Funeral Services Held For Charles P. Nay

Charles P. Nay died Friday, November 21st, at his home. He was born September 3, 1853 in Antrim at the old Nay place, west of Gregg lake. On June 30, 1874 he married Lizzie A. Crosby of Peterboro, who died August 26, 1925. He leaves two sons, Archie N. Nay of Antrim and Leon E. Nay of Stoneham, Mass., one daughter, Mrs. Edith M. MacBrine of West Medford, Mass., and four grandchildren.

Mr. Nay was a blacksmith, learning his trade in Milford and at one time had his own shop in Antrim. He was employed many years as blacksmith at the Goodell Company, retiring at the age of 85 years.

The home in which Mr. Nay lived on South Main street was built by him soon after he was married and here he lived with his eldest son Archie and wife since the death of Mrs. Nay.

Since being confined to his home, he has been tenderly cared for by them, assisted more recently by his nephew's wife, Mrs. Harry Nay.

Funeral services were held at the home Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m., with Harry Holmes and Son of Henniker in charge of arrangements. Rev. William McN. Kittredge was the officiating clergyman and Mrs. Vera Butterfield sang two solos. There was a profusion of flowers from relatives, shopmates, friends and neighbors. Bearers were the sons, Archie and Leon Nay, grandsons, Robert Nay and Donald MacBrine and Leon Forthrup and Kermit Stevens.

The forward step in medicine that a contemporary has been talking about isn't a one hundred per cent cure for that one hundred per cent malady, the common cold.

Ordination Held at New Durham Sunday Afternoon

In a ceremony attended by more than 150 parishioners from every parish in the New Durham district Rev. Robert J. Bracey, pastor of the New Durham Baptist church for several years, was formally ordained into the Baptist ministry at the Plains chapel Sunday afternoon.

Rev. Nathan R. Wood, president of Gordon college, preached the ordination sermon. The challenge to the candidate was given by Rev. C. Raymond Chappell of Manchester, general state secretary of New Hampshire Baptist churches. The challenge to the church was given by Rev. C. Austin Earl of Alton. During the ordination prayer, offered by Rev. John Watson of Laconia, all ordained ministers in the congregation were invited to the platform to assist in the service.

The welcome to the Baptist ministry was given by Rev. Leland Maxfield of Milton who also acted as moderator. The benediction was given by the newly ordained pastor, Rev. Mr. Bracey. A vocal solo was sung by Mrs. Irene Wentworth. The chapel was decorated with potted plants and chrysanthemums.

This is of interest to Antrim folks as Mrs. Bracey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Dunlap and is a graduate of the schools and of Gordon college in Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Dunlap with Mr. and Mrs. George Spaulding and son of Bennington attended the ordination Sunday.

Umbrellas date back to Ninevah and Persopolis. But that doesn't necessarily mean there were ap-pensers then. By the way and once again, what has Mr. Tobey done with his New Hampshire-presented bumbershoot?

Weekly Letter by George Proctor Fish and Game Conservation Officer

The first bobcat for months was brought in for the bounty Monday. This was shot within a mile of the Wilton postoffice by Henry G. O'Leary the well known fox hunter. Mr. O'Leary has hunted foxes all his life and this is the first cat he ever saw. It was a female and weighed 8 1/2 lbs.

The American Humane Association at Albany, N. Y., are announcing their 18th annual trap contest for 1942. This contest carries $550 in cash prizes for the best humane trap and one that will kill in a humane manner. Entry blanks can be had by writing to the Association at Albany, N. Y.

We have a letter that will interest you deer hunters. Russell E. White of Rindge is scoutmaster of the Scout troop in that town. He is very anxious to get your deer hides for the benefit of troop No. 68. He is even willing to skin the deer for the hide. And that's something.

Here is a man in Henniker that writes me for a rabbit dog. Have you anything in that line for this man?

Well I got a raise out of our old friend, Al Gutterston. He is still in N. Y. City but not in the Life Insurance business as I quoted. He is still in the hotel business but as Adviser and Councilor to the New York Life Insurance Co. on their hotel properties.

This will be good news to the trout fishermen. I was in Concord one day last week and Bill Hight of Warren, Supt. of Propagation, told me that 12,000 three to four inch trout were planted in my brooks a week ago or just after that last rain.

This week we have received tin-foil from Mary Swain, Antrim, Mrs. Edward Judkins, Milford, a box with no name, Hillsboro, Robert Davis, Milford, and five boxes from Bert Clark, Wilton. These are for the Crippled Children.

I have a very interesting letter from Miss Emily Barto the well known artist and writer of children's books. She lives in N. Y. City and is about to write a book on pigeons and asks me to tell her what I know about them. What a compliment.

The Fitchburg Rod and Gun club had a Thanksgiving Basket night Tuesday night and gave away a large number of turkeys. This club has over 600 members and are a live wire club.

I was very sorry to have missed the big time at Townsend last week when the club had a big baseball umpire as guest speaker. Secy. Johnson said it was to be good and he was right.

Who wants an Angora cat? This cat must have a good home as the owner is moving into a no dog, no cat tenement. No faults.

Who has lost an alreadale dog? A man in Milford has found one. The deer kill this year in N. H. will break all records. At Concord the other day it had reached well over 600 and that's a lot of deer. Wait till you hear from the southern part of the state. Conservation Officer Tim Barnard has had nine deer killed by cars and trucks while Officer Floyd Cole of Manchester has had 16 killed. I have had only two killed but have had six cases reported to me but the deer came to and beat it.

The pheasant season for 1941 is now history and the boys report good luck this year. Many of them got their limit. Now that the season is over the Dept. is to plant a lot of hens so that we may have a good crop of chickens next spring. The trappers in my district are having wonderful luck. I know of at least 70 mink now drying on the boards and hundreds of muskrats have been taken. It's a big year and the prices this year are going to be the best for a long long time. The mink farm breeders are also wearing a wide smile.

The other day I went in to see the Water Reserve Commission at Concord and I found out that you cannot build any kind of a dam to hold back water unless you have an O.K. from that Commission.

Last week was beaver and skunk week. We caught and removed many of these animals last week from places where they were not wanted to new homes where they will be appreciated.

We see where the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles has issued a warning to motorists to be careful in driving fast in wooded sections. Deer are easily jacked and if your car is injured you pay the damages yourself. Damages have been very high in many cases in this part of the state. Drive slowly in wooded sections.

Worked several hours one day last week with Humane Agent Mears of Nashua in some of my towns. The Agent warned many men to fix up their barns before cold weather. This was a warning trip. The next trip will mean a trip to the nearest police court.

If you have a case of cruelty to animals relay the tip to us at once. If wild animals or birds that's up to us, if domestic that's a case for the Humane society. We will relay the tip. Don't be afraid to sign your name as your name will never be used. If no name your tip will be assigned to the waste basket.

Very few bands have been returned to the State Dept. office of the pheasant kill for 1941. This only goes to show that the boys got the unmarked birds this year. The banded birds seemed to have escaped.

I have a friend that wants to put out a male Irish setter, well trained, for the winter. Must have a good home in the country.

One of the most important Don'ts of the coming deer season is the Don't mix gunpowder with alcohol.

Traps must not be set in or near a drain or culvert or bridge nor in a cow path.

Bennington Couple Observed Golden Wedding

Feasting, open house, gathering of relatives and friends, flowers, gifts, marked a gala occasion on Tuesday, when Judge and Mrs. Henry W. Wilson observed their golden wedding anniversary.

Twenty persons, including besides Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, their daughters, Mrs. Fox and husband from Springfield, Mass., Mrs. Towle and husband and daughter from Peterboro, Mrs. Parker and husband and son Lawrence, who reside with Mr. and Mrs. Wilson; Miss Anne Kimball, Massachusetts, sister of Mrs. Wilson; Forrest Wilson and wife from Hillsboro and daughter and husband, Forrest Wilson is a brother of Judge Wilson; Mrs. Edmunds and husband, Mrs. Edmunds is Mr. and Mrs. Parker's daughter and Judge and Mrs. Wilson's granddaughter; Miss Edith L. Lawrence, Mrs. Cora Sheldon, Peterboro and Mrs. Frances Harrington sat down at the Thanksgiving feast, which was served in the Congregational chapel, which included turkey and all the fixings. A royal feast.

During the week, a committee, consisting of Miss Frieda Edwards who represented the Woman's club, Mrs. Mary E. Sargent representative of the Congregational church, Mrs. Joseph Diamond representing the Auxiliary of the Sons of Union Veterans, Mrs. Frances Harrington the Catholic church, Wayne Clymer for the Sportsman's club (Mrs. Clymer represented her husband) and Mrs. Maurice C. Newton for the grange, was quietly at work, contacting the townspeople. The result was a sizeable sum of money, which was presented to the happy couple. Mrs. Fred Knight was included in the committee and helped very much.

The money was wrapped in golden cellophane with the help of lace doilies, each dollar was made to look like a white flower with a golden center. When these were assembled into two groups they looked like two old-fashioned nosegays. They were tied with golden satin ribbon and green leaves and green stems helped materially in the illusion. These golden bouquets were presented at the beginning of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson's open house period by Mrs. Mary E. Sargent, who had gone to school with Mrs. Wilson and had been both Mr. and Mrs. Wilson's friend for many years. Open house was held for Mr. and Mrs. Wilson by their children from 3 to 5 p. m. and 7 to 8 p. m. Many friends called to wish the couple much happiness. There was a number of bouquets of lovely flowers gracing the living room. Mrs. Wilson wore a beautiful orchid on her shoulder. She was also displaying a lovely amethyst ring given to her by her family and Mr. Wilson was wearing a beautiful wrist watch given to him by his family, too. Even the weather co-operated and spread its sunshine over the whole scene. The wedding cake, which was served by the bride, was made by her granddaughter, Hattie Edmunds. A happier couple could not be found in town anywhere. Time has dealt kindly with Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and their devoted family are stars in their marriage crown.

Many happy returns of the day, Judge and Mrs. Wilson from all your townspeople.

Antrim Branch Man Had Narrow Escape

Mr. Lawson Muzsey had a narrow escape from serious injuries, Saturday afternoon, when he and 17 cows fell through the barn floor into the cellar at his farm at Antrim Branch.

Mr. Muzsey was tying the cows in the barn when the barn floor gave way and he fell into the cellar with floor boards and timbers piling on top of him. The cows fell near him.

Mr. Edward Grant, a neighbor, heard the cry of the cattle and came to the scene and seeing that he could do nothing alone telephoned to Antrim village for help.

About the time the men from the village arrived, Mr. Grant had uncovered Mr. Muzsey from under the timbers. Mr. Muzsey was badly shaken up and had a few scratches on his face. The cattle that were piled up on each other were uncovered and driven out into the barnyard by the men from the village. One cow, the one that was on the bottom of the pile, was badly hurt and could not walk and had to be carried out.

Mr. Muzsey later said, that when the floor let go he was thrown forward. It was lucky that he was thrown forward because he would have been on the bottom with the cows on top of him.

SEYMOUR-PAGE

Miss Elsie Thelma Page, daughter of Orrel Page and Thomas J. Seymour, both of Hillsboro, were married at Concord on Saturday, November 22nd by Rev. J. Wayne Haskell.

Mrs. Seymour is a graduate of the Hillsboro high school and recently has been a waitress at Harry's Cafe. Mr. Seymour is a native of Waterbury, Conn., and has recently received his honorable discharge from the U. S. Army. They will make their home in this town.

Mr. Seymour was formerly a well-known Antrim resident.

TRUCK AND BUS INVENTORY
The Highway Traffic Advisory Committee to the War Department is taking a truck and bus inventory for national defense. About forty per cent of the committee in New Hampshire have not been returned. Another appeal is to be made by mail to these people on Nov. 19th. If you are one of them, you will be cooperating by sending in your card at once.
Several states have completed their inventory and those in charge here are anxious to finish their work as soon as possible.

Strike Situation and Japanese Crisis Prove Washington's Toughest Problems; Winter Closes In on Eastern Front As Russia Reports Taking Offensive

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

STRIKES:

At Showdown

Congressional passage of the Neutrality act changes was a victory for the administration in that President Roosevelt stood his ground on his labor position, declining to meet a growing demand for legislation outlawing strikes, and laws setting a ceiling on wages.

Yet the narrow margin in the house (20 votes) also was considered a severe rebuke to the President for his attitude, and there were signs in the press and in congress that legislators and editors were getting ready to kick over the traces.

Crucial situations had faced the President both over the strikes in captive coal mines owned by steel companies, largely occupied in defense work, and in the threatened railroad strike.

There had been little evidence that the White House was getting anywhere in either struggle, though the President had made manifold efforts to dissuade John L. Lewis and his U.M.W. from going overboard.

It was this situation more than any other which had caused the defection of many administration supporters during the Neutrality act voting.

The "closed shop" issue in the mine strike, never very popular in circles not closely allied with labor unions, caused the outburst of anti-strike feeling to be particularly severe.

RUSSIANS:

On Warpath

Long on the defensive, and having lost many thousands of square miles of territory, Russia had assumed the offensive all along the vast front. Moscow was reporting considerable success against the Nazis, and reported that the Germans had been suffering from frostbite, that they were exhausted and discouraged, but admitted that back of the front there were evidences that another offensive was being formed.

Those who believed Hitler would order any withdrawal because of the weather were having to revise their opinions. The Russian drive against the Germans was meeting with the same rugged resistance the Reds themselves had offered against the Nazis.

Successes were reported in the far north, where Kuibyshev dispatches declared 20 German transports had been sunk in what was to have been a major invasion attempt in the Murmansk sector.

Also 2,500 Italians had been reported "eliminated" in the Crimean sector, and victories also were claimed by Russia in the Donets basin area.

The Finns were being hurled back in front of Leningrad, and the general Russian tone was one of confidence, yet watchfulness, the latter being stressed because Red headquarters figured the Germans still had at least one more huge attack up their sleeves.

VICHY:

To Join Hitler

Hardly unexpected at this time, and with the hostage-shooting matter being what it was, had come the report that Vichy was planning to "go the whole hog" and throw in with Hitler's "new order."

It had been known for a long time where the sympathies of Darlan and Laval had been, but Petain was supposed to have been more or less on the fence.

History one day might recount, observers felt, that there was some strange and mysterious connection between the fatal plane crash which killed General Huntziger and the decision to join the Axis.

Huntziger, minister of war, had just been to Africa, presumably conferring with Mystery Man Weingand and was on his way back home to a momentous meeting of the government when his plane fell and he was killed.

Many wondered what bearing this would have on the situation in Nazi-Vichy relations.

KURUSU:

Last Try?

Most observers of the situation in the Pacific believed that with the arrival of Saburo Kurusu in Washington the last stage of the difficult effort of Japan and the United States to avoid war had been reached.

During his plane trip to this country there had been little of encouraging press comment, and the state department had again and again repeated its gloomy outlook.

Officials of the cabinet, particularly Secretary Knox of the Navy, had expressed this same view of depression over any chance of a peaceful settlement.

SABURO KURUSU

Still Kurusu had arrived, had been greeted with smiles by American diplomats, and the conversations were on.

Basic difficulty of solving an equation where Japan was at war with China and both Britain and America had declared this war an act of aggression and had been giving and promising aid to China was openly apparent.

Japan was urging the United States:

"Leave us alone in China!"

The United States was demanding of Japan:

"You let China alone!"

These points were poles apart.

ARK ROYAL:

Finally Sunk

Most famous of the British aircraft carriers, Ark Royal, sunk several times according to Berlin dispatches, finally has been sent to the bottom, and it was London, not Berlin, which announced it.

It sank 25 miles off Gibraltar, while in tow of other warships after a U-boat had torn a terrific hole in her side. Pumps were unavailing to repair the damage, and practically all of the 1,600 aboard her had been removed save just enough men to handle the towing lines.

Finally, when she was nearing shallow water at last, she suddenly turned over on her side like a "tired child" and went to the bottom. Only one man of her crew was reported lost.

It was regarded as probable that many of her planes had been able to fly ashore and make port. Thus went to the bottom of the Mediterranean the third aircraft carrier Britain had lost, the largest and newest, launched in 1938, of 22,000 tons.

TURKEY:

An Offer

Axis sources were reported to have made Turkey an offer of Thrace as a last inducement to get the Turks to join the triple alliance.

The sudden interest in Turkey on the part of Germany, as borne out in reports from both Berlin and Bern was rather a puzzle to some, while others saw in it the possibility that Germany might, now that she was somewhat bogged down in Russia, be seeking a Turkish route to Russian oil wells.

Three possibilities were seen—that Turkey had already decided to throw in with the Axis—that increased pressure would be brought to bear on Turkey (in line with Bern's view of the situation) and third, that Germany might be satisfied to have Turkey neutral and aloof but fearing that American and British pressure from the south might turn her from her neutral course to a pro-British stand.

LIFE:

A picture of what life was like in Serbia following the collapse of resistance against the southward plunge of the Nazi war machine was painted by the refugee Yugoslav government.

Reports reaching it were that about 8,100 hostages, including intellectuals, priests and students, had been executed in three villages.

The executions had been maintained, said Premier General Simovic, had been carried out at the rate of 100 to 1, in retaliation.

Washington, D. C.

NAZI INTRUDER

There is a German smuggler operating in the Caribbean off the coast of Mexico.

This was the inside reason for the President's sudden transfer of the entire coast guard to the navy—the coast guard's ships and planes are needed to track down the Nazi intruder.

Sensational feature about the smuggler is that she is a former U. S. vessel—the 800-ton Diesel-engined yacht that once belonged to A. Atwater Kent, Philadelphia radio magnate.

The one-time pleasure ship now is being operated under the Panamanian flag out of Vera Cruz, Mexico, by Nazi agents in that city, and is being used to transport high test gasoline and mercury to small Caribbean islands where Japanese ships collect the smuggled strategic supplies.

The yacht recently unloaded 1,000 flasks of mercury at an island which for military reasons must be nameless.

The former luxury craft came into possession of the Nazis by a circuitous route which intelligence experts uncovered only a few weeks ago. The purchase was made by a shipping company whose main office is in Vera Cruz and has a branch office in New Orleans, where transfer of title took place. The price was $18,000.

Fortunately for intelligence the payment was made in U. S. bills of $1,000 denomination. From the serial numbers, the bills were traced back to a Vera Cruz bank. There it was learned the money had been withdrawn from the account of the leading Nazi business house in Mexico, and turned over to the shipping company that bought the yacht.

Subsequent investigation revealed that all the stockholders of this company were Germans; also that the two top officers were Spaniards, one a naturalized Mexican and the other a naturalized American citizen.

Now, every movement of the yacht is watched, but there is nothing the United States can do about the ship unless she enters American waters. So far the vessel has been very careful to stay within Mexican territorial waters.

LEND-LEASE MILK EXPERT

The most novel type of lend-lease operation thus far was the lend-lease of a man named Adolph Adolph Eichhorn went over to help the British against Adolf Hitler.

The British are suffering from insufficient production of milk, because of diseased cattle, and Eichhorn is the man who knows all the cow cures. He is director of the animal disease station under the department of agriculture.

Three principal diseases afflict British cattle: tuberculosis, which makes the cattle lean; Bang's disease, which results in the loss of the calf; and mastitis.

Eichhorn was obliged to tell the British that tuberculosis, which afflicts 35 per cent of British cattle, cannot be cured during the course of the war, unless the war lasts for another generation. It took the United States 22 years to get the disease under control.

Bang's disease is more readily cured. By vaccination, a calf can be immunized so that its adult life will not be afflicted with the disease.

Meantime, the British are importing great quantities of dry and powdered milk from the United States. Fresh milk is worth a king's ransom.

RETURNED FAVOR

When Rep. John McCormack of Massachusetts was elected Democratic floor leader of the house, one of his strongest and most unexpected supporters was Georgia's fiery New Deal-hating Gene Cox. Though the two men were poles apart on economic views, Cox nevertheless backed McCormack and did yeoman work for him.

Recently McCormack returned the favor. Before leaving on a trip to Massachusetts, McCormack named Cox floor leader during his absence. "There's one condition, however, Gene," he grinned. "You'll have to refrain from those hot one-minute speeches on the floor. I don't want my stand-in taking swings at the administration. It would look bad."

McCormack wished the Georgian luck and left the chamber. Hardly had he departed when Cox jumped up and asked permission to address the house for one minute. New Dealers held their breath, expecting him to uncork one of his scorching blasts.

But they relaxed with a sigh of relief when Cox launched into a terrific tirade against John L. Lewis.

S. navy aircraft carrier in the Pacific gives the "go" sign to a fighter plane (at right) about to take off from the flight deck. Photo at left was made from a plane which had just left the flight deck of an unnamed U. S. aircraft carrier somewhere in the Pacific. It gives you a bow-on view of the floating airdrome.

'Somewhere on the Eastern Front'

An ammunition dump in a forest somewhere behind the German lines in Russia is shown in lower picture. Men are stacking giant aerial bombs near a bomber base, whence Nazi planes go out to blast Russian positions. Above: Long lines of Russian war prisoners, carrying their worldly possessions in a sack, are being marched to an internment camp somewhere on the eastern front by the Nazi army.

Coal for Strike-Bound Yale

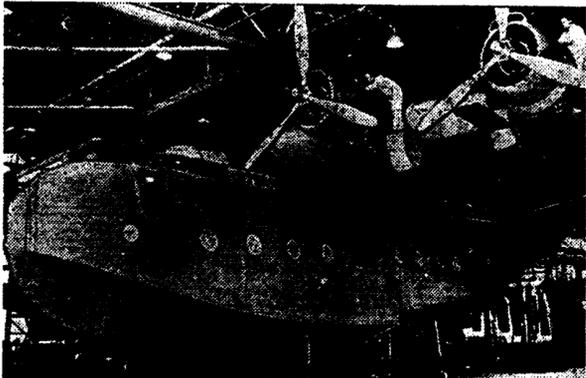

Picket at gates of powerhouse of Yale university, New Haven, Conn., moves aside when truckload of coal arrives for the strike-bound university. Maintenance employees at the university struck an hour before the state board of mediation was scheduled to meet with the C.I.O. to discuss settlement of union shop dispute. Inset: Phillip Murray, C.I.O. president who, on the same day resigned from the national defense mediation board because of an opinion rendered on "captive" coal mines of the bituminous coal industry.

'Plaything'

The German caption says that these are Russian children playing with the remains of a Red Army bombing plane, shot down somewhere in occupied territory. The red star, Soviet insignia, may be seen on the fuselage. What strange "playthings" war has brought to children!

Giant Flying Ship Nears Completion

First of a fleet of giant four-engine flying ships built for American export airlines, non-stop Transatlantic air service, nearing completion at Vought-Sikorsky aircraft, Stratford, Conn. The planes have a top speed of 235 miles per hour and a maximum non-stop range in excess of 6,000 miles and accommodations for forty passengers.

INSTALLMENT TWO

THE STORY SO FAR: Larry Cutter was attracted to Jacqueline Anthony, pretty public stenographer at the Hotel Rayne, when he heard that she was interested in reading about travel and adventure. After watching her for sev-

"Wait!" Larry Cutter made a peremptory gesture with his pipe at Jacqueline Anthony as she stared at him in wide-eyed bewilderment. He leaned still nearer, speaking in a low impetuous voice.

"You're thinking one of two things," he insisted. "That I'm as fresh as paint and you should call the house detective, or that I've some idea I'm humorous. Either way, you're wrong. I meant what I said then. And I've never talked marriage to a woman before. I don't expect you to believe that or anything. But you've got to let me explain now. I've no apology to make."

"Excuse me, Mr. Cutter," Jacqueline spoke in a flat little voice. "If you have a letter you wish written, I will take it. Otherwise, I am busy."

"Never mind the letter. It can wait. So can your pirates. I've simply got to tell you . . ."

He broke off to scowl at a small rain-coated figure that appeared in the doorway. The intruder was looking inquiringly at the little stenographer. Larry was aware of a sudden suspicion; he wondered if the girl had found some way to summon aid. But this was no cop, by any stretch of imagination.

"Oh . . . Mr. Dennison!" There was no question about Jacqueline's pleasure at seeing the newcomer. "I'll be finished here in a second," she volunteered.

Larry rose quickly. "There's no hurry whatever about my work," he announced blandly. "Take care of this gentleman, Miss Anthony. I'll drop back when you're not busy."

Larry brushed past the man in the raincoat and retreated to his favorite chair in the lobby. He flung himself into it with a sigh of relief.

He was rather too far away to be sure of the expression in Miss Anthony's eyes, but the watcher was convinced that she was listening to something unpleasant.

Who the devil was this guy? What was he saying? What did he want? Larry wished he could see the man's face now. . . . Hadn't liked his looks, anyway. Maybe he was the boy friend.

Silly, of course. When it was time to go back and square things with . . . Jack, Jack Anthony, how in the world would he make her know that he wasn't a common cad? That he loved her? That he had fallen in love with her that first day?

Larry believed that profoundly. The same as he believed that Jack Anthony was going to love him in return, or he'd know the reason why. There was no reason why he could not win her. Jack would listen. She had to listen. . . . She would give him his chance. She must!

Hello . . . There was Dennison leaving. The girl was sitting there alone now. She was looking into the distance. So very small and helpless.

Before he should lose courage, Larry strode purposefully to the goal of his desires. He entered, closed the door gently and helped himself to his former seat.

Jacqueline regarded him without the slightest display of interest or resentment. She waited for him to speak.

"I'm back," he hazarded. "You didn't have a letter at all," came the quiet accusation.

"Wn't you let me talk to you just a minute? Afterwards . . . Well, you won't see me again . . . If you say so. Please!"

"Go on." There was no encouragement in the permission.

"Thanks. I've told you my name. Does it mean anything at all to you?"

"No."

"It wouldn't. But it was pretty well known in this part of the country once. I'm speaking about my father, John Cutter. He was a scientist. You'd scarcely know about him . . . Long before your time, that was."

There was no reply. "Now this is going to be a strain on your credulity. Would it surprise you to know that I consider myself a gentleman?"

"Oh, no."

"I get it. Don't blame you in the least," Larry conceded gloomily. "It's one of many things I'll have to prove. It may take time. The same as proving that I'm sane. And yet I am. Also I'm thirty-five and weigh one hundred and seventy. I drink a bit . . . in company. You seem to be up on Kipling. He said there was hope for such a man. And I smoke, as you see. Profession, engineer of sorts. Just a few of the tiresome details," he apologized.

Only silence greeted this effort.

"Ever run across the Val d'Or in your book wanderings, Miss Anthony?"

"Yes." It came out with obvious reluctance.

eral days from a vantage point in the lobby, he fell in love with her. In an effort to meet Jack—as Jacqueline is called—he dictated an imaginary letter to Roy Allen, noted archeologist. As he had planned, this induced her to talk you're an ultra-modern prospector and ride a plane. Well, I've been there off and on for over two years . . . Somewhat to the north of the main diggings, however. Primitive enough to suit anybody."

"I imagine so."

"Yes, ma'am. But it's worth it, if you find something. I was lucky, myself."

"Gold?" The firm trace of interest.

"Some . . . Good enough showing for me to dispose of a half interest in my claim."

"That is very nice. I'm sure."

"As far as it goes, I came back here on purpose to . . . But we won't go into that. I'm foot-loose. No family but some distant cousins that I don't know. They may be dead. One of my ideas was to get married. Been knocking around alone long enough. I decided that I wanted a home . . . companionship. And comforts. I suppose every man does at one time or another."

"And you decided to offer yourself to the first girl you met?"

Larry Cutter was unable to detect either amusement or sarcasm in that comment. It was a colorless statement and offered, seemingly, to clarify a situation.

"Nothing of the sort!" he objected hotly. "I want somebody to belong just to me. Somebody who will be interested in what I do . . . care a little. Look here, Miss Anthony. You may not have seen very much of this world, but something tells me you understand things. You even know what the Val d'Or looks like. Right now you've been picturing the trackless miles of snow and scrub pine. The camps. Tarpaper shacks in dirty snow. There's not the romance about it your magazine yarns make out. There's a lot of ruffraff. Unsavory men and unsavory women. Hours of hard work and those other hours when you sit staring into a fire and smoking your pipe. That's harder than any work. The solitude . . ."

"And you decided to offer yourself to the first girl you met."

"I know," Jacqueline said unexpectedly.

"I told you, you always would. I've been making sure of that for a week now. Such things do happen, I tell you. If only there was some way to let you know how deadly in earnest I am."

There was no reply. But Larry Cutter did not know that his dark eyes were subscribing to the truth of his claim more eloquently than any words he might find.

Too late, he realized that he had gone about things in the wrong fashion. The worst possible. He should have been more cautious in his approach. Made Jack's acquaintance and won her confidence to some degree. But it was too late to go back now. He wouldn't run.

"I told you, Miss Anthony, that I had a particular purpose in coming here to the city," he resumed steadily. "I can see now that it was meant to be . . . that I would find you. Call it fate if you like. Nothing will make me believe otherwise. It's rather difficult to explain just now . . . But if anything were to happen to me, I'd like to leave what I have to someone I care for . . . to whom it would mean something. To my wife. She wouldn't have to worry or want for most things. Please . . ." as Jacqueline started to speak.

"That sounds rotten, I guess. But I want it to be you because I truly love you. See here. Let's go at it this way."

He regarded her in a puzzled fashion, then resumed:

"I know nothing about your situation, but I take it that you're in business for yourself . . . you're a business woman. That should make it easier for us both. Here's the way it stacks up."

Larry spread apart the fingers of his left hand and tapped the thumb with the end of his pipe stem.

"First, I'm asking you to marry me. You've nothing but my own word for it that I'm decent, healthy and independent. I'm all three."

"Second, I'd prefer to make it a straight business proposition at the start. I've something to sell, if you want to put it that way. My name and the promise to care for and respect you as long as I live. You will be running no great risk . . . I think. I would protect your investment from the start. Let me be frank about that. I mean financially. It's no inducement . . . a bond. And with no strings whatever."

"Third, I ask nothing in return. Until you wish to give it of your own accord. You would be free to keep your name, your present way of living . . . your job, if you wish. You'll see me no oftener than you like. No one need know of our marriage until you are ready."

"Fourth, if it doesn't work out after a fair trial, the deal is off. You'll be as free as air . . . and forever."

about her longing for travel. When Larry told her she could easily realize her dreams, she replied, "How could it? That costs money." He explained, "Simple enough. You can marry me."

Now continue with the story.

"I think. I would protect your investment from the start. Let me be frank about that. I mean financially. It's no inducement . . . a bond. And with no strings whatever."

"Third, I ask nothing in return. Until you wish to give it of your own accord. You would be free to keep your name, your present way of living . . . your job, if you wish. You'll see me no oftener than you like. No one need know of our marriage until you are ready."

"Fourth, if it doesn't work out after a fair trial, the deal is off. You'll be as free as air . . . and forever."

"Fifth . . . But you get me. I'm ready to draw up a paper covering all that and sign it. You're a notary, I suppose." Larry permitted himself a slight smile at this practical note.

"And that covers the ground about as well as I can do it. I suppose it sounds pretty bad for me . . ."

There was silence as he waited for an answer. Jacqueline was the one who broke it.

"Aren't you forgetting something?" she asked slowly.

"I dare say. What is it? We'll include it."

"You know nothing about me."

"Oh, that." Larry gave a relieved sigh. "It seems to me that I have known you always. But, until the day I came into it, your life is just your own. It doesn't concern me. Your life will always be your own. Please be assured of that."

"You are generous." Still that expressionless note in the girl's voice.

"Don't say that! I'm not trying to be generous . . . to you. All I'm trying to do is to be fair . . . dreadfully fair. I know what a great thing I'm asking of you. I was so afraid that you wouldn't even listen to me. Well?" Anxiety gave almost a harsh tone to the last word.

Jacqueline leaned forward, leaned forward until the light fell relentlessly upon her small face. Her dark eyes were inscrutable. She was searching her mind for the words she needed.

"I don't know why I did listen," she admitted wonderingly. An hour ago, I . . . I must be mad . . . too."

"Then you mean . . ." Larry caught his breath sharply. Waited.

"I am mad," Jacqueline Anthony was deciding that for herself.

"But you will do it? I ask for nothing until you can give it to me."

The little stenographer's face went visibly white. Her lips trembled a whispered answer that Cutter barely heard.

"I'll . . . I'll do it."

CHAPTER II

Little Miss Anthony breathed an incoherent prayer when she found herself alone once more in her office, and with the door closed. The dazed petition was that no one look at or speak to her until she could collect her scattered senses.

The entire world was gone topsyturvy. It still moved shakily through a dull haze.

There had been no suggestion of so vast a cataclysm when Jacqueline opened her eyes in the comfort of her small apartment on Courtland street. She had lain in bed until the last minute listening to the steady drip of water from a leaking spout above her window, wishing that there were no need of going to work.

Another dull day and, probably, few customers. But each customer counted just now. They counted tragically.

Jacqueline's numbed brain still was trying to get across the message that she had just now promised to marry a man. A man she never had seen before. A man who had walked into her office and asked her to take a letter. It must be a dream . . . A nightmare, rather. And yet . . .

It might have happened. Because this man had told her his name after he proposed . . . Larry Cutter. And he wanted to marry Jacqueline Anthony. She still couldn't comprehend any clear reason for it.

It just didn't make sense. And this Mr. Cutter apparently had been perfectly satisfied with her halting, foolish little acceptance. He had asked Miss Anthony to have dinner with him tonight . . . anywhere she liked. There were things to talk over. Arrangements to make. Arrangements! Jacqueline shivered. That meant a wedding. He would want to talk about their wedding.

TO YOUR Good Health

By DR. NATHAN S. DAVIS, III

PNEUMONIA ATTACKS PEOPLE OF ALL AGES

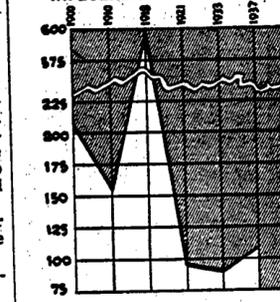

The sudden chill, followed by fever, rapid and painful breathing, a distressing cough with the raising of bloody sputum, and blueness of the lips, that mark the onset of a pneumonia, strike terror to the hearts of all. In one or another of its types, it attacks all ages. Until very recently, one-fourth to one-third of those who had it died.

From 1921 to '23, its annual death rate among males was 81.9; among females, 63.9 per 100,000.

Beginning about five years ago, the death rate from pneumonia has fallen rapidly. As a result of the use of improved sera and of the development of rather specific chemical therapy for its treatment, its annual death rate had for 1938 to 1940 fallen to 38.8 per 100,000 for males and to 23.9 for females.

The number of cases of pneumonia has, however, not been reduced appreciably, yet the sting has been removed as the death rate has been more than cut in half.

DEATH RATE PER 100,000 INFLUENZA and PNEUMONIA

Some progress seems to have been made in the prevention of pneumonia by the use of a vaccine but, for the conquest of the pneumonias, we still depend on improvements in the methods of treatment.

Developments have been so rapid in this field during the last few years that it is not possible to state definitely what the most effective method of treatment is. A few doctors depend chiefly on the various types of specific sera. Others use both the sera and the sulpha drugs.

Oxygen therapy which was largely responsible for the improvement in the mortality statistics prior to 1935, is also of great value.

Fortunately the new preparations for the treatment of the pneumonias seem to be equally effective in all age groups. The sulpha remedies are, however, sufficiently toxic to make them unsafe for indiscriminate use, are classed as dangerous drugs and can be sold on prescription only. The sera must of course be given only under the supervision of a doctor.

As pneumonias are commonly complications of influenza, colds, or acute bronchitis or follow such upper respiratory infections, anyone who catches one of these relatively minor respiratory tract infections must watch his step. If he remains at home and takes care of himself and so avoids exposure to pneumococci while his resistance is down, he will be less apt to get pneumonia.

Be Careful of Colds.

Those who try to work, to go to school and to keep all social and business appointments when they have colds or bronchitis, who fight the infection instead of giving in to it, are much more apt to develop a complicating pneumonia. This is especially true if there has been some fever during the course of the upper respiratory tract infection. One should never go out after a cold until the temperature has been normal for from 24 to 48 hours.

The maintenance of good health by avoiding undue fatigue, by eating foods containing adequate amounts of vitamins, minerals and proteins and only enough calories to keep the weight within normal limits, makes one less likely to acquire the disease.

So while the rapid advances in our knowledge of methods for its successful treatment have greatly reduced the death rate from pneumonia, we must still depend on general principles for its prevention.

QUESTION BOX

Send questions to Dr. Nathan S. Davis, III, Winnetka, Ill. (Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

Q.—Can you suggest a home treatment for corns, callouses and ingrown toenails? T. O. S.

Wear shoes and stockings that fit and are large enough, and corns, callouses and ingrown toenails will disappear.

Q.—What causes regurgitation after meals? H. S. O.

A.—Too rapid eating, overeating, some of the diseases of the digestive tract.

HIGH FINANCE

"Ready to take a chance, Frank, I've just heard where you may buy a fine new automobile for half-price."

"Did Rosa get that six-shooter she spoke of providing herself with as a protection against burglars?"

"No; she got a six-footer."

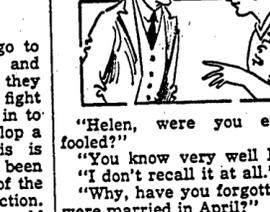

WELL DONE

"Hey, waiter, there's a button in this soup."

"A button! Oh, yes, sir. We always make our soup out of dressed beef, sir."

OR WAS SHE?

"Helen, were you ever April fooled?"

"You know very well I was."

"I don't recall it at all."

"Why, have you forgotten that we were married in April?"

CHARMS

"Miss Boggs is an attractive girl, isn't she?"

"Yes, and she's getting more so every day. They say her father's just coining money."

AND A BAND

Uncle—Well, how's your football team coming on?

Dicky—Fine! All I need now is ten other fellers, an' a football an' I got a dandy team.

Lincoln's Wit

Lincoln didn't like the tone of a business letter inquiring about a man he knew. His reply was short, pointed:

"Yours of the 10th received. First of all, he has a wife and baby; together they ought to be worth $500,000 to any man. Secondly, he has an office in which there is a table worth $1.50 and three chairs worth, say $1. Last of all, there is in one corner a large rat-hole, which will bear looking into."

CHRISTMAS BUSINESS EXPECTED TO BREAK ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS

The largest volume of Christmas business in 20 years is being freely predicted. Although it is possible that some of the usual items of holiday merchandise may be available in smaller quantities or perhaps not on the market this year, the stocks of Christmas gift articles bid fair to exceed former years.

Mail early!
The annual plea of the Post Office Department takes on special significance this year because of the millions of men in the armed services, the numerous defense workers who are away from home, and the generally increased level of buying and shipping expected to result from accelerated business.

A schedule released by postal authorities today indicates that packages for certain outlying military posts should arrive at the Foreign Section of the New York Post Office not later than Nov. 25, while nearer bases will require packages to be on hand in New York by Dec. 11. The last steamer from San Francisco to Hawaii that can be accounted upon to make Christmas deliveries to all parts of the Islands sails on Dec. 12.

The Post Office underlines the fact that irregular sailings to trans-Atlantic and trans-Pacific points necessitates the allowance of considerably more time than during peacetime.

"Mail as early as possible," postal authorities ask.

PLAN BOX SILO ON LEVEL LAND

Is Good Substitute for the Trench Silo.

By E. R. EUDALY
(Dairyman, Texas A & M College Extension Service.)

Built above ground, a "box" silo is a substitute for a trench silo in regions where the land is more or less level and where keeping water out of a trench is a problem.

To construct such a feed container, build two parallel levees of dirt any height and width desired, then fill between the levees with silage and cover with earth. This sometimes is called a trench silo upside down. Two—in places where lumber is cheap it might be advisable to build the upside down trench out of lumber and tar paper. This is called a "box" silo.

It is not advisable to build a "box" of smaller dimensions than four feet between walls, six feet high and 20 feet long. Lesser space between walls would be hazardous since a little spoilage at the edges would be too high a percentage of waste. A minimum height of six feet is suggested because of settling and the possibility of some spoilage on top. If the silage settles a whole lot there might be a high percentage of spoilage.

Width and height may be as much as desired beyond the minimum footage as far as keeping of the contents of the silo is concerned. But the width should be regulated according to the number of livestock to be fed, the specialists advise. At least five cows are necessary to obtain the most success from a "box" silo.

The posts should be three feet apart in the row if one-inch lumber is used, but may be as much as 4 1/2 feet apart if using two-inch lumber. Shiplap lumber is best for siding, but rough sawed lumber may be used provided it is laid so that the inside of the wall will not be so rough as to break the lining paper. Tar, or asphalt, paper is recommended for covering the inside of the wall, and No. 9 galvanized steel wire, or the equivalent in strength, to tie the posts together at the top.

The silage at the open end of the box should slope from the ground to the top of the wall so that the end can be covered with earth. Only two or three inches of dirt may be used provided oats or barley is planted in it, and the earth kept moist until the grain makes enough growth to form a good root system and hold the dirt together to prevent cracking.

Seed Winter Oats for Successful Winter Crop

Many farmers have had excellent success in seeding winter oats in the fall as a cover crop, according to J. C. Hackleman, crops extension specialist of the University of Illinois college of agriculture, Urbana, Ill. The only trouble with using winter oats in the fall, he said, is that the crop is more apt to winter-kill than barley or rye. Oats also does not make as good a nurse crop as the other two crops because it makes a more leafy and dense growth and consequently shades the legumes more and probably consumes more moisture and plant food than would be used by a rye or barley crop.

When used as a winter cover crop, winter oats, barley or rye should be seeded a week or 10 days before the average date for seeding wheat, Hackleman said.

Although more apt to encourage chinch bug increases the following growing season, barley makes the best pasture of the three crops. If nurse crops of oats, rye or barley, instead of being harvested as grain, are pastured next spring, the land can be classified as soil-conserving under the AAA farm program.

Farm Notes

Spraying of certain chemicals has been found to hasten the maturity of potatoes on experimental plots at an Idaho research station.

Root rot fungus spreads by slow growth along roots from plant to plant, even when they are dormant, at the rate of a foot or so a month.

The annual output of United States fruit canning plants amounts to about 50,000,000 cases. Peaches lead with over 12,000,000 cases.

More commercial fertilizer was used by American farmers in 1940 than in any previous year.

One hundred per cent water-inflation of farm tires will be possible and economically practical as the result of developments by a large rubber company.

Only by the use of pressure is it possible to get the high temperature needed to kill organisms in nonacid vegetables which, if not destroyed, will likely cause spoilage.

Wolf Hill Grange

Wolf Hill grange, No. 41, held its regular meeting in grange hall, Monday evening, with a good attendance. Mrs. Louise L. Locke, master, presided at the business meeting, at which time a report on the show by "The Down Homers" was given. A good sum was realized for the treasury. Albrt Perreault of Hillsboro was the winner of the basket of groceries, which was given away.

An invitation was received by the master to attend Presiding Master's night with Joe English grange at New Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jacques, Mr. and Mrs. Chester M. Durrell, Mrs. Edgar J. Liberty of Wilton and Ralph Bigwood of Claremont, members of Wolf Hill grange, were candidates at the meeting of the National grange at Worcester, Mass., recently. Mrs. Harold G. Wells also attended the National grange meeting.

The following officers were elected for 1942: Master, Chester M. Durrell; overseer, Mrs. Mary J. Willard; lecturer, Mrs. Edith L. Parker; steward, Mrs. Nell Wilson; assistant steward, C. Harold Tewksbury; chaplain, Mrs. Maria Osborne; treasurer, Leroy H. Locke; secretary, Mrs. Marie E. Wells; gatekeeper, Harry G. Parker; Ceres, Mrs. Lillian Durrell; Pomona, Mrs. Ethel Tewksbury; Flora, Mrs. Melvina Whitney; lady assistant steward, Miss Priscilla Whitney; members of the executive committee, Mrs. Louise L. Locke 3 years, Miss Jane Johnson 2 years; pianist, Mrs. Edith L. Parker.

A birthday party will be held for all members at the next regular meeting. An invitation was received from the Women's Guild to attend their Christmas supper and entertainment next month.

Mrs. Edith L. Parker exhibited balsam Christmas wreaths.

All members are cordially invited to the birthday party next meeting.

Mrs. Ralph Whitney of the Alderbrook Farm is improved after an illness.

Mrs. Rosa Fowler of North Wilmet spent a week's vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Sherrod Ashby.

Pvt. Charles H. Taylor, Jr. who has been stationed in Hawaii for two years in the U. S. Army, is expected home for Christmas.

The Wendall Rich farm in East Deering has been sold to a party from Massachusetts, who will take possession in the near future.

One of the air raid lookouts has been established near the Dr. Ralph Whitney home and will be in charge of Gleason Young post, A. L., of Hillsboro.

Clarence Filer, U. S. N., spent one day last week with his mother on Clement hill. He left last Saturday for Iceland, where he will be on patrol duty.

Bennington

Mrs. Ruel Cram continues to improve slowly.

Mrs. F. L. Griswold's condition remains about the same.

Miss Mae Cashion has gone to Manchester for the holidays.

Florence Edwards who teaches in Berlin is home for the holidays.

Miss Katherine Green is spending the Thanksgiving holidays in Keene.

Mrs. Chet Sturtevant and infant son have returned from the hospital.

Frank Dickey of Peterboro is now employed at Donald Powers' drug store.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Powers are now in their home on the old Peterboro road.

Installation of the Auxillary to the Sons of Union Veterans will take place next Monday night.

Clarence Edmunds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Edmunds is home from the N. Y. A. in Concord for the holidays.

Mrs. Martha Allen of Coontook mother of Mrs. Arthur Perry, is with the Arthur Perrys for the winter.

Mrs. O. M. Parker is very sick at her home on the Frankestown road; Mrs. George Hadley, her daughter, is caring for her.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris C. Knight of Forrest Hills visited Mr. Knight's mother, Mrs. M. L. Knight recently.

Lou Stevens was taken to the Memorial hospital last week Wednesday. He has been very ill but is gaining slowly now.

A lesson in gift giving for the youngsters in Sunday school was the order of the worship hour last Sunday. The period opened with salute to the Christian and American flags, held by Melvin Loomis and Nelson Holland; a prayer of thanks delivered by Dawn Magnuson; hymns; Scripture read by Bernard Grant. Every child had some fruit. The table was set with a Thanksgiving cloth and a brown basket in the center. All the children marched around the table singing, "Bringing in the Sheaves," and putting their fruit in it. The adults, teachers and visitors marched at the end of the line. After this lovely ceremony was over Kimon Zachos offered a prayer of thanks written by himself for the occasion. The fruit was put into seven bags and distributed by the teachers to ill and shut-in friends. Work is going forward earnestly to make the second public concert, to be given by the Junior choir, a success. This year, as the concert is to be before Christmas, a great many Christmas selections are to be sung. A Christmas tree and entertainment are to be given by and for the children.

ANTRIM SCHOOL NEWS

The Seniors are busy, at present, selling Christmas cards and stationery. They are also having good results from the sale of tickets for the play, "The Mad Hatters" which is to be presented Friday, November 28th.

The Athletic Association is planning the coming winter schedule. The officers of this association are: Guy Clark, President; Carol Cuddihy, Vice President; Natalie Thornton, Treasurer; and Constance Fuglestad, Secretary. They are hoping to have activities in the near future for the purpose of raising money for new basketball uniforms for both the boys and girls teams.

Friday, November 14, the eighth grade boys and girls went to Miss Perry's home in Bennington for a party.

BENNINGTON GRANGE

At the meeting of Bennington grange on Tuesday night eight candidates were found in waiting and received the third and fourth degrees. They were Phyllis Clymer, Margaret Edmunds, Josephine Cuddeini, Maxine Brown, Velma Newton, Richard Clymer, Fred Miles and Rev. George Driver.

Miss Frieda Edwards filled the master's chair and the master, Mrs. MacDonald, filled the lecturer's chair. Mrs. Maurice Newton, Wayne Clymer, Mrs. Steve Chase and Lawrence Parker were in the harvest march.

The program, in charge of the lecturer, was as follows: "Food for Defense," skit, Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, taken by Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Clymer; committee man, J. Prentiss Weiton; reading, "Aunt Shaw's Pet Jug," by Mrs. Prentiss Weston.

The program next meeting is in charge of Miss Esther Perry. The grange is expecting to have a Christmas tree the Tuesday before Christmas, each member to bring a small gift.

Mrs. Patrick McGrath was head of the committee that served a most bountiful supper.

PERHAPS it's Shirley Temple's glowing health that inspired the British Ministry of Foods to ask Walt Disney for help. Studio experts say that in all the years that she was making pictures for 20th Century-Fox she never suffered from the numerous ailments children usually have, and now that she's approaching 13 making sub-deb pictures for Metro she's still the wonder of the studios because she's so well. That means a lot in Hollywood, where a star's illness can be so expensive for a studio.

Well, Shirley's diet has always included plenty of vitamins and minerals. And—Walt Disney has cre-

Young women workers in the nation's Capitol are about to be glorified on the screen; evidently the same idea hit several studios at once. Paramount's version of the life and times of the young ladies will be called "Washington Escapade." Metro bought a story called "White House Girl," by Ruth Finney, wife of a newspaper man.

Savory Meals

Pep up the personality of your meals by serving meats more often as the weather becomes frost-nipped and colder. Meats are synonymous with good, wholesome, hearty meals because they're satisfying and filling. Meat sets good tone to the meal and rounds it out to give you a sense of completeness when you've finished eating.

Meat is honest and straightforward both in flavor and purpose. Its abundance of vitamins and minerals really come through and give you sustaining energy. All in all, meat contains nine out of the thirteen food essentials of a normal diet.

First is protein and meat's proteins are complete. They help to build or repair body tissues which you wear down every day and keep you on good maintenance level. It has iron the oxygen carrier, copper, iron's partner and the builder of hemoglobin.

Meat has phosphorus that helps calcium in building good teeth and bones and helps give you energy. Meat has fat, too, producer of more energy and heat.

As for vitamins, meat is an important source of four: vitamin A, the resistance and growth vitamin; thiamin (vitamin B1) which helps the body translate sugars and starches into energy; riboflavin, of which meat is the top source, that helps prevent nervous disorders, and finally nicotinic acid, which prevents a nervous digestive disorder known as pellagra.

Fortunately for economy's sake, the lower-priced cuts of meat are just as good for these minerals and vitamins as the higher-priced ones. Today's column gives you tricks and tips on how you can use them for savory meals and have them juicy, tender, and full of flavor.

First call is for pot roast which you can make just as desirable as the best steaks and chops:

Pot Roast With Vegetables.
Wipe meat with a damp cloth. Brown in hot fat and add one or two small onions sliced to meat while it is browning. Season meat with salt and pepper. Combine 1/2 cup catsup with 1 cup hot water and add to meat. Place in a roaster or cast-iron skillet or pot, cover tightly, and allow to simmer gently 45 minutes to the pound. Add more water if necessary. Whole carrots and onions may be added to the meat and cooked with it the last 45 minutes of the cooking period.

Veal is tender and delicate and deserves careful cooking.
Braised Veal Cutlets.
(Serves 6)
2 pounds veal steak, cut in 6 pieces
1 egg
Cornflake crumbs
1 small onion, chopped
Salt and pepper
4 tablespoons lard
1 No. 2 1/2 can of tomatoes
Dip pieces of meat into the egg and cornflake crumbs which have been seasoned with salt and pepper. Brown in hot lard on both sides, using a heavy frying pan or skillet. Add tomatoes and chopped onion, cover and cook slowly for 1 hour.
Variation: Make as above omitting tomatoes and onion. Add 1 cup of sour cream after meat is browned and cook for 1 hour. Thicken the sour cream gravy with flour and water and serve.

A cut which you may not have used is lamb shanks, but I assure you they are simply delicious when braised. They'll be a good food dollar stretcher for you this season:
Braised Lamb Shanks.
(Serves 6)
6 lamb shanks
2 tablespoons lard
Salt and pepper
1 cup celery
1 cup carrots, cut fine, if desired
1 cup green beans, cut fine, if desired
Brown the lamb shanks in hot lard. Season with salt and pepper. If you're using vegetables, place them in the bottom of the casserole and add a small amount of water. Put in the lamb shanks. Cover and cook in a slow oven (300 degrees) 2 hours.
Kidneys are right up there among the top-notchers as a source of riboflavin, preventer of nervous digestive diseases. They're good broiled with bacon and good also in this delicious savory loaf:
Kidney Loaf.
(Serves 6)
1 pound of beef kidney
1 cup milk
8 slices bread
1/2 cup bacon drippings
3 slices bacon
1 small can pimientoes
Salt and pepper
3 tablespoons grated onion
1/2 teaspoon powdered sage, if desired
Wash kidney in cold water. Drain well and grind, using internal fat. Pour milk over bread and soak. Combine all ingredients except bacon and mix thoroughly. Line bottom of pan with uncooked slices of bacon, add meat mixture and pack firmly. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1 1/2 to 2 hours.
What could be better than spareribs with barbecue sauce as a tasty meat dish on a cold night? Bake the spareribs brown and crispy and brush them with the sauce for a dish you'll long remember and enjoy looking at:
Barbecued Spareribs.
(Serves 6)
5 pounds spareribs
Brown spareribs under broiler. Cover with the following sauce and bake about 2 hours in a covered pan in a slow (325 degrees) oven.
Barbecue Sauce.
1 small onion chopped
2 tablespoons lard
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons brown sugar
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup catsup
1/2 cup water
Salt and pepper
1 teaspoon paprika
Dash of ground cloves and cinnamon
Brown onion in lard and add remaining ingredients. Brush over spareribs.

Need of Kindness
Kindness is wisdom. There is none in life but needs it and may learn.—Bailey.

Elizabeth Bergner, one of the most famous European actresses to work in Hollywood, has just completed the first of her films to be made. It's "Paris Calling," a story of the betrayal and fall of France. Miss Bergner's European pictures include "Catherine the Great," "Escape Me Never," and "Dreaming Lips." She became famous as one of Europe's leading stage figures before she made pictures.

The movies are an old story to Frances Robinson; at the age of four she played Lillian Gish as a child in "Orphans of the Storm." More recently, she appeared in "Smiling Through." Now she's left pictures for the radio; she's the giddy debutante in the air's version of the delightful "My Man Godfrey."

LYNN SAYS:

You're going to sell nutrition to your family not just because of its virtues but by attractively garnished, well-cooked food. Here's how:

Whenever possible serve the vegetables with the meat, as browned potatoes, whole carrots, browned onions. These can be placed around the meat for effective coloring.

Radish roses with parsley brighten almost any kind of meat platter.

Spinach, chopped, seasoned and mixed with white sauce can be made into nests or mounds and served around meat.

Baby beets may be scooped and filled with green peas served around the meat or on a platter by themselves.

Ham can be scored in circles for a change by using a small cookie cutter and a maraschino cherry placed in each circle. Circles look best if they overlap.

Bananas or pineapple slices broiled make a tantalizing accompaniment to baked ham, roast beef or lamb chops.

Slices of orange topped with a smaller slice of jelly is excellent for meat platters.

NEW FLOOR OVER OLD.

Question: Can a new hardwood floor be laid over an old floor? Or should the present floor be removed and the new one laid on the sub-floor?

Answer: The new one can be laid on top of the old one, which will save labor. The old floor should first be made smooth; protruding nails either driven in or pulled out, and roughnesses of the floor planed or scraped down. At lumber yards you can get flooring intended to be laid over an old floor; it comes completely finished, so that no further finishing will be needed after laying. It is thinner than ordinary flooring, for it serves only as a finish.

Sound-Proof Door.
Question: What is the simplest way to sound-proof a door between two apartments, or at least to deaden the sound?
Answer: Sound can be deadened by hanging two or three thick portieres over the door. For a better job, set four or five pieces of 1 by 2 across the door opening, from side to side, not touching the door. On these set a sheet of insulating board, cut to fit the opening. The joint between the door and the frame, all around, should first be packed with moth-proof felt, soft rubber strips, or something similar, for much of the sound comes through the joint.

Cleaning a Cellar.
Question: What is the best way to clean an old cellar in which there is a hot air furnace?
Answer: Everything in the cellar is probably coated with coal and ash dust, and the first step should be to loosen this by brushing. Then followed with a vacuum cleaner. Concrete floor and walls should be scrubbed with a strong solution of washing soda in water, followed by rinsing. All wood parts should be finished by painting. For masonry walls use cement paint, while the floor should have a kind of paint that is proof against injury by lime. For the wood parts you can use casein paint.

Noisy Road.
Question: We live on a road intersection that is very noisy. Is there any kind of sound-proof glass that could be put in the windows of our living-room?
Answer: Glass in two thicknesses, separated by a quarter-inch or more, might do the trick, but would require new window frames. Double windows would give you the same effect. Metal weatherstrips around the window should do quite as well. Another method would be to equip each one of the windows with an electric ventilator of a kind that admits air, but keeps out sound. These can be had from dealers in electrical equipment.

BUILDING ANYTHING, MISTER?
SPAB has ruled that no new public or private building may be started unless it is essential to the health and safety of the country. Pop, there goes that idea of a new two-car garage!

The government must save all "critical material" for the war. Critical material is almost everything from the blueprint to the architect's bill.

The man who has just dug a cellar for anything may find he is just the custodian of a hole for the duration of the war.

Director Donald M. Nelson says that if you have a building partly finished he will try to take you out of your position in mid-air, but it is more than likely that the man with a house only 50 per cent finished will save himself a lot of trouble by just putting a sign "Opened By Mistake" on the whole project.

This is an all-out war and it appears to be leaving the building all out of most everything from cellar door hinges to lightning rods.

"Is the construction directly necessary for national defense, or for the health and safety of the civilian population?" This is the test question Washington asks. How are you going to make a new country home fit into that?

In fact, how are you going to make a garage fit?

Almost everything is necessary to defense, including those bronze door-knockers and the bathtub faucets.

"The House That Jack Built" is becoming the Bungalow That Nelson Stopped.

Mr. Nelson says the restrictions will halt "pork barrel" projects. The answer to that is "Wanna bet?"

He will have his work cut out for him trying to convince a congressman that the new power dam at Cornob Valley isn't essential to the safety of the country and that the safe of the country and that the safe of the country in Cribbage Hollow isn't vital to the health of every politician involved.

Some questions and answers issued by the SPAB to explain the situation include:

Q.—If I were building a 10-story building and had four stories up could I get material to finish it?

A.—Very likely, yes.

Q.—If only an excavation existed?

A.—It would be a tossup.

And the builder would be "He who gets tossed."

AS MA GOOSE MIGHT PUT IT
This is the house that Jack built.

This is the architect that planned the house that Jack built.

This is the blunder retained by the architect that planned the house that Jack built.

This is the stuff they needed for The cellar and the second floor.

This is the owner (oh, sad is he!) Who got word from S.P.A.B. He couldn't get stuff needed for The cellar and the second floor.

You can go on from here. All it takes is imagination.

LINE ON LONGEVITY
(An average life span of 550 years is attainable if conditions in the body at the age of 10 years are retained, according to a professor in the Columbia university school of medicine.—News item.)

Consider, please, the child of ten, Whose bodily condition's A miracle to learned men, Professors and physicians,

Who say that if we could retain This stamina and vigor, Five hundred years we might remain,

And somewhat more, they figure. But I have watched a child at play, -From morning until night time, And wearily I now must say That threescore ten is quite time.

—Richard Armour.

There is a 5 per cent tax on all railroad, plane and boat tickets now, and one hesitates to think what this must mean to Mrs. Roosevelt.

Commuters are excepted. This is the first instance in history where a commuter got any consideration whatever.

Roach powders are now hit by priorities. An ingredient is needed in munitions. Well, if the insecticide man goes after Hitler we'll take care of the situation around our own kitchen sink.

SPORTLIGHT
By GRANTLAND RICE

A MONG the real wiz kids of sport I'd like to nominate at least four rookies. They are Alonzo Stagg, 79, Connie Mack, 78, Matt Winn, 81, and E. R. Bradley, 82. Their average age is around 80 and they are just beginning to get up steam.

There must be something hooked to sport that blocks off the attacking years.

Stagg, one of Walter Camp's All-America veterans in 1889, which happens to be 53 years ago, is still one of the hardest-working football coaches in the trade. Stagg uses running spikes in place of crutches. They tell me at the College of the Pacific he is all over the field like a runaway coyote—and Stagg isn't more than a short chip stagg away from 80.

Along the same line Connie Mack is all set for his next spring training trip, hoping this time to lift his Athletics up around the bottom of the first division. Connie, also, won't use up much calendar space before 80 arrives. His main ambition now is to win the A. L. pennant on his eightieth birthday.

Stagg and Mack have been active features in over 60 years of sport, and neither is looking for a sunset port.

The Kentuckians

Col. Matt Winn of Kentucky, having left 80 well behind, is even more active than usual in rounding up his next Kentucky Derby.

At the same time Col. E. R. Bradley at 82 still has his Lexington posses out looking for another Derby winner.

Colonel Winn has seen all the Kentucky Derbies ever run since the first one in 1875, and he hopes to turn the Seventieth Derby anniversary, three years further on, into the greatest pageant of them all.

It has been some time since Colonel Bradley won one of these Bluegrass features, so he is equally active in having another three-year-old ready soon, one with a chance to win. His Bimelech just missed out.

Colonel Winn has an idea at this moment that Alsab may be the greatest Derby winner of all time. As great as Alsab is, there is a wide gap between a two-year-old and a three-year-old, considering all the deadly incidents that can happen to a thoroughbred, including housemaid's knee and the pip.

The Two Races

Although spring practice is three months away, American league managers—plus owners—plus ball players—are still brooding over the promised strength of the Yankees.

In the meanwhile, the National can look forward to another all summer scramble among Dodgers, Cardinals, Reds and possibly Pirates or someone else.

The Reds with Johnny Vander Meer and Elmer Riddle on hand to help out their pitching veterans will be a better club next spring if Bill McKechnie can plug one or two gaps. Bill is lucky these gaps are not in his pitching department, the toughest canyon to fill up.

Having located a large part of his control, Vander Meer is likely to be one of the great pitchers of 1942. So is Riddle.

But at this point American league clubs can see no light rays of any consequence. Seven of them are looking into holes as deep and as dark as the mouth of a railroad tunnel.

The Red Sox still haven't the pitching or the defensive speed to close up that big gap between themselves and the Yankees. The Red Sox still lack the infield ground-covering speed needed to help any pitcher along. The Yankee infield has killed off many a rap starting for a base hit that Red Sox infielders couldn't handle.

SPORTLIGHT BRIEFS:

John F. Kelly, Notre Dame captain and end of 1938, has been appointed to the FBI staff.

Babe Herman owns a highly profitable turkey ranch in California.

Frank Leahy has advised his Notre Dame assistants to lay off golf. "It's a vicious game," he explains, "and if you get the habit you can't leave it alone."

Dick Chan, a Chinese halfback on the San Francisco State college football team, weighs 125 pounds.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS
By ROBERT McSHANE
Revised by Western Newspaper Union

A FEW weeks ago Jimmie Johnston, manager of Heavyweight Bob Pastor, announced that his boy was the most underrated fighter in the ring.

This shy remark, uttered by such a modest individual, was greeted with even more derision than is usually accorded Mr. Johnston's statements. True, Pastor went a total of 21 rounds with Joe Louis before the champion finally stopped him. But in doing so he earned the nickname "Bicycle Bob."

Today Johnston can find quite a number of fans who will agree with him. They don't consider Pastor a great heavyweight, but they do feel that he is underrated. His recent victory over Booker Beckwith proved that his fighting ability isn't limited to fancy defensive footwork. He didn't run away from the rangy Negro boxer. Instead, he elected to fight it out with Beckwith. A unanimous decision indicated the soundness of his judgment.

The smart money was on Beckwith. Within the brief space of 16 months he catapulted from a preliminary fighter to the $4,000 class. He had won 17 straight battles, 10 of them by knockouts. Although he was giving away almost 15 pounds to Pastor, he was figured to win.

Pastor, 27, was thought to be on the down grade. A slow starter, it was feared that one of Beckwith's murderous punches would find its mark before the New Yorker could get under way. It wasn't long ago that Turkey Thompson floored Pastor six times in the first round. Yet Pastor came on to win. But Pastor wasn't fighting another Thompson. He was matched against a man whose punch, according to Pastor himself, "will knock your brains out."

The fight didn't go according to the dopsters' books—at least after the first round. Beckwith opened strong and Pastor, as usual, dropped the initial round. This and the third were the only rounds Booker won. The others went to Pastor.

Pastor, a former New York university football player, looked good against Beckwith. He surprised a few hundred thousand people by snapping his opponent's winning streak. He didn't surprise anyone by announcing his desire to meet Joe Louis again. Every heavyweight who wins two consecutive fights believes he has earned a chance at the title. Pastor is no exception. Two defeats suffered at the hands of the champion have taught him very little.

The element of surprise is contained in Pastor's generous statement that he is willing to schedule a few more bouts before he tackles the champ for the third time.

Bowling—the Right Way
By LOWELL JACKSON

(This is one of a series of lessons in bowling by Lowell Jackson, one of the country's outstanding bowlers. Mr. Jackson has eighteen 300 games to his credit and has a 12-year league average of 210.)

Follow through naturally.

SPEED AND FOLLOW-THROUGH—One of the fundamentals of good bowling and particularly of the delivery of a good hook ball is regulation of speed. Tremendous speed is a distinct disadvantage and will tend to make you lose control, timing, rhythm and balance.

A slow rolling ball will knock down more pins than a speed ball. When you deliver the ball, keep your body poised, facing the pins and well balanced as your right hand swings up after delivering the ball. If you stop your right hand short after releasing the ball and fail to follow through, you are likely to get what bowlers call a "dead ball."

When you follow-through naturally, you develop a smooth, easy bowling delivery, free from jerks and strain. However, do not overexaggerate the follow-through.

SPORT SHORTS

Jock Sutherland, coach of the Brooklyn professional football team, calls the Philadelphia Eagles "the best young club in the league."

Tony Lazzeri, utility man with the San Francisco Seals last season, has been released at his own request. He wants a manager's job. Tony played in 102 games last year and batted .244.

Neil Berry, shortstop of the Western Michigan college freshman team last spring, has been signed by the Detroit Tigers.

LaGuardia, Penniless, Came to the Right Place

A few years back, Fiorello LaGuardia, New York's peppery mayor, was addressing a group of Salvation Army workers before a large audience. The mayor gave a long and fiery speech in praise of the organization. At the finish, the plate was passed. When it came to LaGuardia, he reached into his pocket for money. A blank look came into his face when he could not find any. He fumbled desperately in all pockets.

Sensing his predicament, the commissioner of the Army said in a loud voice: "That's all right, the Salvation Army is the right place to come to when a man hasn't a nickel!"

What to give the men in Uncle Sam's services for Christmas is already solved for you by surveys made in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard. Cigarettes and smoking tobacco head the list of gifts the men want most. This naturally places Camel Cigarettes and Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco in the forefront, since actual sales records from the service men's stores, afloat and ashore, show the favorite cigarette is Camel, and the big favorite among smoking tobaccos is Prince Albert, the National Joy Smoke. Dealers are already featuring "Send him a carton of Camels" or a "Pound tin of Prince Albert" for Christmas.—Adv.

WEEKLY LETTER BY PROCTOR
FISH AND GAME WARDEN

Here we have a complaint that a man this last spring raised over 70 young mallard ducks and lost all but 12 from stray cats. He caught up a lot of them and no one in the neighborhood ever saw them before.

The Govt. has on hand three years' accumulation of old aluminum leg bands taken from birds once banded. Now these are to be turned in again and will fly again not on a bird's leg but in the shape of a war plane. In the interest of defense.

Here is a letter from a man who is hot under the collar. He wants to know what to do with the common pigeons that are defacing his house. He has a right to shoot common pigeons but must be very careful as one of them might happen to be a homer with a leg band and there is a $50 fine for shooting a homing or carrier pigeon. This law was put on the books at the last war and never taken off.

And still another man with a kick. This man wants to know what he can do about dogs not being licensed in a town. Turn to Chapter 150, Section 39 (Official Neglect). Any city or town officer who refuses or willfully neglects to perform the duties imposed upon him by the provisions of this chapter relating to dogs shall be fined not more than $100 to be paid to the town. The County Solicitor will enforce this law. Make your complaint to the County Solicitor at Manchester County Court House.

The other morning 1.30 I had a phone call from one of my towns that a horse was running circles around a house. This was a little out of my line so I told the party to get in touch with the local police.

They tell me that a stray year old bull elk is running around in the loose over in Mason. About four years ago I got a similar tip and with Carl Valyou of that town we traveled all one afternoon but did not get a peek at him. We know he was there however.

No one has seen that big bull moose that caused such a sensation last year in New Ipswich and later in Temple and Mason. We would like to see that big fellow.

Last week I was obliged to take away from boys 12 and 13 years of age guns when they were hunting alone. In one case a 9 year old boy was hunting with his brother who had a license but he was only 17 years of age. I turned the guns over to the Chief of Police and they returned them to the parents with a warning that the next time it will be the old man and not the boys who will face the judge. This law is a good one to protect the young fellows from themselves. We like to see the boys out but they must be with some one over 21 years of age who has a license to hunt.

What We See
And Hear

Mischievous Nuisance
Representative Johnson of Oklahoma has introduced a bill to repeal the $5 use tax on automobiles recently enacted as part of the 1941 revenue act. Mr. Johnson points out that it would be "very impractical to carry it out."

As a matter of fact, it would be virtually impossible to carry it out without setting up collection machinery that would cost more than the tax would produce. In addition, the tax would be a source of irritation detrimental to the entire tax program and public morale. There will be a plethora of irritants in the tax situation without tossing in gratuitous irritants of dubious revenue-producing value. The tax should be repealed. —Manchester Union.

Dining With Boys' Family
The London Times recently reminded readers contemplating a visit to Sweden that that country's royal family is so democratic, tourists dining in Stockholm's hotels frequently find members of the king's family at nearby tables.

GIANT BALLOON PARADE AT CONCORD DECEMBER 2

Concord is looking forward to one of its biggest events in many years on Tuesday, Dec. 2 when Santa Clause will come to the city heading a parade of Giant Balloons. Three bands will march in the parade which will be over a mile in length and it is expected that over 50,000 people will witness the spectacle.

The big balloons which will appear in the parade will be the same as those which appeared in Boston Thanksgiving Day for the Sautason parade, all of the compressed air balloons in that parade being shipped to Concord for the event.

Over $25,000.00 worth of big balloons will parade the Concord Main street next Tuesday at 1:30 o'clock and to mark the importance of the event all schools will be closed that afternoon.

Some of the well known characters which will be seen in balloons 14 feet in height include a prehistoric monster, duck family, quintuplets, kangaroo, dragon 72 feet long, alligator 30 feet long, elephant, dachshund 45 feet long, monkeys, musical pig, black cat, cow 24 feet long, fish 35 feet long, Indian tableau with chief, squaw, papoose and tepee and many others. The big parade is brought to Concord through the efforts of the Retail Trade Board of the Concord Chamber of Commerce.

Richest Salt Deposits
The richest salt deposits in the world are those in Russia. The most noted of the world's salt deposits is the one at Wellizza, in the Carpathian mountains, where salt mines have been worked since the Eleventh century. A deposit here is said to be 500 miles long, 30 miles wide and 1,200 feet thick, from which is mined the purest rock salt in the world.

Harmony Lodge
Enjoyed Talking Pictures

At the meeting of Harmony Lodge, No. 38, A. F. & A. M., held last Wednesday evening, the famous Thaw-Asia color films were shown to members and their families after the close of the business session.

These were talking pictures in technicolor and consisted of the following:

From New Lands To Old
The dash of the Thaw motor caravan from Paris to the Dardanelles and Turkey-in-Asia... a race to keep ahead of the war which now has engulfed Western Europe and is sweeping southeast into Asia. Music and dancing in the colorful Balkans... historic Istanbul... intimate glimpse of life in a Turkoman caravan... strange wedding customs in remote Asiatic-Turkey.

Persia Faces Today
A brilliant, rainbow-colored glimpse of an Arabian Nights land of today. Ancient gold-covered mosques... the weaving of priceless Persian rugs... actual color photographs of incredible gold and jeweled treasures of the Persian Shahs. An exceptionally fine short reel.

The Great Silk Route
A motor trip over the fascinating and historic Silk Route: of the East from Syria to India. The Thaws cross the burning desert of Iraq... visit a remote Royal Air Force watering post... are entertained by a Bedouin chieftain... meet the Kings of Iraq and Afghanistan... climb 11,000 feet to photograph the giant Buddhas of the Bamian Valley... and finally cross the world-famed Khyber Pass, gateway to India.

Refreshments were served and a very enjoyable and instructive evening was had by a large group.

"PARTNERS IN PROGRESS"

Perhaps too long have we taken for granted our automobile dealers, now facing serious dislocations due to automotive production curtailment necessitated by national defense priorities.

In normal times the dealer both sells and services cars—new cars and used cars. He is a source of personal transportation—dependable, daily transportation—at all prices and for all purposes. His service department is not confined merely to keeping cars running; it aims likewise to keep them efficient and therefore consuming the minimum of oil and gasoline.

Today, with new car production curtailed, these supplementary services become more important than ever. All over the country men drive to work—on production of goods needed for national strength and security—not only from the immediate neighborhood but from distances of 25, 30, 35 miles or more. It is essential to these men—and to the country as well—that their cars be kept in good running order, and that they be able to get replacements when their present cars reach their last mile.

To General Motors its dealers are its "Partners in Progress." But they also are partners in progress here at home. Over the years they have been good businessmen, providing for their own, giving employment and opportunity to others, meeting pay rolls, paying taxes, owning property—businessmen doing their share in local community affairs.

Luxury for Cheetahs
Cheetahs, or hunting leopards, owned by the princes and other wealthy men of India, spend their sleeping and other inactive hours on their own individual beds, which are exactly like those used by the natives, according to Collier's. In the palace of the Maharaja of Kolhapur is a large room that contains the beds of 35 of these animals.

Between Two Loves

By DUFORD JENNE
(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

"RUTH, I don't believe it!" Gladys said quickly, startled and shocked by her friend's words. "But it's true, Gladys, and I thought I ought to tell you. If Elmore doesn't love you enough to take care of your mother, I don't think he is worthy of you; for we all know of the love between you and your mother. Yes, I was in the office, and Elmore was chatting with Blake; and I heard him say distinctly: 'I don't know what to do with Gladys' mother.' And the fact that you have been engaged for three years shows something, too. He has been making a fair salary right along—what is he doing with it?"

After Ruth had gone, Gladys sat alone in her room and pondered the situation, and as she thought, her mood darkened. Something was wrong. It had been a long engagement, and when, out of her longing to have Elmore with her, she had suggested in indirect ways that she wished they could have a home together, he had evaded her suggestion. It never occurred to her that her mother might be the obstacle.

"Not even Elmore is dearer to me than you, mother dear, and between you and him, I can make a quick choice," Gladys thought to herself. "But I don't—I don't want to give him up!" her heart told her almost with a cry. The rest of the afternoon the problem raced back and forth in her mind. It seemed so logical, the explanation of Elmore's action on the basis of what Ruth had heard. Yet Gladys had never dreamed that Elmore had ever thought of separating them. They had been so happy together over the many years since her father died.

"If mother knew that such a thing as this was happening, it would break her heart," Gladys warned herself, "and I must not let a hint of it reach her. I will talk with Elmore, though."

That evening when her fair-haired, smiling lover held her in his arms just before leaving after his visit, she ventured to touch upon the subject that was troubling her.

"Dear, is there any reason—any real reason why we can't have a home together now? I hate to ask you this way," she said gently, "but I want you to be frank with me."

His gray eyes grew suddenly sober, and his manner changed. "In good time, sweetheart, in good time. It's the waiting that bothers, I know, but we'll work it out. Now, you leave it to me."

Troubled in mind and in heart, she did not know what to do. But by the end of the next day, she had reached the decision; and alone in her room she wrote Elmore a brief note telling him what she had heard and informing him that she could not bear to think of leaving her mother or living apart from her after their long years of companionship. Then, after effort, she added the sentence that broke the engagement between them.

As she slipped down the stairs, her mother came into the hall. "Gladys, Elmore telephoned that he was coming over," her mother said smiling, her gentle, motherly face brightening with pleasure.

Gladys stopped short. "Mother, please tell him not to come. I really don't want to see him."

"Why, child, child—is there something wrong?" her mother asked with sudden concern.

"Nothing much, mother mine. You just phone him," Gladys said hastily, slipping out. "I'm going to the mail box."

When she returned, she stole into her room, her heart too full to risk even meeting her mother. As she sat beside the window she heard Elmore's voice and her mother's talking in the garden.

"She is worried, my boy, over something," her mother's sweet voice was saying.

"I don't blame her. I guess we might as well let her into the secret. The house is about finished, anyway—your rooms are O. K., and Gladys and I can get along. How'd you like the rooms?" Elmore's cheery voice asked.

"Oh, so much. It will seem like heaven to be with you and Gladys—" "And we will be sure glad to have you! What a family we will make!" he broke in gaily. "Now I'll hunt up Gladys. She ought to have come by this time."

Gladys was a thrill with her discovery. She knew now. He had been building a house for them. Her mother was in the secret; and it was to be a surprise. But when he came in, and gathered her in his arms, she made him tell the story over again; and then she asked: "But didn't you tell Blake that you didn't know what to do with mother?"

"Ah! I see—I see what put the shadows in your brown eyes. 'Honey,' he said slowly, 'listen, Blake is a house designer, and I said something like that to him, because I wasn't sure how to give your mother some privacy and yet have her one of us; but Blake told me. You see?'"

Gladys pulled his blonde head down to hers and kissed him. "Oh, my dear—I do—I do!" And with the words that came from the depths of her heart the shadows of doubt vanished. Instead of choosing between two loves, she could keep both.

EGG SHORTAGE IS THREATENED

More Laying Hens Needed To Meet Demand.

By LESLIE M. BLACK
(Extension Poultryman, New Jersey College of Agriculture, Rutgers University.)

Keep your pullets and turn them into laying hens instead of putting them on the market thereby providing more eggs for Uncle Sam's food-for-defense program and aiding your own income.

There's no definite egg shortage now but there may be in the future unless egg production is increased. People are eating more eggs at home, the army needs lots of eggs, and large quantities are scheduled for shipment overseas. The government recently asked poultry producers to increase egg production 10,000,000 cases during a 15-month period ending next summer; and they have responded, but later figures indicate the increase will fall short of that figure.

We know that we can produce all the eggs needed in the food-for-defense program. It's just a matter of having plenty of laying hens and taking care of them properly.

Eggs are one of the best foods, and no one should eliminate them from one's diet because of shortage. On the average, each person in the United States uses 26 dozen eggs a year. This average should be maintained along with supplies for the army and Britain.

A recent United States department of agriculture report shows that about 19 per cent more chicks have been hatched since January 1 than a year ago, but the increase in numbers of young chicks on farms on June 1 was disappointing. This would indicate that many pullets are being sold as meat along with cockerels for the broiler market.

The egg-feed price ratio is attractive to the poultry producer now, and the government has announced that a favorable ratio will be maintained. It looks like this was the year to fill all available poultry houses with well-matured laying pullets.

A special effort should be made to withhold all well-developed pullets from slaughter. The market for poultry meat can be fully supplied from the cockerels out of this year's hatch because prices will be better if the broiler market is not overloaded.

To Prevent Fuel Waste Adjust Oil Burner Now

Owners of household oil burners can avoid unnecessary expense and conserve fuel this winter by having burner flames properly adjusted with a flue gas analyzer.

With his flue gas analyzer, a service man can adjust a flame for the most efficient use of fuel. Homeowners, however, are warned against trying to adjust the flames of their oil burners themselves. Oil companies and furnace representatives can supply trained men for the job.

The majority of the country's 2,000,000 house-heating oil burners are east of the Alleghenies, according to the U. S. department of agriculture. Use of a flue gas analyzer can help materially in conserving oil, which is particularly important in the region faced with a shortage.

Experiment in Use Of Dried Vegetables

BERKELEY. — Dried vegetables will soon be a part of every army cook's larder, if experiments carried out by the fruit products division of the University of California college of agriculture are any indication.

The division began investigating methods of dehydrating vegetables for army use more than a year ago at the suggestion of the quartermaster corps. Dr. W. V. Cruess, head of the division, reported today that the methods developed have been very successful in drying the vegetables and still retaining their color, flavor, and cooking quality.

The secret of success, said Dr. Cruess, was found to lie in thoroughly scalding the raw vegetables in steam to precook them and destroy enzymes responsible for undesirable changes in flavor, color, odor and texture. Very thorough drying was found to be essential to preparing vegetables that will keep well.

Farm Hill Land

One of the big advantages of farming hill land on the contour—the amount of water that is saved by soaking into the ground. During an eight-year period at a government soil erosion station in southwestern Iowa, an area listed on the contour lost only 2.7 inches of water a year, while a similar slope area farmed up and down hill lost 19 inches of rainfall. In a drought year, especially, such differences are very significant.

Do you believe in monopoly?

One thing that has made America a great country is this:

Any man with the courage to start a new business—or sell a better product at a better price—is free to do so.

And he also is free to compete for customers by advertising the advantages he offers.

Advertising is one of the simplest safeguards against monopoly.

It lets each man tell his story—and the public picks the winner.
