Government Needs Rubber!

In a statement urging complete cooperation with President Roosevelt's scrap rubber collection campaign, William A. Thibodeau, General Manager of the A. L. A. (Automobile Legal Association), urged motorists holding old tires with the fabric showing to sell or give them to the nearest gasoline station for scrap rubber. Tires showing the fabric are not considered fit for retreading and while they may give a few miles of travel they would be a menace on the highway if used, stated the A.L.A. head.

He further urged everyone after scraping the cellars, attics, homes and garages clean of useless scrap rubber to volunteer their assistance to the local salvage board chairman. Our armed forces must roll to victory on rubber and if enough scrap rubber is collected it means that more rubber will be available to recap many more civilian tires.

Weekly Letter by George Proctor Fish and Game Conservation Officer

If some of the members of the last legislature could hear the pathetic stories I have heard in the past few weeks they might pass a bill into a law allowing all persons over 70 to fish and hunt on a free license. Here is a nice old man 88 years old who has purchased a license up to within a year and now he has no income and he just loves to fish. Most of the other New England states have such a law. Why not us? In the past I have through a mutual friend supplied free licenses to some of the old boys. But they were not free to the friend.

Another thing the last legislature fell down on in my opinion was the hedgehog law. A bill was introduced into the house to raise the bounty from 50c to 50c. It was killed in a committee room. Thousands of dollars worth of damage has been done in my district in the past year to imported shrubbery, apple trees and one spruce forest has lost most of its tops. Ammunition has gone up most double in price and it takes a lot of it to pull a big quill pig out of a tree.

Speaking of the laurel bloom it's the best this year in my district. One of the best places to see it in all its glory is the George Perham Farm in Wilton. It won't take much gas and very little tire wear and it's a sight you will never forget. Over in Mason there is one grand display. Now is the time to make that trip if you want to see it this year.

One night last week I sat in with about 39 other fellows and we saw a new baby born in the old town. It's to be named the Civic Club and we started off strong. John Dailey of Bristol, now our up to date newsman, is president, Alexander, the meat man, is vice president, Hamilton S. Putnam, the local scribe, is the penpusher and James R. Kilkelly, the local postmaster, will hold the money. With such an outfit at the head of the club we will go places and see things. I forgot to mention the most important part of the whole shebang. It was the supper served at the Fountain House in the town and boy it was all to the merrily. The host and hostess sure outdid themselves on that supper. More about this lively baby later on.

Mrs. Hunter of Smithville tells us that she has a woodcock nesting not far from her home. They usually live and nest in swamps; this one was no doubt asking for her protection.

Some weeks ago I got a letter from a William Midgley of Greenfield, Mass. He sent me a clipping from his local paper to the effect that some one had seen an unusual sight of geese fighting in the air. Broke the "V" formation and then after some time come together again and went on. I had never heard of such a thing and submitted to "Bob" Lake the well known president of the N. H. Audubon Society. "Bob" also passed and sent it along to Hon. Ludlow Pearson of the Museum of Comparative Zoology of Harvard college. He is the king pin on matters pertaining to such things. Here is his answer to Mr. Lake: "I have never seen or heard of anything remotely like it and I suspect that 'Jimmy Kid

Dorothy E. Pratt Wed To Paul M. Jacquith

At the Piety Corner Chapel, Waltham, Mass., on Saturday afternoon, June 20, Miss Dorothy Emerson Pratt, daughter of Mr. Henry E. Pratt and the late Mr. Pratt of Antrim, was married to Mr. Paul Milton Jacquith, son of Mrs. Fred A. Jacquith and the late Mr. Jacquith of Boston.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. Gordon Brownville, pastor of Tremont Temple, Boston, Mass.

Mr. Henry B. Pratt, Jr., of Waterville, Maine, gave his sister in marriage and Mrs. Henry B. Pratt, Jr., was the bride's only attendant. Mr. Wendell Jacquith was his brother's best man and the ushers were Robert A. Coughley of Durham, brother-in-law of the bride and Mr. Ralph Stonemets of Boston. A small reception for the immediate families followed at the home of the bride's cousin, Miss Gertrude Sanderson of Waltham. Mr. and Mrs. Jacquith will live in Cambridge, Mass.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Churchill-Roosevelt Meetings Presage New Action on Second European Front; Mediterranean Naval Battles Indicate Growing Anglo-American Air Strength

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

CHURCHILL: Third Meeting

For the third time within a year Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt met face to face to discuss war problems, when the British statesman arrived unheralded in Washington for a series of conferences. Their first meeting occurred last August aboard ship and resulted in the Atlantic charter. The second was Mr. Churchill's visit to Washington last December after America's entry into the war. It resulted in the declaration by the United Nations.

This third meeting, following closely on Russian Foreign Minister Molotov's historic conferences in Washington recently, promised momentous consequences in the prosecution of the war. Two matters of pressing need—the opening of a second European front and further steps to curb dangerously rising Allied ship losses by Axis submarines—faced the two leaders.

Another leader of the United Nations to reach American shores was Queen Wilhelmina of Holland.

REDS VS. NAZIS History Repeats?

Balaclava, famed site of Tennyson's poem, "The Charge of the Light Brigade," took its place in modern battle headlines as Hitler had rammed his massed power against the defenses of Sevastopol's fortifications.

The Crimean fishing port—Balaclava—where the legendary charge by the British occurred in 1854, was a fierce point of contention between the Russ and Nazi forces in the battle for control of the western Black sea coast.

Possession of the Sevastopol naval base was vital to the hard-pressed Russians, for it represented a powerful barrier to the approaches of the Caucasus oil fields—a prize which would give the Nazis coveted oil and bulwark their war effort.

To the north in the Ukraine, where the Nazis were attempting to straighten out their long circular line at Karkov, battles raged doggedly, with Red army communications reporting successful counterattacks.

FATS AND OILS: Housewives Contribute

Fat and oil, plus and restorers in millions of American homes yielded up a part of fat as the national program to conserve grease and oils from the kitchen gets under way.

Fats collected in this household campaign will be used in making airplane and aircraft element in explosives and other uses. Meat markets everywhere will be collecting excesses where housewives will deposit the unwanted fat. Butchers will then turn the fat over to the renderers.

In Chicago where a fat salvage program has been in progress for months past, it was reported that collections averaged 5,000 pounds weekly.

AUSTRALIA: Japs Still Menace

Least his countrymen be lulled into a belief that the battle of the sea had removed all danger of a Jap invasion, Prime Minister Curtin of Australia held aloft a warning finger. Declaring that "Australia can be best" he declared that Hawaii and the entire North American coast would lie open to Japanese attack and west coast cities would be in danger.

MEDITERRANEAN: Axis Gamble Fails

As the swiftly moving battle for world naval supremacy shifted to the Mediterranean, Germany and Italy had made a supreme gamble by throwing every available airplane, submarine, torpedo boat and virtually the entire Italian fleet into an effort to knock out the British forces. The stakes were the strategic convoy routes supplying Axis-menaced Tobruk and Malta.

That the Axis gamble had failed was due in part to the timely intervention of United States army heavy bombers which made their Mediterranean debut by scoring 35 direct bomb hits on two Italian battleships, setting them afire and sending the whole force of 15 Italian warships scurrying home to port.

The epic sea and air fighting centered around two heavily laden British convoys—one leaving Alexandria for Tobruk and the other leaving Gibraltar for Malta. Both carried badly needed supplies for hard-pressed British garrisons.

In two days of death-struggle fighting, the British and Americans beat off Axis attacks, shepherded the convoys safely to their destinations, sank or damaged seven Italian warships, and shot down 33 planes.

LIBYAN FRONT: Nazi Fox

With the Suez canal as his eventually hoped-for goal, foxy Nazi General Erwin Rommel continued his harassing thrust against the British forces in Libya.

Whether Rommel's dream of a drive to the Suez and a possible link with Japanese forces pushing west would ever materialize depended on how stout was the British resistance. Tobruk, recently reinforced by a huge British convoy, was the immediate target. The tide of battle had surged back and forth, with the Nazi desert force registering a superiority in tanks and anti-tank strength. Hope for the British lay in receiving further supplies and replacements and in a wearing down of Nazi power due to its sustained exertions.

The seriousness of the Libyan situation was evident from the fact that the Axis offensive succeeded in splitting the British army—one force withdrawing to Tobruk to make a stand while the other withdrew to positions near Egypt.

ARMY PAY: $50 for Bucks

Uncle Sam prepared to add at least $20 more per month to the pay check of every enlisted man in the nation's armed forces, when President Roosevelt signed legislation granting the first general military pay increase in 20 years. Non-commissioned officers, "shave-tails" and ensigns shared in the raise.

American soldiers and sailors thus became the highest paid fighting men in the world. The lowest grades—buck privates and apprentice seamen—will receive $50 a month, as against $30 formerly.

Officers above the rank of second lieutenant or ensign got no pay raises, but were allowed boosts in their subsistence and rental allowances.

One result was hoped for by sponsors of the new legislation—that was to eliminate recruiting competition between the army and navy. It had been charged that the navy had been in better position to obtain recruits since it could offer more attractive ratings. The uniform pay schedule would, it was believed, equalize the appeal of all services.

Washington, D. C.

CUTTING NAVY TAPE

Behind Admiral King's forthright order slashing navy red tape 50 per cent and ordering more navy officers out of Washington, was an interesting comparison with the Japanese navy, conducted backstage by some of the President's advisers.

Americans, recently familiar with Japan, have reported that the Japanese navy is staffed by only about 1,000 personnel in Tokyo. In contrast, the navy department in Washington has more than 30,000—not including the navy yard.

The Japanese navy also is reported to have cut red tape and government reports to the bone and it gives widest latitude to commanders at sea. The U. S. navy also gives wide latitude to commanders in distant posts, such as Admiral Leary in New Zealand, Admiral Nimitz at Pearl Harbor. But in home waters, especially in anti-submarine warfare along the East coast, insiders say the navy has suffered from a constant stream of reports and orders to and from Washington requiring a tremendous staff for the paper work alone.

Now Admiral King offers promotions to officers who will decrease their Washington bureaus rather than increase them.

GASOLINE CZAR

The one-man dynamo who runs the gas rationing system of the U. S. A. is a preacher's son and a former professor of economics. Though one of the most harassed men in Washington, he is constantly on the verge of breaking into a broad smile.

Only 35 years old, he has gray hair about the ears, thin hair on top, works so late into the night that his wife, mother of a new-born boy, seldom sees him. "I generally make the 2 a. m. feeding," he says.

Joel Dean was born in Vermont, schooled in California, and has a doctor's degree from Harvard, where he wrote a thesis on small loans. He spent a year as European manager of a travel bureau, two years as traveling salesman for International Business Machine, and seven years as teacher and research expert.

As a fellow economist, he always admired Leon Henderson, but never met him until he came to Washington less than a year ago.

To effect his own economy in gasoline, he formed a "Drive-In Club" with four other OPA officials. They take turns driving to the office from Arlington, Va., across the river.

When brickbats fly in the OPA office, Dean recalls that his father, a Congregational minister, wanted him to be a missionary on a South Sea island.

"Many people," says Dean, "wish that I had fulfilled that mission."

ARMY HOUR PROGRAM

"Jamming" radio programs is one of the recognized weapons of modern warfare. But it is a two-edged sword, and the war department radio branch is ready to swing on the Axis if the prize Army Hour, on Sundays, is jammed again.

Jamming by manufactured static or other interference is feasible in the United States only on short-wave broadcasts. The Army Hour features short-wave talks from all over the world, made by such noted personages as Mrs. Chiang Kai-shek, General MacArthur, General Wavell, and others. The most recent case of jamming was during a talk by a high ranking army officer from the Dutch island of Curacao. A piano banged loudly all the time he spoke.

Winston Churchill's latest speech, which came on the radio immediately before the army hour, was jammed by a guttural Teutonic voice carefully observing Churchill's own pauses in an effort to escape detection.

These two cases of jamming were traced by triangulation to Axis broadcasting stations. The army proposes to retaliate if this deliberate interference doesn't stop.

WAR FLASHES

☐ If you are a business executive, and uncertain about tax deductions for advertising and pay increases, you can get "informal" advice by applying to the internal revenue bureau under a new treasury ruling.

☐ OPA agents are checking up on private airports on tips that they are bootlegging high octane gas to car drivers. High octane won't run a car by itself, but makes a very smooth-running fuel if mixed with lower grade gas.

☐ Guerrilla warfare in Russia has become so highly organized that every third guerrilla now is armed with an automatic rifle.

☐ The war department soon will break still more precedents. It will start accepting women doctors in the army medical corps. They will be assigned chiefly to the WAAC, and also for general eye, ear, nose and throat work.

☐ The army's new M-1 helmet, that comes far over the cheeks, neck and forehead and is much stronger than the old raky "tin-hat," is now being distributed to all soldiers.

It May Be 90 Degrees in the Shade— But Your Coal Bin Rates a Check-Up

Unnecessary Delay May Bring Hardships This Coming Winter

You can't say that you haven't been warned.

You can't say, when the leaves begin to fall, that you didn't have enough time to order your coal.

In another two months—at the most—it is going to be almost too late to get your coal supply. Then you won't be ready when the temperature begins to drop.

During the summer months, when homeowners formerly paid but little attention to their coal bins, there had always been a definite slump in coal production. The producers called the months the normal "off season" period.

This year, though, because of the high rate of war-time production—despite the lack of fuel purchasing by the home and apartment owners, large stores, and other commercial centers—the mines are now working at 90 per cent of capacity.

What lies ahead for those who have not purchased their coal during the off-season is easy to see. At the present time American industry has not, as yet, reached its full war-time capacity of production for Victory. Fall and early winter will see the nation at this peak period.

They'll Be Out of Luck.

Then, when industry is humming its song of death for Hitler and his stooges, if Mr. Jones, or Mr. Sloppik, or Mrs. Andy Tardie have not ordered their coal to keep the home fires burning, it is very probable that they are going to be out of luck. They'll probably have to spend some very miserable days until the coal they order LATE arrives.

Why so?

Here's why: Increased production to peak records in U. S. factories is going to require more coal. It stands to reason that if the mines are now working at 90 per cent of capacity (and industry has not yet reached its peak of production nor coal consumption), when the peak does arrive Uncle Sam is going to see to it that those industries get all the coal they want, as often as they want it, and no questions asked.

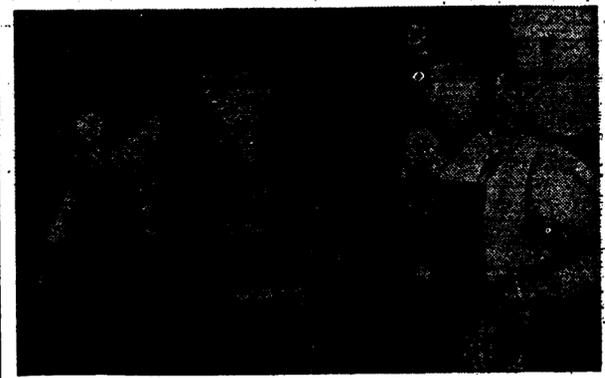

It is true that all will have to forego some former necessities and comforts until this universal war is won. But there is little reason to take on a hardship which is doing no one—even the nation's offensive for victory—any good.

By waiting until it is practically too late to order coal, most of which is then going to the factories, the home owner is deliberately harnessing himself with hardship—besides getting in the way of the nation's wartime progress.

Like a Slow Freight.

Those who delay ordering coal now for this coming winter may be compared to a slow freight train heading towards its terminal with a fast freight right behind it. The latter is delayed from reaching its destination on schedule. Your nation's victory efforts are all being carried on that fast freight train. The dilly-dallying, late-ordering home owner is the slow freight.

But don't forget: Uncle Sam is the dispatcher on that railroad. He's

These three miners are typically representative of those thousands responsible for the continuous flow of coal for the nation. There has been practically no "slack" season for them this year. The usual off-season period (summer months) for them was omitted because of industry's need for coal to carry on for the coming victory.

a good one, too. What he's going to do is shove the slow freight on to a siding and let the fast freight come on through.

In other words, those home owners and other consumers who haven't as yet ordered their coal supplies, may have to be sidetracked later this year in favor of Uncle Sam's more important business of winning the war. Cold feet now may result in even colder pedal extremities this winter.

The fact that peak production of American industry will be reached during the coming winter months isn't the only reason why you should be now getting your coal.

Even today the railroad yards, the river shipping docks and terminals

Oil Burner Conversion

The War Production board has acted to speed the conversion of oil-burning equipment to coal by permitting the assembly of small stokers from materials which were in manufacturers' hands on May 31.

At the same time, W. W. Timmis, chief of the plumbing and heating branch, announced the creation of an operations section which will continue an over-all study. This study of the various problems involved in the conversion of oil burners to other fuels has been under way for some time.

are jammed to capacity. Railroaders will tell you, with a touch of the Paul Bunyan spirit, that the rails just can't cool off. Rivermen will tell you that no sooner do the waves from one river vessel ease off on the beach, before another swell starts rolling in. When the peak is reached in production you can imagine what the thousands of home owners who wait "until later" to order their coal are doing to add to the groaning weight of traffic on the railroads, rivers and highways.

You owe it to your own comfort this coming winter, but especially to your nation out to win the gigantic struggle with Hitler and his partners, to make necessary provisions in advance.

Get It Now.

Despite the fact that bituminous coal production is now running over 11,000,000 tons a week, there is plenty of coal for all. The idea is to get it when it is now readily available.

During 1942, from 550 million tons to 570 million tons of bituminous coal, and 60 million tons of anthracite coal are required. The smaller portion of this amount is for home consumption.

Even if you have already ordered your coal, or intend getting it in during the next two weeks at the latest, you have

Fuel User's Pledge

Every home owner might well subscribe to the following:

1. To conserve heat and fuel.
2. To see that the heating plant is clean and kept clean.
3. To have the heating system inspected by a competent heating man or fuel dealer.
4. To have such repairs or alterations as are essential to efficient operation of the heating equipment made at once.
5. To do everything practical to reduce heat losses.
6. To learn how to operate the heating system properly.
7. To prevent smoke, because smoke means waste and inefficiency.
8. To avoid over, or under heating because either is dangerous to health.
9. To order fuel early, to anticipate needs, to keep a stock of fuel on hand, so as to equalize and conserve transportation and delivery facilities, and to prevent tie-ups and shortages.

U. S. LIFE DEPICTED BY OLD LIGHT FIXTURES

Two hundred years of American life are represented by nearly 100 Eighteenth and Nineteenth century lighting appliances and more than 250 samplers at a public exhibit in the Cooper Union Museum for the Arts of Decoration.

English, Mexican, French, Spanish, Dutch, German, and Italian needlecraft is displayed beside outstanding American samplers show the variations developed in this country. Similarly, the lighting fixtures are arranged in chronological sequence, demonstrating the transformation in design that came with changing needs and the commercial development of illuminating oils.

New pieces in Cooper Union's extensive collections of wallpapers, textiles, antique jewelry, buttons, not done your full bit to insure warmth for your home, or final victory for your country.

Check Heating System.

This is the time of the year—if ever—to see to it that the home's heating system is cleaned, inspected, and repaired if necessary.

Neglect now, during the summer months, can damage your home heating apparatus more than a winter season of hard activity.

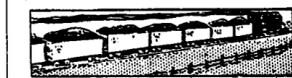

Lack of ventilation in the basement, high humidity, condensation, or corrosion can soon play havoc with a heating plant. More than often it does, as shown by the short life of most smoke pipes which last only two or three years.

Improper operation, lack of maintenance, excessive stack losses, faulty distribution or circulation, overheating, infiltration, and needless heat losses waste 20 per cent of the fuel used in the average home. With the country at war, with extraordinary demands on transportation facilities, such waste is intolerable.

Coupled with the effect on health, lost time due to colds, absenteeism, etc., such neglect of proper maintenance and operation of the heating system becomes almost criminal.

Just as you check over your automobile periodically, or have some one do it, so too is it a good idea to have a competent heating man inspect your furnace or boiler.

If the average household gave its heating plant half the care it bestows upon the family car, the national fuel bill would be reduced many millions a year.

Coal mining is one of the nation's major industries.

The last available reports on the amount of coal mined show that over 51,887,885 tons of coal were prepared for consumption.

Chief soft coal producing states are Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Illinois, and Kentucky. Anthracite (hard) coal is produced principally in Pennsylvania, around Wilkes-Barre and Scranton.

Coal Exports.

Coal exports amount to a sizeable figure, too. In 1940 (latest data available) over 16,456,928 tons were exported. The majority of the anthracite exported went to Canada.

Coke production, a coal by-product, also assumed gigantic proportions. Data shows that over 273,832,410 tons were produced in 1940. The gas from coke production is also used for fuel purposes.

Employment in the coal mining industry has declined ever since 1920. That year there were 784,621 persons employed. Ten years later (1930) there were 644,006 at work. In 1940 the number had further decreased to 543,200.

Crude Oil Production Increase.

Crude oil production in the United States, also, has steadily increased according to statistics.

In 1920 there were 442,929,000 barrels (42 gallons to a barrel) of oil drawn from the earth. Its value was $1,360,745,000. But the figures in 1940 were 1,351,847,000 barrels, valued at $1,352,000,000—a decrease in price.

The United States produced—in 1940—over half of the oil marketed. Russia was next in line with just slightly more than one-fifth of the United States total.

metal work, and pottery are shown for the many visitors.

There are architectural sketches by the late Whitney Warren, internationally known architect, and designs for tiles by William Morris, English poet and craftsman for whom the Morris chair was named. A rare pair of glazed pottery figurines of Belgian origin is also included.

SHE LOVED A SPY

by SYLVIA TAYLOR

THE STORY SO FAR—Joan Leland, secretary, falls in love with Karl Miller, her employer, owner of a night club. She spurs secret invitations from Eric Strom, Karl's business partner, and Paul Sherman, his manager. Her sister, Sybil, does not approve of Karl, but Joan blindly defends him, even when Paul, in a friendly manner warns her about Karl. Karl shoots Eric in Joan's presence, tricks her into placing her finger-prints on the gun, then admits he is a Nazi spy with a wife in Germany. He tells Joan unless she continues to work, and remain silent about the murder, he will blame it on her. The terrified girl agrees and later Paul reveals himself as Paul O'Malley of the FBI, working to trap the higher-ups of the spy ring. Sybil falls to come home, and a suicide note later is thought by them to mean Karl intended to hold her as a hostage. Joan agrees secretly to help Paul, and reports that Karl has hired a beautiful young girl to sing, and is already making love to her. It's Paul's runaway sister, Joan gets her to share her apartment. Paul and Joan search the beauty shop of Mrs. Murdock, who had employed Sybil at Karl's suggestion. Now continue with the story.

Joan peered over his shoulder at the unintelligible writing. "What do they say?"

CHAPTER XIII

The light revealed a desk, a short-wave radio set and three large filing cabinets. He drew on a pair of gloves. "Don't touch anything," he cautioned Joan.

Joan's heart was in her throat. "Oh Paul, what if Karl should find out we were here?"

"By that time," Paul replied grimly, "it will be too late."

Joan looked curiously at the radio set. "Do you suppose Karl has a receiver too?"

"Probably, though where it would be I don't know."

He opened a drawer of the desk. "Doesn't seem to be anything here."

"Wait!" Joan cried. "What's this?" She seized a gray glove lying among pencils and bits of papers. "This is Sybil's glove!" she said excitedly. "She always wore these with her suit, and she was wearing that suit the day she disappeared."

Paul gazed speculatively at the slender gray glove. "It could mean that Sybil discovered this room, that she knew what was going on in here, and that's why Karl put her out of the way."

Joan pressed the glove against her cheek. "Oh Sybil!" she wept.

"I still think Sybil is alive," Paul said, "Karl is saving her as an ace up his sleeve. In that way she is of more use to him living than dead. Anyway, that's my hunch. It will be better if you can believe it too."

"I'll try," Joan gulped, controlling herself with an effort.

Half an hour passed while Paul's nimble fingers explored the contents of drawer after drawer.

He tapped the walls but they revealed nothing. It was Joan who cried, "Paul! Look at this desk. There's something odd about it."

There seemed to be a panel on the side of the desk. "You're right," Paul said, and gently forcing the wood, he pulled it to one side. "Here we are!" he said as they both gazed into a small hidden compartment.

Eagerly Paul thrust in his hand and drew forth a large envelope. He opened it. "Look Joan! These are the plans for that bombing plane. We were right!"

Joan peered over his shoulder at the unintelligible writing. "What do they say?"

Paul smiled excitedly as he ran his eyes over the pages. "Plenty! There's enough here to convict Karl and Mrs. Murdock as well as some others!"

"Let's get out of here, quick," Joan begged, glancing back at the half-open panel which had admitted them.

"While we're here I'm going to take a last look around to see if I can find a copy of that code."

Joan watched his brown head bend over the drawer. Her heart went out to him in gratitude for his kindness. "This is really the end of our search then?" she asked.

"It looks like it."

"I wish we were out of here," Joan repeated. "I have a feeling something else is about to happen."

Paul laughed. "You women and your intuition!"

But Joan shivered nervously as she waited for Paul to finish.

In a downtown hotel, Karl Miller was dancing with Pat.

"You're a darling!" he murmured against her hair.

"Oh Karl, I love you so much," he smiled. "You are happy, liechen?"

"I still can't believe it," Pat said, turning her radiant face to his. "Just think . . . Mrs. Karl Miller."

"We can't be married for two or three months yet," Karl told her.

"I don't care. I'm so happy." Pat gazed down at the emerald, a magnificent jewel which flashed green fire from her hand. "It's such a beautiful ring! Joan will be so surprised."

"No doubt," Karl smiled. "And Paul too?"

"Paul? Why should Paul be surprised?"

The music had stopped now and they returned to their table.

"What has Paul got to do with us?" Karl demanded.

Pat looked embarrassed. She had promised not to reveal Paul's identity under any circumstances. "Oh, nothing," she faltered.

But Karl was not to be sidetracked. "What is there between you and Paul?"

Pat laughed. "Are you jealous?"

"Jealous? Of course I am. I insist upon knowing."

"I promised I wouldn't tell anyone," Pat hesitated.

Karl's voice was smoothly persuasive. "But, liechen, we are going to be married. You must not have any secrets from your husband."

Pat's brown eyes were troubled. "Well, I don't know."

Karl took her hand, "You must tell me," he insisted.

"I suppose now that we are engaged, it's different," Pat admitted, "Anyway it's really nothing for you to be jealous about. You see, Paul is my brother. He's using an assumed name because some time ago he used to work for the government."

"Indeed?" Karl Miller said, rising quickly. "I find that information extremely interesting."

It seemed to Joan that Paul was taking an unnecessarily long time looking for the code. She watched impatiently as he rechecked each drawer, wondering at his calm deliberation.

"Please hurry, Paul! Let's get out of here."

"Queer I can't find it. They must have it here somewhere."

"What does it matter now? We have the other evidence. You said these papers incriminate Karl. Isn't that enough?"

"I always like to do a thorough job while I'm at it."

"Wait! Oh Paul, I hear something! Someone is coming down the hall!"

She ran to the open panel and gazed through the office to the hallway leading to the street, but she could see nothing.

"You're just nervous," Paul said. "I'll be through in a minute. Sit down and relax."

"I'm sure I heard someone. What if Karl has found out?" Joan said, sitting down at the desk where Sybil's glove remained among the pile of papers. "He's too clever to let us get away with this."

"Karl's not as clever as you may imagine," Paul told her, "or he wouldn't leave these papers for me to find."

"It all seems too easy," Joan insisted. "There must be a catch to it."

"We've waited long enough to get Karl," he reminded her. "I knew that eventually we'd catch up with him. Haven't you ever heard that crime does not pay?" He actually seemed amused.

"I don't see anything funny about it!"

"You're a sweet kid!" Paul said. "And you've been a big help to me."

"Please let's get out of here!" She was on the verge of tears.

Paul glanced around the small room. Papers were strewn on the floor, even carelessly over the radio equipment.

"This untidy mess will be quite a surprise to our friends," he commented.

"Are we going to the authorities now?"

Paul picked up the envelope. "Right. And in here we have enough to keep Karl Miller out of circulation for good."

Joan took Sybil's glove and put it in her purse, but before she could fasten the clasp, Karl Miller's voice came to them from the open panel.

"I thought I'd find you here."

His powerful figure filled the small doorway. He held a gun. Paul reached for his coat, but Karl was too quick for him. "No use trying that, Mr. O'Malley."

Joan backed against the wall, her eyes fastened, as though hypnotized, upon Karl's face.

"You need not be frightened," Karl told her. "I am principally interested in Paul. Too bad he has such a talkative sister."

"So Paul told you?"

Joan marveled at Paul's indifference.

"Yes. It might interest you to know that she thinks I am about to become your brother-in-law."

At last Paul's anger was aroused. "You dirty rat!"

Karl smiled. "I assure you I have no intention of going through with it. As you no doubt know, I already have one wife."

"What have you done with her?" Paul demanded.

"Shut up! Give me that envelope. We're getting out of here. Come on, Joan, I'll keep you with me."

Paul walked ahead and Karl followed with Joan. His grasp on her arm was painful but she did not wince. She was too proud to let Karl Miller see that he had hurt her.

There was a long ride down the Embaradero. Neither Karl nor Paul spoke. As they went through the warehouse and up the swaying steps of the gangplank, Joan was surprised at her own calmness. She was no longer afraid of Karl Miller. She followed Paul's example of superb indifference.

On deck Paul and Joan were led to a small shabby cabin, and the door locked behind them.

"Cosy?" Paul grinned.

"Paul! You act as though you actually enjoy this."

His face grew serious. "I don't like it for your sake, Joan. But so far as I'm concerned, it couldn't have worked out better."

"What do you mean?"

"I counted on Karl's finding us at the beauty shop. I wanted him to. I think he'll lead us to the rest of the gang this way."

Joan sat down gingerly on a dirty, faded chintz chair. "But you said those papers were enough."

Paul lit a cigarette. "They were, but I still have a few ends to tie. We're not in any actual danger yet. Trust me for that."

Paul watched Joan as she explored their tiny prison. "You have more nerve than any other girl I ever saw," he said, admiringly, repeating what he had said the night Karl killed Strom and Joan had promised to help trap Karl after Paul revealed he was an FBI man.

"My knees are shaking," Joan admitted, smiling, "but I wouldn't let Karl know how I felt. It would give him too much satisfaction."

"Good girl!" Paul approved.

"And," Joan continued, "this may be your idea of 'no actual danger' but it doesn't seem that way to me."

The gentle throb of the ship's engines warned them the freighter was moving. "Here we go," Paul said. "Try to trust me, Joan, that this is the best way. I took you with me tonight deliberately because I was afraid that it would be worse for you if you were left behind."

"What about Pat?"

"Pat doesn't know anything. They won't be apt to harm her."

In the dim light of a small electric bulb they waited. As the ship rolled more, Paul said, "We're going through the Gate now. We'll soon be on the open sea."

"Where is Karl taking us? Can't you tell me that?"

"I'd rather not. The first thing to find out is how he intends to get rid of those plans," he added. "Might ship them to a submarine."

"A submarine!" Joan cried in dismay.

"It's not a pretty picture, is it?" Paul said grimly. "That's why I don't want you to know too much."

Karl did not reappear but a sailor unlocked the door and mumbled something to Paul in German. "He says he'll show you to your cabin," Paul explained.

"I'd rather stay here!"

But Paul advised her to go without objection, so Joan followed the sailor out on deck. He opened a door and motioned for her to go inside. Hesitatingly she obeyed.

There was a bunk with a quilt folded neatly upon it, a washstand and one porthole through which Joan could see the deck. Fog enveloped the sea and it was impossible to tell how far away from shore they were.

In a few minutes she heard the sound of footsteps, and sitting up she saw that Paul was being shown into the cabin next to hers. Even though the door was locked behind him and a sailor remained on guard outside, Joan was comforted to know that he was near.

Joan had not expected to have any rest that night but she found herself overcome with fatigue. She wakened to feel the warmth of the sun upon her face.

Magic for Your Meals—Berry Jams (See Recipes Below.)

Time for Jam

With the arrival of the fruit and jelly season, you homemakers will want to make the most of these garden products for winter use. This year it is doubly important for you to can fruits and jellies wisely, as this will help you not only in conserving the nation's resources, but also assure you of delicious accompaniments to your meals during cooler weather.

Since sugar is used in canning not only as a sweetener, but as a preservative, the government will allot five pounds of sugar per person, in addition to what you receive in your ration, so that you will have sugar for canning.

*Ripe Raspberry Jam. (Makes 10 6-ounce glasses) 4½ cups prepared fruit 6 cups sugar 1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, crush thoroughly or grind about 2 quarts fully ripe raspberries. Remove some of seeds by sieving part of pulp, if desired.

Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure prepared fruit into a 5- to 6-quart kettle, filling up last cup or fraction of cup with water if necessary.

Place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. (To reduce foaming, ¼ teaspoon butter may be added.) Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute.

Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Jam takes slightly less sugar than jelly, and you will work an economy by making use of the fruit in addition to the saving on sugar:

*Ripe Blackberry Jam. (Makes 11 6-ounce glasses) 4½ cups prepared fruit 6½ cups sugar 1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, grind or crush thoroughly about 2 quarts fully ripe blackberries (not black caps). Sieve about ¼ of ground or crushed pulp. (For Spiced Blackberry Jam, add ½ to ¾ teaspoon each cloves, cinnamon, and allspice, or any desired combination of spices.)

Place over hottest fire, adding powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. (To reduce foaming, ¼ teaspoon butter may be added.) Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute.

*Ripe Strawberry Jam. (Makes 10 6-ounce glasses) 4½ cups prepared fruit 6 cups sugar 1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, cut about 2 quarts fully ripe strawberries in halves lengthwise; cut large berries in quarters. Measure sugar and prepared fruit, solidly packed, into large kettle; mix well. Bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 3 minutes.

Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for just 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once.

*Spiced Ripe Peach Jam With Brazil Nuts (Makes 11 6-ounce glasses) 3½ cups prepared fruit ¼ cup lemon juice 7½ cups sugar 1 cup sliced Brazil nuts 1 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, peel about 2½ quarts fully ripe peaches; pit and grind or chop very fine. Add ½ to 1 teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves and all-spice, or any desired combination of spices, to ground or chopped peaches. Squeeze juice from 2 medium lemons. Slice Brazil nuts very thin. Add to fruit mixture.

Measure sugar and prepared fruit into large kettle, filling up last cup with water, if necessary. Add lemon juice and mix well.

Bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute.

Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once.

Relishes are excellent to serve with meats of any kind for they give the meal added zest. Here's a recipe for a real sugar-saver:

*Cherry Relish. 2 cups pitted cherries 1 cup seedless raisins 1 teaspoon cinnamon ¼ cup brown sugar ¼ teaspoon cloves ¼ cup honey ¼ cup vinegar ¼ cup pecan nutmeats

Mix all the ingredients except pecans and cook 1 hour, slowly. Add pecans and cook 3 minutes longer. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal at once.

Sugar Substitutes. If you feel that you cannot use sugar in all of the canning recipes given here, even with your extra ration, here are the rules for substitutions:

If you are using a bottled fruit pectin recipe, you may substitute 2 cups light corn syrup for 2 cups of the sugar. Do not use more than 2 cups of corn syrup in any recipe, however, as this will give unsatisfactory results.

In a powdered fruit pectin recipe, you may use 1 cup light corn syrup for each cup of sugar omitted. But, do not try to use all corn syrup in the recipe instead of sugar. You may substitute corn syrup for only ½ the sugar required. If, for example, the recipe calls for 6 cups of sugar altogether, you may use 3 cups of light corn syrup, but you must also use 3 cups of sugar.

Big Wind From Motor

The army air force's new $2,500,000 wind tunnel at Wright Field near Dayton is equipped with a 40,000 horsepower, alternating-current induction motor that develops a 400-mile-an-hour wind, says Collier's. Largest of its kind ever constructed, this motor cannot be turned on until notice has been given to the electric company, so it may be prepared for this load, which is equal to the capacity of one of its largest generators.

Private Air Raid Groups For Some Housing Projects

Tenants of large-scale housing projects will set up their own raid precaution organizations in addition to participating in other defense activities. In San Francisco maintenance staffs of the various projects are official air raid wardens for their areas. Social halls, kitchens and recreation rooms in the project community space have been made available to the San Francisco defense council. Women tenants will attend classes in first aid, nutrition and home economics.

Hillside Homes, New York city, which had an air raid warden organization partially set up before the first bomb scare, is continuing its personnel training program. Knickerbocker Village project, also in New York city, is organizing 120 tenants for a 24-hour patrol of the project. The tenants' association is co-ordinating activities of all the clubs in the project useful for civilian defense.

The Brownsville, Texas, housing authority has issued blackout rules in two languages—English and Spanish—for tenants of its two housing projects. Maintenance superintendents of the projects are captains of the air wardens and project tenants will be assistants.

In Baltimore the housing authority is organizing 3,500 housing project tenants for defense by training volunteer air raid and fire wardens for service on the project and enrolling women tenants in the city civilian defense council for knitting, sewing, conservation and first aid.

Among Dinosaurs

The dinosaurs, which roamed the earth between 175 and 125 million years ago, were not uniformly monstrous, some of them being only 2 1/2 feet and others 90 feet long. But their brains were uniformly and absurdly small. The largest dinosaurs included Atlantosaurus (90 feet long), Diplodocus (80 feet), Brontosaurus (70 feet), and the most ferocious of them all, Tyrannosaurus (40 feet). Remains have been found on all the continents, some of the richest finds having been made in Montana and Wyoming. It is believed that the dinosaurs became extinct chiefly because of the decrease of carbon dioxide (a lung stimulant) in Tertiary times and because of the raids of smaller animals on their many water holes for fire protection. One new water hole was used last week to swim in. The more water holes I see the better I like it.

Here is a fellow that says never kill a snake as they are a great benefit to the farmer. I have not seen a black one this year. I have let a dozen adders live remembering that they are a benefit to us.

If you want a pet raccoon I know where you can buy one at war time prices. They make a wonderful pet if taken young.

Have had many people want to buy a young crow for a pet. What have you?

The open season on bass will not be off till July 1. I have seen some wonderful bass in some of my ponds in the past few days.

What is the farmer going to do if the Government steps in and takes away all his guns as a defense move. This in my mind is a move of the 5th Columnist and we should fight this move with all the pep we have. How is he to protect his crops from vermin or the gangster? The gangsters will never give up their guns no matter how many laws we have. So let's fight to keep our guns and expose to the world the fellows in Congress who are trying to pull this wise one on us. Time after time the National Rifleman's Association have fought these bills and many a time have saved our necks as well as our guns. More power to this organization. Every sportsman who owns a gun should join this organization.

We are pleased to see that many cities and towns are organizing rifle clubs in public schools. Teach the young boys and girls the proper use of a gun and you will have less accidents.

In traveling through wooded section drive slowly as wild game and birds are now young and can be easily run down and killed. Then again the Government wants you to conserve gas and oil and tires. Driving over 50 miles an hour uses up more gas and rubber. Take it easy, there is a war on.

Life has lost a true friend in the sudden passing of David Van Alstyne of the home town last week. He was a great lover of wildlife and was a very constant feeder of same. His beautiful home on the hill was surrounded with bird houses and feeders and they always had many birds around the buildings. I have had many a fine talk with him on conservation questions. He is a man who will be greatly missed. Before he retired a few years ago he was prominent in railroad circles.

Met a man the other day on the road. I picked him up and he said he never felt so good as he has since he took up walking. This time he was in a hurry to get downtown or he would have refused my ride. He has lost 18 pounds but feels and looks much better.

Several homing pigeons have been picked up and brought to me in the past week. The latest one was from Palmer, Mass., and three last week were from Andover, Mass. One male last week had been gone a year and the owner told me to keep it or give it to some one as a breeder.

Repeats and then some more repeats. In the mail and by phone the past week I have had many ask if they could shoot pigeons eating their peas. Common pigeons are not protected but be sure it has no band on its leg. Your Uncle Samuel has a nice fine of $500 for shooting one with a band on. The state is not quite so hard boiled, the fine being only $50.

Yes, the horn pout fishing last week was very good but not quite as good as the week before. Did you know that the moon and sun control the fishing both by day and night. Get a fish calendar and you can't go wrong. I find them to be 97% correct.

If deer are bothering your garden take and cut strips of tarred paper 12 inches by four, make a small hole in one end and tie to trees or along a string fence. The loose so the paper will turn with the wind. They don't like the smell or the tar and the whirling in the wind. Try it.

Tinfoil this week from Mrs. Louis Consigli of Milford and Miss Therese Pombrio of Nashua. Thanks. Got a nice surprise the other day when a woman on a poultry farm gave me a couple of nice broilers. She said she owed them to me as I found homes for ten puppies a year ago. Well, here is one person that really appreciated what I did for her.

I guess the owner of the two deer dogs over in Brookline has got wise and tied them up. No reports of them chasing for 49 hours.

A few years ago a man gave me a good bawling out for the position I took on stray cats. Well the other day I met him and he said something like this: Well, Warden, I have got to admit that what you said about stray cats is just 100% correct. As you know I have gone into the chicken business and chicks and cats don't jibe at all. It's either one or the other. And I am trying to raise chickens. One cat came over six miles from home and was catching his chickens. Boy is he death on cats now.

Stray cats do a lot of damage both to domestic and wild bird and animal life and should be regulated. Keep your cat in at night as that's the time he gets the birds on the nest.

Had a letter a short time ago from a well known bird lover asking me if I would sign a petition to send to Congressmen and Senators to past a national law to have all cats collared and licensed. I told him no I was not in favor of any such law. In the first place it could not be enforced and in the second place it would give cats a standing. Now they have no standing in the eyes of the law and can be killed by anyone off its own doorstep. Let well enough alone.

People may think I am hard boiled on the stray cat question but I have good reasons for that. In the past I have lost thousands of chicks and pheasants by cats and you can't blame me for being somewhat peeved on the question. I have no argument with anyone owning a nice pet cat but the strays get my goat. And I am not the only one who has troubles in that line.

Boy Scouts in my district are planning on going to the Scout Camp at Camp Manning in large numbers. This is a wonderful organization and I was connected with it for over 20 years and I should know.

There is a big call for money for this and this and something else but there is one society that's in need of funds to carry on, and that's the Humane Society. This society is doing a great deal of good in the state and should be better supported. If it was not for the agent and the officials much suffering would be among the children and dumb animals. They are on the watch all the time and they need your support. Mrs. Marion S. Draper of Nashua is the nearest one to us. The Society needs your support and you need the work of the Society.

Victory Gardening

by Dexter Ferry Secretary Ferry-Morse Seed Co.

Vegetable Preparation

THE amount of vital food elements, as well as the real enjoyment of your home garden this year, will depend largely upon proper preparation of the vegetables for the table.

Begin to use your garden vegetables when they are young. They are more tender at the early stage, and the flavor is finer and more delicate. Gather leafy crops early in the morning, if possible, before the sun wilts them. If they are to be kept until a later meal, wash them well, cover, and place in the refrigerator. Pick peas and sweet corn within an hour before shelling and shucking for the kettle, if gathered very long before cooking, they lose both sweetness and flavor. Gathering any of the vegetables too long before using causes loss of vitamins.

Scrape or peel vegetables thinly; valuable minerals are just beneath the outer skin. Young carrots, beets, and summer squash should merely be scrubbed and never peeled at all. Neither should vegetables be soaked in water before cooking. This, too, causes loss of minerals.

Cook vegetables quickly and only until barely tender. Usually they taste better if they are slightly undercooked rather than soft and mushy from overcooking. In boiling, use only a small amount of water, saving whatever liquid remains when the cooking is finished. If there is too much to serve with the vegetable, keep it to add to soup.

In boiling vegetables, make sure the water is really boiling before adding them. If put over the fire in cold water, vegetables lose color, flavor, texture, and much of their food value.

Upper Village

Upper Village School Notes

School closed Friday for the summer vacation. Because of much sickness no one was on roll for perfect attendance. During the school year we joined Junior Red Cross and contributed to the Red Cross, and also the Cancer Control.

We have bought nearly a $120 in the ten cent Defense Stamps.

We had 27 pupils registered during the year; with an average attendance of 24. One graduated from the eighth grade and four will enter next fall in the first grade.

During the year Mrs. Bailey tested the hearing of each pupil with audometer. She came several times and checked on our weight. Once we were thoroughly examined by Dr. Olson. Each one of us had our finger prints taken during the year. We had several air raid drills.

We have spent two hours each week on music. Our art, nature and science lessons we have looked forward to each day with pleasure.

One pupil loaned us a sciencescope that we used and found a help and very interesting.

We have enjoyed several activities. On Hallowe'en we had a party in the afternoon with games and refreshment. At Christmas we had a tree and entertainment in the evening. In April we had a speaking contest that was well attended by our parents and friends. Our Memorial program we gave this year in our room, but only six visitors came to hear our exercises. At the annual seventh grade Prize Speaking contest one of our speakers received a third prize. We also had a Valentine party.

Last Thursday we were all invited to Mrs. Perham's for a picnic around her out door fireplace. We certainly had a good time.

Miss Hazel Woodrow is assisting at Hillsboro Camp.

Miss Regina Wescott is helping at the telephone exchange.

Mrs. Leedham has returned from a visit with relatives in Mass.

Miss Helen Nissen will work at a camp in Vermont this summer.

Mrs. W. E. Tryon is spending the summer with Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Crane.

The Misses Kathrine and Louise Morse have been visiting Miss Verna Crane.

Mr. and Mrs. Nissen have opened Hillsboro Girls Camp with a large enrollment.

Next week Ernest Swett, Harry Jordan and Johnny Wilt expect to enter the Service.

Mr. and Mrs. Elezie Gagon and daughter are enjoying the summer in Mrs. Worthley's house.

Mrs. Plum and daughter Jean have moved to the Nichols place that they recently bought.

Ellis Gaggett who lives on the Clifford Mardough farm, bought two cows from P. H. Crane.

Mr. and Mrs. James Plumer and children, David, Augusta and Langdon are enjoying their summer home, the Cole place.

Our village boys who are in service are stationed in the following places: Raymond Lyman at Moore Field, Mission, Texas. Raymond Strickland at Camp Polk, Louisiana. Herman Whipple at 11th General Hospital, Camp Livingston, Louisiana. Carlton Pope in Virginia in an Engineering school. Norman Chapman's mail goes to San Francisco, care of postmaster. He is in the Pacific Islands. Warren Richardson is at Scott Field, 93 Technical school in Illinois. Erwin Holdner is in the Panama Canal zone. Two of our boys have become corporals: Raymond Lyman and Raymond Strickland. Any of these boys would appreciate a letter from the home town.

THE DEERING WOMEN'S GUILD

Our president, Mrs. Jay Kincaid, entertained us for our meeting of June 11. We were glad to have with us several of our summer members.

After the reading of the minutes Mrs. Sipe gave a report of the meeting of the State Conference. Mrs. Poling told of the work of the National Food Conservation Program for the preserving and storing of surplus food that there may be a store from which the starving people of Europe may be fed as soon as it is possible.

It was decided that the Guild would ask the Grange and the Community Club to join us in this project. Mrs. Sipe offered the use of the kitchen at Lorimer House. Once a week four women are to receive and can all surplus food that has been donated.

At the meeting of the Guild on July 2 at the Long House, the necessary committees will be appointed, and other details arranged. It was also decided to hold a rummage sale on the lawn at Lorimer House on the afternoon of the August 6th meeting.

The president asked the members to report to the Nominating committee any nominations they would like to have made before the July meeting.

The great need for justice for the Japanese who have been evacuated from the Pacific coast and of relief for the suffering people of Europe was emphasized, and the desire to help in any possible way expressed by our members.

After the devotions led by Mrs. Sipe, in which she reminded us that the two great commandments of Jesus were to love God and to love our fellowmen, we had the address of the afternoon. We were fortunate, in these days of gross darkness over so much of the world to have Wilbur Kamp of North Weare tell us of the work of the American Friends Service committee—a work which is shedding light into this darkness.

He spoke particularly of the relief work in Europe. We were glad to hear that friends returning from the Centers in Europe have been able to testify that none of the food which they have handled has been seized by the enemy. We also saw that the reason the A. F. S. C. has been allowed to give this desperately needed help was because everywhere the Friends have proved that they are indeed friends.

THE FORTNIGHTLY CLUB

No meeting was held May 23rd. We had expected Mrs. Earle D. Seaverns, President of the Federation, to address us but due to existing war conditions, she was unable to be present.

Mrs. Emily Jones entertained the Fortnightly Club at her summer home June 4th. Miss Ruth Nissen gave a very concise and practical demonstration of First Aid work. She was well qualified having taken the general, elementary and instructors' courses at college.

"Hillsboro Camp for Girls" was the scene of our Club Luncheon on June 15th. Twenty members and guests were served an A-1 lunch by the Misses Ruth, Harriet and Helen Nissen. Much business was transacted at this time.

The first meeting of the club year 1942-1943 will be held at the Club House the second Thursday in September.

THE GRANITE STATE GARDENER

by J. R. Hepler

I have just returned from making the first of my garden visits in the southern part of the state, and I find more home gardens planted than I ever have before. At present the trouble complained about is mostly poor stands caused by cutworms and other insect troubles.

I find considerable damage from springtails, flea beetles, striped cucumber beetles, squash bugs, cutworms, cabbage maggots and onion maggots. You might say that there were very few insects to bother. In any case it is necessary to get out the spray and dust gun and use every means possible to keep these pests in subjection.

A second trouble I find is late plowing and late planting. With the shortage of labor many gardens didn't get plowed until late in May and are just being planted now. It is doubtful whether peas, lettuce, spinach and other early crops will do very well when planted now, but late cabbage and root crops, and others will still make a good crop.

I would like to inform my Granite State Gardener readers that ammonium sulfamate for the control of poison ivy is now available for a reasonable price in several New Hampshire stores. This material is so easy and simple to use that all people who have been bothered with this pernicious pest should make an effort to rid themselves of the poison ivy.

Origin of Roman Numerals
The origin of the Roman numerals V and X is not definitely known. It has been suggested that V or 5 represents the open hand with the fingers, except the thumb, held together. X or 10 is possibly double V.

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

METRO'S "Mrs. Miniver" will probably be one of the best remembered war pictures that have reached the screen, not merely because it is well directed (by William Wyler) and superbly acted, but because it deals with a typical family, facing the war at home. It vividly presents the sort of situations that we might have had to deal with in this country. Incidentally a "Mrs. Miniver" rose has been developed, named for the one in the picture; it is dedicated to "the unselfish and sterling qualities of American women in the war." Women like the one whom Greer Garson plays so movingly in the film. Don't miss "Mrs. Miniver!"

Buddy Clark, young baritone of radio's "Hit Parade," has an important role in RKO's "Sweet or Hot," starring Lucille Ball and Victor Mature. His comedy specialties and songs last year won him one of the highest individual ratings on radio listener polls, but in the picture he'll do more than sing; with Peter Lind Hayes and Arnold Stang he'll play an army buddy of Mature's.

Alan Ladd attracted plenty of attention and favorable comment during his stay in New York; as part of the campaign to introduce this new leading man to the public Paramount can consider the trip a success. But all the girls who eyed him admiringly realized that it was a case of "Hands off!" Mrs. Ladd (the former Sue Carol, once a movie star) was with him, and they're devoted.

Joan Crawford is one screen mother who wants her daughter to follow in her footsteps. Looking at golden-haired Christina, now three, she remarked: "If she isn't an actress I'll be the most disappointed person in the world."

Russell Hoyt, handsome 24-year-old North Carolina traveling salesman signed by RKO, reached Hollywood without an iota of dramatic experience. A friend, an agent and a talent scout were responsible, and he got a contract without even making a test.

Gary Cooper can spend his vacation traveling with the San Francisco Seals as the ball team's assistant manager if he wants to. He was invited by Lefty O'Doul, the manager, who taught him to bat and throw left-handed for "The Pride of the Yankees."

As part of his war work, Ronald Colman is making three films this year; during the past six years he's made only one a year. The bulk of his income will go to the government in taxes. During the last war he served with Kitchener's "Contemptibles," saw action at Ypres, was wounded at Messines, and he holds the Mons medal with 1914 bar. His next picture is "Random Harvest."

Eric Blore celebrated his 50th picture role when he began work in Paramount's "Happy Go Lucky," which stars Mary Martin and Dick Powell. Once on the London stage, with time out for serving in the last war, he's been in demand in Hollywood since 1934.

Warren Hull, Parks Johnson's new "Vox Pop" partner, is instantly recognized by young and old followers as "The Green Hornet," a role he played in a screen serial. He was besieged by juvenile autograph hunters in an Alexandria, Va., store.

Phil Baker ought to be happy; the one thing that visitors to New York seem to want more than anything else is tickets to his "Take It or Leave It" broadcasts.

ODDS AND ENDS Edward G. Robinson of "Big Town" has taken up horseshoe pitching at his ranch behind Beverly Hills. No actor changes leading ladies more often than Tim Holt: his new one, in "Son of the Saddle," is Ann Summers, a newcomer. Khaki-clad Staff Lieutenant Hopper puzzles audiences when she aids the treasury department in selling war bonds—till they recognize her as Marsha Hunt; she uses her married name when in uniform. Hedy Lamarr does a jitterbug routine in "White Cargo"—in a sarong. Keep your eye on Helmut Dantine, who gives an outstanding performance as a German flier in "Mrs. Miniver."

PREPAREDNESS

by the AMERICAN RED CROSS

NEWEST of all the American Red Cross activities is the Wool Conservation program. Under it, volunteers from the more than 3,700 Red Cross chapters throughout the nation collect scraps of new, unused wool and place them in reprocessing channels.

The Wool Conservation program was developed jointly by the War Production board and the Red Cross when it became apparent that the nation faced a serious wool shortage. There were only two ways in which this shortage could be alleviated within the next year. The first was by cutting down wool consumption in every possible way by restyling and re-designing garments to save wool. The second was to have every scrap of new, unused wool reprocessed as rapidly as possible. The Red Cross was selected to do this job.

Under the agreement between the Red Cross and the War Production board, the 3,700 Red Cross chapters arrange for the collection of trousers cuff clippings, wool samples and other wool clips from tailors, men's clothing stores, department stores, clothing manufacturers and cleaners. These are then placed in reprocessing channels by selling them to wool reclaiming firms.

When reprocessed into wool cloth, the clippings from 21 pairs of men's trousers will be enough to make a complete soldier's uniform or another civilian suit.

Proceeds from the sale of the wool clips collected under the Wool Conservation program are retained by the local Red Cross chapters to carry on their work of War Relief and Civilian Defense Preparedness training.

What's a musical comedy got to do with winning a war?

PLENTY! We're building an army of men—not machines. And men have minds. And minds need freshening... change... relaxation.

So one of the biggest undertakings of the USO is its sponsoring of free entertainment, through the cooperation of the movie and theatrical industries, at army camps, naval bases—wherever the fighting men of the USA go to train or dig in.

USO Camp Shows, Inc. is actually the biggest single theatrical enterprise the world has ever seen. It books 264 shows for the boys every week, which play to an average nightly attendance of 50,000.

It contacts movie stars, theatrical headliners, big name bands and their leaders. It routes all these... plans their itinerary... arranges the most convenient times when soldiers and sailors can take time out to sit and be entertained. For it realizes that the one great advantage of the American fighting man is his ability to think for himself, to make the most of any situation, to fight as a liberty-loving individual.

And this is one of his great differences from our enemy.

To help carry on the all-important work of maintaining the morale of our fighting forces, the USO needs your help... it needs your contribution.

Your dollar has many demands on it this year. Many of these demands must be met—others deserve to be met. And among these latter, the plea of the USO for whatever sum you can contribute merits your earnest consideration.

For we have a war to win, and the USO is directly concerned with the men who must—and will—win it.

Dig deep—for the men who are digging in!
Send your contribution to your local chairman or to USO, Empire State Building, New York.

Wartime Problem Solved

Necessity has forced the American people to do many new things. While in the past many bird lovers have raised canaries at home for the pleasure and satisfaction they derived, now the breeding of canaries at home has become a new, worthwhile hobby—a money-making hobby that is spreading all over this country.

With the major supplies of canaries from abroad abruptly stopped... with a strict wartime ban placed on the importation of hundreds of thousands of canaries formerly shipped yearly from Central Europe and Asia, the ingenuity and foresight of the American people have met the situation—with smiles of satisfaction—as they turned this canary shortage into a wartime opportunity.

But a small out-lay was required to start this worthwhile hobby—turning a most pleasurable undertaking into a profitable, money-making business at home.

Swim or Sink

Poverty is uncomfortable, as I can testify; but nine times out of ten the best thing that can happen to a young man is to be tossed overboard and compelled to sink or swim for himself.—James A. Garfield.

FINANCIAL SPREE AND A HANGOVER

PAUL T. BABSON, THE INTERPRETER and prophet of business and governmental trends, tells us: "We will have a system of socialized capitalism, in which business, labor and government will participate. . . . The government is in business today. . . . An economic revolution is going on within our own borders, and it is a real revolution, even though a bloodless one."

If Babson is right—and he probably is—it means we are seeing the end of the American system of free competition and are entering upon an era of state capitalism. The change comes, if it does, largely as a result of our speculative spree of the late twenties, when most of us expected to get rich over night because of our marginal speculative stocks and the opportunity offered either unwise or unscrupulous stock manipulators to pyramid financial structures with nothing but a public's gambling craze to support them.

Rather simple legislation might have prevented it, or at least stopped it before it reached an alarming stage. For one thing, a raise in federal reserve discount rates to a point where the public could not borrow money with which to gamble would have stopped a large part of it all; or legislation such as our present security law would have prevented the foisting of worthless stocks on the public.

But until we had burned our fingers, until our visions of wealth were dissipated, any such legislation would have been decidedly unpopular.

We paid for that financial spree of the twenties with a long and severe depression. Now, according to Babson, we are again to pay for it with a loss of the system which has made us great and prosperous. We are to exchange it for a system which has wrecked European nations. It is a heavy price to pay.

CANNED BAKED BEANS

THEY TELL ME at the grocery that there will be no more canned baked beans for the duration because of a shortage of tin for cans.

In the happy vacation days following the trails of the Canadian northland, we had baked beans, but they did not come in a can. The baking was done by Joe Friday, a competent Ojibwa Indian.

Joe was a master at baking beans. With a gallon bucket, on which was a tight-fitting lid, he would put in an inch of boiled beans, cover them with a layer of salt pork, then more beans and more pork, until the bucket was filled. A hole in the ground was his oven. He lined it with rocks and then filled it with pine needles for a roaring fire, until the rock and earth were well heated.

When the fire had burned down to but a bed of coals, Joe would put that gallon of pork and beans into the hole, shovel over it the hot sand from the side of the fire, and the next morning we had pork and beans that were superior to any canned variety.

The war may stop the canning of beans, but it will not stop the operation of Joe Friday's method, and I am glad I remember how it was done.

GOVERNMENT COST IN WAR EFFORT

IF YOU HAVE a bank account or carry an insurance policy, you are helping indirectly to finance the war. Federal Reserve member banks purchased a total of $18,400,000,000 of government paper within the past year, and now are carrying a total of $36,500,000,000 in loans to the government. That, of course, is done with the money of the banks' depositors and is the safest investment the banks can make.

It would better serve national stability if the bonds were purchased by individuals, and for the individual, as for the banks, government bonds are the safest investment that can be made.

Here are a few astronomical figures on the financing of the government and the war for the fiscal year of 1943. It is expected that government expenditures will be something over 70 billion dollars. Of that amount, it is believed the public will buy bonds to the extent of from 12 to 15 billions; insurance companies will absorb about two billions; other institutions some three billions.

The remainder must be met out of taxes or provided by the banks as additional loans to the government—or saved by congress in cuts for non-war expenditures. Every dollar saved would help the American people to carry the war load.

IF CONGRESS would take a few days off and permit the members of the house and senate to go home and consult their constituents, it might find there are more votes to be made by economy measures than by heeding the urgings of the minority groups' lobbyists.

IN 1908, automobile tires cost $17.50 for each 1,000 miles of driving. Thirty years later, in 1938, the cost of tires for each 1,000 miles of driving had been reduced to 84 cents.

PRIVATE PURKEY IN LOVE AND WAR

Dear Oscar—This will have to be just a short note, my dear. I am trying to get into the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps and I got crushed in the rush. My right arm was so twisted I can hardly write. I cannot bear to think of you in the service of your country without feeling that I should also do my bit in some way. It would be fine if I got assigned to duty somewhere near enough to see you often, as I miss you terribly.

More later.
All my love,
Harriet.

Dear Harriet.—Gee but I am surprised about you and the WAAC and I don't know if I like it or not. It is a fine thing for you to do I guess but it sort of makes it look like you did not have complete confidence in me to win this war. I mean all your letters up to this time indicated you was satisfied with the part I was doing and not that you thought you should get in and make sure everything went okay.

And another thing, Harriet, is this. We are having snuff trouble corresponding when only one of us is in the army and it would be twice as confusing if we was both being switched around the globe. It is bad snuff when you ain't sure where I am but it would be worse if you didn't know where you was neither and vicus versus.

Now, Harriet, if you have made up your mind I suppose it is no sense arguing but all I hope is that you have thought it all over carefully first. I read in the paper that the women's army is to go on hikes and be trained a good deal like any army and I am awful worried about your feet. I remember you never was much good at long walks and I cannot bear the idea of you being out in the hot sun all day with your feet hurting.

I warn you that army life is awful tough on dogs. It is bad enough on a man's dogs with it tougher than a girl's dogs anyhow and I do not think girl's feet is meant for such work. I warn you also to ask about guard duty and k.p. detail, Harriet. Find out if you got to do these things in a woman's army. And if you have I am sure you wood want no part of it. Guard duty means you got to go out and walk between two posts sometimes all night and you won't see nobody. You will hear the darndest noises and it is two creepy for any girl, especially one who is as nervous as you. I remember you are a little jumpy in the dark even when I am with you and so how wood you feel all alone, Harriet?

Now k.p. duty is going around picking up all waste papers, butts, etc., all over the camp and peeling vegetables and it is no job for a girl who is not used to it and I remember your mother always said you hated to help in the kitchen at all and did not exactly like house cleaning either. Of course I have not got the lowdown on the women's army and do not know what you wood half to do but I am just warning you.

Sergeant Mooney says you wood have to do all that a man does in an army except to fight. But I read in a paper that you wood be detailed most to light duties which I hope is true on account of I have snuff to do worrying about what shape I am in without worrying about you, Harriet.

So think it all over and as the old saying goes look before you become a rolling stone. Write me a long letter.
Love,
Oscar.

All stores will sell war bonds and stamps and nothing else for 15 minutes on July 1. And there will, of course, be the shopper who will want a discount for cash and ask that they be sent.

Another dimout victim is the actor who now has to sign up at so much per week and his name in the distinguished lights.

Private Purkey's old man when rebuked the other day for overeating explained: "I'm developing my second front."

It is Ima Dodo who tried to assist in the New York dimout by coming downtown at night and wearing dark glasses.

Spotlight

by GRANTLAND RICE

THERE are now thousands of college football players, not overlooking 148 National leaguers, on active service in the army, navy and marines. This is an underestimate. And there are many more on their way.

In the face of this we have been asked far and wide what will become of football this next fall.

As far as one can offer a guess on a June date, football will keep under steam with the men that are left. This goes for both the colleges and the pros. It has been the wish of both army and navy that football be carried on, even with an increased number of players. Army and navy teams will be at full speed.

Above all other games, this is a football nation. I am referring to high school, college and professional players, plus the many millions who make up the camp followers. So you can figure it out that football will be the last game to go, if it goes at all. Which it won't.

Typical Case

In the matter of college play we can take Minnesota as a typical case along the upper plateau.

In this connection, George Barton, the sage of Gopher football, writes, "I am afraid Minnesota's national championship days are over for the duration, but the Gopher will do pretty well in Big Ten competition."

"Six regulars are gone from the great line of the past two years—Fitch and Ringer, ends; Osdon, tackle; Levy and Pukema, guards; Flick, center. And, of course, Bruce Smith and Bob Sweiger from the backfield. Gone also is Bernie Bierman and three of his coaching staff."

BERNIE BIERMAN

But it might be mentioned here that as long as Minnesota has a back named Bill Daley and tackle named Dick Wildung, the Gopher has something more than a mere nucleus on hand. Daley is a big part of any backfield and Wildung is a big part of any good line. And there are others around in Norsemen gold.

Two Others

From this crowd's nest two of the best-looking college squads will belong to Georgia and Texas A. and M. And you can add Texas. Of course, you must remember that more than one or two things may happen between now and late September.

The strength of the different service teams is still a summer guess, but judging from most of their schedules they will have something more than tackling dummies on guard.

It might be noted here that football is only a part of these cadet training centers. Football will be but one-fifth or one-sixth part of the 10 or 12-hour conditioning drills, at which boxing, wrestling, hurdling, etc., will keep them spinning like human tops from dawn to dark.

The added rivalry between college and service teams will add to the general interest of the game, despite the fact that 40,000 or 80,000 crowds might not be on hand when the whistle blows.

Pro Football

There are now 148 National league football players in active service, with others on their way soon. Twenty-eight of these players hold commissions. Eighty-three joined up with the army, 56 with the navy, and nine with the marines.

Each year the pros draft some 200 top-rank players. They will get few from the draft list this fall. But as Steve Owen of the Giants puts it, "While we've all lost good men and key men, we'll have enough left to carry the game along until more men are called. This will make it a closer race—a better race."

"We won't have those Chicago Bears of last season to look at," Big Steve said. "Halas has lost his share of stars, and he had more stars to lose. At this spot I can't see any standout team. But I'm sure we'll have an interesting season with enough material left to go around."

All of which, with the colleges, the navy and army teams, plus the pros, should find the American landscape and atmosphere packed with more flying footballs than any past season ever knew.

Lemon juice sprinkled over alligator pear salad just before it is served improves the flavor.

The stock left from spinach should be saved and used in vegetable soup. It contains valuable food properties.

Red raspberry leaves are said by some to be an excellent substitute for tea, now that tea is scarce. They are to be picked and then dried before using.

When frying in deep fat use a heavy aluminum kettle. It holds the heat and does not tip over easily. Use a wire basket to transfer food from and to hot fat.

Fine grained sandpaper will remove surface spots from white felt hats and will raise the nap on felt hats that have been caught in the rain. For white straw or fabric hats, try art gum.

All salads should be served cold and free from water. Wash lettuce well and keep in refrigerator until you are ready to make the salad.

To prevent marmalade from graining, do not boil it too fast and take it off the stove as soon as a little of it jellies on a cold plate. Be careful that you have pure sugar for this and all preserves.

Spread a thin layer of orange marmalade or apricot jam on baked pancakes. Roll quickly and sprinkle with confectioner's sugar. Serve with pineapple syrup for breakfast or luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mosley entertained a party of friends at Lake Massachusett on Saturday night. There were five tables of bridge.

Mrs. C. P. Jackson and Miss Sallie Evans have been entertaining for the past week their mother, Mrs. Evans and Miss Louise Findley of Delta, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Woodhead of Sharon, Mass., are spending a few weeks with Mrs. Marion Colby. Mrs. Rosamond Herrick is employed at Wabasco Camp, Sutton, for two weeks or so.

A strange quietness has settled down on the neighborhood. The first week of vacation is here and the children in evidence seem to wander around aimlessly but they will soon adjust themselves to vacation routine.

The Forrest Boutelle family is moving from the Bowers house on Church and Walnut street to the former Mellon house on Newman street. By Aug. 1 Dr. Elgin and Miss Isabel Bowers having sold their main street home will occupy their house vacated by Boutelles.

George P. Colby and Joe Zoaki who enlisted in the Naval Reserve sometime ago went to Portsmouth on Monday. They will be sent at once to Wentworth Institute, Boston, for study and training until ordered elsewhere. John Herrick followed the same procedure and is now stationed in Portland.

Wesley Brush of Concord, Mass., went to New London on Sunday. He left Mrs. Brush at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Donald Harris, in Peterboro and brought Marion, who works in Peterboro, Charles and Ruth to Hillsboro. They called on old neighbors and their brother Raymond who works for Harold Harvey.

Styles certainly do change in a quarter of a century, especially in length of dresses. 25 years ago the white haired ladies and all grown-ups wore the long skirts both day and evening. Now the teen age girls wear their long evening gowns along with their elders, who probably never will give up short skirts for every day wear. And no longer do little boys make an event of changing from short to long pants for they've worn them from babyhood.

Mrs. Mildred Porter and her mother, Mrs. Amy Story Stanley of Milledgeville, Ga., spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Story. They both left on Monday. Mrs. Story went to Winthrop, Mass., to spend the summer with her son, Alfred. Mrs. Porter went to South Athol, Mass. to join the staff of 85 who conduct the Morgan Memorial Summer camp for underprivileged children. She will be the leader of the Myra Lewis Cook camp of 23 girls from 12 to 18 years of age, three counselors, cook, etc. When Mrs. Porter and Mrs. Stanley return south Earl Barnes will go with them and enter Georgia Military college where Mrs. Porter teaches music. Her son Fred Porter is still in Atlanta Ga., and hopes to visit Hillsboro in the early fall with his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Bailey and two children left Saturday for their summer place at York Beach.

Word has been received that Paul Dupell, who suffered severe injuries by being burned with chemicals, will not lose his eye. As soon as he has sufficiently recovered from his injuries he will leave Maxwell Field, Ala., and go to North Dakota, where he will train as a glider pilot.

John Finnerty is spending two weeks with his mother, Mrs. Dorothy Finnerty. John is in the Merchant Marine and has made four trips from Philadelphia to Mexican ports. On one trip they sighted an enemy submarine and on another they picked up 37 survivors from a Mexican ship that had been torpedoed.

HILLSBORO FISH AND GAME CLUB MEETING

The Hillsboro Fish and Game club will hold an all day meeting and get-together at its camp on the Contoocook river on Sunday, June 28, at ten o'clock.

The business meeting will be called to order at 2:30 in the afternoon and various subjects will be discussed.

Sports, such as rifle practice, horseshoe pitching, fishing and boating will be the order of the day. So, members and friends are urged to come early and bring their lunch. Hot coffee will be served by the club.

TOWNSEND CLUB NOTES

A letter received from Rep. Foster Stearns says in part: "I am pleased to inform you that I was present at the meeting."

This meeting of 147 congressmen that Mr. Stearns attended was held June 17th and was addressed by Dr. F. E. Townsend. This is the largest single meeting of congressmen ever held on Capitol Hill and was covered by Al Young, ace representative of the Associated Press.

The petition No. 7 to discharge H. R. 1036 has 187 names on it now and the list is still growing according to the Flash Bulletin last week.

Rep. Robert Doughton and Rep. Treadway of Massachusetts are leading the opposition. They are frankly worried and are doing all in their power to prevent Petition No. 7 getting the required 218 signatures. The plan to put this petition No. 7 over the top last Tuesday, June 16th, failed because Doughton and Treadway resorted to clever strategy and brought up the post office appropriation bill, which was not scheduled for that day. By doing this they cut off all chance for discussion of other matters. But, the progress of the Petition won't be stopped that way. Next week's Flash will be read at the regular meeting of the Hillsboro club and will be very interesting. Anyone interested in a square deal for the old folks security and plenty of opportunity for the youth of this nation after this war is over should come to the Townsend Club meetings on the 1st and 3rd Wednesdays of each month and watch the progress being made.

On Saturday, June 27th, a food sale will be held at the Public Service rooms in the Square. There will be dark and light baked beans, salads, home-made bread, doughnuts and cup cakes for sale. The sale will open at 2 p. m. and last until the food is sold.

14,000 YOUTHS TO REGISTER IN N. H. JUNE 30

New Hampshire has an estimated 14,000 youths in the 18-20 1/2 age bracket who will register in the fifth selective service registration on June 30.

If any young man in this age group is uncertain whether he should register, it is better that he should do so as the registration card of anyone not required to register can be cancelled after registration, according to the state selective service director, Brig. General Charles F. Bowen.

U. S. NAVY MODIFIES REQUIREMENTS FOR ENLISTING

Navy recruiters at the Manchester substation announced that men with false teeth may now enlist in any branch of the Naval Reserve, providing their dentures meet Naval requirements.

Included in the modification of requirements for the Naval Reserve, recently authorized by the Navy Department, was a let-down in requirements for vision. Men with not less than six-twentieths vision in one eye, and at least fifteen-twentieths vision in the other eye, will now be accepted.

Many men who heretofore have been rejected for enlistment because of optical or dental defects may now re-apply with good chances of passing the physical examinations, recruiters said.

efficiency, spirit is moving swiftly and consistently. Business offices are ablaze with it. The clac-clac of typewriters is recording it.

The children, too, have been awakened to spirit in their slogans, songs and war games. Constantly the axis is the brunt of their jokes and sarcasm.

Civilian spirit is not alone in its victory campaign. Fighting with it not only in spirit but in body is a rapidly growing army, a courageous navy and a daring marine corps. England and Ireland for a second time are seeing troops of spirited American soldiers landing on their shores.

Australia is being introduced to the "fighting Yankees."

Nearly two-thirds of the world is surviving through our aid. Due to this the American people are slowly but steadily giving up all their everyday privileges — privileges known as luxuries in every country but our own. No more do we enjoy our limitless supply of commodities or the unrestricted use of transportation. Though seemingly so small, these are true sacrifices in America's contribution to Victory. Wholeheartedly, too, have citizens thrown themselves into the parade of war bond purchasers. Can one say now that America's spirit is gone? To this question, it is inevitable that someone will reply: "Where? In that ten pounds of sugar Mrs. Jones has tucked away on her pantry shelf and in that 20 gallons of gas Mr. Smith has in his garage?" No, spirit is above these. Hoardings aren't breaking the spirit, but they are hampering and delaying it, and at present, delays cannot be tolerated. Spirit must go on with 100% proficiency to be effective.

Patriots struggling against terrific odds with outworn equipment and rusty muskets,—struggling to build a Democracy. That was America and her spirit of '76!
