TWO BALL GAMES

Antrim Loses to Warner. Wins from Hillsboro

Antrim split even in two ball games last week. Both games went extra innings. On Labor Day Hillsboro was defeated 3-2 in a hot 10 inning game, and Thursday at the Bradford Fair, Warner nosed them out after eleven innings. The game scheduled for Labor Day morning was cancelled on account of the rain.

The Hillsboro contest was the rubber game, so the victory gives Antrim the series of two out of three. It proved to be a pitcher's battle through. Thornton fanned fifteen and Crosby 6, but the latter allowed only six hits, and kept them well scattered. Harlow's hit to center field decided the game in Antrim's favor. J. Thornton got first when McClintock fumbled his grounder, and stole second. Paige was sent to run for him. A. Thornton struck out, and Harlow sent a long hit to center field, scoring Paige.

Hillsboro started the scoring in the second when Crosby hit a three bagger and scored on a wild pitch. Antrim tied up the score in their half of the inning, with two down. Edwards was hit, stole second and scored on Paige's single over first. Both teams scored one apiece in the fourth, and the game was deadlocked from then on until the tenth. An attempted double steal by Antrim in the fourth proved disastrous and prevented Antrim from getting the lead in the early innings.

The Warner game was not as interesting, although loose playing on both sides made the outcome uncertain. The game seasawed back and forth until the last half of the eleventh when Martin walked, got second when Newell let Edwards' throw slip thru his fingers, and took third when Paige was slow in getting the ball to Harlow. Cutting fied out to center, Thornton made a wild pitch and Martin crossed the plate with the winning run. Antrim bunched their hits better than Warner, but were unable to deliver in the pinches.

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING

Tax Exemption for New Industry Discussed

It was impossible to give our readers much of a report last week concerning the special town meeting at town hall to vote tax exemption to any new industry which may be brought to Lovren's Mills, in the west part of Antrim. It transpired that the warrant for the meeting was illegal, owing to date, and not much of a legal nature was done, except that all who were present talked the matter over in an informal way. Everyone agreed that it was the thing to do—to exempt—and if possible encourage some new industry to locate in town.

Mr. Batcheller, of the Lovren Mills Corporation, was present and stated that he had interested some individuals in the matter of starting a Clothes Pin business here. He said:

No money has been paid in and no company formed as yet, awaiting the outcome of this meeting. They have been, however, sufficiently interested, as to make a tentative contract for the necessary machinery, and also an arrangement has been made whereby if plans for exemption from tax go through, a contract is ready to be signed, with a New York concern, in which they agree to take the entire production for the next ten years. Part of this we are told will be exported.

The machinery will cost, installed, approximately twelve thousand dollars and is the best and latest type of its kind made. The article recently published in the columns of the Reporter, gives briefly a description of it.

It is estimated that it will take about a month to get the machinery here and set it up ready for operation; of course this is only an estimate, it may be accomplished sooner or may take longer. My own idea is somewhat longer.

On Saturday we had some experts along these lines, at the Lovren Mills, looking over the large building at one time used as a stable and which is about 40 feet by 70 feet, three stories, extremely well and strongly built, and practically mill construction.

With some few changes which were suggested it will adapt itself admirably for the purpose; rough floor plans were prepared for setting up the machines and an outline of log storage, which must be large in order to keep the plant continually in operation, were made.

Negotiations have been opened with a man who has had wide and varied experience in charge of similar plants, to take charge as superintendent. All of this has been done with the idea of not losing any time in carrying forward the work after the town has decided it wants this industry here.

I have been asked if the company will agree to stay here indefinitely or for any term of years. About the only answer I could make to that would be: it costs money to move; we have power and buildings sufficient for any reasonable enlargement, and personally I like Antrim and Antrim folks, and should hope to always remain here.

I may not live to be the age of your grand old man, Mr. Hiram G. Peabody, or of the late Mrs. Crombie, who have been neighbors of ours, but there seems to be a something here which tends to longevity.

In conclusion we trust you may be pleased to give favorable consideration to our proposition.

Emerson says: "The World's a store and you can have anything you can reach on the shelves. But there isn't a thing in the shop that hasn't a price on it, and whatever you take you've got to pay the price."

Under New Management

George E. Maynard, who recently purchased the Carter House, will open the place for business this week. Mr. Maynard has overhauled the house, installed new beds and furniture in every room. Mr. and Mrs. Maynard are both qualified in this line of business; a visit to the house will convince you. The house will be named later.

A FEW THOUGHTS

Suggested by What Is Happening Around

The editor's old clothes went fishing last week, but to date we do not know what luck. They were on another fellow, however.

When Uncle Sam was granted a Federal injunction last week things commenced at once to clarify themselves. It is strange that capital as well as labor compels such an act, but it has to come. Would it not be better to "go the limit" earlier, and be ready when the time comes to show these fellows where they get off?

There are a number of farmers throughout this section who have from one to six hundred and more cords of wood on their farms, all standing of course, but no choppers. This seems a condition which should be avoided. It hardly appears to be a matter for the state fuel administrator, but if every farmer should see to it that he has a few more cords of wood cut each year than he can use, the situation would be greatly improved.

Just to show how difficult it is for a man to shake the desire for office when it gets a good hold of him, read the following, taken from the Boston Sunday Globe:

Of the 80 present holders of county offices in New Hampshire, 69 are candidates for renomination in the primary. Just one is a Democrat, Sheriff John T. O'Dowd of Manchester, Hillsboro county, who is a candidate for another term.

The Democrats have made no nominations for county officers in Cheshire county, and only in Merrimack and Hillsboro counties have they named full tickets. Where they are interested they are very much interested, however, having four candidates for sheriff of Coos county and eight for the three commissionerships in Hillsboro county.

One of the liveliest county contests on the Republican side is for treasurer of Sullivan county, an office which pays $200 a year and which four well known party leaders are seeking.

Of the 27 County Commissioners, 24 would like another term.

The Primary in Antrim

Very little excitement was occasioned by the primary in Antrim, and the election board had a quiet time. The result is as follows:

Put Out Fires With Glass Balls.
 A glass ball, the glass being thin and easily shattered, and about the size of an egg, filled with a standard flame-killing liquid, is now being put on the market.
 Most fires can be extinguished with little danger and little loss if proper means are available for prompt use. Experiments have shown that a few of these new glass balls or fire-ombs, as they are called, will quickly snuff out a bad blaze.
 In the past most fire extinguishers have been rather high-priced. This new extinguisher is a notable exception—the three balls which comprise a set being retailed for only 30 cents per set. A set of three balls comes in an ingenious carton which can be hung from the wall.
 Not Pretty Music.
 Dorothy, three years old, lives at New Albany. Her father took her to the barber shop to have her hair trimmed, and the electric clippers almost drove the little girl into spasms of fear despite the kind assurances that they would not hurt her. She had a big audience before the task was completed.
 Next day Dorothy went to visit a neighbor who lived near the barber shop. Shortly after her arrival she heard music and inquired its location. On being informed that it was at the barber's she replied:
 "Well, I don't think his music is pretty."

American Money in Canada.
 It is estimated that American investments in Canada for 1920 amounted to $325,000,000—more than half of the present Canadian investment. Some of the items of investment during the period under review are: Bonds purchased, $237,000,000; industrial investment, $50,000,000; western lands purchased, $17,000,000. It is also estimated that $30,000,000 of the $50,000,000 invested in industries went into the pulp and paper business.

ONE JOURNAL IN GREENLAND

And the Editor of That One Had to Teach His Subscribers How to Read It.
 Journalism in Greenland is in a primitive stage, according to the captain of a British bark. The captain makes frequent voyages to Greenland and is held to be an authority on conditions in that country.
 The one editor in Greenland is a Dane named Moeller, who conducts the only newspaper, and enjoys the singular distinction of printing the paper for the natives and teaching them to read it.
 Mr. Moeller is not only the editor and proprietor; he is the reporter, printer, distributor and business manager, and every two weeks he makes a long journey on skates to dispose of his journal.
 Originally it contained only a few crude illustrations, but gradually other matter was introduced, until now it contains articles on the affairs of the day.
 This man actually taught his subscribers to read his paper, first introducing words, then sentences, and now his subscribers are able to read articles on any topic he cares to write about.

FORMED NEW VOCAL CORD

Tissues, After Operation, Grew Together, and Voice is Said to Be Improved.
 In three out of four cases in which Dr. H. Burger resected the vocal cords the tissues grew together to form a new vocal cord. He reports to the Nederlandsch Tijdschrift v. Geneeskunde (Amsterdam) that the more radical the operation on the side wall of the throat the more the new cord approximated normal.
 In all these cases the diagnosis of malignant tumor was beyond question, and the operation was done through a slit in the thyroid cartilage. No attempt was made to suture this afterward: The voice is good in all but one, who still is hoarse. The voice is very much better than in other cases in which merely the growth itself was resected and the rest of the vocal cord left. The repair after this is much less perfect. In one of his cases the repair was so perfect that in examining with the laryngoscope a year later there was some doubt as to the operated side.—New York World.

Saw Volcano in Action.
 A volcano in action was witnessed about six weeks ago by the captain of the British freighter Bounty, off the West African coast. The skipper said the Bounty was about five miles off shore when he observed smoke pouring high and profusely out of a peak inward from the Bight of Biafra, near the boundary line between Kamerun and Nigeria. Thinking he might be of assistance in the event of disaster to the villages near the seacoast he put in toward shore and went to the land in a lifeboat. He said the smoking peak was about 11,000 feet above sea level and on its westward side he observed large streams of lava. Finding no signs of human life along the shore he went back to the freighter and proceeded on his course.

ENGRAVED CARDS
Are needed by everybody. Sometimes when most needed the last one has been used. If YOUR engraved plate is at THE REPORTER office—where a great many people leave them for safe keeping—it might be well to order a new lot of cards before you are all out. If you have never used engraved cards, wouldn't it be a good idea to call at THE REPORTER office and see samples? They are not expensive—more of a necessity than a luxury.

Church Notes
METHODIST
Rev. William Thompson, Pastor
Serving God is an expression of appreciation for His daily mercies. God is the world's greatest food provider. He is also man's greatest servant. He considers it best that man should win his spurs in the battles of life. He let loose against man myriads of forces that challenge his supremacy, compelling him to develop his powers by constant and earnest mental and spiritual wrestle. God, not chance or fate, is leading man over the stormy way to higher and better service. God never fails. He never goes on a strike. He is always on the job of distributing His goodness among the sons of man. He stands by the side of man and says "let Me serve thee, O My child." The church by its various agencies calls upon you to serve a serving God. Come and hear about God's wonderful goodness next Sunday morning, in song, readings, and address. The Sunday School will meet after the morning worship, for the study of "Cooperative Bible Study."
Thursday evening there will be a meeting of interest to all the church people who call themselves Methodists. The pastor will have something to give you for thoughtful consideration. Come and receive your share.

IN THE LAND OF ROMANCE
Commonplace Couple Only Joking
When They Compared Their Different Preferences.
They were sitting in the half-darkness of the picture theater, holding hands. They were very small, pale, and insignificant. He was "something in the city," she was the same thing in the female "line."
The stirring drama upon the screen was "The Queen and the Duke."
"Ain't he a wonderful man?" applauded the girl. "I could die for a man like that—a tall, dark, handsome man, the kind that is born to rule. I don't see how she can resist him!"
Then he had his say:
"Ain't she a wonderful queen? That's the sort I like—the tall, stately woman that can look over like a worm and go trawling them silk robes round and granting her favors with a cold, proud smile upon her beautiful lips."
"Really, Jack!"
"No, Sue; I was only joking!"
And they held each other's hands a little tighter, and the screen lost its interest for at least two more in the crowded picture house.

Unknown Australia.
A motoring expedition which will occupy months and cover ground hitherto untraversed without the aid of camels and donkeys is being undertaken from Adelaide for Darwin, returning through the bush country of Queensland, New South Wales, and Victoria, approximately 8,000 miles.
The party includes Mr. McCallum, a state legislator and authority on pastoral stock, who is financing the trip and will report to the federal government on the possibilities of settlement and development of the interior by whites, also on the benefits of a transcontinental line. Captain White, a noted ornithologist, will collect birds in connection with the Australian check list which has occupied scientists for years and will be completed in October.—London Times Weekly.

Burmese Story of Man's Origin.
A myth current among the Burmese says that heavenly beings came down from the skies to the earth, and there ate Thulesian, a particular kind of rich rice, which gradually made them gross of habit, so that they were unable to make their way back to the higher heavens again and had to become men-and women.
The Chins have a story of the Tower of Babel to account for the various clans that inhabit the range of hills looking down on the Bay of Bengal, and traditions of a deluge are found everywhere.
The Kachins tell a story of the passage over a bridge, to the afterlife, and there are many more of the kind that suggest these folk-myths come down from a long-gone past.

Will Build Large Electric Station
The tract has been awarded a Portland, Me., construction company, for the construction of a $130,000 hydro-electric station on the Great Works river at South Berwick, which will produce an annual output of approximately 1,400,000 kilowatt hours.
The project includes a 185-foot dam 28 feet high, which, with a two-foot head above the mean tide water level, flash board, will provide a 30-foot Directly over the dam, will be built a 200-foot highway bridge 20 feet wide. The dam, the bridge, and the power house, which will be under one end of the bridge, will be constructed of reinforced concrete. The bridge, costing approximately $21,000, will be turned over to the town for highway uses for $3000. A lake of 40 acres area will be formed by the dam.

Nation's Insurance Heads To Tour N. H.
The fifty-third annual session of the national convention of insurance commissioners will be held from September 5 to 8, inclusive, at Swampscott, Mass. The executive committee planned at first to hold the session this year in New Hampshire, but it was found to be impossible to secure accommodations for the convention at the mountain resorts of the state at the time desired.

Agricultural Decline a Cause
New England's agricultural decline is one of the direct causes creating serious industrial handicap. In the last 40 years farm land under cultivation in New England shrank from 13,148,466 to 6,114,601 acres—a decrease of 53.5 per cent. During the same period the population of New England increased from 4,010,529 to 7,400,909—or 84.5 per cent.
New England today must import more than 75 percent of its food requirements. This affects directly the cost of living and wages.
New England annually sends West and south $500,000,000 for food, thus greatly diminishing the purchasing power of her own immediate market for manufactured commodities. A large percentage of this food should be produced in her own territory.
This productivity per worker based on the value added by manufacture in 1919 was as follows:
New England States, $2,390.99
East North Central States (Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin), $2,969.09
In other words, the East North Central worker produced per year $578.10 or 24.1 per cent more than the average New England worker.
The Southern worker in the cotton industry produces a little over $3,000 per year as compared with a little less than $2,300 for the New England operative.

Division of the Returns.
A chart of division between employees and capital and management of the value added by manufacture shows that in 1909 labor received 63.7 per cent and capital 31.3 per cent, while in 1919 labor received 77.3 per cent and capital 22.7 per cent.
The bulletin continues, "How much more than 70 per cent of the industrial products can employees reasonably claim for their services as against management and invested capital? These must be accumulations of capital for the enlargement and betterment of industry and adequate compensation for the responsibilities and ability of management. Surely the division cannot infringe any further on capital and management without deteriorating management and preventing capital from entering industry, thus proving suicidal to labor. On the other hand, shall the standards of the laboring classes remain stationary or be lowered? Should they not be bettered with each passing year? A reasonable return can be given to capital and management as well as to labor and the lives of all the working people made better only if the volume and quality of production per laborer is increased and improved and a greater intelligence exercised in the utilization of the commodities produced.

Discuss How To Meet Timber Situation in America

The 11th annual conference of the Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests and the New Hampshire Forestry Commission opened in Keene with many State and National foresters in attendance. Col. William B. Greeley, chief forester of the United States, was one of the speakers.

There were addresses by Chief Forester Greeley, Allan Hollis of Concord, president of the New Hampshire Forestry Association; Admiral J. B. Murdock of Danville, N. H., and Dr. Henry S. Davidson, members of the State Association; J. M. Corless, one of the State foresters; Prof. James W. Toumey, dean of the Yale Forestry School and director of the Yale forest in Swazey, N. H.; Philip Ayers, formerly New Hampshire State Forester; Prof. Richard Fisher, director of the Harvard Forestry School and of the college forest at Petersham, Mass.

Moving pictures of the National forests and National parks, including the White Mountain National forest were shown.

J. H. Foster, State Forester of New Hampshire, conducted a conference on "Forest Taxation." Mr. Harris A. Reynolds secretary of the Massachusetts Forestry Association, explained the new tax law in effect in Massachusetts.

Allan Hollis of Concord presided at the general session, when two addresses were given on the "Timber situation in the United States and How to Meet It," by Col. William B. Greeley, chief of the United States Forestry Service, and R. S. Kellogg, chairman of the National Forestry Program Committee.

The Federal Government has already purchased 400,000 acres of forest land in the White Mountains.

Distribute N. H. Apples in Packages of 24.

Plans to place on the market New Hampshire fancy selected apples in packages of 24 apples by the New Hampshire Co-operative Marketing association on the Boston market were made by the executive committee meeting of directors at the Merchants Bank, Manchester. The packages already placed on the market have caught on with the fruit loving public and reports from dealers indicate that New Hampshire apples properly packed and marketed can command a better price than apples shipped by Pacific Coast fruit growers.

The entire situation relative to the fall business was canvassed by the directors and the outlook is very promising. There are 350 shipments of eggs consigned to the association and the egg production which has increased by leaps and bounds with the pullets now laying, cannot meet the demand being made for the "Just Laid" brand of New Hampshire eggs. The wool pools show a receipt of 20,000 pounds of wool which will be manufactured into wool blankets, wool suitings, wool socks and stockings. The wool as well as other goods being marketed by the association are being sold in a favorable market and will net good prices.

Plans are also under way to market a big potato crop through the association, the market conditions bringing prices never before met in the history of the state.

Humphrey of Concord diocesan president of both organizations and a member of the executive council, Miss Helen G. Humphrey of Portsmouth, recording secretary and treasurer, Miss Alice G. Humphrey of Concord, secretary and treasurer of the church school service league; Mrs. Edward K. Woodworth, also of Concord, and Mrs. William P. Niles of Nashua.

Floyd has assured Dartmouth officials that the college will receive priority on the first shipments sent to that part of the country.

Bryan Stops at Exeter, for First Time Since 1900

Williams Jennings Bryan, touring New England shore resorts with a party of relatives, arrived in Exeter en route to Hampton Beach and spent several hours visiting places of interest, including the Phillips Exeter Academy and the recently dedicated Soldiers' monument, designed by Daniel Chester French. It was his first stop in Exeter since 1900, when he visited the town on a speaking tour.

Mount Everest

According to the latest determination of the Indian survey, the height of Mount Everest is 29,141 feet. It is the highest ascertained point on the surface of the globe. The greatest Himalayas present such difficulties that climbers have been compelled to refrain from attempting to reach their greatest heights, as well as from the fact that the effects of altitudes are not yet fully understood. The greatest mountain heights yet reached are 24,000 feet, by the duke of the Abruzzi during his expedition to the western Himalayas, and 24,000 feet by Norwegians on Kabru, one of the mountains near Darjeeling.

Kidding the Doctor.

The doctor was ready to leave, and was congratulating the father on the advent of the new baby, when a burly billygoat went tearing by in hot pursuit of a dog.

The father blurted out in very undignified English: "Drat that goat! I shall have to sell him. Doctor, would you like to buy him for your boys?"

"I don't know," said the doctor. "What do you want for him?" "Well, how much is your bill?" "Fifty dollars."

"Then you ought to give me sixty for the goat. A full-grown goat ought to be worth more than a kid."

She Answered Her.

An austere woman was lecturing a body of high school girls in a Hoosier town recently on the uselessness and wickedness of the flapper. After she had said that they were not fit to become the mothers of the next generation, she looked at a bobbed-haired little girl who had rosy and powdered her face rather heavily and demanded, "Young lady, what do you know about babies?"

For a minute the little flapper looked startled. Then she blushed a fiery red. "Well, lady," she stammered, "I've stopped believing in the stork."—Indianapolis News.

Likes Color.

The other evening one of the charity organizations was giving a supper for a number of poor children of Indianapolis. One of the women had baked a particularly nice angel food cake for the occasion. One little boy attracted her interest and she decided that no matter what happened he should have a piece of her cake.

Accordingly she offered two or three women in passing their cakes by to get her own. She carried a big piece to the little fellow who gave it one look and said: "We got bread at home, lady. Please giunne some cake."

Crestfallen, she carried back her own cake and got him a piece of marble cake in which red and white mingled. And now she says, "No more angel food cake for me for charity parties."

Truth Mixed With Poetry.

A Muncie lawyer was making his first church speech. It was a welcome to the new minister, and in it he was telling of the beauties of his home town. He spoke of the streets, the residences and then he began on the trees. "I have one great tree in my yard," he said, "that means more to me than any other in town. Whenever I pass it I think of how often I have reached into its boughs to pluck the spring blossoms."

And then came an interruption. His little eight-year-old son who had been paying close attention to father's speech spoke up. "Don't forget the caterpillars, too, father," he said. "We have to burn 'em about that time, too."—Indianapolis News.

HIS SAFETY DEPOSIT BOX

Banker Would Have Put Would-Be Borrower With His Other Business Securities.

The great banker looked keenly at the young man. "So you are temporarily embarrassed, eh?" he asked kindly.

"I am sorry to say I am," said the young man, emboldened by his manner.

"How much do you want?"

"Five hundred dollars would tide me over."

"And what security can you offer?"

"I can offer you," said the young man, impressively, "my own personal security."

The old man arose with a slow smile and raised the lid of an iron-bound chest which stood in a corner. "Will you get in here, please?" he said.

"In there? Why?"

"Because," was the reply, "this is the place in which I always keep my securities."—Kansas City Star.

Steel Has Great Cutting Power.

"High-speed steel" for cutting tools has been well known for years, and an improved form of this material has been introduced in Sheffield, England. It is reported that this steel has four times the cutting power of any other in use. The composition is, it appears, still a secret, but it is said to be the first "high-speed steel" that can be hardened in cold water without danger. It can also be hardened with oil or in a cold blast.

Tools made of it wear out much less rapidly and require much less grinding than those of the older kinds of steel. They will also go on working at high temperature longer. But the makers themselves say that this steel does not by any means mark the final development of "high-speed steel."—Washington Star.

Help Austrian Children.

Danish joint committees for help to war devastated countries report that in 1921 Denmark entertained 5,584 children from Austria for several months, and that since September, 1919, Denmark has cared for 16,455 Austrian children and 5,428 German children. Furthermore, 120 German little ones needing special care were nursed in a special camp. Gifts of hospital equipment were sent to Austria and Germany, and 40,000 francs was spent supporting a children's home near Rielms. Food and clothing to the value of 70,000 Danish crowns were sent to Germany and Austria and financial assistance for children amounting to 25,000 crowns was sent to Belgium, 33,775 to Poland, and 34,500 to France.

Strike Not New Weapon.

That strikes are not of recent origin, but that they have, for many centuries, troubled the employer of labor, is said to be interestingly established by a record recently discovered in certain ancient Egyptian hieroglyphic tablets. These tablets were found in the excavation of some ruins at Thebes, and cast a strong light upon the labor conditions of the city 3,000 years ago. Details are given of many interesting phases of a strike when a large number of workmen notified their employers they would discontinue work unless their back pay were promptly given them and a new wage scale arranged.

Deleterious Imitation.

"Don't you sometimes lose faith in human nature?"

"Never," replied Senator Sorghum. "You can always depend on human nature for generous actions and unprejudiced opinions. That refers, of course, to genuine human nature, which isn't always so easy to find. A good many people feel that they have to depend on human artifice and dissimulation. Human nature, my friend, is all right. What makes the trouble in society is the de-natured human."

Increasing World's Food Supply.

Col. H. J. Sturdy, who was chief veterinary surgeon of the British armies during the war, has taken to the pastoral life now—but on a very large scale. He is raising sheep and cattle on the high pampas of southern Peru, under the aegis of the Peruvian government and the Peruvian survey work he finds absorbing, and he expresses the opinion that some day this region will become one of the richest grazing territories in the world through expert breeding of the country's valuable native wool-bearing animals, the vicuna and guanaco.

EATS ENOUGH FOR FOUR MEN

Probably Largest Human Consumer of Food in the World Threatens to Afflict Russia.

Highly interesting is the coincidence that the largest human consumer of food in the world should be a Russian, and, though at present outside that distressed country, he is announced as anxious to return to it in order to go to work on his father's farm. Nature has a queer habit of displaying extremes simultaneously as if to jest with the observer.

The giant, Kazanloff, by name, is described in the Journal of the American Medical Association as being nine feet three inches tall and weighing 485 pounds, his proportions being symmetrical. Four meals a day are needed to stoke this physical engine, hunger being his governing emotion. In 24 hours he will consume from four to five pints of milk, from fifteen to twenty eggs, four pounds of meat, five or six loaves of bread and large quantities of potatoes, beans and other vegetables, washing down this gargantuan repast with from four to six pints of wine and eight to twelve pints of beer.

Tired of the monotonous life of a circus freak, this man mountain longs for his native Siberia, where his father is a farmer in moderate circumstances, and soon will leave Hungary for his home. The hope is plausibly expressed that famine conditions are not prevalent at his destination, for the reason that, as he needs the quantity of food that will feed four average hungry men, he will be four times as hungry as his neighbors and therefore will become a menace to health and the community. — Cincinnati Enquirer.

Shipping Sheet Rubber.

A new case for shipping sheet rubber has been introduced into American firm shipping circles by an American firm. These reach local exporters in the form of sheets made of 100 per cent fiber, the riveting, packing and wiring being done by the shippers. The thinness of the sheets enables the cases built from them to hold from 12 to 25 per cent more weight of rubber than the old wooden boxes, and the new construction is practically unbreakable, very cleanly and waterproof. — Scientific American.

The Church Fair.

The suburban woman and her seventeen-year-old son, George, went to the church fair. The fair, like most church fairs, was costing the woman a great deal of money. It was a chance on this and a chance on that. A few articles she bought outright. Since she was well known and her husband's salary was also a matter of town gossip, all her friends who had charge of booths insisted upon her buying and buying.

All this continual handing out money was too much for George's comprehension. He couldn't seem to understand the cause of it all. Finally, when his mother was free for a few moments, he looked at her seriously and asked, "Mamma, do we have to pay to get out?"—Chicago Journal.

Cuts the World's Whiskers.

The American safety razor is given the credit of having conquered the Spanish beard. On account of the heaviness of their beards, the Spanish men generally shave much less than those of other countries and the result was they presented a rather unshorn appearance. The visit to the barber was a serious matter and the Spaniard selected his barber as other men would select a dentist, the one that was least painful. But the American safety razor is said to have overcome this and the men are not only enabled to shave themselves, but to shave more frequently.

Penny-urious, So to Speak.

A man who had just opened a store in a strange town was interrogating one of his early customers on the purchasing power of the citizens.

"Now, there's Deacon Brown," he said. "He has the reputation of being wealthy. Would he be likely to spend much money in here?"

"Wa-al," drawled the native, reflectively. "I wouldn't exactly say that he'd go to hell for a nickel, but he'd fish around for one till he fell in."—Salt Lake Telegram.

A Privilege of Youth.

Mrs. Chatterton—Oh, Henry; what do you think? Little Richard is beginning to talk.

Her husband—Good luck to him! It's more than I've been able to do in this house. How did he ever get the chance?
