issued, but hundreds of the certificates are still in the basement of the state house awaiting proper addresses. The roll of honor also authorized by the legislature has not yet been erected in the state house because the list of those who perished in the war while in the service is not considered to be complete by the adjutant-general.

New Hampshire Towns Interested Meetings will be held in the near future by the citizens or voters of the different towns in the vicinity of York Beach to determine whether or not they will advance money to the Atlantic Shore Line railroad so that they will be able to maintain their lines that have been in the hands of the receivers for several years. Advances have been made to the heads of the different towns in this section of the coast, to have meetings held immediately to determine whether or not money will be advanced by them. They need $500,000 to pay the interest on notes and bonds that are overdue, and to put in new tracks over the new bridge at Portsmouth. Dover, Portsmouth, South Berwick, Salmon Falls, Kittery, Biddeford and Eliot are among the larger cities and towns that are served by the Atlantic Shore line, as well as York Harbor, York Beach, Ogunquit, Wells Beach and Kennebunk.

Boys' Camp Notable Success
Perry E. Jewell, secretary of the Rockingham county Y. M. C. A. reports that the season at Camp On: way near Exeter, the most successful of any, there being 68 boys registered at the camp. Delegates were present from Rochester, Dover, Portsmouth, Exeter, Derry and Haverhill, Mass., besides boys from many other towns of the county. Sixty boys received the camp emblem, C. O., and thus became members of the Pioneer club of the camp, and of the total number 20 received the triangle emblem.

Tell President Harding Old and New Men Must Be Protected In Strike Settlement

NOT A MATTER OF CHOICE

Faithful Employees Have Both Legal and Moral Rights to Seniority and Other Benefits.

New York, N. Y., Aug. 2nd.—The keynote of the reply made by railway executives representing more than 150 Class I railroads of the United States to the proposition of President Harding that "all strikers be returned to their work and their former positions with seniority and other rights unimpaired," lies in the last paragraph of their reply to the President as follows:

"It is submitted that the striking former employees cannot be given preference to employees at present in the service without doing violence to every principle of right and justice involved in this matter, and without the grossest breach of faith on the part of the railroads to the men at present in their service."

"Under these circumstances, it becomes apparent that the railroads cannot consider any settlement of the present strike which does not provide protection in their present employment, both to the loyal employees who remained in the service, and to the new employees entering it."

The executives had accepted the first two conditions proposed by the President, namely, that both employers and employees accept the decisions of the Labor Board, and that all lawsuits growing out of the strike be withdrawn; and in relation to the third condition spoke not only as quoted above, but also as follows:—

"The railroad executives and managers agree entirely with the President's statement in his letter that it is wholly unthinkable that the railroad Labor Board can be made a useful agency of the government in maintaining industrial peace in the railway service unless employers and workers are both prompt and unquestioning in their acceptance of its decisions."

"Many men in the service refused to join the strike and in so doing were assured of the seniority rights accruing to them and of the permanency of the jobs. On some important lines some fifty percent of the men refused to join the strike. To these old loyal employees have been added thousands of new men who were employed and could be secured only upon a definite promise that their services would be retained regardless of the settlement of the strike, with all the rights pertaining to such employment, including that of seniority; under the working rules and regulations previously approved by the railroad Labor Board."

"Just The Opposite Effect"
"We especially point out that a refusal to the old men who remained in the service and to the new men who accepted service, of the rights of seniority incident to their employment, would have just the opposite effect to that desired by the President, and would most seriously discredit the Labor Board."

"The Board itself prescribed the Rules of Seniority under which the men referred to have secured their seniority rights, and the Railroad Companies have neither the legal nor moral right to deprive these men of those rights. By public utterances since the strike began the Board has recognized and emphasized these rights, and to deny them now would instead of upholding the Authority of the Labor Board, overthrow its rules and discredit its authority."

"The Chairman of the Labor Board at the time the strike was called, made the following public statement:—

"Upon one question, the striking employees should not be deceived, their leader has said that the strikers are no longer employees of the railroads, and they have thus automatically abandoned their rights they possess under their agreements and under the decisions of the Board, including their seniority. This is not the Board's action. It is their own."

"Many carriers are giving their former employees the opportunity to re-enter the service within a limited time. It must be understood now that men who remained in the service and those who are now entering it will have right of seniority that the Board could not ignore."

What The Proposed Plan Means
"It must be understood that any proposal that employees now on strike shall be permitted to return to the service without impairment to their seniority is merely another way of suggesting that those men who took employment in this crisis in good faith, relying on the promises of the railroads to protect them in their positions, these promises being justified by the authoritative utterances of the Labor Board, and thus have made possible the continued operation of the railroads, shall now be sacrificed in favor of men now on strike who not only brought about the crisis, but, by their own action and declaration, are no longer employees of the railroads under the jurisdiction of the United States Railroad Labor Board, or subject to the application of the Transportation Act."

"In addition to the necessity of upholding the Labor Board and maintaining the pledges made by the railroads to the men now at work. There is the practical effect on the supervisory officers of a violation of the pledges they were authorized to make. Their discouragement and demoralization would be far more disastrous than this or any other strike."

NEEDS OF "YOUNG AMERICA"

European Critic Thinks That Youth of Great Republic Suffers From Too Much Freedom.

George Santayana, famous philosopher and writer, in an article written especially in the Forum on "America's Young Radicals," says:

"I have made a severe effort to discover as well as I may from a distance what these rebels want. I see what they are against—they are against everything—but what are they for? I have not been able to discover it. This may be due to my lack of understanding or to their incapacity to express themselves clearly, for their style is something appalling. But perhaps this scandalous failure in expression, when expression is what they yearn for and demand at all costs, may be a symptom of something deeper; of a radical mistake they have made in the direction of their efforts and aspirations. They think they need more freedom, more room, a chance to be more spontaneous. I suspect that they have had too much freedom, too much empty space, too much practice in being spontaneous when there was nothing in them to bubble out. Their style is a sign of this; it is not merely that they have no mastery of the English language as hitherto spoken, no clear sense of the value of words, and no simplicity; that they are without the vocabulary or the idiom of cultivated people. No, it is not more freedom that young America needs in order to be happy; it needs more discipline."

ON EQUALITY WITH HUSBANDS

Filipino Women, Entering Into Matrimony, Become Partners in Future Business Enterprises.

"When a Filipino woman marries she goes into partnership with her husband," said Mme. Soda Reyes de Veyra, wife of the Philippine commissioner to the United States. "While the men handle the work and employees, the women attend to the finances, act as cashiers, pay the workers and oversee much of the business."

Things are made easy in many ways for Filipino women, she asserted, writes Louise Catol in the Milwaukee Journal. Professional opportunities are as good for them as for men. Women are already members of the Philippine Bar association, a privilege not open to British women.

"Married women in the Philippines hold their property in severalty, and are guardians of their own children. Of the property which accrues to a married couple, the wife is half administratrix and there are vested rights which cannot be taken away. It is not unusual for the mother of a family to have not only household leadership, but economic control."

Women's clubs are rapidly growing in the islands. Mme. De Veyra said, and pointed out that already 305 clubs and associations exist, which have formed a federation.

Mme. De Veyra has four children, "as bright, healthy and happy as any mother could wish," as she described them.

'Tis Me! 'Tain't Me!
Now get this—it's good.

Two sets of twin brothers occupy their time in the business life of Indianapolis. One set is Louis and Andrew Hoover, as alike as the peas on a pair of dice. The other is William and Charles Small, as similar as bananas!

Lou Hoover knows Bill Small, but he doesn't know Charles.

Charles Small knows Andy Hoover, but he doesn't know Lou.

The other day Lou Hoover met Charles Small on the street.

"Hello, Bill," said Lou.

"There you are, Andy, all messed up again. I'm Charles not Bill."

"Well, you haven't anything on me. I'm Lou, not Andy."—Indianapolis News.

A Serious Matter.

"I suppose," said the cross-examining lawyer, in his snappiest manner, "that you remember the date of your birth?"

"Certainly," said the witness with a hoarse air. "Every man remembers his birthday."

"A newly born infant has no memory. Now, sir, how do you know that it wasn't a day sooner or a day later, or a week, or a month, or a year than the date you have in mind?"

"Why—er—ahem—I've been told—"

"Exactly. You've been told, but you don't know. Step down. Gentlemen of the jury, this is the kind of witness who has testified against the unimpeachable character of my client."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Forage Crop Pays.

As a result of systematized regulation by the United States forest service, the forage crop of the national forests is now returning an annual income to the federal treasury of close to $2,500,000, says the American Forestry magazine. By a system of range allotments under which nominal grazing fees are charged, the forest service has brought the national forest ranges under practical and profitable administration.

The Pitcher and the Well.

"Did you participate in many engagements while in France?" asked the interested old lady.

"Only five," replied the ex-A. E. F. with becoming modesty.

"And you came through them all unhurt?"

"Not exactly," he returned sadly. "I carried the fifth."—American Legion.

JOYS ARE BUT TRANSITORY

Delectable Perfumes Will Not Long Gladden the Prisoner in Cleveland County Jail.

Attar of roses and sweet scents of Araby! There's an electric perfumer at the county jail. It casts all kinds of sweetness on the prison air. Just turn the button and the jail becomes a garden of roses or fragrant with the scent of orange blossoms.

The other day the atmosphere of the jail reflected the aroma of the forest cedar. It might have been Norway pine, sassafras, crab apple blossom, but it just happened that the perfumer was charged to dispense an aroma tinged with forest cedar.

The machine has possibilities, the sheriff believes. It might be employed to awaken the prisoners each morning with scents of violets and soothe them at breakfast with odors of ham, eggs, corn fritters, grapefruit and other viands not on the regular morning menu of coffee and butterless bread.

Oh, yes, indeed, the machine has possibilities. If it was charged with a few quarts of hooch confiscated in raids, why, the old jail would be one of the most popular breathing places in the county.

At night it could discharge the odor of pineapple or figs or dates, and any prisoner with a good sense of smell and a strong imagination could readily go to sleep and feel that he was in Hawaii.

But the perfumer is in jail only on trial.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
