FRIENDSHIPS

Friendships are like candles;
 Some dim, some brightly glow,
 And winds of chance and circumstance
 On each at times may blow!

Some bend beneath a gale of doubt
 To stronger rise again;
 While others flicker and expire
 And pass from out our ken!
 The lightest touch of rumor may
 On some its venom vent,
 And passing leave a blackened stump,
 The flame of faith soon spent!
 The steady flame full stronger grows,
 And bears the gale the best;
 The faithful friend, true-hearted, staunch,
 Outlasting all the rest!

Potter Spaulding.

Topics of the Day Presented to Reporter Readers in Concise Form

Criticism is given as the reason, why a certain banker gives up a one hundred thousand a year retainer, that carries no work with the job. "Believe it or not!" as the fellow said.

Miss Myrtle E. Beecher, home demonstration agent in Hillsboro county, gave a demonstration at the I. O. O. F. banquet hall on Friday p. m., last, on building a better body. Miss Beecher made cream of carrot soup, a salad, and dessert, using only milk, and which all ate for dinner. Later she gave a talk on lime and calcium in the diet. A goodly number of women enjoyed a very pleasant and profitable day.

Warren T. Billings, aged 65, for years a well known newspaper writer, died on Friday last, after a year's failing health. For some time he did secretarial work for former Senator George H. Moses.

For erecting a steel bridge 300 feet long, in West Henniker, the Lackawanna Steel Construction Company, of Buffalo, N. Y., was the lowest bidder, proposing to do the work for $49,682.75. This is the company that built the new South End bridge, at Concord.

Major A. Erland Goyette, one of Peterborough's leading citizens and one of New Hampshire's most prominent manufacturers, and Miss Hazel Lovilla Nittrow, also of Peterborough, were married last Friday, in New York City, and on Saturday sailed for a trip abroad, to be absent till some time in December.

As a means of clarifying the relation between State Wage Regulations and those adopted under the National Recovery Act, Governor Winant is arranging a conference for the discussion of Minimum Wage Legislation and the Industrial Codes. This meeting will be held in Representatives' Hall, at the State House, Concord, on Friday evening, November 3, at 7.45 o'clock. Prominent speakers will address this meeting.

Aileen R. Clarke died in Antrim as a result of a fall from a moving automobile. The funeral was held from the Methodist Episcopal church, in Henniker, on October 25, at 2 p. m., with Rev. W. Raymond Pierce officiating. She was born in Henniker on April 6, 1928. Those from out of town to attend the funeral were Harold Burbank, Bellows Falls, Vt.; Mrs. Lulu Greely, Mrs. Lulu Blanchard and Miss Alice Gammell, of Concord; Linley and Miss Freda Gammell, of No. Weare; Mrs. Ethel Wheeler, George Loveren, and others, of Bennington; and Andrew Cudihy, and others, of Antrim.

State Insurance Commissioner Sullivan has given out that auto insurance rates must be increased in order to protect insurance companies that are operating at a loss. So many accidents is given as the reason.

Miss Eunice Patch, state relief director, reported during last week that complete figures for September showed an increase over August in the number of "cases" on the relief rolls and predicted a further increase for the present month. The state spent on this line in September $121,518; in August, $110,042. The relief organization has begun the making of a 10 day survey of conditions in New Hampshire to be reported to the federal administration at Washington.

Something we heard recently made us think that possibly the retention of George S. Proctor of Wilton, as a deputy fish and game warden, was somewhat in doubt. Whether Antrim is in his district or not, everyone in this section who knows of his value to the department hope he will be continued in his present job, if a break does not come so he will be made one of the wardens. His services have been such as to entitle him to a real position with the department and he should have it; but if nothing better could be passed out to him, he should at least be continued in his present position.

There is some advantage in being a small size town, but it is only occasionally that its inhabitants feel this way. Since the NRA does not bother a whole lot with towns of 2500 population and under by the last census, excepting manufacturing establishments and chain stores, there is not the anxiety about certain things that there otherwise would be. The NRA program marches along. It is apparent that its effect differs in various places, yet it must be credited with some real and beneficial results. It has put a good many back to work in the industrial centers. In the big cities it has also increased employment in retail stores. It has readjusted wages in some degree, and put an end to child labor. It has also raised prices, and that was to be expected.

It is always interesting to read what our Representatives in Congress have to say about matters at the capitol, and at the present time this interest is considerably increased.

Comparing the NRA and the NIRA, Congressman Charles W. Tobey at a meeting of the State and National Federation of Business and Professional Women at the Chamberlain house, in Concord, on a recent evening, said that after Thanksgiving the NRA would give way to the NIRA and the former would be a thing of the past.

"The government," continued Congressman Tobey, "hopes to put into effect a new social philosophy, making this a human, not an economic society, and in so doing, the government would be carrying out the policy that Herbert Hoover endeavored to do."

Regarding the emergency relief fund Mr. Tobey felt that states should handle their own relief program without aid from the federal government. "People," he said, "who think that they are getting something for nothing are being sadly fooled, because the money comes directly from the common pot of taxation."

Reporter Readers Will be Especially Interested in the Following

Speaker For the "Drys"

Calling upon her hearers, to work for the election of only "dry" legislators, "from the least to the highest," Mrs. Gertrude Winslow Osborne, president of the New Hampshire Women's Christian Temperance Union, is urging members to form new unions and fight for the retention of the state prohibitory laws. This is just what would be expected, exactly what the "wets" did from the very minute the 18th Amendment was written into the Constitution. They have been successful—likewise will the "drys"—be successful, if they follow their line with the persistency they are expected to. The makeup of recent Legislatures and the work they did along temperance lines may have set the women folks to thinking anew that a lot of good work may be accomplished by electing men and women who will vote as they think they ought to vote—to protect the home—taking this in a general and very broad way.

Mrs. Osborne is quoted also as saying that the great increase of automobile accidents and fatalities are due, in her judgment, to the change in sentiment along this line and the letting down of the bars in the prohibition fence. Even the "wets" will admit that she has a strong talking point, and doubtless she will pursue her argument along this line and maybe find additional proof to strengthen her belief.

In some sections of the State, politicians have already given out their intentions to become candidates for certain offices, and this being the case it is none too early for Mrs. Osborne, and others believing as she does, to get busy in putting forward their ideas concerning what they should expect of their representatives—those who want to make laws for the people. With these thoughts being broadcast it is quite likely to witness some unusual happenings throughout the State, during the next twelve months on such a matter; and this condition will not be confined to any one section of the State. Watch out for straws that may point in certain directions!

Installation of Officers

The annual installation of officers of Hand-in-Hand Lodge of Rebekahs, No. 29, I. O. O. F., was held in Odd Fellows hall on Wednesday evening last, the regular night of meeting.

The installation supper was served at six o'clock and was well attended. It was a good supper and was splendidly served; the menu included cold roast pork, mashed potato, salads, rolls, pumpkin and squash pies, apple sauce and coffee. The efficient committee serving this supper was composed of Mrs. Dagmar George, Mrs. Helen Erett, Mrs. Estella Speed and Mrs. Blanche Thompson.

Mrs. Nellie Hills, a past District Deputy President, was authorized by Mrs. Addie B. Dowie, President of the Rebekah Assembly, to install the officers of the local Rebekah lodge, and with the assistance of a suite of Past Grand, did the work in a most creditable manner. The new officers for the ensuing year are:

Quality All-Important in Selection of Soap

By RUBY BAKER
The weekly wash is a good example of where "pinching on quality" is costly in the end. Women whose snowy-white washings are the envy of their neighborhood have learned the value of buying not cheaply but well.

When these women purchase a laundry soap they look for quality and washing value. They know that a "perfect" wash depends on the use of a high-grade soap. After all, it's the ability of the cleansing agents that gets results.

Many a housewife has found that a cheap or "weak" soap not only requires harder rubbing to get clothes clean, but that this hard rubbing actually harms the fabrics.

Where you buy quality, it makes little difference in what form a soap comes. A soap can be any color of the rainbow—without any effect at all on the whiteness of clothes. For instance, a certain well-known laundry soap is golden because that is the natural color of its combined fine ingredients. And due to its greater cleansing energy, this golden soap gets clothes cleaner—which means whiter.

Old "Clearing House"

Why Doctors Favor a Liquid Laxative

A doctor will tell you that the careful choice of laxatives is a common cause of chronic constipation.

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and even affect the liver and kidneys.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be controlled. It forms no habit; you needn't take a "double dose" a day or two later.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the average person's bowels regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time. Why not try it? Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry. But there is little "convenience" in any cathartic which is taken so frequently, you must carry it with you, wherever you go!

Its very taste tells you Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is wholesome. A delightful taste, and delightful action. Safe for expectant mothers, and children. All druggists, ready for use, in big bottles. Member N. R. A.

SYNOPSIS

A pretty young woman finds herself in a taxi cab in New York with a strange man who addresses her anxiously and speaks of "an awful shock." When he leaves her for a moment at a drug store she drives on, for she fears him. She stops at the Biltmore, still wondering who she is. Her memory is gone. From her scanty clothing she concludes she is married to a wealthy man. She meets a young woman who speaks of her desire to go to Reno for a divorce. If she can get the money. The woman vanishes with the nameless girl's purse and gun. An elderly woman, Mrs. Oscar Du Val, cordially greets the nameless girl, addressing her as "Doris," wife of Mrs. Du Val's son, Rocky. Rocky is abroad, and Doris, bewildered, is taken to the home of Mrs. Du Val and her secretary, husband, Oscar. Doris falls in love with Rocky's photograph, but cannot remember having married him.

CHAPTER III

"I think I'd like to go into New York," said Doris. She looked away from Mrs. Du Val as she spoke. Below her eyes was a long vista of formal terraces, dropping one below another and ending in a square pool.

They were sitting on a grassy floored room set against the house, and walled on one side by a rock garden, and on the other by a lattice of climbing roses. Lunch was spread on a gaily tiled table. They were waiting for Oscar Du Val to come from his studios and eat with them.

Mrs. Du Val's fingers were busy as usual with crocheting. She did not look up, but Doris saw that she was frowning anxiously.

"Rocky left orders that you are not to go into New York, you know."

This was rather surprising. Doris lifted her pretty brows. "Why not?"

"You know Rocky's reasons better than I. You were with him, were you not, when he spoke to me over the telephone? You perhaps heard him make me give him my promise."

"What harm would it do for me to go into New York?"

"Oh, C'est Rocky," sighed Mrs. Du Val. "Perhaps our boy is a little of the jealous, n'est-ce pas? What do you think? At the time he made me to promise I had the idea that you were a little—shall we say a little too gay in your habits? But since I know that this is not the case—I rather wonder at that boy Rocky."

"It's certainly rather unusual."

"You find it dull here, little Doris?"

"Oh no. You've been so kind. So wonderful, only—"

Doris hesitated. "I hate to bother you about it, but I did want to go to New York."

"Why do you want to go to New York?"

Doris could think of no convincing answer. "I'd like to do some shopping," she said haltingly. Then she flushed with embarrassment. She had no money. With what could she shop?

"What is it you need?" said Mrs. Du Val kindly.

Doris tried hard to think. "Oh some thread. Some red thread to mend a rip in my red dress, and some darning cotton."

"But I can let you have those things, Doris. You know you have only to ask."

Doris felt ashamed and desperate. It was impossible for her to go to New York without money. To suppose she were not Mrs. Rocky Du Val seemed now simply morbid imagining. If she weren't then where was the real Mrs. Rocky Du Val? She would have turned up long ago, surely. She sat biting her lip and looking at Mrs. Du Val who kept busily on with her crocheting.

After a moment the French woman's rich voice began to flow like an organ; pulling out stops of joy and gloom, ecstasy and despair. "I know how is it when you are young, Doris. You want change. You want to see some of your friends. Perhaps the doctor?"

"No."

"Or to the dentist?"

Doris said in relief, "Oh yes. I ought to go to the dentist."

"We ought all to go and see the dentist regularly," said Mrs. Du Val placidly. "We will go together into town. We will go to your dentist. We will go to the shops. We will buy some things which you need. Will that be good?"

Doris did not know what to answer. She was touched by the evident desire of her mother-in-law to please her. Mrs. Du Val was at once fussy and grand. This paradox made her lovable. But it did not make her a possible companion for Doris on her proposed tour of investigation into her own past. She would not let Doris have a minute alone. And at the same time her dignity of character, her overflowing kindness would make it difficult for Doris to practice the least kind of deceit.

"Where is your dentist?"

There. She had already told one lie about a dentist. Now she must make up something glib. "I haven't a good one," she said. "Do you know of one?" Could she possibly think of any reasonable excuse to get away from Mrs. Du Val in New York?

Mrs. Du Val was looking pleased. "Yes. I have a very good dentist." She rose and folded away her lace. "I will tell Oscar that we are going to New York this afternoon. He will not like that. He is like a baby. Always

I must be here. We will leave immediately after lunch and return for dinner. Will that, do you think, give us enough time?"

Doris did not know. It did not seem to her that it would give any time at all, since it took two hours to get into New York, and two more to return. It was after twelve now. If they left at one they would get to New York at three. They would have to leave at five to be back by seven. Two hours was something, of course. If she could find an excuse to go to Tange's and see if she could identify herself through the hat, and dresses and suit she had bought, it would be plenty of time. But could she break away from Mrs. Du Val and get to Tange's?

In a few minutes Oscar had joined them and they all sat down at the little table.

Mrs. Du Val told her husband that she was taking Doris into New York that afternoon.

He put down his spoon at once. He looked at his wife angrily.

"Why?"

"Ah well. We have many things to do."

"That is nonsense," said Oscar. "What with all these motor accidents on the roads it isn't safe for you to drive into New York. The last time you went when you went to get Doris, God knows what I suffered!" He rose abruptly and sent the light chair behind him flying into the rock garden.

His wife rose. "See what you have done now!" she scolded. "Come, sit down and finish your lunch. Of course we will go to New York." She smiled into Doris' agonized eyes. "It will be all right. He always acts so when I have to go to New York."

After lunch the big car came around in front of the door, and Oscar Du Val gloomily watched them drive away. From the important way that Mrs. Du Val switched herself into the limousine and settled her skirts over her round short legs, Doris knew that the French woman was secretly pleased with the outing. Perhaps married to a less exacting husband she would have loved gaiety and mixing with the world.

Oscar Du Val kissed them both as solemnly as if he never expected to see them again.

"I feel rather guilty," said Doris.

"Nonsense. It does him good. Let me advise you, Doris, about your husband. In big things, give in to him, yes."

"Yes?" repeated Doris somewhat doubtfully. She did not understand Mrs. Du Val's meaning.

"Yes," said Mrs. Du Val firmly, "always give in to your husband in big things, in things that matter. Let him have his own way about his work. He knows best about that. Let him have his way about his home, yes. But in the little things—ah, Doris, in the little things the woman must be the ruler."

Doris said thoughtfully, "Most people seem to think you should do the other way around? Let him have his way about the things that do not matter, so you can influence him in the big things."

Mrs. Du Val's bright face was overcast like the quick wrapping of the sun in a cloud. "I know. I know it is the theory of the play 'What Every Woman Knows,' a theory that has done much harm, much harm, and made every empty-headed little woman think it is she who is the greater and the doer if it happens her husband has done something good. Never let yourself fall into that error, Doris. I know many women like that. Remember, whatever Rocky becomes it will be because he himself had it in him to become that thing."

Doris felt thrilled and happy. Surely this trip would get her doubts at rest. She must be Mrs. Rocky Du Val. Who else could she be?

As the limousine rolled pompously over the white pavements, her heart was beating more quickly. If she were to go to Tange's and find out that, after all, she was not Mrs. Rocky Du Val—then what would she say to the little French woman?

A sliver of ice seemed to go down her spine. But that was nonsense. Nevertheless she must find out for certain. The problem that confronted her was how to leave Mrs. Du Val for a few moments. She had an idea that the French woman meant to stick to her very persistently.

"Where do you want to go first, Doris?"

"I would like to go to a shop called Tange's. I bought a dress there that has come out at one of the seams, and I want to show it to them."

"This was pure inspiration. Mrs. Du Val clucked sympathetically. "Such robbery. A dress in an expensive shop like Tange's coming out at the seams. Did it not fit you then? Oh my—yes. We must certainly speak to them. Did you bring the dress with you?"

"No—I didn't think—"

"Oh, dear, oh dear. We should have the dress. You remember perhaps the clerk that waited on you. I will give her a talking-to. But we must not excite you at such a time," she said with an air of tenderness.

What mysterious ailment was she supposed to have? She saw genuine concern in Mrs. Du Val's small brown eyes. "I feel very well," she said.

"Shall we go first to the dentist?"

"Suppose we stop by Tange's and I just run in for a moment while you wait in the car. I'm sure when I tell them about the dress, they'll agree to fix it, and tomorrow I can send it in to them."

"No, no," said Mrs. Du Val, "we will go together. There is plenty of time."

Doris felt desperate. Panic was clutching her heart. She wanted more than anything else to prove that she was Mrs. Rocky Du Val. But she had to go in that store alone. She determined on new tactics. "I have a confession to make," she said. "I want you to trust me. You said a little while ago that you did. I have merely made up this silly story of a dress torn at the seams, because I wish to run into Tange's alone. I—I can't tell you my business. But I promise you I'll only be gone a minute or two."

Mrs. Du Val looked slightly ruffled. Her astonishment was slowly yielding to a faint amusement. "I know. It is some kind of a surprise." Her small eyes wrinkled with fun at the corners. "You want to get away for a moment and I am too much the bad old mother-in-law to let you? Is that it?"

"Oh no. Of course not. You've been darling to me."

Mrs. Du Val patted her hand. "All right. You go. I wait outside in the car. But not over ten minutes, n'est-ce pas?"

"No, no. Not over ten minutes."

"And do not make up any more stories to tell me. Next time I will be angry."

Doris was very excited as Louis slowed the car in front of the quiet front of Tange's. She slid past the doorman hastily, opening the heavy door herself.

Before she could formulate any plan of action a girl came from behind a closed door and came toward her.

Then Doris saw that she was recognized.

The girl's mouth opened, her brows drew together in a horrified frown. She seemed to scream as if with terror. But instead she slapped a highly manicured hand over her sagging lips.

"Miss—I mean Mrs.—Val—"

Then she stopped as if paralyzed. "You know me," gasped Doris.

"Oh you poor kid; Oh! I'll help you. Get in here. Come quick!"

Doris' amazement deepened. The girl had seized her by the arm and was dragging her across the room as she spoke.

"But listen—" protested Doris.

"There's no time."

"But why should I—"

"For G—d's sake, don't be a fool. Someone's coming!"

In spite of herself the girl's terror communicated itself to Doris. The girl was so frightened that she heard nothing Doris said. Her own words came out in short breaths. "I'll help you. I'll hide you. Get in here."

What's Doing in the Fabric Realm

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IN EVOLVING wardrobes which must prove 100 per cent efficient in meeting the demands of the present autumn and coming winter sports and social season, designers are playing up fabrics with more than usual zest.

More and more are we brought to realize that there is a fabric for every occasion, and for every occasion there is a fabric. Present couturier displays are a real schooling in this respect, since they so unmistakably classify materials as to their intent.

An especially intriguing display is being made this season of handsome woollens and sturdy novelty weaves which tell you at a glance that they are essentially for sports and practical town and country wear. In this class a spectacular showing of plaids indicates that they will animate many a grandstand assemblage during the coming weeks. A costume which tines in admirably to a colorful autumn picture is shown in the group illustrated. It includes a skirt with matching belt and tie of brown and beige woolen plaid. The jacket of brown ribbed velvet tops a blouse of beige silk.

This idea of combining several weaves as instanced in this ensemble of plaid woolen, ribbed velvet and rough crepe silk is significant in that it is a gesture among designers which offers fascinating possibilities not only as to working several materials together, but the promise for alluring color schemes is limitless.

Perhaps you have heard that the smartest thing on the boards this season for practical daytime wear is a shirtwaist dress. These are being made up effectively of the new checked woollens. The model pictured is tailored of a dark green and beige check. Its perfectly tailored knapsack pockets and its slipper fastening carry unmistakable style prestige.

As to more formal dress, the trend to elegance is reflected in the sumptuousness of the regal velvets, the sleek satins, crisp taffetas, glittering metal cloths, the beautifully colorful lace and a host of other seductive weaves such as the world as ere witnessed. Then there are the new bengalines and ottoman silks. Their revival is one of the outstanding events of the season. A party frock of white bengaline becomes a necessary luxury in the wardrobe of the woman who attends society doings.

It is understood that every replete wardrobe is to include at least one velvet dress. If only one, then let it be black with trimmings of white starched lace. The importance of velvet cannot be overstated. It is used for everything from hats and gloves to shoes and for autumn suits as well as afternoon and evening gowns and wraps. Plaid velvet is the latest sensation—perfectly stunning for the new tunic blouses! Plaid velvet suits are also chic.

Velvet evening ensembles are very smart. We are showing a most lovely velvet evening ensemble in the picture to the left. It is sapphire blue. With the jacket removed it is extremely décolleté. Fullest sleeves and ruff collar give the jacket distinction, also the fact that it has a slight train.

Competition for first honors between velvet and satin is keen. For immediate wear, suits and frocks of sleek satin are quite the thing. As an evening fabric, satin ranks high. The molded skirt with low fullness of the satin gown shown to the right, interprets the "very latest" in regard to this season's sponsored silhouette.

BUTTONS IN FRONT HELP TO CHILDREN

Small children arriving at the age to be taught to dress themselves, will learn more quickly if their garments button in the front. The foundation garment should consist of a small waist, on to which the panties may be buttoned.

Petticoats may be of the wide-armed-and-open-necked variety, which slip over the head without buttons. Little dresses and suits, which button or tie, or snap down the front, can be found easily.

Little hangers may be purchased and a half-dozen hooks placed low inside the closet. As the child sheds his garments at night, he will take pride in placing them on hangers, "like mother does," and hanging them in the closet.

Unique New Fabrics for Shoes Entered for Fall

A thrilling new material has just been produced by the man who launched the pin-tucked kid which was such a success in the spring. It is kid, stitched and stitched every which way, so that the finished effect is oddly reptilian. It has the advantage of combining practicality with great beauty and chic. Patent leather is a newcomer in the serious walking class and appears in the form of a low-heeled oxford. Alligator is our hardest perennial. It holds its well-deserved place in the sun along with its less utilitarian cousin, lizard.

Bird on Nellie's Hat Makes Comeback in Fall Mode

It now looks as though you could get out your hat again with the bird on it—you know, the one folks sang about in 1910. And furthermore, you'll probably want to add a few side dishes for 1933 in the way of a feather cape, feather muff, feather purse and so on. You may even hide behind your feather fan and roll your big movie eyes from that point of vantage if you like.

KNIT JACKET

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

It is not only the college girl who is going to sport this knit jacket for her own. It will be literally snatched up by the feminine world for golfing, for riding, for walking—for a hundred occasions when a jacket needs to be slipped on. This one is surely a surprise and a genuine find for—it is knitted of crepe paper! It really is. That knit crepe paper find is becoming an honest-to-goodness fashion instead of a mere passing fancy. The strips crocheted and knit beautifully, wear sturdily and you have every shade and tint of the rainbow colors to choose from. Start knitting one of these jackets right away. You'll find yourself wearing it through the fall and under your suit or coat in winter. The jacket shown here is made of crepe paper in a neutral tint with red and blue edges. The directions for making it are simple, and best of all, the entire cost amounts to less than half a round dollar for you. If you've an eye out for chic, and if "do it now" is your motto for getting coming Christmas gifts together, you'll be making more than one.

How I Broke Into The Movies

Copyright by Hal C. Herman

BY BUDDY ROGERS

I STARTED out to be a journalist. I wanted to head my own jazz orchestra, I became a motion picture star.

When I was eight years old, the leader of our town band in Olathe, Kan., organized a boy's orchestra and invited me to join. My father bought me a baritone horn.

By my eleventh birthday I was promoted to the men's orchestra. By my senior year in high school, I had firmly decided to become a theatrical jazz band leader.

The following year, I entered the University of Kansas, majoring in journalism—Outside-of-class, however, I played in a dance orchestra, and was mastering the trombone, the trumpet and the other brass instruments on down the line.

The summer of my sophomore year, thirty of us from the university went to Europe as deck hands on a steamer carrying mules. A few of us organized an orchestra and practiced after the mules had been bedded down for the night. Upon docking at Barcelona, Spain, we played in that country and then went to Paris, France, where we played in some of the cafes and night clubs. Our orchestra was a success.

By the time we returned to America and the new school year had started, Paramount was organizing its picture school at Long Island and was recruiting promising young men and women from all over the country.

Our theater manager in Olathe insisted that I call at the Paramount exchange in Kansas City. He even sent in some of my pictures. I went back to school, however, and forgot all about our conversation until I received a wire from Kansas City asking me to report for screen tests.

These tests will always linger in my mind as a nightmare. In a public Kansas City park before a number of curious bystanders I was told to register hate, fear and so on to tender love. I had to jump, leap and run. Close-up after close-up was taken of me until I was exhausted. I felt confident that I had failed miserably.

So I went back to my school and jazz band, counting the tests merely as an unpleasant experience and a waste of time. In a few weeks, however, I received word that I had been accepted for the school.

Along with the opportunity to enter the school came an invitation to tour Europe with a college orchestra for the summer. To take one offer meant to give up the other. I wanted to do both things. In the face of two such excellent chances, I did not know what to do. Upon the advice of none other than Jesse L. Lasky, I declined membership in the orchestra and reported at the Paramount school.

In the graduation picture, "Fascinating Youth," I was awarded the male lead. Following the picture, I was sent to the west coast, but before I could be cast in a picture there, I received word from the East to return for a part in, "So's Your Old Man."

After that I received one of those fabulously rare things, a "break." I had been cast as the hero in "Wings."

Lois Weber Won Fame as "Discoverer" of Stars

Lois Weber, one of the three women who attained success as film directors—the other two being Dorothy Arzner and Dorothy Davenport (Mrs. Wallace Reid)—is known as the "discoverer" of Bill Hall, Mary MacLarin, Cleo Ridgeley, Claire Windsor, and Billy Dove.

Miss Weber is the canny person who gave Claire Windsor her professional name when the blond beauty, then a newcomer, tried to crash the gates under the name of Ola Cronk. Once an actress in New York, Miss Weber entered films in 1912 and worked at the old Gaumont studio. One of the films she directed was Pavlova's "Blind Girl."

She married Capt. Harry Gantz in 1926, when her personal fortune from her movie earnings and Hollywood real estate ventures had ascended near the million mark, and retired from pictures until her return from a recent world cruise. Universal hopes to profit by her ability to pick out promising talent for new stars.

Acid-Base Qualities of Food

According to Dietetic Authorities, Nature May Be Relied On to Preserve the Proper Balance Necessary for Bodily Welfare.

Housewives who may have been concerned over the presence or absence of acids in the diet will find their perplexities lessened by this authoritative explanation:

"Will you please tell me what fruits and cereals have no acid reaction? This is a question which comes very often to this column, probably because there is a common misconception of the importance of considering the acid-base qualities of foods in choosing a good diet."

"Before I answer the question I should make plain the fact that many foods which are used in digestion are the opposite after absorption. The outstanding examples of this are lemons and other citrus fruits. After digestion and absorption we find the foods which give an alkaline reaction are, first of all, most of the fruits and vegetables. Milk and cream are slightly alkaline. Meats, fish and eggs give an acid reaction after digestion. Cereals are slightly acid. Fats, sugars and starches are neutral.

"You can easily see that in the ordinary diet a balance of acid and base is almost automatically provided. This balance is necessary for body welfare, and, although we are considering a practically impossible situation, it would be fatal for us to be deprived of foods which are acid in reaction.

"The digestive mechanism of the body is so delicately and efficiently adjusted that it maintains a 'buffer' system in the blood and also an alkaline reserve stored in the body which is called upon to neutralize any excess acid which we may occasionally take into the body through food. The 'buffer' quality of the blood seems to be independent of the food we eat, but the alkaline reserve is supplied by the potentially alkaline foods we eat.

"The acids formed in the digestion of food are excreted by the skin, the lungs, the kidneys and the feces. It is very important to keep all these natural functions in normal active condition. The inclusion of fruits and vegetables in liberal amounts in the diet and the drinking of goodly quantities of water have a distinct influence upon the matter and are probably much more important to our bodily welfare on this account than because the resulting products of their digestion are base or acid. Dr. Henry Sherman, professor of chemistry at Columbia university and one of the leaders in the field of nutrition, states in the new addition of his 'Chemistry of Food and Nutrition' (Macmillan, 1932): 'The writer desires to repeat the statement that in his judgment it is still an open question whether the acid-base balance of the mineral elements of the diet is or is not of practical significance in human nutrition. The benefit to health which so generally results from the use of diets consisting largely of fruits, vegetables and milk may perhaps be attributable in part to the fact that these foods yield alkaline residues when oxidized in the body; but also there are several other ways in which the eating of liberal amounts of these foods is apt to be beneficial, notably by enriching the diet in calcium, phosphorus, iron and vitamins and by improving the intestinal conditions.'

"In effect, do not worry about whether the foods you eat are basic or acid. Choose a well-rounded diet containing plenty of fruit and vegetables and 'acidosis' will take care of itself."

Faster Relief Now From Neuritis

Real BAYER Aspirin "Takes Hold" of Pain in Few Minutes

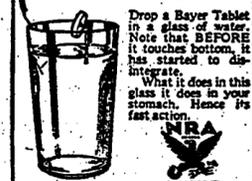

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia... the fastest safe relief, it is said, yet discovered.

Those results are due to a scientific discovery by which a Bayer Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. A Bayer Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And thus is ready to go to work almost instantly.

When you buy, though, see that you get the Genuine BAYER Aspirin. For Bayer Aspirin's quick relief always say "BAYER Aspirin."

In the last issue of the Milford Cabinet, in the Wilton column, was a news item stating that an ancient and honorable member of the Ford Model T class reversed things a bit one day recently and the driver to get it up a hill turned it around and backed up. It may be that others have had a like experience. A number of years ago, when Hon. Rockwell Craig, of Marlow, was campaigning for Senator in the old "shoestring" district so-called, he invited the editor of the Reporter one day to make up a party to visit a few of the towns in the district. The party had taken dinner at the New Boston Tavern and later took a country road through a portion of Wear and Deering, en route to Hillsboro. The road took the party through some of the most picturesque sections of the state, likewise over some long hills. The new Ford car which Mr. Craig was driving would not make steep hills without a fair quantity of fuel, and one hill in particular could not be topped in the regular way—we have forgotten the name of the hill—and after some consultation, the passengers decided to walk up the hill and the driver made the grade in reverse. No further trouble was experienced, and when Hillsboro was reached, plenty of gasoline was secured, of "Still" Baker. It is needless to say that "a good time was had by all."

Weekly News of Interest From a Few Towns Surrounding Antrim

GREENFIELD

Fire of unknown origin late Friday afternoon, Oct. 20th, burned the roof and gutted the upper story of one of the oldest houses in town, a two tenement house on Main street owned by Mrs. Albert Kennett, a widow, and occupied by Mrs. Kennett and Mrs. Henry J. Holt, also a widow. The Greenfield Fire Department and a truck from Peterborough succeeded in checking the blaze, after being called when fire was noticed coming through the roof. Part of the furniture was saved, although some in the lower story was damaged by water. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Here is an interesting article concerning one of our neighbors, a resident of the nearby town of Greenfield, which we were reading only recently in the Manchester Union, which article was accompanied by a picture of the operator at his switchboard. It occurred to us that our readers would also be interested in this article, consequently we are giving it space:

How man can surmount one of his greatest afflictions—the loss of sight—is being demonstrated here daily by Elwyn C. Smith, who is one of the very few, perhaps the only, blind telephone operators in the world. Mr. Smith has been in charge of the local exchange for the past 11 years. A responsible position. Ask any of the 90 subscribers served how capably he discharges his duties.

A native of Chatham, Mass., Mr. Smith was born with imperfect sight and although not totally blind—he has vision of three or four per cent—has never been able to read ordinary print and has never had more than a blurred glimpse of the workaday world. But the great handicap has never made him bitter or despondent. From the beginning Mr. Smith adopted and adhered to the "let's make the best of things" attitude, and while he naturally envied his fellow man the use of one of the primary senses, has never allowed his affliction to prey on his mind.

"They also serve who only stand and wait," wrote Milton, famed English poet. "On His Blindness," composed after he himself had totally lost his vision. Mr. Smith would never be content merely to "stand and wait" however, but insists upon making himself as useful as a blind person can be.

Mr. Smith's switchboard is practically the same as thousands of others except that the jacks are divided into three sections by two wires in order to make it possible for him to operate more rapidly. His ears tell him when the drops fall on the board. He verifies the position of the drop with his hands and plugs in the corresponding jack. A watch with a special dial for the blind enables Mr. Smith to correctly time his toll tickets. He keeps the records by means of the Braille system and Mrs. Smith transcribes them on regular form sheets to be sent to the Manchester office.

Mr. Smith took over his duties as local telephone operator in 1922. From 1895 to 1922 he taught in the manual training department of Perkins Institute for the Blind where he spent a year in study himself.

His early education was received in the public schools of Chatham and at Chatham High school from which he was graduated in 1889.

Greenfield's genial blind telephone operator finds time for other duties, too. He is chairman of the executive committee of the Congregational church which he attends, has served for the past eight years as chaplain of Pacific lodge, No. 45, A. F. and A. M., and is a member of Atlantic chapter, No. 28, O. E. S.

No, it's not so hopeless being blind, Mr. Smith believes. "Work is the thing," he says, "or play. It doesn't matter. A hobby, anything to keep occupied, not just sitting in a corner pitying one's self."

TOWNSMAN HONORED

The Reporter mentioned the fact two weeks ago that our popular town clerk and druggist, Charles H. Smith, had been elected vice president of the New England association of City and Town Clerks, and the Manchester Union of last Thursday contained the following very complimentary notice of his activities, which all our people will be pleased to read:

Bennington was signally honored in the election of its town clerk, Charles H. Smith, to the post of vice president of the New England association of City and Town clerks at a meeting in Providence, R. I., recently.

Mr. Smith, also a trustee of the town trust fund and a prominent local pharmacist, was elected town clerk of Bennington in 1928 and has been reelected each year subsequently.

Mr. Smith has been a member of the New Hampshire City and Town Clerks association since its inception and has also held membership in the New England association for many years.

Since he was 12 years old (he is now 56), Mr. Smith has been making his own way in the world. He is a native of Bennington. At the age of 10 his father died and he drifted to Rhode Island where he secured work in a drug store. He was a registered pharmacist at the age of 20. Mr. Smith is a graduate of Daggett School of Theory and Practice of Pharmacy, Calder School of Chemistry and Strickland School of Operative Pharmacy of Providence. He was graduated from the Rhode Island College of Pharmacy in the class of 1903 with a Ph. G. degree. Mr. Smith is registered in New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

He returned to Bennington in 1924 and opened a drug store which has come to be considered one of the best in its class in the state.

Mr. Smith is a member of Mystic lodge, No. 46, Knights of Pythias, and a member of Roosevelt company, No. 8, K. of P., Second Massachusetts regiment. He holds the rank of sergeant in the latter organization of which he is hospital steward.

Mr. Smith has three sons, one affiliated with the Rhode Island branch of a well known motor car manufacturing company; another a chemist with another automobile concern in Detroit and a third is at the University of New Hampshire taking up the study of entomology.

HARRY W. BROWN

P.O. Box 24, Bennington, N. H.

The construction work, at the what will some time be a new bridge, is still the chief attraction for most of the inhabitants, as well as many driving through. Just now one wonders how anybody can tell what results will be from the mixture of wires, stone, lumber, cement, etc.

The dinner, served by an efficient committee on the 26th ult., at the vestry, netted a goodly sum for the treasury. Mrs. Aaron Edmunds was the chairman; Mrs. Minnie Cady, Mrs. Dorothy Dodge, Mrs. Leonise Favor, Mrs. Arthur Harrison were the other members of the committee.

On Thursday evening, Nov. 2, the 48th anniversary of the Missionary Society will be observed in the vestry of the Congregational church, with Mrs. Ray Petty, of Deering Community Center, as the speaker. The public is cordially invited to attend which means men, women and children. Out of town people have also been invited and will be most welcome.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THERE'S a lot of talk about capital punishment every time some bozo that has killed three policemen and their wives and kids gets himself condemned to death. If the case is notorious enough, everybody quits talking about the case and talks about whether capital punishment is right or wrong.

Well, there was a lot of this discussion around the country lately. I heard about a woman that was called up for jury service, and she had been hearing the talk. She stood up when her name was called, and said: "I can't serve. I'm opposed to capital punishment!"

"That has nothing to do with the case you are called for," said the judge. "This is where a woman is suing her husband for damages because he is alleged to have called her a loquacious old bore in the presence of her friends."

"Oh, well," says the woman, "I'll serve them. Capital punishment is sometimes justified, I'll have to admit."

JOHN S. NESMITH

Native of Antrim Passes Away After Long Illness

For some time past, covering a period of nearly two years, John S. Nesmith had been in feeble health, and for several months had been confined to his room and bed, gradually failing till death claimed him, on Monday morning. He was well cared for during his entire illness, with a nurse in constant attendance. The nature of his sickness was such that he was not a great sufferer, and this in itself was a comfort to the family.

John Scott Nesmith was the son of Jonathan and Marietta (Morrill) Nesmith. The family removed from Antrim to Hancock in 1868, when they resided on the Calvin Hayward place, then returned to Antrim in 1881, and here they have since resided; the father and mother died several years ago. Deceased was born May 5, 1863 and for most of the time has resided in Antrim; in his earlier years he was away from town somewhat, and a few years back he spent some time in Staatsburg, N. Y. He married Georgie Anna, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Sawyer, who died a number of years ago; they had no children.

He was for some years associated with his brother, in the retail meat business, driving a delivery cart through this and adjoining towns; here he gained a wide acquaintance and made many friends. He was of a genial disposition and many will remember his cordial greeting wherever they chanced to meet him.

Deceased held membership in the several branches of Odd Fellowship, and was ever a faithful member and constant attendant at the meetings. The ritual of the Order was read at the funeral, and a goodly number of members attended. The survivors are one brother, George Miles Nesmith, and two sisters, Mrs. Annie M. T. Smith and Mrs. Addie M. Hutchinson, all of Antrim.

Funeral services are being held today Wednesday afternoon, from the home; Rev. R. H. Tibbals and Rev. William Patterson are the officiating clergymen. Interment will be in the family lot in Maplewood cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Roswell F. Hatch, of West Hartford, Conn., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Lois, to Henry B. Pratt, Jr., of Antrim.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal church will give a public supper, in their social rooms, on Wednesday, November 1, at six o'clock p.m.

Persons who are interested in the doings of Antrim, Bennington, and surrounding territory, and are not now subscribers to the Antrim Reporter, should take advantage of the special offer of the balance of the present year free for the price of one year's subscription. At 1.30 p.m., Mr. Ellinwood, connected with the Davey Tree Surgery Co., will give an illustrated lecture on "The Trees and Shrubs of New England." ## "Stop Advertising and the American public will forget you and your product overnight!" -----

Says an authority on advertising. This is the history of merchandising, and many are able to recall cases of this kind. Every year there are vital changes in 14 per cent of our population and advertising must take these changes into consideration. A merchant must advertise not only to hold and sell his old customers—but to make new customers, for the old population passes and the new is constantly appearing. In the former days it used to be said "competition is the life of trade." That has changed. Today advertising and co-operation are the life of trade. Cease to advertise and the public forgets you overnight.

Hate for Baby Gone Parents Now Want It

Future May Be Decided by State Referendum

Denver.—A state-wide referendum may decide the future of Baby Erkenbeck.

A movement has been started to have as many as possible of Colorado's citizens express unofficially through a newspaper pool what should be done with the "hate child" of Maynard and Margaret Erkenbeck, now an inmate of a home for dependent children.

On July 20, the father and mother of the tiny baby appeared in Denver's famous juvenile court with an amazing request. They swore that they never wanted the child, hated the sight of him, and wanted the state to take care of him.

They Want Freedom.

"We didn't want him; we don't want him now," the father, a regularly employed laborer, declared. "We want to be free to go here and there."

"Imagine, Judge, how you'd feel living always in the presence of something you detested."

Judge George H. Lerg of Golden, sitting on the juvenile bench in the absence of Judge Stanley Johnson, committed the child to the state home.

The father's work took him to Oregon. The mother remained in Denver. Although free to go "here and there," she chose to remain near her baby.

Daily she visits the state home, watches her baby being fed and holds him in her arms.

"In the same hour that my baby was taken from me, I knew we had done wrong and that I could not live without him," Mrs. Erkenbeck declared, as she pleaded with state officials to restore her child to her.

"We were impulsive and selfish. My husband isn't cruel. We loved each other. We had been together all the time since our marriage. When the baby was coming we didn't want him and when he came and interfered with what we wanted to do, we resented his presence—or thought we did."

Both Want Him Back.

"As a child I was brought up with twelve brothers and sisters. My father was a shoe cobbler, but mother and he were good to us and did everything they could for us. At twelve I went out to make my own living nursing babies. Children, children, children. That's all I knew. I wanted to be free. Maynard and I were happy as could be. Then our baby came. We had to change our ways. So we did this awful thing."

The father, too, has made up his mind that he must have the baby back.

"How is the baby getting along?" he asks in his letters from Oregon. "I hope you can get him soon, so we can all be together again."

Palace Neighbor Given Auto as Gift From King

London.—Motoring past Buckingham palace gardens recently, King George saw a car standing at the gate. Its paint work was spotted, but the lines betrayed its age.

A few days later Sister Agnes Keyser, to whom it belonged, was astonished to find in its place a brand new car of the same make as the king's and in the royal colors of maroon and scarlet. It was a gift from his majesty.

Sister Agnes, who conducts a hospital near the palace, is a close friend of the king and queen. She has her own key to the royal gardens and often strolls with the king.

Believe Egyptians Discovered America

Paris.—Neither Leif Ericsson nor Christopher Columbus discovered America, if Abbot Th. Moreux, director of the Bourges observatory, is right.

"An Egyptian expedition by the sea is very likely to have taken place in the days of the Pharaohs, says Abbot Moreux. "It is most probable that these Egyptians reached Central America long before the Christian era. They carried there the fruits of their own civilization and a very advanced astronomical science."

The Bourges astronomer recalls that the explorers of Columbus' day noticed the natives of America had the same names for constellations in the sky as the Europeans with whom they had had no relations whatever up to then.

Sleeping Sickness

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

Encephalitis, commonly known as sleeping sickness, still remains a mystery to the medical profession. The epidemic in St. Louis, which lasted about two months, caused the death of about two hundred persons. Many others suffered from the malady but recovered at least partially. The difficulty seems to be that the disease attacks one without warning, and no one has been able to ascertain exactly how it is contracted. Even the cause still remains a mystery. The germ or virus, or whatever the vital element is through which the disease is communicable, is still undiscovered. Specialists from several of our largest and most important laboratories have labored incessantly upon the task of isolating the germ. If this could be accomplished, an anti-toxin could be made which would arrest the disease. This was accomplished with the dreaded diphtheria and many other diseases which formerly took a heavy toll of life.

The means of transference is thought by some to be the secretions of the throat or nose, others believe that, like yellow fever, it is caused by the bite of the mosquito. Efforts to discover the secret were made by inoculating monkeys with organic matter taken from the bodies of those who had died from the disease. The ultimate value of this experiment has not yet been ascertained. Even though scientists are appalled at their inability to discover the cause, no energy, time or money was spared in their tasks. Much sacrificial work was done and still remains to be accomplished. If a remedy is to be provided.

Purdue Quarterback

Paul Pardonner, who as quarterback will direct Purdue's plays this season, is a veteran player, an expert drop kicker, punter and passer.

The element of heroism was conspicuously present in recent efforts to control the epidemic in St. Louis. The United States public health service issued a bulletin in which was this announcement, "Three unidentified scientists of St. Louis have submitted to bites from mosquitoes that previously had bitten sleeping sickness victims." Here is heroism of the highest order. These men were willing to risk their lives in efforts to discover the cause and cure of the malady. Their names may never be known, but when the remedy is finally announced the world will owe a debt of gratitude which it can never repay. Not self-preservation but self-sacrifice is the essence of true heroism.

Modest Tombstone Marks Grave of Great Engineer

Oakland, Calif.—A modest tombstone marks the Washington grave of Arthur Powell Davis, but his work as "America's greatest engineer" will serve to perpetuate his memory indefinitely.

Davis died recently at his home here after 18 months of illness. He left his mark on the physical face of the world as few other men have. He supervised building of 90 dams, severed two continents, united two oceans, built 15,000 miles of canals, put water on 2,000,000 desert acres, advised Russia how to reclaim another 10,000,000 acres of arid land and worked in every part of the globe.

The Household

By LYDIA LE BARON WALKER

There is work which is labor saving in itself. The work is preparatory. Unless these preparations have been made, and made correctly, the main task is more difficult and time-consuming. For example a mother saw her daughter attempting to do some sewing which should have been basted first. She said:

"You'll find that easier if you baste it first."

"I haven't time for that, I'll baste it afterwards," was the daughter's reply.

The mother knew it would take twice as long to do the sewing without the gatherers being evenly caught first with basting stitches. Later on, when the daughter became more proficient with her needle she used to laugh over her mistaken labor saving.

The person who takes clothes from a line and carelessly tosses them into the laundry basket, makes creases in them which must be ironed out. They were not there at first but were of her own making. Worse than this is the rolling up of sprinkled clothes without any attempt to smooth them before dampening down, or to keep them flat when rolled. The dampness sets the wrinkles, and makes scores of new ones, thus greatly increasing the work of ironing. It requires a little longer to keep the clothes smooth than to toss them about and roll them up in any fashion, but the task of ironing is increased in much greater proportion. The work of preserving the clothes from wrinkles is a labor-saving and time-saving method.

Extra Work.

Pouring hot water into a cold pitcher or china teapot, without first tempering the ware so that the chill is taken out, is neither time-saving nor money-saving. The pitcher is liable to break which means replacement outlay, to say nothing of the annoyance of having to wipe up the spilled water, and possibly scalding the hands.

Dishes can be dried much faster with a fresh towel, than with one previously used. So it is labor-saving to rinse dish towels after meals. This takes but a moment and in the end saves time. Putting things away in their proper places after using them is work which pays a good premium. Every one knows the time lost hunting for mislaid articles is out of all proportion to the little time it takes to put them in the proper places at first—and good tempers are sorely taxed, if not lost entirely while doing the necessary hunting. Covering an ink bottle, or well after writing, or putting the cap on a fountain pen, is the work of an instant, but it is labor-saving. If not covered dust settles in the ink left exposed in the well, and the pen trails wee, disgusting lines on the paper afterwards. The ink dries on an up-capped fountain pen and the flow is clogged. These are annoying incidents. A little preventive work would prove labor saving.

Window Draperies.

Window draperies may need renewing. Here outlay may prove a deterrent. If so, do not be discouraged. Dye the old ones if they are worth it, and are not too heavy for your own dye pot. If new hangings are imperative, you can do much with inexpensive materials, well chosen for color and deftly ornamented with your own needle. For example a fair quality of natural colored burlap, hemstitched at edges and having a running border made of the floral crochet applique with leaves and stems of a faded looking green, wool, and flowers in brown wool will be excellent. These colors will fit in with any color scheme. But if you wish to accent some particular color use it for the flowers. But be very careful to have the colors dull. Avoid any too brilliant hues. These hangings will not be appropriate with handsome furnishings. Italian, Spanish, French, etc., but are well suited to many styles, and to the usual type of home decoration.

It is better to have few ornaments, and these right, than many which are not correct. Avoid multiplicity of colors. Use brasses for lightening dark parts of rooms. They catch and reflect light. Watch for all details which combine to make good decoration.

PASSED UP ALL FOR CLAM PIE

Delicacy That Made Hit With "Sea Devil."

Jot Small was telling me about the time Count von Luckner ("the Sea Devil") visited Commander McMillen, of Arctic fame, in Provincetown, Mass.

"Mac brought the count and some other guests over here to my Galley for supper one night," Jot related. "And I just locked the doors after they got in, so we wouldn't be disturbed by no other customers."

"Well, it was a Saturday night, so of course the principal dish was baked beans. And after while, I got to noticing that Von Luckner didn't seem to care much for the beans. Oh, he was polite about it, all right, but he wasn't what you might call eager. He'd bread and he drank coffee, and he pushed the beans and the pork around on his plate and went through the motions. But beans wasn't his dish."

"So pretty soon I whispered to Mac, 'Do you think he'd like clam pie?'"

"Try him and see what happens," says Mac.

"So I cut a big wedge of clam pie and put it down by his plate. He looked at it, sort of uncertain, for a minute: Then he reached out his fork and cut off a little nibble. Then I seen his eyes kind of sparkle. He took a bigger bite. Then he took both hands and made a motion like a man swimmin', and pushed the beans one way and the coffee and bread the other, and pulled that pie right in front of him."

"By 'Grove,' he hollered, 'I haf found somedding!'"

"He swallered that wedge like a 'logfish stealin' bait, and he held out his plate for more. That happened 'three times, and then he'd eat the null dam pie. And every time he'd finish a piece, he'd say, 'By 'Grove, I haf found somedding!'"

"He'll be droppin' his hook in these waters again, some day. Because he's goin' to have a heck of a time tryin' to teach 'em to make clam pie in 'Germany!'" — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Vast Pampa Source of Welfare in Argentina

Argentina, richest of South American countries, draws its wealth from the pampa—a rockless, treeless sea of grass, 2,800 miles long and 900 miles wide, grazed by millions of head of stock. Feeding wild herds of horses and cattle, seed of the conquistadores' mounts and milk cows, have been scientifically bred up to the stable and the abattoir.

Calmer herds, tamer men. Almost gone is the gaucho, cowboy son of Spanish settler and Indian squaw. Apotheosis of the type was Dictator Juan Manuel Rosas, who a century ago routed the Indians, united his countrymen, and ruled in a palace, with a court jester. On the pampas only the pampero (cold wind, rain or hail storms) and locust plagues remain fiercely primitive.

Buenos Aires, with its 2,000,000, is Paris, Chicago and Panama in one. Quite effete now, it no longer flaunts in its Boca section advertisements of cheap, expeditious murder by expert assassins. For safety and comfort, wheeled traffic is barred from the city's shopping district between 4 and 8 p. m.—World's Work.

TRY THIS!
When children won't eat—and won't gain weight—

The youngster who has no appetite, probably has stasis. A little syrup of figs will soon correct this condition—then watch the child eat—and gain!

Mothers should never coax a child to eat. Nature knows best. Remove the cause of a youngster's poor appetite—get rid of stasis. Children who don't eat are sluggish. Read what the "California treatment" is doing for sluggish, listless children in every part of the country!

A POUND A WEEK. Your child will eat well from the day and hour you conquer sluggishness. But that girl or boy with furry tongue and a bad breath should not be dosed with salts!

Begin tonight, with lenough pure syrup of figs to cleanse the colon thoroughly. Less tomorrow, then every other day, or twice a week, until the appetite, digestion, weight, complexion, tell you the stasis is gone. When a cold or other ailment has again clogged the system, syrup of figs will soon set things to right.

When appetite fails, tongue is coated white, eyes are a bilious yellow, California syrup of figs will gently stimulate the colon muscles—and the child you used to coax to eat will fairly devour his food.

The claims made for California Syrup of Figs are true and it will do the same for you—if you get genuine CALIFORNIA Syrup of Figs. Don't accept any substitute.

Weekly Letter by George Proctor, Deputy Fish and Game Warden

Talk about your fellows that look ahead. Well, here comes down a 1934 calendar from Ned M. Pierce of Dublin, N. H. It's a lake scene and might be Dublin lake but for the coconut trees on the shore. Thanks, Ned.

Well, we are always doing the unusual and this past week was no exception. Attended two installations of American Legion officers in Wilton and Greenville. That new District Commander D. F. Sullivan is sure a live wire and we know that District No. 2 will go over the top as usual.

In riding around my district I see that quite a few of the farmers heed my advice and leave much corn on the shock in the field. This is a great help to the birds and no doubt saves the lives of thousands of the feathered friends. We know of several who have planted millet, kafir corn, soy beans, sunflowers—all of these are much appreciated by the birds.

This is the time of the year to put out bird boxes and by next spring they will be well weather beaten and all ready for the birds to take possession of. Painted boxes should be put up now so the odor of the paint will all be gone by the time they get back from the south.

Had a nice chat with Chief Nylander of Antrim the other night. He brought me down a "heinz" dog (57) varieties that he picked up and we just found him a fine home the next day. No one in the world will have a dog like that.

It was my pleasure one day this past week to take a seventy mile ride in a Lincoln. Well, the only difference I could see was that the telephone poles were passing in groups of three when there should have been only one. O boy, I would like a Lincoln, but only on the main roads. I would not give a nickel for a carload to run over my back roads.

If we had hit the big buck deer that we just missed by inches that hood of the big car would have been bent some, also the deer.

Believe it or not but Austin Holt, one of the town fathers at Lyndeboro saw a pure white skunk with just a narrow strip of black on the head. These animals are quite rare. In the same breath we are to tell you that Armand Morneau saw a bull moose in Wilton this past week on the Greenville road. Morneau was born in Canada and knows a moose when he sees one. Set he was down to see the "bear" that's been seen in New Ipswich. This boy was a big one. Guess he is the same one the Massachusetts papers have been telling about a week or so.

They tell us that a pair of skunks have been living under the Center School house at Wilton and have raised several broods under the house. They have a way of getting back and forth to the great out of doors. Who said the animals were not wise?

Although Christmas is several weeks away and by the bye, do your shopping early. We thought it was here last week. Santa was sure on the job. Listen. We had a horse and this is no "saw horse" gag. But a real honest-to-goodness four-legged horse that can buck if desired, a pair of pure black raccoons and several barrels of apples given to us last week. If that ain't a good start in for Christmas, well, you tell us.

In looking over a paper printed 25 years ago we came across an item that mentioned the writer as planting 20 cans of trout in the local brooks. In those days we used the old bay mare. A week later we planted 10 cans from the Federal government. And still at it.

We hear of a movement on foot to make all holidays and Sundays closed season the same as many of our sister states. Well, let me tell you it will mean just this: that you are killing the goose that laid the golden egg. A great many sportsmen come to this state just because we are liberal and let them hunt and fish on Sunday and the legal holidays. Thousands of dollars are coming now that we won't get if we are too strict.

SCHOOL BOARD'S NOTICE

The School Board meets regularly in Town Clerk's Room, in Town Hall block, on the Last Friday Evening in each month, at 7:30 o'clock, to transact School District business and to hear all parties.

ALICE G. NYLANDER, ARTHUR J. KELLEY, ROSCOE M. LAINE, Antrim School Board

According to the papers the state of Maine is to experiment with the wild turkeys. It is to import a lot of real wild birds and liberate them in favorable places.

Last week was game week. We have never heard of so many people report in as having seen plenty of mink, foxes, pheasants and deer. We saw early Sunday morning a brood of young pheasants with their mother, seven, and about the size of robins. This must have been the second or third brood this season.

If signs mean anything the boys are going out after the mink in grand shape after Nov. 1. Pete Frye of Wilton, the well known sportsman, traps nothing but mink which are all water sets. He claims that the mink do more damage to a brook than anything else. They are great trout eaters and will kill and store for future use.

Those four young otter which I mentioned several weeks ago are still in this section and were seen near West Wilton one day last week by someone who knows otters.

Have in the past week handed out several hundred trapping permits to the boys who play the game on the square. And these very boys are the ones who are going to help round up that bootleg trapper.

The basketball season is about to start and we are prepared for a good hot session. Wilton this year will support two teams, the W. H. S. and the Town team. Both teams are well managed and well coached and boy! watch our dust this winter.

Do you believe in being a good scout? Well here is your chance. Write a letter or a card to Carrier Salisbury of the Milford postoffice. He is locked up in the isolation hospital at Manchester with a bad case of typhoid fever. He is a mighty good fellow and the time is heavy on his hands just now. Thanks a lot.

Talk about the thrill that will last a life-time. Well, I got one last week. Met a party of four out-of-state hunters and in checking up one of the men said, "By the way, do you know the Wilton warden?" To which I replied that I had met him. When he found out I was the bird he said, "Well, I have got a bone to pick with you."

And then and there he began to pump handle my right flipper "till I was in hopes he would lose his wind. When he handed it back I had to pull the fingers apart to be sure I had them all again. Then he started something like this: "Three years ago my brother was very ill in a Nashua hospital and you were the means of pulling him back to health. A short item in your column brought to his bedside a bushel of letters which put new life into him. I suppose he has thanked you for it, and by heck! this is the first time I ever saw you I am going to second the motion." I got back in the car for fear he would want to shake again.

Talk about your thrill. I am still lame in the right wing. His brother was nothing like that. Fellow asked me the other day if I had ever seen any wolves in this part of the country. Sure I know where there are six that I can show you at any time. He was one of those guys from Missouri. So I took him up to Buckskin in Sharon and there were the wolves, but in pens.

That new ruling by the advisory board in relation to 10 raccoons a dog is a very wise move. The raccoons in this section are about a thing of the past. A few years ago the 'coon hunters got a hundred a season and thought nothing of it. It's a wise old saying: "You can't eat your cake and still have it." I was afraid that a closed season for several years would be put on. There will be no more pictures of nine 'coons taken in a one night hunt. It's a conservation measure pure and simple.

I'll leave it to you if it ain't a grand and glorious feeling to be called Santa Claus (without the whiskers). This is how it happened. One day last week I had a phone call to call at a certain place which I did. It was handed out a large box of clothing to do as I wished with. I know a place right on my line of march where I knew that box would do a world of good. And boy, it did! That's why I am known as Santa in that section.

A game warden is supposed to do about everything under the sun, but the other day I had an odd request. Was passing a farm when the owner ran out and asked if I was going by so-and-so's place five miles down the line. Sure. Will you take down a couple of bags for John. The bags proved to be two small pigs. Sure, I took 'em.

For odd passengers I bet I have got most of you readers beat for carrying odd live passengers. Well, I have carried live quill pigs, skunks, woodchucks, pigs, sheep, rabbits, hares, foxes, raccoons, blue this must mean the same as last herons, grey squirrels, red and chipmunks, mink, weasels, geese, ducks, crows, hawks, owls, dogs, cats, and males only.

all kinds of fish. No wonder it's a good car.

George G. Blanchard of Wilton, the well known naturalist, tells us that it makes no difference in which direction the birdhouse is set. They build in them in any direction. We always supposed that a house must face the south.

Here is a lady that writes to us saying she does not like the title, "Game Wardens." She would like to call us all "Game Protectors," the same as the government calls its wardens. Well, we don't care what they call us, if it's not late to meals.

Bumped into Tim Barnard of Nashua the other day. Tim and his sidekick, Goss of Derry, are very busy these days patrolling the border towns. There is plenty to do if you have border towns. We have a few ourselves.

A fish and game club in any town or community is a valuable asset to the sportsmen and to the department of fisheries and game. It has a great influence in a community. Take the Greenville Sportsmen's club of Greenville for instance. Every one of those 200 members has an obligation towards the state department and they are just as much game wardens as the man who has taken the oath of office. Some of the boys in that club have been the means of keeping the violations of fish and game down to a very small degree. They find a fellow stretching the law and they tell him in good, plain language and the next time he is turned over to the warden and the member comes in as a witness. That's why that part of my district is so clean. It's the same in any town where there is a club.

We have these fellows outside of a club that is always telling some yarn about a club member. But we have yet to find that the outside fellow ever proved his case. It makes no difference to us whether it's a club member or not if he breaks the laws that's his hard luck. On the other hand if a fellow thinks he can get by with a lot of wise stuff by just joining the club he is all wet. If he is a little slippery he can't join one of these clubs. The club boys see to that. So when you hear a guy running down a club and its officials you can make up your mind that he is the one that's all wet.

According to all the big sporting magazines the pheasant dates for New Hampshire says "No open season." They are wrong. The open season is from Nov. 1st to the 7th. Broadcast that to the boys.

The past week I have had a lot of calls for trained setters and pointers. What have you for sale? Did you ever read Louisiana Conservation Review, published in New Orleans, La? A snappy sheet. Two men in one of my towns were having a great argument. When I came along they decided that I should settle the argument. What is the age that a dog shall be licensed? I say 12 months while John here says six months. Well, if I was you gentlemen I would guess again and call it three months. And three it is. A great many people think a dog should not be licensed till next May. When a pup becomes three months of age he is liable to be shot unless licensed.

Ran into a lot of Warpack Trail trappers last Sunday p. m. The road up over Greenfield mountain is not of the best for a car, but we found a great many of them parked everywhere along the route. Most of them have got wise to the fact of locking their cars up when they leave. However, we found several cars on our route last Sunday that had left valuable property in wide open cars. It's a great compliment to our people but at the same time there might someone come along that won't be so honest.

Even now the trees in some sections are well colored up and very beautiful in some parts of my district. Some are well along on the winter route. Trees all bare. Don't forget that all duck hunting stops at sunset every night. As sunset varies from night to night it behooves you duck hunters to watch your almanac. The morning paper tells you when the sun rises and sets every day.

A lady asked me about a grey squirrel's tail. Her cat brought in a big grey and the tail was tacked up over the clock. The law reads, "And parts thereof." So you are liable if you have in your possession any parts thereof of any protected bird or animal.

Quite a few hunting dogs are still missing and their owners are anxious to find them. If you find a dog let us know at once so we can return it to the rightful owners. Don't tie up a dog and not advertise it in the nearest paper.

We know of one Nashua man that thinks we give service with a big "S." One night last week I had just hung up the receiver when a man knocked at the door. He said, "They tell me you can find my dog for me." "What's your name, Martin?" "Sure." "Well, your dog is at Jones' at Greenfield. They just phoned that they had picked up your dog." Quick work.

Last year the pheasant law read Nov. 1st to 6th, inclusive. This year the law says Nov. 1st to 7th. So rabbits, hares, foxes, raccoons, blue herons, grey squirrels, red and chipmunks, mink, weasels, geese, ducks, crows, hawks, owls, dogs, cats, and males only.

State Library Urges Increased Use of Facilities

Every Tax Payer a Part Owner, Librarian Points Out

If you want to know what folk are thinking about, there's an easy way to find out, according to Thelma Brackett, the new state librarian. Just watch the books that circulate in any large library. That is one of the book barometers a librarian uses, and Miss Brackett reports that she is learning much about New Hampshire through the requests she gets. These requests indicate that some New Hampshire residents use the state library fully. Others, however, have an air of apology in asking for a book, as if they were applying for a favor rather than exercising a privilege. Indeed, comments of residents all over the state show a surprisingly confused conception of the functions of the state library.

By some it is considered a law library exclusively, by others genealogical; some do not know that they may borrow books by applying in person, others that they may borrow by mail. Actually, the library is one for general reference. On the first floor is the law department, which often by its technical appearance dampens the visitor's flame of interest before it is well alight. Yet upstairs and down are books on history, the sciences, arts and crafts, technology, and many another subject. Fiction and children's books are not included, nor are those books of non-fiction valuable solely as "light reading." Any resident of the state may use the collection; every tax-payer is a part owner—and why should any owner hesitate to make good use of his own property?

No Red Tape Borrowing a state library book, Miss Brackett says, involves no red tape at all. Whether in person, by Uncle Sam's messenger service or, better yet, through the local librarian, a request is made. The borrower gives name and address, and agrees to return the book by the date stamped inside the cover. Most books may be borrowed for one month, with privilege of renewal unless there has been a prior request for it. The library will gladly reserve any book that is out at the time it is asked for. Some books go out for a period shorter than a month. These include genealogies. A very few—besides the law books, which remain within the building for consultation at any time—do not circulate at all, because they are constantly needed to answer questions and supply information.

Naturally many questions come in, and often they require considerable effort before the answers are found. There was the patron interested in drums who offered what almost proved a poser. "What British ship," he asked, "sank with all on board lined up and the long roll being played on the drums?" It took May Lambertson Becker and the British Navy League to run that one down. But the library finds it easy to answer the general run of questions—how to wind an armature, designs for craft workers, helps in identifying trees, the best methods of display advertising, the fundamentals of Buddhism.

Magazines a Help Keeping up with the shifting world is not so easy a problem. By the time a good book on a subject is bought and in circulation, a political volcano may have erupted and quite changed the face of the situation involved. Yet periodicals of many sorts will help borrowers here. It would pay anyone interested in present-day problems to acquaint himself with the state library's periodical list. A new ruling of the trustees allows magazines to be borrowed as soon as no longer current. Formerly they did not circulate until bought. Miss Brackett says that when the subscriptions are revised this fall for purchase during the coming year, anyone interested may obtain a list of magazines subscribed to. She feels that certain of the publications should be better known, because of their trustworthiness and unbiased treatment of current topics.

Increased Leisure Libraries, according to Miss Brackett, should be one of the most active agencies in developing a wide spending of leisure time. Whether a man wishes to build a rock garden, acquire a bowing acquaintance with the stars, teach his wife to drive the family car, or understand the strange workings of a certain machine, he should be able to find books in the library to help him. And twenty-four times out of twenty-five he can. But with limited funds, a man should be exact in covering an unlimited field. The library must inevitably leave some requests unfiled. Yet the collections are constantly being improved. Meantime, it has so much to offer that no precious leisure need be wasted.

New Hampshire residents are being actively encouraged to turn for recreation to the handicrafts. That they are doing so is indicated by the heavy demand for books on the crafts, of which the state library has in the last six months acquired a creditable number. Whether the worker is picking a quilt, designing wrought iron, or learning to letter, he will find help in the books available.

Other borrowers are turning in increasing numbers to the out-of-doors, following New Hampshire trails in studying the history of the country, side, studying flora and fauna, cultivating gardens. In the spring many were purposefully gazing at the stars. The books on these subjects have been increased in an effort to keep pace with the demand.

A realization of the possibilities of a richer life with increased leisure, and perhaps of a lessened tendency to keep up with the Joneses, is indicated by the steady demand for books such as "How to Live on Twenty-Four Hours a Day; Hambridge's Time to Live; Adventures in the Use of Leisure; and Martin's Meaning of a Liberal Education."

That folk are thinking of the possible shaping of the work of the future is indicated by demands for more books like Miller's Beginnings of Tomorrow and Soule's Planned Society. Thus, Miss Brackett concludes, New Hampshire's activities and interests may be enhanced by increased use of state library facilities.

RED CROSS RELIEF AIDS DISTRESSED IN 120 DISASTERS

Help Given in Fires, Floods, Earthquake and Epidemics Part of Year's Task

The American Red Cross has reached into the homes of six million families in the past year with unemployment and disaster relief, Chairman John Bar-to-Payne announced.

"As the year closed the organization continued in readiness to serve in the forthcoming winter at the point of greatest need and to adjust its service to meet the calls of the emergency of unemployment and disaster," Chairman Payne stated.

In a year of greatest economic distress in the nation's history, in which the Red Cross ably discharged a relief task in distributing food and clothing to distressed families in all but six of the nation's 3,098 counties, the organization also was called into action in 120 disasters, of which 96 were within the borders of the United States.

Earthquakes, floods, hurricanes, fires and other cataclysms visited death and destruction upon the lives and homes of thousands of people. Red Cross statistics showed that in the 120 disasters almost a thousand lives were lost, 148,340 homes were destroyed or damaged, 13,275 persons were injured, and Red Cross relief was given to 452,879 individuals.

In giving aid in these disasters, in its unemployment relief and in handling the distribution of government wheat and cotton, the Red Cross expended from its national treasury the sum of $1,070,284.

During one period of twelve weeks, 46 disasters occurred in 23 states. Red Cross disaster workers were hard pressed in meeting all of these needs occurring at once, but everywhere misery was promptly relieved.

Support of the Red Cross work is through its annual roll call, conducted by chapters in the period from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, November 11 to November 30. Every citizen who joins the Red Cross as a member aids in carrying relief to disaster victims and in other Red Cross services, such as preservation of life, child welfare through the Junior Red Cross, and direct service for the public health.

RED CROSS CLOTHES THE NATION'S NEEDY

Flour, Bread, Clothing Reach Into More Than Five Million Homes of Jobless

The greatest task ever undertaken by a relief agency in the history of private charity is drawing to a close with the final distribution of cotton clothing to more than five million families by the American Red Cross.

At the direction of the Congress, beginning eighteen months ago, the Red Cross undertook to convert the wheat and cotton surpluses of the Farm Board into food and clothing for the unemployed and needy. In the consequent operation, this relief agency entered upon a commercial enterprise greater than any single commercial firm has ever undertaken in the same period of time.

In the ensuing months the Red Cross converted 85,000,000 bushels of wheat into flour and bread and gave it to 5,803,000 families. The distribution was through 3,700 Red Cross chapters and hundreds of other charitable agencies. During the severe northwestern drought of 1931 the Red Cross also gave wheat in the form of food for livestock to 184,188 families.

The clothing—dresses, underwear, overalls, jumpers, sweaters and stockings for men, women and children, and even blankets and comforters—was distributed to 5,465,410 families. More than 54,000,000 ready-made garments and 32,000,000 yards of cotton cloth were given to the needy. This clothing came from 844,000 bales of cotton.

The wheat distribution was concluded in June, 1933, and final distribution of cotton clothing is occurring in the fall months.

In handling these tasks voted to it by Congress, the Red Cross will expend from its own treasury $735,000. At the same time the organization carried on its regular program of disaster relief; of service to the veterans of all our wars; of educational and welfare work through the Junior Red Cross; of health education and public health nursing and of life saving and first aid. Funds for this work come from the membership roll call the Red Cross chapters conduct from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, when every one is invited to join the Red Cross and aid in this vital relief work.

Seven hundred thousand women volunteers under the Red Cross banner sewed for the needy last year and many thousands still are making cotton garments for their Red Cross chapters.

The Red Cross has 3,701 chapters and 10,000 branches of chapters. Thus it can be mobilized nationwide in a great relief task within 24 hours.

THE OLDEST LIVING THING

The oldest living thing known in the world is the redwood tree named General Sherman in Sequoia National Park, California, reports "Boys' Life," the monthly journal of the Boy Scouts of America. This tree "is as old as history itself, having begun to grow between 4,000 and 5,000 years ago. It was a large tree before the golden age of Greece, before the Egyptian pyramids were built," continues "Boys' Life." "It was at least 2,000 years old when Christ was born."

"This tree is still in its prime. Despite its age and the damage to its base by forest fires of countless centuries, it has continued to flourish and today produces thousands of cones from which young plants grow. This tree," continues Boys' Life, "stands 273 feet high and is 102 feet in circumference at the base. At one hundred feet above the ground it is fifty-eight feet around its trunk. There is enough lumber in its trunk to build five hundred five-room houses."

The hardboiled captain had knocked one of his sailors overboard.

"Help! Help!" yelled the seaman, "I can't swim. Drop me a line."

The captain leaned over the rail and smiled sweetly: "Oh, yes, dear, and you write me sometimes, too."

LIARS?

"I have read that 'All men are liars, but a few are not,' said an unsuccessful candidate after last year's election.

"That some voters lied to me is true, or else the ballots were not counted squarely," he continued. "I prefer to believe that promised votes experienced a change of heart when voters marked their ballots."

"Nevertheless, it is very disconcerting to make a campaign, talk with men and women, and receive sufficient pledges to make you feel certain that victory will be yours on the day of the election."

"I feel like having a strict law that will not permit a candidate to personally seek a vote, and also prohibiting voters from openly expressing their preference, and really having a real secret ballot."

"Such a condition would save many voters from just plain lying and deception. Candidates, too, wouldn't feel the shock of defeat when success had been assured through pledges."

WHERE TIRES GO

At sometime or another the person who has occasion to buy auto tires wonders where the old ones go. Most people believe they are salvaged by the tire factories and the rubber reclaimed. But a writer in a New York paper says not. He points out that America exports about 50,000,000 pounds of old tires yearly to Mexico, China, Spain and Portugal, whose people get additional "mileage" out of them—as foot-gear.

Spain is the best market for these old tires. There a type of shoe known as the "arabaca" with soles cut from old tires, has become very popular. China is the next best market, where the coolies also use them for shoe soles. Such shoes bring about three cents a pair. In Portugal shepherds use old tires to make overshoes. Casings are used as supplemental soles and heels on wooden shoes. At the country fairs of Portugal stands dealing in used American tires and tubes are very common.

JOHN M. PRESCOTT

WELL DRILLING

30 Years in the Well Business
Water Systems to Fit Your Need
Septic Tanks and Plumbing
Prices Reasonable

In Concord at No. 7 Ormund Street, phone Concord 3046, has been a great aid to the progress of this part of the state by reason of the very modern and scientific service in well drilling, and has many satisfied patrons in this community.

There is nothing so essential to the general welfare and health of the people as pure water. To drink water with any form of impurities is to simply court disease in many forms.

The well drilling business is of modern creation and one of the necessities of later day civilization. In the first days of digging wells men posed as water witches and would go around with a forked stick and claim to tell where there was a spot to dig for water, but with the advancement of science and the spreading of the knowledge of geology came the modern and scientific well driller. The management of this concern has made a deep study of the geological formation of this section of the country and are able to tell how deep you will have to go and thus render the most advanced service.

He has a most complete mechanical equipment for quick and expeditious work and has men in his employ who thoroughly understand the business.

If you are figuring on a well all you have to do is call here and he will promptly go and look over your place, give you an estimate on the job complete, drill the wells, lay the pipes, build the water towers and see that everything is placed in perfect operation.

In this review we are glad to compliment John M. Prescott upon his great success and to say that it is well deserved as he is rendering a great service for the people in these days of difficulty of obtaining a pure water supply.

Mother—"Bobby, didn't you do anything else but eat at the Sunday school?"

Bobby—"Yes, mother. We sang hymns we sang one called, 'We Can Sing, Full Throat We Be.'"

Mother—"What?"

But the Sunday school teacher told Bobby's mother later on that the hymn was "Weak and Sinful Though We Be."

THE LEAVITT COMPANY

It is not generally known outside of the mercantile world that the modern institution known as the department store, is one of the most complex arrangements of our modern commercial life.

To begin with, a department store of service, not merely in the sense of searching the world's markets and bringing the choicest products to the people of Manchester and surrounding territory at the lowest possible prices consistent with modern merchandising. The Leavitt Company, located at 855 Elm Street in Manchester, embodies all these principles and it is under direction of one of the ablest merchants in this section of New Hampshire. For years they have given Manchester and surrounding territory the latest vogues and the most dependable merchandise, and among their long and constantly growing list of customers, there are many who would not think of going elsewhere to do their shopping, for they have found full well that regardless of what they want, it is to be found in ample variety in The Leavitt Company's store at prices that always compare favorably. It is a notable fact that the salespeople at The Leavitt Company's store seem to always have a friendly greeting for customers and that is the result of the fair and cooperative manner in which the store treats its sales force.

PUREBRED POULTRY—THE START TO BETTER THINGS

The farm family who will succeed this year will be not only a working family, but a "working together" family; they should pull together with all the ardor and fighting determination of a football team. In discussing this idea a farm paper presents the following suggestion:

"Poultry also offers an opportunity for the women and girls and children on the farm to add to the family income. Of course, when Dad and the larger boys are idle, they ought not to throw all the poultry work on the rest of the family. But during most of the year when the stronger members of the family are busy tending, breaking the land, harrowing, planting, cultivating, and harvesting, the rest of the family can look after the hens, the chicks, and the eggs. For that $500 More will yield only to united effort.

Poultry raisers should remember these four things:
Purebred fowls,
Cleanliness from A to Z
Standardized products
Cooperative marketing.

SOME JUMP

It was on a dark night. A trainman on top of a car was giving signals to the engineer, when he dropped and broke his lantern. Another man on the ground tossed his lighted lantern up to the man on top of the car.

In a few minutes the fireman, who was a new employe, came back and called to the man on top: "Let's see you do that again."

"Do what?" asked the brakeman.

"Jump from the ground to the top of a box car," answered the fireman.—Railway Employees' Journal.

The word "baby" was formerly applied to any child, but, according to Webster, is now usually restricted to an infant in arms.

FRED C. JONES & COMPANY

GENERAL MERCHANDISE CLOVER FARM STORES

Never was the word general so important and never did it cover so much ground as when it became part of the phrase, "general store." What an institution is the general store; what a field it covers; what a service it renders. Think of a large community covering many miles of territory and all these people depending on the general store for their household requirements. They go to the general store when times are good and when times are bad they still go there and find a friend. They may go there for merchandise and then again they may drop in to get some advice concerning a problem in hand and they always get the same sympathetic reception.

Take for example Fred C. Jones, who conducts his store at East Weare in the State of New Hampshire. There is a man who has more friends in ratio to the population than any man of affairs in a metropolitan city. He is known to everyone in the entire community and he is a man whose word is his bond.

Mr. Jones knows the sources of supply, where he can buy a reasonable lot of merchandise of dependable quality cheap enough to sell at a price his patrons expect to pay. Moreover he only expects a small profit. He may not enjoy the earnings of a city merchant but he is doing a yeoman service for his community and every man, woman and child look to him as one of their leaders who are helping to make their lives easier. That is the privilege of Fred C. Jones, who is a citizen to be proud of.

A bald-headed man who has heard that the hairs of our heads are numbered, wants to know if there is not some place where he can get the back numbers.

Mrs. Jones: "There! Broke my looking-glass! Now, I suppose I shall have seven years' bad luck?"

Mrs. Brown: "Don't you believe it, Mrs. Jones. A friend of mine broke hers, and she didn't have seven years' bad luck. She was killed in an explosion next day!"

"How come?" said McTavish; "Where's the other boy?"

"Him and me tossed up to see who'd caddy for you," said the boy.

"Oh," much impressed with the apparent honor.

"And so ye won, did ye, laddie?"

"No, indeed," said the boy, "I lost."

NEW CONCORD THEATRE

This studio is furnishing to the people the very latest and most select of high class photo plays. These plays are all clean and the themes are selected with great care so that the ladies and their children of the surrounding territory know this theatre as their moving picture home. A quiet air of refinement pervades the audiences and this accounts for the large patronage from all classes of people. This modern policy of the management has brought autoists from surrounding towns and the city to recognize this theatre as their favorite amusement center.

If you have not formed the show habit you ought to. Go down some evening though you have put in a hard day's work and you will be refreshed and all the more ready for your next day's work. Take the whole family with you as the price is reasonable. High class features from some of the leading producers of the country are the kind of productions shown here. In making this review of the social life of this part of the state we are glad to compliment the management upon the popularity of this theatre and upon the position it occupies in the life of the people.

Says Editor Green, of the Colorado Springs Farm News: "The statistical association, after the usual 'exhaustive' study, finds that the average American family is worth $12,000. That being true, then somebody has cheated us out of about $11,917. The dirty crook!"

"Henry," whispered his wife. "I'm convinced there's a burglar downstairs." "Well, my dear," replied her husband crossly, "I hope you don't expect me to have the courage of your convictions."

CONSTITUTION THE WORK OF MANY MASTER MINDS

In none of the relatively meager records of the Constitutional convention is the authorship of any part of the constitution definitely established. The delegates debated proposed plans until on July 26, substantial agreement having been reached, a committee on detail was appointed to prepare a formal draft of the document, which is unknown reported on August 6 a draft that included a preamble and 23 articles, embodying 43 sections. Debate continued until September 8, when a new committee to revise the former draft was named.

This committee included Dr. William Samuel Johnson, Alexander Hamilton, Governor Morris, James Madison and Rufus King. Its work is believed to have been largely that of Governor Morris. That is nearly as the authorship of any part of the final text of the Constitution can be identified it may be said, however, that the great document was in reality not written but was built slowly and laboriously as a great edifice might be constructed, with not a piece of material included until it had been shaped and approved all the master artisans having a hand in the task.

POKER AND STOCK GAMBLING

One of our Western exchanges tells about a fine couple in its home town who are able to live on ninety dollars a month. My, $90 a month! That would seem like a fortune to many couples in this nation. Yet here is what the editor says about them: "They are not in debt. They pay cash as they go. They live, of course, in a small flat where rent is low. They attend church and contribute. They have a small car, paid for, use it very moderately. They both belong to the Red Cross and other helpful organizations. They contribute substantially to the relief fund. Their newspaper subscription is paid in advance. There is a modest savings invested in life insurance. In attire they are always neat and, of course, clean. They are frugal and waste nothing. They are not worried about meeting installment payments, for there are none." This sounds like a model couple and they are setting a fine example. We wish every family in the land could have as much as $90 a month these days.

"See here, waiter," he said, "what do you mean by staring so rudely at this lady?"

"Oh, I'm not meaning to be rude, sir," said the waiter in surprise; "It's admiration I have for the lady. This is the seventh time she has been down to supper tonight."

WM. V. TOONEY & COMPANY

FIRE PROTECTION EQUIPMENT
HEATING ENGINEERS AND CONTRACTORS.

Approved Oil Burners Including General Electric Oil Furnaces

At 71 Railroad Street in Keene is the leading distributor of fire extinguishers and supplies in this part of the state. Let them explain the many advantages of their equipment.

One of the most important factors in the upbuilding of a community is the proper protection of property. Through the installation of fire protection equipment your insurance rates are lower. The savings in insurance premiums will pay for the equipment in a short time. Many buildings that were completely ruined by the red monster fire, might have been saved had there been sufficient means to combat it at the start. This is particularly true in rural communities where there are no fire departments to give instantaneous service to a call.

Their equipment is suitable for installation in factories, mills, stores, warehouses, homes and all other buildings.

Ask yourself the question, have I ample fire protection? Look over your place and make sure. Call them over the phone or write them, and a representative will make a survey of your property. He will give you valuable information and suggestions. A few minutes time with him today may mean the savings of a lifetime tomorrow.

The men connected with this company are public spirited individuals upon whose word you can depend. The equipment handled by them has been passed by the board of underwriters. Convenient terms can be arranged for the installation of units in your building at any time.

In making this review we wish to refer them to all our readers as a company most worthy of your earnest consideration.

JOY IN THE HILLS

Half the world doesn't know how the other half lives. A Kansas City reporter recently found a pretty story in the Ozark mountains, a region often thought of as too remote from the "gay white way" of the big cities to be interesting. He found there a happiness that harks back to the early days of this country; family visitings during the long winter evenings, with an accompanying feast of apples, nuts, molasses taffy and—best of all—old-fashioned neighborly conversation. Noticeable return of this same spirit since times became a little more hard. Conditions seem to have made the company and friendships of neighbors more valuable; people are actually growing more thoughtful of each other and more helpful to others than they were in the "jazz age," when everybody was too busy spending money and having a good time to think of his neighbors. Half the world may not know how the other half lives, but if conditions remain as they are a few years longer they're going to find out.

OLD MAN WORRY

Those men who are heard to declare every now and then that "it's going to be crazy" probably would be offended if someone would come back with the statement that they ought to know what they are talking about. Yet "going crazy" seems to have become a habit in this country. In the eighteen states that keep dependable records the frequency of mental diseases has increased 100 per cent in the past ten years, according to medical reports. Of course a vast majority of these cases can be traced to worry. It is useless to tell people not to worry. Yet those who stick closely to the pursuit of happiness, and who keep telling themselves that everything is going to come out all right are seldom numbered among Old Man Worry's victims. It is only human nature to worry. But worrying just for the sake of having something to do, or growing into the belief that anything is so bad that it couldn't be worse is the saddest mistake a human being can make.

IS MACHINERY AN ADVANTAGE?

Senator Black, of Alabama, who was behind the 30-hour work week bill which passed the Senate recently, told a real truth of how the people are being crucified by greed when he said: "Instead of the advantage of improved machinery going to consumers and to the men who work, it has gone to increase the tolls of those who own the plants. They have built and overbuilt, until they find themselves crucified on their own cross of greed and unable to sell their product because they have robbed the laborer of an ability to buy."

Bum: "This big Italian fighter has to have a bed over seven feet long."

Nearly every person has "stupid" days. If you do not, you are fortunate. On such days it is not hard to become irritated with oneself when the mind is slow to grasp ideas. To give way to anger and disgust is to use up energy which should be saved for the main task. It is like an athlete so wearing himself out in practice that he fails in competition.

889 Cures for Seasickness—None Any Good

Women are more subject to seasickness than men; brunettes are more likely to be seasick than blondes. Deaf mutes are immune to seasickness, and so are babies. Children are better sailors than adults. There is no record of death ever having occurred as due directly to seasickness. Americans are more likely to be seasick on the way home than when sailing toward Europe.

These are some of the facts about seasickness revealed by Dr. Frank Stewart, chief surgeon of the Steamship Leviathan, from a study of statistics covering several decades.

"Seasickness is nothing for the average person to view with alarm," he writes in the American Magazine. "Unpleasant it may be, but dangerous, no. Anyone can miss a few meals, and most of us are better off for it."

"Technically speaking, there's no such disease as seasickness. The seat of the trouble is in the three microscopically small canals of the middle ear. Set at right angles to each other and filled with a semi-viscous liquid, they govern the body's equilibrium. Shake your head back and forth so fast that the fluid in these tiny canals cannot keep up with the movement, and you'll get dizzy. Keep the disturbance up long enough—as in bad weather at sea—and you'll get a reflex action on the nerves of the stomach.

"There are 889 'cures' for seasickness, and none of them are any good. I prescribe bromides, because they quiet the nerves. But there's no cure. How quickly a person gets over it, depends on how quickly his semicircular canals accommodate themselves to the ship's roll."

LIGNITE OR BROWN COAL

Brown coal, as it is often known, lignite is vegetable matter in the early stages of coal formation. From a geological standpoint it occupies a position between peat and sub-bituminous coal. Lignite breaks and crumbles easily in handling and for this reason it is often difficult to burn. It ignites rapidly but yields only a moderate amount of heat.

THEY WANTED SHOT

Zeke, Tim and Joe, three timid boys entered the village hardware store. The rather gruff proprietor said to the oldest, "What do you want Zeke?"

"A dime's worth of BB shot please." The old man climbed a ladder, brought down the shelf box that contained the air-rifle shot, made up the packet and returned the box to the shelf above. Then he asked the second boy, "What do you want, Tim?"

"A dime's worth of BB's please," was the meek answer.

"Why didn't you say so before?" said the old man, "ritably, as he went for the ladder again. He turned up the packet as before, and then made up the shot.

"And do you want a dime's worth of BB's too?" he demanded.

"No," replied Joe, hesitatingly.

The old man climbed laboriously to the shelf again and deposited the box of shot. Then he returned to the counter.

"Well, my boy, what do you want?" he demanded of Joe.

"A nickel's worth of BB shot," said

"Say, Chapman was so drunk last night he sold the Infirmary."

YOUTH HAS MANY OPPORTUNITIES, SAYS SENATOR DAVIS

The oft-repeated cry that youth has few opportunities today is scouted by Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, writing in the July issue of Moses Magazine. "It is wonderful to be young today," he writes. "Scams on the person who says that opportunity is dead! The world is calling for just such young Americans as are being graduated from our schools this June. In every quarter of the globe you will find our young men and women concerned with the progress of humanity, whether it be in an industrial and economic way, or for the betterment of social conditions. Already the world is weary of depression and is beginning to discard old methods and call for new. In this awakening there will come greater opportunity than ever before."

EARTH'S AGES-OLD PAST LINKED WITH SEQUOIAS

The mind can scarcely grasp the stretches through which the history of the Sequoias takes us far beyond all-recorded time, back to the Mesozoic and Moziene pedods millions of years ago when weird monsters like the dinosaur and the dinotherium roamed over the face of the earth and long before man or animals of any existing type had yet begun their age-long process of evolution, Richard St Barbe Baker writes, in the Washington Post.

Eons ago these mighty trees grew densely in many parts of the world. No less than 45 species of redwood have been described from the fossil beds of the northern hemisphere. In North America the climate factors were such as to favor their persistence only in California, where they are making their last stand. Unfortunately they are disappearing too rapidly, as they are greatly in demand for lumber, but than to a few public spirited citizens, many examples of these stately trees have been preserved for posterity.

BE A GOOD SPORTSMAN

You fishermen, take heed! Talbot Denmead, of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries, who has a lot to do with the protection of game fish in this country, says the problem of preventing the unnecessary death of undersized fish inadvertently hooked by anglers is becoming a very important one.

He points out that every undersized fish which dies as a result of either being hooked or rough handling deprives some angler of the privilege of hooking a good-sized, fighting fish at some later date. The death of each little fish also places more pressure upon the already busy propagators of game fish who are striving to keep the lakes and streams of Uncle Sam's domain reasonably well stocked.

So, you gentlemen who love to fish and who recognize it for what it is—one of the greatest sports in the world—won't you be careful in future to unhook the little fellows without injury to them, and then toss them back into the stream, that they may furnish you or your neighbor good sport a little later on?

WORLD'S BEST LINGUISTS

It has been repeatedly declared that Americans are not good linguists, and that they have more difficulty than other peoples in learning foreign languages.

NOW COMES SCIENCE and expounds that theory, by showing that there are more different languages and dialects in the American continent than anywhere else in the world.

According to figures gathered for Collier's Weekly, there are 3,424 different tongues in the world. The two Americas, North and South, have 1,824 of these.

In other words, the western hemisphere, with only 11 per cent of the world's population, has 47 per cent of the world's languages.

Nardini's Restaurant

A LUNCH OR A FEAST ALWAYS OPEN

Located at 6 North Main Street in Concord, phone Concord 13. They offer a catering service of real excellence and it is unsurpassed in serving weddings. They also give special attention to lunches for churches, lodges, clubs, parties and social events and will take complete charge of all details. If you arrange with them to do the catering you may rest assured that the luncheon will be a complete success.

Society hostesses rely on this service for a true friend in the time of need. If the household does not afford a retinue of servants to maintain it throughout the year the occasional big party is quite a burden to any woman, regardless of how efficient she may be. Well trained servants who go out for occasional parties are scarce and difficult to obtain. Realizing this need the catering establishment has sprung into vogue. They maintain a corps of well trained servants, schooled in the etiquette of service. They have cooks who can prepare a meal every day in the year and never follow the same menu or recipe. They can conjure up the most rare delicacy and combine charming viands that will please the most blasé appetites. Ladies can be sure that their menu will be original and well served when they call on them.

Their china, silverware and appointments are of the very best and this coupled with their splendid service, delicious foods and reasonable charges made this service truly perfect. In making this review of the progress of the period we are glad to compliment Nardini's Restaurant upon the popularity of the service and upon the position they occupy in the life of the people.

It is a strange desire to seek power and to lose liberty.

COBURN MOTOR SERVICE

GAS AND OIL

At No. 63 Elm Street in Milford, is a very popular stopping place for local motorists and tourists from all the states, as they offered a most convenient service.

This service station handles good gasoline and motor oil. Their excellent line has been tested and found to be the very best on the market today, in fact, just a little better than what you thought was the very best. The great satisfaction that they are giving is winning new customers all the time.

They feature excellent products which have obtained an enviable reputation as being among the highest test gasoline and oil of the day. It makes no difference whether it is for the passenger car, truck or tractor, you will find they have fuel that will suit your needs. They have made a study of this feature of the trade and especially of the kinds of oil demanded for this climate.

Expert crankcase service is a feature at this station. All you have to do is to drive in and they will change the oil in your engine. The service is a great accommodation to motorists and aids in keeping the engine in fine condition.

FORCE OF HABIT

During a hold-up in Chicago a young male stenographer was hit by a bullet. Thinking he was mortally wounded, he whispered to a friend:

"Write to Mamma. Give her my love, and tell her my last thoughts were of her. Carbon copies to Sadie, Peggy and Kathleen."

ATTACK THE REAR.

Discovering that he hadn't any money, he approached the taxi driver:

"Say, I haven't any money, is my face good for my fare?"

"No!"

"Well, then, I guess you'll have to collect on the other end."—Sun Dial.

He: "I can tell you the score of this football game before it starts."

She: "What is it?"

He: "Nothing to nothing—before it starts."

BAY STATE ARTESIAN WELL CO.

ARTESIAN WELL CONTRACTORS

WILL SOON BE IN THEIR NEW OFFICE AND BUILDING ON THE PEMBROKE ROAD

Now located at 23 School Street, Post Office Box 318, in Concord, phone Concord 98.

Every farmer and stock raiser knows what it means to him and his farm to have a constant flow of pure water on it. Sometimes such a running well comes without assistance, but in most cases it is necessary to drill considerably for them.

In the early days we formed pools or basins in which to collect water screened through the sand and gravel. Then with the aid of a bucket and rope we would bring it to the surface for drinking and cooking. In time we discovered that such wells also drained matter from the top soil and germs soon filled our well, so instead of drinking health we are soon drinking disease.

Today I am sure none would think of drinking out of an open well or basin unless it was fresh spring water with a constant flow. With a modern well drilled to distant depths we get below the water line and in time the water strains through several layers of sand and gravel, giving us at the top of the well a healthy almost scientifically pure water.

Possibly you can have a running well on your property. At least you can employ Bay State Artesian Well Company to start drilling for same. Sometimes it is obtained at a reasonable depth, but in most cases it takes a deep well to produce a good flow of water.

In many well drained sections people are fortunate to be able to pump with power pumps at great depths any water at all. So we should be grateful to find water so near the surface.

As a nation we must depend upon adequate water supply, so must we depend upon master well drillers to supply the conveniences. We consider their profession most worthy in this Business Men's Review.

BAA-A-A

Things that a fellow thinks don't amount to a darn sometimes pile up a mountain of grief. Last night my wife was working a crossword puzzle and she looked up and said, "What's a female sheep?" And I said "ewe" and then the battle started.

"We don't care what you think; we want to know what you know!" shouted the lawyer.

"Well, I may as well get off the stand, then," said the witness. "I can't talk without thinking. I ain't no lawyer."

He calls his girl "impromptu"—because she makes up as she goes along.

TODD'S HIGHWAY EXPRESS

FREIGHT AND EXPRESS

Phones Wilton 66, Hillsboro 30, and Boston Capitol 6130

With headquarters on Main Street in Wilton, is very popular with the people of this section of the state as they offer a most modern freight service. Their charges are very reasonable and it has been conservatively estimated that this line has saved the people of this section of the state many dollars in freight rates.

This concern is meeting with success as they solve the transportation problems, and offer first class accommodation. They are prepared better than ever to carry express, which adds in the promotion of agriculture and commerce in the territory they serve.

When this very modern service was put in operation, traffic in this section was greatly aided and with their ample facilities they offered a service that should be appreciated by the public.

Their service aids a great deal in making this city a more metropolitan place in which to live.

During the course of their career in the community they have always taken an active interest in its onward progress, exhibiting at all times a progressive spirit. It is such public and such business activities producing prosperity that help to turn the wheels of industry in this section and aid very materially in the promotion of progress and development of this section of the state.

They are responsible for the bringing and keeping here of many dollars each year and in this review we cannot fail to compliment them upon their activities in the business world and predict for them a future fraught with great promise.
