Interesting Accounts of a Heavy Wind Which Visited Our State a Number of Years Ago

Since the tornado visited Antrim a few weeks ago, we have had our attention called to articles recording similar visits by a like force, not in this immediate vicinity but only a few miles away—in Warner, and not many years since. In the New Hampshire Gazetteer, published in Concord in 1874 is this reference:

On Sunday, September 9, 1821, at five o'clock p. m., one of the most terrific tornadoes which ever occurred in New Hampshire swept through the town, leaving in its track, desolation and death. In this calamity, four houses and seven barns, besides out buildings, were demolished; five persons were killed, and ten or fifteen severely wounded. Every tree, bush, stone wall or board fence in its way, was leveled with the ground.

In the New England Gazetteer, published in Concord in 1833, is a long account of the same thing, from which we take the following:

The following account of a terrible tornado, in this section of country, is by the Rev. John Woods, published in Professor Silliman's Journal, Vol. XXXV, No. 2, January, 1839.

Mr. Woods says, "The event occurred about half past five, Sunday evening, September 8, 1821. The wind, I suppose, was a proper whirl wind, precisely such as occasion water spouts at sea. A very intelligent woman in Warner, who, at a distance of two or three miles, observed its progress, compared its appearance to a tin trumpet, the small end downward. . . . When it had reached the easterly part of the town, she said the lower end appeared to be taken up from the earth, and to bend around in a serpentine form, until it passed behind a black cloud and disappeared. . . . The rain, or what appeared like it, was in my opinion, taken from bodies of water which it passed over. It was said that it lowered the water in a small pond in Warner about three feet. . . . In Wendell, beside other buildings, it demolished a dwelling house and carried a child who was asleep upon a bed, into Sunapee lake. In New London and Sutton it did considerable damage, but met with few dwelling houses and destroyed no lives. From Sutton it passed over the southwest branch or spur of Kearsarge mountain, with a gale of land belonging to Warner, called Kearsarge gore. At the foot of this mountain, it entirely demolished five barns, unroofed another, and utterly destroyed two dwelling houses, and so rent another as to render it irreparable.

"The houses wholly destroyed belonged to two brothers, Robert and Daniel Savary. They contained fourteen persons. In the house of the latter were their aged parents, seventy years old, or upwards. The old gentleman, as he saw the cloud coming, went into a chamber to close a window, and was there when the wind struck the house. He was carried four or five rods, dashed upon a rock, and instantly killed. A part of his brain was left upon the rock where he fell. His wife was very badly wounded and it was thought would not recover. A child of Daniel Savary in the same house was also killed. In the house of Robert Savary, several were much injured and bruised, but no lives lost. The houses and barns and other buildings at this place were not only levelled with the foundation, but the materials and contents were dashed in ten thousand pieces, and scattered in every direction. . . . Stone walls were levelled, and rocks weighing two, three and four hundred pounds, were turned out of their beds, apparently by the bare force of the wind. . . . One barn was seen to be taken up whole, with its contents of hay, grain, etc. After being carried several rods, it came to pieces, and flew like feathers in every direction.

"From the neighborhood of the Savarys, it passed over another spur of the mountain and fell with great violence on the buildings of Peter Flanders and Joseph True. Their houses, which were but a few rods distant, one in Warner, the other in Salisbury, were utterly demolished. In Mr. F.'s house were nine persons, two of whom were instantly killed. Mr. F. and wife were badly wounded, but at length recovered. In Mr. T.'s house were seven, all of whom were most wonderfully preserved, except that two children, 10 or 12 years old, were badly burnt by hot bricks, the oven having been heated and the bread then in it; one of whom lingered several weeks in suffering and then died. The father and mother of Mrs. T., who lived about half a mile distant, were visiting there. They had just left the tea table. Mr. T. and his father-in-law went out at the door and saw the cloud, but thought at first they were so under the hill it would pass harmless over them. But they were soon convinced that its track was marked with desolation. Mr. T. just gave an alarm to his family, then ran under the end of his shop, which happened to stand beyond the violence of the wind so as not to be demolished. His father-in-law, (Jones,) stood his ground until the wind struck the barn, a few rods to the northwest of him, and he saw the fragments of it flying thick in the air over his head. He then threw himself flat upon the ground by a heavy pile of wood. Instantly a rafter fell endwise close by him, entering the ground a foot or two in depth, and immediately a beam grazed down upon the rafter, and lay at his feet. He and Mrs. T. were entirely unharmed. In a moment they saw, instead of a new and strong and very comfortable dwelling house, a perfect desolation. Not even a sill remained upon its foundation. Even the cellar stairs, and the hearths, which were of tile or brick eight inches square, were taken up and removed. The bricks of the chimney lay scattered along, partly covering Mrs. T., and covering to a considerable depth two of the children. Mrs. T. was soon taken up with but little injury. The shrieks and cries of the two children, under a weight of hot bricks, next pierced the heart of their father. In removing them he burnt his hands to the bone. They were at length taken out alive, but in a state of great suffering, one of whom, as I have mentioned, after a few weeks, died. All were now found but the babe, about one year old. Supposing it to be under the bricks, Mr. T. renewed his labor; but soon it was heard to cry in the direction of the wind. Such as could run, ran in search of it, and soon found it lying safe on the ground beneath a sleigh bottom, 10 or 15 rods from where the house had stood. When the wind came the sleigh was in the barn, six or eight rods northwesterly from the house. The two last mentioned houses were one story, well built and well furnished dwellings. Their materials were not merely separated, but broken, splintered, reduced to kindling wood, and scattered like the chaff of the summer thrashing floors. It was the same with furniture, beds, bedding, bureau, chairs, tables and the like. A loon was, to appearance, carried whole about forty rods, and then dashed in pieces. The width of the desolation here was about twenty or twenty five rods. On the higher grounds over which it passed it was forty, fifty or sixty rods. The deeper the valley, the narrower and more violent was the current. . . ."

What nicer words of eulogy could a public man or an editor desire after a life well spent than those said of that honored Massachusetts public servant and newspaper man, Hon. John N. Cole, who passed to his reward on Wednesday of last week. The old Bay State has lost a good man.

It has disturbed some of us when we paused a while to consider just when would such a permanent road as the Contoocook Valley Highway in our town be completed. Under the present cooperative plan with the state in building roads it might be nobody knows how many years, for judging by what it has already cost to build a mile or so, Antrim would be a number of years appropriating enough money to complete it. By that time demands in other sections of the town may be much greater than any of us at present realize.

We read something a while ago that seemed to us a feasible plan to meet just such emergencies. It was along this line. In towns that had a lot of permanent road to build to complete or connect trunk lines already begun, the state should furnish either from state or federal aid funds a very much larger proportional sum than at the present time, and in as short a period as possible complete all trunk lines. This or some other equally advantageous plan to the town would appear to be a way out of a most perplexing problem. Wouldn't it be fine if some plan could be worked out so that this road would be completed within a year or so!

Harvest Supper

The annual Harvest Supper of the Presbyterian church will be held Friday, Oct. 27, in the vestry. The general committee in charge consists of Mrs. S. S. Sawyer, assisted by Mrs. F. I. Graves, Mrs. George A. Barrett and Mrs. Mary Nay.

The fancy and apron table will be in charge of the Work Committee of the Circle, with Mrs. Mary Temple as chairman. The home made candy table will be presided over by Miss Susie Swett. The vegetable table will be managed by W. L. Lawrence.

A new feature of the supper will be a Parcel Post Table, in charge of Mrs. Herbert E. Wilson. At this table parcels of value will be found from all parts of the country.

After the supper a farce will be presented, with Mrs. Eleanor Perkins and Miss Bertha Merrill in charge. Musical selections, both vocal and instrumental, will be rendered.

A good supper and a good entertainment are in store for the public at this church function, and you will be well cared for by the ushering of Messrs. Downes and Prentiss.

Each lady is invited to contribute a glass of jelly or canned fruit for the fruit table.

Reception to Pastor

A very pleasant evening was spent on Wednesday, Oct. 18, at the parlors of the Baptist church, the occasion being a reception given the new pastor, Rev. Ralph H. Tibbals and his wife. The receiving line, consisting of Rev. and Mrs. Tibbals, Miss Faye Benedict, Dea. and Mrs. Henry A. Hurlin, Dea. and Mrs. Leander Patterson, were in front of a bank of evergreens decorated with autumn leaves and red berries. Evergreens, red berries, potted plants and crepe paper were used to complete the decorations about the rooms, which were very pretty.

The Pathfinder girls were the ushers and also furnished a pleasing program of music and recitations. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and coffee were served. Appleton's orchestra furnished music.

Cemetery Association

A meeting of the North Branch Cemetery Association will be held this week, Saturday evening, at 8 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. P. McIlvina.

TAKE TURNS KEEPING HOUSE

New York Man and His Wife Have Arrangement They Say is "All to the Good."

Jones and his wife are a modern couple. Each goes to business and each helps with the housework. It so happens that each works in an office where on alternate weeks their presence is required at an early hour and their quitting time is fixed correspondingly early, says the New York Sun.
"We've doped it out this way," explained Jones. "The week the wife has to get to the office early I get up and get breakfast and after breakfast wash the dishes and make the bed. After that I just have time to make the office. When the wife gets home at night she gets the dinner, so that by the time I arrive everything is on the table steaming hot. The next week, when I have to get in early mornings, we just shift schedules. She gets the breakfast and I the dinner."
"Of course I had to have a little coaching on the cooking at first, but I've got so now I can shake as mean an elbow around the kitchen as any one, whether it's boiling an egg for breakfast or preparing a five-course dinner."
"Some who have heard of the arrangement think we're crazy. But we're happy; so what's the difference?"

"COMMONS" ONLY IN NAME

Delegates to Early English National Assembly Belonged Without Exception to Proprietary Class.

As early as 1254 in England, knights were called from the shires to the national assembly to testify to the taxable capacity of their districts. Two from each shire were chosen by the gentry and landowners.

At first the custom had no purpose except the desire of the taxing body to keep in close financial touch with the towns and districts. But soon Simon de Montfort, in rebellion against Henry III, turned it into a gathering to express and discuss grievances against the king. In this way there grew up a representative assembly called the "Commons," which sat and debated apart from the gathering of great nobles and bishops, called the "House of Lords."

The difference, however, was no more than relative. For in this early house of commons there were no common men in the modern conception of the term. They were all men of property, many as wealthy and influential as the great peers, and, indeed, frequently they were the sons and younger brothers of these peers. The really common man in those days had not even a vote, to say nothing of a seat in parliament.

Why They Got Nowhere.

A story that harks back to the Civil war concerns a troop of Confederate mountain volunteers and their colonel. They had been sent for by a certain Confederate town, but before they could arrive the federal forces were in command of the city. The auxiliaries arrived in the night and found the town deserted. Not caring to mix unnecessarily with the Union troops, they turned around and rode out of the town by the first gate and road they found. Before them stretched a fine smooth highway and they took to it for all they were worth. They rode all night without passing any villages or signs of civilization. The countryside seemed not only deserted, but demoralized as well. When the sun peeped over the Blue Ridge mountains the colonel drew up suddenly. "What's the matter, huh?" asked the lieutenant. "Dammit, huh," roared the colonel, "we've been galloping around a race track all night."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Lunenburg Gloucester of Nova Scotia.

In Lunenburg, the Gloucester of Nova Scotia, the smell of fish is in all and over all. Churches, fish dakes, curing plants, steep hills, bold headlands, shipyards, skilled fishermen and a slightly fleet of fishing vessels, oxen and German-looking faces, figures and names, are the characteristics. The place was settled by Hessians back in George IV's time, and marked traces of the early settlers remain. The housewives are so neat that they even put lace curtains at the cellar and woodshed windows. A prodigious clanging of church bells goes on in Lunenburg every Sunday, for the place has many places of worship.
From Lunenburg come some of the hardest and most skillful mariners and fishermen in the world, while the fishing fleet and the vessels built here, have a wide reputation.

What the Mouth Denotes.

Suspicion and secretiveness are denoted by a mouth which slants to either side and has lips tightly drawn, while intolerance, arrogance, and other traits similar in character have, as a result of long study, come to be associated with a mouth where the lower lip protrudes. A mouth may not be an infallible guide to character, but that its shape, form, and expression is influenced by thoughts, emotions, and actions is readily acknowledged by those who have made a study of this most sensitive feature.

Transparent.

RED CROSS HEALS WOUNDS OF WAR

25,000 Disabled Ex-Service Men in Hospitals After Four Years of Peace.

CHAPTERS' FIELD OF SERVICE

Every Veteran Needing Help Gets Individual Attention of Sympathetic Workers.

When on November 11 the world harks to observe the fourth anniversary of Armistice Day, and the American Red Cross inaugurates its Annual Roll-Call-for-the-enrollment-of-the-1922 membership, the people of the United States may well pause to think of the unparalleled contribution to the cause of peace made by our Army and Navy in the World War. The glory of it is a common tradition; but the wounds of war remain. They are not healed in a day, in a year, nor in four years. And on Armistice Day there will be under treatment in Government hospitals over 25,000 ex-service men, broken physically by wounds, exposure, nervous strain and exhaustion incident to their service in the war. The Government without stint is undertaking to furnish these disabled men with the compensation and medical care to which they are entitled, yet their special care is a duty of the Red Cross. Why? Because the Government cannot handle the cases of ex-service men individually; it must handle these men in bulk under a standardized policy. The Government has neither the authority, the funds or the equipment for working out the problem of the individual man. There is where the American Red Cross finds its greatest field for service, aiding through its very active Chapters in reaching the disabled man with immediate practical help, assisting his family while his claim is emerging from the process of adjustment, furnishing articles of comfort, funds to tide over the difficult periods, the friendly touch of personal encouragement, helpful recreation and worry-dispelling amusement. It is the warm hand of sympathy and understanding which the American Red Cross extends to the majority of these disabled ex-service men, some of them friendless in the whirl of life, thousands of them with wives and children dependent upon them, and hundreds of them frequently helpless in the face of grim necessity.

2,679 Chapters Aiding Veterans

In this work, upon whose accomplishment the American Red Cross is urging a record-breaking enrollment in the Roll Call which opens on Armistice Day, 2,679 Chapters in all parts of the country are engaged. This is 20 more than were working for ex-service men last year when approximately $10,000,000 was expended by the National Organization and the Chapters working together in harmonious unity. For the current fiscal year National Headquarters appropriated $3,030,082.90, an increase of $365,500.84 over the amount spent for the work among ex-service men in the year ended June 30 last. Since it is estimated that the Chapters will expend close to $7,000,000 from their own funds, the grand total of Red Cross expenditures for this single work is expected again to reach the $10,000,000 mark by June 30, 1923.

Hospital and District Office Work

During the fiscal year a total of over 1,000 persons, paid and volunteer, has been engaged in Red Cross duty in hospitals or district offices of the U. S. Veterans Bureau. An average of 8,000 new cases requires definite and particular attention each month. The demand for Chapter-made articles for hospital patients is constant.
During last year Service Claims and Information Service at National Headquarters handled 37,200 compensation and insurance claims, 24,360 allotment and allowance cases, and 9,700 miscellaneous claims. Since February, 1922, it has disposed of 64,174 allotment checks payable to veterans which the Post Office Department reported undeliverable.

The Chapter is the unit of the Red Cross organization which is accessible to every disabled veteran or his family.

Discovered July 17, 1921, and Jan. 27, 1922, the Chapters had reported 1,674,079 instances of service to ex-service men and their dependents, at a cost estimated from reports now at hand of more than $3,340,000.

The basis of this far-reaching work of the Red Cross is the individual needs of the disabled veteran to the end that he may obtain his rights under the law, that his special wants may be immediately supplied, that his own and his family's situation may be rendered happy and cheerful, and that their outlook for the future may visualize incentives for independent and fruitful effort.

Spread Christmas Joy Abroad

More than 100,000 Christmas boxes for the children of Central Europe were packed by the Junior Red Cross last year. The spread of Christmas joy through these boxes will be largely increased this year because of the plans already under way.

"Hall Columbia" has the honor of having been composed for President Washington.

The father of his country was fond of the play and sometimes attended a little rickety theater, one of the best available, which had the "enormous" capacity of 300 persons. A piece called "The President's March" was composed by the leader of the orchestra for one of those occasions and it was played on the entrance of the President and his friends. It was afterward slightly altered and given the name of "Hall Columbia." On that same night there were lines in the play that referred to America's chief which made the subject of them somewhat restless, for he was modest and not fond of compliments.

Miss Eleanor Gardner, of Worcester, Mass., has been a recent guest of Miss Roeha Eaton and other friends here.

Mr. Hale of the State Forestry department of Concord was in town last week in the interests of the Caroline Fox bird sanctuary.

W. D. Buttrick of Manchester, was in town to attend the K. of P. zone convention, which was held here, and a most successful meeting it proved to be. About 150 were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Abbott, of Boston, recently visited his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Charles B. Abbott, on Depot street.

Charles Dow has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. Jennie Spiller, in Fitchburg, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur MacGregor have been visiting relatives and friends in So. Sudbury, Mass.

Wildor H. King, formerly of this town, now a resident of Bristol, has sold his business and will soon move to Cambridge, Mass.

Harold Odell, of Agawam, Mass., has returned to town after an absence of several years and is working at the woolen mill.

After running on a three day week schedule for over a year, the Contoocook mills here have posted a notice to the effect that beginning this week the plant will run full time. The mills will be run on the 48 hour work week schedule, and will employ about 200 hands. High grade woolen hosiery, shirts and underwear are manufactured by the company.

Funeral services for Miss Bertha Brown, aged 47, were held at the home on Bear Hill Wednesday afternoon, Rev. I. C. Brown, a former minister in the Methodist church here, officiating. Burial was in Deering cemetery, and a delegation from the O. E. S. attended. Miss Brown was born in Methuen, Mass., the daughter of Herman G. and Melinda Felch Brown and came to Hillsboro with the family when a small child. She had acted as assistant librarian at the Fuller public library here for many years. She was a member of the Methodist church and Partis chapter, O. E. S., of which she was also a past officer.

The Grange Fair was a successful venture, netting the society over one hundred dollars. The play was given to a crowded house; all the parts were exceptionally well taken, each one trying to do his best. The costumes and scenery were good. There was plenty of gun-powder, treason and plot to fire our patriotism. The soldiers' uniforms had all been "over there" in actual service. Drew's orchestra, from Washington, furnished music throughout the evening.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Maurie Saunders of this town, to Robert J. Handy, of Keene. Mr. and Mrs. Handy are visiting Mrs. J. R. Saunders.

The Charlie Chaplin revival of one reel comedies commences Wednesday, Oct. 25, and thereafter one a week on Wednesday nights, till the first of December. Don't miss one of them if you like to laugh.

On Sunday last Mr. Fogg, of Hancock, was leading home a Holstein cow and calf, which he had purchased from J. J. Griswold. The calf was in the buggy, and evidently the cow did not like that arrangement, so she became unfuly and jumped the railroad fence, which was some stunt, as a rope was tied round her horns, and on the railroad side it is about eight or nine feet down before she struck terra firma. It took several men with a pair of horses and a cart to start her in the right direction. If there had been a moon there we think she would have jumped it, and we would have lived to see the old nursery rhyme of our childhood verified.

METHODIST

Rev. William Thompson, Pastor

At the meeting on Thursday evening the pastor will speak on the first part of the first chapter of Revelation. If you are interested in this wonderful book, come and let us talk it over together.

Christianity is not civilization; it is not the habit of attending Christian worship; it is not a philosophy founded on the sayings of Christ; it is not a philanthropic social movement of which He was the founder; it is not even the aggregate of beneficent forces represented by Christians. Christianity goes deeper than all these. It is root as well as fruit; it is rock as well as wall. Far more than the superstructure, Christianity is the one true and imperishable foundation. In a word, Christianity is Christ Himself. "For me to live," said Paul, "is not Christianity; but Christ."

"The Knowledge of God Through out the World" will be the theme of the address Sunday morning.

The Sunday School will meet at the close of the morning worship.

"The Art of Good Reaping" will be the subject for the evening address by the pastor, at the union service.

Paster and congregation will be glad to see you at the services if you do not attend elsewhere. Come and we will try to do you good.

Flashes Give First Warning of Fire. Flashes on the switchboard of a telephone operator in the Central Exchange, Portsmouth, gave the first warning of a fire in the Hyalok block on Congress st.

Poultry Show in December. The Merrimack Valley Poultry association announces that its annual show will be held in the Phoenix hall, Concord, on Dec. 7. Elaborate preparations are now being made for the show, which has a promise of being the largest ever undertaken by the County association.

Slept in Same House Every Night, Says Week's 88 Years. Edward Runnels, 88, died in the house at Riverhill, where he was born, and in which he had slept every night of his life, except the week he passed in Philadelphia during the centennial exposition in 1876. Mr. Runnels owned one of the best farms in that section.

Will Address County Farm Bureaus. Gray Silver, former president of the West Virginia state Senate, and at present Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau, will speak at eight county farm bureau meetings in New Hampshire, beginning Oct. 31. His itinerary includes Claremont, Rochester, Exeter, Concord, Milford, Lancaster, Woodsville and Laconia.

Friends Die Near Same Hour in Different Cities. At almost the same hour that James H. Nixon, Democratic candidate for representative, died at the Rochester Hospital, his life-long friend, Maj. Joseph H. Killourby, died at the Lacombe Hospital from injuries received in an automobile accident. Mr. Nixon was born in Philadelphia in 1866 and came to East Rochester 33 years ago from Lowell.

Fined for Shipping Cattle Improperly. Charles H. Gage of Bradford, following a two-days' trial in police court, Concord, on charges of improper shipment and transportation of cattle, was found guilty and ordered to pay fines of $100 and costs by Judge William L. Stevens.

The Gage shipment was the first from a point within the state, which made it possible for the S. P. C. A. to start a court prosecution.

Textile Peace Parley Falls. The conference between the committee from the striking weavers at the plant of the Old Colony Woolen Company, Rochester, and Agent Harry M. Carr of the company, failed to straighten out matters, and the situation is the same as when the operatives walked out asking for an increase of wages and a 48-hour week in place of the 54-hour schedule under which the mill has been operating. About 175 employees are affected by the walk-out.

Organizing of Teachers Urged. The reins of educational leadership should be placed in the hands of teachers and their organizations and not in those of 'fat, President William B. Owen of the Chicago Normal school and president of the National Education Association told the 2500 school teachers gathered in Manchester for the 69th annual meeting of the New Hampshire Teachers' Association.

Complete arrangements of all teachers in America was strongly advised by President Owen, who believes that an organized profession of education is the only way to call the attention of the great public to the treatment that should be accorded to the school teacher. "If we would build the great American school to which America looks forward."

Fill Vacancy on N. H. Ballot. Ora A. Brown of Ashland was named Republican state senatorial candidate in the fifth district to fill the vacancy caused when the ballot law commission declared the Rev. John W. Barker of Lebanon ineligible to serve in the senate, at a meeting of the state executive committee.

Speaker Fred A. Jones of the House of Representatives who was defeated by Barker in the primary, in a statement made to the committee said he would not be a candidate, his decision being reached through a desire for better health.

Dies at Wheel of Automobile. Charles C. Buffum, 75, of Keene, died suddenly while driving his automobile on Massachusetts Ave., Cambridge, Mass. He fell forward over the steering wheel and the car continued uncontrolled, side-swiping a milk wagon and crashing into a curb, where it stopped. Mrs. Buffum, who was sitting beside her husband, was uninjured. Mr. Buffum for many years was registrar of deeds of Cheshire County. He is survived by three sons, Charles E., of Jamaica Plain, Robert E., of Belmont and James C. of Oxford.

Exempt Taxes of New Plants. At a meeting of the Nashua board of aldermen, tax exemptions for 10 years were granted the J. F. McElwain Company and the Paterson Realty Company, new enterprises for the manufacture of shoes in the city. The Paterson Realty Company has recently started the construction of a modern plant for the accommodation of the new McElwain company, to be erected at a cost of $80,000, to be leased to the operators for a term of years, this stock to be retired at stated intervals until the McElwain company finally acquires title to the property.

Four hundred hands are to be employed at a weekly payroll of $8,000.

First Free Library in U. S. 100 Years Old. Dublin recently celebrated the 100th anniversary of the founding of its public library, claiming to have established the first free public library in America. The first institution was maintained by public subscription.

A neighborhood town, Peterboro, boasts that its public library, established in 1833, was the first in the country to have been founded and supported by taxation.

The Dublin library was established mainly through the efforts of the Rev. Levi Leonard, pastor of one of the early churches. He was the institution's first librarian and Dublin folk acclaim his memory as the first free public librarian of America.

Plan State Chamber of Commerce. Initial steps to organize a New Hampshire State Chamber of Commerce for the promotion of the general industrial and agricultural interests of the state were taken at a conference of officials of 14 local Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade, in Tilton. For many years there was in New Hampshire a State Board of Trade which did useful service along lines of industrial promotion, but during the war this organization died out. The object of the present movement is to start a new, larger organization, to operate along broader lines.

The conference was the largest gathering of Board of Trade officials that has been held for years in New Hampshire. A committee to proceed with the proposed organization was elected, consisting of President Carl Foster of the Concord Chamber of Commerce, Secretary H. E. Moffat of the Dover Chamber and President H. W. Quimby of the Bristol Chamber.

This committee will report at a future meeting of the conference to be held probably either in Keene, Nashua or Concord. One main purpose of the proposed organization is to cooperate with the New Hampshire Publicity Commission in raising and extending a fund of $100,000 to advertise the attractions and resources of the state.

State Lumbermen Discuss Resources. Over 125 lumbermen from all parts of the state, members of the New Hampshire Lumbermen's association, gathered in Manchester for the association's regular meeting. Among the speakers were Major Frank Knox, George C. Carter, E. W. Abbott, general freight agent of the Boston and Maine railroad, Charles W. Tobey, H. H. Sturgis, president of the Maine Lumbermen's association, B. F. G. of Grasmere.

Major Knox, who was introduced by Samuel Langdell, president of the association, spoke of the natural opportunities everywhere in New England that are waiting to be developed.

Major Knox said in part: "New England is at the cross roads. A choice of route and destination must be made. It will be made in what remains of the decade between 1920 and 1930. The census returns of the latter year will disclose the path we travel. In 1930 tells the same tale that 1920 told, little doubt will remain of New England's destiny."

City - we will have joined the dismal company of those regions whose golden days are all of the past, regions of the long shadows cast by a setting sun, lands of desecration, disillusionment and despair.

Pastor's Plea Brings Care to Take Infirm to Church. A sermon by the Rev. Raymond H. Huse, at the Baker Memorial Methodist Church, Concord, on "The Fragility of an Ox Cart: Religion in an Automobile Age" brought quick results, when a committee of the church members got together and organized an automobile brigade which has offered the use of the members' cars and as many more as are needed by persons who wish to attend Sunday services, but are without means of transportation.

Writing on the insincerity of people seeking favors, in a chapter of his "Autobiography" in Harper's Magazine, Mark Twain says: "I am built as other people are built, so far as I can discover, and therefore I do prize a good hearty compliment above rubies; and am grateful for it, and as glad as you are yourself when I can in sincerity return the mate to it. But when a man goes beyond compliment, it does not give me pleasure, it makes me ashamed."

"It makes me ashamed; I am not thinking about him. I am thinking about myself; he may humiliate himself if he likes; it is his privilege, but I do not want to be humiliated. Adulation. Adulation—spoken or hinted. And never earned; never due, to any human being."

"What a king must suffer! For he knows, deep down in his heart, that he is a poor, cheap, wormy thing like the rest of us, a sarcasm; the Creator's prime miscarriage in inventions, the moral inferior of all the animals, the superior of each of them all in one gift only, and that one not up to his estimation of it—Intellect."

Citadel of Quebec. Quebec citadel is a strong fortification covering 40 acres of ground, and in its present form it dates from 1823. The more modern fortifications were constructed in 1820-30, substantially on the lines of the French works of 1620. The citadel has been garrisoned by Canadian soldiers since the withdrawal of British troops in 1871. It incloses a parade and drill ground, 42 acres in extent, surrounded by barracks and magazines on the ramparts. A large stone building forms the officers' quarters, with the governor general's residence (occasionally occupied by him) at the east end, overlooking the river. A splendid vista can be seen from the king's bastion at the northeast angle of the ramparts. The west ramparts overlook the Plains of Abraham. Quebec citadel has been called the "Gibraltar of Canada."

Great Sea Fighter Indignant. Towards the close of the war, with the first French republic, when the general distress was very sharp and bread very dear—in 1800 the price of a quarter loaf in England rose to 1 shilling and 10 pence half penny—a curious fashion arose of giving dinners in which the guests were asked to bring their own bread. Nelson was invited to such a dinner, but through some oversight he had apparently not been informed of the conditions of the feast.

At all events, when Nelson found that there was no bread, he made quite a little scene, called his servant and, before the whole company, gave him a shilling and ordered him to buy a roll, saying aloud: "It is hard after fighting my country's battles I should be grugged her bread."

Getting His Money's Worth. "How long has this movie been running?" asked Mr. Gumpson. "About half an hour," said the usher. "Has the villain choked the handsome hero yet?" "The fight occurs in the next reel. They meet again, you know, and the hero wins."

"The first fight is the only one I care to see."—Birmingham Advertiser.

RED CROSS PUTS UP $9,739,872

Year's Budget Stresses Relief and Services at Home and Overseas.

MILLIONS FOR VETERAN AID Over $3,000,000 Allotted to the Disabled—Foreign Work Lessens.

Washington—Expenditures totaling $9,739,872.47 for carrying through its program of services and relief during the fiscal year in the United States and overseas are authorized in the budget of the American Red Cross, effective July 1, 1922. This total is $2,735,975 less than the expenditures for the last fiscal year, when disbursements reached $12,475,847.69. It is announced at National Headquarters in a statement emphasizing the necessity of continued support of the organization by enrollment during the annual Roll Call, November 11-November 30 inclusive. This total for the budget is exclusive of the large financial operations of the 3,300 active Red Cross Chapters, which, it is estimated, will more than double the total.

War Veterans Have First Call First call on Red Cross funds is for the disabled ex-service men, of whom 27,487 were receiving treatment from the Government on June 1 last. This work for veterans and their families in a wide variety of service that the Government is not authorized to render and for which it has neither funds nor facilities has the call on $3,030,092.90 during the current year, or about $366,000 more than was expended last year for soldier service. Adding the funds disbursed in this humanitarian work of physical reconstruction following the World War by the Chapters throughout the country will approximate a total for the current year approaching $10,000,000. This work, in the opinion of the Surgeon General's office, will not reach its peak before 1926.

Through its Chapters the American Red Cross is equipped to find the individual ex-service man, help him in his problems and difficulties, provide immediately for his necessities and open the way for him to the Government compensation and aid to which he is entitled. The extension of this work to the families of such men proves to them that the Red Cross has lost none of its sympathy nor will to service manifested in wartime. Similarly the service goes out to the men still in the Army and Navy, 11,057 of whom were under treatment in Government hospitals on June 1, 1922.

Greater Domestic Program This year—after five years of constructive effort during the war and after the armistice—brings with it a greater responsibility for domestic service to the American Red Cross. The budget for foreign operations, however, totals $3,104,000, but of this amount $1,834,000 is for medical relief and hospital supplies for Russia, which is a part of the gift made by the American Red Cross in 1921 to the Russian famine relief work of the American Relief Administration program. The child health service in Europe continues, moreover, and $854,000 is appropriated for this work undertaken in 1920. Other items in the stringently diminished foreign program include $200,000 to support the League of Red Cross Societies, $22,000 for nurses' training schools instituted by the Red Cross abroad, and $600,000 for liquidation of the general Red Cross foreign relief program.

Prepared for Emergencies For disaster relief the Red Cross has set aside $750,000, and for emergencies in Chapter work $500,000 to be available for domestic, insular and foreign demands. This is more than $395,000 above last year's expenditures. For service and assistance to the 3,300 Chapters and their branches $1,233,000 is provided by the National organization.

Other budget items of importance in the domestic program include $200,000 for assistance to other organizations and educational institutions for training Red Cross nurses and workers; $100,000 for Roll Call assistance furnished to Chapters; $100,000 for unforeseen contingencies. Of the total budget less than $500,000 is allotted for management in the National organization. No cash estimate, of course, is possible to weigh the value of the service by volunteers in the Chapters.

CAVE USED AS SANITARIUM

Physician at One Time Placed Sufferers From Tuberculosis in Famous Underground Cavern.

The Mammoth cave of Kentucky is no doubt one of the most wonderful places in the United States. It has been known and visited for years in a superficial manner, but, strange to say, the cave has never yet been fully explored. This fact may give a little idea of the vast proportions. When Daniel Webster visited it he was inspired to oratory; when Jenny Lind, the Swedish nightingale, visited there, she climbed up into a natural rostrum in a rock-walled auditorium and instinctively burst into song. Relics of the aboriginal inhabitants are still to be seen in the caves, and there are crudely hewn logs still lying around from the saltpeter springs to this, where the mineral deposit was collected and used in the manufacture of gunpowder required in the war of that year.

Further back in the depths of the cave are stone huts which were inhabited for a considerable time by tubercular patients. These sufferers were placed there by eminent physicians who were desirous of testing the value of the uniform temperature of the cave upon the dread white-plague. Some of these patients lived six months without seeing the light of day.

These caves are a little off the beaten track of tourist travel and, while exceedingly interesting, are not so well known as many inferior examples of the stupendous handiwork of the Creator.

NOT WHAT MOTHER EXPECTED

Teacher's Message Sent by Little Clarence by No Means the Kind She Looked For.

Clarence recently made his debut as a Sunday school scholar. When he came home his father and mother waited to hear a report of his experiences, but Clarence evidently was too much dazed by them to begin. "Well, dear," said his mother helpfully, "did you say the text?" "Yes, mother."

"And did you remember the story of the lesson?" "Yes, mother, I said it all off by heart."

"And did you put your penny in the basket?" "Yes, mother." Clarence's mother caught him up and hugged him ecstatically. "Oh, you little precious!" she exclaimed. "Your teacher must have been so proud! I know she just loved you. She said something to you, didn't she?" "Yes, mother."

"I knew it!" with a proud glance at Clarence's father over Clarence's head. "Come, darling, tell mother what the teacher said to mother's little man."

"She said for me to bring two cents next Sunday."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Why Eddies Whirl Counter-Clockwise.

A correspondent writes to Scientific American asking if it is true that all whirlwinds, tornadoes, cyclones, typhoons (movements of air), maelstroms, water leaving a washbowl, or bathtub (movements of water), unless artificially interfered with, revolve counter-clockwise. If so, what causes this revolving always in that direction? The answer is: "The rotary motions which you describe are caused by the earth's rotation on its axis. They are counter-clockwise in the northern, and clockwise in the southern hemisphere."
